Omicron Delta Kappa Provides Four Dances Via Cotillion Plan

Four more big week-ends on the Washington College campus are in the making with ODK's announcement of its newest branch—the Washington College Cotillion. This Cotillion will provide for four major dances here aside from Homecoming and the Interscholastic and Interfraternity dances.

Priees for the Cotillion tickets set up by ODK will be: $8.00 per year, which would include admission to four dances, and $4.50 per semester for admission to two dances. Those who wish to buy individual tickets at the door will pay a straight $3.00 price.

Each dance will be sponsored by a different organization with each group having complete control over the place, orchestra and dress. Money taken in by subscription and at the door will be divided equally among these groups to be spent as they see fit. Money allotted but not used will be returned to the Cotillion fund. At the end of the year if there is any surplus in the fund it will be refunded to holders of the Cotillion tickets.

By organizing such a set-up, ODK hopes to assure each organization a pretty good attendance at the dance plus giving them enough money to start with to make the occasion really worthwhile.

The four groups planning to sponsor Cotillion dances this year are ODK, who is leading off with a Thanksgiving dance, Zeta Tau Alpha who will give their traditional Christmas dance, Alpha Omega Nu who will sponsor the Mid-Year Prom, and the Junior class will finish the schedule with the June Ball.

However, there is one catch to ODK's plan. One hundred subscriptions must be sold before the Cotillion can be put into working order. The plan has been passed unanimously by the four organizations who will sponsor the dances and the rest has to be left up to the student interest.

Tickets will go on sale next week with members of the four organizations listed above handling them. Some one will be stationed in the Snack Bar at all times to sell tickets.

Seniors Plan Constitution Banquet At Granary Nov. 1

Sandy Jones, President of the Senior class, announced this week that arrangements have been completed for the Senior banquet to be held at the Granary, Wednesday, November 1, 1950.

The Constitution will be presented to the class at that time for discussion and adoption. The Constitution is being prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of Tom Benson. Other members are Orem Robinson, Ed Ryle, Al Larimore, Bill Atwell, Doc Husted, Edith Ann Evans, and Mackey Metcalfe, Secretary.

In charge of transportation for the banquet is Bob Williams. Crawford Ervin will handle publicity. Tickets ($2.00) are available from Frank "Buddy" Brower, class treasurer, and Harlan Metcalfe, Secretary.

It was also announced that official Washington College class rings may now be ordered through the bookstore. Rings are also available for girls, and the prices vary according to the weight of the ring chosen by the student.

Forensic Society Sponsors Dr. Brown As Speaker

Dr. Arlo A. Brown was the principal speaker at the Forensic Society assembly last night. Dr. Brown spoke on "American Democracy in the Far East." He is a noted authority on Far Eastern Affairs and President Emeritus of Drew University, Madison, New Jersey.

Dr. Brown was introduced by Jim Naebel, Vice-President in charge of Political Union of the Society.

An open forum and discussion was held after the talk.

Scholarships Awarded To Four Outstanding Seniors

At a meeting of the Faculty, September 18th, four Seniors were chosen by virtue of their high scholastic standing, leadership, character, and other qualities, to be recipients of three scholarships, each of which is valued at $125.

The announcement of the awarding of these scholarships was made public this week by Frederick A. Meigs, Director of the George A. Bunting Library, and secretary of the Washington College Faculty.

The two Senior scholarships were awarded to Orem Robinson, of Vienna, Maryland, and Ruth Row, of Centerville, Maryland.

The competition for the scholarship awarded yearly in memory of the late Dr. Mary C. Burchinal, '06, and Julia M. Burchinal, '00, was so keen that it was decided to divide the $125 between Nancy Grey, of Hagerstown, Maryland, and Pauline Koumjian, of Catonsville, Maryland. The recipients of the Burchinal Scholarship are customarily women.

presented November 16th and 17th. The play, a psychological thriller, has proved popular wherever produced and was the unanimous choice of the Planning Committee to inaugurate the 1950-51 season.

Jane Williams, director, and Helen Roe, assistant director made this statement, "We wish to thank all those students who came out for tryouts and we hope that those who did not receive parts in the play will aid in the back stage work and on the production staff."

Art Club Returns To Hill

The Art Club returns to the Washington College campus with a meeting this Friday night at 6:30, in the movie room in the basement of Bunting Library. Anyone interested in any phase of art is welcome.

Freshman hazing has begun once again on the Washington College campus for the first time since the early days of World War II. Sponsored by the Sophomore Class under the leadership of John Grim and Harvey Left, it was voted into effect last May by this year's Sophomore class.

It is felt by the sponsors that Freshmen hazing will result in more class spirit, and, with that, more school spirit.

Hazing will continue until the Frosh-Soph football game which is scheduled for the Tuesday before Thanksgiving. Should the Freshmen win this game, the "ratting" will be discontinued; if they lose it, however, hazing rules will continue to apply until the Christmas vacation.

Officers of the class of '53 met with Dr. Gibson, Dr. Livingood, and Dr. Clark last week and drew up rules and regulations which would be in effect during the hazing period. A committee of

William R. Howell Gets LLD Here

Dr. William R. Howell, Emeritus Professor of Economics and Sociology at Washington College received the Degree of Doctor of Laws at the Fall Convocation.

In a short talk after receiving the degree Dr. Howell referred to himself as the "youngest alumnus" of the College. He stated that his philosophy of life is centered around adherence to these rules:

1. Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well.
2. Learn to do the hard things of life as well as the easy.
3. Learn to do things you don't like to do.

The principal address of the Convocation was delivered by Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of the

Dr. William R. Howell College who spoke on "The Art of Living."

Dr. Frederick G. Livingood, Dean of the College, read the official citation for the conferring of the degree.

Mr. Dudley G. Roe, Secretary of the Board of Visitors and Governors, read the mandamus. Following the singing of "Old Washington" by the assembly, the Convocation was closed with a benediction pronounced by Dr. John Sylvester Smith.

Attention

The attention of all students is directed to the recent regulation printed on p. 97 of the Handbook: "Students planning to withdraw from Washington College for whatever reasons, whether during a semester or at the end of a semester, must give advance notice to the Dean of the College in writing, stating the reason for the withdrawal. Failure to comply with this procedure will prejudice a student's chances of future readmission or transfer of credits."

This regulation applies to all withdrawals prior to graduation, regardless of the reason. The procedure is introduced with no intent of depriving into a student's private affairs, but in order that the college administration may be as accurate as possible in recording enrollment from semester to semester and year to year, that it may know of conditions within its control which are a cause of dissatisfaction, and that it may have an opportunity to extend assistance to students who are having difficulty remaining in college.

Senior Of . . . . . . . . The Week

Editor's Note:—The Senior of the Week is chosen by the outstanding activities on campus. The Senior so honored has, in the judgment of the Editorial Staff, distinguished himself in the organizations of which he is a member or has made noteworthy achievements in other fields. This week's choice is—Eddie Leonard.

Annapolis, Maryland is Eddie's home. He attended St. Paul's in Baltimore and entered Washington College in 1947. Eddie was initiated into Theta Chi Fraternity and was one of the early members of the Lacrosse Club whose efforts later enabled Lacrosse to become a major sport at Washington. Past business manager of the Elm, his time this year is divided among presidencies of Theta Chi, Omicron Delta Kappa, and the newly organized President's Club. He is captain of the Lacrosse team and a member of the Varsity Club.

Eddie came to Washington College because his parents wanted to send him to a small college and W. C. was "it". Majoring in economics and mining in history, Eddie hopes to enter his father's sporting goods business after graduation.

WITH . . . . THE GREEKS

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Wayne Millner was pledged into Lambda Chi last week. Congratulations to Wayne and best of luck to him in his pledge training.

The organization also took on a few inactive members last week. About eight pig elephants now adorn the rampus room thanks to Brother "Michelangelo" Loman. Still on the subject of painting, Jim Trader and Jim Smith have improved the looks of the upstairs hall with a new coat of Brother Dyer's paint.

Glen Gray, President and Official Delegate, with Larry Wescoat and Sandy Jones attended the 22nd General Assembly of Lambda Chi Alpha. The convention was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel September 3 - 6.

KAPPA ALPHA

Pledging ceremonies were held Wednesday night for Ellsworth Boyd, Joe Longobardi, Bob McLean, and Dale Palmer. Congratulations to these new men.

As the first semester begins, the men of Beta Omega wish to extend a welcome to all new matriculants at Washington College, both Freshmen and transfers.

A O P I

The members of A O P I had their first meeting Monday night, September 25, 1950. They discussed plans for a Halloween Bazaar and the annual A O P I Bazaar.

Several members of our chapter attended A O P I parties in Washington, D. C., and Baltimore, Md., this summer. The purpose of these parties was to acquaint girls planning to attend colleges with the sorority system.

GUILDED BUTTERFLIES

—By Blom

Ernest Hemingway once found occasion to remark on the "ever-shortening shadow of I'll-Almost-Thomas Wolfe." At the risk of seeming as great an ass as Hemingway I will remark as Hemingway I will remark of Gorgonzola George—Ernest Hemingway, for the men who wrote the beautiful and magnificent "A Farewell to Arms" has become the ludicrous bear who wrote the sad, silly "Across the River and Into the Trees" which was published three weeks ago. The book is sad because it is an evidence of the lack of an artist; silly because Hemingway has become silly beyond belief. It is tribute enough to remember "A Farewell to Arms" and forget "Across the River."

Last summer each member of the senior class received from Mr. Jones, the president of the senior class, a letter dealing variously with constitutions and Great Plans. This concerns all the students, since Mr. Jones proposes to have his constitution passed along from class to class. Now I submit we should not go about willfully writing constitutions and making recommendations without thought. The basis for the whole thing, it seems to me, and Mr. Jones says as much, is that the class means something in itself, which, of course, it does not. Mr. Jones quotes Franklin's maxim: "We must all hang together, or most assuredly we shall all hang separately." This is not at all logical. What exactly will happen to us if we do not "hang together"? Mr. Jones wants veto power. Now what on earth is he going to veto, and what possible difference can it make to anyone? He also wants student government, meetings, regulations, committees—a bewildering maze! It seems to me Mr. Jones is too full of himself in the wrong direction. If we let people alone and remember why we are here "citizenship" will come naturally.

WHAT'S NEW

Who looks like Rudie Vallee, Mlange Wilding? Embarrassing, isn't it?

Hear John Wilson had a gay time this past week-end, but it took a fast 5,000 words to get away.

Duke Johnson kinda likes England or is it just the London gals who are pretty?

Congratulations to Jim and Barb Panter Brauere, wedding bells on August 9th... congratulations also to Jim Klined and Fran Bowie who are pinned.

"Marion, please don't forget to write 'cause this is the real thing!" Clem, did you have a "Bonnie" time last week-end?

Bornett and Santmeyer ought to be more careful when they play practical jokes; little people have Jean eyes... and ears.

Big news! The bachelors caught the bouquet at Patty's and Bob's wedding on Saturday. Give us advance notice when you set the date, Little Pine.

NOTICE TO FOOTBALL PLAYERS... new practice will be from 1 to 3 A. M... be prompt!

"Old Dog" Blake and Pat have set the date for November 22nd... party in 8 weeks.

W. E. A. is now called "Little B" by an observant few!

There aren't many bridge games going on in the Snack Bar these days. What's the matter "Eole",

INTRODUCING THE FACULTY

Two of the new faculty members of Washington College have lately chosen to introduce the ELM series of faculty introductions. The two men, Dr. Nicholas Newlin and Mr. Peter Jonitis, were both formerly instructors at the University of Pennsylvania and are now working in their respective departments of English and Economics.

Dr. Newlin

Living the life of a bachelor in Chestertown, Dr. Newlin is known to be a man of subtle humor as well as the only man in Kent County who is able to tell a joke in true Irish. He expressed his opinion that Washington College has a very pleasant atmosphere and cordial student body.

Long before he came to W. C. campus, he started college at Williams College where he received his B. A. degree. After graduation he taught French in the high school at the Episcopal Academy at Philadelphia, and then was later employed in an insurance company until he got the call of the pencil and books again and worked for his Masters and Doctors degree at U. of Pennsylvania. He later became a member of the faculty of that institution for several years.

Mr. Jonitis

Clark University, Columbia, and U. of Pennsylvania comprised the educational background of Mr. Jonitis. He has a Ph.D. in Sociology and Economics. He is a family man and lives in Chestertown with his wife and twin boy and girl. He can always find time for a few rounds of golf though he admits his wife is the better half as far as golfing is concerned.

During the last war, Mr. Jonitis was the director of the Army orientation program at Lovell General Hospital at Fort Devens, Mass., and afterwards, he taught at U. of Pennsylvania while he finished his graduate work.

Asked for his opinion of Washington College, Professor Jonitis said, "I was attracted to teaching in a small college because such teaching affords one an opportunity to have small classes with discussion. Also, more community spirit is possible in a small campus."

Patience

We have heard of late several complaints concerning our Snack Bar. Two of these are (1) The Snack Bar is not opened early enough in the morning and (2) It should be open on Friday nights and Sunday mornings.

We find that the Snack Bar is opened at the same time of the morning that it was last year.

We find, too, that there is a problem of procuring sufficient labor without a price increase.

Some have suggested that the labor be provided by students—this was tried previously and did not turn out satisfactorily, according to a business office spokesman. We do not suggest that the students be content with anything they can get but when we consider that the Snack Bar is a relatively new addition to the campus and that the workers as a staff are new, we should not be too impatient.

We know that the Snack Bar is supposed to be operated primarily for the benefit of the students but not even the most demanding could expect it to operate at a loss.

Let's see what happens and take it on from there.

Are You A Rat?

As can be seen on the news page of this issue, an attempt is being made to re-establish limited hazing on the Washington College campus. Though hazing may be likened by some to the primitive rituals performed when an adolescent becomes a man, we believe that CONTROLLED hazing is a good thing.

Often we have seen Freshmen come into college who are loud, boisterous and obnoxious. Some of them have been "big wheels" in their respective high schools and believe that they know all the answers.

We think that limited hazing which is strong enough to accomplish its purpose of bringing about a certain sense of humility and respect is not out of order. A man must learn to conform to society somewhere, why not start this adjustment at college? Rattling, too, gives a person something to reminisce about in later years.

On the other hand, we are not in favor of no-holds-barred system of rattling. A list of rattling rules have been posted—a board has been established to try all Sophomores who do not follow these rattling rules.

If for any reason this board should fail to function and the rules are broken, we suggest that the Juniors and Seniors find out who is guilty and repay the culprits in kind.

Practice To Start Today For W. C. Archery Fans

Female hockey and archery enthusiasts will be given their chance to start practice this afternoon when Miss Doris Bell, coach and instructor, initiates the girls' fall sports program.

Miss Bell expressed surprise at the number of athletes that failed to return to college this year, but hoped that the new girls who are in a minority this year will make up the loss.

Once again this season, letter-winners will be awarded to the two outstanding performers.

President's Group Formed On Campus

An organization composed of the Presidents of all existing organizations on campus was founded September 20th. Formed at the suggestion of Dr. Gibson who addressed the meeting, the group is, in his words, "The only completely representative organization on the campus." Its object is to foster harmony and closer cooperation among the organizations represented.

Eddie Leonard was named President of the group, Ruth Roe was elected Vice-President. No official name has yet been selected for the organization.

Shore-Lycoming Elevens Clash Tomorrow

By Joel Guandolo

The cold snap of the past week seems to have quickened the football tempo here on the hill as new candidates hit the turf in hopes of joining the ranks of veterans that have been plugging since last month.

With the up swing of college spirit, that has been predicted on the way since the war, comes "rating". We give it a nod with the comment "its all in how you play the game."

This season nineteen new rules changed the collegiate football code slightly. An extra time out per half was added, the center must now keep the ball stationary after assuming his position, and free substitution is now allowed in mass while the clock is stopped. At last, a no-man's land, coach, pressman or what have you is allowed within five feet of the chalk marks.

Grantland Rice deviated from the path his colleagues tread this season and didn't pick Maryland U. as one of the country's twenty best teams.

Take an afternoon off and check the soccer squad on the lower field. A miniature Honduras hustler is attracting a lot of attention from veteran legmen.

With an enrollment of 700 at Lycoming College, its hard to understand why they dropped five games last season while winning only one. Maybe the location of the college which is in the center of Williamsport has something to do with it?

Sports minded students still needed. Inquire via box 151.

The sweat suit clad harriers have been putting in overtime under the whip hand of Filmore Dryden in preparation for their home meet with the Greyhounds of Loyola on the 14th.

Can't something be done about medical aid for the athletes? Not only is there no doctor in attendance at the games but injured players have in the past and undoubtedly will in the immediate future lay in the local hospital waiting for a doctor's attention. For example, just last Saturday half back Vinny Magliochetti was rushed to the X-ray table with what was thought to be a broken ankle. A nurse took the picture and a hour and a half later the doctor arrived and diagnosed the case as a sprain. What if it had been broken?

Half-Back Magliochetti Rejoins Squad This Week

Scraggy Sho'men back, Vinny Magliochetti, who was hospitalized last Saturday during the Haverford scrimmage, rejoined the squad this week. X-rays showed that Magliochetti's ankle was not broken as feared by the coaches. Dr. Farr of the local infirmary diagnosed the footballer's injury as a troublesome sprain.

Vinnie Magliochetti

However, the doctor permitted the fleet-footed New Yorker to return to the gridiron to partake in light workouts if the coach saw fit.

Coach Montero visited his boy immediately after the game and seemed greatly relieved to find the

W. C. Host To Towson Teachers' Here Wednesday

The first Varsity athletic contest to be played at home will find the soccer squad playing host to the Towson Teachers of Baltimore next Wednesday.

The strengthened Shore aggression will be striving to erase the 1 to 0 defeat they suffered at the hands of the Teachers last season. It is predicted, although Coach Atkey will make no statement, this same new legs will be seen in the starting lineup.

Buddy Brower

Field captain Buddy Brower will lead the squad from his center-half position. The other probable starters will be: McHugh, goalie; Grim and Long, FB; Ortel and Hangerford, HB; Tiley, CF; Brandenburg and Hernandez, RL inside, and Horn and Janigan, RL outside.

The defensive trio has been working nicely in front of the net and look the best when things are tightest. Playmaker Brower continues to "feed" one of the fastest quartet of scorers ever to hit Washington College.

Hangerford and Ortel combine to insure speed and power while center-forward Tiley remains a constant scoring threat with his fast, easy maneuvers.

Wednesday's host should prove to be one of the most hotly fought games of the season.

The Varsity Club announced that no high school varsity letters are to be worn on the Washington College campus. Until a varsity "W" is won, no letters may be worn.

Maroon and Black To Play First Pigskin Game On Foe's Field

Maroon and black clashes with blue and gold as the Sho'men meet the Warriors of Lycoming College tomorrow at 2 P. M. on the Williamsport, Pa. field.

Montero Speaks At Wilm. Club

By Jack Smith

Coach Montero faced an audience of experts from all fields of sports last Monday at the annual meeting of the Touchdown Club of Wilmington.

As one of the guest speakers of the meeting, Montero spoke plainly describing football at Washington College and its possibilities for the year. It was his plain and sincere talk, never boasting of being pessimistic, that won the hearts and admiration of the experts.

Once again, Dim showed that he could fill the bill as speaker as well as a coach. Joe Ingarra's, the coach's companion for the evening, only comment was, "He was great." And so Dim Montero faces his second year as coach of the Sho'men.

The squad's faith in their coach was summed up by their captain, Bob Herman, when he told this reporter, "We should go on all the way having no real injuries to our players. This is my fourth year on this field and I have never seen the boys working more earnestly for any coach."

Coach Montero's basic football views come from such all-time greats as Rockne, Warner, and Stange. Dim assisted Alonso Stagg at the College of Pacific during the Second World War while recuperating from a wound. Stagg's three basic rules have always been followed by Dim.

These rules are quite simple, but very important to a winning team. The first one is the idea of working for a team, not as an individual. The second is simply to show who is best by hitting hard from the beginning, staying on top and never letting up. The third is the most important and that is to be a good sport, win, lose or draw. Being a good sport after winning is often harder than after facing defeat. These ideals are very easy to follow if one tries.

So—with eight games to go—pull down your caps, rub your noses and cross your fingers, we're going all the way.

The Pennsylvania squad has already played one league game with Susquehanna University which they tied 27 to 0. The tight split-T formation that the Lycoming eleven used to no avail last week will undoubtedly be tried again tomorrow.

In contrast, the Monteromen, playing their first league game, will work mainly from the Michigan single-wing, although they will mix in a little T play of their own. The locals have picked up a few more reserves since their early scrimmages, but the edge must be given to the Warriors in this department as the substitutes stand four deep at every position.

Williamsport coaches, Vince Chimento and assistant Lee Baer, can be counted on to throw everything into the grid fire in hopes of a win. Last week's shutout added nothing to their predecessors' 40 record of one win and five losses.

The quick opening plays and pitch outs that the Warriors concentrate on should give the Shore line a chance to redeem themselves after their sliding performance in the scrimmage last week.

Coach Montero will field a starting eleven that promises to start the ball moving. Nacrelli will be calling signals from the quarterback slot while team-mate Wilbur will call the handoff work from behind the line. Greta will halfback the quartet along with Howard out on the wing.

Desmond centers the seven man forward wall flanked by Ingarra and Gardner. Tackles will be Bennett and Cannon while Miller and Plochanski will end things for the Sho'men's first rivals.

Twelve Competing For Cheerleading Vacancies

The old Washington College spirit has nabbed six freshmen and six upperclass girls for the cheering squad.

These twelve are competing for the four vacancies to complete the squad of eight girls and three boys. The maroon and black candidates are: Beecie Barnett, Joan Heffer, Margie Wilding, Janice Palmer, Pat Brussell, Jane Mills, Pat Fennell, Peggy Brainer, A. J. Carr, Mickey Rose, Du Owens, and Marion Nelghour.

Held over from last year's squad are Jane Bradley, Mickey Oit, Kay Heigh Abern, Pat Bevers, Duke Cash and Male Janigan. Ben Krotze is a new male addition. Final selections will be made in the near future.

Sophomores was set up to deal with any violations. On this committee are: Harold White (chairman), John Grim, Harvey Left, Bill Trough, Jane Mills, Ralph Kellogg, Doug Fox, Delores Owens, Lyn Hamilton, Peggy Brimer, Jane Bradley, and Mike Causey.

The regulations which must be observed by the Fresh are:

1. Freshmen are to wear "rat caps."
2. Freshmen are not allowed to walk into the front entrance of William Smith Hall.
3. Freshmen are not permitted to walk on the sacred "L", and they may not cut across campus.
4. Freshmen men are to wear coats and ties to assembly and to the evening meal at Hodson Hall.
5. Freshmen are to learn all college songs and yells.
6. Freshmen are to sit as a unit in a cheering section at football and soccer games.
7. Freshmen are to have names tags which they themselves must furnish.
8. Freshmen are to allow upper classmen, on the same shift, to enter the dining hall first.
9. Caps do not have to be worn on week-ends after 7:00 P. M.
10. No cars are to be used in connection with hazing.
11. Veterans are exempt from hazing.
12. A Sophomore board is set up to deal with Freshmen breaking the rules of hazing. This board is to give out penalties if necessary.
13. Roughness on the part of any Sophomore or Freshman is prohibited. Sophomore class officers will be held responsible for this in any case.
14. Freshmen must always carry matches to give upper classmen whenever asked to do so.
15. All Freshmen must attend pep rallies.
16. Upper classmen are to be served first at the dining table.
17. Freshmen are allowed to use the path leading from the back entrance of Bill Smith Hall to Ferguson Hall.
18. Freshmen must greet all upper classmen.

All students who have a car at college, regardless of whether they live on or off the campus, are required to register it with the Dean of Men.

The Washington College Inter-Fraternity Council at its Tuesday meeting announced the schedule for the year's first Open House receptions. The dates are Wednesday, October 4, and Friday, October 6, from noon until 8 P. M.

At the same time, a resolution was passed inviting every male freshman to visit each of the four houses on these dates. Inter-Fraternity Council delegates expressed the hope, in words of President Sonny Larimore "that each trustee will avail himself of the opportunity to visit not only one, but all of the campus fraternities."

The first meeting of the Canterbury Club was held in Hodson Hall on Tuesday night. President Lee Smith gave a short talk on the aims and purposes of the club. The freshmen were welcomed by both Lee and Rev. Atwater who is advisor to the group. Refreshments and a social hour followed.

The club is planning a corporate entertainment and breakfast at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in the near future.

The Newman Club held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday in the Reid Hall social room. This meeting was held to welcome the freshmen to the organization and to acquaint them with the works and purposes of the club. Last year's president, Larry Westcott was the chief speaker.

Vince Magliocchie has been elected to serve as President of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society for the coming year. He will fill the office left vacant by Dale Smith who transferred to Duke University. Bill Trough was named to the office of Vice-President.

Pan Council Opens Year

Inter-society relations began for the year with the first meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Council on last Tuesday evening.

The main business of the Council was the decision to present to Margaret Featherer the Pan-Hellenic book scholarship. This scholarship, established last year, is an award of fifty dollars given to one deserving Freshman woman. Persons desiring the scholarship submit essays on why the scholarship is desired, and the best one is selected for the award.

Plans are also being formulated for the fall rushing season which formally opens with the Pan-Hellenic Tea on October 29th.

Rep. Miller Of First Congressional District Speaks On Election Issues

Representative Edward T. Miller of the First Congressional District of Maryland, spoke last night in the Auditorium on 1950 election issues.

Mr. Miller, a Republican, has twice been elected to Congress (1946 and 1948) from a democratic stronghold. He has spoken to the student body of Washington College several times before and is an honorary member of the Washington College circle of ODK.

Mr. Miller, a graduate of Yale, is a native of Exton, Md., and a lawyer by profession. For years he served as referee in bankruptcy cases. In both the first and the second world wars he won distinction as a member of the U. S. Army. In World War II he was a Colonel in the U. S. Army, and at the same time, because of effective work in China, was made a Chinese general, the only member of the U. S. Congress to be a General in the Chinese army.

Representative Miller has long been interested in Washington College and has contributed valuable materials to its library. He is presently conducting his campaign for reelection.

Disciplinary Committee Expels Disorderly Popul

The first case to come before the newly-formed Disciplinary Committee resulted in the expulsion of a student from Washington College. The student was found guilty of a charge of disorderly conduct for the second time and has been dropped from the college rolls.

The new Disciplinary Committee has only recently been established by President Gibson. Its members include Dr. Joseph McLean, chairman, Coach Ed Athey, Professor Jontis; Dean of Men, Dr. Charles E. Clark and Dana of Women, Miss Amanda T. Bradley as well as two student representatives. The two student representatives are Leslie Eddard, president of ODK, and Elmer Gustafson, representative of the Junior class selected by ODK.

According to Dr. Gibson, more students will eventually be added to the committee.

Registrar Resigns Post On Physician's Advice

Miss Mattie Whitaker has relinquished the responsibilities of her position as Registrar of Washington College upon the advice of her physician.

"Miss Mattie" has served as Registrar since 1948. During that time she has processed the records of three of the largest graduating classes in the long history of Washington College as well as those of hundreds of other students. She will resume her former duties as assistant registrar.

Foster Named Registrar
Professor Erman Foster of the Department of Education assumed the position of Acting Registrar on October 1. He will continue as a member of the teaching staff in education, but will give up his post as curator of the museum.

Hazing Comm. Deals Out First Penalty

The first penalties were meted out this week by the Sophomore Committee on Hazing to Freshmen who had violated the "Hazing" regulation. Those Frosh found guilty of breaking hazing rules were: Ralph Hodges, Frank Von Rotteln, Dick Salikina, Herb Brown, Don Tabasco, and Laura "Beetle" Barnett.

Dick Salikina, who was guilty of cutting campus, having no name tag, and, in another instance, of having no name tag in plain view, drew the heaviest punishment. He was sentenced to push a peanut around the recreation room of Hodson Hall with his nose. This sentence was carried out last Monday night at 6:15 amidst a laughing crowd of Sophomores and upper classesmen.

Herb Brown, convicted of the same offenses as Salikina, was charged to act as doorman at Hodson for one week during both shifts of dinner. Don Tabasco, guilty of not wearing a name tag, will have to perform this same task for the afternoon meals.

Other penalties imposed included wearing signs, double name tags, and marching around Cain Hall with a broom from 6:30 to 7:30 in the evenings.

Five Injured In Auto Crash Here

Two Washington College students and four colored residents of Worton, Md., were involved in a two-car accident at 11:05 last night at the intersection of route 213 and Morgue road.

The two college students, Bob McLean and Harry Wolfe, were hospitalized for lacerations of the head, abrasions and bruises. Two of the three colored women were hospitalized, one for a fractured leg and foot, along with the driver, Joseph Asbury Gilbert.

According to state trooper Extreme, a '36 Buick sedan driven by Joseph Gilbert was headed south on route 213. After the collision the car ran off the road and did extensive damage to the Jewel Brother's business establishment.

Information from Bob and Harry has been forthcoming as yet.

At present both Bob and Harry are in Chestertown Hospital. Their condition is not critical according to hospital authorities.

A hearing will be held in about two weeks pending condition of the injured.

The Athletic Department wishes to express its thanks to the loyal grid fans who added to the practice session this afternoon. It is hoped that a larger representation of the student body can find time for the Sho'men tomorrow afternoon.

Swarthmore Offers Recruits; Sho' Hot To Erase '49 Tie

The Sho'men will be angling to hook eleven Little Quakers tomorrow at 2 P. M. when the Kibler field gridiron is cleared for the first time this season.

Draft Call For Fall-Time Students To Be Delayed

According to official word from the American Council on Education, college students pursuing full-time courses who receive their orders for induction under the Selective Service while enrolled in an institution of higher education, and who wish to postpone their entrance into the armed forces, should request postponement of induction. Postponement till the end of the academic year is mandatory upon the local boards for all full-time students.

Postponement Desired

Postponement is to be distinguished from deferment. An earlier bulletin of the Selective Service providing for deferment of students who had been enrolled in college for a full year, who were continuing their college work, and who were in the upper half of their class scholastically, was aimed primarily to provide for such students as received their orders for induction between August 1, 1950, and the opening of the college year. Deferment involves reclassification into 2A; postponement does not, at present.

Procedure

All students receiving notice for induction under Selective Service must note two points: (1) They must request postponement; (2) They must have an official certification from the college that he is pursuing a full-time course of studies. Such certification will be issued by the President of Washington College.

None of the above provisions apply to members of the various reserve components.

Players Start Staging Plans

Serious preparation has begun for the staging of the Washington Quakers' newest production, "Double Door". The play, written by Elizabeth McFadden will be presented November 16 and 17 in Bill Smith auditorium.

Costing for the three act play, which enjoyed a successful run at the Ritz Theatre in New York a few years ago, was held last week.

The play, a psychological mystery, was first presented August 16, 1933, at Southampton, Long Island, and subsequently produced successfully in New York by Petto and Hagth.

The play involves about the dictatorial actions of a Victor Van Bredt, of an aristocratic family of New York's Fifth Avenue, who (Continued on Page 4)

This will be the Garnet clad 'Lids' initial scrap of the current campaign, wherein they hope to better their last year's record of two wins, five losses, and one tie. Coaches Lev Elverson and Paul Stofko are placing their hopes mainly on the new recruits. The return of only thirteen lettermen found the new comers filling gaps at the guards, ends and halfback slots.

Here in Chestertown, coach Montero has practically the same squad returning from last year. These are the same men that battered the Garnets in their '49 opener but were decimated in a tie.

Working from the Michigan single-wing and the split T the Sho' crew is looking for a rough afternoon. Johnny Wilson will continue to call plays from the center of the T, while guard Nacrelli will shift back when the single-wing starts to fly. Rounding out the offensive quartet will be Miller at full, Grett, at half, and Howard at the other half.

Sho'men coaches, Montero and Aschella are expected to field the same "line herd" that ripped Lyecoming's forward wall to shreds last week.

On the ground, the Shoremen have a long range attack featuring Miller and Howard. These two speedsters are capable of rolling over the chain stripes for plenty of yardage. This was evidenced last week at Lyecoming when Miller broke away for runs of 67 and 73 yards. Howard, who wastes no time in starting, ran the opening kickoff back 40 yards. Three plays later he scampered for 33 more to hit "pay dirt."

Swarthmore's eleven will be relying on a straight T-formation with few variations. Captain Bob Forrey, tackle, will be the mainstay in a heavy forward wall. He will be flanked by Asplundh at center, Volcing and Raymond at the guard positions, Burns at the other tackle, and the combination of Blake and Franty on the ends. In the scoring department, the Quakers feature Francis, Swan and Cusano. Francis and Cusano (Continued on Page 3)

Dr. Smith Speaks At Wesley College

Are We Breaking Our Arm?

In an editorial last week the ELM pointed out that the students would like for the Snack Bar to open on Friday nights and Sunday mornings. A notice has been posted stating that the Snack Bar will be open at the above mentioned times. However, we do not credit our editorial with bringing about this change. It was a change that was almost inevitable; nevertheless, we appreciate it.

We are glad that when we wrote the editorial we did not climb aboard our typewriter and ride madly off in all directions. We are glad that we asked for patience; otherwise we would have looked a little silly.

We believe that all students and student organizations can profit from the series of events. In other words, when you start to bring about some world-shaking change, make sure you know what you're doing and then proceed.

FROM THE EXCHANGE DESK

Editor's Note:—It is always interesting to compare the work of someone we know with the work of others. Last week Lee Blom, wrote on Ernest Hemingway's latest novel, "Across the River and into the Trees". Below is a review from the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jacket.

Ernest Hemingway's "Across the River and into the Trees" is undoubtedly the most provocative book published this fall and everyone from Tennessee Williams, the notable playwright, to the ever-memorable Bob Condit have been talking both good and bad cracks at this novel.

The Library is expecting its copy of this No. 2 best-seller momentarily and you can bet an owner of Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms" that it will have its pages torn thin quickly.

Descriptive prose, of which Hemingway is the master, places us in picturesque Venice, city of the gondolas, after the post-war reaction has taken place. He dissects on duck hunting at some length in similar fashion as he has done in previous works with ballistics and big game hunting.

Colonel Cantwell, a busted brigadier general, is the typical Hemingway man but for one exception. Besides incorporating the bitter hard-boiled soldier and a warm, passionate lover, he is a connoisseur of the arts and constant allusions are made to Italian renaissance painters and Dante, Venice, which competed with Florence for the title of the art capital of the world, in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries evidently incites this element with its museums and churches.

Hemingway again presents the dream girl, the girl who says "I only want to serve you" to her lover, in the form of a nineteen year old Italian countess who is referred to as "Daughter" by her fifty-one year old colonel.

It is generally agreed that "Across the River and into the Trees" is not one of Hemingway's better novels but that it is an "interesting work." You can nevertheless not go wrong in reading this book, not only because it is an intensely interesting and engaging book with some prose that is incomparable.

Well, it's evident that school has finally started and that all students have settled down earnestly to try and grasp a good knowledge of all subjects assigned to them. The latter point has proven itself considerably, especially in one particular case I know of.

In an economics class earlier this week Prof. Bryan stated that figures showed the average American family to be 1.5 percent in the 1930's. Quipped a senior from the back of the room: "How could that be when it takes 2 whole people to make a family?"

Still in a class under the heading, when the professor asked the definition of alimony, one student almost came out with: "the high cost of leaving."

—From the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jacket.

Senior Of . . . .
. . . . The Week

One of the most outstanding girls in the senior class is a brown eyed brunette named Polly Kounjian who hails from Catskill, Maryland. She has been at Washington College for four years, majoring in chemistry with a physics minor and has hopes of graduating in February.

Polly is recording secretary of A O Pi, the president of the Science Club, and the associate editor of the Pegasus. With all these activities to her credit, she still finds time for the Washington Players for which she is treasurer and back stage worker.

To work in the field of chemistry is Polly's choice of vocation after her graduation. However, her future plans will probably include Ed Besson, to whom she is pinned. Ed graduated last year and is now in Baltimore studying to become a doctor.

Whatever Polly may do after she leaves, everyone at Washington wishes success to a girl who really deserves it.

On The Shore

Washington College, resort on the Shore.

Where daytime is playtime; it's a haven and more;

The students have autos; professors all walk,

Instructors are quiet; the classes all talk.

Where tests are a snap and no-body studies,

The deans and the playboys are the largest of hoolies,

The snack bar sells beer, doesn't bother with cokes;

Professors don't lecture, they tell dirty jokes.

The food is supreme, a delight to the taste,

Every morsel's devoured and none goes to waste.

The coeds are out till wee hours 'neath the moon,

Unlimited cuts, so they all nap till dawn;

Dances and parties and picnics and things,

A mail for each room who is there at a ring.

Night-life's the right life at old Washington,

The greatest night-owl is her favorite son.

Money flows freely, there's more when it's gone,

Athletic coeds play tag on the lawn;

In sports she's outstanding and takes every honor,

Her history's unique, though old age is upon her.

Life at old Washington none can deny,

Might be considered the highest of high,

For our dear alma mater needs naught to redeem her;

You may awake now, you beautiful dreamer!

"TWELVE REGULATIONS"

I
Lest it may more quarrels breed,
You shall never hear me plead.

II
By disputing I will never,
To convince you, once endeavor.

III
When a paradox you stick to,
I will never contradict you.

IV
When I talk and you are heedless,
I will show no anger heedless.

V
When your writings are absurd,
I will never alter a word.

VI
When you furious argue wrong,
I will grieve and hold my tongue.

VII
Never a plan or recommendation
Will I ever tell before you;
To be chidden for explaining,
When you quite mistake the meaning.

VIII
Never more will I suppose,
You can taste my verse or prose.

IX
You no more at me shall fret,
While I work and you are forget.

X
You shall never hear me thunder,
While you blunder on, and blunder.

XI
Show your poverty of class spirit
And in books place all your merit;
Give yourself ten thousand airs—
'Twill not be among my cares.

XII
Never will I give advice,
Till you please to ask me thrice;
Which, if you in scorn reject,
'Twill be just as I expect.

Thus we both shall have our ends,
And continue special friends.

From The Files

Five Years Ago This Week

With the return of vets to the campus the three national fraternities were again able to reorganize. Lambda Chi had twelve active, while Theta Chi and K. A. had five each.

Plans were being made to bring varsity football, basketball, track, and possibly soccer back to the "Bill" after an absence of four years.

Rules for Freshmen were listed and the "Rats" were required "to slip their hats respectfully to all faculty members, faculty wives, co-eds, and upper classmen" as well as take turns, two at a time each night, going to Bennett's to bring back sandwiches and soft-drinks for upper classmen.

Ten Years Ago This Week

The Sho'emans opened the 1940 football season against Swarthmore at Kilder Field. The Pennsylvanians won 14-7; hope history doesn't repeat itself.

An announcement was made that Charles B. Clark was to receive his Ph. D. from the University of North Carolina in the Spring.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was defeated by Wendell Wilkie in a mock election on the campus by a vote of 143 to 114.

The Business Office announced that it will not replace any more doors that are torn down from the two missing ones in East Hall are fixed. It was also announced that the College statutes now hold a firing prohibiting the exploding of fireworks during open air religious peace gatherings.

Mt. Vernon Has Open House

The Mount Vernon Literary Society held its annual open house in Hodson Hall Wednesday night.

The open house featured dancing and refreshments. This dance was the first of a number of informal dances which will be held in the Hodson basement lounge this year.

Gilded Butterflies

—By Blom—

There is, on this campus, an organization whose activities have long been a source of embarrassment to me. Having, as I do, an abiding interest in plant culture, I looked forward with great anticipation to becoming a member of The Monticello Botanical Society, when I first came to college and was still full of romantic notions about the aims of organizations. Imagine my surprise, then, upon attending the first meeting, to find the members discussing, not the rapid encroachments of Panicle obtusum, but deeply involved in what they seemed to think was an important event—the publication of a new book by Arnold Toynbee. Swallowing my disappointment, I kept away, determined to remain loyal to Botany at all costs, and somewhat mollified by the prospect of the next meeting, when a member of the faculty planned to talk on Carex microglochin Wahl, a slightly Canadian sedge.

In the spirit of the thing (and because I was interested in sedges anyway) I read all about False Urtica and even, after several searches, managed to find a spring of it out near the Ranch. The big evening was a failure. The professor had talked about ten minutes, when the hostility of the Society dawned on him and he sat down. I had wanted to ask a few questions but before I knew what had happened the meeting had degenerated into a discussion of Elizabethan lyrics. I never went back.

However, owing to curiosity and a lingering sentiment, I have followed the Society's activities by reading its notices on the bulletin board. These notices make it abundantly clear that the Society knows nothing about plants, and cannot even use its own terminology correctly. The new president of the group has never, I am sure, even seen a plant. My disillusionment is complete and I can now appreciate the humor of the thing.

Sho' Legmen Topple Towson

By Joel Guandolo

The "beef-trust" takes the limelight tomorrow as the chains fall at Kibler field. In case you haven't heard, a MAD bunch of Monteromen are planning to chase the so-called Little Quakers back to their Main Line showers. The story this reporter gets stems from mid-week communique between the athletic offices of W. C. and Swarthmore. It seems that either Willis Stetson, Director of Swarthmore's athletic department, or head coach Lewis Elverson, passed the word to negotiate no football contracts for 1951-52 with the Sho'men until after the game. Needless to say, Montero's squad concluded that Swarthmore was "putting the game on a 'if you win we won't play you anymore' basis." The majority opinion here seems to be "bury 'em and let 'em lie."

Jack Smith pointed out columbian last week that the Sho'men were being coached by a man who put his faith in three basic rules—one of which was "being a good sport." Ironically enough on the following day the Sho' squad was given the opportunity to see their coach, Dim Montero, practiced what he preached.

The third quarter of the Lycoming game found the Sho'men scoring their thirty-second point with promise of many more to come when coach Montero sent word to stop the TD parade. The looks of surprise and disgust quickly left the gradmen's faces when they learned that Montero was thinking of the Williamsport students who were mourning the recent death of their Dean.

Lycoming Warriors Scalped; Miller - Howard - Wilson Star

By Steve McElaine

Washington College unleashed a powerful single-wing attack last Saturday that smothered the Lycoming College Warriors 32-0 at Williamsport, Pa.

Spectacular running by Joe Miller and Ken Howard plus John Wilson's fine passing gave the Maroon and Black the win. Dim Montero in his second year at the helm of the Shore eleven had his charges up for the opener and they lost no time going to work on the gold-clad Warriors.

Quick Opening

The Sho'men scored before the game was two minutes old. Ken Howard returned the opening kickoff 40 yards to the Washington 45 yard line. Sam Greto and Howard in five tries moved the ball to the Lycoming 28 yard line. From there, Howard broke loose on a double reverse and went 34 yards to the Lycoming 4. Wilson slanted over tackle for the tally on the seventh play of the game, then he converted the point-after-touchdown to make the score 7-0, W. C.

The Sho'men had another scoring opportunity moments later when Jim Schafer recovered Herbie Eisenman's kickoff on the Lycoming 25 yard line. "Little John" Wilson moved the ball to the 13 in three tries and David, a senior and Gold guard, fell on Greto's fumble at the 10 and Lycoming was momentarily out of danger.

Still Moving

Near the end of the first period, W. C. started to move again. Starting from the Washington 40 Ken Howard and Wilson alternated in gaining a first down on the Lycoming 47 yard line as the quarter ended.

On the first play after the teams changed sides, Howard caught a Wilson pass on the Lycoming 16 yard line and raced untouched to paydirt. Wilson again converted and Washington led 14-0.

Lycoming could not get a drive started so Bellak punted into the end zone. The ball was brought out to the 20 and W. C. took over. The second play from scrimmage, a faked reverse, found Joe Miller scampering 73 yards for a TD behind the fine blocking of Greto and Gardner. Wilson's placement was wide and the score stood Washington College 20, Lycoming 0.

Stellar Sho' Defense

Excellent defensive play by Eisenman and Smitty Byham stalled a Warrior drive mid-way through the second period and the Lycos were forced to kick. Eisenman returned the ball 16 yards to the W. C. 25 yard line. Howard and Wilson combined for a first down on the 33. Then came the most thrilling play of the game. Miller, snubbing for Wilson at tail-back, raced around his own left end and "set sail" for the goal line. He appeared trapped at mid-field and again at the Lycos 40 but each time Miller side-stepped would-be tacklers and retched 67 yards for his second touchdown of the afternoon and W. C.'s fourth. Wilson's boot was blocked and the score stood 26-0 as the half ended.

Final Marker

The Sho'men didn't score their final marker 'til near the end of the third quarter. Wayne Miller, who played a "bang-up" game at left-end, fell on Bellak's fumble at the Lycos 24 and two plays later Washington tallied again. Wilson toosing to Jack Narelli for the score. W. C. led 32-0 after Wilson missed the conversion attempt.

Swarthmore Recruits To Face Monteromen

were members of last year's eleven and will be aided by Miller, a transfer from Columbia. Swen is stepping in as signal caller for the first time.

The local eleven has been rolling through spirited workouts this week in preparation for Saturday's tilt. Mentor Montero has been placing special emphasis on passing and pass defense. With Wilson "looking good" on short passes to the flat and ever ready to uncork a long one, this week's air attack should be even more impressive than last week's record of five completions for eleven tries.

Little John Wilson (see cut) looks like a real triple-threat. In addition to his passes, he hugs a lot of pigskin and also handles the brunt of the punting.

The Monteromen are off to a flying start. The Garnets' Swarthmore are out to upset the hand-wagon. This Saturday fans will see a ball game and a half.

Atheymen Avenue Last Year Loss; 2-0 Win Forbodes Honor Season

Bouncing back from last year's defeat to Towson, the maroon-clad soccer club commanded the situation at all times this Wednesday and defeated the Teachers 2-0. This win gets W. C. off to a good start and raises visions of another undefeated season—a repeat performance of the '47 season.

From the opening kick-off the Sho'men out-played and out-busted the visitors. The inability of the line to "get rolling" kept the score relatively close through the contest.

Washington College first denied the upstarts in the opening plays of the second quarter. Janigan broke through the Towson kickoff and his teammates showed fine passing as they moved down the field and set up the score, a short boot by Ed George Horn.

The second score came in the third period with Hernandez receiving credit for the point. The whole line was fighting the score from within a close range. There was such a mad scramble on the kick that Horn, Freeman or Twiley could have received credit for the score.

The defense was superb with Captain Brower performing as last year—the offensive playmaker and defensive spark-plug of the team. Goalie McElhugh, playing in his first game, made several fine stops while the inner defense of Grim and Long was good.

Experience and practice working together should develop the line into the finest here since '47. At spots, the end of the first period, the beginning of the second and near the end of the game the line clicked beautifully.

Freshmen Tilley, Brandenburg, first gammer McElhugh and transfer Hernandez bolstered the eleven and combined with the old-timers, should present a tough time for our opponents in the Mason-Dixon Conference again this year.

Tilley, Hernandez and Brandenburg give the favor, footwork and ball-handling up front have aided the attack of the club. Horn and Janigan on the wings, work well with the newcomers.

At halfback, Brower, Ortel and Hungerford more than fill the bill with Lingo and Duckworth providing the reserve strength.

Smith Handles Business

A precedent will be set this year in that the Players will give a special matinee performance for the high school in Chestertown on Wednesday, November 15.

Those working on the production end of the mystery are headed by Helen Roe, assistant director, and Jack Smith, business manager. Others include Bob Weddell, stage manager; Eleanor Durand, costumes; J. Touchstone Jones, lighting; Bob Elder, president of the Washington Players, who is designing the sets with Jones; Nancy Gray, chairman of the property committee, and June Williams, director of the play.

Mrs. E. Westfield Ogrunden, assistant professor of speech, is advisor to the group.

Assembly Reservations

Student organizations desiring to reserve Assembly Hall programs should see Dr. Smith early this semester. "Spot" announcements to be made at any assembly should be given to Dr. Smith the day before they are to be made; students wishing to make announcements themselves on behalf of college activities should clear with Dr. Smith at least a day ahead.

In a nation wide 4-H contest, Jenice Palmer, a Freshman, was one of the winners of a trip to England for next summer.

Miss Palmer, a resident of Olney, Maryland, was one of four persons who represented Maryland in the 4-H contest at Waterloo, Iowa. This group won their county contest and competed successfully in the Maryland 4-H at Timonium Fair. They were sent to represent Maryland in the National contest last week with a tour of England offered the winners. Cattle judging was Miss Palmer's particular phase of 4-H work.

O. D. K. Requests Budget Plans From Organization

Omicron Delta Kappa requests all campus organizations which expect allowances from the Student Activities Fund to submit a budget of their approximate needs as soon as possible.

It is to be pointed out, however, that last year's books must be audited before a new allotment can be made.

Several record books of campus organizations are still in summer storage at the Dean of Men's office. Secretaries of clubs that are missing record books should see Dr. Charles B. Clark, Secretary-Treasurer of ODK.

Science Club To Meet*The 11th In Dunning Hall

Pauline Koumjian, president of the Society of Sciences, announced today that there will be a meeting of the club in Dunning Hall on Thursday, October 12, at 7:30 P. M.

A representative from the State of Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission will be the principal speaker. Dr. Joseph McLain of the science department is chairman of the commission.

Miss Koumjian stated that the speaker of the evening will probably be a past graduate of Washington College.

His talk will deal with water pollution and its importance in the present day civilization.

Jam Session To Sextet Band

A sextet dance band has been added to the Washington College campus. The group originated in a jam session and has grown from this origin with four members to the present total of six.

The members are all Freshman except Sophomore Duke Loyot who plays the accordion. The Fresh members are Doug Tilley, tenor saxophone; Ed Burnham, alto and baritone saxophone; John Newbold, clarinet; Jim Metcalf, guitar, and George Sheler on the drums.

Jim Metcalf stated that the band will start practices on Monday in an effort to fulfill several tentative contracts already offered them.

With the strictly reeds and rhythm combination the group hopes to develop a unique college band. One of the members was quoted as saying "the aim of our group is to hire ourselves out in an effort to earn money while having fun."

The results of Freshman elections on Wednesday placed Lawrence Wedekind in the class president. He will be assisted in his office by John Palmer Newbold as vice-president, Dorothy Willis as secretary, and Le Roy Weisman as treasurer.

Wedekind attended Calvert Hall School in Baltimore before coming to this campus. His course of study here is in preparation toward a dentistry degree from The University of Maryland.

In connection with his new office Wedekind stated that "next week he shall, call a meeting of his class. By such a meeting he hopes that "the class will be able to familiarize and look over the situation which it will have to contend with" here on campus. He further stated that he feels a course of action can be decided at this meeting.

A. O. Pi Becomes Foster Parent To War Orphan

Alpha Omicron Pi has completed the final arrangements for the adoption of a war orphan under the Foster Parents' Plan For War Children.

Last year, the sorority decided to set as its major goal the collection of the one hundred eighty dollars necessary to present application for a foster child. Much of the amount was obtained through the presentation of a bazaar held last November. The rest of the money was earned through bake sales and raffish.

Under the Foster Parents' Plan, the adoption is financial only, and the $180 provides for a child for a year. The child is given food, clothing, shelter, medical aid, schooling, and instruction in his own religion.

Now that the A. O. Pi's have made application, they will receive from headquarters the history and picture of the child they have adopted.

Varsity Club To Be H. C. Sponsors

Lee Cook, President of the Varsity Club, announced today that this group will sponsor the annual Homecoming festivities Saturday, November 11. Preparations are now under way for Homecoming week-end, one of the biggest of the year. A football game with Catholic University in the afternoon will be followed by a big dance that night at the armory.

Rush Rules Revised

Sophs Sponsor Hatters Dance

Washington students will have the opportunity of dancing to the strains of juke-box tunes in the Hodson Hall Recreation Lounge, tomorrow night from 8:00 to 12 P. M. The Sophomore Class will sponsor the Mad-Hatters' Dance as their contribution to the newly inaugurated social season.

The highlight of the dance will be the selection of the queen of the dance from the Freshman Class.

Sophs Don't Pay

Tickets to the dance are priced at $.50 per couple, according to Harvey Left, vice-president. Members of the Sophomore Class need not purchase tickets. The share of the cost of the dance will be procured from the class treasury.

"No tags will be allowed at the dance", Left stated, "as the dance is solely a drag affair."

Fresh Advertisers Event

A unique publicity campaign was carried on throughout the week, heralding the dance. As a result of a violation of Freshman regulations, Miss Beecie Barnett was given the punishment by the Sophomore Board of wearing a large sandwich-type sign, advertising the dance, in addition to a grotesque Mad-Hatter type of Chapeau. Miss Barnett announced full particulars concerning the dance at each meal at Hodson Hall.

"Blythe Spirit" Here 19th-20th

Under the direction of Mrs. Madeleine Pennell, the Chester Players will present "Blythe Spirit", their first production of the year, on the nights of October 19th and 20th in the William Smith Auditorium.

Although this play was scheduled for production last Spring, the Chester Players found themselves beset with so many difficulties that it was necessary for them to postpone it until the present year. It has been recast since last year.

All seats are priced at 75c, and tickets may be purchased in advance.

Varsity Club Plans For Homecoming Dance

Varsity Club plans for the Homecoming Dance are getting off to a good start, they announced this week. The orchestra will be a Washington College favorite, Al Green. Ticket prices were set this year at $1.75 per couple and tickets will be sold by Varsity Club members.

Homecoming for Washington College will be November 11 and the Shoremen will meet Catholic University on Kibler field that afternoon. The dance will be held in the Chestertown Army from 9:00 to 1:00.

Third Watchman Added To Force

Mr. William C. Bidler, Custodian of the Grounds, announced this week that a new night watchman has been added to the force, bringing the total to three. This has been done in order to make the fire prevention program at Washington College more efficient. Mr. E. R. Simpkins, retired grocer and farmer of the locality, was selected to fill the new position.

12 Hour Coverage

With the former force of two men, there was only a nine hour coverage of the campus. The new plan will allow a 12 hour coverage each night. This over-all protection allows the college to have a lower rate on its insurance policy. Investigators of the insurance company handling the Washington College account usually investigate the fire prevention set-up at the school once or twice a month.

The only buildings on campus not covered by the night watchmen are the fraternity houses. These are considered private.

Last Fire In Bill Smith

The last case of a major fire on the Washington College Campus occurred more than twenty-five years ago when William Smith Hall burned to the ground.

Veteran night watchmen on the force are Dan Wiley and John Kelley, each of whom have been here for several years.

STUDENT FELLOWSHIP TEA

The first Student Fellowship Tea of the year will be held on Sunday, October 15, at 5 P. M., in Christ Methodist Church. Professor Barnett will be the principle speaker. A salad supper will be served.

These teas are held every year by the two Methodist churches of Chestertown. They are held alternately in each church every other week. Everyone, regardless of religion, is urged and invited by the Fellowship to attend.

Announcement of the 1950-51 fraternity rush rules was made this week by Sonny Larimore, president of the Interfraternity Council. All rules set up by the Council have been approved by the Faculty Committee on Fraternities of which Dr. Charles B. Clark is chairman.

The laws set up for rushing will go into effect Monday, October 16. They are as follows:

Revised By Laws Of The Interfraternity Council

1. We agree that there shall be rush parties.

Rush Parties To Be Given

a. One formal rush party to be given by each fraternity at a time to be determined by the Interfraternity Council but cleared with the Director of Student Activities (the Dean of Men) in order not to conflict with other student activities. There shall be no limit to informal rush parties so long as they do not conflict with a

Seven men were tapped Thursday by ODK in recognition of their activities on the campus. They were: Seniors—Frank Brower, Don Duckworth, Glen Gray, Bob Herrman, Larry Wescott; Juniors—Fred Nixon, Joe Ingarra.

Provisions Concerning Student Cuts Reviewed

The attention of students is called to the following statements concerning absences from classes.

1. Students who expect to be absent because of medical or dental appointments, military or veterans business, or on recognized college business must submit the excuse in advance of the absence.

2. Students absent by reason of medical or dental appointments must supplement the excuse with a written statement from the doctor or dentist within one week of the absence.

3. Sick absence excuses must be submitted within one week of the absence or no consideration can be given.

4. Absence does not excuse any student from an announced test. Regardless of the reason for absence, other than recognized college business, the individual will be subjected to the usual fee for a missed test.

W. Howard Wheeler, President of Towson High School, was guest speaker at the assembly. He received an honorary tapping for membership in ODK.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary fraternity which originated at Washington and Lee University. Its purpose is to recognize and foster leadership and to honor those men who are outstanding as campus leaders. Members are selected on a basis of points acquired by participation in college activities.

Graduation in 1950 reduced the fraternity to three student members—Eddie Leonard, president, Duke Cass, vice-president, and Filmore Dryden. Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men, is secretary-treasurer while Athletic Director Edward L. Athey is faculty advisor.

On the Washington College Campus ODK has undertaken a number of activities usually associated with a student government association. Its major function at present is the distribution and allotment of the Student Activity Fund to the organizations on the campus.

Supervises Elections

ODK supervises the elections of class officers and in the spring it awards Extra-Curricular Activities Keys to outstanding students. The group also led the drive resulting in the establishment of the Snack Bar in William Smith Hall.

Pre-Professional Test To Be Given Nov. 6-19

Attention of Juniors and seniors is called to the pre-professional tests which are being given this year. A student who is considering applying for admission to a professional school this coming year should take the tests since the tests are regarded as an important factor in admission.

The following are the first dates that examinations will be given:

Medical College Admission Test—Monday, November 6, 1950. Apply no later than October 23, 1950.

Dental School Admission Test—Thanksgiving vacation. Apply no later than November 8, 1950. Law School Admission Test—Sunday, November 19, 1950. Apply no later than November 8, 1950.

Candidates for these tests should consult Dean Livingood for more complete information.

O. D. K. Makes Request

ODK requests all organizations that want allotments this year to get in contact with it at once. This must be done so that ODK can make out the year's budget.

Dr. Gibson Attends Conference On Student Deferment Plans

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College attended the Conference on Higher Education in the National Service called by the American Council on Education for October 6th and 7th in Washington, D. C.

The purpose of the conference was to discuss the methods by which American universities and colleges can best contribute to national mobilization.

General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, and principal speaker, announced his general approval of the college proposed plan for "selective deferment of students." The plan briefly is this:

Students To Be Tested

All incoming college students would be given a general classification test; a score of 120 or above would entitle the student to enter or continue school. His course of study would have no bearing on his eligibility. (Here an economic element is involved: If a student makes a high score but cannot afford to go to college, a proposed Federal Scholarship Bill will aid him, if passed.)

and, in person, Earl McGrath, Commissioner of Education.

400 Colleges Represented

Over 960 educators were in attendance including over 400 college presidents representing 16 states. It was the second such conference within a decade, the first being held shortly after the U. S. entry into World War II.

Dr. Gibson, who termed the conference "very useful and very valuable" attended committee meetings on military and other training programs.

Before attending the conference, Dr. Gibson represented Washington College in the installation ceremonies of Milton Eisenhower as President of Pennsylvania State College.

WHAT'S....IN...A...NAME?

Anyone can look up the proper names of their friends in a dictionary and find out that some great Roman or French scholar said such and such a name meant so and so. But . . . did you ever try to look up the nicknames of some of your fellow colleagues and find out what they really meant? Best way to do it is to go up and ask such characters as "Choo Choo", "Mole", and "Froggy", and find out where in the world they picked up their name tags.

Seems that "Choo Choo" formerly known as Joel was playing basketball so hard one day that he knocked poor Mel Morgan clear of the gym and left him in a stunned heap. As Mel picked himself up he muttered something about being hit by a train . . . hence the name "Choo Choo."

"Mole" Janigan claims relation to a certain furry animal that makes long ridges in the front lawn. Just between the eyes that is. As for Froggy—he doesn't claim any relatives in the animal world but you might ask his fraternity brothers. There seem to be two stories on how he picked up his name. Froggy says, "One of my pals gave me that because I called him 'Bull.' Who knows?"

Then there's the guy Al Capp borrowed for a model for his cartoon strip. Who else . . . Kipny, of course. Or "Numbles", the "Freshman dream boy". Did you or did you not say that you would answer by telephone?

We can't omit the girls and their nicknames here. Most famous of course is Mackey Metcalfe as "Miss Chastertown". That's obvious enough . . . she lives here! Or "Punchy" Shenton. That's obvious, too . . . are there brains beneath those blonde tresses, Miss S.?

Then there's the incredible pair of "Sam Spade" and "Kutz". Sam's story goes to the effect that he was always borrowing "Wild-root Cream Oil" for that beautiful black hair. Of course, he's the detective type too! And Kutz . . . you have to bag for the origin of his nickname. Ask him if he's ticklish and see what happens.

Well, now you know what to do the next time you run into someone with a name that doesn't sound just quite normal. Here's some names around school you can work on, too. They have a good history . . . "Rip" Wood (don't ask him about "Daddy"), "Duke" Johnson, "Blimp" Elliott, "Bo" Byer, and last but not least . . . "Pancho" . . . our newest soccer sensation. Lots of luck to you but don't forget . . . stand your distance. Some of these names have a deep dark history.

WITH.....THE GREEKS

Zeta Tau Pledges One

Congratulations are in order for Eleanor Dryden who was pledged a week ago. We are glad to have her as one of our sisters.

July 2-7 Edith Ann Ivens and Cecil Deems represented our chapter at the International Convention held on Mackinac Island, Michigan.

Congratulations to Delore Bachman and Bill Atwell, and also to Pat Edwards and Bob Meeker who just recently became Mr. and Mrs.

A. O. P.'s To Give Dance

The A. O. P.'s have received the first O. K. on the adoption of their founder club, a little Belgian girl. Plans are rapidly progressing for our Halloween dance on October 27th. There will be a special floor show again this year.

K. A. Initiates New Two

WHAT'S NEW?

George Plocharny, why do the Na's call you "Moose"? Let's have a good explanation of this. Tom Benson certainly is getting ridder these days. He went to church not once but twice last Sunday. Maybe it's the good influence of the Freshmen girls.

It would be a good idea if "Beecio" would make announcements at second chess every night. Her presence really adds something.

Mackey's initials, M. M., are very appropriate . . . "M—M—Mother", but soon she will fall.

It is requested that Bob Brink please turn in his sweater and pin to the National Safety Pin Company.

What K. A. is now being pointed out as the pro baseball player on campus?

"Whisee! Forward men to the Bird." With those words of wisdom from the mouth of a famous campus leader, I leave you.

A. Bent wishes to the two new K. A. initiates—Harold White and Bill MacDonald.

Glad to see Alumni "Daddy" Riggs and "Bull" Durham on campus last week-end . . . also glad to see that brother "Mumbles" has turned loose.

Gamma Chi Pledges Four

Congratulations are in order to the new O. X. men that were pledged last week . . . John Wilson, Dallas Ward, Bill Russell and Steve McHale.

Lots of Theta Alpha women were out there celebrating the football victory . . . "Ball Dog" Tiller, "Smoo" Hitecock and "Chetty" Mullikin seemed to enjoy being back.

A. O. Nu To Hold Open House

All faculty and students are cordially invited to attend our first open house this Sunday, October 15 between 3 and 5 P. M.

Congratulations to Bob Strauss, Bob Brink, Mack Jaffe, Charley Whitsett, Henry Lewis, and Jim Mangus on their installation as pledges of Alpha Omega Nu.

The Brothers of Alpha Omega Nu were glad to see Skeeter O'Connor, '50, return to Chestertown after a serious lung operation.

Lambda Chi's Celebrate

Brother Jack Smith's birthday was royally celebrated this weekend in an out-of-town establishment. Everyone, even Smitty, had a fine time.

Several of the brothers turned towards Hingham, Mass., over the weekend for the wedding of Bill Cooper, '49.

Alpha Chi Pledges One

Congratulations to Mary Jane Watson, who was pledged into Alpha Chi on Monday night.

The Alpha Chi's are looking forward to a visit from our new Province President, Mrs. Campbell, and our National Treasurer, Mrs. Supples, in the very near future.

Senior Of . . . . The Week

One of the better known members of the Senior class is its president, Sandy Jones. He is originally from Texas, as the accent might indicate, but he eventually migrated to Princess Anne, Maryland, which is now his home town.

Builder holding the position of Senior class proxy, Sandy is also the vice-president of the Washington College, a member of the President's Club, News Editor of The Elm, and Lambda Chi Alpha. Although he spends a good bit of his time on Senior class work, he can always find time for music, as he has an admirable collection of classical and semi-classical records.

Sandy has an extensive background, in both education and the Service. He started out at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, but then interrupted his education to serve two years in the Infantry. After receiving a discharge he went to Salisbury State Teachers College, then he came to Washington where he has made a well deserved name for himself in the above activities.

From The Files

Ten Years Ago This Week

"The W. C. football team met Hopkins under the lights in Baltimore and won 20-0."

"The three sororities held their Informal Rush Parties for the Freshmen and transfer girls. The Alpha Chi's had a Pirate party, the A. O. P.'s a Southern Plantation one, while ZTA had a song fest."

Five Years Ago This Week

"Plans were announced by President Mead that a new men's dormitory will be constructed on the 'Triangle' north to the tennis courts. It is hoped that it will be fully completed by 1950." (Timed practically to the minute!—Ed note.)

"Basketball practice started on the 'RHIP' and what with both of the Root boys back hopes were high for an M.D. Conference win."

One Year Ago This Week

"The Barter Theatre presented 'The Imaginary Invalid' in Bill Smith Hall."

"Cross-country racing was introduced to the campus for the first time when the W. C. harriers played host to the Baltimore Olympic Club."

"The Shu-men played Western Maryland at Westminster and lost." Too bad they still aren't on our schedule.

GILDED BUTTERFLIES

By Blom—

Ignore me? Well, I do not intend to ignore him, because I am intensely opposed to what I regard as a high school exercise in "policies." Furthermore I do not share Jones' laudable virtues of forbearance and tolerance, just as I do not share his Messianic proclivities (all of which he enumerated for us last week).

Just for the record I would like Jones to point out his absurdities and my paradoxes (they exist, but I doubt if he can see them). I would like him to give one instance of my having asked him for advice. As for arguing—that happened but once, at which time Jones went away after I kept asking "Why?" Try it some time.

I wonder how it speaks for the College to have an English major of above average intelligence write such poor verse as Jones does? He confided to me later that what he wrote had some connection with Eighteenth Century poetry. I can only conclude that Jones doesn't know anything about Eighteenth Century poetry, in spite of his having a better scholastic record than

MOTHER MINNIE.....

By Sandy Reader

Both students and faculty have been concerned recently about the illness of Mrs. Minnie T. Wilson, Matron of Reid Hall. Recent reports from the hospital indicate her present condition is believed good, and she will soon be able to receive visitors.

"Mother Minnie", as she is known to all the students, is a native of Trappe, Maryland, on the Eastern Shore. She has spent twenty years in the service of the school. She first came to the college as a nurse to help during a flu epidemic when Dr. Simpers obtained her services to aid in caring for Reid Hall girls. Her work proved so successful that Dr. Titsworth, President of the College at that time, offered her the position of housemother for Reid Hall.

When the new dining hall was opened, Mrs. Wilson was asked to aid in its organization. For three months, she was in charge of Haddon Hall and from time to time was called upon to help with the management.

She has also planned many of the college banquets and functions. She was interested in the alumni banquets particularly because she likes to greet former graduates and friends.

Mrs. Wilson had continued her work until her recent illness despite her advanced age.

A report from the hospital demonstrates that she still has her old "Mother Minnie" touches that have distinguished her at school. She has adorned the top of her hair with a yellow ribbon which she equates remain there because she "likes it."

Bridge water-Sho'men To Clash

By Joel Guandolo

Revenge via the gridiron is satisfying but occasionally a team forgets that rivals differ and the Saturday squads of weeks to come can catch fire and burn a handwagon to the turf. The national football results this past week-end substantiated this claim and reminded one and all that predicting and pool-guessing with the leaders is tough.

After picking only eight for twelve, this scribe has to pass along and thank the Maryland Terps for their contribution and blame the losses on wet grounds or some other face-saving excuses.

Drexel has been labeled the team to beat and rightly so. The Swarthmore game attracted three Philadelphia scouts who will probably follow the Sho'men right up to their October 28th contest. Field power of the Drexel eleven can be determined by noting their 13-7 win over Gettysburg last week.

Keep an eye on that husky fullback Sam Greto tomorrow and for the rest of the season. This driving Choctaw star "is beginning to show the great promise" that Coach Montero predicted for him when he introduced the gridders to the Shore League. Few fans realized last season that this pigskin idolizer played the majority of his games under tape. If the medics stay away from his door, the Big "S" will roll.

The Shore eleven dedicated their Swarthmore win to a renowned fighting fullback who has teamed with the locals for the past two years. Late in the '49 season, a knee injury was suffered by this pigskimmer and a summer operation followed. The doctors advised this true lover of the sport, Jim Eiring, never to play football again.

Hopkins Bows To Legmen

The Atherneen returned Wednesday with their second win in as many starts as mighty Johns Hopkins bowed in the mud to the Shore legmen 3-2.

Early Rally Saves The Day
Late in the fourth period, a hands penalty was called against the Baltimore Bluejays who were leading 1-0. Captain Brower kicked a marker into the upper left corner on the Sho'men's free try to tie the score. The hustling eleven fought to set up a narrow margin of victory but the sharp Hopkins' goalie, Roesch, stopped shot after shot. Finally the local persistent effort "paid off", and Horn (O. R.) struck from the outside. Seconds later Hermannes scored a precision kick from Tiley and went on to net the Shoremen's third goal. Baltimorean Bonduits scored in the late minutes but the locals were not to be denied.

Score Not Indicative
The Atherneen topped the Baltimoreans by one point, although, the field play of the two clubs was not this close. The Hopkins' line played fair while the backs turned in a performance considered poor by most observers. The stellar, cat-like play of the day's goalie stood out along with the counter-halving of Williamson who exhibited a powerful left foot.

Sho' Standouts
Right half-back Vince Hungersford turned in an all-around good game for his squad. His consistency in kicking accurately brought many a comment from the fans while his speed raised additional eyebrows. As Buddy Brower replaced his uniform with a mud splatter, plays were set up. Crashing defense work by the captain also stopped many a ball from penetrating the defensive Shore structure.

Hopkins . . . . . 0 0 1 1-2

Quakers Plowed Under By Sho'men Fall Planting Score 32 To 0 Sat.

Washington College scored its second victory of the young season last Saturday by swamping Swarthmore (Pa.) College 32-0. The game was close for the first three quarters but in the final session Washington power was evident when the Sho'men tallied 28 points to break the contest wide open.

Face Setters
Joe Miller, sensational newcomer to the Shore, paced the Maroon and Black with 3 touchdowns while Ken Howard and Herb Eisenman contributed one apiece. John Wilson connected with 6 of 12 passes, one going for a score, and booted two extra points.

The Sho'men garnered their initial T. D. midway in the second quarter. Miller tallied from the Garnet 6-yard marker on the ancient Statue of Liberty play. For the rest of the first half the teams were stalemated, neither being able to get a scoring drive under way.

Late in the third period Miller took a 16-yard Wilson aerial for the second counter. Miller added

Athey's Booters Meet Mighty Bucknell Today

The Sho'men booters travel to Bucknell University today to tackle one of the strongest teams on the schedule this year. W. C.'s trusts would like nothing better than to take Bucknell for a win . . . the biggest win on the yet-young season.

Bucknell started its season last week-end by giving Penn State their warm-up game. Penn State, last year's national champion, thoroughly trounced Bucknell 11-2. The score should lead no one to think the team a pushover. Penn State is perhaps the country's best team and Bucknell gave them a better game than the score showed.

Washington College played Bucknell once before. In 1948 the Shoremen came up with a 2-1 triumph on Kibler Field. The squad is at its best since 1947 and this game is one of the "big tests" this season.

Pep Rally

A Varsity Club planned pep rally is scheduled for tonight in Bill Smith auditorium. The football team is expected to be there and Coach Montero will address the student body, Lee Cook, president, announced.

ed his third T. D. on a ten yard jaunt around left and two plays after the final period began. Wilson kicked the placement.

George Plocharkis recovered Dana Swan's fumble of a Wilson punt at the Swarthmore 11 to set up the fourth Washington tally. Four plays later Ken Howard slanted over tackle from the end yard line. Wilson again converted, and the score stood 26-0, Washington.

With a minute and 25 seconds remaining, defensive stand-out, Herb Eisenman, intercepted a Swan pitch and galloped 33 yards to the Quaker 12. In 3 carries Eisenman rammed over for the final touchdown.

Mid One Yard
In the statistics department, as in the scoring, the Sho'men held a wide edge over the Little Quakers. W. C. rolled up 242 yards on the ground and 157 via the air lanes. The defensive unit led by Jack Nacrelli and Joe Ingarrs, held Swarthmore to a net yardage of minus one (—1) rushing and a mere 14 yards passing.

Virginia Bone Crushers Out To Avenge 26-0 Defeat Of Last Year

The maroon clad Sho'men take the field tomorrow thrusting their scoreless, undefeated skins against a bone-crushing crew from Bridgewater who will try to avenge the 26-0 drubbing they took from the locals last year.

Harriers Win

The Washington College cross-country team scored an impressive victory last Monday on a rough, rain soaked Gallaudet College course by defeating the boys from the Capital city, 19 to 42.

Led By Dryden

Led by Captain Filmore Dryden, who won his race by a considerable margin, the team had little trouble winning its initial meet of the season. Second and third places went to Paul Becker and Tom Benson who are veterans of last year's squad. Gallaudet then placed two men, John Tiebiero and Boy Boley, followed by Jack McCollough, George Eikelberger, Elsworth Boyd and Bill Landan, all of Washington College. The remaining Gallaudet runners struggled in far behind.

Gallaudet Sets Fast Pace
The Gallaudet team set a fast pace at the outset of the three and one half-mile run. However, at the half-way mark Dryden gradually increased his stride and had no challengers for the remainder of the race. Tiebiero, the losers' number one man soon passed by Becker and Benson and the rest of the Maroon and Black aggregation close behind. Although several of the Sho'men became lost in the deep woods through which the course was run, they blazed new trails and rejoined the race, most of which was run in a steady rain.

To Meet Loyals

The harriers have been vigorously training all week for their toughest dual meet of the season tomorrow with Loyola College. Other members of the squad are Fred LaWall, Joe Capobianco, Chan Chapman, and Nicholas Garrett.

Enthusiasm on campus has reached a new peak what with John Wilson, Joe Miller and Ken Howard rolling on the T. D.'s, Bonnett, Gardner, Ingarrs, and Cannone playing great defensive ball.

T-Leader And T. D.s

Wilson, leading the team from the T-formation quarterback slot has scored two touchdowns already and passed for three more. John's punting also rates some mention. In four tries against Swarthmore last week he averaged 42.5 yards per punt.

The two year old Eagle squad will find an offensive line that will find Corbett at center flanked by Tuturiler and Metzger at guards. Callahan, the "heavy" of the line at 210, will team up with Dahl at tackles. The positions will be held down by Jenkins and Goret.

Co-captain, Bowers, directs the team from the quarterback position where he throws a lot of pignats. At the half-back spots will be Myers and Naylor with a freshman sensation, Roger, in reserve. Dick Dull will handle the fullbacking chores.

Pan-Hell Elects Miss Simpers As Advisor

At the last meeting of the Panhellenic Council on Tuesday evening, committees were established for the Panhellenic Tea on October 29. The three duties alternate among the sororities each year. This year Alpha Chi Omega is in charge of refreshments, Alpha Omicron Pi is in charge of decorations, and Zeta Tau Alpha will furnish the clean up committee.

It was also decided that there will be a luncheon given at Homecoming on November 11th by all the sororities for active and alumni members of the three groups.

Miss Simpers has been selected to serve in an advisory capacity to the Council. She resigned Dr. Massey who is now teaching at Winthrop College.

Students To Take Part In Local County Fair

A County Fair will be held by the Ladies Auxiliary for the benefit of the Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital on October 27th and 28th at the Chestertown Armory.

Featured on the agenda are a variety show, to be held Friday night; a pet show on Saturday afternoon; and a pageant entitled "The Progress of Time", which will take place Saturday evening.

A number of college students are expected to participate, which will include a country store; chance booth; arts and crafts booth; and an antique booth.

This will be the first County Fair put on by the Ladies' Auxiliary since the last war.

Admission is free.

Concert Presented By Town Group Oct. 6th

The Chester Concert Group presented its first performance of the 1950-51 season last Friday night, October 6, in the William Smith Auditorium on the Washington College campus. Featured on the program was the Quintet trio.

Season tickets, as well as individual concert tickets, had been on sale for some time, and the turnout was large, although not as big as had been anticipated.

The Quintet trio, composed of Thomas Wilt, flutist; Michele Wilt, pianist; and Carl Fassbauer, cellist, played a number of selections, including the "de camera" trios of the Baroque period, and the accompanied trios of Haydn.

RUSH RULES REVISED . . . Con'd.

scheduled formal party or school social function.

Rushes Must Have 12 Hours
b. A rusher is any man who has not completed twelve (12) semester hours of work at Washington College. (A transfer student who is a member of a national fraternity is not considered a rusher).

2. Fraternity men shall not stay overnight in Freshmen's rooms shall any freshman remain overnight in any fraternity house on the campus prior to Pledge Day.

1.00 Index For Initiation

a. No man shall be initiated into any fraternity who does not have a cumulative index of 1.00. He must have received credit for twelve (12) semester hours of work at Washington College and must be registered at least one semester in advance of pledging. This ruling does not apply to transfer members of a fraternity.

Pledge Index Of .75
b. A man who is a bid or pledge a man until he has attained at least a .75 index.

c. Any man who has an index of less than 1.00 and who pledges to any fraternity must raise his aggregate index to 1.00 or better by the end of the second succeeding examination period or he is automatically dropped as a pledge and cannot be repledged until he has attained an aggregate index of 1.00.

"Silence" To Be Announced

4. "Silence Period" will fall within the first grade period following the close of the first semester and will be announced by the Dean of Men with a notice on the official bulletin board not more than twelve hours before the beginning of the "Silence Period."

"Silence Period" shall be for 24 hours; the 24 hours preceding the deadline for the turning in of received bids by the rushers. The period will be from 5:00 P. M. Monday night until 5:00 P. M. the following Tuesday.

The fraternity presidents and Dean of Men shall determine the "Silence Period."

A list of men receiving bids will be posted by the Dean of Men at noon on Tuesday. The men on the list may enter the Dean's office at any time convenient to the Dean before 5:00 P. M. Tuesday. They must mark their bids "Accepted, Rejected or Undecided" before leaving the Dean of Men's office. Any necessary communications must be completed from the office of the Dean of Men. The Dean of Men will in turn notify the fraternities of the outcome of their bids. Any bids marked "Undecided" must be returned to the fraternity issuing it, whereupon it becomes void. A new bid to the man involved may be extended only after one month has passed. This period of a month will apply also to any other fraternity that may desire to extend the man a bid.

IFC To Handle Violations

During "Silence Period" no freshman shall speak to or have communication with any student affiliated with, in any capacity, a fraternity, that is, a member or pledge, under penalty of having his bid withdrawn for a year. The same silence must be maintained by the fraternity member or pledge in regard to freshmen. Violations will be handled by the IFC in accordance with Section 10.

b. Men who become eligible for pledging following the formal mid-year pledging (such as those who enter during February or those just attaining the necessary index) may have invitations extended to them without the formality of a silence period, but only after one month has elapsed.

5. Be it resolved that no fraternity on the Washington College campus will pledge a man within one year after he has been dropped on index or for any other account by a fraternity. Likewise, a man who has resigned his pledge ship may not join another fraternity until one calendar year has passed.

6. No man shall room in a fraternity house who is not an active member of that fraternity, except by the permission of the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Business Manager.

7. No rusher shall be obligated in any way to any fraternity prior to "Silence Period."

8. From the first Monday of classes until one week before scheduled examination period begins rushers will be permitted in the fraternity houses from 8:15 A. M. until 11:00 P. M. Sunday through Thursday. Friday and Saturday from 8:15 A. M. until 12:30 A. M.

9. Rushes will not be permitted in the fraternity houses for the period of one week before the scheduled examination period begins until the deadline for the turning in of received bids by the rushers.

Penalties For Violation

10. The penalty for the violation of any part of the above rules will be:

a. Violation of any rule by a fraternity man will result in the loss of up to one-half of the bids for Freshmen of that fraternity of which the violator is a member or pledge. The IFC will determine the number of bids to be lost. As an alternate penalty, self-imposed, the Fraternity involved may expel its member or members involved in the violation.

b. Violation by a rusher will result in the forfeiture of a bid from any fraternity for a period of one year, twelve months.

12. The Inter-Fraternity Council shall be responsible for making public the above rules for the benefit of Freshmen and fraternity men alike.

Sophomores Squeech Freshman Unrising

Freshman Bruehl Elected Alice From Wonderland At Sophomore Dance

Pat Bruehl, Freshman coed from Baltimore, was the surprise Alice from Wonderland at the Sophomore's Mad Hatter Dance Saturday night. Pat had been previously elected by the Sophomore class officers but her identity was kept a secret until the Mad Hatter, Mole Jamnigan, acting as master of ceremonies, presented her to the dancers.

Pat had to come through a rebuttle hole to face her public so that her entrance would conform with the general theme of Alice's trip to Wonderland. The rabbit at the doorway, the playing cards on the walls, and the silvery branches were all in keeping with Alice's dream and created a properly fantastic atmosphere.

Fun during the intermission was provided by Duke Case, Bill Russell, and Mole Jamnigan, who performed various comical skits, and by the judging of the "head" to choose from" hats.

Mel Littleton and Jane Mills won the part for the cleverest idea with their ball and chain chapeaux and received an appropriate rolling-pin as a reward. Margie Wilding's creation was judged the most original, and Dick Skipp's the funniest. Mackey Metcalf also won a prize, a baby bib, for being the first to guess Alice's identity. The judges included Dr. Clark, Coach Dim Montero and Sophomore President John Grim.

The Sophomores received many compliments for their ingenuity in decorating and the perseverance shown in selling tickets for this dance which began the social season of the first semester.

Alpha Omegas Open Nu House

The Alpha Omegas Nu Fraternity formally initiated the fraternity's first season last Sunday afternoon with the first Open House of the year.

The affair was well attended by faculty members, students, and parents. Guests were conducted through the house while a variety of refreshments were served.

The local fraternity moved into its new quarters this past September. The house, previously used as a men's dormitory known as "Jones Hall", has been completely overhauled through the combined efforts of the chapter and the College administration. The improvements included the removal of two wall partitions, an interior repainting job, and the laying of new tile floors in the front room.

Officers of the fraternity for the year include Benjie Rude, President; Sid Bare, Vice-President; Bill Truett, Secretary; and Paul Saffell, Treasurer.

IFC To Hold H. C. Queen Elections

The Interfraternity Council will sponsor the election of the Homecoming Queen and her Court, it was announced this week by Sunny Larimore, President of IFC. This popular contest was begun by IFC three years ago and has become an annual affair.

The program for 1950 is similar to the past system and operates as follows: As now set up, there will be a Queen, who must be a Senior, Junior, or Sophomore; two other girls, also upperclassmen, who will be on the Queen's Court; and one Freshman girl, also on the Court.

The Queen and the two upperclass girls elected to her court will be named as upperclass students. The Freshman representative will be chosen by the Freshman class at a separate voting booth.

In the nomination, or primary, election, to be held Tuesday, October 20, upperclassmen will vote for the girls of their choice simply by writing the girl's name on the ballot. The three girls with the highest number of votes will be the contestants for the Crown. The girl in the Freshman class receiving the highest number of votes will automatically become a member of the Queen's Court. There will be no run-off election in the Freshman class.

On Tuesday, November 7, upperclassmen will again go to the polls and elect one of the three girls nominated in the primary to reign over the Homecoming.

The results of the election will be published in the Elm on Friday, November 10, Homecoming Eve.

SENIOR ANNOUNCEMENT

In order that the Grannary may make the necessary arrangements all Seniors who plan to attend the Clew banquet at the Grannary Wednesday, November 1, are requested to sign the list posted on the Snack Bar bulletin board.

Pegasus To Photograph Group And Single Pixs Monday And Tuesday

A professional photographer will be on the campus Monday and Tuesday, October 23rd and 24th to take pictures for the PEGASUS. Photographing at 11:00 A. M. on Monday and 8:00 A. M. on Tuesday.

Photography schedules will be posted in Hodson Hall, the Snack Bar, fraternity houses, and in the sorority rooms. The PEGASUS staff urges everyone to check these schedules carefully in order to be in at least one picture. Anyone who cannot possibly be present when they are scheduled to be photographed should contact Larry Westcott as soon as possible so that the change in schedule may be made. It is essential that everyone be on time for their appointments. Students will be excused from classes only for the five or ten minutes required to take the pictures.

The following is the general procedure for photographs. For a detailed list, see the posted schedules. Certain organization pictures will be taken on Monday morning. After lunch, class pictures will be taken on the football field. Monday afternoon, those fraternity and sorority members who were not photographed last year will have their formal pictures taken.

Tuesday morning beginning at 8:30 A. M., the senior pictures will be taken in the projection room in the bottom of the library. These will be taken all day until the last senior is photographed.

Thursday afternoon, October 26th, the rest of the organizations will be photographed on the Library steps beginning at 1:15 P. M. If it rains on Thursday they will be taken on Friday or on the next clear week-day.

Senior Class Will Give

Sadie Hawkins Again

The Senior Class will again sponsor the traditional Sadie Hawkins Dance, it was announced today by Sandy Jones, President of the Class.

The dance will be held in the Hodson lounge Saturday, November 18. A unique feature of the dance is that the girls ask the boys for dates and pay all expenses. The dance is the most informal of the year as blue jeans, L.I. Abners and checkered Daisy Maes are the order of the day.

Graduation Plans

At a meeting last Tuesday the class voted to retain the Latin diploma as well as the traditional hood at their Commencement exercises, June 3, 1951. Arrangements have been made for the formal Commencement announcements, and they may be ordered through the bookstore. Arrangements are also being made for the procurement of caps and gowns. Details will be announced later.

Freshmen Hold Secret Meeting In Foxwell To Overthrow Soph Rule

Freshman hazing reached an all time high on the Washington College campus last week when a group of Frosh, took matters into their own hands, and refused to obey the "ratting" regulations. The Sophs had things well in hand by the beginning of this week, however, according to an authoritative spokesman for the Sophomore class.

United Nations Talks

Sponsored For Forensic

On Thursday night, October 19 in the Recreation Room of Hodson Hall, the Forensic Society sponsored a symposium entitled "The United Nations in Review."

Featured on the program were three members of the Washington College faculty: Mr. Jack W. Henry, Assistant Professor of History; Mr. Peter P. Jontia, Professor of Sociology and Economics; and Mr. Edward R. Padgett, Assistant Professor of Political Science and History.

The primary objective of this symposium was to determine just how far the United Nations had gone in the last five years in achieving their original hopes of peace, freedom, and well-being for all mankind.

Refreshments were served after the regular program.

Dr. Gibson Talks Before Rotary

The Chestertown Rotary Club entertained the Washington College faculty on Monday evening, October 16, at dinner at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of the College, addressed the group. He pointed out that the College has a rich tradition of leadership. Quoting from a letter of George Washington, written in 1789, to the Board of Visitors and Governors, Dr. Gibson cited this passage as indicative of the dream of the future of the country concerning the College:

"It affords me peculiar pleasure to know that the Seat of Learning under your direction hath attained to such proficiency in the sciences since the Peace; and I sincerely pray the great Author of the Universe may amble upon the Institution, and make it an extensive blessing to this country."

Dr. Gibson then spoke of the progress made by the College through the years and the ways in which this dream had been fulfilled. The speaker also pointed out, however, that there are certain ways in which the dream may be said to lack fulfillment. Among the needs of the College as President Gibson sees them at present, he mentioned greater financial support, more talented dormitories, larger female enrollment, etc. (Continued on Page 4)

The Frosh determined to attempt their rebellion at a secret meeting held Thursday night, October 12 in Foxwell Hall, at which the majority of the Freshmen boys were present. The Sophomores knew nothing of this move until Friday morning, when large groups of Frosh were seen without their "rat" caps and name tags.

This, in itself, did not excite the wrath of the Sophs too greatly; but when only a few Freshmen turned up for the pep rally on Friday night, feelings flared high among Sophomores and upperclassmen both.

Armed with paddles borrowed from the fraternity houses, and aided by members of the Varsity Club, the Sophomores raided Foxwell Hall, turned Freshmen rooms topsy-turvy, and literally dragged Frosh from their principal stronghold up to Cain Hall, where the pep rally was still in progress.

Monday morning, October 16, committees from both the Frosh and the Sophs met with the Dean of Men, Dr. Charles B. Clark, and, with the threat of disciplinary action hanging over them, the Freshmen capitulated and agreed to abide by the terms of the Sophomore Committee on Hazing.

A member of this committee stated that Freshmen who had participated in the rebellion would have severe penalties meted out to them.

W. C. Is Invited To Attend Country Fair At Armory

Students and faculty members are invited to contribute to the Chestertown County Fair of October 27 and 28 any piece of art, handicraft, or anything you would like to sell. Sales made on the articles will return to the donor 80 percent of the profit. The other 20 percent will be given to the Kent County Hospital.

Objects are to be taken to the Armory on Friday, October 27 between 10 and 12 A. M., to be accepted in time for the fair.

All men who receive orders to active duty in the armed services of the United States should take the steps indicated in previous issues of the ELM. In addition, it is requested by Mr. Dumschott that all such men notify the Business Office in writing of the date of his departure from the campus.

If questions arise relating to matters of draftees and reservists, consult the Dean of Men who will find the answers for you if he does not already have them.

A DOG'S LIFE

The pride and joy of Washington College—the object of a thousand practical jokes—the black-haired friend who will never pass a blue book nor will he flunk one—and the only one who can get away with open stealing in the Snack Bar. If you don't know now, you never will, it's Albert, the very congenial canine that is everyone's best friend.

Albert, however, is a chameleon type animal in that he has a different name for each of his friends and to call him. Through thorough research and questioning Albert himself, it has been found that Albert's real name is Pepper, but you could call him Joe and he would come running like you were a long lost friend.

There's something about this insatiable black dog that has captured the hearts of all Washingtonians, particularly those who spend a great deal of time in the Snack Bar. He is notorious for stealing your donuts while you are getting your second cup of coffee and for wagging his tail under the table, upsetting books and all the dishes, but everyone still likes him. The Forensic sponsored Political Ball on a Thursday night has it, have also interested the "dog of a thousand names." At the latest meeting in the interest of politics, Albert made a grand entrance on to the stage, mistook the stage curtains for a fire plug and policy left the forum.

Albert has a terrific school spirit except that he fraternizes too freely with the opposing team's mascot. He viewed the Swarthmore - W. C. game in the company of a big white animal from Philadelphia. It has been said that Albert is in on all the secret plays of the football team. We hope he uses his head while in such company. The score seemed to prove that however.

As for Albert's personal life . . . we know he eats Red Heart Dog Food along with the congregation of food from the Snack Bar and Hodson Hall. (He wears a Red Heart tag that may be gotten for 25¢ and a wrapper). He also has a crooked tail that some have heard tell was caught in a screen door. He likes to get up early . . . Bob Jackson and Mel Littlehead will vouch for that . . . he used to be their personal alarm clock. He doesn't get along too well with goats as was witnested the day the Animal Show came to Chestertown. He took one look at "Billy" . . . and flew the other way.

Albert, or Pepper, or whatever you want to call him . . . may have lots of faults, but he is a good sport, has a wonderful sense of humor and we would really miss him if he ever decided to take a post graduate course somewhere else.

WHAT'S NEW?

NOTICE: IN THE SNACK BAR YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY EXTRA FOR RYE.

Congratulations to Pat Bruhl on being Freshman Queen at the dance Saturday night. She was a wile choice.

"Moos," I'm sorry I didn't know your name was such a deep, dark secret.

Orchids to the Nu's for their terrific Open House on Sunday. Jones Hall certainly has improved! Orchids, also, to the Sophomores for their decorations at the dance, the best this gal's seen in a long time.

John Stewart how's the "Clark Bar" these days?

We hear that Mel Morgan is weeping in his beer over a broken heart. Too bad that LITTLE Freshman gals fall for track stars.

Wayne's laundry business is growing by leaps and bounds—you see he Lays things just beautifully.

"Do" really had herself quite a birthday party the other night; in fact it was so good that everyone was in clover.

"Edu", honey-chile, was is your story?

Erno's literary accomplishments during the wee hours of the morning certainly are outstanding. We have that Iron lung ordered for you, Steno, just say the word and it's yours.

That's all for now—"Mom, take me home!"

DR. CLARK ADDRESSES

Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men and Head of the Department of History and Political Science, was guest speaker before the Women's Club of Denton, Mary-

Senior Of . . . .
. . . . The Week

Oren Robinson or "Robbie" (as he is better known) lived in Vienna, Maryland, until the autumn of 1947 when he entered W. C. and became a resident of Water Street in Chestertown.

"Robbie" might be leaving us soon. It seems that the 11th Air-bourne feels that they may need him again. So despite the efforts of Dr. Gibson, Dr. Clark and Dean Livingston, Robbie is scheduled to leave W. C. this week. During his stay here he has majored in History, minored in English, been active in Sigma Sigma Omicron, the student academic honor society, and is this year's president. For two summers he has been student assistant in the department of history and political science. This year he was awarded the faculty "senior scholarship." This award is made by a vote of the faculty on the basis of scholarship, intellectual promise, personality and character.

Robbie also belongs to the married set on campus, claiming a pretty brunette wife and a 1½ year old daughter. He has spent "pro" baseball with the Brooklyn Dodgers' farm club . . . a recent arm injury will prevent him following up any big league tendencies.

We hope you stay here, Robbie, but just in case you can't—best of luck and success from everyone at W. C.

From The Files

One Year Ago This Week

The Dean of Men's Council was reactivated after a two year absence from the "Hill."

The Sho' eleven journeyed to Bridgewater for their initial win of the season after two losses and one tie.

Five Years Ago This Week

President Truman's tentative acceptance of an offer to visit W. C. for the 1946 commencement exercises was announced by Dr. Mead.

The Washington Players announced plans for three one-act plays that will be given in the near future.

There were fifteen gals who tried out for cheerleading for the basketball season.

Ten Years Ago This Week

Thirty-seven men registered downtown for the draft. (Ed. Note—History seems to be repeating itself).

Permission was given, by the local high school, for inter-school soccer aspirants to practice on its field any time after 4:00 P. M. The cast for "Our Town" was announced by the Washington Players.

Club Corner

Plans Proposed To Merge Three Clubs

At the last business meeting of the Forensic Society it was proposed to merge both the proposed Sociology Club and the Economics Club into the Forensic Society as a separate division.

This suggestion was made by Dr. Charles B. Clark, faculty advisor to the Forensic Society, who pointed out that there were already a great surplus of organizations on the campus, and such a merger could greatly help bring up the Forensic enrollment.

As yet, no definite action has been taken on it; but it is expected that something will be done within the next two weeks.

Fred Nixon, President of the Society, also announced yesterday that John Bylund has been appointed Vice-President in charge of debate. This position had been vacant since John Woodfield enlisted in the Army Air Force.

Canterbury Club
To Hold Dance

The Canterbury Club has announced plans for an informal dance to be held in Hodson Hall November 3. Committees have been appointed under the chairmanship of Grace Isloe.

At a meeting of the Club last Tuesday Clyde Roney and Paul Empe led a discussion on "Marriage in the Church." The group plans to meet October 24 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rathje.

Art Club Formed
Elects Officers

The newly formed Art Club has elected officers for the coming year. They are: Mole Janigan, President; Peggy Brimer, Vice-President; and Jane Mills, Secretary-Treasurer. The Club is under the sponsorship of Dr. Walter Voelker.

The purpose of this new club is to further the expression of the artistic abilities of the students. They have set up a studio to be used for this purpose in the old radio room in William Smith Hall.

Officers For
G. I. A. A. Elected

Officers for the Girls' Interclass Athletic Association were chosen at a meeting held on Monday, October 16, 1950. Mackey Metcalfe is the newly elected President, Mickey Olt, Vice-President; and Sue Weber, Secretary.

Representatives to the Board of Managers were also selected. The two Senior members are Edith Ann Ivens and Elmoir Gustafson. The latter was elected due to the absence of an eligible Senior member. The two Junior members are Kay Helge Ahrens and Jackie Gress. Pat Bowes is the Sophomore representative, and Jo Rudl the Freshman member. There are also three members at large, who are this year Lynn Hamilton, Mickey Ross, and Jane Miller.

Conference Toughies Tussle Tomorrow, Macon Homecoming Test For Sho'men

By Joel Guandolo

New coaches, homecoming, spirited rebels and lightning brown face the Sho'men tomorrow with one thought in mind—defeat.

Statistics fail to show the power massed below the Macon-Dixon line. A five point league win over C. U. last week is not indicative as the Yellow Jackets were in the process of changing from a two platform system to the old eleven man - 60 minute game. Montero, aware of the threat to his undefeated team, has had the Sho'men working well into the night for the past week. Hour after hour of hand offs and fakes was the lot of the gym clad gridders. As the week ends, perfection seemed certain to grace the carefully planned Montero strategy. The Shore team is ready but anything can happen in a homecoming game.

Now that the boards have been warmed, Athey's version of the '51 Flying Pentagon can start practicing. Cage drill starts this Monday afternoon for all varsity candidates. To date only one scrimmage has been scheduled. The squad will travel to Annapolis on December 1st to meet mighty Navy. Other preseason contests will undoubtedly be played up and down the Shore in preparation for what promises to be a banner year.

The energetic freshmen take to the woods Monday in search of bonfire material for the homecoming week-end, November 11th. From all reports, it is going to be the biggest and "hottest" yet.

The so called "games of skill" printed on technicolor cards and peddled nationally by the shadowy guy who's always in a hurry are hitting the sucker jackpot again this year. Neophytes and experts pay their quarters, dollars or what have you and guess away trying to beat the syndicates. These Friday morning quarterbacks have pushed the Monday morning alibies into the background. Campus backers as well as office workers keep the illegal ball rolling from year to year while the syndicate-boys retire to their mansions.

(Ed. note.—F. B. I. agents broke up the largest football, card-pool syndicate in the country eight hours after this column had been written.)

Congratulations are in order for Indians Rip Wood and Jack Jackson (see story) who were honored this week by the All-American Lacrosse committee.

All-Star Lacrosse Team Picked; Wood On, J. Jackson Mentioned

Two Washington College Lacrosse stars of the 1950 team that won ten of thirteen games have been named to the 1950 All-American Squad, as recently announced by the U. S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association.

Ray Wood, star attackman for the Shoremen for the last three seasons, was picked on the third team close attack to team up with Oliver "Corky" Shepard of the Johns Hopkins collegiate championship team, and Rod Boyce of Duke University. Indicating the improvement in play in 1950 is the fact that Shepard, a first team choice in 1949, was a third string choice in 1950. Other members of the team on which Wood was picked were Adams of Hopkins, Meyer of Army, and Cody of Syracuse at midfield; Guilford of Duke, Maladowitz of Army, and Murphy of Maryland at defense; and O'Connell of Williams at Goal.

Jack Jackson, center on the W. C. 1950 team, was given honorable mention on the All-American squad. Jackson is now studying Law at the University of Maryland.

In commenting upon the selection of Wood and Jackson, Coach Charley Clark stated that he was delighted this recognition had come to two very deserving players. He added that he was convinced Wood's play could earn him a regular berth on any team in the country, and that had been a tribute to one of the big "name" teams in Lacrosse he would be first-string All-American. With another season to play, Wood still has a chance to win higher recognition. Based upon their play last season, several other members of the local squad will be gunning for recognition next spring, Coach Clark stated.

First team All-American positions went to Clements of W. & L. at goal; Ryan of Navy, Bunting of Hopkins, and Yellott of Yale at defense; Sandell of Hopkins, Fuller of Syracuse, and Coons of RPI at midfield; and Hooper, of Virginia, Powell of RPI, and Hahn of Princeton at attack.

Bridgewater Fails To Score As Monteromen Win Third Contest

The Washington College Sho'men garnered their third successive victory of the current campaign by trouncing Bridgewater (Vt.) College 31-0 last Saturday at Kibler Field.

Sam Greto and Joe Miller led the touchdown parade with two markers apiece while Bernie O'Connell chipped in with one. Miller's scores came on passes from Little John Wilson while Greto's were on bucks of 1 and 5 yards, respectively. O'Connell registered by covering Miller's fumble in the end zone. The Maroon and Black had 3 T. Ds. called back for rule infractions.

Greto opened the scoring with a 1 yard plunge on the tenth play of the game and from then on the issue was never in doubt. Scores ended later Jack Fredricks pounced on Bower's fumble at the B. C. 44 yard line, and the Monteromen were on the move again. Miller put the pigskin in scoring position with a 32 yard run, then made a leaping catch of Wilson's aerial for a touchdown.

Wilson and Miller combined to set up another score early in the second period. O'Connell fell on Miller's fumble in the end zone for the tally. With one minute remaining in the first half Greto countered from 5 yards out to cap a 53 yard drive. Wilson's placement made the score 27-0. Wilson passed to Miller for the final T. D. the play covering 60 yards.

The defensive unit, as in previous games, played inspired ball, holding Bridgewater to 27 yards rushing and 26 passing.

Dryden Sets M-D Record As Shoremen Bow Sat.

The Loyola College cross-country team defeated the Maroon and Black here last Saturday by a closely contested score of 27 to 30.

However, individual honors went to Filmore Dryden who set a new course record while winning his second consecutive dual meet victory of the season. The winner's time of 19 minutes, 11 seconds, erased the old M-D mark set here last year by Larry Brandenburg when he led Washington College to victory over Caldwell. Dryden pulled away from all competition at the 2 mile mark of the 3.8 mile grind, and sprinted the last one yards of the race.

Competitive Kick

Running one of the finest races of the afternoon was Tom Benson who kicked past George Benadino of Loyola to gain second place honors for the house team. John Colburn and Joe Paszek were fourth and fifth for the Green and Gray while Paul Becker of Wash-

Dual "T" Offensives Supported By Top Lines. M-D Records Equal Now.

The maroon and black clad warriors of W. C. boarded the bus this morning in fine spirits and embarked on their journey to Ashland, Virginia, where they tangle with Randolph-Macon's Yellow Jackets tomorrow afternoon.

The scores of previous games played this year definitely established the locals as pre-game favorites. While they have rallied to consecutive victories over Lyeomington, Swartmore, and Bridgewater, the Macons have been set back in three out of four encounters. After dropping three in a row to Richmond, Apprentice School, and Florida State U., they bounded back last week to edge Catholic U. (Wash. D. C.) 26-21.

The Yellow Jacket coaching staff has been striving to field a line-up that will prove equally effective on offense as on defense. To quote head coach Paul Scriven: "We tried the two platform system and it didn't seem to work for us. From now on, we will field the best eleven on the club and keep them in there regardless of who has the ball." (From the "Yellow Jacket" of Oct. 13, 1950).

The loss of leftbacks Spike Gray and Johnny Tkach, who were injured two weeks ago when the lemon and black were thumped by Florida State, 40-7, was a serious blow. Gray, first string right-half was out with a separated shoulder but returned unexpectedly to meet C. U. Tkach, a stand-out on both offense and defense, may be out for the season with a torn knee cartilage. When these starters are absent, Brockwell (185 lbs.) and Shiftlett (196 lbs.) teams up at halves. Keller, an 18 year old, will direct the squad from quarter and Begor, a newcomer, will do the line plunging.

Veteran Line
Six veterans will hold down the line positions: ends, Wilson and Johnson; tackles, Broadlove and Stanley; center, Nelkirk; and guard, Depreese. The only freshman in the line is left-guard John Giles.

Sho' Shifting

A. O. Pi Sponsor Dance Friday

Alpha Omicron Pi is sponsoring a Halloween dance next Friday, October 28, in Hodson Hall immediately following the pep rally.

Admission for the dance will be 25 cents stag or drag, and tickets will be sold at the door. There will be refreshments available for those who wish to purchase them. The feature attraction of the dance is a floor show being planned under the supervision of Mackey Metcalfe, chairman of the entertainment committee. The Washington College Can-Can Chorus has been working on a new routine for this year's performance. There will also be a new surprise attraction from New Jersey.

All proceeds from the dance are to be given to the Kent County Hospital for the purchase of new equipment.

pansion of the Department of Music, and the creation of a vital Department of Art. The President said he did not consider mere "bigness" a goal but that he would stress increased facilities and quality of accomplishment in the work of this college of liberal arts, part of the value of which was in its small size and its ability to produce leaders.

Dr. Gibson pointed out that most of the aid received from the State of Maryland goes to individual students, since it is awarded in the form of scholarships.

Mr. Orville Wright introduced the speaker; Mr. Parks Raslin presided. Mr. Carl Hoffmann outlined the purpose of Rotary. Mr. Switzer led the group in singing and Miss Russell played the piano. The members of the Club and of the faculty introduced themselves around the table and lingered afterwards for informal conversation.

Almost all of the assembly dates for this semester are closed, according to Dr. Smith, Administrative Assistant to the President, who arranges the schedule.

Organizations wishing to take responsibility for an assembly period should contact Dr. Smith now to reserve a date next Semester. All spot announcements to be made in assembly should be cleared through Dr. Smith who arranges the program each Thursday for President Gibson.

Soccerites Took Bucknell Friday, Star M.-D. Opponents On Tap

W. C. Topples Bucknell
In Last 30 Seconds

The traveling booters proved that Friday the 13th wasn't too lucky for the Sho'men at last when they handed mighty Bucknell a 2-1 loss.

It seemed as if Bucknell was going to have things their way. Pennsylvanians scored before five minutes had elapsed. This, their only goal, proved to be all the Sho'men needed to spark their defense.

The middle part of the second period found the Shoremen "pressing" in order to tie their hosts. Walt Ortel initiated the score with an out-of-bounds kick that Doug Tilley banged into the net with his head. The half ended 1-1.

Defense Held
The third period failed to change the scoreboard record. At the outset of the fourth, it was evident that Bucknell was determined to score. Time and again the Sho' defense stood its ground and repelled the attempted invasions.

Thirty Second Win
The tie stood and thirty seconds remained when speedy George Horn (WC) slipped behind the defense and passed to a "center-field-net" trio. The first man, Hernandez, kicked a "beast" for the score—the game—and a upset.

VARSITY INITIATION

Nineteen new men have met the two varsity level requirements and will be initiated into the Varsity Club Monday night at 9:00 P. M.

Athemen Face Two Conference Foes

The local booters take to the "field" at Westminster tomorrow to defend their unmarked record against the Green Terrors' of Western Maryland.

A follow up is slated with Loyola of Baltimore in Chestertown Tuesday.

With the recent Bucknell victory under their belts, the Athemen feel confident as they take on their toughest M-D Conference opponents. The most important factor in the play of the legmen is the line-play. Sho'man Tilley seems to have found his mark and works nicely with the other potent line-men. Good halfbacking throughout the season has been featured, what with Hungerford being the most improved soccerite since last season. The inexperienced under-defense is developing, while Butch "what's-your-name?" McHugh is beginning to look like a polished goalie.

day in order to iron out the rough edges that are always cropping up on the "T". Quarterbacks Wilson and Magliocchetti have mastered the tricky "T" handoffs and fakes. Halfbacks Howard, Cingria and Eisenman are cutting nicely. Miller, the Sho'men's high scorer, missed practice for three days due to appendix trouble, however, the stellar halfback is a good bet to start Saturday. Fullback Greto seems to run harder and step higher every day.

Line Legend
The conference's leading seven-man-wall has sharpened their offensive blocking and show promise of repeating their terrific defensive performance of the past three weeks.

Turnabout???
This encounter is a turnabout from last year. W. C. played host to R.-M. last Homecoming Day and came out victorious. This year R.-M. is the host at Homecoming.

New Cheerleaders

Two new cheerleaders have been added to the squad, having completed a six weeks' training course given by the regular members.

The new squad will take last night at the Pep Rally to see the Sho'men off before their game with Randolph-Macon. Their next workout will be at a rally for the Drexel contest.

Sigma Sigma Omicron Inducts New Members

Sigma Sigma Omicron, the local scholastic honor society, took in five new members at this Thursday's assembly. The new members are: Bedford Groves from Cheltenham with an index of 2.84; Frank Gundersley of Pandemonia, Md., 2.83; Betty Irene Iyent of Cheltenham, 2.71; Alexandra Reeder of Baltimore, 2.80; and Agnes Torosian of Cambridge, Md. with 2.33.

Only juniors and seniors with an accumulative index of 2.25 or better are eligible for membership in S.S.O. Its present officers are: President, William Orem Robinson; Vice-President, Roger Smith; Treasurer, Ruth Roe; Mrs. Winifred Opperud serves as the group's secretary and Dr. Chas. Clark as its faculty advisor.

Members of S.S.O. have the privilege of unlimited cuts and are exempted from taking final examinations the last semester of their senior year. Once a year the society sponsors a speaker in William Smith Hall. It also maintains a file of catalogs from all major graduate schools for the convenience of students. S.S.O.'s motto is "Service through scholarship."

The new members were entertained at a party in Reid Hall on Wednesday night before their induction.

Annual Psychological Examination

The annual psychological examination of all students above freshman classification will be given at 11:15 on Thursday, November 2, during the regular assembly period. Students will report promptly at 11:15 to the room indicated for the class.

Juniors—Rooms 20, 21 and 25, William Smith Hall.

Sophomores—Rooms 30, 31 and 34, William Smith Hall. All transfer students will take the test with their respective classes even though they have taken the Freshmen Test.

The test results are an essential part of the permanent record of each student. Failure to take the test at the time specified will involve the regular fee for missed examinations.

Lit. Society Campaigns For Scoreboard

The Mt. Vernon Literary Society is sponsoring a campaign to provide a scoreboard for Kilfer Field. Tentative plans for the project were made at the Society's last meeting on October 18.

The Nettle Lumber Company has agreed to supply all the lumber, metal and paint needed for the construction of the scoreboard. It is hoped that one of the large oil companies will donate a tank for the project. A considerable sum, however, will be required to cover the cost of labor, lights and other electrical fixtures. Contributions for the scoreboard will be solicited from the student body either individually or through the various clubs on campus. If possible the scoreboard will be completed in time for dedication at Homecoming.

Inquiries are also being made into the possibilities of the Mt. Vernon Society sponsoring the Sausage, the campus literary annual, as well as backing the return performance of the Barber Theatre.

The speaker at the last meeting was Mr. Edward Brulaker of the English department. His topic was Elizabethan tragedy. In his talk he traced the contribution of Marlowe's conception of a hero-will to the great Shakespearean tragedies.

Class Periods Shortened; Effective November 1

At the Faculty Meeting on October 23, the faculty voted to reduce the length of class periods from 55 minutes to 50 minutes and to provide a five-minute interval between classes. This change will become effective on Wednesday morning, November 1.

Since there will be a delay in resetting the bell clock, classes will open at the same time as at the present. They will be dismissed, however, 5 minutes before the last bell, i.e., morning classes will convene at 15 minutes past the hour and conclude at 5 minutes past the hour. Afternoon classes will convene on the half hour and conclude at 29 minutes past the hour.

Reserve Calls, Enlistees Deplete Student Ranks

Uncle Sam is taking his toll at Washington College students slowly but surely. Six of the students enrolled since the 1950-51 year have either enlisted or have been recalled into the armed services.

The Marine Corps is taking the largest number through the Reserves and has called Dick Skipp, Maury Paschall and Buddy Williams. Those who have enlisted in the various branches are Jack Woodfield, the Army Air Corps, Jack Cockey in the Army and the only girl so far, Teri Lindsay, in the WAVES.

Orem Robinson was about to go last week has been deferred until February.

Many of the men on campus have reported joy their physicals and have received deferment until June of next year.

An encouraging sign was offered this week to the reservists on campus by General Marshall, Secretary of

Barbara Stone

Students Elect H. C. Court On Tuesday

The Homecoming Queen will be nominated and her court elected Tuesday when all students go to the polls in Bill Smith lobby.

Freshmen will elect a Freshman girl as their representative. All upperclassmen will also cast ballots, and the three upperclass girls receiving the largest number of votes will be candidates for the title of Queen. Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores will again vote Tuesday, November 7, to elect the Queen from among the three nominees. All results will be published in the Elm.

Pictured is Miss Barbara Stone, who was elected Queen last year. She will take part in the half-time ceremonies of the Homecoming Game with the Catholic University, November 11. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, will crown the Queen at that time. This will climax the mid-game ritual.

Other Homecoming Queens of recent years expected to be present are Mary Ellen Ivory, 1948, and Beth Wilmer, 1947. The former is now employed in social work in Baltimore; the latter is teaching school in Washington, D.C.

A basketball clinic will be held in Cain Gymnasium Saturday Oct. 28. Over 300 high school students and instructors are expected to attend. The program will feature talks and demonstrations.

Defense. He has ordered the Army, Navy and Air Force to release all reservists and National Guardsmen who are on active duty involuntarily as soon as their training is adequate and they can be replaced by draftees or volunteers. The order was in a memorandum calling for clarification or reserve pools.

The armed forces were also ordered to give reservists not facing imminent call to active duty at least four months' notice of calls unless there is a material change in military requirements. As that reservist must receive at least thirty days' notice before being called for service and reporting for duty and reservists who are not due to be called soon must be so notified.

The memorandum grew out of recommendations made by a special committee of the civilian component policy board named to study reports of injustices and inequities in the calling up of reservists who were being discriminated against by employers.

Is Designed To Raise Funds

Stunt Night, a popular program on many college campuses, will make its appearance at Washington College December 7.

The affair, sponsored by the Football Scholarship Committee of the Interfraternity Council, is designed to raise funds for a scholarship to be awarded a deserving athlete selected by the Athletic Association. Some money has already been raised from the profits of the concession stands which operate at home games.

Prizes, stunts, and demonstrations will be performed by the various fraternities, societies, organizations and individuals. They will be judged on a basis of originality and effectiveness by a jury of five, including three faculty members and two non-campus members of the jury will be selected soon.

Valuable prizes will be awarded for the best program and will include loving cups and trophies. It is hoped by making that this will inaugurate an annual Stunt Night at Washington College.

Circulars and letters will be distributed containing rules concerning type of stunts, maximum expense, time allowed and other provisions.

Turnout For Banquet Good

Sixty members are planning to attend the banquet at the Gansway, Wednesday, November 8. They will leave from the parking lot behind Bill Smith at 6 P.M. Those seniors who have volunteered the use of their cars are requested by Bob Williams, Transportation Chairman, to be in the parking area at that time in order that all planning to attend will be assured of rides.

The dinner will be served promptly at 7 P.M. Tickets ($20.00 each) may be purchased in the Book Store or from Buddy Brower, as late as Wednesday afternoon. Any Senior who is planning to attend and has not signed the list in the Snack Bar is urged to do so no later than Saturday.

The Education observation trip to Wilmington will not conflict with the Banquet. Dr. Knapp stated, Students will be able to leave Wilmington by 3:30 P.M. at the latest, and should be on campus in plenty of time.

Floor Show Featured At AOP Dance Friday

The AOP's presented a dance in Haddon Hall Friday, immediately following the pep rally. Decorations for the dance were based on a Halloween theme.

Plans have been completed for the floor show, which will be the feature attraction of the evening. In addition to the Washington College couples, Haddon Hall will have a Charleston, and a "Laidy in Red" will present her number. Admission is 25 cents stag or drag.

Tickets for the Annual Homecoming Dance to be held at the Armory, November 11, may be obtained from any Variety Club member. Price of the tickets is $17.50 each—$3.50 per couple, it was announced by Jim Eames, chairman of the Ticket Committee. The Variety Club traditionally sponsors the semi-formal dance, one of the biggest of the year.

Dane Visits Campus

On Monday, October 23, the College was visited by Mr. Harald Munkholm Perceon who is Principal of the High School in Holstebro, Denmark. Mr. Perceon was selected by the National Education Association of the United States to spend one month in this country as the guest of the N.E.A. in a study of our educational system. As part of his visit to this campus he toured the buildings, attended a class in French, and had lunch in Haddon Hall.

He arrived in New York City only a week ago and has spent his time since then in New York and Washington. At present he is the guest of Mr. Reade Crow, Superintendent of the Kent County Schools. He expects to spend the greater part of his time in the United States in Madison, Wisconsin.

Dean Livingood Speaks At Psychological Conference

Dean F. G. Livingood was speaker and participated in a panel discussion on the Training of Clinical Psychologists at a conference held on October 20 at Rockland State Hospital, Orangeburg, N. Y., and Letchworth Village, Thibault. The discussion was part of the fifteenth anniversary program of intern training for clinical psychologists for New York State Hospitals.

This conference was sponsored by the Psychological Services program, New York State Department of Mental Hygiene. Rockland State Hospital is the fourth largest mental hospital in the world with 7,000 inmates, while Letchworth Village colony for the feeble minded with 4,100 inmates. These two institutions were the initial sponsors of the intern training program for clinical psychologists. The program has now been extended to all New York State Hospitals, and is being used as a model by other states providing intern programs for the training of clinical psychologists.

Naval Officer Inspects Facilities

Lieutenant Commander H. J. Brown, Assistant Director of Training, 3d Naval District, Norfolk, Virginia, was a campus visitor this week.

His visit was a result of the Educational Mobilization Conference held last week in Washington, D.C. While here he inspected the facilities of the college in regard to the possibility of establishing a Naval Training Program here in the future. Previously a questionnaire had been sent to Washington College from the Navy Department, regarding the college facilities and its ability to carry such a program.

During World War II both the Army and the Navy had an extensive college training program which included a number of institutions throughout the country. Commander Brown did not comment on the probability of such a program at Washington College. Action in regard to a training program is expected to be taken when Congress reconvenes No. 27.

When asked about the institution of a Navy program at W.C., President Gibson stated: "There is not much likelihood unless the international situation becomes so threatening that a considerable extension of such programs is necessitated."

PANHELLENIC TEA

The Panhellenic Tea, sponsored by the three societies on campus, will be held this afternoon in Haddon Hall to formally open the winter season. All girls, both Freshmen and upperclassmen who wish to be rushed during the present season are requested to attend.

On Monday evening, there will be a tea of women students, and following this, the rooms will be open to rushers during visiting hours after dinner. As yet, there has been no decision as to which of the night individual rooms will be open.

The Caterbury Club is sponsoring an informal juke box dance in Haddon Hall next Friday, November 3, from 8:00 to 11:00 P.M.

Excuses aren't being made. The Sho'men are just tightening their belts and working harder to get their overturned handwagon back on the road to grid victories.

A few sideline comments after the Ashland tussle questioned the affects of the hot Virginia sun, the refs, and even the efforts put forth by the Monomien. This writer, however, must attribute the loss to three things of a different nature. The Yellow Jackets used their weight effectively as they hustled en masse through the Sho' line. A good scouting report of the Sho' eleven must have been turned in and heeded by the Jackets as they refused, time and again, to slice out of position. All afternoon, the locals running attack was slowed or stopped by "heads-up" ends and backerups. Last, but not least, the Severn eleven knew how to profit from a "break". A sho' fumble and a blocked kick set the stage for the 13-0 loss.

Veteran basketball candidates now practicing nightly, are becoming the football antics of a few newcomers.

Captain Buddy Brower and Hernandez, the Hondorous hunter, were mentioned by the Baltimore Evening Sun as possible All-American soccer candidates from Maryland. Another legman, Luzzi of Loyola, was one of the dozen under consideration. The sparkling exhibition of this little Spanard here on the Hill last Tuesday justified the selection to the Sho' fans.

Choo Choo's Clues now batting 16 for 22 or 729 Purdue and Washington let me down last Saturday. The Nightmare week end that just passed, saw dreams of 19 perfect records blasted, a total of 52 college teams came through still unbeaten, and untied.

Sho'men Bow To R.-M., 13 - 0 In First Defeat

An inspired bond of Randolph-Macon gridlers gave previously undefeated and unscathed on Washington College its first setback of the season last Saturday at Ashland, Va., beating the Sho'men 13-0.

Randolph-Macon capitalized on two breaks, a fumble and a blocked kick, to score both touchdowns.

Tally

The Yellow Jackets tallied midway in the opening period after George Pendergast recovered Howard's fumble on the W. C. 9-yard line. On third down, Fullback "Sweetney" Shilt lugged over tackle for the marker. George Bell converted and R.-M. led 7 to 0.

Later in the first quarter, Bob Pullin kicked Wilson's fourth down punt and recovered the ball at the W. C. 6. Shiltlet rammed over for the tally, but Bell's placement was wide—13-0, R.-M.

Hope Linings

The Monomien threatened early in the second period, Joe Ingarrs intercepted Taylor's pass and rammed 45 yards to the Jacket 16. In four plays the Sho'men had a first down on the R.-M. 5. But the drive faded out, and the Macons took possession on the 17-yard stripe. The Macon and Black never again threatened.

Performers

Jack Naccelli and Joe Ingarrs gave their usual sterling performances on defense but the Washington offense was impatient all day. The Chestertown juggernaut which had averaged 395 yards, rushing and passing, in the three previous games, was held to 80 yards net gain by the hard-charging Yellow Jacket forward wall.

W. C. Booters Lose After Four Wins

By DALE PALMER

This Tuesday saw Loyola trip up the Washington College eleven by a convincing score of 4-1. The contest stopped the heat's bid for an undefeated season and gave Loyola its fourth straight victory.

Visitors Grab Early Lead

Luzzi banged in the Greyhounds' initial score after just three minutes of play had elapsed in the game. Loyola jumped ahead 2-0 early in the second quarter when Bullington drove a hard one by the grille from far outside.

Sho'men Fight Back

The local caught fire and completely monopolized the play during the second quarter. However, an excellent defense was set up by Loyola with Bill McGee in the goal. The lone tally for the hosts was gained in the period. Wood fired at the goal as McGee, pulled out of position, opening the goal for a tap by Jim Twilley. Loyola scored again in this period when Luzzi, inside right, dribbled one in off McHugh's foot for his second score.

Second Half—Nip and Tuck

Close, rough play was featured the second half. If anything, the Sho'men looked better on the field with the encouragement of the inner defense. Consistent wing attempts were thwarted by McGee and his fullbacks.

The final score was added after 19 minutes in the fourth quarter when Nelson passed to Himpler who pushed the ball through the uprights.

ALMOST ALL DATES CLOSED

Almost all of the assembly dates for this semester are closed, according to Dr. South, Administrative Assistant to the President, who arranges the schedule.

Organizations wishing to take responsibility for an assembly period should contact Dr. Smith now to reserve a date next semester. All spot announcements to be made in assembly should be cleared through Dr. Smith who arranges the program each Thursday for President Gibson.

Warriors Meet Pa. School Here In Fifth Game

W. C.'s warriors return home tomorrow to face the undefeated Dragons of Drexel Tech, on the Kibler Field gridiron at 2:30 P.M.

After experiencing their initial setback of the current campaign last week at Randolph-Macon, the Sho'men have undergone a great deal of vigorous practice sessions in preparation for the inviolable Pennsylvania.

Coach Montero is expected to field the same eleven, with one exception, John Stuntill will start at left end replacing George Plocharski, who received a head injury in last week's game.

The Drexel eleven has been taking advantage of a two week layover, since they had no game scheduled for the past week end. Coach Eddie Allen has been putting his boys through light, spirited workouts in hopes of ironing out the offensive wrinkles. Special emphasis has been on "precision, timing, speed and particular assignments."

Drexel's victorious offensive eleven, which has refused to consecutive win over Ursinus, Gettysburg and P.O.C., will feature Stewart at center, Fritz and Ream in the guard slots, Adams and Hostet at the tackles, flanked by Zahoran and Spahr. In the backfield, Brown will be under the center, Gerlach and Bigatel will half the "T" while whitey Charlie Chalmers will plunge through from the fullback hole.

In the last meeting of these clubs, on the Engineers' field in Philadelphia (1949), the locals took an 18-12 victory home.

W.C. Harriers Defeat Hopkins

The Washington College cross-country team defeated Johns Hopkins here last week, 23 to 24, as Earl Grinn of the Bluejays set a new course record. The new record of 18 minutes, 37 seconds supplanted the recently established 19 minutes, 11 seconds set by Philmore Dryden. Three weeks ago against Loyola College, Grinn was not without competition however, as Dryden stuck close to him until the latter part of the race. This new record is an exceptionally good time and should stand well into the future.

Tom Benson trailed Dryden across the finish line with Mike McGinnis of Hopkins close behind. George Eichlerger was fourth for the Macon and Black followed by Ellsworth Boyd and Jack MacCallough all of W. C. Eighth place went to Bud Howard of Hopkins who sprinted the length of the football field only to be outkicked by Boyd and MacCallough. Bob Smith of Hopkins was ninth, and Bill Lindam of W. C. took Harold Garrett of the home team beat John Peterson of Hopkins to complete the race.

The Sho'men remain tied tomorrow as they rigidly train for their important contest to meet in Baltimore on November 4. This meet matches Mt. St. Mary's College, King's College, The Baltimore Olympic Club and Salisbury State Teachers College. This is an invitation meet and the Washington Harriers will face stiff competition that day.

Varsity Club Members Initiated

The inner walls of the Can Gymnasium opened their eyes in amazement and then closed them in tired Monday night as another Washington College Varsity Club initiation got underway.

The traditional physical indoctrination began at 8:30 P.M. and ended shortly after 10:00 P.M. Assorted tidbits were served to the initiates during intermission.

Varsity clubbers with to extend a

Hallowe'en's Ancestry Traced Back To Pumpkins

Bring on those gorgeous gourds—the big orange and yellow pumpkins. Jack-o'-lantern season is just ahead. Who is the sculptured pumpkin as well intertwined as the No. 1 symbol of Hallowe'en as celebrated in America? In the answer to that question lies the story of the mixed ancestry of Hallowe'en itself.

The jack-o'-lantern, to be sure, holds no direct connection to the church. Some degree of paganism of autumn festivals, then already ancient, with enlightened customs of a Christian observance. One of it came the name of our popular but unofficial October 31 holiday—Hallowe'en. But if they really thought in care entirely the pagan tradition of an annual autumn vigil against spirits and evil spirits they failed.

Traditions Wouldn't Erase. The church fathers evidently hoped, among other things, to standardize in some degree the vagaries of autumn festivals, then already ancient, with enlightened customs of a Christian observance. One of it came the name of our popular but unofficial October 31 holiday—Hallowe'en. But if they really thought in care entirely the pagan tradition of an annual autumn vigil against spirits and evil spirits they failed.

That tradition had deep roots in practices of Greeks, Romans, Egyptians, Druids, and Celts. The Romans at harvest time, for example, had long honored Pomona, their goddess of fruits and seeds. Bonfires marked their celebrations. Nuts and apples were the tokens of their winter food store. The Druids of ancient Britain held a three-day festival to mark what not to them both the year's end and the sun's end. To them, most of all, can be attributed Hallowe'en's superstitions and beliefs. From them come customs of Hallowe'en decorations, bonfires to scare off the ghosts that were said to dwell in the shadows, and images of goblins to add to the night's eeriness. To the Druids a black cat was the perfect harbinger for a departed human soul. Thus the pumpkin jack-o'-lantern has a mixed Hallowe'en tradition, not only because it makes a weird and shadowy jack-o'-lantern, but because it is part of the harvest, out of it has come the filling for the pie, crowning point that the harvest horn holds plenty.

Pumpkin, "Irrelevant" Overseas? Pumpkins and squashes are of Western Hemisphere origin, not the Old World. Pumpkins came to us as a reoccurer show. Since pre-Columbian times, Indians of Middle and South America have planted them in their fields of corn, and ranked them high as a food source.

Hallowe'en is no longer the celebrated festival it once was in Europe and the British Isles. Pumpkins, a novelty in Europe in American colonial days, never have become part of the Old World's Hallowe'en celebrations, and are termed "irrelevant" to the celebration of the autumn festival in a recent British newspaper article. The pumpkin jack-o'-lantern, therefore, is an inseparable part of Hallowe'en only in the New World version.

From The Exchange Desk SHARPS AND FLATS

By NATE RODGON

The musical grapevine has it to the effect that records are getting better as competition becomes keener.

A likely example would be the album of four platters of Dorsey-Dixieland which recently hit the turntables. The tunes date back to 1934 when Dixie was "it." However, there is no reason why Dixie should be restricted to any definite era. The music is presented well by Jimmie on clarinet and sax. Brother Tommy furthers the effect by superb handling of the 1-bone. Must mention Dorseyland jazz played spontaneously and the Dorsey's play ad lib. Very refreshing.

Maceo Whiting makes a doctor on her the cooie of "The Best Thing For You Is Me." The thrush pumps her heart out on this one. The tempo is just right for her, and her lyrics aren't bad either. All in all it fits up there for three minutes of dulcet delights for your hearing flap.

With the road comes the bad, however, in the form of "Harbor Lights" by Sammy Kaye. The Kaydettes do a terrible injustice to the song. They snarl out the "Lights" line by line as they drag their weary tenets over the tune. Kay's music hasn't changed in time and his few listeners aren't getting any younger.

For the rhapsodists (half a square) Paul Weston et al. has released an album of Boogie Woogie and Swing. Weston has always turned out good platters. Pianist Louis Butler serves every last possible significance out of the notes. The girl is good, so is the album.

NOTES TO YOU. Looks like Krantz has really slipped his lid. He's on tour with a 40-piece band, a dance band no less. After his tour he is slated to return home in order to start rehearsals for his "Antony in Rehearsal" tour. . . "The Elmer Fudd" Billy Eckstine has signed to do a movie in the near future. . . Gene Ammons has come out with some of the coolest jazz ever heard this side of the Delaware. Latch on to his recording of "My Foolish Heart." . . National label has released Billy Eckstine's pressing of "My Silent Love." It has possibilities. . . All the big-name male vocalists are enjoying Tony Martin because "Mr. T" is to star opposite Gloria DeHaven in an RKO flicker. . . "She of the lusty larynx," Kay Starr, teams up with Tennessee Ernie Ford to do two sides which don't say much for Kay. The songs just aren't suited for her. But Barlow could do them justice. . . For the Benny Goodman fans, B. G. and his sextet have released a set of six sides of jazz favorites. Here is the "King of Swing" with his best in a long time. — From The Muhlkeberg Weekly.

Speaker To Address

Students On Nov. 1

In keeping with the policy of the Economics Department of bringing in a speaker each year to talk to the economics students and all other interested persons, Mr. Stanley Krichler of the Department of Economics announced that he has been successful in securing the services of Rear Admiral William H. Bell, U.S.N. (ret.)

Admiral Bell, who is assistant director of human relations of the McCormack Company of Baltimore, Maryland, will speak Wednesday, November 1, at 1:30 P.M.

The topic of Admiral Bell's speech will be the multiple management plan of the McCormack Company, the largest tea and spice company in the world.

The plan, seventeen years old, had its origin with the Baltimore concern. The keynote of the plan is the new emphasis in American industry upon executive employee participation in the administration and managerial process. Under this plan, employees on the sales force, in the office, and in the factory, share both the responsibilities and the opportunities of the company management.

Admiral Bell expressed his eagerness in accepting the speaking engagement in that it is his first visit to the Eastern Shore and Washington College.

D. C. Cardinals Featured With Sho'men Marlene Meyer Elected Homecoming Queen

Harvre de Grace Beauty Elected Wednesday

Miss Marlene Meyer, 18 year old Sophomore from Havre de Grace, Maryland, was elected Homecoming Queen Wednesday in a hotly contested election.

Eighty-two per cent of the upperclassmen voted as a total of 235 students cast ballots for their choice. The runners-up in the final election, Mickey Metcalfe, of Chestertown, and Rita Donahoe, of Masey, will serve on the Queen's Court and will take part in the coronation ceremonies. The other member of the Court is Sayler Urig of Elmina, New York. She was elected last week to represent the Freshman class.

The new Queen served on the Court last year as Freshman representative. No novice to beauty titles, Miss Meyer was elected "Miss Havre de Grace" last summer and was in the local competition for the title of "Miss Maryland". She is a member of Alpha Chi sorority.

Miss Meyer will be crowned Queen of the 1950 Homecoming at halftime ceremonies by Dr. Donald Z. Gibson, President of Washington College. He will be assisted by Miss Barbara Stone, 1949 Queen. Also expected to be present are Miss Mary Ellen Ivory and Miss Beth Williams who reigned over the 1948 and 1949 Homecomings, respectively.

NOTICE TO ALL SENIOR MEN

All senior men are asked to stop by the Dean of Men's office and fill out a military status sheet. This information is necessary not only to enable the College to best advise men but also to help the College understand problems which result from the international situation and its effect on manpower.

Any number of the three lower classes who did not fill out this same form in Assembly on Thursday is also asked to stop by Dr. Clark's office.

"Double Door" To Open Washington Players Season

The Washington Players will open their thirty-third season next Thursday and Friday evenings in William Smith Auditorium with the presentation of "Double Door," the mystery thriller, "Audible Door." The play is sponsored by the Kent County Chapter of the Children's Aid Society.

Reserved seats are being sold this year for the first time and will be on sale at the door for $1.00. General admission tickets, also on sale at the door will sell for 75 cents. Curtain time is 8:30.

The play, set in the 1910 era, complete with a Victorian stage setting, is directed by June Williams and Helen Rae. Both girls have been active with the Players for several years, both on and off stage.

Casting for "Double Door" sets a precedent this year with a almost complete new line-up of players. The lead parts have been put in the hands of freshmen which is also something new for the Players.

Orchestra Readies For Sadie Hawkins Debut On Nov. 18

The new Washington College dance band has added several new arrangements to its repertoire in preparation for its first public appearance at the Sadie Hawkins Dance Saturday, Nov. 18. The nine piece band will be one of the main attractions at the popular dance, traditionally sponsored by the Senior Class.

Hudson Hall will be a replica of Diggity in miniature, according to Mackey Metcalfe, Chairman.

Stags Permitted

A large turnout is expected for the unusual dance in which girls invite boys, provide original costumes, and play all expenses. It was also announced by a spokesman for the class that stags will be welcome, both girls and boys. However, girls must request the boys for each dance. No one will be admitted unless dressed in a reasonable feminine or Diggity style. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

A Sadie Hawkins cake, and a marriage ceremony mending Daisy Mae and L'il Abner will be featured at intermission.

Admission will be $75 per couple, $30 tag.

Homecoming Dance To Be At Armory

The Homecoming dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club, will be presented tomorrow night in the Armory from 9:00 to 1:00 P.M. with the music of Charles Baker and his orchestra. Tickets are on sale at $1.75 per person.

The decoration committee for the dance, under the chairmanship of Mole Janigan, has announced its plans for the festivity. The main decorative scheme will consist of a large silhouette reproduction of William Smith Hall, Criss Gymnasium, and Bunting Library, placed behind the handstand. A moon and floating clouds will constitute the remainder of the effect.

At the entrance, facing the bandstand, the committee is constructing a long pond, covered with imitation flagstone and complete with fountains and ivy. Behind the pond, there will be an arch containing the name and photograph of the reigning Homecoming queen. Spotlights on the sides of the floor will be used to create atmosphere and highlight the decorations.

Ideas for the dance were drawn up by Mole Janigan with the aid of Bill Kenworthy, a June '50 graduate.

Working conjunction with the Varsity Club, the Art Club has produced the posters for the advertising end of the dance. Janigan has suggested that the Art Club take over the decorations for the Homecoming dance each year and work with the Varsity Club through a representative from the sports organization.

Injuries Hurt Montero; Catholic U. Record - 2-2-1

Kibler Field will be a hum-drum of enthusiastic cheers, thud-clad cheer-leaders, excited students, and faithful alumni and guests, when the "RED & WHITE" of Catholic U. clashes with the "MAROON & BLACK" of Washington College tomorrow in the annual Homecoming game at 2:30 P.M.

Dr. Gibson Addresses Fellowship

The Washington College Religious Fellowship met on Tuesday night in Hudson Hall. The main event of the evening was a speech by Dr. Gibson, who talked on the urgent necessity of our civilization having more thorough knowledge of human nature and how to deal with our fellow men amicably.

He referred to the pessimism which has been particularly acute since the development of the Atom Bomb and the unsettled state of the world since that date in 1945 when the Bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. While seeing no reason for extreme pessimism he did feel that there was reason to be skeptical about the possibility of teaching any enduring solution through the efforts of diplomats and peace conferences. The record of history, he said, does not justify much optimism as to the enduring qualities of treaties arrived at through diplomatic negotiation.

He discussed the common advances of science and said that even the scientists themselves were now disturbed at the destructive possibilities of the tool they have developed. He pointed out that our knowledge of how to deal with human beings of all races and nations has not kept pace with our knowledge of the physical facts of the universe. He quoted several eminent scientists that what the world needs is not more of the products of physical science but more extensive understanding of human nature as gained not only through a scientific study of men but also through study of the living records of men found in literature and the other human products of the mind. He concluded with a discussion of the points of the speech followed.

The Fellowship is planning a Christmas Party and Carol Sing, the date of which will be announced later.

Freshmen Elections To Be Held Next Friday

Freshmen elections, under the direction of ODK, will be held Friday November 17, in Bill Smith Hall from 1:30 P.M. - 5 P.M.

Petitions bearing the names of 15 persons endorsing a candidate must be in the Dean of Men's office (Dr. Charles Clark) by 5 P.M. Wednesday, Nov. 15. Only those candidates who are backed by petitions will be able to be elected to the offices which include those of President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer.

PEP UP TONIGHT

Fire engines, torches, pajama clad freshmen and a gigantic bonfire should induce one and all to turn out and cheer the hard working Monteros to the victory tomorrow.

The Cardinals will be flying into the game on the brunt of last week's convincing 33-0 win over Galbulet in the nation's capital. The Sho'men, still plagued by injuries to key players, Howard and Desmond, were also bolstered morally by their victory over Hampden-Sydney. Coach Montero has placed emphasis this week on tackling, a factor that was notably off-limits in last week's encounter.

Previous Records To Date
Catholic U. brings with them a not too impressive record of two wins, two defeats, and a tie. The Cardinals have triumphed over Bridgewater, 32-0; and Galludet, 33-0; have tied with Randolph-Macon, 26-21; and Mount St. Mary, 40-7; and have lost once mighty Hopkins, 13-13.

The Local-Lads have rolled up 32-0 victories over Loxington (Pa.) and Bridgewater, spanked Swarthmore, 38-0; and eked out a thriller over Hampden-Sydney, 23-27. The only set backs came at the hands of Randolph-Macon, who took advantage of a fumble and a blocked kick to win 13-0, and Drexel Tech, 21-0.

Despite their records the team appear to be well matched and each boasts several individual stars. Tony Piccosi, Cardinal right end, has been a standout all year, grabbing aerials and scoring touchdowns. Bill Ennis, who has scored 35 points this season, and who incidentally scored both C. U. touchdowns against W. C. in last year's 14-14 tie, leads a speedy backfield which averages about 170 pounds.

The locals also boast several standouts that deserve mention. Bonnetti, Nacrelli, Ingars, and Cannone have been in the opponents backfield constantly all year. Gate Malters, a newcomer to the campus, has earned quite a stir with his touchdown passes. He crossed the goal line three times last week to bring his total T.D. output to ten. The up-to-date picture is both John Wilson who doesn't count points from rival coaches. It was his pass to Malters that gained the 32-27 victory over H-S last week in the waning records. A possible change in the Washington line-up may find Malters in a right half position.

Panhellenic Council Plans Luncheon

A Homecoming luncheon is being planned by the Panhellenic Council for Saturday afternoon from 12:00 to 1:00 P.M. in Hudson Hall in execution of all active and alumnae university members.

Last year, the societies decided to sponsor a luncheon at Homecoming rather than hold the usual open house reception. The plan has been adopted for this year also.

All society members are divided into three groups to handle all phases of the entertainment. Jean Shenton is in charge of the decoration committee. Diana Larshaw is head of the refreshment, and Helen Rae is responsible for the clean-up committee.

Gilded Butterflies

Two Adolescents, Alberto Mosavia, Tarras, Straus, 1950, trim, by Berle de Zucc and Angus Davidson.

Two Adolescents is a socio-psychological study of the awakening of sexual awareness, with all its turbulent ramifications, in two boys, Agostino and Luca, made palatable by having been put together with considerable delicacy, feeling, and literary finesse. There are many complimentary things to be said of the book: the characters are certainly drawn; the psychological insight (because it is that of an artist) is understanding, 'symphonic, and for an extremely difficult and elusive subject, most completely and gracefully made a comp rehensive; the few moments of drama subtly and artistically contrived without the usual bathos and nonsense. The first story, that of Agostino, is particularly good. In it Agostino traces that agonizing path in life which we first begin to see his mother as a woman and not as his own personal goddess — a very important point in any boy's life. The other story is essentially Luca's first sexual experience and the mind-searching tortures of a boy about to become a man. They are both beautifully done, and, in short, if shuffling around through 208 pages of the dink, soiled, and degrading legends of puerile emotion does not make you a little sick, as it did me, Two Adolescents is a fine and moving book, one which should be of great interest and one which will surely collect a cult.

So far as I know, no one (not even on the dust jacket) has gone so far as to call this book a novel, and that is good, I think, because the novel is an art form and art has no business inserting commercial work on its shiny stuff as the love life of fifteen-year-olds, however well it is done. Literature is full of studies of the adolescent (cf. Proust's Remembrance of Things Past) but in great literature these studies are properly woven into a broad tapestry whose main concern is the death of youth. Sociology is the offspring of anthropology and that promotes and discloses trends in the Industrial Revolution, and an earnest daughter it is nowadays, too. Offhand, I do not know of a single good result, spiritual or aesthetic, of the Industrial Revolution. The two great allies it has most affected are anthropology and psychology, and, in exploiting these, it has affected art. Masterpieces of literature have been produced, it is true, in and of this atmosphere, but not by them alone. The atmosphere, the breakdown of society and the ramous consequences of, as a sign outside for Jersey City proudly announces, "For Industry." It seems to me, and I freely admit the narrowness, not only of my knowledge, but on my thought, that sociology and psychology have gone awoloning after the wretched, degraded, and thoroughly undone specimens we call Modern Man, and which is not necessarily a criticism of Two Adolescents, but of the tendency of contemporary art and thought, which too often isolates and builds monuments to what are, finally, very unimportant things.

Seminar Explored New York Recently

New York was philosophically explored last week by the members of the philosophy seminar under the guidance of Dr. John Smith.

The group visited the Riverside Church, St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Church of St. John the Divine and together discussed the philosophical aspects of these buildings. Later, as relaxation, some went to the Broadway production of "Death of a Salesman," others to see the Rockettes at Radio City, and the third group to watch Dagnair on television, in a studio.

Senior Of . . . ...The Week

Ed Ryle

Ed Ryle, this week's Senior, hails from Dyle's Island, Md. by way of Kentucky. He graduated from East New Market (MD) High School in 1958 and from there he went to Salisbury State Teachers' College for two years. The Glen L. Martin Co. had Ed on its payroll until November of 1942 when he joined the Naval Air Corps. Ed washed out at Lambert Field, Missouri and became an aerial machine gun instructor in California until April, 1946 when he was discharged. Golden's Business College in Wilmington was Ed's next stop followed by a year of sailing and traveling in Ohio, and then in September, 1948 Ed came to the Hill.

Ed has been very active on campus since he has been here and was appointed to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" this fall. Along with an English major and a Philosophy minor, Ed has been active in Mt. Vernon Literary Society and Washington Players, and served last year as vice-president and president respectively of the two organizations. Last year he also was managing editor of the Elm and is now Editor-in-Chief. He plans to do some type of newspaper work, preferably in a small town.

Ed says that he is single, unattached, a confirmed bachelor, and will graduate in June if he passes Spanish and French. He plans to do some type of newspaper work, preferably in a small town.

Gettysburg Invaded By History Class

In order to get a perspective that a text book could never provide, the American history class took a field trip Monday to see for themselves just what went on at the famous battle of Gettysburg. The group was accompanied by Dr. Charles B. Clark, instructor of the course.

The main purpose of the trip was to see the battlefield where the "turning point" of the Civil War took place and to view the cyclorama of Gettysburg — a huge oil painting done by a Frenchman, Philippeux, showing the battlefield scenes and their location.

Also of great interest was the electric map showing how the battle was fought and explaining maneuver relations and the highlights of Gettysburg. This particular map has been voted "most interesting" by the American Historical Association.

The battlefield itself, now under the Federal Park Service, consists of 2,000 monuments to heroes of the war, the three days of July in 1863 and from this point on, the South consistently fell back. 150,000 men took part in the battle and over the three days some 50,000 casualties. In fifty minutes of attack on the Gettysburg field there were more men lost in casualties than in the first five days of the battle of Normandy in World War II.

With The GREEKS

ADON

All the brothers of Alpha Omega Na wish to congratulate our three new faculty advisers — Mr. Jonitis, Mr. Foster, and Mr. Brubaker.

Our three advisers are doing much for Homecoming, and we are looking forward to seeing many of our alumni.

What's this about regular Saturday night meetings being held at BaySide?

Congratulations to Marlene Meyer on being elected to the Homecoming court for the second consecutive year. We hope to see many of our alumni at the Homecoming game and dance on Saturday. A good time is in the offing for all. And good luck to the boys against C.U.J.

A.O.J.

Congratulations to Dian Lashow who is sporting a suitcase from Ray Sutton.

Thanks to the football team for the spirit dance routine performed for the Halloween Dance; we really appreciated it.

This week end, all the A.O. Poops are looking forward to the return of the alumnae. Welcome back and happy Homecoming!

Zeta Tau Alpha

Congratulations to our president, Edith Anne Ives, who was chosen to be State Treasurer of the Future Teachers of America at a recent meeting held at the Towson State Teachers College.

We are looking forward to an evening of fun this Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John S. Smith, one of our past presidents.

Plans are now being made to entertain all sorority alumnae at a luncheon to be given this Saturday by the Panhellenic Council.

K.A.

Congratulations are in order for Joe Loughaborg, Bob McLean and Dale Palmer who were initiated into K.A. this past week. Also glad to extend congratulations to Don Hill and Bruce McKie who are now pledges of Beta Omega.

We are all looking forward to greeting many of our illustrious alumni tonight at the Hill for this week's activities and also extend our hopes that everyone has a great week end.

O.X.

Beta Eta expects many of its alumni back for the big week end; there will be a gathering on Saturday at "Mon's" dinner will be served.

Good luck to the team against C.U.J. and happy Homecoming to all.

From The Files

One Year Ago This Week

The K.A. house was lifted on its foundations Homecoming night by the explosion of a steam boiler in the basement. "It wasn't the only 'blow out' of the week-end," held it for all.

The Canterbury Club was reorganized on the Hill after an absence of twelve years.

Ten Years Ago This Week

The Elm announced that it would sponsor an all-college night on Nov. 20th, in Cain Hall. There was to be a floor show and popularity contest. Classical and semi-classical record albums were placed in the library for the use of the students.

Twenty Years Ago This Week

There was no sign that all male students who had done unsatisfactory work for the past marking period in the basement of the library every night.

Daily practices were held by the Frosh and Sophomore football teams in preparation for their big game.

Special Trip Lists

Departments and student organizations making trips to museums, historical spots, hospitals, and elsewhere should hand in a list of students making the trip to the Dean's Office no later than the first of December. Consistent to heres of the year can be secured from the Dean's Office for reporting trips.

What's New?

Congratulations to Dian — she got a ring from Ray last Friday night and is it a beauty! Congratulations, also, to Cynthia and John who are planned.

Everyone's worried about Frog; he refused to party last week end. Where, miracles will never cease.

I guess "Hot Lips" Hodges will learn that it doesn't pay to make a flame thrower.

Ed Ryle and Floyd are in the cattle house these days. Did Janite help you pick out your suit? Attention all those who are become! bald. Floyd has invented something to help you.

Happy Birthday, Blossom! Was the party fun?

Winkle left off the bench Saturday and broke his what-do-you-call.

Harry Miller better watch out — while he's away "Herman" really got 'er! the truth.

Watch the Frat houses and dorms this week end; decarations are going to be terrific.

Flash! "Mautner" Hines just got a new shipment of movies and gloves from home. Specting a cold winter?

The Frosh were really in a "pickle" Monday night; also many are sporting bandages 'cause of the little tussle.

Remember the "Heavy Lift" spent a nervous evening Monday night. Why, boy?

Don Heverly, how is the "Hooded Pig"?

Is it true that Sandy Jones voted State Rights on Tuesday?

Albert was seen Tuesday morning carrying a rabbit in his mouth. Mary, have you thrown that poor, hungry dog out of the Snack Bar?

"A happy Homecoming 'Week end' to all.

From The Exchange Desk

TIPS OF THE TIMES: Frosh, want to be happy? Makeh not the mistakes of one of last year's Mohenburghers.

I didn't talk with the prof after class.

I wouldn't recite in class until I was called upon.

I didn't study in class, or talk to the prof in the hall.

I didn't write a volume when I could answer a quiz in four sentences.

I thought it would show had taste complain of a mistake in grading my paper.

I never made excuses when I was absent.

I was stupid enough not to laugh at the prof's jokes unless they were funny.

(I was on probation most of the year).

H-S Jackets Shed In Last 30 Seconds

SportsLights

By JOEL GUANDOLO

You'll feel it in the air — the old college spirit, that is. Homecomings the country over always lend an extra punch to the play of the home team, and you'll see it as well as feel it here on the "Hill" tomorrow afternoon.

The Monrotons will be making their last bid for the Mason-Dixon Football Championship that will be decided definitely next week. Dickerson scoring system, used to determine the standings of the M-D clubs, finds Randolph-Macon (Va.) and Western Maryland top contenders for the crown. If these two squads can win their remaining league games, they will become co-champs and retire for another year. However, should one or both fail, Washington College could share the winner's circle by defeating Catholic University.

Two rounds of this three-way fight for the championship will be fought tomorrow. C. U. visits the Sho'men while the Maconmen travel to Hampden-Sydney. This southern tussle, like the local fracas, should be a honey. A Western Maryland vs. Johns Hopkins game rounds out the conference on the 18th.

Now and Then

The Hampden-Sydney game of last week, that the locals should have won by three TDs instead of five points, bore to mind another game of the previous season. It was a Shore homecoming, and the Randolph Macon squad was stuck with the short end of a 20-0 score. Like Saturday's eye-opener, thirty seconds remained in the game. Little John Wilson, who had starred all afternoon faded from the fifty yard line looking for a receiver who was not to be found. . . Sizing up the predicament John took off, pigskin in hand, and raced half the field for the score. The "Triple-threat" is still "hot" and unpredictable (see H-S vs. W.C. story) but the '49 good measure punch has become a six point necessity it seems.

Eight or nine sounds fine as far as medals are concerned. And that's the number of honors the thin-clads brought back to the "Hill" from the Baltimore Olympic Club's championship meet last Saturday. The four medal holders from W.C. were headed by the winner of the meet, Fillmore Dryden (Captain-elect and coach). Ellsworth Boyd, participant and Elm sports reporter, details the carrier's trip elsewhere on the page.

On The Wrong 'Footie'

Apologies to Paul "Footie" Desmond who, like yours truly, was surprised to find a picture of Jack Nacrelli under his name in the Elm last week. Likewise, quarter-back Nacrelli is asked to forgive both the editor and the sleepy-eyed make-up man who has left in the "sack" this week.

Dryden Sets Record For Four Miles

One hundred and twenty pounds of muscle and endurance, Fillmore Dryden, captain of the Shore cross-country squad broke another record last Saturday at the Del-Mar Cross-Country Championship in Baltimore.

Although the team took second place, behind the well-coached Baltimore Olympic Club, Dryden clinched an individual conquest by trouncing Frank Pflieger of the B.O.C. in the remarkable time of 20 minutes, 41 seconds.

Out 12 Seconds

This bettered the old mark of 20:53 by twelve seconds and unquestionably leaves future triathlons a difficult record to challenge. Dryden's other record which was set on the W.C. course was recently broken by Hopkins, hence the "Human Machine" was determined to establish another one before he graduates this February.

Becker Outstanding

Sixth place in this four mile journey went to Paul Becker whose perpetual pace brought him from behind to pass five men at the finish. Third, fourth and fifth barriers for the Macon and Black were Tom Benson, Ellsworth Boyd and Jack Mac Collough, who were responsible for eliciting one King's College, Salisbury State Teacher's College, and Mt. St. Mary's in the scoring column.

Olympic Club Strong

The Baltimore Olympic Club offered four other names, George Brown, Bill Johnson, John Patsch and Out Cramer, who formed a balanced unit which were deserving of the first place team honor they achieved.

The team lineup with low score reflecting the winner, is as follows:

B. Olympic Club	32
Washington College	56
King's College	73
Salisbury	92
Mt. St. Mary's	101

Officials

Referee: Henry C. Mander, Balto. U. Umpire: Wm. J. Bracher, Loyola. Line-man: John A. Mentan, Loyola. Field Judge: Oscar L. Helm, Hopkins. This will mark the second meeting of teams coached by Din Montero and Paul Janakowski; last year their respective teams battled to a tie in Washington, D.C. A victory for the Shoremen, tomorrow, coupled with the outcome of two other conference games could throw them in a deadlock for first place in the Mason-Dixon standing.

H-S Tigers Lose Claws As Wilson's Pass Edges Clock

Hampden-Sydney Ball Carrier Stopped by Sho' Defense

John Wilson's forty yard touchdown heave to Wayne Miller in the closing seconds of the game gave Washington College a 52-27 upset victory over the highly regarded Hampden-Sydney Tigers on Friday, Field last Saturday.

The game was a spine-tingling affair which saw H-S come from behind with two touchdowns to take the lead in the last few minutes of the final quarter only to have victory snatched from their grasp.

Miller Scores Early

It looked as if the Sho'men were going to make a runaway of it in the opening minutes of the tilt, Halfback Gabe Miller, who scored three T.D.'s, took a pitchout from Wilson on the third play from scrimmage and sped 59 yards down the sideline to a touchdown. Wilson's placekick was blocked.

After an exchange of punts, Tiger end Ed Dameron recovered a Miller fumble at the W.C. 29 yard marker. The Virginians failed to capitalize on this break, however, and W.C. took over on the 19. The Sho'men advanced to midfield in seven plays, but Gladstone, a stellar defender for the Tigers, grabbed another fumble by Miller and galloped 19 yards to tie the ball game. Bob Blair missed the extra point.

Midway through the second stanza, Wilson hit Miller with a 44 yard aerial for Washington's second score. Wilson converted and the Sho'men left the field for halftime with a 13-6 lead.

Miller Talks Again In Third
Hampden - Sydney dominated the play in the third period but couldn't get a scoring move under way. Following an exchange of punts the Sho'men took over on their own 25. One second down, Miller scooped around left end, and behind perfect blocking, scored 61 yards to paydirt. The Tigers bounced back with a 64 yard march, but Leonard crashing over tackle for a T.D. Bob Blair converted.

Johnny Wilson's passing sparked a 61 yard scoring maneuver that initiated the fourth quarter. Tooses to Plochanski and Miller put the ball on the H-S eleven and Wilson went on the remaining distance on a "booster" play. Wilson also added the extra point and Washington led 26-13.

Tigers Strike Back

The Virginians took the kickoff and raced right back with a 57 yard zowie. Blair Gruber calumnized the move with a two yard plunge and Blair kicked the placement. A few moments later, Blair passed to Gruber for 56 yards, they put the ball on the W.C. nine yard stripe. In three plays H-S had a touchdown. Leonard bucked over from the five. When Blair added the extra point the Tigers led 29-26 with little more than a minute to play.

But the Monrotons were not to be denied the victory. Wilson returned the kickoff to W.C.'s 21. "Slingshot" John then tossed to Miller for 17 and a first down at the 41. Three passes went incomplete before Wilson hit Blair the stage for an 18 yarder to set the stage for the payoff switch to Wayne Miller.

To Date

It was the fourth win in six starts for the Macon and Black, while for Hampden-Sydney it was the fourth loss. The Tigers have won three.

Miller and Wilson were the offensive standouts for the Shoremen. Miller tallied three times and gained 153 yards in ten carries. He now has ten touchdowns and has averaged 8.5 yards per carry in the six games. Wilson completed 8 of 16 passes for 196 yards. He passed for two T.D.'s, scored one himself, and added two extra points.

Choo Choo's CLUES

Maryland will break a nine year Tarheel jinx. North Carolina left the Tennessee tussle.

Michigan State over Minnesota — Pupils vs. teachers, the old story. Ohio State, the Big Ten power-house, will cash in on a loose Wisconsin defense.

Princeton driving hard for undefeated season to Harvard look-alike.

S.M.U., though seventh now, will revenge the Texas A.M. tie of last year. Illinois to take a tough one from Iowa since tuppert Urban-boys since '45.

Oklahoma U. will edge Kansas U. in a touchdown battle to the finish. Washington Sho'men pepped Tuesday in "bull session", though injuries will help Catholic U. fight close.

Glee Club Introduces Song

The Glee Club introduced a new Washington College song to the students at assembly yesterday.

Words and music were written by Mrs. Winifred Oyrande, and is the first entry in the competition for an official college song. Despite its 168 year history, the college has no official song well known to the students or alumni. It is understood that other songs are being written and will be presented at a later date.

The following is a copy of the words of the song written by Mrs. Oyrande.

OUR ALMA MATER

Our Alma Mater we'll always cherish,
We pledge to thee our fondest desires;
Maroon and Black will never perish
While honor, truth, and service gleam;
Beneath thy banner will always gather
Your loyal sons and daughters true;
Thy hallowed halls of fame and valor
Will guard us all the long years through.

Student - Faculty Committee Weighs Two Discipline Cases

The Student-Faculty Committee on Discipline met on November 2 and considered the following cases:

(1) A male student was reported for being in a girls dormitory after hours. He was given two weeks suspension. A spokesman for the Committee stated that this light penalty for so serious an offense was given only because the Committee was convinced that the errand was more innocent than dishonorable. Had there been any moral implications, the penalty would have been expulsion, he added.

(2) A student was reported for academic dishonesty. The Committee decided that he should receive an "F" in the course and be put on disciplinary probation. Again the penalty was lighter than the offense deserved, the spokesman said. In handling this first case in this manner, the Committee serves fair warning that future cases involving academic dishonesty will be dealt with more severely, he commented.

The new Committee was established in October by President Gibson. Its members include Dr. Joseph McLean, chairman; Coach Ed Okey; Professor J. Dennis Dean of Men; Dr. Charles B. Clark, and Dean of Women, Miss Amanda F. Bradley, as well as two student representatives. They are Eddie Leonard, president of ODK, and Kline Gifford, representative of the Junior class selected by ODK.

According to Dr. Gibson, more students will eventually be added to the Committee.

New Civil Service Jobs Open To College Graduates

About 300 jobs in the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivor's Insurance, Federal Security Agency, will be open to college graduates and others with social science backgrounds as a result of recent amendments to the Social Security Act which extended coverage of the Act to about 11,000,000 persons, the Civil Service Commission said today.

The job jobs are "field assistant" and "claim assistant". The jobs will be located throughout the country, with a beginning salary of $3,100 per year.

According to the Commission, applicants for these positions in the Federal Security Agency should apply for the regional examinations, rather than the nationwide examination announced on October 17 for Junior Management Assistant, which includes another type of social science assistant job.

Additional information concerning these examinations is available in college placement offices, firms and one-day post offices, and the regional offices of the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Evening Adult Education To Set New W. C. Precedent

Washington College will set a new precedent this year by endeavoring to establish an evening program of adult education on the college campus. The classes, which are to be non-credit, will begin sometime in November and run for a period of six weeks. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, stated that the teaching program will differ from that of the formal undergraduate classes, which are accredited. All classes are to be run on a seminar basis with no examinations being given. The teaching augmented by special assistant lecturers from outside.

The charge for these courses will be very nominal. Dr. Gibson explained. Each ten week course will cost approximately five dollars in order to compensate the instructors.

All courses are intentionally planned for the non-specialty adult who desires only to learn more about a field of vocational or current interest. The only requirement for the establishment of a class is that there be at least ten persons interested in taking it.

Among the courses which will be taught are: present day economic theory; history of the Far East, of Europe, of Maryland, of Latin America; appreciation of art; background of modern science; modern educational theory and practice; English and American literature, both earlier and contemporary; practical expository writing; and study of German, French, and Spanish.

Maryland Teachers Association.

The Future Teachers of America have chapters of the organization in all of the state teachers colleges and liberal arts colleges preparing students for teaching. The Future Teachers of America is an integral part of the state and national teachers' associations which aim at interesting capable young men and young women in education as a career.

The Trowen Convention, numbering approximately 300 delegates from all over the state, ratified the F.T.A. State Constitution, which united the central organizations.

Six Washington College students attended the Convention, including Ruth Roe (who was among the nominees for the Presidency), Fred Nickerson (who nominated for a seat on the Executive Committee), Jane Williams, President of the local F.T.A. chapter, Dick Pomeroy, and Frank Lorenz.

COTILLION SALES

MOVING SLOWLY

Ticket sales for the Thanksgiving Cotillion, sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, are moving slowly, it was announced today by Ed Leonard, ODK president. An accompanying release announced the procurement of Paul Fredericks and his band, currently playing at "Clemente" in Penns Grove, New Jersey.

Ticket sales under the cotillion plan will continue until November 20th, the day before the opening dance. If sufficient funds are not procured for covering the ODK affair, the cotillion sales will open after Thanksgiving with semester tickets at half-price and fullfare at a one-quarter reduction.

Sales will be handled next week from the Snack Bar with the cotillion organizations in charge. Prices are $4.00 for a semester ticket for two dances, $5.00 for the full year and four affairs, with single dinner tickets costing $3.00.

Short Story Contest

The fifth annual College Writer's Short Story Contest has just been announced by TOMORROW Magazine. First prize is $500; second, $300, and third, $200. Manuscripts will be judged by editors of TOMORROW and the editors of Creative Age Press, an affiliate of TOMORROW.

The prize-winning stories will be published in the spring and summer of 1951. All other manuscripts will be considered for publication as regular contributions and paid for at TOMORROW's regular rates. This year the editors of Creative Age Press will be interested in considering any novel-length work of the winners.

Entries should be addressed to College Contest, TOMORROW Magazine, 11 East 44th Street, New York, 17, N.Y. The contest closes midnight, January 15, 1951.

The contest is open to anyone registered and taking at least one course in any college or university in the United States. This includes undergraduate, graduate, special, extension and adult students. Manuscripts may not exceed 3000 words. Any number of manuscripts may be submitted by any student provided that each story has not had previous publication. Each entry must be accompanied by the student's name, home address and the name and address of the college he is attending. ENTRY WILL BE RETURNED ONLY IF ACCOMPANIED BY A SELF-ADDRESSED, STAMPED ENVELOPE.

Players Open Year With 'Double Door'

Thanksgiving Dance First Of Cotillion Series Here

To start the students of Washington College off on a good vacation, ODK has planned the seasonal Thanksgiving Dance, to be held Tuesday evening at 8:00, November 21, in Cain Gymnasium. The dance is the first of the year to be held under the Cotillion Plan. Others are: The Christmas Dance, the Mid-Year Prom, and the June Ball.

Cotillion dances, sponsored by ODK, were introduced to the campus this year. Thus far, the plan has not met with too much student approval, but it is hoped by ODK that the Thanksgiving Dance will enable the program to be carried on.

Cotillion tickets will be sold through Monday, November 20. If by then the needed 100 sales have not been met, the ticket price for the ODK will be $2.00. However, if the needed amount on tickets can be sold, tickets bought at $1.00 will be $3.00, according to the Cotillion plan.

To familiarize students with the Cotillion plan again, it works at follows: Four dances per year are given under the plan. Holders of the Cotillion tickets which cost $8.00 per ticket or $4.50 per semester will be admitted to the dance on showing the tickets. Prices for tickets sold at the door for each of the dances will be $3.00. Students who attend all four dances that have bought Cotillion tickets save $4.00 per year.

As a money-saving plan for W.C. students, the Cotillion plan should prove popular. However, the main problem appears to be scrapping up the initial $8.00. A member of ODK stated: "It's up to the students . . . They can make or break the four big dances of the year by their reaction to the Cotillion Plan."

Sadie Hawkins Dance Saturday

A large turnout is expected for the traditional Sadie Hawkins dance to be held Saturday night in Hudson Hall, 6:00 to 12:00 P.M. The popular dance is sponsored annually by the Senior Class.

An unusual feature of the dance is that the girls invite the boys, escort them to and from the dance, and pay all expenses. Stages, both boys and girls, will be admitted, however. Admission is 75 cents per couple, 50 cents stage.

The big attraction this year is the presentation of the newly formed Intermittent dance band. In addition to a Sadie Hawkins race, a marriage ceremony uniting the best dressed "L'il Abner" and "Daisy Mae," conducted by "Marilyn" Samko who recently married from Franklin and Marshall College.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Home-grown cider will be available for the thirty-hill babies, all of whom (including chaperones and guests) must be dressed in Dutch-boy style to be admitted to the dance.

Chaperones include Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Athley, Mr. Henry, and Mr. Brubaker. Chairmen of the various committees are as follows:

Duke Carr, general chairman and publicity director; Mickey Ott, decoration; José Guadalupe, refreshments; Lee Smith, chaperone; Glen Gray, cleanup.

Al Crimmins Resigns Post

The resignation of Al Crimmins from the Administrative Staff of Washington College was announced this week. It is effective as of Dec. 1 of this year at which time Mr. Crimmins will assume his new position with the Pot Company in Bedford, Delaware.

Crimmins has been in the employ of the College since August 1948. He has recently been in charge of College-Alumni Relations and has been active in Field Representative of the College.

A member of the Class of 1948, Mr. Crimmins was active in student affairs as an undergraduate. He is a member of ODK, past President of Lambda Chi Alpha and a football letterman.

He was influential in the establishing of the Snack Bar, an idea originated by the Torontio Society and carried to a successful conclusion by ODK. Crimmins was also responsible for the procurement of the cigarette and soft drink machine in Hudson Hall as well as its television set. He has also arranged for the placing of candy machines in the dormitories.

Mr. Crimmins was last employed by the College as co-manager of the Bookstore and as director of the Snack Bar. He began his duties in the Alumni office last year.

Story Behind The Story

It had been hoped that The Sellsbury State Champion VFW Drum and Bugle Corps would be able to take part in the Pep Rally and Homecoming Game ceremonies this past week end. That it could not was announced by Ed Parsons, director of the band who stated, "We greatly appreciate the offer to participate in the Washington College Homecoming celebration. Unfortunately the members of the band were refused their individual requests to be given time off from their various jobs to attend Sellsbury. We hope, however, to take part in some future activity at the college."

The possibility that the group could be secured was suggested by Sandy Jones, Senior Class President and a personal friend of Mr. Parsons. Jones spoke to Lee Cook, Pease, however, around Sellsbury. He was, however, to take part in some future activity at the college.

The possibility that the group could be secured was suggested by Sandy Jones, Senior Class President and a personal friend of Mr. Parsons. Jones spoke to Lee Cook, Pease, however, around Sellsbury. He was, however, to take part in some future activity at the college.

When informed that the band would be unable to attend, Dr. Gibson commented that it had been a good idea, and congratulated the two students for their initiative, and expressed his disappointment at the outcome.

By MR. EDWARD BRUBAKER

The Washington Players opened their season last night with an intense and fascinating production of "Double Door," a melodrama by Elizabeth McFadden.

Directed by June Williams, "Double Door" is presented with a seriousness which leaves some comic possibilities in the background, but which arouses the audience's concern, stimulates their feelings, and gives them more than a few thrilling moments. To play a trite but true word, the play is gripping.

"Double Door" concerns the attempt of Victoria Van Bret, an aging spinster, to break up the marriage of her brother, Rip, with a woman whom Victoria considers beneath her class. The situation as it is written is somewhat incredible, but across the footlights such things aren't noticed. We are studied to accept it as a picture where horror is intensified by the plight of young lovers harassed by a fascinating villainess.

Past Fensel dominates the stage with her characterization of Victoria Van Bret. She is dry, humorless, domineering, joy-killing, intriguing devil with hypnotic eyes and grasping hands. She perhaps sacrifices variety and subtlety to gain power, but her portrayal of Victoria's mental breakdown in the final scene is unusually convincing, giving a wonderful finish to her performance and to the play.

As Caroline Van Bret, Victoria's sister, Marie Glone makes a minor role out of major importance. Her acting is fine. She develops the pathos of Caroline's position with an exceptionally good portrayal of childish simplicity.

Pat Bowes and Fred La Wall play the young lovers, Anne and Rip. They command an adequate share of the audience's sympathy as they gradually come to understand themselves and the man they are in. Anne's big speech in the final scene of act two, as Pat Bowes delivered it, was certainly one of the high points of the play. I found myself wondering why Rip did not inherit some of the Van Bret passion (of which Victoria had too much) until the same final scene of act two when he rose to the occasion.

As the sympathetic Doctor Sully, Jim Eiring turned in a good performance. The dialogue in his scenes with Anne was rapid, a pleasant contrast to the slower pace of the rest of the play.

Special mention should be made of Bob Brink, M-skel Hraig, and Harold Senekubach all of whom showed rapidity, a pleasant contrast to the slower pace of the rest of the play.

Bob Waddell, as stage manager, and Jim Jones, as electrician, provided a setting which effectively underscored the mood of the play. Indeed, the Players are to be congratulated for the attention they have given to a host of technical details. Even the intermission music must have been chosen with expert care.

I heard by the grape vine that "Double Door" is the players' first attempt at melodrama. They have done this one well and should feel encouraged to do more in the years to come. After so much has been done so well, it is a sorry thing to realize there will be only two performances.

IN SYMPATHY

The ELM staff wishes to express its sympathy to Mr. Frederick A. Meigs, our librarian, whose wife passed away in Baltimore on Tuesday, November 14, following a prolonged illness.

Players Complete Construction Of Set For "Double Door"

"Thank You"

The Varsity Club wishes to express its appreciation to the Art Club, the Fraternities, and to all other organizations and individuals who gave so freely of their time and effort to make the Homecoming week end and dance a success.

Holidays Announced

The college will officially close for the Thanksgiving vacation at noon on Wednesday, November 22 and will open for classes on Monday, Nov. 27.

Christmas vacation begins at noon on Saturday, December 16 and lasts until Monday, January 5, 1951.

All students are subject to these regulations and no excuses for delay will be allowed.

Elected Lambda "Crescent Girl"

MACKEY METCALFE

Miss Mackey Metcalfe of Chestertown has been elected Crescent Girl of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity for 1950-51.

A Senior, Miss Metcalfe was a member of the Queen's Court at the recent Homecoming. The attractive red head is also Secretary of the Senior Class, President of the G.A.A., and Secretary of the Canterbury Club.

Miss Metcalfe received a gold loving cup at the Lambda Chi Alpha party at the Country Club last Saturday, in token of the honor. Her mother, Mrs. Frances P. Metcalfe was the guest of honor at the affair.

Miss Peggy Metcalfe, '50, also received a cup in recognition of her election as the Crescent Girl of 1949-50. A resident of Chestertown, she is now an art student in Baltimore.

Post Office Jobs

Students wishing to become post office workers during the Christmas holidays must submit a letter from the post master indicating the date when they must report in order to be excused from classes before the holiday. All letters from post masters are due no later than noon on Friday, December 10 in the Dean's office.

Dr. Gibson Favors Student Government

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, renewed his approval Thursday of Student Government on the campus. Stating that, "Students are not apt to heed their duties as citizens in later life if they fail to learn the 'mores' in college," Dr. Gibson expressed the hope that student government would return to Washington College. At present a five member committee of the Presidents Club is preparing a student government constitution.

Monteromen End Season Sat. Away

SportsLights

By JOEL GUANDOLO

The lull after the storm is upon us here on the "Hill" as well as on the sidelines. The last home football game is in the books, the soccerists have bowed out of the M-D championship race, and the harriers, like the pigskinners, journey afar tomorrow to end their season.

In the background, the Pentagons (Athey's Aces and Johnson's Juniors) are being groomed for a "big" season that will open here with Kings College on Dec. 8th.

Letters To The Editor

I would like to point out columnwise once again that any opinions, suggestions or criticisms dealing with sports will be carefully considered and printed if so designated. The aim of the sports staff this year has been to bring you, the reader, an unbiased coverage of the sports news along with a few Sportslights that the editor hopes will raise an occasional eyebrow or question.

D.C. Choice—Bottled

The Touchdown Club of Washington, D.C. in co-operation with the Washington Post paid tribute to an All-American hopeful two weeks ago when they picked Bill (Bucky) Ennis of C.U. as Player of the Week. The selection was justified by Ennis's performance against Gallaudet. In three offensive tries from scrimmage, Bucky gained a 103 yards that included a 89 yard TD jaunt. The only other offensive play that Ennis partook in was a 76 yard punt return that was worth six points.

The Sho-nens deserve an extra pat on the back for "hotting" up Ennis on offense and defense last Saturday while rolling over the Cardinals.

Harriers Face Championship

Having returned from The Middle Atlantic Cross-Country Championship in Allentown, Pa. last Friday, the Sho-nens embark once again for their annual Mason-Dixon Cross-Country Championship tomorrow at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C.

Dryden, Eleven

Matched against many of the top runners in the East, Friday the Maroon and Black gained 12th place

tion in a 17 team race. Philmore Dryden once again led his team, crossing the finish line in eleventh place, ahead of a field of over ninety that clung, St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia won this 4½ mile run over a countryside covered with hills and twisting turns.

A contributing factor to the Sho-nen's tomorrow will be the shorter course at Gallaudet College, which is approximately 3.8 miles. However, stiff competition promises to be on hand in this eleven team race. Ronauke College, the defending champion, will second place having gone to Bridgewater College and W.C., third in '49.

Loyals Strong
Not to be overlooked in tomorrow's contest is Loyola College, which undoubtedly possesses one of the top teams in the conference. Returning again this year are Marrell Krouse of Bridge-water and Bruce Davenport, of Ronauke, who were first and second in 1949. Nevertheless, there is one Hopkins' runner, lanky Earl Grin, who might push Krouse and Davenport for first place honors.

Miaus Brandenburg
Larry Brandenburg, who graduated last June, was the first Washington speedster to finish the race last year in fifth place, followed by Phil Dryden in fifth position. This year however, Dryden has his sights set on that fifth spot, and Krouse, Davenport and Grin had better look out for a speedy little harrier clad in Maroon and Black.

Don Montero's Washington College eleven came from behind with a terrific second half surge to defeat Catholic U., 25-7 before a large Homecoming Day crowd last Saturday on Kibler Field. The Sho-nen recovered from a bad first half to score three touchdowns in the final two periods while securing the win. Backs Johnny Wilson and Joe Miller paced the Shore attack with two touchdowns apiece and Wilson kicked one extra point.

The Maroon and Black tallied the first time they had the ball. Miller capped a nine play 30 yard scoring drive by plunging over from the Cardinal one yard line. Wilson failed to convert. Catholic U. took the ensuing kickoff and moved right back to even the score. Will Purns scoring gave the W.C. ties. Purns' placekick gave the Cardinal a 7-6 lead.

Late in the second quarter, a 38 yard Wilson to Miller pass tied the Monteromen on the C.U., 17, but time ran out before the Hilltoppers could tally.

St. John's Sparks Attack

Sam Greto, finally coming into his own as a hard running fullback, spurred the impetus for a 57 yard yardline punter early in the third stanza. Johnny Wilson culminated the march with a four yard touchdown run on the "boogie" play. Wilson also added the extra point and W.C. led 13-7. Jack Nacelli pilfered a Cardinal pass to start the Sho-nen on another T.D. sortie midway in the final period. Greto scored 20 yards on a delayed back. Two running plays failed to gain and Wilson flipped a 47 yard aerial to Miller for a first down on the C.U. three. Wilson's quarterback sneak gave Washington a 19-7 lead.

Miller Scores Again

Following an exchange of punts, runs by Wilson and Greto moved the pickin' to the Catholic ten yard line. Greto momentarily halted the push. Herb Eitenmeyer returned De Young's punt to the Card's 36. Johnny Wilson uncoiled a 36 yard heave to Galt Miller for the final touchdown. Incidentally, it was Miller's twelfth T.D. in the nation in his career.

In the statistics, Montero's Maulers had a wide edge. The Sho-nen out-gained C.U. 146 to 104 yards on the ground and 17 to 32 via the airways. Sam Greto led the individual gainers with 61 yards in 14 rushes for a 5.7 average per carry.

Late Sports Flash

Washington College booters scored a 52 yard over Drexel on the hoars home field. Luns, Drexel, drew his blood with a blast from scrimmage on the front of the goal in the first quarter. Oriel, Washington College, shot one in the second quarter to tie the count. Henderson scored on a cross from Tilley during the third quarter. Drexel center half punted in a ploy to knot the score and Brandenburg provided the margin of victory as he scored in the concluding quarter.

Capt. Legman, Buddy Brower, end soccer career with stellar performance and injury.

Baltimore U. Downs W.C.; Clinches Title

A penalty kick in the closing minutes of play brought Baltimore U. out on top of the Washington College soccer (27) in Kibler Field action last Tuesday. This victory won for the Baltimoreans the Mason-Dixon Championship.

Bees Sting Early

The visitors did not take long to make their bid for victory. After only five minutes of the first period had elapsed, Kenny Miller caught a high bouncing kick on its downward flight and pounded it hard past the Sho goal.

Scoring remained stagnate through four of the half, although the local hosters threatened several times late in the second period only to be checked by a hard kicking, smooth working B.U. defense.

Hot Hall

Rough, spirited play was featured as the third quarter ended a constantly threatening Washington line. At times, it seemed that nothing would or could stop the "meat-heads" kinks of the Sho-nen, but goalie Buckmore and fullback Griffith consistently saved the case of the Baltimoreans.

The "crowd teasing trio", of Jonathan Hernandez-Wood, set up play after play for the locals but the needed scoring punch refused to show. In the fourth quarter, however, the W.C. team started to move the ball up the field nicely. At the period's end, the score (1-1). Jonathan stole the ball, faked his guard, and passed to Herb Baker who netted a "sizzler" while fending tail.

Brower Injured

The resulting split set in after the tally seemed to indicate that another marker was at hand for the Aethyren, but such was not the case. An offensive drive was repelled and the C.U. team started to move the ball up the field nicely. At the period's end, the score (1-1). Jonathan stole the ball, faked his guard, and passed to Herb Baker who netted a "sizzler" while fending tail.

And The Game . . .

Another scoring drive by the visitors, produced the penalty for toughness against the locals. Sam Rusk, a fullback, was fouled during a body-check as he dove a grass high angle past McHugh on the free kick. The dazed Sho-nen finished the remaining minutes mechanically after playing a creditable "heads-up" ball game.

1 2 3 4 Tot.
Baltimore U. 1 0 0 1 — 2
Washington 0 0 1 — 1
Scoring — B.U.: Miller, Rusk — W.C.: Hernandez.

Note: Game Cathedral in Paris, built during medieval times, is believed to occupy the site of an ancient Roman temple. A monument to Jupiter was excavated from beneath the cathedral in 1771.

Looking For Final Win At Juniata

Washington College's Sho-nen departed this morning on a nine hour trek to Huntingdon, Pa., the home of the Juniata Indians. Tomorrow the grid elevates will wind up their respective seasons with a two o'clock battle.

After a week of light workouts, the Monteromen are invading the Juniata reservation in hopes of ending their season with a victory. Bolstered by a convincing Homecoming win over the Catholic U., and the fact that the Indians are having their worst season in recent years, the local lads are confident of a victory.

Injuries, too . . . Although badly handicapped by injuries to key figures in the lineup, the Huntingdon eleven has a "bright outlook" for tomorrow game. In the way of comparison, the tide rolled over Licking 35-0 while the Sho-nen down 'em 32-0. Juniata was also victorious over a Harford eleven who the Monteromen bottled to a virtual tie in a pre-season scrimmage.

Sho' Nuff

Montero and Apichella, the brains behind the lads, have been forced to juggle the line-up for the past two weeks to compensate for losses due to injuries. The win combination that they fielded last week will continue to carry the ball for the finale, Backfield endons, Wilson, Greto, Miller, Eitenmeyer, and Magliocchetti are in fighting shape, although, minor sprains, "charley-horses", and cuts irritated the "speedsters" all week.

Blue And Gold Indians?

The Blue and Gold will field one of the smallest teams the Sho-nen have faced this season. The line, averaging 175 pounds, features co-captain Coy Hicks. Weighing in at 158 pounds, Hicks is a bulwark on offense as well as defense. In the scoring department, Juniata averages 163 lbs. per man. According to their coach, Bill Smutz, the Pennsylvanians are "going to rely on speed and deception, rather than weight and power." Defensive speed and alertness, it might be noted, could cripple the potent Sho' Nuff attack.

Probable Starters

Indians	Pos.	Sho'nen
Smith	LE	Miller
Brennhaugh	LT	Bonnett
Hick	LG	O'Connell
Muchoney	RC	Ingara
Hackett	RT	Cansome
Wagoner	RE	Flachinski

Chabody	RB	Eitenmeyer
		Magliocchetti
Homer	LHB
Dorenz	FB	Greto
(Ed. Note) — Galt Miller suffered abdominal pains early in the week and may be sidelined as a precautionary measure tomorrow.

Five Sided 37

The Juniata Indians and the Washington Sho-nen have met on the gridiron five times since 1937. The records show three wins for the locals while the Saturday opponents have taken two.

Choo Choo's CLUES

Note: Dame (6) over Iowa, Maryland (20) over Pennsylvania, Wisconsin (7) over Pennsylvania, Ohio State (14) over Illinois, Princeton (13) over Yale, Tennessee (20) over Mississippi, North Carolina (6) over South Carolina, S.M.U. (9) over Arkansas, Michigan State (10) over Pittsburgh, Washington College (13) over Juniata.

Homecoming Celebration

Students, faculty, and alumni joined forces last week end to promote the Homecoming celebration. Beginning on Friday evening and lasting through Sunday, a series of activities were presented in conformance with an annual tradition of festivities.

Pop Rally And Bonfire

The pop rally ushered in the week end by a student march through town, with torches and fire engine accompanying the parade. The bonfire, supplied by an activity of the Freshman Class, burned for several hours while pajama clad Freshmen did a snake dance around the blaze.

A.O.N. Wins Cup

All of the fraternity houses were decorated, carrying out themes designed by the members. Alpha Omega Nu fraternity was awarded the interfraternity cup for the most original decorations. Their theme consisted of a coaching Washington College on stalking a cagey Catholic University cardinal. Last year the cup was awarded to Lambda Chi Alpha for their jazy presentation of "Pop City." The cup is presented on a decision of the faculty committee for fraternity activities, which consists of Dr. McLain, Dr. Clark, Dean Bradley, Mr. Barnett, and Dr. Hardcastle.

In addition to decorations, the fraternities celebrated with open houses for all returning alumni members. The Lambda Chi's held a supper party at the Country Club on Saturday evening.

Pantheistic Luncheon Presented

The three societies staged a Pantheistic luncheon on Saturday afternoon in Hobson Hall to entertain all active and alumnae society members. This idea was adopted last year to replace the usual open house custom.

Homecoming Queen Crowned

Saturday afternoon carried the celebration to a climax with the football victory over Catholic U. During the halt, Dr. Gibson crowned the elected Homecoming Queen, Marlene Meyer. Miss Meyer, a Sophomore from Havre de Grace, Maryland, expressed her thanks to the students for the honor that they had bestowed upon her. Last year's Queen, Barbara Stone, was present to participate in the ceremonies. When interviewed on the field she expressed an alumni observance. "Washington College is wonderful."

Dance Successful

Lee Cook, President of the Varsity Club, has announced that the Homecoming dance at the armory on Saturday night was a big success. He further added that the dance exceeded the Varsity Club's hopes. As yet, there has been no official statement of the actual profits. The money obtained from the dance is used by the club to buy the varsity sweaters worn by all of the members.

On Sunday, the last of the celebrations was completed, with a gradual return of the college to status quo.

"TO PLEASE
A LADY"

AN EXPERIENCE by "The General"

Would you like to experience in learning how to go crazy in one simple lesson? Well, here is the formula — spend one night in G.I. Hall.

An average night in G.I. Hall begins at approximately seven P.M., it can easily be discovered when seven has arrived because mass hysteria takes place in one wing of G.I. Hall. I usually stay the hall rolling by reading poetry in a loud clear voice (with my door wide open). The rooms next to mine and across the hall from mine are the first to respond. They respond to my oratory by slamming their doors, sweating, and uttering hostile threats. A few minutes later the lovely strains of a sike (with a missing string) come drifting down the hall, at which point I immediately following the notes of the sike are six to seven voices (all in the loudest possible) singing their evening's repertoire of dirty verses.

Three doors up from one lives a character by the name of "Spook" who is given to playing an accordion. "Spook" commences his playing shortly after the sike has ceased his lament into silence. The lovely strains of the Beer Barrell Polka or the Tarentella usually announce his evening's concert. "Spook" can be counted upon never to play loudly, if at all. He is well known as he lives in constant fear of a well known football player who lives directly across the hall from him.

About nine-thirty someone decides to start a water fight by pouring water under several doors, and then, as if by magic, doors open and every one appears with water pistols (I think they hide them under their beds at night) — the fight is on. In recollection, let a spirit someone throws the heavy metal garbage can (which is always loaded with garbage) — the building shudders, and walls and doors crack and threaten to split asunder. Then for no apparent reason the noise ceases; the hall empties; doors slam shut; silence reigns once more (for exactly three minutes). The baseball fans appear. For eight to nine-thirty someone in play baseball in the hall with a ping pong paddle and a golf ball, and three nights out of every week they succeed in breaking the overhead bulb. The hall players get tired around ten-thirty and silence once again begins its futile attempt to rule over G.I. Hall.

"TO PLEASE
A LADY"

At eleven-thirty two enterprising lads directly across the hall from me decide to live things up. They have in their possession a tape recorder on which they record the evening's highlights. At eleven-thirty when things are peaceful they open their door and turn on their little recorder at its loudest volume and play back all the noise they had recorded. All hell breaks loose. The noise and hubbub carries on until twelve and then sleep steals over the scene and peace reigns over G.I. Hall.

The lowest order of society in Lhasa, holy city of Tibet, are members of the tag-gappa, whose duty it is to dispose of the dead. These people who live in hovels outside the city must follow the Tibetan religious custom of retaining each body to the elements from which it originated — earth, fire, water, and air.

Forensic Incorporates New Division On Campus

At the beginning of the semester several students proposed the establishment of an Economics and Sociology Club on campus. The idea met with the approval of the Economics Department but it was found that no time could be scheduled for the meeting of such an organization. However, as a result of a mutual agreement with the Forensic Society, the new club has been incorporated into that Society as a separate division.

The purposes of the Economics and Sociology Division are to establish an extra-curricular activity for those students particularly interested in the field and to discuss current problems pertaining to it.

Bill Trueth, Vice-President, has contacted the Economics Club at Western Maryland College and it is understood that Dr. Townsend of the Economics Department of that institution will speak to the local group in the near future. Plans are being made for a field trip to a General Motors assembly plant early next year to observe the assembly procedure.

The new division has extended an invitation to all students to attend its next meeting, the date of which will be posted.

Juniors Get Best Grades

Tabulations on the psychological testing program for the 1950-1951 student body has been completed and individual student, particularly seniors, may secure their scores in the Dean's office for the years in college to date. As a general rule the median score for each successive year is higher due to the withdrawal of students at the close of each academic year. This year there is a variation in that the Juniors have a higher median score than the Seniors. The median intelligence quotients are as follows: Seniors, 116; Juniors, 122; Sophomores, 117; Freshmen, 115; and Entree study body, 118.

For students who are further interested in securing additional psychological test scores on themselves other tests are available in the Dean's Office.

NOTICE

All students planning to graduate in February, 1952 or Summer School, 1951, are urged to make formal application for graduation in the Registrar's Office. Henceforth, all students must make formal application for graduation one year prior to receiving their degrees. All students are requested by the Registrar to complete and submit a "Summary Sheet" to their College record. Forms are available in the Registrar's Office.

Christmas Assembly

The annual Christmas assembly, sponsored by the Choir, was presented yesterday to usher in the Christmas season. The entire program was under the direction of Mrs. E. Winifred Operande. Mendel Hillie served as host announcer, and Ralph Leonard was scriptural narrator.

A professional opening the program, with the choir singing "O, Come All Ye Faithfuls". Following this, the entire assembly joined in the singing of traditional carols.

Two choir numbers, "O Holy Night" and "Gesu Bambino", presented a presentation by a mixed quartet of "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming". Lyn Hamilton, Mary Annette Applewhite, James Metralle, and Harold Yearh constituted the quartet.

"The Carol of the Bells" and "The Carol of the Russian Children", two folk songs, were used as additional choir numbers. A dramatic reading with musical setting was given by Helen Roe. As the last individual number, the choir presented "The Birthday of the King".

Climaxing the program, a tableau of the nativity scene was offered. Myrtle Meyer, Fred Lawell, and Ed Rydman participated in this part of the program.

Library To Sponsor Exhibit

Theater — from Ritual to Broad way, an exhibition prepared by the editors of Life Magazine will be on view to Washington College students in the W. C. Museum from December 11 to December 15. The exhibit is being sponsored by the Library.

The display traces the history of theater from its beginning to its present shape in the western world.

The exhibit is made up of twenty-five panels in four sections. After an introductory panel which suggests something of the variety of places of theatrical performances the exhibition opens with a section on The Beginning of Theater. This depicts the folk-dance which gave birth to the Greek tragedies. The second section is devoted to "Tragic Theaters". The six panels of this section deal with Greek tragedy and its use of chorus, and relate Shakespearean tragedy to the world of medieval Europe where theater took place against the dark ground of the Cathedral.

"The Personal Life of Comedy", the third section, shows the tradition of clowning beginning with the clown on our own vaudeville performers. Popular farce also is traced through the Commedia dell'Arte, Moliere and the Restoration to the American minstrel show and contemporary musical.

The final section is concerned with "Theater in the Modern World". This section of the exhibition begins with Ibsen and Chekhov, leaders of contemporary drama, and includes pictures from many current productions.

The text for the exhibition was written by Francis Ferguson, a critic on the study of theater. This exhibition on Theater is one of many that the Library will provide during the year.

Dr. Hardcastle In Hospital

Dr. A. S. Hardcastle, head of the Biology Department of Washington College, is in Veterans' Hospital in Washington, D. C., for observation and treatment of a long standing illness. It is hoped that he will resume his duties after the Christmas holidays.

Conover Noses Out Greer

By virtue of three votes, "Skip" Conover has been elected to head the Freshman Class as its president. Conover, who hails from Bloomfield, New Jersey, succeeds Larry Wickdick, of Baltimore, who served as temporary president of the class until the time of the elections.

Conover's nearest opponent was Bill Greer, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Third in the running for the presidential post was Bill Chaplin, of Leonardtown, Maryland. The race for the presidency was so close that a bare four votes separated Conover's plurality from that of Chaplin's vote.

Bob Karg was elected to the vice presidency of the class. He defeated his nearest opponent, John Neubold, of Baltimore, Maryland, by four votes. John Heffner, of Pikesville, Maryland, was selected as secretary of the class. Runner-up in the vote for the secretarial post was Dorothy Willis, of Ridley Park, Pennsylvania.

Lee Weisman, of White Plains, New York, was successful in doubling the vote of his nearest opponent, Harry Veros, of Bloomfield, New Jersey, in the running for the treasurer's post.

The elections were held under the direction of ODK. Glen Greer, chairman of the ODK committee on elections, pointed out that approximately 62 out of the 120 in the class voted. Working with Greer in supervising the elections were Fillmore Dryden, Larry Westcott and Fred Nixon, all members of the elections committee of ODK.

Ferguson Hall To Be Scene Mon. - Tues.

As their mid-season presentation, the Washington Players will again present three one-act plays, consisting of a fantasy in the comic vein, a mystery and something new, a portion of classic literature. Casting for the plays will be held next Monday and Tuesday at 3:30 in Ferguson Hall.

The fantasy picked by the Players planning committee to be presented is the "Devil and Daniel Webster", the play version of Steven Vincent Brent's story. It is typical American folklore set in a framework of comedy. The student director of this play is Ralph Leonard.

For a touch of mystery, the "Monkey's Paw", W. W. Jacobs' thriller story will be second on the presentation agenda. Helen Roe will take charge of direction duties for this one. Tapping the classical field of talent, the Players will try for the first time a scene from Shakespeare, choosing the court scene from the "Merchant of Venice". Directing this venture is Elizabeth drama will be Bob Elder.

The casts consist of twenty men and only four women. It will definitely be a men's night when the plays are presented to the Washington College campus. Also in use for these three plays will be a number of extras who will lend atmosphere to the scenes in one or two of the productions.

Hazing Called Off By Sophomores

Hazing has been officially halted by the Sophomore Class.

In spite of the fact that the Sophomore Class defeated the Freshman Class in the annual game between the two classes, "Hazing is all over as far as the Sophomores are concerned," commented John Grimm, class president.

According to the rules established prior to the establishment of hazing this year at Washington College, the football game was to determine whether the Freshman Class had to continue to observe the hazing regulations.

First Semester Exam Schedule

The following is a tentative exam schedule for the first semester, released this week by the Registrar, Mr. Ernaun Foster. Students are requested to check this schedule for possible conflicts. If any are discovered, students are urged to report them to the Registrar's Office immediately. A final draft of the schedule will be published in the ELM following the Christmas vacation.

All courses have been given a place on the schedule. It is the responsibility of the individual instructor to determine and announce to his classes if said exams will be given.

Three two-hour exams are scheduled each day, Monday, January 22 through Friday, January 26 inclusive. This will allow for a six-day vacation between semesters, as the second semester begins Thursday, February 5.

Although it is hoped that no student will have more than two exams on any one day, they are realized that as many as three per day will not constitute a conflict.

Kings College Invading Cage Free

SportsLights

By JIM BEACH

Enthusiastic cage fans will get their first peek at the '50 version of the Flying Pentagon tonight at the local Army. This should prove a bang up scoring duel between our own Nick Scallion and King College's George Dempsey as well as a test of height against speed. Every man on the visitors squad stands at least 6 feet. Last year the "Atheymen" lacked only experience and earned a trip to the play-offs, where they spanked Roanoke 70-64 before bowing out to a strong American U. team 57-78.

Dixie Scoring Race

Emerson Johnson, Hampden-Sidney, has taken an early lead in the M-D individual scoring race. His 26 points against Towson Teachers Saturday was the highest single-game output of any performer during the first week of the season. A notch behind Johnson comes Joe Della Ratta, Catholic U., who garnered 23 points against Towson, followed by Bucky Kimmel, Towson, with a three game 15 point average.

Nice Going Men

Congratulations are in order for a host of athletes this week. Joe Ingarra and Jack Nacrelli were chosen as co-captains of the '51 football eleven; Vince Hungerford was elected to captain the soccer squad; and Paul Becker was picked to lead the cross-country men. Also, to Harry Miller and Stump Gardner who were voted by their football teammates be the outstanding back and most improved player, respectively.

Wacker Sex?

The Sacred R was the scene last Wednesday of a rough n' tough hockey game between the Girls Varsity and the football team, (the bruisers). Bonnett ruined the "gals" chance with two driving goals and the "gents" came out victorious, 2-1.

Joe Ingarra, Jack Nacrelli To Co-Captain Football

Joe Ingarra

Jack Nacrelli

Members of the Football Team have elected Joe Ingarra and Jack Nacrelli, stellar grid members of the '51, to captain the team for its 1950-1951 grid campaign. This is the first time, as far as the record of the Washington College Athletic Office show, that two gridlers have been given the honor of being co-captains of the Football Squad.

Ingarra, a Navy veteran of four years and a father of two, a boy and a girl, hails from Sawashika High School in Franklin Square, Long Island. He is 25, and will complete his fourth year at Washington next year.

Jack Nacrelli, co-captain of the team along with Ingarra, hails from Chester, Pennsylvania, where he attended Saint James High school. He was graduated from high school in 1947 and attended Villanova College for two years, where he played football. Nacrelli, 21, was married this summer to his childhood sweetheart, the former Miss Doris Casey, also of Chester.

The Washington College cagers lift the curtain on the 1950-51 basketball schedule tonight at the Chestertown Armory when they entertain the "Purple Knight" of King College. Game time is set for 8:15 P.M.

This marks the first meeting of the two schools in a competitive sport and from all indications should prove an interesting one. Kings, founded as late as 1935, has basketball as its major sport and is undertaking a vigorous schedule this season.

Leading the parade of "Knights" will be the nation's fourth top scorer of the 1949-50 campaign, George Dempsey. Last season the six foot-four-inch Dempsey scored an over all total of 704 points in 25 games for an average of 28.2. Aiding him greatly was Marshall Davis, this year's captain, who averaged 15 points per game while amassing over 300 points.

Boast Height

The visitors do not fit a man on their score under 6 feet. Teaming up with Dempsey at the forwards will be Joe Jones, a 6 foot 11 inch freshman, Davis, the tallest of the lot at 6'4" will be at center; and Marc Reeger, 6'3" and John Saini 6'2" will be at guards.

Shoemen Speedy

The local squad rested after two warm-up sessions this week, with floor a not particularly tall team but one which will rely on speed. Harry Miller, freshman football sensation, is the only new comer to win a starting role, and he'll be at one of the guard positions with Kenney Sullivan. Such a deadly set-shot artist, is in his third year of varsity ball.

Nifty Nick Scallion, a star in his own right, with a lofty 25.8 average per game last season, and Butch Hught will be at the forwards. Nick has, in his first two seasons on campus, compiled a total of 582 points and holds just over every individual scoring record in the Mason Dixon Conference. Billingsley, an aggressive ball player who handles all the play will probably get the call at center assisted by Jim Taylor and Jack Smith. Taylor, tallest man on the squad has been sidelined for two weeks with an aggravated back injury and may see limited action. Captain Ed "Cool Coon" Gunning will probably see plenty of action as will Don Samele, dandy set shot artist and Bernie Rudo, who proved last year that small men can punch the giants. Missing from this year's pentagon are "Babe Johnson" and Lex Cook, who are ineligible for college competition. Cooke is now devoting his time to coaching a fraternity team in the intra mural league, while Babe has taken over the reins of the College Javes.

Javes In Preliminary

The preliminary set, to scheduled for 7:00 P.M. will bring together the College Javes squad and the College All Stars. The preliminary set will be "Junior" will end West Endway and Rod Ware at forwards; Zimmerman at center; with Mole Jannigan and Landucci at guards.

ragged, allowing the fast-breaking Navy to take them up 30 field goals. Greater helping allowed the Academy team to control both boards.

The scrimmage was a mild success in that it gave Coach Athey a good idea of the weaker points of the team. Following another practice session, Denton's Bobcats, the Sho'men were in tip-top shape for their initial encounter, Friday night.

Scallion Leads Team

To 64-47 Victory

Coach Ed Athey's basketballers defeated the Denton Bobcats in an Eastern Shore League 64-47 in an exhibition game at Denton on Tuesday night. The Sho'men held quarter leads of 11-0, 32-19 and 47-31.

Washington College's ace, Nick Scallion, led the winners with 19 points while Butch McHugh contributed 11. Coach Frank Apicheck, playing for the Bobcats, scored 16 points and Differ, 6 foot, 4 inch center, 12.

Intramural Basketball

The basketball season got underway Monday with the beginning of intramural competition. Teams representing the various organizations and dormitories are competing for the number one spot in the league.

Foxwell and the Day Students started the season on Monday with Foxwell emerging the victors 27-23. High scoring honors for Foxwell were held by Dury and Louis with six points each while Mulvaney pulled in seven, for the Day Students. In the two games played on Tuesday, Alpha Omega Nu outscored G.I. Hall 32 to 26. George Hara held high scoring position for the Nus with 15 points and Stahl paced the G.I. Hall squad with 8. Theta Chi won their first game by defeating a scrappy West Hall quarter 39 to 34. Wilson and Cox led the Theta Chi team to victory with 15 points each. Kreyger sparked the West Hallmen with 13 points as well.

Coach Apicheck announced that a schedule of 90 games will constitute the intramural season with an elimination tournament between the first four teams for the championship. Single games will be played on Monday and Wednesday starting at 4:30. Double games on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday scheduled at 5:30 and 4:30. In the future the games will be played straight through as an experiment. If this system proves successful, it will be used throughout the season.

The coach requests that all teams be on time for their scheduled games and to keep off the floor unless playing. He will also appreciate full cooperation from the individual coaches of the teams. Anyone interested in officiating the games or keeping time and score, please contact Mr. Apicheck.

Stickmen Work Out

Although it's winter and the frost is on the pumpkin, the Coach is wasting no time with the lacrosse team. Practices have been held every day for the past two weeks on the high school field. When interviewed by the Elm as to the purpose of these practices, Coach Clark said that "although the weather is not ideal for this spring, we must keep building for the future and this advanced practice will give the less experienced stickmen some practice."

The schedule this year is to be the most vigorous of any previous year. As yet the schedule has not been released by the Athletic Department, but it will include such top-notch teams as Navy, Duke, Loyola, and the best team in the country, Mount Washington. Prospects look good, with veterans ready to replace the three starters that were lost by graduation.

Of the 25 or more men practicing daily, about nine are new either to the campus or to the game. Coach Clark is giving quite a bit of attention to these men and to the goal, which presents the biggest problem.

Led by Eddie Leonard, Captain for '51, the lacrossemen are out to prove once again that they are business and that lacrosse is here to stay.

Navy Tots Atheymen In Court Scrimmage

Washington College's '50 basketball squad journeyed to Annapolis last Friday for its first warm-up game of the season with Navy. The scrimmage consisted of a regular game and half of another. Navy came out strong in both halves and 33-28.

Navy, with all but one letterman returning, proved too strong for the smaller Washington side. While Dave Mulvaney and Captain Joe Fitzpatrick were outstanding for the Middlers, one could not overlook the sensational play of Williams, McDonough, and Pat Corrigan, ex-Washington College cager.

Nifty Nick Scallion dumped in a full 16 points for the Sho'men in the regular game. Kenney Sullivan controlled the rebounds and Bernie Rudo played a better than fair game for the losers.

The locals were off tremendously in their shots, getting only 13 baskets in 63 attempts. The defense, too, was

Past Pigskin Parade

By McHale

The Washington College football team had its most successful season in many years when it ended the 1950 campaign, with a record of five wins and three defeats. Under the guidance of Dim Montero, in his second year at the helm, the locals rolled to victories over Lycoming, Swarthmore, Bridgewater, Hampden-Sidney and Catholic University while losing to Randolph-Mason, Drexel and Janata. This brought Montero's collegiate coaching record to fourth wins, five losses and two ties.

The Hilltoppers held a decided edge in statistics for the season, outgunning their rivals in every department. On the ground the Monteromen gained 1494 yards while holding the opposition to 1069 yards. The difference was more pronounced in passing offense. The Sho'men, sparked by the Wilson to Miller combination, picked up 1013 yards in the air while eight opponents netted only 448 yards.

Miller Leads Offense

Harry Miller, sophomore from Narwood, Pa., led the team in virtually all departments. Miller, a three-sport star in high school, pounded out 682 yards in 86 rushes for a net 7.9 average, caught 27 passes for 537 yards, averaged 49.3 for eleven punting efforts, and scored 13 touchdowns, exactly half of the team's total production. Johnny Wilson, Wilmington, Del. product, led the Mason and Washington in passing with 37 completions of 86 passes, for 897 yards and nine touchdowns. Wilson was second in team scoring with four TDs and twelve extra points for a total of 36 points.

Co-Captains Elected

At a meeting held last week, the lettermen named Jack Nacrelli and Joe Ingarra co-captains for 1950-51. Both men are Juniors at Washington College and both are linemen. Nacrelli is a graduate of St. James High School, Pa., Ingarra, who hails from Chester, New York, is a veteran, medalist and has two children.

At the same meeting the players voted Harry Miller the outstanding back; Jack Nacrelli the outstanding lineman; and Stump Gardner the most improved player. These three men will receive trophies at a later date.

W. C. Players Reorganize

In a move designed to create greater efficiency within the group, the Washington Flyers tentatively adopted a new constitution last week. Final adoption, revision, or rejection was postponed until after their next production in March in order to allow a trial period for the new constitution.

The document was written by a Constitution Committee consisting of J. Touchstone Jones, electioneer, and Bob Eitel, President, with assistance from Pauline Krumpholtz, Treasurer, Jean Williams, director of "Double Door", and Bob Waddell, stage manager.

As a result of the new constitution, J. Touchstone Jones was named to head the newly formed Promotion Committee. Another feature of the new constitution was the abolishment of the vice-presidents, an elective office formerly held by Sandy Jones who was appointed Production Manager under the new set-up.

Also established was the Policy and Finance Committee, to include the President, Secretary and Treasurer. The Players in addition to the chairman of the promotion and production committees. Provision was also made for the temporary appointment to this committee of other persons, including current directors, if the need arises. A routine election, held to fill the officers required under the constitution, resulted in the unanimous re-election of Bob Eitel, President; Phyllis Seitz, Secretary; and Pauline Krumpholtz, Treasurer.

W. C. Alumnus Fights In Korea

LT Medard J. (Buck) Travers a W. C. alumnus and paratrooper turned fighter pilot, destroyed 26 gasoline-laden trucks in a single day in North Korea on November 13; but the Wolford, Maryland, flyer had to fly three missions to do it.

Travers and three other F-51 Mustang pilots of the 35th Fighter Group discovered the trucks ferried pre-dawn to be destroyed, parked in cover along a North Korean valley. They worked them over, returned for more ammunition, worked them over again and then gave them a third run. Altogether 34 trucks and two fuel dumps went up in flames.

"The whole valley seemed on fire," said Lt. Travers, "we surely cloberbed them."

After attending Washington College from 1915-1917, he joined the paratroopers and served at Ft. Benning, Ga., before becoming a fighter pilot.

Lt. Travers is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Travers of Wolford, and is the husband of Mrs. Fran B. Travers of Wolford.

All his missions in Korea were not Mustang jobs. Earlier in the war he piloted a T-6 unarmed plane used to spot targets for the fighters. Once, flying at night, he used the landing light of his T-6 to illuminate enemy tanks which were trying to make their way through a narrow ravine to attack the American forces.

National Teacher Exams Feb. 17th.

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, Feb. 18, 1951.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the College Examination, which include test in General Culture, Mental Abilities and Basic Skills, and Professional Information; and one or two of nine Optional Examinations, designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught.

Application forms, and a Bulletin of Information describing registration procedure and containing sample test questions, may be obtained from Dr. Livingston.

Harriers Complete Season; Elect Paul Becker, Captain

place in the Mason-Dixon championships, the Washington College cross-country squad awaits the return of fall weather next season when it will be led by a new captain, Paul Becker. The team elected Becker at the close of this season, to replace Ed Dryden, present captain, who concludes his career at W.C. in February.

Dryden Outstanding
Because of the graduation of Bill Bowie, Larry Reimannberg and Bill Tom last year, it looked as if 1950 would be a dark season for the hill and daleers. However, team spirit was high and Ed Dryden opened the dual meet campaign by leading his team to victory over Guilford College. A strong Lewis team then invaded the Shore and handed the Maroon and Black its first defeat, in a closely contested affair. This was the second consecutive individual triumph for Dryden, in which he established a new course record.

The following week found Johns Hopkins on the Shore, led by Earl Grim. Although Grim broke the record established by Dryden once again he ended his squad through the goal posts to another team victory.

Education Courses Are Announced

Juniors who plan to take Education courses should take Education 302, Principles of Secondary School Teaching, the second semester of 1950-1951, even though they did not take 301 the first semester. This course is prerequisite for Education 305-306, and in general no exceptions can be made for students taking 305-306 if they have not had 302.

Education 322, Teaching of Social Studies, will be given the second semester of 1950-1951, but not 1951-1952. All Juniors and Seniors preparing to teach social studies should plan to take the course this year. In 1951-1952 an alternative course, Education 312, Audio Visual Aids, will be offered.

Dr. John Smith Resigns Posts At Washington College

Stunt Night Attracts Large Audience; Scholarship Drive Termed 'Successful'

Drive For Funds Goes Over The Top

The first annual Stunt Night was termed "very successful" by Bill Bonnett, chairman of the Football Scholarship Committee of the IFC. The committee, including Bob Jackson and Mel Littleton, is "quite pleased," he said, at the conclusion of the drive. The talent show, held last Thursday in William Smith Hall drew an audience of approximately two hundred.

Drive Over The Top

Bonnett stated that the talent show will clear almost $130, which, when added to the $250 profit of the concession sales at home games and the income from alumni donations, will put the drive for $400 over the top. The purpose of the fund is to provide a scholarship for a deserving athlete.

Prizes Awarded Winners

Dr. John S. Smith, who acted as Master of Ceremonies, presented the prize for the best group act to Theta Chi fraternity for their dramatized version of "Casey at the Bat". Buddy Brower played the popular poem, as Joe Ingersoll played the immortal Casey. Kenny Sullivan as the pitcher, Harold Gray as the catcher, and Bunch McHugh as the umpire completed the cast, backed by a fine horn section consisting of Theta's.

First place in the individual performance went to Claire Marino and Dolores Owens for their song and dance number, "We're a Couple of Swells". Assisted by Betty Brundage as the piano, the duo received a tremendous ovation.

Claire Marino Stops Show

Claire Marino had previously stopped the show in a last-momenting Zeta number, "A Night in Hankow", by her takeoff of a rich singer. This act opened the evening's performance and was followed by the first of the individual performers, Sam Greto, who sang "Prisoner of Love".

Other group acts included a class number skit by the Alpha Omega Nite, presided over by George Pischarski. The girls of AOP introduced a new note with their "Guys and Gals of Washington College," written by Mary Catherine Powers, '50. Alpha Chi's Musical Show was well received by the enthusiastic audience.

Two other fraternity performances, K.A.N.'s "Night Before Christmas" and Lambda Chi's "South Sea Island" rounded out the variety show. The former was based on the popular play dramatized by members of the College Starving Bob McLeod, "Mr. and Ellsworth Dryden in the lead role. The Lambda group, directed by Larry Weccatt and introduced by Jack Chumlin presented a number of twelve-foot foot, playing maidens and heating music in true Hawaiian style.

Individual Performance Cited

Notable individual performances, in addition to those previously mentioned, included the Freshman Trio, an instrumental group featuring Duke Leary, accordion, Doug Tilly, sax, and Jim Metcalfe, guitar.

"Mandrakes" even popular music show received great acclaim as did Clem Halapais who sang "Thinking of You". All acts were introduced by Dr. Smith, who entertained the assembly with a number of gags, some old, some new, some borrowed and some home. Judges were Dr. Gibson, Mr. Opgardne, Mrs. Rathpe and Mr. Brulaker.

As a post-holiday festivity, the Junior class is sponsoring a juke box dance in Hudson Hall on January 12, 1951. Tickets will be on sale for $3.50 cash or drag, and the tentative time for the dance has been placed at 8:00 to 11:30 P.M.

The general theme of the dance will be an imitation of the Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans. The Juniors plan to decorate Hudson Hall in a replica of the street scene characteristic of the Southern city during the holiday season. Pete Lohman is chairman of this part of the dance.

King, Queen, To Be Chosen

As a highlight during the evening, a King and Queen of the Mardi Gras will be selected by a committee chosen by the Juniors. The couple that is picked will preside over the remainder of the dance.

General chairman for the dance will be Jackie Gress. Elinor Gustafson is in charge of obtaining the necessary chaperones, and Bob Jackson heads the clean up committee.

Bill Bonnett, Junior class president, said that the class has planned the dance as an informal social get-together, and that the "Juniors hoped that everyone would attend and join in the fun."

Mt. Vernon To Publish Sausage

The Sausage, the Washington College annual of original literary work by students, will be published this year by the Mt. Vernon Literary Society. Mr. Ralph Thornton, a former instructor in English at Washington College, who has edited and published the Sausage for the past two years is now studying in Italy.

Student Invited To Contribute

Any student of the college may submit manuscripts for consideration, Betty Irene Ivens, chairman, stated. Both humorous and serious poetry and a few short stories are needed. The manuscripts may be left at Mr. Brulaker's office or put in his mailbox, she said. Manuscripts will be published under a pen name at the request of the author but all contributions for consideration must have the author's name on them. The tentative deadline for manuscripts is March 5 but students are requested to get their work in as early as possible, she stated.

Christmas Bells

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat

Of peace on earth, good-will to men!
And thought how, as the day had come,
The bell-lands of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song

Of peace on earth, good-will to men!
Till, ringing, ringing on its way,
The world evolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Then from each black, accursed breach
The cannon thundered in the East,
And with the sound
The carols drowned
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

It was as if an earthquake rent
The hearth-stones of a continent,
And made forlorn
The household fires
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

In desperate I bowed my head;
"There is no peace in this," I said;
"For hate is strong,
And mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!"

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth he sleep!
The Wrong shall fill,
The Right prevail,
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!"

— HENRY W. LONGFELLOW

TO ALL STUDENTS

With all its happiness, Christmas this year has taken on a solemn tone. For some of you it may be your last Christmas as students for several years to come.
May Santa be generous to all good girls and boys. And may our prayers for peace have a happy result. That is my wish for all of you in 1950. Merry Christmas!

DANIEL Z. GIBSON

Castes Selected For Players Production

Forty Washington College students have elected and have been elected to "read the boards" for the Washington Players in their mid-season presentation of three one-act plays early in March. Coming for the plays was held Monday and Tuesday as a committee consisting of ten Players Officers selected the characters.

First on the list is a fantasy, "The Devil and Daniel Webster." This play will be directed by Ralph Leonard. The cast for this includes:

Mary—Joan Mills
Jules—Ed Ryle
Devil—Jim Beach
Daniel Webster—Jim Eiring
Hathorn—Bill Truett
Charles and Mrs. Miller

Father—Moe Janison
Minor roles will be filled by: Jim Smith, Jim Metcalfe, Jack Charlton, Bill Hetzel, Duke Loyd, Nancy Byham, Tom Hottelroder, Harvey Left, Glen Gray, Gary Wyckoff, Bob Rouse, and Mendel Brille. These students will make up the devil's jury. The wedding round will be played by: George Pischarski, John Grimm, Don Hecker, Jesse Klenzner, Jim Hoot, Nard Grubner, Doc Leverage, Grace Islet, Dot Willis and Marlene Meyer.

The second play, a mystery thriller, "The Money Paw," will be directed by Helen Roe. Its cast includes:

Mrs. White—Joan Mills
Mr. White—Larry Weccatt
Herbert—Fred La Wall
Sgt. Major—Bill McDonnell
Simpson—Frank Von Rindlen

As something new, the Players have picked out a Shakespearean scene to do. This classical bit of drama will be directed by Bob Elder. Those winning parts in the Court Scene of the Merchant of Venice are:

Bertie—Claire Marino
Nerissa—Dot Fernald
Shylock—Walt Volter
Antonio—Al Mudd
Gratiano—John Stewart
Bassanio—Bob Brink
Duke of Venice—Tom Lower

The casting committee which picked the characters includes: Bob Elder, president of the Players and director of the Shakespearean presentation;

Phyllis Satz, Secretary; Polly Kounjinn, Treasurer; Sandy Jones, production manager; J. Touchstone Jones, promotion manager; Helen Roe and Ralph Leonard, directors; Ed Ryle, post president; and Mrs. Opgardne and Mr. Brulaker, faculty advisors.

Zeta Dance Tonight

On tap for tonight will be the annual Zeta Christmas dance—the "Winter Whirl," from 8 to 12:30. Tickets will be on sale tonight at the door for $1.50 per couple.

Playing the music for the dance will be the "Blue Notes" from Kenneth Square, Pa. They will be returning for the intermission session at the Sadie Hawkins dance.

Proceeds from the dance will go to Cerebral Palsy, an organization to which Zeta chapters all over the country contribute.

Attend Social Studies Council

Professors Charles B. Clark and Jack W. Henry of the History and Political Science Department, extended an invitation to the Atlantic States Council on Social Studies, on Saturday, December 9, at Wilmington, Delaware. Many cupholders of these meetings was devoted to the Far East.

Dr. John Sylvester Smith, who came to Washington College in September 1947 as Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Religion and Administrative Assistant to the President, this week announced his resignation from those posts. The resignation is effective as of the end of the current semester.

at which time he will assume his new position at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

"Not Easy . . . To Leave"

In a letter of resignation to Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of the college, Dr. Smith stated: "It has been an honor to serve Washington College, through the efforts of Dr. Smith in his capacity as a teacher. As Administrative Assistant to the President, he was in charge of the Student Campaign in 1949, and was active in the campaign of 1950. His other duties included the editing of the catalog, arranging the assembly programs, operating the speaker's bureau, and serving as Marshall at Commencement. He also acted as the campus, Fairleigh's advisor and much as "Chapman of the College." He is a former Phi Kappa and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Duties, Activities

Since the tenure of Dr. Smith, the Department of Philosophy and Religion has become a major department, mainly through the efforts of Dr. Smith in his capacity as a teacher. As Administrative Assistant to the President, he was in charge of the Student Campaign in 1949, and was active in the campaign of 1950. His other duties included the editing of the catalog, arranging the assembly programs, operating the speaker's bureau, and serving as Marshall at Commencement. He also acted as the campus, Fairleigh's advisor and much as "Chapman of the College." He is a former Phi Kappa and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Begins New Duties in February

On February 1st, Dr. Smith will begin his new duties as Director of Public Relations at Iowa Wesleyan College. He will supervise a staff of five in the college's Student Placement, Alumni Relations, and Publicity. He will travel a great deal, as the student body, currently numbering 300 students, is drawn from a large area, predominantly from the Chicago district.

Iowa Wesleyan College is supervised by the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee. Its curricula places emphasis on philosophy, religion, music and art.

In an informal interview Dr. Smith stated: "It will greatly mean the students here, among whom I have made many friends. I intend to visit this campus whenever I am in the East."

Served As Pastor Locally

Avoid from his college activities, Dr. Smith has served as part-time pastor for the past two and one-half years at the St. Paul-Berkeley Methodist Church. Other activities have made him a familiar figure in Kent County and vicinity.

Biographical Sketch

Dr. Smith was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and graduated from the Tom's River, New Jersey, high school. He received a B.S. in Ed. degree from the Temple University Teachers' Col- (Continued on Page Two)

SportsLights

By JIM BEACH

Although outshine in the scoring column by Nick Scallion last Friday, George Dempsey, Kings College forward, attracted considerable comment from local game fans. It was apparent throughout the contest that the visiting quintet was moulded around the towering forward, who moved with smoothness and coordination, characteristic of the terrific ball player he is. His 24 points prove that he is a constant scoring threat, being particularly effective on tap-ins. Big George has another year of basketball eligibility and should draw plenty of comment in Eastern game ranks.

FRATERNITY BOWLING LEAGUE

In an effort to stimulate interest and friendly competitive spirit among the fraternities a four team bowling league has been organized. The teams consist of 5 men each, and activity is expected to get under way Thursday, January 5, at the local bowling center. The league will be tested for a couple of months and, if it works out satisfactorily, other groups will be encouraged to organize teams.

BASEBALL BONUS RULE OUT

The major leagues have tossed out the player bonus rule and high school agreement. (The minors had previously voted to kill both rules).

The bonus rule, whereby players were paid for signing their contract, allowed a player only one year of minor league seasoning. Then, in the case of major teams, the player had to be put on the roster, or waivers asked on him.

The high-school rule was a "hands off" sign to the "pros" so long as the athlete was still in high school.

1950 Soccer Parade

The W. C. boosters opened their 1950 soccer season with a 2-0 victory over Towson Teachers. Juan Hernandez opened the scoring for the Maroon and Black with a marker in the second quarter. In the second half, W. C. scored again on a boot by George Horn. The Towson game was followed by a 2-1 win over Bucknell. With the score 1-1 with only 30 seconds remaining in the game, Hernandez scored to provide the margin of victory.

The Sho'men registered their third straight victory at the expense of Johns Hopkins to the tune of 3-2. After a scoreless first half, both teams settled goals in the third stanza. In the fourth quarter the Shore team scored twice to take a 3-1 lead. With eight minutes remaining, Hopkins scored the final marker of the game. The remaining minutes of the game were tense, but the Sho'men warmed up Hopkins' desperate attempts for a tie.

Written Maryland proved no match for the Maroon and Black as they rolled to 5-1 victory, featuring Captain Brower's three goals. Loyola set the locals down in the loss column for the first time. Leading 1-0 at half time, Loyola took a 2-0 advantage in the third quarter, and added two more goals in the final period to win 4-1. The lone tally for the Sho'men was scored by Jim Twilley.

W. C. suffered its second setback at the hands of the U. of Delaware by the score of 5-2. Delaware seized an early lead and it wasn't until the final period that the locals were able to score. Walt Oriel and Jesse Brandenburg scored the scoring for the Sho'men. Baltimore U. handed the Maroon and Black their third consecutive defeat by the slender margin of 2-1. B. U. scored first in the opening quarter. The score remained 1-0 until mid-way in the fourth stanza, when Hernandez tied it up. With four minutes left, B. U. scored the winning goal on a penalty kick, giving them the Mason-Dixon title.

The next victim of the locals was Drexel Tech who fell 3-2. The game, played on the lovers' field, found Oriel, Hernandez, and Brandenburg each netting a goal.

In the last game of the season, W. C. swapped American U. under a 6-0 score. Buddy Brower, playing his best college game, started it all with a goal in the first period. This was followed by two consecutive markers by Hernandez, and shots by Brandenburg, Horn, and Twilley.

Intramural Basketball

By Ben Kroske

On Wednesday, December 4, Lambda Chi met a scrappy Newman Club team in which the Newman Club emerged victorious by a score of 20 to 10. Fredricks was the high scorer for the Newman Club with a tally of ten points while Fisher, Trader, and Faulkner contributed four each for the Lambda Chi's.

Thursday a double header was played between Somerset and Nappa Alpha; and Theta Chi and the Day Students. Zolinski led the KA's to 10 to 15 victory over Somerset by racking up twelve points. High scorer for Somerset was Griffin with a total of six points. Theta Chi had a field day by winning the second game by a score of 46 to 8. Cox yeld the OXmen to an easy victory with a scoring total of nine points.

Two more contests were held on Friday in which the GI squad defeated the Foxwell "Foxes" 38 to 33. In the second game Lambda Chi lost their second game of the week to the West Hall quintet by a score of 33 to 25. Evenman started the GI team with 8 points. High scoring honors for Foxwell were held by Karg with 9. Schieler was the high scorer for the West Hall squad with 9 while Nubian tallied 9 for the Lambda Chi team.

Kappa Alpha won their second game of the season by defeating the Newman squad by a close score of 25 to 23 on Tuesday. High scorers for the KA's and the Newman Club were Zolinski with 16 and Miller with 14 respectively. GI won the second contest of that day by tuppung over the Day Students 42 to 15. GT team was led to victory by high scoring Talano with 15 points. Maloney sank 6 to hold high scoring honors for the Day Students, Alpha Omega Nu defeated Somerset by a one score of 26 to 24. Stewart scored 11 for the AON's and Washebe and Caswell tallied seven apiece.

The standings of the teams in the league are as follows:

Nick Scallion Leads Team To Victory

W. C. opened its 1950-51 basketball season with 56-40 win over Kings College, of New Castle, Delaware, last Friday night at the Clertstown Armory.

Nick Scallion took individual scoring honors with 35 points, getting 19 in the first half. The Shore quintet jumped to a quick 7-0 lead early in the first quarter. After both teams reached double figures in the scoring column, the Maroon and Black maintained a fifteen point margin, leading 32-20 at half time.

The boys from across the Bay were never out of the money until late in the final quarter. After their big forward, George Dempsey, they were a constant threat, as his 24 points will testify. Dempsey was the East's third highest per game scorer in the 1949-50 season, and is an ever present scorer against any team.

Coach Athey was able to give his entire squad a chance to see action. Butch McHugh and Bill Brogan were compelled to sit the final quarter out because of fouls. Kenney Sullivan was close behind with 22 points.

Scallion had his eye fixed on the hoop from the outset of the game; his 35 points being just thirty three of the record scored 38. Next to Scallion in scoring was Bernie Rado with five points. The remaining 22 points in scoring was divided among the rest of the squad.

Bow To P.M.C.

The following night, the locals traveled to Chester, Pa., and found the going pretty rough. Pennsylvania Military College handed them their first court defeat, 86-63 at Hyatt Army. At higher institutions 22 points for the victors, but yielded top scoring honors to Nick Scallion who dumped in a lusty 28.

Kenney Sullivan, hustling from the outside, garnered 10 counters for the W. C. quintet, followed closely by Harry Miller with 9. Scallion appeared to have his sights well fixed on the hoop, but was forced out of the game mid-way through the second half because of personal fouls. At one point during the last half P.M.C. staged one long scoring spurt during which they scored 27 points to Washington's 7.

Twilley, Howard Holdovers Mile

Upon the graduation of Larry Brandenburg and Mickey Hubbard, this year's relay team will not have at its disposal a time retiring, the illustrious Washington Evening Star Trophy that the Maroon and Black had so little trouble winning last season.

Dina Montero has called all indoor trackmen out for practice and a dissent group has been working all week. Two of the top men of last year's relay team are back, Kenney Howard and Jim Twilley. However, the job of rounding out the four man unit, will be by no means be easy.

The Shoremen have entered only two winter meets, those being the Washington indoor games and the South Atlantic meet in Baltimore. Due to lack of man power and expense, the team will not travel to New York or North Carolina. However, several members of our team will be running for the Baltimore Olympic Club which has scheduled eleven meets this winter. The thinkands who have turned out this week are Ed Dwyer, Fred L. Wall, Frank Byham, Tom Benson, Paul Becker, George Eichlerberger, Harold Garrett, Jack McCollough, John Minnick, Ken Howard and Jim Twilley.

Scallion Leads State Scorers

Nick Scallion, Washington College's sophomore basketball star, has lost none of his accuracy at the hoop circles. Early returns from the State's nine collegiate polling places indicate that the Hazelton, Pa. "lid" is due for another bangup season.
So far, with only two games under his belt the slender junior has bucketed 63 points for an average of 31.5. (This does not include the West Chester game.)

New Major Departments

At a recent faculty meeting, the Department of Philosophy and Religion was raised to the status of a Major. It has been possible to minor in this field of study since 1918, but until recently the program had not fulfilled the necessary requirements to merit its adoption as a major. A total of thirty-two hours are now offered, twenty-four hours is the minimum requirement for any student to qualify as a major in that field.

Three new courses, totaling nine hours, have been added to the curriculum, including the History of Philosophy in three, (three-part series: Ancient, Medieval, and Modern, Philosophy 301, "Introduction to Philosophy" has been changed to a pre-requisite sophomore 201 level.

Dean Livingston announced that students may minor in Psychology, effective in '51-52. Dean Livingston said that no new courses have been added, as those now offered provide sufficient qualifications for a major in the field.

Mt. Vernon Events

New Scoreboard

Work was begun this week on the Mount Vernon Library Society project of a scoreboard for the athletic field. The scoreboard which is being erected at the south end of Kibbles field, will be used for both football and baseball games.

Clayford Exins and Dave Phippen are in charge of the construction. The board will be erected of wood and is being placed in a concrete base. All materials have been donated by the National Lumber Company, at Denton, Maryland.

It is estimated by the Society that the board will cost approximately $75. Part of this fund was raised by a bake sale held downtown last Saturday. For the remainder of the amount, Mount Vernon hopes to sponsor a dinner in similar project.

Assembly Programs

A series of four speakers, representing diverse fields, have been selected to appear in the assembly programs for the remainder of the first semester. Yesterday, the Religious Fellowship brought to the campus Dr. John B. Oman of Trenton, New Jersey, who was a former chaplain of prisoners of New Jersey.

Displaced Student To Speak

A young displaced student of Greece, Sophia Mercia, will address the assembly on January 4, 1951, as a representative of the World Spelunk Service Fund. This organization has as its purpose the purchase of books and equipment to rehabilitate the overseas schools. An appeal is made to the students of the United States to help support this venture.

Naval Officer, Rabbi, Schedules
On January 11, Lieutenant Robert Danley of the United States Naval Intelligence will speak on "Communism in America". The Friends Society has invited Lieutenant Danley to speak and will sponsor this program as part of their group functions. For the final program of the first semester, Rabbi Lester W. Roubles will be present. Rabbi Roubles is from Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Design New Type Football Shoe

A new style football shoe has recently been revealed by one of the leading equipment manufacturers. This shoe assures reduction of stumbles, fumbles and falls. A ring cleat has been placed on the sole, directly beneath the ball of the foot and an additional set of circular cleats has been added on the heel and toe.

According to tests made at a northern university laboratory these cleats give more traction, better grip, quicker and safer stops, and greater maneuverability. The ring cleat, first revolutionary change in football shoes in 25 years, is made of light-weight aluminum alloy. It allows more foot support with an assurance of reduction in the number of blisters; and clogging of mud resulting in loss of traction is eliminated.

Football authorities report that a number of injuries are ankle, knee and hip with a large percentage resulting from twisting forces on the leg. The new cleat shoe provides a broader platform of stability, offers better traction, and therefore enables the player to turn with greater ease and with less chance of twisting an ankle or knee.

Johnson's Jayvee's Trip College All-Stars

Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team scored a decisive 62-25 victory over the College All-Stars in the preliminary to the King's College game last Friday night. This was the first game of the season for Coach Babe Johnson's Jayvees.

"Blonde" Bob Appleby, freshman forward for the Jayvees, was the game's top scorer with 16 points while his teammate Ellis Boyd, linky center, contributed 12. The two diminutive guards, Mike Janigan and Wes Edwards, were outstanding with their ball handling and playmaking.

The All-Star aggregation was composed of the best basketball players of the college, who are not participating in varsity or junior varsity competition. They were coached by Lee Cook, last year's varsity captain, who also led them in the point getting department with 12 marks.

Besides some 300/00 acrobatic play, the porcine has sharp teeth that can sever a finger in one bite. But to the naturalist who knows his "quill pig", porky is one wild animal most readily caught and killed without a gun. Contrary to common belief, it can not throw its quills and may be safely gorged by the tail near the head. Unlike other animals that turn and attempt to bite, the porcine seeks only to pull away.

Dr. A. B. Hardcastle Dies; Biology Department Head

Dr. A. B. Hardcastle, member of the faculty at Washington College, died of heart disease at the Mount Alto Hospital at Washington, D.C., Thursday morning, December 14. He leaves his wife, who resided with him in Chestertown, and a daughter by a former marriage.

Aaron Bascom Hardcastle was born May 27, 1912, in Village, Virginia. After graduating from Mars Hill Junior College, in North Carolina, he attended the University of Richmond, where he was a graduate student in biology. During this same period he taught zoology and botany at the Hopewell, Virginia, High School. In 1939 he entered Duke University where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1942 in biology.

During the war Dr. Hardcastle served as an officer in the Medical Corps of the United States Naval Reserve, where he did special work on tropical disease in the Pacific. After being released from active duty in 1946, he held a position with the United States Bureau of Animal Industry where he did special research on animal diseases. In 1948 he assumed the position as Head of the Department of Biology at Washington College.

Dr. Hardcastle was a member of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity, and of Phi Beta Kappa. He was a member of the American Society of Zoologists, the American Society of Parasitologists, the Heterological Society of Washington, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was author or co-author of a number of articles representing his research in parasitology and published in leading biological journals.

Notice To Students

Any student who withdraws from college for any reason should report to the Registrar's office and fill out Blanks for Withdrawal.

All students who have college, including those who graduate, are requested to write a letter to the Dean stating when and why you are leaving. This must be done before you leave in order that our records may show that you were in good standing at time of withdrawal.

Dr. A. B. Hardcastle

Three Dances Scheduled

Three dances grace the W.C. social calendar as the Junior Class leads off with "The Mardi Gras" to be held tonight in Hodson Hall. The affair will begin at 8:30 and the price is 50 cents stag or drag. Special entertainment is on tap for the intermission.

Country Club Caper

Next on the list of events is the Lambda Dance to be held at the Country Club on Friday, January 19, from 9:00 to 12:00. Free admission and everyone is invited. This is an annual affair given by the fraternity. School rules will apply at the dance.

ACONA Semester Hop

To bring in the new semester, the Alpha Omicron Nu's are presenting the No-Summer Dance on Feb. 2 — an annual event on the Hill. It will be held from 9:00 to 12:00 in Cain Hall and will be semi-formal. Music will be by Manny Klein, an old stand-by for Nu dances. Admission to the dance is $2.00 per couple.

Dr. Richard M. Foster, Head of the Department of Geology at Franklin and Marshall College will speak here next Tuesday. He will be sponsored by the Society of Science. His lecture will be accompanied by a series of pictures in color on his collection of geological formations. The time and place of the lecture will be announced.

Forced To Cancel Play

Due to present world conditions, the Washington Players were forced to cancel the presentation of "The Merchant of Venice" (Court Scene), one of their one-act plays due for showing in March. The cast dropped almost 40% due to enlistments.

Casts To Be Used Elsewhere

The cancellation was announced early this week by Bob Elder, president of the Players and director of the Merchant of Venice. He also stated that those characters that were left out by the cutting of the play would be placed in one of the other two, "The Devil and Daniel Webster" and "The Monkey's Paw." These will be presented as scheduled on March 7 and 8.

A new promotion manager for the Players, was appointed this week as the Air Corps took J. Touchstone Jones away from the job. His vacancy will be filled by Jane Bradley.

Roe, Elder, Elected

At the last meeting, Helen Roe was unanimously elected treasurer of the group to fill the office that will be left vacant when Pauline Kourjian, present treasurer, graduates in March. Bob Elder has since been elected to direct "The Devil and Daniel Webster." He replaces Ralph Leonard, who, because of other duties, will be unable to handle the job.

Senator Goldstein

Is Majority Leader

Hon. Louis L. Goldstein, a member of the Class of 1935 of Washington College, has been chosen majority floor leader in the Senate of the 1951 Maryland General Assembly. Goldstein is a graduate of the University of Maryland Law School. He served as an officer in the U. S. Marine Corps during World War II and is now in his second term in the Maryland Senate. Prior to World War II, and immediately upon graduation from Law School, Goldstein was elected for a term to the Maryland House of Delegates.

While at Washington College, Goldstein was active in extra-curricular activities, including athletics.

Famous Author Dies Here

Richard Krebs, famous German author and former espionage agent, died of lobar pneumonia on January 11, 1951, in the Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital.

A resident of Still Point, Mr. Krebs appeared several times on the Washington College campus to lecture about his experiences and knowledge obtained while an agent of both the Nazis and Communists. The Mount Vernon Literary Society presented him during one of the assembly programs, and he spoke on the conditions in Germany that had precipitated economic and political circumstances in the country.

Under the pen name of Jan Valtin, he produced in 1941 a book concerning his work as both a Nazi and Communist agent, "Out of the Night." Because of the book's timely appearance, it sold over a million copies, was published in several languages, and received the Book of the Month award.

Mr. Krebs was born and educated in Germany, and by 1926 was involved in Communist espionage. After leaving Germany, he entered the United States and got into difficulties that placed him in San Quentin. He was deported to Germany but returned to the United States after being charged with high treason in Germany. He spent the rest of his life denouncing the ideas that had formerly intrigued him. He exposed Russian as well as German secret police methods. During World War II he served for two years in the Pacific and received an award for his military action. In 1947 he obtained his citizenship.

As a resident of Still Point, Mr. Krebs lived a quiet life, serving a term as president of the Chestertown High Parents-Teachers Association. He also traveled about, lecturing on his experiences.

Dr. Daniel J. Clowse and Dr. John S. Smith have been attending a conference this week of the American Association of Colleges in Atlantic City, New Jersey. A report of this conference will appear in next week's Elm.

11 Enter Air Force

As a result of the current state of national emergencies, many Washington College students have withdrawn from school for military service. According to the college records, fifteen men have presented withdrawals, and it is expected that others will not return in the second semester.

Only One Joins Navy

Of the fifteen men who have left, eleven entered the air force. These include William Chaplin, Jan Jones, Bob Coffey, William Kommer, Wilton Carr, Joe Fife, Harry England, Nelson Conover, Ralph Kelbaugh, Henry Paschall, and Jack Woodfield. Two students, Dick Skipp and Lind Willard, received their call from the marine reserves, and James Long has also entered this branch of service. Only one person, Harry Vetro, has entered the Navy this far.

Semester Credit Under Discussion

Dr. Livingston reported that, as yet, the college has not decided how to handle the problem of credit for the semester in case a student enters the armed forces, but the faculty will discuss this aspect and report their decision in the near future. Other colleges and universities have been faced with the same difficulty. For example, at Long Island University it was decided that if a student voluntarily leaves school for the service, credit may be lost if he has not completed the semester's work.

Statement of Withdrawal

Persisting particularly to withdrawals for the armed forces, a notice has been posted reminding students to submit to the Dean of the College a statement of withdrawal. It should include both the time and reason for leaving school.

MID-SEMIESTER VACATION

Students may leave school for the mid-semester vacation immediately upon completion of their first exam and providing they have registered for the second semester. Classes will resume on Thursday, February 1, 1951.

Dr. Gibson has requested all students who withdraw from Washington College, including ex-students, draftsmen, and graduates to keep in contact with the College in order that their records and correspondence may be kept up-to-date.

Athemen Bow To Teachers; Topple W.M.C.

Sports Lights

By JIM BEACH

With two games under their belts since the holiday vacation the Sho-men of Washington College still boast the state top scoring star in Nick Scallion. Over a 5 game span the nifty southpaw has compiled a lofty 28.6 average.

In the post holiday tiffs Nick has damped in 21 and 31 points respectively against West Chester State Teachers and Western Maryland. The Western Maryland contest marked the first Mason Dixon Conference game for the locals and they won a thriller in the final moments on two quick field goals by Danny Samek.

Appie, Athey, Johnson, star . . .

Glad to see "Babe" Johnson who was declared ineligible for college ball, going great guns for the Denton Bobcat quintet of the Eastern Shore Basketball League.

Coaches Apicella, Athey, and Johnson form an integral part of the squad that has the Bobcats in second place, one half game behind the pace-setting Georgetown five.

High School Star

Down at the Eastern Shore one certain Steve Gulyas, Ocean City High center, is attracting considerable attention from local coaches. The 6 foot 5 inch youngster has racked up 74 points in 3 games for a respectable 24.2 average.

In a recent contest with a Salisbury quintet he scored 22 points before retiring after 2 minutes of the third quarter. Such a giant might prove quite an asset to such a small crew as W.C. floors.

Happy New Year

Though it may seem somewhat late the thought is still there. On behalf of the entire Sports Staff your writer would like to take this opportunity to wish you all a very happy and prosperous New year.

Thinclads Eye M-D Trophy

During the past three weeks there have been six thinly clad track boys taking training drills in preparation for the Washington Evening Star indoor track and field meet in Washington, D.C. tomorrow night.

The task of retiring the beautiful Shaw trophy has been thrown to our own several other outstanding Mason-Dixon schools. Our main threat may be Catholic University, however. Bridgewater, Randolph-Macon and Rowan College are by no means to be forgotten. The trophy, donated by Shaw and Shaw Jewelry Co. of Washington, was brought to the Shore last year when the mile relay consisting of John Howard, Mickey Hubbard, Jim Twilley and Larry Brannenburg ran away from all competition to victory.

The Maroon and Black needs but one more victory to gain permanent possession of the trophy. However, the relay tomorrow night is not to be a 440 yard mile relay, but a medley mile relay. That is, the first man runs 220 yds., the second, 220 yds., but the third man runs 440 yds. and the anchor leg is a distance of 890 yds. The six runners taking the trip are Ken Howard, Fred LeWall, Frank Byham, Jim Twilley, George Eichberger and Tim Dryden. Kenny is to sprint the first 220 and LaWall or Byham the second. Jim Twilley will run the 440 and either Eichberger or Dryden is to run the last half-mile leg.

Due to the graduation of Braden-burg and Hubbard the team has been weakened, nevertheless, this year's squad is in good shape and will give all competition a run for their trophy in Washington.

With school closing for the Christmas holidays and students hurrying hither and yon home, two representatives from Washington College were attending the Sixty-eighth annual meeting of the United States Inter-collegiate Lacrosse Association in New York.

Rule changes and honor awards directed attention to staff coaches, the 1950 All-American team, and their guests gathered together to toast a successful year in lacrosse and to start the ground work for 1951.

A note of interest to those following Lacrosse here at school - Washington College by its wins over Swarthmore, Delaware, Lehigh, and West Chester emerged as the 1950 Middle Atlantic States Champ. (Their picture will appear in the 1951 Lacrosse Guide that will hit the newsstands March 1.)

At the meeting of the Lacrosse Association, a color film designed to help teach the sport was shown for the first time. It will be distributed to schools and colleges desiring such help in starting the lacrosse sport, the oldest game native to North America.

As to the future success for Lacrosse here at Washington College only Uncle Sam has the answer right now. However, with the first day of practice still a month away, the vicarage of W.C. are building up a spirit and determination that may cause opposing teams trouble on many a Saturday afternoon this spring. (Any weakness?)

It will be four years ago this spring that Lacrosse was reactivated here on the hill and those seniors that were freshmen then will be out to make it a season long remembered.

Johnson's Juniors

Win Prelim Tilt

With Richard "Mole" Janigan jumping 18 points through the hoops, the Washington College Junior Varsity basketball team scored a lopsided victory over Harlock Independent team from Harlock, Maryland in the preliminary game Saturday night by the score of 63-10. This gives the little Shoemen a season record of three wins and one defeat.

"Little Mole" scored six six field goals and sank six shot hoops for his 18 points. Wes Edwards contributed nine. Bob Appleby and Rod Ware played outstanding floor games for Babe Johnson's penmanship.

Ed "Mole" Exley, Sr. Washington State Teachers College basketball player, led his team in a losing cause with 15 points. The Holcheck brothers, John and Bill, contributed 8 and 7 points respectively for Harlock.

Forensic Society Holds Tryouts For Debating

Members of the Paul E. Titowitch Forensic Society are currently holding tryouts for positions on the debating team which will represent Washington College in a league consisting of several schools in the Middle Atlantic States area. The topic to be debated by the schools in the league concerns the question of the formation of a new association of world states, excluding Communist Russia and its satellite.

The team to be chosen will consist of four members, each two regular and two alternates. One team will uphold the affirmative view of the question, while the other will debate the topic from the negative viewpoint. Those contending for positions on

Sho' Javees Trip Beacom

Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team scored an easy victory in Wilmington, Delaware, January 9 at the expense of Beacom College by the score of 62-47. Coach Babe Johnson substituted frequently all twelve of his Juniors in the game against the two-year Business College.

Pacing the center for the Jayvees were Wes Edward, Ellsworth Boyd and Bob Appleby with 15, 13 and 12 points respectively. High scoring bonanza for the game, however, went to Leonard Phillips, 6 and 4 in the center for Beacom, who dropped in six field goals and five fouls for a total of 27 points. Bill Wooten, ex-Salisbury State basketball player also contributed 12 points for the Javees.

Western Maryland vs. Washington College

Western Maryland fell before a W.C. onslaught last Saturday night as the locals handed out a 38-55 beating in a Mason-Dixon Basketball Conference game at the Chieftown Army.

This marked the conference opener for both teams. The Washington quint has now won 2 of its 5 outings, while W. M. has been dropped in 6 of their 7 starts.

Washington's Nick Scallion was high man for the night with 31 points, upping his season average to 28.6 points per game. The nifty southpaw started off the game strong, amassing 20 of his team's total of 27 points at half time.

Western M. began turning on the steam in the second half, and, with the aid of their 6 ft. 5 in. center, Chuck Hammaker, led the lead deep into the final stanza.

The fourth quarter was characterized by hotly contested decisions, hard scrappy plays, and highlighted by Danny Sullivan, two foul shot hero, which put the game on ice. Danny played his outstanding game since donning a Sho'man uniform along with collecting 9 points.

High noon for the Green and Gold was Hammaker with 20 markers. Kenny Sullivan and Don Press each had 11 for the evening.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE vs. WEST CHESTER COLLEGE

West Chester College piled up a 63-50 score to down W. C. for the third time in four starts on the losers court.

The invaders had the situation well in hand after overcoming an early slip by the locals.

West Chester emerged the victors for the second time in as many encounters with the Maroon and Black. Nick Scallion hit the cords for 21 points, but he and his mates, proved no match for their western foes.

At times the game got a little rough, resulting in the removal of Washington's Kenny Sullivan and Butch McHugh because of fouls. West Chester also saw two of its quint defined for roughness.

It was these same Westerners that handed the Sho'men their second loss of the season. This time the scene of action was the victors court the day before Christmas was dismissed for Christmas vacation.

This is the first of five consecutive home games for the Athemen, the longest stand of the season. The remaining four home games will be at Western Maryland, Baltimore U., Towson Teachers, and American U. in that order.

Four out of every five homes in America are built of wood, and the remainder use wood in some form or other.

Harrison Takes Post

A. Powell Harrison, of St. Michaels, Maryland, a graduate of the Washington College Class of 1919, has been assigned to the post of student campaign manager, a job formerly held by Al Crummons. Crummons resigned recently to take a position with the Dupont Company of Delaware.

The appointment will be a temporary one only, as Harrison expects to be in the Army Air Corps sometime this spring. In his new position, Harrison will endeavor to stimulate interest in Washington College among the high school students who are to be graduated in June. Harrison also held a similar position as the Business College in Wilmington, Delaware.

While a student at Washington, Harrison was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. He was editor of The Pegasus of 1948.

Aptitude Tests Available

The Dean's office is making available to students the opportunity to take aptitude tests. These tests will give an idea of aptitude for certain vocations and will become a part of the student's record. Scores will be made available to students and there will be opportunity to discuss test results.

Male students who have specific interests are urged to take these tests regardless of the present emergency which was present continuing education at this time. In any event the student will have an idea of aptitude for a given vocation.

The schedule of tests follows:

- February
- 8 — Medical Aptitude — Junior and seniors.
  - 15 — Nursing Aptitude — all classes.
  - 22 — Engineering Aptitude — Juniors and seniors.
- March
- 1 — Clerical Aptitude — all classes.
  - 8 — Stenographic Aptitude — all classes.
  - 15 — Salesmanship Aptitude — Juniors and seniors.
  - 29 — Law Aptitude — Juniors and seniors.

Students planning to take any one test should sign in the Dean's office at least one week prior to the test, indicating intention, and to assure a sufficient supply of tests being on hand. Tests will be administered in Room 34 at 8:15 on days indicated.

Changes Listed In Faculty Offices

At the beginning of the second semester the following changes will be made in faculty offices:

Dr. Newlin, Mr. Barnett, and Mr. Brubaker will leave Waters Hall and will occupy Room 30 in Building Library (second floor, first room to the left).

Mr. Heary and Mr. Padgett will leave Waters and Ferguson Halls and occupy Room 30 in Building Library (second floor, first room to the right).

Dr. Gordon and Mr. Bennett will leave Waters Hall and occupy Ferguson 6.

Student Fund Campaign

A group of students representing various phases of college life met on Monday with Dr. Smith to discuss a project for obtaining money for the World Student Service Fund.

For three years, Washington College has contributed to the organization, and each year a representative has appeared in the assembly to discuss the work of the World Student Service Fund. Last week Sophia Meria of Greece was guest speaker.

In place of individual donations, this year a definite program will be presented as a means of obtaining the money. It was decided that information would be obtained from the World Student Service organization concerning specific supplies that the college could contribute, and in the near future an activity will be planned.

The committee working on this idea consists of Tom Benson, Duke Cox, John Grim, Elinor Gustafson, Muriel Heile, Sandy Jones, Vince MacGillivray, Sandy Rorder, Ed Ryke, and Phyllis Seitz.

As chairman, the group appointed Elinor Gustafson.

Candidates for June graduation who have completed the work at the end of the semester and do not plan to return for the second semester, and any students who are withdrawing voluntarily, are requested to file a written notice of their plans in the Dean's office on later than two weeks prior to withdrawal. Such written notice is necessary for students who expect merits of honorable dismissal to continue work in other higher institutions.

The Puccine Society presented for the assembly program on Thursday a forum of four members discussing the Far Eastern situation with special emphasis on Korea. The program was presented by the Political Union division of the society in accordance with one of their aims to bring important political issues to the student body.

As Vice-President and head of the Political Union division, Jim Harbel, served as moderator. The five members presenting their views at the forum were Elinor Dryden, Oren Robinson, Muriel Heile, Henry Loney, and Walt Voecker.

Originally, the society had hoped to present Lieutenant Robert Duane of United States Intelligence for the assembly. However, Lt. Duane was called to active duty in the Far East and was unable to appear.

College Plans To Hold Summer Session

Student Draft Prominent Subject At Convention

The national emergency and its effect on college enrollment was the principle subject discussed at the annual convention of the Association of American Colleges, held at Atlantic City, New Jersey from January 8 to January 10. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, and Dr. John S. Smith, Administrative Assistant, represented this college at the convention.

Declaration of Manpower
As a result of the divisions held at the convention, attended by prominent educators and scholars from all parts of the country, a "DECLARATION ON MANPOWER" was drawn up and submitted to Mrs. Anna Rosenburg, Assistant Secretary of Defense. The following is a partial list of proposals recommended by the Association to the Department of Defense:

1. We request that appropriate authorities take immediate steps to assure that students whose induction is now postponed or deferred will be permitted to apply for entrance, at the termination of their postponement, any branch of the armed services in which voluntary enlistment is now permitted, regardless of any interfering action by the Selective Service System.

2. "If the shortage of trained personnel is becoming acute, and women power is to become even more important source of leadership in civilian service, the authorities we urge adequate and immediate comprehensive planning to ensure the constructive utilization of the ability and training of all college women.

3. "Certain groups of students now enrolled in colleges and universities have progressed so far with their studies, that it is in the national interest to allow them to complete their course. Among the students to be deferred during the present transitional period should be:

A. Students in professional schools of theology, of medicine, dentistry and related health fields, and in the graduate schools in mathematics, engineering, and physical and biological sciences.

B. All students who will have completed two years of undergraduate study in any curriculum by July 1951 and who are eligible to continue because of satisfactory standing in accredited four year colleges.

C. "An enrolled college student who, at the age of induction, has not yet successfully pursuing a course of study should have his induction postponed to the end of his academic year.

"If eighteen year olds are to be subject to universal military service, we assume that it is unlikely that more than half could be inducted in the first year of the new legislation. To reduce to a minimum the uncertainty in the minds of prospective and present college students, it is highly desirable that those who are not to be inducted before the opening of their academic year should be notified that they will be able to complete that year

Results Of Forensic Poll

Last week the Forensic Society conducted a poll of student opinion on current national questions of policy. The following is the result of the 144 questionnaires received:

Question 1. Do you feel that the U. N. forces should be withdrawn from Korea?

YES, 65 — NO, 79 — TOTAL 144

Question 2. Should we seek Communist China in the U. N.

YES, 40 — NO, 97 — TOTAL 137

Question 3. Should we declare an all-out atomic war with Russia?

YES, 13 — NO, 131 — TOTAL 144

Question 4. Should the U. N. forces be allowed to bomb Red China?

YES, 105 — NO, 54 — TOTAL 159

Question 5. Which one of the following doctrines would you advocate:

A. Atchison — Attempt to contain Russia by siding all countries wishing to fight Communism. — 59

B. Dewey — Bring U. S. up to full mobilization, arm ourselves to the teeth and continue aid to our present allies. — 89

C. Hoover — Concentrate on our own defenses here at home, use the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans as barriers and let the other countries fight for themselves. — 11

F.T.A. Holds Election

Members of the Washington College Chapter of the Future Teachers of America held elections last Thursday for three of its major offices. Graduation of the three incumbent officers in February necessitated the elections.

Eddie Leonard, former first vice-president of the FTA, was elected to replace Jim Williams as President of the future teachers' group. FTA members decided to combine the duties of secretary and treasurer. Gus Strobauch was elected to serve in that dual capacity. Nancy Gores, former secretary of the organization, will also be graduated by February.

Members of the FTA decided to abolish the position of second vice-president, which will be left vacant by the graduation of Carolyn Bost. A committee of three, headed by Jim Traylor, chairman, will take over the duties of the office. Ruth Roe and Dick Pomeroy were also elected to the committee, which will plan the scope of activities to be carried on at the FTA meetings all of the second semester.

The group undertook as one of its major enterprises of the forthcoming semester the establishment of a FTA club in the Chesotown High School. The project is being undertaken to stimulate interest among the high school students of the community in choosing teaching as a career.

A committee of three, headed by Fred Nickerson, chairman, was chosen to revamp the outmoded constitution of the organization. Leila Price and Roy Linggo will assist Nickerson in this capacity.

First Woman Student Receives Notice

KATHERINE PONDER

The first woman student on campus to feel the effects of the current war situation is Katherine Ponder, who has received her orders to resume duties in the Army Air Corps as a First Lieutenant on February 1, 1951.

In World War II, she served as a second lieutenant in the C.A.P., and she has been called to assume duties similar to those that she executed at that time. For two nights a week, she will instruct classes, and each month she must fly five four hour patrols in P-51 planes over the Baltimore and Philadelphia industrial area. In addition to these duties, she hopes to be able to attend school and keep her job.

A February graduate, Miss Ponder obtained the job as research biochemist at the Marine Hospital in Baltimore working on cardio-vascular research. She also plans to work on her Master's degree by attending night classes at Johns Hopkins University.

Here at school, she served this year as President of Alpha Omicron Pi Society. She is a member of the Glee Club, the Science Club, the President's Club, and was a member of the Mount Vernon Literary Society. Her Freshman year, she served as Freshman representative to the Reid Hall Council.

In the sports field, she is a member of the Varsity Hockey team.

When interviewed concerning her "draft" notice, she remarked, "if it had come three years later, I would have been too old."

Reminders To Seniors

1. Payment for caps and gowns are due on or before Wednesday, February 7. Class dues are payable to Frank Binger, Treasurer by that date, also. A meeting of the class is scheduled for February 7 at 6:30 P.M.

2. Two hundred announcements have been received in the Book-store and are available to February graduates. June graduates are advised by Mrs. Newcomb to place their orders soon.

3. Class rings should be ordered soon, if desired, to insure an early delivery.

4. Dean Livingston has announced that a copy of "Careers, 1951 edition, is on file in his office. This manual lists various business firms throughout the United States, indicating opportunities and the chances for advancement. A geographical index indicates the locations of the firms. Any Senior contemplating entering business next year should consult "Careers". Dr. Livingston said.

Correction

Last week's Eln reported that Powell Harrison expects to be in the Army Air Corps sometime this Spring. It should read the Naval Air Corps.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, has announced that the College is planning to hold a summer session this year. The action was approved by the faculty at a meeting held earlier this week.

New Faculty Appointments

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, this week announced the appointment of two new faculty members to the college staff. The new instructors are Mr. Edward P. Thatcher of the Biology Department, and Mr. Lloyd L. Arnold of the Philosophy and Religion Department. They will replace the late Dr. A. B. Hardcastle, and Dr. John S. Smith who recently resigned from the staff to accept a position at Iowa Wesleyan College.

Mr. Thatcher, born in 1916, was graduated in 1939 from Swarthmore College and received an M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota in 1940. He has since completed all the residence requirements for a Ph.D. degree from the latter institution.

Mr. Thatcher taught as a graduate assistant at the University of Minnesota and later served on the faculty of the Black Hills Teachers College in Black Hills, North Dakota. From 1947 to 1950 he was an instructor in Geology and Zoology at Coe College, Cedar Rapids, North Dakota. His main interest in the Biology field is the study of Botany, and from 1943 to 1946 he was engaged in work at the Iowa Agricultural Experimental Station.

Mr. Thatcher, a member of The Society of Friends, is married and is the father of three children. He and his family will occupy the apartment recently vacated by Mr. M. Cinnamon on College Avenue.

Mr. Arnold, who replaces Dr. Smith, is a graduate of Knox College, Illinois, where he received a B.A. degree in 1938. His undergraduate career was interrupted by a five-year tour of duty in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, while in the armed forces he served two years in Europe and slightly less than a year in the Asiatic theater.

Since 1945 Mr. Arnold has been a graduate student in Philosophy at the Johns Hopkins University, where he has completed his residence requirements for a Ph.D. degree.

Mr. Arnold taught as a graduate assistant in the Philosophy Department at Johns Hopkins. He also was an instructor in American Literature at St. Paul's School in Baltimore.

The new faculty member is married and has three children. His family plans to remain in Baltimore.

Canterbury Club Elects Officers

Members of the Canterbury Club elected two temporary officers to fill the vacancies left by two current officers, neither one of whom will return next semester. Bob Jackson, will assume the duties of Vice-President, formerly held by Clyde Roost. Dot Willis is replacing Mackey Metcalf as Secretary.

Members Tom Benson and Clyde Roost recently traveled to Detroit as representatives of the local Canterbury Club. They attended a convention held to form a National Canterbury Club, of which the local chapter became a charter member.

The club plans a Corporate Crusade breakfast to be held on Sunday, January 21, at 8:00 A.M. at Emmanuel Church.

The present plans call for a six-week course of study, beginning June 11, 1951 and closing July 1. The classes are scheduled to meet five days a week, Monday through Friday, and will be one- and one-half hours duration, the equivalent of one semester hour. A maximum work load of six semester hours will be allowed each student.

The present college faculty will teach the courses to be offered this summer. Campus facilities, including the dormitories, will be used as the need arises.

Questionnaires To Be Distributed

Questionnaires will be distributed to the student body early in the next semester, (see sample below). The results of the questionnaire will be used to determine the number of students interested in the summer session as well as the courses desired. A probable minimum of ten persons must indicate interest in a particular course before it will be scheduled. It is expected that rates will be based on a flat charge per semester hour.

Reasons For Session

Dr. Gibson listed these as the main reasons for holding the summer session: (1) In view of the present national situation, there is a growing realization that students should be allowed to accelerate their course of study. As a result, a number of colleges are instituting summer programs this year. (2) The summer course will give high school students an opportunity to complete at least one year of college before entering the service.

The summer courses will not be limited to Washington College students, but will be open to anyone who is qualified for college work. It is expected that a number of teachers will study here.

Second Term In History

This will mark the second time in its history that Washington College has offered a summer session. Similar programs were operated on this campus in 1941-1942, 1943, at which time approximately one hundred and forty students were in attendance.

Simple Copy Of Questionnaire

Name _____
Class _____

Are you interested in attending the 1951 summer session on the Washington College campus?

If your answer is in the affirmative, kindly answer the questions below:

1. Major, or probable field of major study? _____
2. Minor, or probable field of minor study? _____

3. What courses will you probably elect to take in the summer school? You are asked to list four courses in order of preference. Indicate catalogue number and title of the course.

a. _____
b. _____
c. _____
d. _____

Your decision as to courses will not obligate you to take the courses which you have indicated. This questionnaire was intended primarily to determine what courses should be offered in order to satisfy needs of Washington College students.

SONS OF DAEDALUS

BY TOM LOWE

It is quite commendable that W.C. has so vast a number of patriots, but I must say it says very little for the ability of this institution to produce patriots. Being, I am sure, the talk of enlisting I have yet to hear one participant of the last fracas say anything but derogatory remarks about the mentality of these patriotic youths.

The Air Force is being attacked with enthusiasm just as it was in the last war. As in this previous period approximately 50,000 of these sons of Daedalus will be in the infantry without ever seeing the top of a cloud. It occurs. The Navy, they argue, feeds well and "has clean sheets." On the other hand, it would be difficult to run any distance or to "dig in." Of course there is the Marine Corps which is one step lower than the inner circle of Daedalus' interest. It seems apparent that it is merely the lesser of two evils: final or the service, and in the service you get a million. They may very well get a number of us to uniform next summer but with the fluctuating policy of the present regime they may draft all holders of the Purple Heart and Congressional Medal before they get those who have seen no service. Certainly the services don't seem prejudiced against either group.

The whole situation seems quite paradoxical. They are drafting persons into an army which still pays income taxes (which may soon be 40%) to fight an enemy which our government refuses to recognize as being in existence. Recent events have led to a question of the workings of the present administration. Our President having petty squabbles with insignificant critics; Senator McCarthy having led an incoherent and "sensational" "Communist" to anyone capable enough to listen to his idiotic rantings and the current replacement of Lucas and Tydings with the unknown sons of Daedalus and Butler to a building up of tension at the choice of our voting public. But these are things that we must accept.

To assume the taxpayer's policy of "waiting before they draft me" synonymous to me with "quitting school in case I fail." To excuse your actions with the obvious fact that the confused state of affairs is too much tension for an atmosphere of study is absolutely ridiculous. It isn't difficult to become confused and it's quite easy to say that someone else is confused and that we're not at all sure we're going. But there are very often

MACKEY METCALFE

Who's that red head? Does she ever stir still? Oh, once in a while when she's in the role of Secretary of the Senior Class, President of G.A.A. or Secretary of the Canterbury Club. What did you say her name was? Mackey's Mack Metcalfe, senior of the week.

Why is a native of Chestertown but got her education at the Hannah Moore Academy just outside Baltimore. However, come college time and she came back home to enter Washington College in the fall of '47. Since that fall she has become very active in college activities, especially in the sports field. She can be seen most any day in the fall down on the hockey field or pushing in baskets during the basketball season.

Besides sports, Mackey has been a very active member of Alpha Omicron Xi Society which she joined in her freshman year, and is now serving as their Rush Chairman. She is also a delegate to the Pan Hellenic Council.

This year we find Mackey serving as Executive Editor of the Elm, president of G.A.A., secretary of the Senior Class and the Canterbury Club. A busy girl to say the least. However, this February will find her leaving all her activities and get tucked. I've heard Mackey's crystal ball, a graduation present from her father. When asked what she was going to do there she replied, "Pick pineapples and lie on Wokila Beach and get tuckled. I've been practicing every summer on the art of how to loaf in the sun."

Mackey was selected as the "Grescent Girl" by the Lambda Chi's during Homecoming festivities. She was also a member of the court of the Homecoming queen.

She would like to be a second grade teacher when she graduates this June. Why? She says because said grades are well scared of their teachers? That's Mackey.

the external trappings of a self imposed frustration. They are phrases which heavy in internal weakness, a searching for a way to avoid it not escape responsibility.

It is wrong to over simplify the problem at hand. Certainly we all spend a great deal of time trying to get out when we'll be drafted or recalled. If we could only realize that in this case the sooner we get the longer we'll be away. It is an old saw, and a sound one, that once the service gets its hands on you it does not like to let go. These few years out of a person's life cause a complete change in hopes, aspirations, and the general philosophy of life. There is a feeling that one is behind and should by-pass school or some other phase of life to catch up. And these days are awkward, they feel a pressure NOW! Well, go ahead, let loose. The more that exist the sooner the quota will be filled and the longer they'll wait to recall the old men. This is the triumph of belonging to the armed forces of the U. S. which, indeed, please, but by no means satisfy, your righteous pride.

Barnes and Noble salesman will be at the Book Store Wednesday, Jan. 24 to buy any books that students may care to sell.

From The Exchange Desk

ROOMMATES EMPLOY ROUGH METHODS

You are running away from a mad, dazed tiger, but you feel the ground is solid. It is not. You turn around, terrified. The tiger's horrible gaping jaws seem ready to grab you. You shake all over — but risk, cognitive surrender.

"Tas Peet's sake, will you get up!" you hear a voice exclaim in exasperation. Your eyes spring open — those shoulders! — Your roommate has you by the shoulders and with grim determination is trying to awaken you. You smile in happy relief and sink back on your bed. Then the thought of the nightmare returning makes you act uncautiously. You know under the covers.

Suddenly you feel something cold and wet trickling down your neck. Opening one eye, you see your diabolical roommate standing threateningly over you with a glass of water in his hand. He pulls the blankets off you with a jerk, and with a stern voice announces that it is seven o'clock, and asks if you are going to breakfast.

"No!" you mumble, and reach for the covers.

"Oh, yes, you are," he declares. "You have an eight o'clock class anyway." And so saying, he pours the glass of water on you. This makes you a little angry and you jump out of bed. As this accomplishes his purpose, your roommate runs out in the hall.

Well, since you're up, you might as well get dressed. In a few minutes you get sleepy again, though, and you stumble back into the bed. Unfortunately, your roommate picks this time to return, and he grimly pulls you out of the room and on into the cold morning air.

"It's dark yet," you protest. "The stars are still out. Are you sure it's seven-thirty?"

He doesn't bother to answer this, but takes you into the Dining Hall and sits you at a table. You fall asleep over your cereal, and are awakened by—guess who—yes, your roommate. He pulls you out of bed again. Back in the dorm, he stuffs your books in your arms and then sends you out again.

"I'm never going to stay out to three o'clock, again," you mutter as you stagger down the stairs.

Groping your way to your first period class, you sit down and doze some more. Then the professor enters, he looks down at his watch, looks at the desk, and starts passing out sheets of yellow paper.

"Today we will have a little quiz," he announces blandly.

Suddenly you are wide awake. From

Senior Of The Week

JUNE WILLIAMS

June Williams, the girl with the eternal smile, that's what they say about her. June is from Whiteford, Maryland and graduated from high school in 1947. She is a member of W.C. the following autumn and immediately entered into activities here, so many, in fact, that she was elected to What's Who in American Colleges and Universities and has been a member of the following organizations: The Mt. Vernon Literary Society, 1, 2, and 3; President of Future Teachers of America, 3 and 4; Secretary of the Read Hall Council, 5; and a member of the Players, 2, 3, 4, and 5. June has been a valuable asset to the Players, for not only has she acted very well in several plays, but she has also directed "The Double Door" this past November.

June has majored in English and minored in Latin, and after she graduates this February she plans to teach in Hartford County.

June's favorite pastimes are going to the movies and reading. She also enjoys writing and would like to include a book or two in her future accomplishments. Good luck, June, you will all miss you.

Letter Box

January 16, 1951

To the Editors:
Through the medium of THE ELM, I should like to bid farewell to the students on the faculty and in the friend body. It has been a privilege to be associated with the College and to have shared some share in your intellectual life and to be enriched by fellowship with you.

Mrs. Smith and I are grateful for kindnesses at the hands of many of you and we shall long remember you. It will be a joy to hear from you at any time.

Our prayers, our best wishes, and consolation is going to the students of Gibson and the College, and we wish you well, always.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN SYLVESTER SMITH
Administrative Assistant to the President
Head, Department of Philosophy and Religion.

Smoky Armory Brings Complaints

There have been several complaints recently concerning Washington College's home basketball court, but the most striking was found in the January 12 edition of the Baltimore Sun and was written by Bill Higdon — "Visiting teams and officials are complaining about the smoky atmosphere and dim lighting system in the Chestertown Armory, which Washington College calls its home floor for lack of any other. The Armory just isn't constructed for basketball."

As a result of such criticism and of unsportsmanlike conduct shown at a recent Saturday night game, Coach Atley appeals to the student body to cooperate in two matters. First, that smoking be discontinued in the armory; second, that students please refrain from distracting the opposing team when they take their foul shots. Remember the saying: If you can't play a sport, be one anyway.

Short Shots

Congratulations to Filmore, Jim, Kenny and Frank for the fine job they did at the Evening Star Track Meet in Washington. They didn't quit the championship (missed it by .4 of a second) but were a constant threat to the finish.

The Fraternity Bowling League was initiated at the local center last night with Theta Chi trading strikes with an independent team while the Nu's tangled horns with the Lambda's. The league, under the auspices of the Varsity Club, seeks to improve intra-school competition. Any organization wishing to form a team can obtain information from either Lee Cook or Jack Nacrelli.

Coach Apichella announced this week that he was retiring "ipo facto" from active sports competition. "I've had enough," he said. As you know, Appie has been performing on the hardwood for the Denton Bobcats.

Sho'men Trip Bees

By 46-45 Score

Washington College's Maroon and Black club quipped each to a 46-45 win over the Bees from Baltimore last Thursday night at the Chestertown Armory.

Again led by Nick Scallion, the Sho'men jumped to an early lead, but the score stood 12-12 at the quarter. The locals put on a second period sports to lead 28-20 at intermission.

The third quarter was a close one to lead. Faced by guard Vern Munsmett with 13 points, the Bees were able to draw the score to 40-37 at the end of the third stanza. Forward Leo Szanski, along with netting 10 points, played an outstanding game for the visitors.

Nitty Nick was high man for the night with 27 points to give him a 28 point average for six games. Danny Samel, with one field goal and six foul shots, was second with 8 points.

This was B. U.'s fifth loss in six outings, and gave the locals an even split in their six games. The Sho'men have now won two games in as many tries in the M.D. Conference.

All-Stars Win In

Balto. U. Prelim.

With player-coach Lee C. Cook taping in a rebound with 20 seconds to play, the Washington College All-Stars eked out a 99-98 upset victory over Coach Babe Johnson's Junior Varsity team. The game-winning goal was scored by Nick Wilson intercepted a JayVee pass and missed a shot which Cook rebounded.

Harry Miller and "Big" Don Kuzel were the big thorns in the Junior's back all night. Miller played a terrific 66 floor game and contributed six goals and 12 points. Kuzel was outstanding off the boards while making 9 points. Johnny Cox, playing an exceptional floor game.

For the JayVee's Ellsworth Boyd, Doug Tibby and Bob Appleby were the big guns with 8, 8 and 7 points respectively. The JayVee's lost the ball 23-15 but in the second half they were off in their shooting and the All-Stars came from behind to win.

Relay Team Places Third

Four-tenths of a second may not seem important to you or I, but it would have spelled victory for Washington's thinlids last Saturday night in the nation's capital city.

The Mason-Dixon medley mile relay, run by seven conference teams, was won by Hampden-Sydney in the time of three minutes and fifty seconds. Second was Catholic University, with the Marston and Black gaining third position. Following the Sho'men were Redgeway, Koonce, Galabaud and Towson Teachers.

Catholic U. Second The race was run in two heats, the best time determining the winner of the event. Hampden-Sydney ran it's 3:50.0 mile, to win the first heat. With Jim Tully running the first quarter of a mile, Kenney Howard and Frank Byham spurring the two 220 yard legs, and Eli Dryden finishing the medley with a half mile run, the Shore speed was edged out by Catholic University by two tenths of a second in a thrilling finish. The Cardinal's time of 3:50.1 was just short of tying Hampden-Sydney's winning time in the first heat.

Therefore, only three tenths of a second separated the first three teams:

Hampden-Sydney — 3:50.0
Washington — 3:50.3

Journey To Baltimore

On February 6, the trackmen will once again take to the boards, this time at the South Atlantic Association indoor meet to be held in Baltimore. There will be no Mason-Dixon mile relay that night however, the Sho'men plan to enter the two mile open relay, which the competition promises to be plentiful.

J.V.'s Win Rubber Match

Coach Robert "Babe" Johnson's Washington College Junior Varsity squad stood for the one point defeat of last week at the hands of the College All-Stars by soundly trouncing the same team on Monday night in the tune of 71-35. The Jayvees were hitting on all fours the entire game and especially in the third quarter when they pushed 28 points through the hoops.

"Little" Wes Edwards was the sparkplug for the winners making seven field goals and four fouls for an 18 point total. Ellsworth Boyd, ringer team, was second high with seven goals for 14 points. Bob Appleby added himself to 9 points and also played an outstanding defensive and floor game.

For the All-Stars it was Mel Morgan, Harry Miller and Jack Nacrelli who led the scoring. Each had 6 points. Two of Nacrelli's points came on a foul shot during a desperation shot as the final gun sounded.

This was the third meeting of the season for the JayVees and the All-Stars. In the first game, the Junior won 46-25. The second game the All-Stars won on a upset victory 98-99.

A new and largely revised Washington College catalogue went to press this week.

Delco Proud Of Its Sons

By FRED WILSON
Chestier Times Sports Editor

Washington College, down in Chestertown, Md., had its best football record in 10 years during the 1950 season, five wins and three losses, and grimeless runs right here in Delaware County played minor roles in the success of the Sho'Men.

First of all there was Dominic "Dim" Montero, the head coach, Dim came from Wilmington, played a year of football at PMC before finishing at La Salle, then coached the team at St. James for several years before accepting the job as Washington's head coach two years ago.

Dim took over in 1949 and won four games, lost two, and tied two. The tiny Eastern Shore college did even better this year scoring 5.5 mark, giving Montero a two-year record of nine wins, five setbacks, and two deadlocks.

This fall there were seven Delco athletes on Montero's squad. Four of them—Harry Miller, Jack Nacrelli, Sammy Greto, and Bernie O'Connell—are products of St. James. Kenny Howard played at Edystone, localite Phil Desmond peeped at nearby Archbishops Academy, and Ed Claglie performed in high school under Chas. Tomasco at Clifton Heights.

Miller played halfback and led the team in almost every department of offense. He gained 682 yards carrying the ball, averaging 7.9 yards per rush. He scored 13 touchdowns, half the team's total, caught 27 passes for 557 yards, and averaged a fraction over four yards in punting.

Howard and Greto were second and third respectively in rushing offense and played in the defensive backfield as well. Nacrelli was a stand-out at guard, both on offense and defense. He was awarded a trophy as the team's outstanding lineman and has been named captain for next season.

Claglie was a defensive halfback and was largely responsible for the Maroon and Black's fine pass defense record. Eight opponents averaged only 96 yards per game through the air. The Montero eleven, on the other hand, gained 1013 yards via forward passes.

Desmond and O'Connell alternated at center on the offense with both backing up the line on defense. Desmond and Howard were both back in the next game, one of the squad's setbacks, and both missed the last three games on the schedule.

Washington, incidentally, didn't pack as much weight as many good high school teams. The line averaged only 172 pounds and the backfield averaged 165. Only two of the squad members will be lost by graduation and Montero is looking forward to providing line campaign next year providing Uncle Sam doesn't send "greengies" to too many of the holdovers.

Another Delco high schooler, Jack at Washington is Steve McKelvie, a St. James graduate of 1946. Steve didn't take part in the grid campaign but did provide us with most of his information on the county boys at his school. Many thanks, Steve.

Topple Towson For 2nd Straight

With Nick Scallion breaking loose Saturday night with 30 points, the local cagers knocked off Towson Teachers College, 60 to 15, at Chestertown.

The sleek left-hander easily carried off scoring honors, bucketing 15 points in each half. He made good 10 of 12 free throws and dumped in an additional 10 scrimmage shots. Bill Gorman contributed 11 additional counters, followed closely by Dan Smeade with 10.

Hottes and Skousch each contributed 11 futility markers for the Teachers. Leading by a slim 31 to 23 margin at half time, the Sho'men roared back in the second half, ripping the Towson boys to shreds. From there on, the outcome was never in question as the Aethymen led all the way to the whistle.

Washington College succumbed before the A. U. basketball crew (60-62) in a Mason-Dixon Conference game last Monday night on the loser's hardwood.

Although he fouled out in the fourth quarter, Nick Scallion scored 32 points for the night with 22 points. Close on his heels was A.U.'s Leroy Ishman with 20 points.

The local lads got off to a slow start, being held to four points in eight minutes, while A. U. was dumping 12 markers through the hoop. Scallion rallied to bring the quarter score to 14-13, with A. U. on the long end.

In the second frame W. C. switched to a zone defense, and temperately took the lead, 17-13. There arose a set shot contest between Coach Ed McFady and Danny Samel after each had made four baskets in as many tries in this period. Samelcure emerged on top for the night; 15-17.

The second half opened with the Sho'men trailing 33-23, but with three quick baskets by Scallion and one by Butch McHugh, they moved ahead 40-35. The lead changed hands three times with the period ending 50-19 in favor of the Maroon and Blacks.

As the final stanza opened, A. U. tied the game with a foul shot, and then went ahead 53-52. After the lead changed hands three more times, A. U. gained a 65-58 lead as Scallion leaked out. A. U. then increased their lead to 68-58 at the game end.

J.V.'S WIN AGAIN

Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team pushed 32 points through the hoops against Towson JayVees in a game which earned what seemed to be a close game in a rout. The final tally showed the locals winning 49-27.

After a slow first half which ended 17-15 Washington, Johnson's JayVees started biting from all over the board in the fourth quarter were leading 35-25 (Conce Landucci and "Blonde" Bob Appleby were the scorers for the home boys having 10 points each. Rod were clipped with 6 and Ellsworth Boyd dunked 5. The entire squad shared the scoring with one point or more.

For the losing Towson JayVees, Jedlicka was by far the best, having 13 points and also playing a bungee rope game for his team. Legman and Colburn contributed in scoring with 5 and 4 points respectively.

Dr. Foose Address Society Of Sciences

Dr. Richard M. Foose, head of the department of Geology at Franklin and Marshall College, appeared recently as guest speaker for the Society of Sciences to present to the students the varied work of a geologist.

In his talk entitled "The Geologist at Work" he developed through a series of examples the many fields in which geology plays a part. Referring to the search for natural resources in the United States, he explained how a geologist works in plotting out locations for oil wells, metallic deposits, and clay formations. He stressed the fact that geologists must employ just as much imagination as technical skill in his work.

In construction work Dr. Foose said that the geologist is becoming increasingly important in helping to prevent mishaps due to construction in formerly level areas. During the last war, the geologist aided the army by compiling all information about a terrain before an invasion was staged. Dr. Foose used such as his example of this type of intensive geological work.

As a conclusion to his lecture, he presented a series of color slides of mountains, canyons, glaciers, and volcanoes which he has taken in connection with his studies.

A graduate of Franklin and Marshall, Dr. Foose received his M.S. at Northwestern University and his Ph.D. at Johns Hopkins University. After presenting a talk to the board of the college, he was invited in form and held a geology department at Franklin and Marshall College. In addition to this position he is also chief geologist for the state of Pennsylvania.

Student Draft ...

before induction.

"(1) To maintain a flow of educated personnel as an important element of national strength, we recommend that after basic education a substantial number of properly qualified young men be inducted to colleges of their choice for further education in all areas of learning before completing their required military service. In implementing this plan, special consideration should be given to a federal scholarship of low program, in order that no one who qualifies may be deprived of this educational opportunity for lack of means. We recommend that the administration of this program and the testing and other procedures of selection under it would be entrusted to competent civilians."

Lambdas Hold Dance Tonight

As a prelude to exams, the Lambda's present tonight for the third year the "Country Club Dance" to be held at the Chestertown Yacht and Country Club. Time is from 8:30 to 11:30. Admission is free.

Although the dance is, strictly speaking, "off campus," it is a school function and school rules applying to refreshments will definitely apply. Refreshment of odes and potato chips will be on sale at the club. The dance music will be supplied by a juke box. Chairman of the dance committee are Sandy Jones and Pete Lohman. Official chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Louis Albrecht and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Vokler.

New President For Science Club

Bob Bink will assume the office of the President of the Washington College Science Club in the second semester of the school year. Bink, former Vice-President of the club, will be succeeded by Polly Koppelman, who is to be graduated this February.

Members of the organization decided to do without a vice-presidential office until the general elections, to be held by the club in May.

Elaine Gottlieb will succeed Elaine Brand as secretary of the group. Miss Brand will also be graduated this February.

The Science Club plans to hold its annual exhibit April 25. In addition to its own exhibit, the organization will sponsor a demonstration in electronics by the Bell Telephone Company April 12.

Annual OX Hop Planned Here

The Ox Hop, annual Theta Chi dance, will be held Saturday, February 10 in Hodson Hall. A basketball game with the Theta Chi chapter from Drexel will precede the dance.

A feature attraction of the affair will be the selection of the "Theta Chi Dream Girl," elected annually by the Beta Eta members. The presentation will be made by Sue Horn, "Dream Girl of 1950."

Lot and Loe's will be neighboring 1,500-foot volcano peaks on St. Helena, the lonely British island of Napoleon's exile which rises from 2½-mile depths in the South Atlantic Ocean.

Alpha Omegas Sponsor Dance

With a barge of posters and a bright red convertible blasting forth with publicity, the A O N's have started "calling out the troops" to attend their annual confection dance on Feb. 2. This is the third presentation of the formal dance that inaugurates the beginning of the February term.

An old standby for the N's, "Mummy Show," will present the music for the dancers and as an additional feature he has on hand a vocalizing to sing the popular tunes of the day. At present he is playing in Wilmington at the DuPont Country Club.

Dance time will be from 8:00 until 12:00 and Cahn Hall will be the scene of the affair. Tickets are $2.00 per couple and may be obtained from any member of A O N's. They will be on sale at the door the night of the dance.

This is the first social function of the year given by the N's that is campus-wide. Members in charge of the dance are Randy Mason and Sid Bave.

Nearly 5,000 people living on Great Britain's lonely St. Helena Island in the South Atlantic Ocean get along satisfactorily on their 17-square-mile exposed submarine mountain summit without an internal mail system. A large part of the revenue of this island of Napoleon's exile, however, comes from the sale of its postage stamps to collectors.

Sociology Classes

Hear Dr. Whitsett

Members of the Sociology classes last Thursday attended a lecture by Dr. A. N. Whitsett, of Hygiene, Kent County Health Inspector, on the Social Service Agencies in the Community. Dr. Whitsett discussed the many problems that are encountered by the various social service organizations in the community. He drew a number of analogies between his own experiences as a public health official and the problems encountered by public health agencies.

Following the talk by Dr. Whitsett, refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Jontas.

College Canteen
College of Charleston
Charleston, South Carolina

In Charleston, South Carolina, a favorite gathering spot of students at the College of Charleston, is the College Canteen because it is a cheerful place — full of friendly collegiate atmosphere. And when the gang gathers around, ice-cold Coca-Cola gets the call. For here, as in college haunts everywhere — Coke belongs.

Ask for it either way... both trade-marks mean the same thing.

Thirty Students Named
On Semester Dean's List

Thirty students achieved a place on the Dean's List by making an index of 2.25 or better for the first semester of the academic year of 1950-51.

Of the thirty people on the Dean's List, seventeen are from the Junior Class, while the Freshmen Class rates only three, all men. Seven Seniors and four Sophomores complete the list. Seventy percent of the individuals on the Dean's List are men students, a higher percentage than the ratio for both men and women on the campus.

The Dean's list is not only smaller this year but the general scholarship average appears to have declined. The following figures show the men's average almost identical with the class averages.

	Men's Average	Class Average
Sr. Class	1.46	1.48
Jr. Class	1.26	1.26
Sophomores	1.07	1.04
Freshmen	0.42	0.49

In a statement Dean Livingston, who prepared the honor roll, said, "The present emergency may have affected scholarship, particularly among the men students. It would appear that the present emergency should stimulate scholarship attainment in order that the individual may rate in the upper half of the class and be a candidate for deferment on the basis of academic achievement."

The official list is as follows:

New Students
Register

Six freshmen, five transfers, and six returned students have enrolled in the college for the second semester.

The Freshmen students include: Marjorie Wilson of Swarthmore, Pennsylvania; John H. Riggs of Chester town, Maryland; Charles K. Gale of Poughkeepsie, New York; Howard E. Gellis of Claremont, New Hampshire; Harriet H. Ward of Crisfield, Maryland; and Stephen Maryanna of Waterbury, Connecticut.

Former students who have returned are Melvin Winstead of Baltimore, Maryland; Eben Lorthorp of West Chester, Pennsylvania; Milton Branch of Chorthorn, Maryland; Thomas Hinkle of New Port, Rhode Island; Ralph Shillingburg of Blaine, Maryland; and Joanne Stoll of Towson, Maryland.

Transfers from other colleges are: Alicia Adams of Greensboro, Pennsylvania; Olive Bowd of Chalkville, Virginia; Richard Weller of Silver Spring, Maryland; Elizabeth Smith of Danville, Indiana; and Raymond Wall of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Close Two Dormitories

As a conservation measure, both Waters Hall and West Hall have closed for the second semester.

A study was made by the administration which revealed that class rooms were not being fully utilized in all the buildings. Under the second semester schedule, all classes have been moved from Waters Hall to Witham Smith, and the faculty offices have been transferred to the library or to Ferguson Hall. It was also decided that this would be an economy measure to eliminate the necessity of having to light and heat the building. In addition, Waters Hall will now be available for meetings at any hour of the day.

On a similar basis, West Hall has been closed as a boys' dormitory. The former residents have been moved to one of the four other dormitories to fill these buildings.

Waters Hall is one of two frame buildings purchased from a closed Owens, No. Base, and remodeled in 1917 for faculty offices and classrooms. West Hall was erected in 1951 as part of the expansion of the college seventeen years after the original college buildings were burned by fire.

Sorority Presents
Rushing Parties

Completing the rush season for the year, the three sororities presented their informal parties on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week in the drawing room of Reid Hall from 9:30 to 10:30 P.M.

On Tuesday evening, Alpha Chi Omega gave their party using a private home. The Zeta Tau Alpha planned a supper party entitled "Hit the Deck with Z.T.A." which was presented on Wednesday. As the final party, Alpha Omicron Pi presented a party on Kays' Key's College of Musical Knowledge.

This coming week, the formal parties will be given, and bids will be exchanged to new members on Saturday, February 17, 1951.

New Faculty Committee Is Authorized By Board

Acting on a proposal by Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President, the Board of Visitors of Washington College approved on January 13, 1951 a measure to establish a Faculty Committee on Appointments and Tenure. The text of the authorization follows:

"The Faculty Advisory Committee on Appointments and Tenure shall consist of three members of the Faculty who shall hold the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, who shall be appointed by the President to serve two years, and who may not succeed themselves until all other faculty members in these ranks shall have served on the Committee. One faculty member shall be chosen from the Division of the Humanities, one from the Division of the Social Sciences, and one from the Division of Natural Science. (Ed. Note: Faculty members appointed to the Committee from these Divisions are: Dr. Newlin, Dr. Clark, and Dr. Voelker, respectively.)

Mt. Vernon Society Offers
Two Prizes

The Mount Vernon Literary Society has mounted two cash awards to be made in connection with the publication of the Savage. One prize will be awarded to the author of the most outstanding poem published in the Savage and the other will be given to the writer of the best prose piece in the collection. All manuscripts submitted for the Savage will be automatically entered in the contest. The deadline for manuscripts is March 12; but contestants are requested to submit their work as early as possible. Another information may be secured from Mr. Boulader or Betty Hester.

Plans New York Trip
Plans are being made for the annual Mt. Vernon trip to New York in the spring. Those going on this trip will be able to attend two Broadway performances of their choice and do some sight seeing. The trip will be made by bus if enough students are interested. Otherwise private cars will be used. Costumes have also been made with the Barter Theatre of Virginia, and a surprise performance in March is being considered.

Mr. Thornton, former Mt. Vernon society advisor, has donated a hand made Italian water to the club. The water will be auctioned off at the Freda City dance on February 19.

Student To College Post

Dr. Calvon announced this week that Sandy Jones, President of the Senior Class, has been appointed to the post of Public Director for Washington College.

The appointment was made in an effort to provide a department for the collection and circulation of news concerning Washington College, as well as news of the activities of students and faculty members. Specifically, the new Washington college post will relieve such news to local newspapers, and state newspapers and will include the students' house town newspapers of the activities of those students while at Washington College.

Drop In Enrollment
Cited As Main Reason

COACH ATHEY

COACH MONTERO

For the second time in recent years, football will make itself conspicuous by its absence from the athletic program of Washington College. Coach Ed Athley, Director of Physical Training, announced that baseball as well as football have been "indefinitely dropped."

Football was also dropped for a period of four years during World War II. The suggestion to drop the two sports was made by the Athletic Council to the Board of Visitors and Governors, which approved the measure. The Athletic Council is composed of Mr. Harry Russell, alumni of Washington College, Chairman; Dean Frederick G. Livingston, Mr. Fred Dimmock, Dr. Joseph McLain, and Athley.

Athley cited as two main reasons for the cancellation of both sports the anticipated drop in enrollment because of the war situation, and economic reasons. He stated that the football team takes up at least one half of the entire athletic budget. Since the college is anticipating a drop in enrollment, the amount of money to be allotted for the maintenance of a successful sports program was expected to be considerably lower.

Dimmock, football coach for the past two years, will continue to serve on the Faculty as his expertise as physical education instructor. "I regret very much that football has to be dropped, as we seem to have been making some headway, but under the present circumstances, the Athletic Council could not finance other possible action," he commented.

Continuing, he stated, "I especially regret having to leave the boys on the team. The two years that I have worked with them were two of my happiest years of coaching. I could not have asked for finer consideration from them."

Washington enjoyed two highly successful football seasons under Montero's reign. In the two years that Montero has served as coach, the team, consisting mainly of freshmen and sophomores, won eight, lost five, and tied two.

Washington College is the second team in the state to drop football from its athletic program. Mount St. Mary's was the first. Two other teams in the Mason-Dixon Conference, Hagerstown and Carroll Universities, are also contemplating a similar move.

Athley stated that baseball was also dropped because of economic reasons. The main spring sport will now be lacrosse, which is becoming increasingly popular at Washington.

Athley expressed the hope to revive the two sports as soon as conditions become "feasible." The lacrosse program will be enlarged next year to fill the gap left by the two varsity sports.

Notice To Men

It is essential that the college administration know the status of all men students in regard to military service, by the end of the past year.

All men who have not completed the questionnaire which was distributed at the meeting held last Friday must secure a copy of AT-55 from the Registrar's Office, complete it, and return it to the Registrar not later than TUESDAY, FEB. 13.

DANIEL Z. GIBSON
President

353 Enroll

The Registrar's office reports that a total of 353 students are enrolled in the college for the second semester. At the beginning of the year, 413 students constituted the total number. In February, 81 students dropped out, including the February graduates, and 21 new members entered to make up the present number of students.

With The GREEKS

John Brown, Ostran of 1950 is now back with Uncle Sam in the Marine Corp. and stationed at Camp Lejeune. He also plans to be married some time during the month.

The best of luck to brother Jim Ewing who has left us to enter into a business enterprise.

Long congratulations are in order for John Wilcox, Steve McCalla and Bill Russell on their recent initiation into Theta Chi.

Zeus Tau Alpha
Congratulations to Thomas Davidson who has initiated his Theta Chi. It is wonderful to have you as one of us.

Most congratulations are in order to Jean Shuster is proudly displaying for Longbottom's pin. That bright one on her face is enough to blind you.

It was true, but it was fun — the informal party the Zez's had Wednesday night, that is. The boys in the Navy like that kind of a party.

None that our dance is over and life is back to normal at the A O N house — the card games have begun again — we would like to thank everyone who attended the "So So" semester dance and helped to make it a success.

Two of our alumni attended the affair Friday night, and it was hoped they would tell us. It was here they found out that they were not.

Brother Murray Wolman '50 is to be married April 12, and he has out best wishes. John Stewart has left school and expects to be in the Air Corps within the next few months.

Our congratulations are to the Bob Beik — our new Chaplain. Now we can pour out our hearts to someone.

Lambda Chi Alpha
Congratulations are in order for brothers — Steve Langford, Bill Brown, Ralph Townsend, Dick Lewis, Ed Stewart for making the Dean's List this past semester.

During the February graduates were: John Fisher, Jr., Lorraine, and Carl "Moose" Messick. Good luck to all boys, especially brother Clyde who is entering the Army.

Due to the resignation of brother John Fisher, Jr., our house manager, a temporary vacancy was created. Now lucky can you get "wells" was elected to finish out the year.

Congratulations to brother Lorman for his efforts in making the annual "Foe" Dance at the Campus Club a success.

The upstate back claim has a new addition. This new claim to have the three Kerkens men in the "Foe" residing there. The famous "brick treatment" can also be revised.

Alpha Chi
The Alpha Chi's this week said goodbye to Fran Bowle who has left school for the regular force. Good luck to the sons of his father, Good luck, Francis, you'll miss you!

Many thanks to our cooperative audience of ruckies whose well-wishes were instrumental in making our annual Pirate's Party a success.

The Distorted Village

Sweet Aunt! Loveliest village of the wilderness
Where pole and wand we are jereed by laughing bows.

Where winding spring comes not when winter's just
And parting summers cannot wait to leave!

How often have I loved over its green
And thought of happiness across the bay.

How often have I pined in work and grief
Over thy brown earth where mud so often lies.

Thy trees, thy garb, thy ivy-covered walls,
Thy splintering steps and human cleaved hills.

Thy river, polluted as of course, it has to be,
With life at stake when want to swim in thee.

The bird-flecked walks over which swim
Thy birds, thy ranch where student cannot stop.

How often have I wished to be refreshed,
But when I come can but do me.

Thy bushes and thy grass with bodice strewn,
Thy buildings by the plowmen were seen.

Thy "Amber" home of many will-be sons,
No shelter from the liquid wind which blows.

And sunshine streaming down in torrents
Than any one with mind would bargain for.

Thy halls in which we sup and take of drink
So unbelieved that we are wont to think it must be ink.

The corn of which the students have so small amount
Is gone before the wind which takes its course.

Thy "Amber" lifeless land out of the bay,
The looks who come to learn remain to pass!

How could one inclined to brain extend his magic power
By nature to be so misjudged for an hour?

Ah! had I but heeded wiser words, this fate
Could not have befallen me, but 'tis too late.

To men about intangible "could have been,"
I smile with mind so distant cannot win.

Attention Called To Absence Regulations

Absence regulations are clearly explained on pages 98 to 101 in the handbook. Students should read carefully. Ignorance of the regulations can not be accepted as an excuse.

1. However, should a student voluntarily absent himself from class at anytime, then all subsequent absences are counted as "cuts" regardless of whether they have been due to illness or other emergency, and the usual fine in absences will apply.

2. All requests for consideration of reason for absence must be submitted on the regular form (secured from the Registrar's office) within one week of the student's return to classes, or the student's return to classes, or the student will stand as a "cut."

Should any student by reason of absence miss more than fifteen percent of the work of the course, either class recitations or laboratory, he will be dropped from the course with a grade of "F."

The eighth cut in a three hour course or the fifth cut in a two hour course will result in an F grade for a course.

No student may drop either Assembly or Physical Education by reason of

From The Exchange Desk

GENUINE DILEMMA . . .

The Beacon, student newspaper of Rhode Island State College, was just slightly confused.

"Getting out a newspaper is no picnic," it declared. "If we print jokes students say we are silly; if we don't they say we are too serious. If we publish original matters, they say we lack variety; if we publish things from other magazines, they say we are too lazy to write our own. If we stay in the office, we ought to be out roofing material; if we're not roofing material, we're not attending to business in the office. If we wear old clothes, we're insolvent college students; if we wear new ones, we got the money from graft. What the hell are we supposed to do, anyway? Take it or leave it, we say we've rejected this on an exchange. We did."

... A.C.P. Feature Service

SNORBIEM, CAMPUS STYLE . . .

Although Russell Lynes was amazingly thorough in his naming and describing the various types of snobs in the Daily Athenaeum, student newspaper of West Virginia University, felt some campus snobs might be added to the list. Here are a few of the Athenaeum's candidates.

"The Scholarly Snob. He regards all students who spend any time on pursuits other than study as immature. This type is easily recognized by the frequency with which he can be heard to mutter, 'What do they come to college for, anyway?'"

"The Socially Active Snob, who regards anyone who finds it necessary to spend an occasional evening in the company of a 'barbarian' as a 'barbarian'."

"The Gracious Don't-Mean-Anything Snob. This is the largest sub-division in the Campus Snob classification, it seems, and is composed of those who study when they have absolutely nothing else to do. Sometimes the majority of them make passing grades. At the end of each semester they can be heard to remark philosophically, 'Oh well, grades don't mean anything, anyway.'"

But these wise words I leave to thee today,
Stay back when heeded by one who tries to say,
You will regret the time you crossed the bar.

over-cut. Fines will continue to apply.

Absences are taken from the first day's meeting of any course.

Each student should keep a careful record of absences in every course. If in doubt about status of absences, consult the instructor. This information is not available in the Registrar's office.

As in previous semesters, each student must pay all absence fines prior to the examination period. A special examination resulting from failure to meet obligations will mean the regular fee for special final examination. Students exceeding 15% will be liable for over-cut including fines percent of class meeting.

The situation is essentially this: Do we want our institution based on a stable financial system with below average students for the present, or is it possible to exist through the critical period at hand, running at a deficit and maintain a superior scholastic system?

COME IN — LOOK AROUND — WE'LL BE GLAD TO SERVE YOU.

Cagers End Losing Streak; Defeat Towson

By JIM BEACH

DIM AND APPIE TO REMAIN?

The questions most frequently asked on the hill since the abandonment of football and baseball have been in regard to the future status of coaches Apichello and Montero.

As yet there has been no official statement adequate to answer such questions, but many guess that Apichello will remain on the staff next year and will continue in his physical education classes as usual. The time he devoted to baseball in the spring will be spent directing intramurals.

No definite statement was made regarding Dim's status but the present situation has no direct bearing on his status as instructor. Dr. Gibson explained that the football coach is hired as an instructor and receives additional compensation for coaching.

Of course the general opinion is that Montero will seek another coaching job next fall. Although it may be possible for him to remain here as a professor his love for the game is probably too strong to keep him in the classroom. From the moment he arrived on campus in 1949 his small squad of 25 players won four, lost two, and tied two. Last season his guiders scored five victories in eight starts.

Short Shots

Looks as if lacrosse and tennis will get a load of attention this spring since baseball has been thrown out. Plans are under way to have the tennis courts surfaced before the sunshine invites the netmen to practice. Maybe lacrosse will be moved up on the former gridiron . . . at least seats for the spectators are provided there.

A lot of good news to rival teams . . . George Dempsey, King College's basketball ace withdrew from school to enlist in the Coast Guard. Last season he was fourth point-getter in collegiate ranks with 704 over a 25 game stretch . . . His 26.2 average was second only to George King of Morris-Harvey. This season he racked up 287 points in 12 games.

W.C. Stickmen Tackle Tough Schedule For '51

Now that baseball has left the college a great deal of responsibility has been thrown on the shoulders of Dr. Clark and the Lacrosse team. Wash. College's athletic prowess this spring will be confined to track, tennis, and lacrosse. This however, will not necessarily restrict the colleges' intercity. Lacrosse at Washington College Lacrosse has received a good deal of publicity from the papers in the Baltimore area. There is every reason to believe that this will continue: The Lacrossemen this year will undertake their toughest schedule since their post-war return to the local scene. Traveling as far north as Hutter and Adelphi on Long Island and North Carolina to be in North Carolina, the team will include a 15 game schedule. Also included among the more noted opponents are Navy, Loyola, Baltimore U. and just but not least, Mount Washington.

A Letter

We regret deeply to see football come to an end at Washington College. Under the leadership of Coach "Dino" Montero, football at W.C. after a period of time to reach its future. Good luck to the coaches and members of the team, which were retained by the Athletic department.

SCALLION IN ACTION

Nifty Nick Gets 26 Against T.C.

After dropping successive contests to Johns Hopkins, Loyola, and Catholic University, the local cagers rebounded Monday night to trip Towson Teachers College for the second time this season; the final score, 67-30.

Once again it was Nifty Nick Scallion leading the Abeneymen to their sixth win of the season. The cloyed 1st hander hit the ends for 30 countercres maintaining his 26 point average for 15 games. Kenny Sullivan was next high Shoeman with 10 points. Bucky Kimbert finished his one-hand push shot to assess 21 markers for the Jovex, Bucky, Warsaw also contributed 12 to the Teachers.

Both teams had plenty of scoring opportunities from the foul line. Towson led in this department, making good 13 of 25 free throws, while the locals hit on only 11 of their 28 chances.

After grabbing a first quarter lead of 15-11, the Shoemen registered only 12 points during the second, but managed to hold a four point lead at halftime, 27-23. Coming back strong in the third quarter, when Nick sank 11 of his total, the Shoemen's lead was widened to ten points, 50-40.

Scallion and Sullivan each dropped two field goals during the final moments, and along with Taylor, Gunning, and Ruda, who counted with three additional goals, clinched the game, 67-30.

This encounter marked the locals' fifth win in nine meetings, and gave the Teachers their seventh setback in eleven encounters.

Sho'men Bow To Hopkins

Johns Hopkins handled the Maroon and Black its second loss of the season 77-60 as Nick Scallion and Ben Samuels scored all but twelve of the home team's 66 points. Nick, hitting from all spots, garnered 54 as Danny dropped in 20.

As usual, 6'3" Stan Berkman of the Blue Jays controlled both boards and led his team by scoring 25 points. A constant threat the entire evening was Simon Margolis who netted 20 markers and continuously stole the ball.

In the first four minutes of the initial quarter Scallion hit for 8 points as his squad jumped to a 12-8 lead. Hopkins tied the score and the second quarter the visitors led by small.

Bob Lihen, knotted the count and forged ahead 26-20. The Sho quiet into a man to man defense after starting the contest with a 2-1-2 zone. Nevertheless, as the buzzer sounded at halftime, the Jays counted the lead, 30-28.

The third quarter ended 55-44, the locals still trailing by 11 points. Scallion's shots were matched by the combination of Berkman and Margolis as the former led and shot from his pivot position.

Although Berkman tallied three field goals in the first minute of the final period, Samuels followed with four baskets and Nick with one as the lead dwindled to 7 points, 61-54. The Blue and White then quickened the tempo using their fast-moving guards to break up the Sho defense which was alternating a zone and man to man all evening. Their lead at one time advanced to 15 points, 74-59 but was cut to 77-60 as the fourth quarter ended. Nick's average for 45 games was increased to 26.8 as the team record stands at four wins and two defeats.

Seniors Get Teaching Posts

The following seniors completing graduation requirements at the close of the first semester have been placed in teaching positions for the second semester—June L. Williams, Harford County; Crawford Ervin in Carroll County; Frank Lorentz at Staunton Military Academy, Virginia; and Richard P. Parsons in Buchanan School, Virginia.

Thanks From Dim

To the student body, faculty, and administration of Washington College:

I would like to thank you one and all for the splendid, unending cooperation you have given me during my tenure as football coach here at Washington College. I deeply regret the fact that present worldly conditions have necessitated the abandonment of football and sincerely hope that it will be resumed when conditions permit.

I would also like to thank the fellows who played under me for the sacrifices they made and the efforts they put forth to win ball games. It was really great working with you and I wish you all the best of luck.

Sincerely,
DIM MONTERO

Loyola Hands W. C. 6th Loss

Loyola of Baltimore handed the Washington College Cagers their sixth loss last week, 57-43.

The Greyhounds' attack was led by sophomore Ed Delaney, who kept the cords hot with a 21 point output. With Cook, their towering center, controlling both back boards, and Kowalski's playing an outstanding nose game, the Baltimoreans held at every quarter of the contest.

The game got off to a slow start, the first quarter ending with the Humans leading 11-10. The tempo was quickened only slightly during the second stanza, the locals netting only two field goals and four foul shots, while Loyola whizzed in only 12 counters. The Loyola lads, always a thorn in the side of the home boys, continued to rip the non-forman defense and in spite of Nick Scallion's 12 point effort in the third stanza, the gap widened to seven points, 41-34.

For the night, Scallion dropped in 21, Samuels 8, and Taylor and Sullivan 5 each, but Loyola went on to win 57-43, thus maintaining their mastery over the Chieftainesses.

Cardinals Rip Sho' Defense In 65-61 Tilt

The Cardinals of Catholic University made it three set-backs in a row for the Sho' cagers last Saturday, winning 65-61 in the nation's capital.

First First And Third
The brawl lads actually led the game in the first and third quarters. High-scoring Nick Scallion mustered only four points during these fatal stanzas while the rest of the squad could net but 15 more.

Cranston Leads C.U. Attack
The Red Bird attack was led by Dick Cranston, who contributed 19 markers. C. U. Jurelich, however, went to Della Rana, sensational forward, who not only added 14 points to his total, but controlled both backboards, and set up scores continually. Balfrin and Hughes, too, also had a big hand in the scoring with 10 points each.

Last Quarter Spurn
Nifty Nick finally adjusted his sight on the hoop during the final quarter registering 15 points and carrying off scoring honors with a 27 point total. Dan Somers, playing with four stitches in his left hand, dumped in 12 additional markers on fast breaking dives-in shots. Bill Brogan and Capt. Ed Gunning followed with 8 points each.

Butch McHugh's absence from the lineup was noticeable and it was revealed that week that the lanky forward still undoubtedly is in the remaining game. He clipped a bone in his ankle in a practice session and it must remain in a cast indefinitely.

Mrs. Newton Has Resigned

Mrs. Jacqueline Newton, who has been manager of the college book store for over five years, resigned her position on February 1, 1951 to accept a job in Chestertown. She has been replaced by Miss Katherine Elliott, who has been with the college since October.

A resident of Chestertown all of her life, Mrs. Newton has been indirectly associated with the college since 1921. Her husband until his death was Chief of Maintenance, a position now held by Mr. Butler. In 1945, Mrs. Newton became manager of the book store. Her new place of employment is Vickers Tire Shop in town. Mrs. Newton said that during her years with the college, she has enjoyed working with and for the students, and that she would miss the college and its activities.

Miss Elliott, also a Chestertown resident, worked for twenty-seven years in the Kent Omnis Savings Bank. In October, she became assistant to the business office and remained there until accepting her present position.

Students Transfer

From the halls of Canterbury College, a small theatrical school such as ours, in Indiana, come two transfer students who hope to complete their education here at Washington College. Elizabeth Scholt, who entered as a junior, and C. Russell Gale, a freshman, are the new additions to the W. C. population.

Up until this past September, Canterbury College has been an Episcopal school, supported by the Episcopal Church. It was taken over in 1946 by the church when it was a small rural school. However, last fall with the withdrawal of church support and the demolition of the faculty, a great many students left the school. Among these were Miss Scholt and Mr. Gale.

When asked why they happened to choose Washington College, they answered that they liked the type of school and the location. W. C. closely resembles Canterbury College in its friendly spirit and small number of students.

Elizabeth Scholt, hails from Catickill, New York and is majoring in education. Russell Gale, also from New York is a pre-theological student and hopes to enter a seminary when he finishes his work here. Accompanying these two students "just to look around" is Robert H. Johnston, a recent graduate of Canterbury College.

Boyd Leads JV's To Towson Win

Washington College Junior Varsity basketball team scored a hard fought victory over Towson's Jayvies on the court Monday night 30-45. This gave the "Little Shamers" a clean sweep of the two game series with the Towson Jayvies.

Lithovick Boyd, lanky center, scored in 20 points to lead the winners. He also played an outstanding game on defense and rebounding. "Little" We also excelled with his ball handling and play making throughout the entire game.

Ted Towson, who was Doves and Leticia who did the singing! Each chalked up 11 points with nine of Doves' coming via a perfect night at the charity time.

The game was closely contested all way with neither team having more than a five point advantage at any time. Towson led 22-21 at the half, but Johnson's Jayvies came back to lead at the end of the third period 33-32, and from then on were never headed.

This gives the Shamers Jayvies a season's record of seven wins against two losses. The two defeats came at the hands of West Chester Junior Varsity 58-53 and the College AllStars 59-38.

To Name 'Dream Girl'

Theta Chi Fraternity in holding with its established policy of picking a "Dream Girl" each year, will again give a girl to the town tonight. The presentation will take place during the intermission on the OK HOOP, Saturday night in Hodson Hall. Eddie Ray's all Theta Chi Band will again furnish the music.

A trophy will be presented to the Dream Girl with her name inscribed on it as well as the names of members in the year. Those who were Gloria Kilborn 1948, Mickey Orr 1949, Sue Horn 1950, Sue Flann, last year's winner, will make the presentation.

Came to Gymnasium Before the three, which goes under way in Hodson around 8:00 there will be a basketball game between Washington College's Theta Chi's and Drexel's Theta Chi in Cain Gymnasium. The Theta Chi's extend an invitation to faculty and students to attend both affairs.

Forensic Gives Program

At the assembly program on Thurs day, the members of the Paul E. Ties worth Forensic Society presented a debate on the topic "Should the Non-Communist Nations Form a New International Organization?"

General chairman for the presentation was John Byland. Charles Whitt was the first affirmative speaker and Paul Miller the first negative speaker. As second speakers, Bill True (he presented the affirmative) and Don Heverly the negative. Representing the two sides, Charles Whitt offered the affirmative side in rebuttal and Paul Miller the negative.

In order to determine the reaction to the delegates the Forensic Society requested that a student opinion ballot be answered by those attending the assembly program. In reply to the first question, "As the debate commences, do you favor the affirmative or negative," a total of 41 students responded in the affirmative and 90 in the negative. To the second question,

"At the close of the debate, do you favor the affirmative or the negative side of the question?" 45 students answered in the affirmative and 89 in the negative. The third question requested a criticism of the general presentation of the debate itself.

Juniors Trim Goldey

Coach Robert "Babe" Johnson's Washington College Junior Varsity penington defeated Goldey College's basketball team of Wilmington, Delaware 19-36. The game was played on the Washington College campus on January 24.

Wes Edwards led the way to the victory with four field goals and four layups for 12 points. Connie Landis, Tom Shaffer and Doug Talley also shared in the scoring for the winners with 7 points each. Mole Janigan also contributed 6 markers.

Sen. O'Connor To Speak At Convocation Fraternities Pledge Thirty-Seven Men

Theta Chi Names 15

Thirty-seven men were pledged to the four campus fraternities last Tuesday with Lambda Chi taking nine, K.A. taking seven, Theta Chi fifteen and A.O.N.U. six. Each of the fraternities held their pledging ceremonies Tuesday evening following the notification of acceptance of the bids.

Names of those receiving bids were placed on the bulletin board Wednesday morning and bids were signed in the Dean of Men's Office. A silence period for fraternity men and rushes covered a period of twenty-four hours from Monday evening until Tuesday at five.

Because of the unusually low index in all classes this year, the pledges numbered far less than last year. The freshmen's average this year was a .49, a plucking index of .75. Other reasons for the small pledge figure is due to the great number of enlistments in February and the uncertainty of the draft status of remaining students.

Those men who accepted bids to the fraternities are as follows:

Lambda Chi Alpha
James Schaeffer, Howard Davis, John Minnich, Frank Dickler, Herb Turk, Jim Metcalfe, Bob Stahl, Don Mayvort and John Newbold.

Kappa Alpha
George Eichelberger, Juan Hernandez, Chuck Waeche, Ray Probst, George Cromwell, Larry Weckind and Gary Wyckoff.

Theta Chi
Robert Sewell, Clats Conzone, Neil Algham, Ted Redford, Ed Cumor, Wes Edwards, Joe Gallo, Bob Appleby, Vince Magliochetti, Dick Kent, Ben Shimp, C. Landucci, Danny Smele, Paul Desmond and Fred Milhouberger.

Alpha Omega Nu
Paul Rowe, Fred Parnell, Howard Levenberg, Herb Brown, Harry Flynn and Don Hevrick.

Greek Scholarship Above Average

Fraternity and society scholarship indices as shown by a report issued by Dean Livingston were, for the most part, well above the average student index.

Lambda Chi Alpha had the highest Greek index of any of the fraternities with a 1.62 rating. Alpha Omicron Pi had the sororities by achieving a 1.871.

Official averages follow:
Lambda Chi	1.692
Alpha Omega Nu	1.591
Kappa Alpha	1.465
Theta Chi	1.388
All fraternity average	1.509
All men's average	1.127
Zeta Tau Alpha	1.197
Alpha Eta	1.197
Alpha Omicron Pi	1.871
All sorority average	1.784
All women's average	1.400
All student average	1.185

Student Advisory Group Is Formed This Week

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson announced at assembly this week the formation of a "Student Advisory Committee." The group, composed of twelve representative members of the four classes, met informally earlier in the week when Dr. Gibson outlined the purpose of the body.

The purpose of the committee is "to act as a liaison between students and administration, to provide a means whereby students can present their views and thus assist the college." The views and thus assist the college. The sole purpose of the Committee will be to present the point of view of the student body to the College Administration.

It was made clear that the group would have absolutely no authority, disciplinary or otherwise. "No names are ever to be mentioned in the committee meetings," Dr. Gibson told the representatives, "as I am interested primarily in how the students feel, not who they are." This attitude is expected to lead to much freer discussion of student problems than might otherwise result.

A good deal can come of the discussion of such a group as this," Dr. Gibson told the members. "You will be in on the ground floor at College policies, and thus will be able to understand them and explain them to your fellow students, thus avoiding the danger of unfounded rumors."

Members of the Committee may be called into session whenever its members or Dr. Gibson think it advisable.

Players Change Cast

A rearrangement of the cast for "The Devil and Daniel Webster" was made this week by Bob Elder, director of the play. This measure was due to the great number of enlistments at the end of the semester.

Still needed for the play are four men to take part in the play. Special casting has been held in Ferguson Hall to try and fill the parts. Those four, however, still remain open to any who care to tryout.

Presentation of the play which will be given along with "The Monkey's Paw" will be March 7 and 8. This is the second time the Players have offered a production of one-act plays to the W.C. audience and the Chester town residents.

THE CROWD: Don Hevrick, John Grimm, George Fischler, Jim Weller, Don Williams, Ann Simmons, Don Leverage, A. J. Carr.

NOTICE

1. February graduates of the Class of 1952 are requested to file an application blank for graduation in the Registrar's office.

2. All Freshmen and Sophomores, including veterans, are expected to take physical education courses during their first two years at Washington College. Any undergraduates who have not taken physical education are to check with the Registrar, Physical Education, a required course for graduation, is currently being offered at the following times:

Men	Women
Monday, Wednesday, Friday, at 8:15 and at 9:15; Also: Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, at 8:15 and 9:15.	Monday, Wednesday, Friday, at 11:15 and at 1:30 P.M.

W. C. Grads Advance In Science Field

Two members of the Class of 1950 of Washington College have received notice of advancement in their respective fields. Carl Pacella, a graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh recently received a promotion after six months with the Coalbed and Chemicals Division at the Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh, while Gordon Lee Stamm has been re-appointed Graduate Assistant in Physics at Dartmouth College.

In a letter to Dr. Charles Volker, who helped him about to enter graduate school, Pacella wrote: "My work is going quite well and is quite diversified. I am preparing for work in technical development as a technical representative for Carbide and at present am in the position of research assistant in Organic Synthesis. The term Organic Synthesis in our work covers a multitude of sins as actual organic synthesis is only one aspect of our job."

Dr. Stamm, a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron during his senior year. He majored in chemistry and took a split minor in physics and math while also serving as a chemistry lab assistant. Pacella is married and young Dr. Voelker has a son, Carl Hugh, was a recent addition to the family.

Stamm's reappointment as Graduate Assistant in Physics, rated as one of the best in the nation, entitles him to faculty rank. He expects to receive his Masters degree in 1952, at which time he will become physics assistant at the Case School of Applied Science. As a student at Washington College he majored in math and physics and has assisted with a physics lab in physics during his last two years.

NEW EQUIPMENT ACQUIRED

Through the efforts of Robert V. Orr, class of June '48, the Physics department has been presented with a radioisotope for laboratory work in Meteorology and Electronics. Bob Orr now holds the position of junior engineer in electronics at the Erie Insurance Division of the Ben's Aviation Corporation in Baltimore.

Dr. McLain Leaves Post

Dr. Joseph H. McLain, assistant professor of Chemistry at W.C., has left his post in the chemistry department to take the office of Consultant to the Biological Warfare Department of the Chemical Corps of the U. S. Army. He will be located at Camp Detrick in Frederick, Maryland.

This will be Dr. McLain's second tour of duty in the service of the Army. During World War II he served as a major in research work for the Chemical Corps.

Dr. McLain came to Washington as a chemistry professor in the Fall of 1946, after completing work for his Masters and Doctor's degrees in science at Johns Hopkins University. He has been in charge of General Chemistry, Physical Chemistry and the Chemistry seminar.

A graduate of W.C. in the class of '37, Dr. McLain went on to Hopkins to become a member of Phi Beta Kappa and several other honorary scientific fraternities.

In addition to his duties in the Chemistry department, Dr. McLain has served as faculty advisor for Theta Chi, of which he was a member when attending W.C.; Chairman of the Disciplinary Committee; member of the Athletic Council, and Scholarship Committee and Treasurer of the Washington College Alumni Athletic Association.

Dr. Schmidt Takes Post

Dr. William D. Schmidt, former professor and Dean of Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia, has taken a temporary position with Washington College as Assistant professor of Chemistry. He has replaced Dr. Joseph H. McLain who returned to serve the U. S. Army Chemical Corps.

Dr. Schmidt received his B.S. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Pennsylvania in 1923 and his Ph.D. in 1931. Between these dates he was a chemistry and physics teacher in the Philadelphia high schools.

From 1910 through 1950, he was a professor of Bio-Chemistry and Hahnemann Medical College and served as Dean from 1943 thru 1946 during a reorganization period.

Dr. Schmidt is also a member of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association and is a consultant to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In this capacity he works in the preparation of legislation that concerns scientific matters.

Will Feature ODK Tapping

The Honorable Herbert R. O'Connor, United States Senator from Maryland, will deliver the principal address at the formal Washington Day Convocation here next Thursday during the assembly period.

The Convocation, the most significant event of the college year, is held annually on or near the birthday of George Washington for whom the college, with his express consent, is named. The ceremonies will begin at 11 A.M. with the procession of the Administrators, Faculty and guests attired in academic gowns. The invocation and benediction will be pronounced by Dr. Charles Attorney of Chestertown, (Episcopal), Church of Christ, Methodist, etc.

ODK To Tap Members

A prominent feature of the program will be the tapping of new members by Alpha Phi Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa. Membership in ODK is generally regarded as the highest honor which can be bestowed on anyone connected with the college.

Senator O'Connor has recently received national attention by his efforts to halt the flow of goods to Communist China and by his efforts to trim the national debt. The elimination of non-essential spending.

Now the senior Senator from Maryland, Mr. O'Connor has held a number of important posts in the state and nation, including two terms as Governor of the New State from 1928-1947. While serving in that capacity he was elected Chairman of the Governor's Conference of 1952 and held a chair in several important committees of that body.

Received W.C. Degree

Senator O'Connor was born in Baltimore in 1880 and is a graduate of Loyola College where he received an A.B. degree in 1917 and an LL.D. in 1928. He later received an LL.B. degree from the University of Maryland in 1920 and has received other LL.D. degrees from University of Maryland, Villanova, Georgetown, and Washington College, the latter in 1930.

Former Governor

A practicing lawyer in Baltimore since 1919, Senator O'Connor has held a number of legal posts and rose to the Governorship from the office of Attorney General, a post he held from 1951-1959. He is a member of a number of Bar Associations and of various clubs and lodges. A Phi Kappa Sigma, Senator O'Connor has served in the U. S. Naval Reserve and is a member of the American Legion and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Senator O'Connor is a prominent Democrat and is of the Roman Catholic faith. He married the former Miss M. Eugenia Byrnes and is the father of five children.

Lecture On Defense

Dr. Charles Volker of the W.C. Physics Department, and Dr. A. J. Whitely, Lecturer in Hygiene, gave instructions in a recent short course in Civil Defense being at the Chestertown High School.

This course is out of several topics nationally, on various aspects of civil defense. Dr. Whitely spoke on "Biological Warfare" and a "General Warfare" while Dr. Volker spoke on "Atomic Bomb Disaster Plans."

Disgraced

We learn in psychology that a reformed group will respond more favorably than a group that is ignored. We learn further that a compromised group will react even more favorably than a reformed group. No comment could possibly be given to the students on their action during meals at Hodson. There is nothing we can do but reprove and hope for results. The action of the students in Hodson Hall are disgraced. What possible excuse could there be for the throwing of hectorers in the lobby or climbing over the banister to enter a dining hall instead of using the steps?

Once inside, the students behave for the most part, like savages. One of the most annoying things is the disgraced noise that continues while grace is being said. One campus fool is (1) had the childish satisfaction of bumping a hallion during grace. This was followed by the dutiful inmates of his pack.

Surely this does not happen in their respective homes. We know that this is partly due to megalomania, but mostly because we recognize the cause does not mean that its existence is justified.

If a student cannot act like a human being at least during meal times there are two obvious solutions:—(1) His parents should be here with him. (2) He should be home with his parents.

How many of us come back to school with "Now act like a gentleman, expressed or implied by our parents only to let ourselves be side tracked by the actions of others?"

What can you do? Disapprove. Social disapproval does work as least to a society whose members have moral convictions.

Critics

Varying types of criticism appear on this page from time to time. Some of them had their mark while others, do not. Few of our writers are perfect. We are learning as we go. In general we try to follow the advice given by Ben Jonson:

"A creature of a most perfect and diverse temper; one in whom the humors and elements are personate men, without emulation of precedence. He is neither too factitiously modest, nor overly phlegmatic; he is highly sanguine, nor too richly choleric; he is in all so composed and ordered as it is clear nature went about some full sort, that he did more than make a man, he also made his life. His nature is like his behavior, uncommon, but not unpleasing; he is pendulous of anger, he strives rather to be that which men call judgment than to be thought so. He is not so lewd as he affects, nor so slow as he will think and speak his thought."

Attention Should Be Given Brain Resources

An A. P. dispatch this week quoted Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson to the effect that Congress should look at the contemplated draft from a viewpoint of brain resources.

It is strongly felt that Congress should give its utmost attention to the depleting resources in brains.

"I think this country will put itself in a rather desperate situation if it does not really—as many European countries have—than we need leaders in every walk of life."

Dr. Gibson's remarks were included in a survey of opinions and problems of prominent scientists and engineers, whose institutions face enrollment cuts. The general consensus was that if 18-year-olds are drafted into the armed forces, qualified industries should be permitted to return to college after a brief period of training.

The views of Dr. Detlev W. Broak, president of Johns Hopkins University paralleled those of Dr. Gibson. Dr. Broak, a member of the National Research Council, said: "The United States, 'We need trained manpower at all costs.'"

Other views as gathered in the A. P. report were as follows: Dr. Jacob H. Brainerd, dean of St. John's College, said he favors drafting 18-year-olds, but adds:

"Many of these men could be sent back to college later. Give them a four to six months training and release 75,000 for college."

The very Rev. Thomas J. Murray, S.J., president of Loyola College, doesn't believe that returning men 75,000 men will help the small college much.

"The Army doesn't need the 400,000 men which I understand they are not. I have my opinion on this, but it would return one half to college after about four months' training. That would save the colleges and still provide enough men for the Army."

An American educator, Dr. Harin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, believes that present world conditions require an 18-year-old draft.

But, he says, qualified men should be allowed to return to college after basic training, and the total service period should not exceed 27 months.

Dr. Lowell S. Enos, president of Western Maryland College, agrees with Dr. Jenkins and Dr. Kline that qualified men should be returned to school after a period of basic training.

But another educator would leave the whole problem up to the military men of the country.

"It seems to me," says Dr. Leon P. Smith, dean of Arts and Science School of the University of Maryland, "the best way is to treat them (18-year-olds) as adults. Personally, I'm willing to leave it up to Hershey and Marshall Maj. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director and Gen. George C. Marshall, Secretary of Defense."

And the Rt. Rev. John L. Sheridan, president of Virginia Military Institute, says his school will go along with the government's proposals, but he explains that he personally is opposed to drafting youths of 18.

"No Matter Were . . ."

By Tom Lora

Most of the majority of the persons, concerned with selective service, have resigned themselves to their fate, another Frankenstein of immense import has appeared upon the stage—before the mass setting. The great concern over the drafting of 18 year olds is usually becoming a national frenzy.

The issue is not either the 18 year olds go or the veterans are recalled. Our concern is with students; and, in all probability, if a veteran is still in the college, the chances are, he was in the service at the tender age of eighteen years in some cases seventeen, and is not the least anxious to lose another two or three year period from his life. The great majority of those who served longer and were called from the ancient and gentle 19th and 20th years of their lives have passed on to the obscurity of age. These ancients are comparatively free from fear of reactivation. The question is at present, should we take these naive youths still holdable by army strings or the world weary and weathered cynics who, due to their past experience, have become too lean, shrewd to serve humanity in any other way.

If I remember correctly, those native youngsters, who served prior to the cessation of hostilities, (44) were not merely the complement but often superior to the older servicemen. One might say that they used their mothers' apron strings as a garrote. It was proven beyond a doubt, that an eighteen year old is easily molded into a well-oiled cog in the military machine.

Both freely; but as distant from depriving another man's merit as valuing his own. For his valor, 'tis said that he dures as steel. He has both a most ingenious and sweet spirit, a sharp and seasoned wit, a straight judgment, and a strong mind. Fortune could never have him. His power is like fire. He counts it his privilege to despise pleasures, and is more delighted with good deeds than goods. It is a competency to him that he can be virtuous. He doth neither cover nor hide his faults. He is not afraid of either; and that commends all things to him."

I am opposed to drafting either of the two groups. But a break of that sort is better between high school and college than both at that period and later during his college education. A young man of any age has as much to offer as a young man of any age.

There is an opportunity to finish college and while doing so to train for a commission in the Marine Corps. Granted the Corps is a tough outfit. But if I am to depend on persons in any phase of life I want them to be the best in their field. It is indeed a constant to realize that those who are perfect in all phases of military life are the Corps is the epitome of perfection.

There is often a present P.L.C. which can be called on. College. Granted the Corps is a tough outfit. But if I am to depend on persons in any phase of life I want them to be the best in their field. It is indeed a constant to realize that those who are perfect in all phases of military life are the Corps is the epitome of perfection.

If a military organization of this caliber offers a choice for a commission to these of the 18 year group surely they aren't too young for the draft. Of the veterans from the last 18 year draft it is generally conceded that not all of them who returned were killers, drunkards or licentious individuals. I doubt if the young men of today are a bit wiser than they were then. It is tragic that they are to go, but I am sure they will take it in their stride as was done before.

New Senior Class

Secretary Elected

Beir Ann Messer has been elected to the office of Secretary of the Senior class, replacing Mackey Metzlake who has temporarily withdrawn from college for a trip to Hawaii. Dr. Messer was nominated for the position were Gus Stronaker, Lee Cook, and Don Freeman.

Beir Ann, who is from Federal Hill, Md., is also a member of the Washington Players and the college choir.

In Defense Of Spring Fever Then and Now

By Dick Widge

By the time this issue of The Elm appears it may be winter again. But at the present moment the land abounds with symptoms of spring and an epidemic of spring fever seems to be getting under way, unseasonable as it is. Usually this matter of spring fever is looked upon as an incubus of the most malicious kind, reducing mankind to idiotic blobs of protoplasm wishing nothing more than to bask in the moonlight sun. There can be doubt that such a state of stupefaction detracts from the noblest endeavors of man, and is to be avoided and condemned even to the extent of entraining its unfortunate victims for fear of spreading the contagion.

Perhaps this is wrong attitude. Perhaps spring fever is merely an all too fleeting realization that man in some primordial day, lived a simpler and happier life without being torn asunder by his own instincts. There were no noble cultivators, then, and man found it possible to get along without a thousand modern nuisances simply because he hadn't sold them to himself yet. Somewhere along the line somebody got ambitious and invented something and his neighbor, naturally curious if, copied it. And so the race was on. Things went from bad to worse after the invention of civilization. No man reached his present state of foolishness.

It is indeed unfortunate, however, that although everyone at one time or another is subject to spring fever, most can recover and those few who cannot suffer. There is no one of those who realize the utter futility of life today are branded "lunatic" by society rather than being accused the bores that is due them as great philosophers.

Ruth Roe Is 'Dream Girl'

Ruth Roe, a senior at Washington College, was elected "The Dream Girl" of Theta Chi last Saturday evening at a banquet in the Elms Hall. She was presented with a corsage of red roses by Sue Horn, last year's Dream Girl. She will also have her name inscribed on a silver loving cup which will be placed in the Theta Chi House.

The Dream Girl tradition on the hill is forty years old. Past girls to hold the honor are Gloria Ellison, '18, Mickey Ott, '19 and Sue Horn '20. The custom was begun in connection with Sam Kay's writing "The Dream Girl of Theta Chi" and is observed on most college campuses that have a chapter of Theta Chi. The new Dream Girl is a native of Chesterville, Maryland. She is currently serving as president of Alpha Chi sorority and has been a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, honorary scholarship society, for two years.

Those who wish to be in the best of this year to Lou Blizard, '20.

Ten years ago this week the Washington College basketball squad was preparing to meet the University of Maryland cagers at College Park. The U. of Md. has outgrown our league in the last ten years. Need anyone wonder what a contrast between the two institutions would result in today. With thousands from who to choose, how could they miss?

Frank Sauter, a freshman, was being lauded as the deadliest set shot on the W.C. squad. History repeats itself in his younger brother, Danny, who fills his shoes on the 1951 V.

Five years ago this week, sixty-two returning veterans had swelled the W.C. numbers to begin post-study. About half that number have profited their further education this year to take over where these veterans left off.

A committee had been appointed to institute plans for a series of Sunday after-dinner musicals at Hodson Hall. The reader used only use a small amount of imagination to guess how such a plan would go over with the present student body.

Mr. Ralph R. Thornton accepted the position of instructor in English at Washington College. A member of the class of 1940, Mr. Thornton is now continuing his studies in Italy. The cheerleaders were attempting to get a response from the student body. There was a possibility that the squad might have to be discontinued if student support were not greater. The squad is still working, and the response is still weak.

One year ago this week, forty-seven men pledged fraternity. That number is ten more than the number pledged.

Mickey Hubbard copied individual MacDonnell moped honors when the W.C. team took the Indoor Mile Relay Crown.

Twenty students were dropped from college for scholarship deficiency even after the required index was lowered to .000.

MOUNTS TAKE M-D LEAD; NICK TOPS SCORERS

All-American Visits Campus

Our small campus was honored last week end with the presence of a 1910 football hero, Eddie Le Baron. Eddie attended The College of the Pacific and in his senior year there was chosen All-American quarterback. He is probably best remembered for his outstanding performance in the College All-Star Game against Philadelphia's mighty Eagles.

Eddie spreads 175 lbs. over a 5 foot 8 inch frame and appears to be as solid as the rock of Gibraltar. He is a very modest, soft spoken boy and when asked what he thought of Washington's campus replied simply, "I think it's great."

Scallion Near Record

For the second time in as many seasons Nick Scallion has come within an eye-lash of breaking the school record of 38 points for a single game, established by Gene Rook during the war years.

Last year against Loyola Nick garnered 37 and repeated this performance against Mount St. Mary's last Friday night. For those "blacker-coaches" who deem Scallion a ball hog and glory found here are a couple facts. Three times against the Mounts when he had foul shot, Scallion waived the ball outside. A fourth time, when a technical was called on the visitors, Nick could have, with that point, tied the record. Instead, he handed the ball to teammate Samele who sank the shot.

Incidentally, Nick holds the Baltimore U. court record of 33 points. He will be out to better that mark Saturday when the Aethyren invade the B.U. hardwood.

Short Shots

Billy Uyt, sharpshooting U. of Delaware forward, currently leads scoring parade of Middle Atlantic Conference, Southern Division, with 76 points in 4 games for a 19 point average. — Upset of the current campaign — Randolph Macon downed the Eagles of American U., 50-49.

Howard And Twilley Lead Thincad Hopes

The 1930 track season here at Washington College was brought to a successful finish as the Maroon and Black captured the Mason-Dixon Championship for the second consecutive year.

Kenny Howard, Jim Twilley, Abe Mendelblat, Micky Hubbard, and Captain Larry Brandenburg were the Sho'man standouts as they capped 55 of the 65% point total. This season, they were handicapped by the loss of Mendelblat, runner-up in both hurdle events, Hubbard, South Atlantic 500 meter record holder and a stand-out in the 220 and 440 yard runs, and Brandenburg, who remained undefeated in 1950-51, he successfully defended his 140 and 480 yard championships.

Back On Hovard
Looking ahead in '51, all eyes turn toward diminutive Kenny Howard, frequently called "The Jet". Kenny breezed to a dual victory in the Mason Dixon championship last year as he won the 220 yard dash and the broad jump, and took second place in the 100 yard dash. He is also a stand-out at the second leg on the one mile relay team. However, Kenny will need a great deal of support due to the absence of Larry, Micky, and Abe.

Twilley Adds Strength
Jim Twilley, newly elected Captain, will add much in the quarter and half mile events. Both Howard and Twilley are veterans of last year's relay squad which must be rebuilt this year by coaches Abbey and Monico.

The dual meet record of 1950 stood at four wins and one defeat. The deriskeders emerged victorious over the Baltimore Olympic Club, Penn. Military College, Catholic University, and Salisbury State Teachers College. Their only defeat coming at the hands of the West Chester State Teachers College. The '51 dual meet schedule promises plentiful competition as the thincads embark on another unpredictable campaign.

The 1951 schedule is as follows:
April
4 — U. C. — Away
18 — P. M. C. — Home
27-28 — Penn. Relay — Away
May
5 — West Chester — Home
8 — Loyola — Home
12-13 — M-D Championship
18-19 — M-A Championship

Jayves Average 50.8 Points Per Game
Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team have accrued a total of 157 points in the nine games played to date. This gives them an offensive average of 50.8 points per game.

Opposition for the Jayves have scored 534 for an average of 39 points a game. The Juniors higher score in a single contest was 71 points and the lowest was 38. Both of those were against the College All-Stars.

Ellsworth Boyd, center, so far is leading the Jayves individually with 90 markers for a 10.6 point average per game. Wes Edwards is close behind with 89 markers and sports a 9.9 average. Bob Appleby has contributed 71

Butterfly Nets?

By Ben Krojer

On entering Washington College, many students have seen boys running around the campus with odd shaped sticks with nets attached to them. These weird looking contraptions have been referred to as "Butterfly Nets". On asking someone what these gadgets were and their purpose, the students found that they are lacrosse sticks which are used to play a game called lacrosse.

Lacrosse is the oldest organized sport in America. The game received its name from the early French settlers in Canada. It was played by the Six Nations tribes of the Iroquois throughout the territory known as upper New York State and lower Ontario. The sport was adopted as a training measure for war. The game is regarded as a great "conditioner" and has been appropriately described as "the fastest game on two feet."

Lacrosse was taken up by the white man about 1800 and has been played on an organized basis in the United States for more than 75 years. The popularity of the game has increased and it is played by most preparatory schools, high schools, colleges, and clubs in the United States. The United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association has been very active in organizing and promoting the game. Each year an All-American team is picked by the Association from the member colleges participating in the sport. The Wilgote trophy, emblem of the college lacrosse championship, is awarded annually by the association to the outstanding team in the intercollegiate competition.

Lacrosse was played in Washington College quite a few years ago but it was dropped in 1934. The game was started again in 1948 when Jerry Lacrosse enthusiasts, two of whom were Charlie Hoffman, '50, and Eddie Lemay, '51, suggested that the sport be revived. The students received one hundred per cent support from Dr. Clark who was also interested in the game and offered to coach the team. However, the sport was played on an individual club basis and did not receive the support of the school. In 1949, Varsity letters have been awarded to the qualifying players for the past two years.

In the three years of competition the team has made a very good record and, in 1949 and 1950, was cited as the Middle Atlantic champion by the Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association. It was won 50 of 34 collegiate games played. Some of the outstanding players on the team in the past few years were Charlie Hoffman and Jack Jackson who were chosen to play for the Southern All-Star team which is composed of seniors. Ray Wood holds the high scoring record for all college competition in the country, with a total of 140 points for the past three seasons. Last year Ray was elected to the third string of the All-American Lacrosse Team.

This last moving sport is constantly winning popularity in the minds and hearts of sports loving Americans. In years to come, with continued support, this may become the top sport in the nation.

points for the nine games played.

"Rab Johnson's" "Little Sho'men" have won seven and lost two games. At present they are sporting a four game winning streak. The four remaining contests on their schedule are against C.C. Fraternity, currently leading the intramural league, the local independent Team, Goble's College, and Beacon College.

The young clergyman, who, after preaching a funeral sermon, wished to invite the mounters to view the remains, became confused and exclaimed: "We will now pass around the bier!"

Nick Scores 37 As Mounts Top Sho'men

MASON-DIXON BASKETBALL

Last Friday night the Maroon and Black emerged on the short end of a 36-32 score in one of the season's most closely contested hardwood battles against Mount St. Mary's, who now maintains first place in the conference. Nick Scallion, raising his total average to 27.2 points, bucketed thirteen field goals and eleven free throws for a 37 point total for the evening. Danny Samel garnered 16 marks followed by Bill Rodgers with 5 and Kenny Sullivan with 4 to complete the scoring for the night.

10 Point Lead
Utilizing his one hand push shot, Scallion hit the arcs for 12 points to lead the squad to a 25-17 first quarter advantage. The home team's tight close defense rendered the visitors helpless as they vainly attempted many set shots.

Jonis Leads Visitors
The Stone Quint closed to a 6 point lead at the conclusion of the half 35-29. The Mounts were headed by Gene Janis who rebounds and 15 points scoring punch at halftime held his unit in the game. Nick Scallion scored all but sixteen of our markers at intermission.

Score Tied
With 4 minutes remaining in the 3rd quarter, St. Mary's held the lead 42-42. The lead changed hands three times before the clock ran out, the score — Visitors-49, Home-45.

Samel Hits
The Saints grasped a 7 point swing lead throughout 8 minutes of the 4th period, until the uni-fied efforts of Danny Samel and Nick Scallion kept the lead to 64-62 with 40 seconds remaining in the game. At this point, Jerry Ryan sank a set shot to assure victory in a highly spirited climax.

Sororities Complete Rush Season

Formal rush season for the sororities ends this Saturday, February 17, 1951 when bids will be extended to new members.

The bidding procedure adopted for this year is a modified form of the preferential bidding used last year. All women sign up between 5:30 and 5:40 P.M. Friday in Miss Bradley's office and indicate their first and second choice of a sorority. At midnight, the list of preferences is extended until after the hours when girls sign their choices was agreed upon in the sororities.

Each sorority also compiled a preferential list of first and second choices which was handed to Dean Bradley by noon today. The two lists of members' choices and sorority choices will be reconciled by Dean Bradley, who will notify the president of each sorority by 9:00 P.M. tonight the list of girls that each group has received.

The president will write out the bids, but she is shown to serve to the students and the other sorority members until 9:00 A.M. on Saturday. By this time all bids to new members will be placed in their mailboxes.

Each sorority was bid a maximum of eight Freshmen girls and their own choice of upperclassmen provisions. Girls that their number does not exceed a total of twenty girls, excluding Seniors. All activity during the rush season is handled by the Panhellenic Council under the leadership of Mrs. S. J. Seiden President. The other two officers are Edith Ann Kerns, Vice-President, and Dean Lashow, Secretary-Treasurer.

Debate Team Wins 2 Events

Members of the Paul A. Titowith Debating Team, representing Washington College, won two out of six events in the debating meet sponsored by the Johns Hopkins University, held on the University's Campus in Baltimore, last Saturday. Eleven teams representing colleges in the area were entered.

The argument debated was the one chosen to be this year's debate topic for colleges throughout the country: "Resolved, That We Should Form a Non-Communist Organization."

Charles Whitson and Bill Treuth, representing the affirmative, beat Mollenberg by the score of 29-28. They lost a close match to William and Mary College, 35-34. Hopkins' Negative Team, the winners of the entire competition, defeated the Affirmative Team of Whitson and Treuth, 51-43.

Points were awarded on the basis of essential debating qualities such as presentation, argument presented, and others.

The Negative Team representing Washington College also beat Mollenberg. The score of the debate with Mollenberg was 29-25. St. Joseph College and Trinity College were successful in defeating the Washington College Negative Team by the respective scores of 41-34 and 32-35. Don Hevly and Paul Miller represented the Negative.

Plan Drive For World Student Fund

The committee of students for the World Student Service Fund organized at the end of last semester under the guidance of Dr. Smith is making plans for two activities by which the college can contribute to this organization. On February 27, 1951, there will be a drawing on a box of candy from traffic tickets sold to the students, and with faculty support, a talent show with all faculty participants.

For three years, Washington College has contributed to the WSSE. In previous years, it has been by individual donations. It was decided this year that the student body as a whole supported some project, a greater amount of money could be raised.

The World Student Service Fund organization engages in varied work throughout 17 countries of Europe and Southeast Asia. In many countries, the WSSE is working on relocation programs for "DP" students and refugees. To combat the great amount of disease threatening students, it provides hospitalization, equipment, and supplies for health clinics. Through a cooperative arrangement with CARE, text books and reference books are being sent to countries where universities and libraries were destroyed by the war. In addition, technical equipment, books, and periodicals are being sent for work in laboratories. To help alleviate the housing shortage, the WSSE has established hostels, dorms, service projects, student unions and other buildings. Lastly, it provides food and other essentials needed by the students.

Elmer Gustafson, speaking as chairman of the Washington College group urges all students to help support the drive for funds to the WSSE.

Headquarters Second Army
Fort George G. Meade, Maryland
FORT MEADE, MD., FEB. 6 — Pvt. Clay E. Dennis, Jr., Snow Hill, Md., has been assigned to the Signal Corps Replacement Training Center, Camp Gordon, Ga., after completing processing here at the 203rd Reception Center.

ODK Taps Dr. Gibson At Convocation Thursday

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, was tapped for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa Thursday at the annual Convocation. Dr. Gibson will be the speaker at a brief ceremony following the address by Senator Herbert R. O'Connor at the Convocation assembly, held in William Smith Hall.

Membership in ODK is generally regarded as the highest honor which can be bestowed on any person associated with the college. While primarily a student organization, ODK occasionally taps new members who are non-students but who have in some other capacity contributed to the welfare of the college.

Dr. Gibson, who is the twenty-second President of Washington College, was named to the post last June by the Board of Visitors and Governors. He assumed his new duties here last fall after resigning as Dean of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa.

Dr. Gibson is a native of Middleburg, Kentucky, where he attended a public school. He is a graduate of Kentucky Wesleyan where he was an outstanding athlete, winning four letters in football.

In 1931 Dr. Gibson received his M.A. degree from the University of Cincinnati, after which he taught English literature at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He received his Ph.D. in English from the University of Cincinnati in June 1939.

He was assistant professor of English from The Citadel, Charleston, S.C. from 1940 to 1943 when he accepted a commission as a Lieutenant (jg) in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He was made Executive Officer for the Naval Training Unit at Franklin and Marshall, and, following his release from active service, he accepted the post of Dean at that institution, a position he held for four years preceding his appointment at Washington College.

Alpha Psi Circle of ODK, the local chapter, now has a full membership of nine, including seven Seniors and two juniors. Members include: Eddie Leonard, (President), Frank Brown, Duke Case, Fillmore Devlin (Secretary), Don Duckworth, Gene Gray, Bob Herman, Larry Wescott (all Seniors) and Joe Ingots and Fred Nixon, both Juniors.

Science Club Plans Exhibit

Members of the Science Club at Washington College have planned plans at the last business meeting, February 8, for the annual exhibit sponsored by the organization. Paul Sadick was appointed to supervise the preparation for the exhibit and to coordinate the activities of the other committee members serving on the various exhibits.

Others who will take part in the exhibit are Betty Irene Ivens, publicity; J. Lee DeWitt, chemistry; Bob Stark, biology; Channing Channing, mathematics; Helen Roe, psychology; and Dick Lewis, physics.

1950 Graduate Wins Trip Abroad

Leonard Krasner

Leonard Krasner, a member of the Class of 1950 and now a graduate student in Public Health at Yale University, was elected last week from a class of twenty-two to accompany his professor on a European tour this summer.

Krasner enrolled at Yale this fall. While at Washington College he was active in a number of extra-curricular activities and organizations. He was President of ODK, and of the Junior Class, and while President of Alpha Omega Nu fraternity served on the Inter-Fraternity Council. He also held offices in the Players, the Forensic Society, the Science Club and others, and was named to "Who's Who Among College Students" during his senior year.

Bill Bonnett Elected By Lambdas

Bill Bonnett, Junior Class President, was elected Monday night to serve as High Alpha (President) of the Lambda Chi Alpha Chapter at Washington College for the forthcoming year.

Bonnett served as Rush Chairman during the past year and as chairman of the scholarship fund of the Inter-Fraternity Council during the first semester.

Bonnett and other newly elected fraternity officers were installed in their offices in a short ceremony Wednesday night. Serving as High Beta (Vice-President) will be Bill Brown, who was also recently elected as a Lambda representative to the I.F.C.

Jim Smith has assumed his new duties as High Tau (Treasurer) of the fraternity while Jim Traylor is chairman of his reelection, will continue to serve as High Gamma (Secretary).

Wayne Miller was elected Rush Chairman for the forthcoming year to replace Bonnett. Ralph Townsend succeeded Pete Lohman as Social Chairman and Manning Dyer replaced Jack Smith as Pledge Trainer. Steele Langford was elected to serve as Librarian.

ADDITION MADE TO DEAN'S LIST

The Dean's List, published annually, should have included the name of Walter Morgan, a Senior, who achieved a semester index of 2.35.

Study Hall Will Be Held Here

The Administration of the College has announced that starting with the second grade month it will sponsor a study hall for students having academic difficulties. While attendance will not be compulsory, even for those on academic probation, members of the faculty will recommend that students attend who are experiencing trouble in their classes.

The study hall will be conducted Monday through Thursday in Room 21, William Smith Hall, from 7:30 until 10:30 P.M., with a break of fifteen minutes at 9:30 P.M. A faculty member, whose service will be volunteered, will be present with the purpose of helping students and of maintaining relatively quiet study conditions.

Additional details will be posted prior to the opening of the first study hall.

The probability of having a study hall was first mentioned at a meeting of the Student Advisory Committee held Tuesday in the President's office.

Though no definite conclusions were reached, lengthy discussions were held regarding the future status of the Snack Bar and of the possibility of converting Hodson Hall to cafeteria style.

Mr. Dunsmore reported to the group that the Snack Bar is losing money at present. Representatives of ODK presented a report containing a comparison of Snack Bar prices with those of local restaurants and soda fountains. While a number of reasons were advanced to explain the financial

Mr. Ralph Thornton, former member of the English Department here, and a familiar figure to all upperclassmen, returned to the Washington College campus this week as a visitor. Mr. Thornton recently returned from Italy where he studied at the University of Florence.

Maryland Senator Outlines 7-Point Policy For Survival

By Sandy Jones, ELM News Editor

"Democracy's task has only begun," declared Senator Herbert R. O'Connor at the Convocation ceremonies held here yesterday. "We must hold fast to the principles of individual liberty and thought," he stated, "for intelligence, will, and good judgment are essential features of a democratic people."

Senator O'Connor

Senator O'Connor was the principal speaker at the annual affair, traditionally held in honor of George Washington to whom the College is named. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, introduced the noted speaker. Dr. Gibson was later honored by being tapped for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity.

Senator O'Connor prefaced his remarks by noting the applicability of the words of previous noted speakers to the present day. He quoted from the speeches of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, of Hugo Black, now Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, and of President Harry S. Truman, all of whom had delivered addresses at Washington College.

The Maryland Senator outlined seven policies which this nation must follow if it is to survive. First, there must be no Communism in our educational system. Second, there must be no recognition of Red China by the United States. Third, there must be no Communist in our State Department. Fourth, there must be no Communists in our educational system. Fifth, there must be no Communists in our armed forces. Sixth, there must be no Communists in labor. Seventh, we must have no trade relations with Communist powers.

Senator O'Connor has recently received national attention for his efforts in Congress on behalf of the last named of these policies. He also referred to the necessity of maintaining a strong economy. "It is incumbent upon us that we maintain our fiscal stability," he said, "We must eliminate that unnecessary spending which can bring us to the brink of financial collapse."

The United States can do no better than heed the words of George Washington. "If peace is to be obtained, there must be a new and better world order."

"America must furnish the leadership in the establishment of such a world," the Senator stated. "We have the leadership in leadership. No world organization could be successful without full U. S. participation." Therefore, we must strengthen our sense of duty and responsibility.

Senator O'Connor emphasized the ideological factor in present world conditions. "The most crucial war is the struggle for men's minds," he declared, "and the central battle must be against the surrender of the individual's thought and attitude."

"Totalitarianism infuses a push-button ideology of Belief, Obedience, and Fear," he said. "But truth makes men free, and freedom makes them strong. Freedom must recognize this fact or perish."

The former Governor of Maryland devoted some time to stressing the importance of the small college. Through institutions such as this, Americans must be re-educated, reformation, and they must be free to make their own decisions."

Eighteen Bids Extended By Sororities

Eighteen bids were extended to new sorority members last Saturday, Feb. 17, to complete the 1950-51 rush season. Alpha Omicron Pi received eight new pledges, Alpha Chi Omega received six, and Zeta Tau Alpha four. Bids were extended this year on the basis of preferential lists. During a dinner period extending from Thursday at midnight, pledges signed their first and second choice of a sorority on Friday afternoon. Dean Bradley recorded these choices with lists handed to her by each sorority also indicating first and second choice of girls, and the preference list. After midnight, the first fifteen girls to be admitted to the list evening which girls her group had received.

At the beginning of the season, twenty-nine Freshmen and twelve upperclassmen signed the rush list at the Panhellenic Tea. After midnight, the list decreased due to substitutions and failures to make the necessary choices.

Those girls accepting bids were:

- Alpha Omicron Pi: Cynthia Linn, Mary Ellen Kinsman, Mary Lee Umson, Catherine Martin, Valerie Lutz, Mildred von Rick-Gebert, Joan Wheeler, and Margaret Wehling.
- Alpha Chi Omega: Betty Boone, Margaret Hebecker, Joanne Palmer, Dore Schellinger, Ann Simonds, and Dorothy Wells.
- Zeta Tau Alpha: Josephine Buid, Jane Miller, Jane Mills, and Janet Newman.

Must File Application For Medical School

Scallion Sinks Record

Nifty Nick Scallion set a new school record last Monday, sinking 39 points against visiting Moravian College. No data could be found on the matter, it was generally conceived that the record of 38 was held by Gene Rook, and has stood intact until Nick blasted it this week. Incidentally, those 39 points lifted his three year total to 1302.

Letters To The Editor

I would like to point out the fact that any opinions, suggestions, or criticisms relating to sports will be carefully considered and printed if so desired. With the sports picture on the hill now at a low ebb, and local sports news relatively scarce, any ideas the student body may have will be readily considered. If you have an idea, see the writer personally or contact him via Box 43.

Short Shots

The Moravian College basketball squad brought with them last Monday night a phenomenal average of 76.5 points per game, over a 17 game span. In their first three starts after spring vacation they piled up 262 points for an average of 87.3 per cent.

High scoring Bill Werphoski swelled his 22.5 average, netting 27 counters against the Athenians, as his team went down in defeat, 80-58. Werphoski, a senior, has totaled more than 1500 during his career at Moravian and with 4 games remaining to be played, the blonde youngster could soar to the 1600 mark.

Many local spectators felt that the Moravian squad had been accustomed to a larger court, and that this, in part, proved a handicap to them. Others felt that the visiting squad was, in plain words, "too cocky" . . .

The lacrosse squad will hold practice sessions in Baltimore during Spring vacation.

Bees Rally Edges W.C.

Trading by 36 to 32 at halftime, Frank Skaff's vastly improved Baltimore team rallied for a 70 to 64 basketball victory over Washington College last Saturday night on the winner's court.

The Bees gained their lead at the midway point of the third quarter and remained on top until the final whistle. The loss further crippled the Moravian and Black hopes of gaining the Mason-Dixon Conference trophy, for it was the seventh loss in 13 games for the visitors while the home squad maintained a 5 won and 8 lost record.

Sameke News 22

Led by the set shots of Sophomore Dan Sameke, who netted 22 points, and the one hand push shots of Conference scoring leader, Nick Scallion, who scored 20 markers, the Shore five penetrated the Baltimore one until the third quarter when the Bees set up an effective fast break and sank many drives that led by highscorer Leo Szanski. Szanski fired 21 points during the hoop while 66' Bob Mackenzie contributed 18 as he controlled a majority of defensive rebounds.

Score Tied 7 Times

The score was tied seven times in the first half which closed with the host quait trailing by 5 markers. Charley Goodrich, ex-Southern High star, spearheaded the Baltimoreans' rally in the 3rd quarter with a one hand push shot from his side about 47 to 43. Despite the topnotch tie bounding and fast fighting of Kenny Sullivan and Jim Taylor, the Bees increased their lead to 57-50 as Szanski stunned the crowd by sinking a field goal 35 feet from the basket as the third period buzzer sounded. Baskets by Nick and Danny were matched by Cerry Simon and Charlie Goodrich at the outset of the final period. During this quarter, the Washington five suffered a two point deficit, 58 to 60, but it wasn't up to the task of stopping Szanski and his mates who again moved comfortably in front.

Cage Scandal Rocks Coast

Three Long Island University basketball players, including the high scorer among the country's major teams, admitted this week that they had taken part in the neighborhood of $18,500 in bribes to "steal" seven games from this season and three last year. Those arrested and charged with throwing the games were Sherman White, hailed by many as the No. 1 college player in the nation; Al Bigos, L.I.U.'s team captain; and Le Roy Smith, a high-scoring senior.

The three admitted that they had been paid by Salvatore Solazzo, the same agent who also bribed the C.C.N.Y. stars. His middleman was Eddie Card, L.I.U. senior, who was an outstanding guard on last year's L.I.U. squad.

The college board of trustees lost no time in taking action upon the disclosures. At a special meeting Tuesday night it voted to end all participation in intercollegiate sports. This included cancellation of their four remaining cage contests.

The three stars were arraigned in Felony Court where their bond was set at $15,000 each, the same figure set upon Ed Roman, Ed Warner, and Al Rook, the City College (New York) players also entangled in the bribe net.

Shoremen Whip C.U.

The Washington College quonies broke a three game losing streak by whipping dangerous Catholic University 65-53. Led by Nick Scallion and Jim Taylor, who totaled 31 and 13 points respectively, the Shoremen and Black, the W.C. raggers coasted to their seventh Mason-Dixon Conference win.

The Shoremen were never heated in a game which saw them score seven points before the Cardinals could hit the cords. The closest C. U. effort puffed was 22-30 early in the third quarter as Cranston made three set shots in a row.

W.C. Cagers Stave Off Rally

With Smith and Sullivan controlling the boards the visitors trailed 20-10 at the end of the first quarter. However, Catholic U. came back strong in the next period, snuffing scored the local H.S. With less than two minutes left in the half Della Rata, the C. U. sparkplug, finally totaled the first of his 11 points.

The third quarter saw the Cardinals switch from a 2-3 zone to a man for man tactic accompanied by a fast court press, while the W.C. ate continued a 2-3 zone. The tempo of the game quickened as the well conditioned C. U. squad threatened to close the scoring gap. Nevertheless, the Shore quonies came back to open a sixteen point gap at one point. From then on it was just a matter of the locals coasting to another conference win.

and $250 and pocket money up to $100 supplied by Solazzo both during the playing and off season to keep them contented, the L.I.U. players received $18,500. The average for players on both squads was about $1,000 per game.

Begos was reported to have received the largest amount, $7,250. White's share was $6,250 and Smith's $2,000. The exclusive of money received on the side, in addition, Gard had gotten $3,000 for the "lives" in the four games he played in the 1949-50 season.

Last year's "bees" intimated the North Carolina state game in which L.I.U. was favored to win; they lost by three; the Cincinnati game; and L.I.U.'s first-round game in the Nat'l Invitational Tournament. This was won by Syracuse, 80-52.

The loss "bees" this year included the first two games of the schedule in which L.I.U. beat Kansas State by one point and Denver by two. The better had favored it to win both encounters by wide margins.

The game in which L.I.U. tied Idaho, won by L.I.U. by two points, and the Bowling Green game in which L.I.U. floundered to a six-point victory. It was after the Bowling Green game that the players became panicky and decided to "quit while the piling" thing was good." They said a letter had been written to the school complaining of their play and it would be too risky to continue the deception.

Scallion Passes The 1,500 Mark

Although Jack Whitcomb, Randolph Macon's stellar forward, has one game replaced him as the M.D. high average mark, Nick Scallion is running away with State honours in both points and average production.

Whitcomb found Hopkins an easy host as he racked the marks for 12 points in his last game. Scallion, on the other hand, did not record place with a 27 point average, one tenth at a point behind Whitcomb. However, Scallion is doing a probable job on overall recognition and will go down in State basketball annals as one of its smoothest operators.

The Washington squad has three games remaining on its current schedule and unless the bid blows off this will be the deck left-back's biggest year at the table.

Sets New School Record

In his freshman year (48-49), Nick hit for 414 points and a 23 point average. He followed up last winter with 568 and a 23.5 mark. Monday night of this week he boosted a high 39 against Moravian College, establishing a new school record and bringing his 1950-51 total to 720 and a 27.4 average.

Whether or not he sets a new high for Washington College, Nick certainly has established himself among the greats of the Cheateer-ton institution. He now has an aggregate of 1302 and with 3 games remaining — who knows ???

JV's Score Ninth Win

Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team scored its ninth win at the season at the expense of Beacom College of Wilmington, Delaware 65-34. The game was played as the preliminary to the Moravian College game Monday night, Feb. 19.

Supporting the stars of the Shoremen were Edwirth Byrd, Doug Tilley, and Bobbie Appleby with 15, 14 and 11 points respectively. Also contributing in the point making department were Jim Shadell, Wes Edwards, and Rod Ware with 7 markers each.

"Big Hank" Phillips, 6 foot 4 inch center for Beacom, was the top scorer of the game with nine field goals and three fouls for a total of 21 points. Along with his scoring effort, Phillips also played a hang-up game off the boards.

This victory gave the college Jayvees a clean-sweep of the home and home series with Beacom. Washington won the earlier game played at Wilmington 67-49.

Babe Johnson's Juniors now sport a season's record of nine wins and two losses. Six of these victories have come consecutively since their last defeat at the hands of the College All-Stars.

Tramper Pa. School

Once again it was Nick Scallion booming the big gun as the local cagers trampled Moravian College Monday night, 80-58.

The Athenians were never seriously pressed after jumping to a quick 2-19 first quarter lead, on the strength of Scallion's 10 point effort followed by Sameke and Sullivan with 6 apiece.

The visitors, employing one of the latest tactics witnessed on the local court this season, packed up hole steam in the second quarter and found themselves on the short end of a 17-20 score at half-time. Nick handed back to score 17 of his team's 39 points in the 3rd quarter to put W.C. out in front 65-45. From there on it was just a matter of time as the Shoremen steamed on to the final, 80-58.

Nick took individual honors with 39 for the evening followed by Werphoski who contributed 27 for Moravian's losing game. Kenny Sullivan hit for 14 and Dan Sameke 12.

The Shoremen outscored their opponents 1-1, the first line, sinking 20 of 30 free throws; the visitors made good 18 of 26.

Mr. Downing Is Author Of Mystery Novels

The faculty of Washington College has as one of its present incumbents the author of ten published books. Mr. Todd Downing. Nine of his works are mysteries, and one is non-fiction, all with a Mexican setting.

Mr. Downing began his career as a writer in the summer of 1931. In connection with his work at the University of Oklahoma, he had been conducting tourist parties to Mexico. The trip for that summer was cancelled, leaving him with the summer months free. The Editor of The Daily Oklahoman, knowing that he had had experience in reviewing mystery stories for several newspapers in the South-west, suggested that he produce his own mystery book. Mr. Downing became interested in the idea, and during the summer wrote a book which, however, was not published.

He returned in the University of Oklahoma and began to write a second book, "Murder on Train," which used as its subject matter a tourist party in Mexico. This became his first published work, published by the G. P. Putnam Company.

His next work, "The Cat Stripped," became a Crime Club selection of the Doubleday Company. John Patrick, author of "The Hottel Heat" also mastered the story, and it ran for a week on Broadway.

"Valtures in the Sky," his third work, also was a Crime Club selection, and was translated into Spanish and published in Buenos Aires. In addition to his nine mystery works, Mr. Downing also has written "The Mexican Earth," an interpretation of Mexico from a historical viewpoint.

Currently, he has three projects on which he is working. The next book to be published is a collection of mystery stories and fantasy and science fiction stories in Spanish, which he is producing with a Professor at Temple University. He has written the first draft of an historical novel about the Mexican war for independence entitled "Under the Rose." He also is working on another mystery which he expects to title "Snake in the Grass."

Mr. Downing is a native Oklahoman and a Choctaw Indian. He attended the University of Oklahoma and the National University of Mexico, and taught for ten years, from 1925-1935, at the University of Oklahoma. He served on the staff of "Books Abroad," devoted to foreign literatures, but gave this job up to write. For ten years he studied and wrote in Mexico and learned the Aztec language. Then, he went to Philadelphia to write advertising for the N. W. Ayer Company. He also acted as consultant on Latin American Advertising to Wegmann Incorporated. For the past three years would be came to Washington College, he taught Spanish at Temple University. He was also editor of "Panamericanism," a monthly work published by the Pan American Association in Philadelphia.

Using himself as an example, he advises anyone who decides to become an author "to write about subjects you are interested in and to write about with which you are familiar."

From The Dean

Students may drop courses without the penalty of an F grade each during the first grade month. The approval of the advisor and the approval of the Dean must be secured before the student is officially released from class. The first grade period ends class, February 25th. However, students will have until five o'clock, November evening, February 28th to make the necessary change. Application must be made on the regular forms and the necessary signatures secured. Furthermore, the signed application must be returned to the Dean's office no later than five o'clock on February 28th.

This week the Faculty Committee on Admissions and Scholarship considered the case of a student who dropped a course, or at least failed to continue in class, during the first semester. The drop slip was not completely filled out and the date was after the first semester had been handed in. The Registrar's office had no alternative except to assign an F grade for the course as having been dropped after the close of the first grade period. This F grade had a devastating effect on the student's index, with the request from the student for reconsideration. The committee agreed that the F grade should be rescinded, but this action is in no way to be a precedent for any future cases.

It is suggested that all students dropping courses follow the regular procedure of consulting their advisors, filling out the proper form and that the form be returned to the Dean's office within the stated period. The advisor and the dean reserve the right to ask the student to continue in a class if they feel it is to the student's best interests in the light of his preparation and capacity.

Final action concerning the entire affair of Hodgepodge Hall rests with the Board of Visitors and Governors. The proposal must with the approval of the Advisory Committee and the Administration, and will be discussed further, as will the Snack Bar problem, at the next meeting.

Library Has Life Exhibit

The Washington College Library has this week displayed "ATLANTIC COAST," an exhibition prepared by the editors of LIFE Magazine, beginning Feb. 19, 1951 and continuing through Feb. 24, 1951.

Based on the photographic essay and consisting of twenty-nine 20" x 28" panels, ATLANTIC COAST includes many pictures not hitherto published. The forty-four photographs which make up this exhibition are the result of a three months' trip by LIFE Photographer Eliot Elisberg, beginning at the northeast corner of the United States, on the rocky coast of Maine. Elisberg travelled down along the Atlantic seaboard to the Florida Keys. His photographs record the subtle changes of earth, sky, and water through Massachusetts and the New England coast, through New York, New Jersey and the Middle Atlantic States, through South Carolina, through Georgia to the tropical shores of Florida.

The text, in opposition to the preceding record of the pictures, attempts to suggest the primeval coastline; how it appeared when the Celts visited the New England islands; how the virgin rivers and bays looked to the Spanish, to the Dutch, and to the English of the 16th and 17th centuries.

This exhibit is one of the many LIFE exhibits that have been featured by the Library this year.

Convocation . . .

The assembly sang the national anthem, after which Dr. Gibson introduced the speaker. Following the speech and the ODR ceremonies, the college "Alma Mater" was sung. Dr. Axteter then pronounced the Benediction to close the Convocation.

ODK Snack Bar Survey Indicates Fair Prices

In a recent survey conducted by Omicron Delta Kappa, listing prices at eating establishments all over Christendom in relation to the price in the Snack Bar, figures showed that Snack Bar prices compare favorably to those prices in other eating places in Christendom. The survey was made as a result of many student gripes of Snack Bar prices.

Restaurants that were covered were Bennett's, Gill's, Eddie's, Bud's and Crouch's. These were selected because of the great number of students that patronize these places as well as the Snack Bar.

The price survey, listed below, was given to the Business Office and also brought to the attention to the President, Student Advisory Committee. The ODK Committee making the survey was headed by Joe Ingarsa with Frank Brower and Larry Westcott as members.

Comments On Survey
Mr. Danforth, Business Manager of the College, made the following statements in relation to the survey: "The Snack Bar is not making enough money to take care of overhead and to allow us to set aside a sum to turn over equipment."

"The three possible reasons for this condition may be: (1) Staying open at night until 11:00 P.M. (2) the price of coffee and (3) the great amount of ice cream served on corners. Other conditions making the bar not as popular at this time," he continued.

400 Sales Per Day
"An average day's sales slip shows that there are approximately 400 sales per day. Each of these meals cost about $1.00 to $1.50. The gross amount taken in does not cover wages, upturn, and the wholesale price of food and leave any sum to be used in the future for new equipment. At it stands now, when the Snack Bar equipment wears out the Snack Bar goes."

Several Solutions Offered
"There are several alternatives that may be taken to relieve this problem. One would be to close the Snack Bar at night when business is slack and keep prices at their stand. Another would be to raise prices. "At present, no changes are to be made. However, if there is a need for change, it will be the result of careful study and long deliberation," Mr. Danforth concluded.

No Rest For Snack Bar
It was noted, however, by the ODK committee, that the Snack Bar underlies other establishments in only three items: egg sandwich, toast, and coffee. It was also pointed out by a member of the Student Advisory Committee that the Snack Bar does not have to pay rent.

Science Clubs Plans Lecture-Demonstration

The Science Club will present Mr. C. R. Tatman, Commercial Supervisor of the City of P. Tatman, president, in a lecture-demonstration dealing with intercity communication channels of the "telephone system. At this program, to be held April 12, the audience can see an actual transmission of talk words and music via the microwave media.

Mr. Tatman, an alumnus of the John Hopkins University and a Past President of the Engineers Club of Baltimore, has lectured at many of the colleges in Maryland and has appeared before service club audiences in all parts of the state. A periodic visitor to the Bell Telephone Laboratories, his presentations are reported.

ELEANOR GUSTAFSON

Zetas Hold Election

Eleanor Gustafson, secretary of the Junior Class, has been elected to serve as President of the Gamma Beta chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha for the forthcoming year at Washington College.

She served as secretary of the group during the past year and was a delegate to the Pan Hellenic Council in her freshman year. Beside her student activities, she is a student member of the Disciplinary Council, member of the G.L.A.A. and secretary of the Science Club.

Installation of the president will take place in the middle of March along with the other newly elected officers. Cecil Deems will replace Jean Shenton as Vice President, Peggy Bennett succeeds Eleanor Gustafson as secretary, Jane Bradley takes over the treasury following Jackie Greer, and Joan Shenton succeeds Mickey Olt as Historian, she will also serve as senior delegate to the Pan Hellenic Council. Also elected were Mary Annette Appleberry as Rush Chairman and delegate to Pan Hellenic and Kay Heigh Alsop as corresponding secretary.

Outgoing officers for the Zetas are: Edith Allen, President; Joan Shenton, vice president; Eleanor Gustafson, secretary; Jackie Greer, treasurer; and Mickey Olt, historian. Their officers have served since March, 1950.

Forensic To Present To Book Speaker

On March 15, 1951, the Forensic Society will present Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser, Dean of University Studies at George Washington University, who will speak on the topic, "The World Today." The Forensic Society has obtained Dr. Kayser in connection with their program to bring speakers to the campus representing various fields of interest to the students.

Dr. Kayser was born in Georgetown, D. C. and attended Western High School, George Washington University, Johns Hopkins University, and Columbia University. He holds a Bachelor of Arts, Master's Degree, and Doctor of Laws from George Washington University and a Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University. Since 1917 he has been a teacher and college administrator. He is also the author of three books: "The Great Social Utopias," "A Manual of Ancient History," and "Continuities of Europe." For six years from 1930 to 1935, he was a radio commentator.

At present, Dr. Kayser is connected in several activities. At George Washington University he is Professor of European History, Dean of University Students and Marshal, and President of the Alumni Association. He holds the positions of Historian of the National Capital Society, national Commissioner and Chairman of its History Committee, Lay Chairman of the Committee for the Improvement of Justice in the District of Columbia, Vice-Chairman of the Board of Trustees for Mount Vernon Seminary, Director of the American Peace Society, and is a member of the Advisory Council of the School of Nurses at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He is also Associate Editor World Affairs.

Dr. Kayser holds membership in the Cosmos Club, the National Press Club, the Columbia University Club, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Gamma Mu, Delta Phi Epsilon, and Glee and Key.

Following Dean Kayser's talk, the Forensic Society has planned a reception in Reid Hall. This affair has been arranged so that the students will have an opportunity to meet and talk with the speaker.

The Daily Texan reports that students there are no longer satisfied with the standard clichés for testing speakers, such as, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party." On a paper halfway through the roller of a book-type typewriter was printed, "Quit it, Marial! I don't provoke easily."

K.A.'s Elect Tom Lowe

Tom Lowe, ex-senior and Elm fountain writer, holds the number one post at the K.A. House. He was elected to this office last week and installed as president this past Monday.

Lowe came to the campus in 1948 but transferred to Towson State Teachers College for his sophomore year. He returned to W.C. this fall and since then has become a member of the Mt. Vernon, Canterbury and Forensic Societies.

Tom replaces Bob Hermann, senior, outgoing Number One K.A. Other officers installed at the campus were: Bob Jackson at vice president and Harriet White as secretary. These men take the places of Ray Tungs and Harry Kobergastel.

The new officers will serve until March 1952. All outgoing officers have held their office since March, 1950.

Joe Ingarsa To Head Theta Chi Fraternity

In a meeting held last week, Joe Ingarsa was elected to head the Theta Chi Fraternity for the 1951-52 school year. He was installed as President Wednesday night, following elections.

Ingarsa serves presently as vice president of the Junior Class. He is also a member of the Variety Club and was tapped for O.D.K. this past fall. He served as Pledge Trainer for the Thetas before receiving his new office.

Other officers elected at the same time were: Larry Leonard as vice-president, Cy Collins, secretary, Edgar Stephenson as treasurer, and Jim Brack as pledge trainer.

Outgoing officers of the fraternity are: Edith Leonard, president; Don Duckworth, vice president; and Frank Brower, secretary. These men have served since March, 1950.

A Nebraska clerk complained to a bookstore owner that it was unfair to make student buy books at such a high price, and then get hardly anything back for them on the used book market.

"But," explained the bookstore owner, "you couldn't buy books at a shop downtown and then take it back and get the same price for it, could you?" "Well," she retorted, "at least I'd get some use out of the dress."

By Todd Downing

The tricks business of fantasy is handled quite successfully in the two-act plays presented by the Washington Players on the nights of March 8 and 9.

"The Monkey's Paw" is a dramatization of the short story by W. W. Jacobs, excellently considered the best tale ever written on the odd nature of the three wishes, and Student Director Helen Ross has realized the full terror of the author's demonstration "that fate rules people's lives, and that those who interfere with it do so to their sorrow."

William McDonnell, well-known Sergeant Major Hunt, one-armed veteran of the British Army, establishes the mood of the play with his constrained references to the history of the magic paw, and thereafter tension mounts steadily as the chief father and mother, played by Larry Westcott and Jane Miller, become helpless playthings of fate. Fred L. Wall and Robert Bink make the most of their appearances as the doomed son and the reluctant leaver of the lives of the family.

"The Devil and Daniel Webster," adapted from the story by Stephen Vincent Benet, seems to us much more effective on the stage than in its original form. The reader must be told that Mr. Benet felt that Daniel Webster could make a speech enough to make a jury of damned souls to annul his client's pact with the Devil. Walter Vukobratovich, with his mellancholy, the situation with his, seemed an oddity of an oration that rings out through the William Smith auditorium.

June Mills and Ed Ely capture immediate sympathy as the bride and groom, and Dorothy Rogers, played by the Mt. Vernon High School Student Director Robert Elder, has done an excellent job of introducing spectacular elements, a lively singing dance and the core play scene, while leaving their audience the dominant figure throughout.

Settings by Robert Wadell and lightings by George Connolly add to the effectiveness of both plays, while the costumes handled by Eleanor Thompson and Dorothy Rogers have done handsomely by the actors in the way of costumes and makeup. Proprietor Jack Charlton shows that he knows a bottle of White Horse from one of Schenley.

It is no small feat, production that one of these days Mr. Oppenheimer is going to be able to point with pride to former members of the Washington Players who have gone from her tuckered to prominent places in the professional theatre.

Study Hall Opened For W.C. Students

At a recent meeting of the Washington College chapter of the American Association of University Professors a discussion was held on improving study conditions for students on the campus. As a result of the discussion, provisions were made for a study hall to be run on a voluntary basis four nights each week, Monday through Thursday, from 7:30 to 10:30 P.M. The study hall privilege is open to all male students and should be of particular value to production students. Continuation of the plan will depend on the number of students who take advantage of this opportunity.

There has an indication of the effectiveness of the plan, roll of those present at being taken each evening.

These Are Your Frosh

By MARGE GLOVE

MARY LEE LINCOLN—5' 5", blond hair and blue-green eyes—well known for her widely ranged laughter which resounds over the campus at various and unexpected intervals . . . thinks the oddest things are funny.

Mary Lee graduated from Springside School in Chestertown Hill near her home town in Westminster, Pa. Quite musically inclined, she has a beautiful voice which she exercises in the W.C. choir, and an exceptional talent for playing the radio and piano.

"Launching One," youcall, is a staunch defender of the "Confederate States of America" and greatly admires the singing of Mary Lanza. She is an A.C.P. pledge and an ardent foe of CYNTHIA JONES—5' 8", short brown hair and green eyes. Her home town is Chevy Chase, Md., but she considers her real home to be in the southern Yankee territory of northwestern Connecticut.

"Cindy" is interested in the Canterbury Club and was a member of the W.C. choir. She likes sports but the prefer playing the role of a spectator rather than participating in them. Her favorite extra-curricular activity, however, is naturally John and the sports his K.K. pin along with her own A.C.P. pin.

DOT WILLIS—5' 7", short brown hair and hazel eyes. She has acquired the nickname of "Wee Willie". She has short, light brown hair and blue eyes. Dot hails from Killy Park, Pa., where she graduated from high school. She is very active in the Washington Players and has charge of cut make-up in the oncoming musical plays.

"Wee Willie," also spends a good lot of time in girls sports, Canterbury Club and watching Lacrosse practice. Although she is a Pennsylvaniaian, she is a local Eastern Shoreman and supports the Stars and Bars.

Dot has pledged Alpha Chi, a local Lambda Chi, and is a local Lambda Chi.

PATTY FENNELL—5' 3 1/2", red brown hair and hazel eyes. This red is a student who lives near Warren, Md., but displayed her exceptional dramatic talent as Victoria Van Riet in the Players' last production, "Double Dose". She now has the lead in the Chester Players' production of "The Upper Room" to be here and in Bill Smith's audition on March 19. Pat is also a member of the W.C. choir and can usually be found catching an afternoon nap in Room 4, third floor, Reid Hall.

"That's the spirit!" cried the medium as the table began to rise.

Frosh: "I just brought home a skull."

Roommate: "Where is your head kept?"

Frosh: "I'm gonna tie him under the bed."

Roommate: "What about the smell?"

Frosh: "He'll have to get used to it like we did."

With The GREEKS

K.A.

ENTR'N BOB JACKSON HAS DATE? May sound like one for Ripley, but it's true. The time was last Saturday night. The gal — but the reader can figure that one out for himself. And, not to be outdone, Bruce Wyckoff has decided to give the girls a break.

Congratulations and best wishes to the new officers who were elected last week to serve for the coming year. We were glad to see members George Riggs and Bob Durham on campus this past week end.

All are looking forward to the Province Convention which will take place in Delaware this Friday and Saturday, and to the pledge banquet to be held on March 12.

And, last but not least, congratulations to Stump.

Alpha Chi

Many thanks to Mrs. Albrecht, our patroness, and Miss Van Smith, Zeta patroness, for the joint canasta-bridge party given by them for the two societies.

The Alpha Chi's are sponsoring a benefit sale this Saturday for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society. All donations will be greatly appreciated — whether of unused clothing or money. We're not proud!

Best wishes to Mollie Blackwood who was married last week end, and to Nan Smith and Bess Shertzer who are planning same for the near future.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Congratulations to our new officers — "Gussie" Gustafson, as president; Cecil Deems, vice president; Peggy Brimmer, secretary; Jane Beasley, treasurer; Joan Shenton, historian; and M. A. Appleghart, rush chairman. We wish them a successful reign.

Everyone enjoyed themselves last Saturday afternoon at our joint party of canasta and bridge with the Alpha Chi's. The affair was given by our patroness Miss Ann Smith and the Alpha Chi's patroness Mrs. Louis Albrecht. We saw some wonderful prizes, and are lots of delicious food.

We welcome two more new pledges, Betty Brundage and Joan Hedner. We are all looking forward to one pledge launching in their homes on the 14th.

Outfits to our one actresses for their fine performances in the Players' production — Joanne Miller in "The Monkey's Paw" and Jennie Mills in "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

Theta Chi

OX men unveiled their new officers last week. Congratulations to Joe Ingatta, president; Larry Leonard, vice president; Cy Rollins, secretary.

The boys are looking up inquiring this week for the coming General Convention at the University of Delaware. The banquet and dance will be held at the DuPont Hotel in Wilmington.

Congratulations to Lew Morris who was pledged this week.

Lambda Chi

Congratulations to Anita Christie and Jean Evans who were married on March 3.

The Brothers are looking forward to the Joint Founders Day Banquet to be held in Washington on March 17.

A good time was had by all at the annual pledge Banquet held last Thursday, even though Keno never did get to finish any of the toast he started.

A. O. Nu

Congratulations to Brother Strauss on his coming marriage.

Congratulations also to Brothers Whitsett and Vinard who made it to Jersey in the Crozier this week end. Burned almost a gallon of gas, but where there's a will there's a way.

Good luck to Brothers Bink, Plochanski, French, Miller, Orie, Panettieri and Rowe on their respective dramatic debuts on Thursday and Friday of this week.

When Founder's Day was celebrated at Iowa Wesleyan College recently, Dr. James Van Allen, an alumnus of I. W. C. and now head of the department of Physics at the University of Iowa, spoke at the Banquet meeting. Dr. J. Raymond Chadwick presided and presented Dr. and Mrs. Smith. In the above photograph, the Smiths are shown with the Chadwicks, following the banquet, when a brief reception was held.

Dr. Smith, former head of the Philosophy Department and Administrative Assistant to the President at Washington College, resigned those posts here at the end of this semester.

97 Points Needed By Pre-Medical Students

A meeting of all students interested in medical schools was held on Tuesday morning to outline the proposed program for the recommendation of students to medical schools. Under the new program each student will be expected to complete certain courses in the Natural Sciences with a B average plus certain other prescribed courses in the Humanities and the Social Studies. A cumulative index of 90 or a B average will be necessary to secure the approval of the candidate for medical school.

Better Than Honor

"Hi! Have we got the scoop this week?"

Guss: "Who has been above somewhere in William Struth Hall after another person? What does J.L.T. know or is he going to be a gentleman about this?"

I hear that R.J. is going to be pinned next week—

Question of the week: Why are we certain that Henry has not been in Middle Hall?

Who's heart is in the highlands and whose is in the lowlands?.. Incidentally, where is John?

Despite what happened at 5 of 12 Saturday night the 29th of September ('30) in the proximity of Reid Hall, he is still your most ardent admirer, "dear!"

JOKE

Who is "Miss Bovine" of 1951? I'm certain, isn't that good?

Famous last words, "But Miss Bradley, we were only studying!"

Seen while browsing in Bunting—students in reading room, Mr. May in office, Mr. Bierly at the desk, and upst.—Well I'll be!

We know you have two, but why do you need two fraternity pins?

The trouble with Chestertown? Too many matrons—

"You someone—I love you!"

What does L.J. think of T.R. going out with H.M.? I bet E.B. didn't like it either.

Guss—Who is studying the cello? Who is studying?

Who is?..

It's all right to use the parking lot but please keep out of Bub's car, S.T.—

Who was seen coming in late Tuesday night (the 20th) with muddy shoes?

Now—who's the most frustrated person on the campus?

HA!

From The Exchange Desk

The Northeastern News, at Northeastern University, Boston, recently offered a few tips to students who were to be a success at college. Tips included:

"Look alert, take notes. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it."

"Bring the professor newspaper clippings. Demonstrate daily interest and give him timely items to mention in class, bring in any clippings at random."

"Laugh at his jokes. You can tell . . . If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has made a funny."

"Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask for it."

Mounts Defeat W. C. in Cage Finale

SportsLights

By JIM BEACH

The curtain has fallen on another basketball season, and uniforms and equipment will soon be packed in mothballs. Usually, soon after the last basketball game has been played, baseball takes the spotlight as daily practices get under way, and all anxiously await the cry to "Play Ball." There will be no baseball games this year, however, and to this writer and many other diamond-followers — "Well, it just won't seem like spring."

Loyola Jinx

The Loyola basketballers continued to hold a "jinx" over the Sho'men, squeezing out a 59-57 victory a week ago at the armory. (See write-up elsewhere on this page.)

The last three games were enough to make any coach grey: Loyola, American U., and Mt. St. Mary's in a row. The Eagles dishied out the most humiliating spanking of the campaign, 98-53, while the Mounts helped the locals close shop with a 76-67 thrashing.

Short Shots

The tennis team will soon don their shorts and swing into practice — that is, when the courts are put in shape for them. No games have yet been scheduled for fear that the courts will not be ready. Holdovers from last year's squad include Gary Wyckoff, Bill Brandt, and co-captain Bruce Wyckoff and Jack Smith. Bill Murray also stands ready to step on the firing line.

Glancing through the records of the M-D Basketball Tournaments we find that Loyola has taken the crown four times during the last decade; 1942, 47, 48, and 49; followed closely by American U. who has captured it three times, 1943, 46, 50. Western Maryland took high honors in '41, Mt. St. Mary's in '44 and, not look now, but in '43 it was Gallaudet winning over Delaware.

The current play-offs got under way yesterday at Catholic University with American U. tackling the Mounts in the high-ligher.

On Your Mark . . .

By Elsworth Boyd

As the warm weather approaches and we turn toward the cinderpaths which encircle Kibler Field, we may hear the distant command, "On Your Mark, Get Set, Bang!" The flash of the starter's gun sends each striver to the starting line, and the drive to the stopwatch with the ticking of the match which waits for no one.

However, there are always several spectators who ignorantly exclaim, "Those guys are crazy!" They're out on that track running the legs off for nothing at all. The individuals who turn up on that track are not crazy, nor are their efforts in vain. Just as a football player loses his game as a baseball player worships his sport, so does a trackman train and continually push for his individual event. The main difference is that the runner doesn't have 10 other men to aid him, as the gridiron sporter does, nor does he have 8 players following him to his goalpost.

A runner must be at the peak of physical conditioning in order to face keen competition and his mental attitude must be that of a champion. In lack of self-confidence has caused many potential winners to fall in defeat instead of rising to victory. Perhaps you are wondering what qualities a runner must have or what mental attitude he should take while competing in this sport?

A track coach has little use for an idler, while on the other hand, an idler is invaluable for one who is willing to learn and properly condition himself. A sprinter, for instance, needs vigorous driving power, natural speed, and quick reaction time. A middle-distance runner needs a strong swinging style — long stride and flexible arm movements. These characteristics should prevail in the mile and two mile events, with added effort, moderate breathing, and a pugnacious spirit. One of the most painstaking tasks in track falls to the hurdler, whose requirements are based on rhythm and timing. Something more than skill is needed in clearing these obstacles, for a timber-supper must possess the speed of a quarter mile, the spring of a jumper, and the courage of a distance man. Many bruised knees and splintered ankles are resultant of a single day's performance in this race.

Not to be forgotten are the field events whose fundamentals are exalted in coordination. Pole vaulting is the most complicated form event on the field. Its initial requirements are strong arm and shoulder muscles and absolute control of body movements. It is very difficult to realize the unfathomable proper steps and form as polevaulter has put into his jump, as we see him gracefully span an eleven foot standard. The high jump and broad jump are also graceful events, in which spring and body control are essential. Proper steps and form are prominent assets in these two jumps. Since the days of the ancient Olympic Games in Greece, the discus throw has evolved to a very popular sport of today. Heavy muscular athletes are usually well qualified for the discus. As they are in the 16 lb. shot put. Discus throwers, like shot putters, should have speed of muscle contraction, large strong hands, and possess a keen sense of timing.

Hence, you have the characteristics of top track and field athletes. If these men do not have these abilities when they step foot on that track, it is their desire and love of the sport that makes them train and diligently work in order to develop these traits. Many who may be joined from track and field as — coordination of mind and body, increased efficiency of the vital organs, a better appetite, sound sleep, and the development of right social attitudes, habits and interests. No other sport provides keener individual competition and as in everyday life, it is up to that individual who he makes of himself.

Therefore, when you see several third-class individuals joggling around the oval that encircles Kibler Field, don't exclaim, "Those guys are crazy!" For those guys are true athletes!

Lacrosse Team Set For Opener

By Bill Hetzer

Since February 15th Dr. Clark's Crossmen have been practicing in preparation for the 1951 season. The squad is looking forward to a successful season since it only plays three or four years' first time plays.

The team will be spearheaded by the captain Eddie Leonard who will play a mid-field position. Other men who will probably play in the mid-field positions are Duke Case, John Griffin, Herbie Kado, all players from last year. Other mid-field candidates are Wayne Miller, Doug Ives, Jack Brown and newcomers, Chuck Wasche, Dick Wheeler, and Ben Kooze.

The attack positions will probably be led by Ray Wood on the crease. Gracie Menzies in the right attack position and Larry Leonard on the left side with Dick Geadon, Ron Faulkner, Jim McCurdy, Bob Lippitt, John Wilson, and Warren Komies being them up.

Defensesmen back from last year's squad are Bob Jackson, Harry Kater, nagel, Bill Bonnett, Don Elliott, and Larry Wescott. The new candidates for defense are comprised of Ed Cumar, John Johnson, and M. Bonstetter. Goal duties will be left up to Bill Russell, a reserve from last year's squad. He will be backed up by Bob Jackson, Bo Dyer, Duke Johnson, and Frank Dickinson.

The spirit of the team is high and the "big" is developing nicely. The season's first game will be played at the United States Naval Academy on March 28 against Navy. This year Washington College may come home with the first victory of the season, a win over Navy.

Loyola Nips Atheymen In Final Seconds

Loyola College eked out a 59-57 victory over the Marston and Bland teams in the two seconds of play in the most heart-breaking contest of the season, Saturday night, Feb. 24.

After the first five minutes of the opening quarter the Sho'rez squad, playing head-up ball, maintained their lead throughout the contest. It was not until the last two minutes of play when "Nap" Doherty tied the score, 57 up. The Greyhounds put on the frets for one Herb Meisner dropped his back and the contest was over. The clock stopped on the two second mark. The Marston were unable to get a pass away when the buzzer sounded.

Fast Break Used

Five minutes of the first period had elapsed when the home team broke a 6 to 6 tie and went into a 17-11 first quarter lead. Both teams used a fast break and swift ballhandling, which was prevalent during the entire game.

Ben Cook, 6'7", center, ended the half with 10 markers as he skillfully bucketed shots from his pivot post. However, his goals were matched by Nick Nicks who netted 17 for the first half and totaled 25 at the final. Nick was consistent with his one hand push shot from the inside while Danny Samuels and Kenney Sullivan found the range on several beautiful executed set shots. The home's broke into the Sho'rez defense but failing to catch the cords in many vain attempts.

Rebounds By Taylor

With but one minute remaining in the third stanza, the Green and Gray pulled within one marker but home team, 64-45. At this point, Nick and Danny combined their talents to drop in five markers as the Chatterbox live led 54-45 when time ran out. Big

Intramural Basketball

As the intramural basketball league approaches its finish on March 12th, the top teams moved closer together in the won and lost column. Theta Chi was able to maintain its lead over the other squads as they opened the action of the last two weeks with a smashing victory over KA 63-27. The high scoring red and white led the way to the highest scoring of the week as Howard and Cox hit for 17 and 12 points respectively.

Newman Club Retains Second Place In a much closer game, Foxwell was defeated by the Newman Club 92-77. The Newman Club have been able to hold their own even with the absence of some of their best players. Yuse Hall also notched a victory Sunday, its strong bid for a playoff berth by kicking Alpha Omega Nu 40-18. The game was Neil Tighman hit for 15 points and Jim Keegan for 13. Later the Day Students showed some unexpected spark and ripped down Somerset 44-22, as Jim Hargel led the off-campers boys with 15 points.

KA And Newman Club Win

In a battle between fraternities, KA swamped Lambda Chi as M Jalski nailed nine field goals and five foul shots to lead his squad to a 47-18 hard round victory. 42-25 was the score on the Newman Club hit the win column again at the expense of hapless Somerset. Late the same day AONS overcame a Lambda Chi lead to win in the last two minutes 27-20.

In a game that was close for three quarters Theta Chi again hit the opposition hard by downing an inspired Foxwell live 63-34. The next day an inspired Day Students team beat the favored Newman Club 98-28, with added height being the measure of the upset.

Again KA Fraternity had a high scoring game as little M Jalski led his team to a 56-25 victory over the Black and gold of AONS. West Hall also emerged victorious in a one-sided game as they defeated Somerset 29-10 in a four man game, which saw Theta Chi collect 25 points. In the second game last Friday Foxwell posted 20 points in victory by a defeat over Lambda Chi 2-1.

As the date set for the beginning of the play-offs to determine the intramural champion approaches, keener competition between the clubs becomes evident. With only three or four games left for each club the efforts are expected to be improving the quality of the games and increasing the size of the scoring columns.

The four top teams in the standings on March 12th will be the play-offs to determine the victor of the season. The teams that will probably meet after the "ides of March" date are the four that are now on top of the stand ing list. However, one of the other clubs could upset the standings with a sudden "hot" streak. Only time will tell.

Team Standings

	Won	Lost
Theta Chi	13	1
Newman Club	11	3
West Hall	11	4
Kappa Alpha	11	4
G. H. Hall	8	6
Alpha Omega Nu	8	8
Foxwell Hall	6	8
Day Students	4	11
Somerset Hall	2	14
Lambda Chi Alpha	1	16

Jim Taylor was consistent during this period as he outscored Kappa in controlling the boards.

Two minutes remaining to be played when "Nap" Doherty broke into the zone to sink two consecutive field goals which tied the ball game. The finesse of the Loyola team was affirmable as they nonchalantly from the ball, continually glancing at the clock. They climaxed the game with a smoothly executed play which shocked the Jam-packed Chatterbox Armory.

Mountaineers Top Sho'men

The Sho'men dropped their final game of the season to Mt. St. Mary's, 75-67. It was the second loss of the season to the Mounts and the third straight defeat in a row for the locals, who ended the campaign with an 8 win and lost record.

Paced by Len Congrove, tanky forward, and Dick Janis the Mounts picked up a 39-34 half time lead, breaking through the Sho'men's man to man defense. Coach Ted Athey switched to a zone in the second half but that wasn't enough. Congrove netted 22 points, followed by Janis and Kachowski with 20 and 16 respectively.

Nick Scallion took scoring honors for the evening with a full 32 points. Additionally, Ed Gunning was next high man for the locals with 9 counters.

This game marked the final college game for Capt. Ed Gunning who graduates in June. Coach Athey announced that next year's captains will probably be elected within the next week.

Following is a rundown of this season's scores:

56	Kings College	70
63	Penn Military	96
58	West Chester	77
58	West Chester	62
58	Western Maryland	55
56	Baltimore U.	45

47	Ct. St. Mary's	73

A. U. Downs Atheymen

American University closed its home basketball season by downing Washington College, 96-52, in the nation's capital.

Eagle coach, Staff Coxwell, threw a zone defense that proved too much for the local Dais. Danny Samels, high man with 30 points, was the lone player to successfully penetrate the tight defense. Even at this, half of his total came from the free throw line. Along with his 20 points, Danny played an outstanding floor game as he intercepted enemy passes on numerous occasions.

Nick Scallion, second leading scorer in the Mason-Dixon Conference, was held to 14 points, 10 of which also came from the free throw line. Scallion has been averaging 26.7 points per game. He still holds on in the lead of state scorers.

Lezoy Johnson and Ronnie Garwin led the Eagles to their 11 win in 14 outings. Johnson hit the cords for 25 points and scored 9 of his team's total. The last five minutes saw Nick Scallion take the lead, which they maintained throughout the game. The Sho'men found themselves behind at the end of the first quarter, 23-11. Danny had accounted for 9 of his team's total, while Scallion chipped in with one of his two field goals for the remaining two quarters.

Coach Athey emptied his bench in a vain attempt to stop a team that was determined to set a scoring record for American University. This defeat, their 13th of the year, was the worst the Marston and Bland has suffered in their 21 outings.

Panhellenic Dance Mar. 16

The annual inter-university dance sponsored by the Panhellenic Council will be held next Friday, March 16, from 8:00 until 1:00 in Cain Gymnasium. Music for the occasion will be provided by Manny Klein and his orchestra.

The theme for this year's dance will be an under water scene, and Zeta Tau Alpha society is in charge of the party at the dance. At the entrance to the gym and on the walls will be fish men reared with sea urchins and tropical fish. Behind the orchestra, a large scalloped shell will be constructed. The central decoration will be King Neptune's court centered at the far end of the dance floor, consisting of King Neptune, two mermaids, a sea chest, and a drunken lion. The major lighting will be focused on this display.

Each seat chairmanship of the three major universities rotates among the societies. Refreshments will be handled by Alpha Omicron Psi and Alpha Chi Omega in the charge of the clean up after the dance.

In addition to attendance by all pledges and active society members, many alumnae are expected to return next week end for the annual festivity.

Goldey Edges Juniors

Washington College's Junior Varsity basketball team ended their 1950-51 season with a defeat at the hands of Goldey College of Wilmington, 31-30. The local lead defeated Goldey, 18-19 in their earlier meeting at Cain Hall.

Babe Johnson's Juniors jumped to a first quarter lead 11-8 and were still up 22-20 at the half time. Goldey outscored the "Little Short men" 16 to 14 in the third period to knot the count at 37 all. The lead changed hands four times in the final period and was tied three times.

For Washington College, Babe Apple by with 15 points and Elsworth Boyd scoring 11 were the big guns. Appleby finished out with about five minutes remaining in the full game. Red Wave outscored 8 points and played an outstanding low game.

James Craig was the top scorer for Goldey College with 13 points. Charles Kent, captain of the winning team, and Donald Craig tallied 8 points each with six of Kent's coming in the deciding fourth period.

Washington's Javies enjoyed a successful season with nine wins and three losses. Two of the losses were by one point margins.

May See N. Y. Plays

The Mount Vernon Literary Society will sponsor its annual theatre trip to New York on April 7, Vice Mag Ischert, President, in making the announcement, stated that the purpose of the trip is to provide an opportunity for all interested students to see professional plays. If enough students indicate their intention of going on this theatre trip a bus will be chartered to leave the campus early Saturday morning. This will enable the students to see both a matinee and an evening performance before they return.

Excluded Cuts Permitted. All absences incurred by those going on the trip will be listed as excused cuts. Additional information and ticket office addresses may be obtained from Bruce Hovvitt.

Each student must select the shows he wishes to see and it is responsible for securing his own ticket. Among the current Broadway offerings are: "The Rose Tattoo" by Tennessee Williams, "The Lady's Not for Burning" by Christopher Fry. Others include "Billy Budd", "Call Me Mister", and "Guys and Dolls".

Mr. Thornton Shows Pictures. At a meeting of the Society last Wednesday, Mr. Ralph Thornton, former sponsor of the group who has recently returned from Italy, presented color slides of scenes photographed during his travels. The pictures were accompanied by a running account of his journey by Mr. Thornton.

A professor of English at Northwestern University reports that more Northwestern women smoke than do men. A survey revealed that 60 per cent of the girls smoke, as opposed to 52 per cent of the men.

A further increase in women smokers, warns the professor, will drive the American male, who is sensitive about his masculinity, to cigarette and marijuana.

Canterbury Club Host To Weekend Convention

The Canterbury Club will be host to five college Canterbury organizations at a conference to be held here this weekend, March 10th and March 11th. The conference has been planned in an effort to unite the Canterbury colleges throughout the United States.

Miss Harri Kline, who is secretary for college work, is sponsor of the conference held in this district. The colleges represented at the conference will be Salisbury State Teachers, Drew, University of Delaware, Junior Wesleyan College, and Western Maryland. Reverend Spicer from Long Island, New York will be the leader.

Lee Smith, as President of the Canterbury Club, has extended an invitation to all those who are interested to attend the conference. He has also requested that all students who are going to be away for the weekend notify him so that their room may be used for guests.

The weekend program will be:

National President Addresses A.A.U.P.

Debating Team On Tour Of Six Penn. Colleges

Four members of the debating team of the Paul E. Titmush Forensic Society, representing Washington College, left Wednesday to engage six college debating teams of Pennsylvania. The team will engage in a total of twelve debates.

Representing the alternative of the Forensic team are Charles Whitsett and William Truett, Fred Nixon and Paul Miller will represent the negative view point in the debates.

The topic to be debated at all six schools will be one chosen as the national debate topic for this school year: "Resolved: That Non-Communist Nations Should Form A New World Organization."

The first of the schools visited on the debating itinerary was Ursinus College, where the Forensic team debated on Wednesday. Yesterday afternoon, the team debated Haverford in the afternoon and journeyed to Swarthmore, whom they debated in the night.

Also to be engaged by the Forensic team today are the University of Pennsylvania, in the afternoon, and Temple University, in the night. Both verbal jousts will be held at the respective schools.

The tour will come to an end tomorrow when the team debates its final opponent of the present tour, St. Joseph College.

The Forensic team succeeded in taking two out of six places at a previous intercollegiate competition held at the Johns Hopkins University, recently.

Committee To Inspect

The Committee on Buildings and Grounds of the Board of Visitors and Governors will be on the campus March 22 for a detailed inspection of the college facilities.

Emphasis on East, West, and Middle Halls will be placed on an inspection of East, West, and Middle Halls and the Committee, to be accompanied by an architect, hopes to make a decision concerning the future of those buildings. Regardless of the amount of securing additional building funds, a decision will soon have to be made regarding the advisability and/or feasibility of renovating the dormitories which range between 75 and 100 years old. The Committee will determine whether it will be worthwhile to keep them in temporary repair until money is available to replace them.

Dr. Elias Nix of Caroline County is Chairman of the Committee. Other members include Dr. Robert Smith, gubernatorial appointee at large from New York; Mr. Wilbur Hubbard of Kent County; Mr. H. B. Garrett of Cecil County; Mr. Dudley Rose, Secretary of the Board, also from Cecil; Dr. C. C. Hildebrandt, alumni delegate at large; and Mr. H. S. Coudrey of Worcester County.

William S. Krisher

Resigns Post Here

Mr. William S. Krisher, Assistant Professor of Economics, has resigned, effective at the end of the current semester, it was announced here this week.

35 Attend Canterbury Conference

Approximately thirty-five students, representing Drexel, Western Maryland, University of Delaware, and Washington College plus guests and faculty members participated in the Canterbury Club conference held here on March 10th and 11th.

Honored guests for the occasion included Dr. and Mrs. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Dumshott, Reverend and Mrs. Atwater, Reverend and Mrs. Nelson of Rock Hall, Bishop and Mrs. Miller of the Diocese of Eastern, Mrs. Harl of the Diocese of Northern, Mrs. Spicer of New York. Many parishioners of Emmanuel and St. Paul's churches were also present during the week end program.

The conference opened on Saturday afternoon with registration, Tom Blevins as chairman of the conference opened the first meeting, extending a welcome to all guests. Following a prayer by Reverend Atwater, Dr. Gibson delivered the opening address.

Reverend Spicer delivered address. The key address was presented by Reverend Spicer, leader of the conference, on the topic "What is Christianity?" In his talk, he defined Christianity as "a faith founded upon a fact and expressed in a way of life."

Following Reverend Spicer's talk, members divided up into four groups to voice their opinion on Christianity. The ideas were formulated and brought out in a discussion later in the evening. As a close to this portion of the program, Bishop Miller delivered the evening prayer.

Dinner Served To Members On Sunday the women of St. Paul's Church served dinner to the group at the home of Mrs. Selby in Chestertown. Following Communion on Sunday morning, a breakfast was given by the women of Emmanuel Church. At eleven o'clock, the group attended the morning service at St. Paul's Church. The conference officially closed with a banquet at the Grinary on Sunday afternoon.

Conference Reported Successful The Sunday evening session at the Canterbury Club reported that the conference was very successful. He expressed his appreciation to those who aided in planning and presiding the week end program.

Panhellenic Dance

Slated For Tonight

Tonight in Catin Gymnasium the pledges, active, and alumnae members of the three fraternities are staging the annual inter-fraternity dance sponsored by the Panhellenic Council. Dancing will start from 9:00 until 1:00 to the music of Manny Klein and his orchestra.

Nepentus Court Is Theme Zeta Tau Alpha is in charge of decorations this year with Kayleigh Abner as chairman. On Wednesday the members began decorating for the dance. Carrying out the theme decided upon, the group has decorated the gym with red, red, sea, and red, tropical fish. King Neptune's court, the central decoration of the dance, has been erected at the far end of the student lounge. The dance floor.

Scholarships Increase In Value, Number

As a result of action taken by the Board of Visitors and Governors at their last meeting, a larger number of scholarships of increased value will be offered for next year by Washington College. These scholarships are available to students currently enrolled at as well as others, provided they are bona fide residents of Maryland and if they have not previously held such scholarships.

Exam Scheduled March 31 Competitive examinations will be held March 31 to determine eligibility for the scholarships. Final appointment in all instances is by the State Senator of the district concerned. Students may take the test in their home states, or in Chestertown at 9:30 A.M. on March 31 at the Chestertown Junior High School. Those desiring to take the examinations in Chestertown are requested to inform the President's office of their intention immediately.

Fee Reduced: Tuition Increased For twenty years Washington College has granted free tuition of one hundred dollars ($100) a year to all of its students who are residents of (Continued on Page Four)

Mt. Vernon Society Elects

The Mount Vernon Literary Society conducted its annual elections last week at a meeting held in Hudson Hall.

Elected President for the forthcoming year was Bill Treush. He replaces Evie Magliochetti, former Vice-President who assumed the office when Dale Smith transferred to Duke University. Treush, a member of Alpha Omega Nu fraternity, is also Treasurer of the Sophomore class.

Betty Irene Ikeni was elected Vice-President of the group. Other officers elected were Larry Wickland, Secretary, and Tom Lowe, Treasurer. The office of corresponding secretary was eliminated by unanimous vote.

Another feature of the evening's entertainment was the appearance of Mr. Ralph Thornton, former faculty member and advisor, who showed pictures of scenes taken in Italy and Switzerland on his recent trip.

The Society is currently engaged in preparing the SAUSAGE after its successful effort to erect a scoreboard for the now nonexistent football and baseball squads.

A banquet will be held in the near future for the installation of officers.

From The Dean

Attention is called to the dental aptitude testing program for applicants for the 1952 Freshman Class. Examinations will be given May, 1951.

Each year students inquire about the availability of summer camp positions, but are limited in the scope of inquiry not knowing what camps are in existence nor knowing where to write. The 1951 Director of Summer Camp Positions is on file in the Dean's office and is available to any student who is interested. The list covers every state in the United States and two Canadian camps, with information about the types of positions and the procedure in making application.

Dr. Lawrence Ford

Dr. Shyrack Speaks At Granary

Dr. Ralph Shyrack, national President of the American Association of University Professors, addressed members of the local chapter and their guests at a Granary banquet held last Tuesday. Dr. Shyrack was introduced by Dr. Lawrence Ford, President of the Washington College chapter of the A.A.U.P.

Program Is Educational "Most of the opposition to the A.A.U.P. comes from those who do not understand its purpose," said Dr. Shyrack. "Its program is an educational one," he continued, "and it is analogous to the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association in ideals, purpose, and function. He pointed out that European professors have the standing in the community and nation which the A.A.U.P. is trying to secure for its members.

A.A.U.P. Not A Labor Union Dr. Shyrack emphasized that the A.A.U.P. is not a labor union, but like the bar and medical associations traces its origins to the medieval guild. As such it has many constructive functions, and is often called upon by the administrations of large universities who do not fight the A.A.U.P. but cooperate with it.

Dr. Shyrack is the Director of the Institute of Medical History of the Johns Hopkins University. He was accompanied on the visit to Chestertown by his wife, one of several ladies present at the luncheon.

Tenure Plan Now Operative Dr. Ford commented on the work of the A.A.U.P. "The recently instituted Washington College tenure plan, adopted by the Board of Visitors and Governors at the recommendation of Dr. Gibson, President, is in accordance with A.A.U.P. principles. It is also endorsed by the American Association of Colleges and the American Association of Universities, as well as by other national professional organizations."

"There now exists a permanent (Continued on Page Four)

To Hold Faculty Variety Show

In connection with the current campus drive for contributions to the United Nations Relief Fund, the Faculty has agreed to present a talent show in William Smith Hall on April 16, 1951.

The project has been discussed in faculty meetings, and Mr. Brubaker is handling the general arrangement. At present, plans are being formulated by the various numbers constituting the cast, and on Tuesday the student committee for the W.S.F. will meet with Mr. Brubaker to make further plans for the coming event.

Drive Begun In February The drive for funds began at the close of last semester following a speech made in assembly by Sophia Meis, of Vienna, concerning the work of the World Student Service Fund. A group of students representing various organizations on campus met with Dr. Smith and formed a committee to decide on a project by which the college could raise money to contribute to the W.S.S.F. One of the projects, a rally on a box of fudge, was held in February, and the major activity will be the faculty show.

These Are Your Frosh

By MARGE GLOSE

JOHN HEFFNER — 5'7", dark brown hair and blue eyes. Her home town is Pikesville near Baltimore. She loves to sing and dance, and does beautifully at both. She's active in the W.C. choir, and takes equal interest in girl's sports. Jennie has one of those winning smiles, and although often gets that faraway, dreamy look in her eyes, she is definitely a sensible gal.

The love to write has tickled Joan, and she spends a good deal of her time writing conclusions to everyone's theses. She has also spent a good deal of time typing for the Pegans, and talking about her two little sisters, Laurie, 12, and Rosie, 7. She graduated from Franklin High School in 1949 and she worked and attended night school at the same time last year.

Joan is a Zeta pledge, and one gal that's really got the initiative and take to get somewhere in the world.

JANKE PAXMER — 5'2", dark brown hair and green eyes. This gal's from Olney and graduated from Sherwood High School in 1950. This deep tan gal can usually be found in the back in room 1, third floor.

"Mighty Mouse" is adept at watching the ball through the hoops in girls basketball. She is a member of the I.H.C. Club of Montgomery County and is active in the "Mighty Mouse" team. A trip which is the prize for the team judging contest in which she took part.

"Voices of the Valley," an A.N.O. pledge, likes the Navy and "Anxious Average" is her favorite song.

PEGGY FEATHERER — 5'10", short dark brown hair and blue eyes. Peggy hails from Vero Beach, New Jersey and is a graduate of the Class of 1950 at Woodlawn High School and a member of the W.C. choir. Peggy could easily be found in the Tower Club. Musically inclined, Peg is a member of the 88 keys and she can be heard singing in the W.C. choir.

Peggy's mad box is usually pinned full, attesting the fact that she has lots of friends back home as well as here. Peggy's one girl band member and a good student, she's a moped rider, and is always cooking up a recipe for fun. Because of her winning ways, she can't help becoming a successful nurse which she hopes to be.

A new pledge, Alpha Chi is her favorite society and she's out of partial to the MOA's — due to a certain fact. Peggy's about as much as anyone is glad to have as a friend.

BETTY BOONE — 5'2", strawberry blonde hair, and light blue eyes. Betty is a loyal Virginian and her home town is Falls Church in the District of Columbia.

She was graduated from Falls Church High School in '48 and worked for the Daughters of the Revolution for a year after a term at business college. Betty is crazy about all kinds of mysteries and ghost stories, and loves to play jokes on her dormitory sisters. Betty is also a baseball fan and has come to the conclusion that all men are liars.

Betty, who is well known for her long shiny hair, admits she hates term papers, Rats, and people who interfere with her newspaper articles, and is so active and loyal pledge of the A.N.O. society, can always take a practical joke, and is quite well known for her bold and effective sarcasm.

Suitcase College

By Tom Low

This constant leaving among the students about school spirit is almost as innocuous as the Literary Club's efforts in constructing a store board immediately prior to the termination of football. The girls are amused mainly at other students, student groups and even the faculty and administration. After coming down every person or group on the campus, and for six days, seeking one thing for knowledge, we immediately grab our suitcases and rush for home, looking for ways in which we can instill the school with an "esprit de corps," all the way.

Occasionally we come back through these week ends with new ideas or plans for "peg rallies" to be held on Fridays (we call them Saturdays). All these plans and big ideas remain in the mind of an old New Hampshire traffic law that states in the event that two cars are at an intersection "neither shall move until the other has left." While we are waiting for the other guy to move, and he for us, we take time out to run home, thereby thoroughly convincing casual observers that W.C. offers no attractions whatever other than class rooms and blackboards. If this isn't a challenge to us in a group we should be invited personally, I, for one, don't want anyone to find that I lack the ingenuity to find some unique preoccupation if no week end program is offered — and usually there is a dance or some sports event. Some of us had better ease ourselves into staying down from home more than a week at a time. We might get a little homesick when we see our "Tie" for a long week end.

It has been stated that 60% of college life is development of personalities and social companionship. If we can't even entertain ourselves for a week end, our personalities will probably be raised to the questionable standards of an amoeba.

As anyone who might miss his ride some week end, on one he is fast becoming a "suitcase college." Whatever the cause — the result will be disastrous. There would be nothing such as making as to have people look that the school as a whole, or as individuals, offer each other nothing interesting enough to keep themselves occupied for a week end.

If I don't hurry, I'll miss my Wednesday afternoon ride to Baltimore. Of course, I have an excuse, I have to get me some to type this up in time for the next two.

From The Exchange Desk

From the Origin State Daily Barometer comes the following gem which is applicable to all institutions of higher learning:

With Apologies To David
The college professor is my shepherd and I am in dire want.

He prevents me from lying down in the bed which I desire.

He leads me to distraction with his easy questions.

He shakes my resolution to get a college degree.

He finds me to make a fool of myself before my classmates.

Yes, the I burn my lamp until the midnight howl, I fear much evil.

For he is against me.

His policies, his theories, and his ranting frighten my wife from me.

He annoys my quiz paper with a red pencil marks.

He assigns me extra work in the presence of my entire class.

And my zeroes fill a whole column. Surely, theories, exams, and themes will follow me all the days of my college career.

And I will dwell in the language forever.

From the University of Massachusetts come the following definition as reprinted in The Drexel Triangle:
Ed. men — We make it a policy to list anything which has not been previously listed by someone else. What's not good enough for other papers isn't good enough for us.

Beliefs — A peculiar musical effect achieved by gathering three or more people who play by ear and punctuating their act drums.

Class discussion — Listen, my children, and you shall hear.

Education — What remains after we have forgotten all that we have been taught.

Philosophy — Learning things you already know in terms you don't understand.

Political science — The study of what ought to be done but isn't.

Statistics — Science of being exact about matters you do not understand.

War — Device for securing the peace of the world.

"Granary" Is Popular Banquet Site

As much a part of Washington College as bluebooks, the Snack Bar, and spring fever, is a rustic storefront building that succeeds successfully in satisfying the appetite of W.C. banquet guests with tantalizing food. This structure, better known to all as "The Granary," looks out over a peaceful harbor on the Sassafras River and the breeze from the river sends the odor of wood, and seagulls, drifting on the customs road tempting the patrons to be "step on the gas" just a little later. "The Granary" was formerly just what the name implies. The place is rustic, where there are no pine tables, and large windows looking out over the river, were once built to hold grain to be shipped down the bay. The great oak rafters, hand hewn and weathered, still building means to be sturdy and able to withstand all kinds of weather.

With this rustic atmosphere, the addition of modern conveniences such as a small kitchen, a private room and a giant kitchen, the old granary was made over into an elite place in town. Started in the 1930's, it immediately began attracting customers to its fine name in food and pleasant atmosphere.

With this reputation in mind, Washington College clubs began planning banquets that were to take place at the Granary. Students lined up cars, ordered from a menu thirty steak or fish dinners and proceeded to have a banquet party from soup to nuts and with the inevitable after-dinner talks.

With its Granary food under their belts that many students and faculty groups decide policies and programs for Washington College.

Perhaps the busiest time for the Granary in relation to W.C. is in the spring when the societies, fraternities and clubs have their final banquet for the year. An outsider, dining there during one of these affairs would enjoy the singing of fraternity and society songs, the Oscar awards made to the players for the best performance and the summaries of the year's activities by dozens of campus organizations.

It has been said and over and over that "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach" and so it seems the way to get down to business on such neighborly problems as the Senior Class Constitution, Student Government, and good fraternity practices is to give the members of these organizations a good meal.

Much has been said about the Granary for banquets, but when extra bit of allowance comes in or there is a birthday or anniversary to be celebrated you can be pretty sure that treat will be at the rustic restaurant in Georgetown, Maryland, overlooking the Sassafras River.

MOBILIZE FOR DEFENSE

From The Files

Five Years Ago

There was an epidemic of measles on the Washington College campus.

There was a drive on for the re-establishment of student self-government, but there were some who considered that the control of such an undertaking would fall into the hands of the wrong people, consequently they were against it.

SportsLights

By Ellsworth Boyd

"Clear right! Check sticks! Man on the crease!" These are the sounds which echo from the lacrosse field as Coach Charlie Clark puts his fiery squad through their paces in preparation for their scrimmage with Maryland and the first game of the season against The Naval Academy. This group is being moulded into a well balanced unit and if Washington College doesn't have the best team since its inception of lacrosse, we feel that it will at least be the best conditioned outfit.

Unpredictable Campaign

Although the cindermen have just begun to climb the ladder of conditioning, the squad's two mainstays, "The Jet" and "Captain Jim" have been running true to form. Those EASY 300's and 600's are proof enough that Washington's opponents will face grim opposition in the sprints and middle distance events. However, lack of depth is the problem which remains to be solved by Dim and Ed. The 1950 record of 4 wins and 1 loss in dual meets plus the M-D Championship, will be difficult to repeat against such adversaries as West Chester, Catholic U. and Loyola College.

The Bull Pen

It seems like Al. "The Eye" Zolowski had a pretty hot day against Foxwell last week. Thirty-five points worth to be exact. This establishes a new intramural record for the season, the old one of 34 having belonged to Smitty Byham.

It was quite a hotly contested duel, when Bill Murray and Bruce Wycoff raced that half-mile at tennis practice. But "The Bird Man" came through as he flew across the finish line with five yards to spare.

Big Smitty and Bill Brandt have been devoting much time recently in preparation for their first tennis match in April. It couldn't be that Bill is trying to run off his nickname — could it "Biscuits"?

College Netmen Form Strong Aggregation

This time last year, the Washington College tennis courts were a veritable hotbed of activity. Set House, and the athletic tennis boys were quite disconcerted by the fact the playing grounds would never shake up to their initial content. However, the racket squad was muted when its courts were rolled and the boys emerged with a 5-0 win, 1 lost record to climax a successful year.

Two of their four losses were at the hands of Catholic U. and Loyola College who finished undefeated in the conference. On the other hand, the netmen were victorious over Johns Hopkins and Baltimore I; twice and defeated Towson State Teachers College.

Returning from last year's team are

Gary Wycoff, Bill Brandt and co-captains Bruce Wycoff and Jack Smith. Jack turned in a topsy-turvy 4-1 record last year, followed by the Wycoff brothers 3-1 and Bill Brandt at 3-1. The doubles team, composed of Bruce and "Biscuits" were defeated only once in nine outings. Constant care and the poor condition of the courts greatly hindered the racketeers last season; however, these veterans have been conditioning themselves daily and will be prepared to swing into action, come April 10th when the playing grounds are to be available. The addition of Bill Murray, John Minnick, and Bob Stall will add depth to the team, which looks for ward to another successful campaign. constant improvement was noted at the All-Maryland teams of 1950 and 1951.

After serving with Uncle Sam for three years, Pep returned to his position at forward for coach Dixon's "Flying Engineers." In his senior year, Pep attained his highest season total (347) for a 15.1 per game average.

Yes, all these vivid memories were recollected when we saw Danny Samule in action this year. Like his brother, Danny broke into coach Mike's starting quintet and as a result emerged second high scorer in total points on the campus. He also retains his brother's style, that of a deadly set shot. Just as Frank was nicknamed "Pep," due to his spunk and bounce, so Danny is labeled with the title of "Swish," due to his beautifully executed sets.

According to this year's record books, "Swish" eclipsed his elder's first season mark by 14 points. If this is any indication of things to come, basketball history may again be written by a Samule at Washington College, for it seems the hardwood sport has become "A Family Affair."

Track Team Returns Ten

During the past three weeks, coaches Ed Avey and Dim Monahan have been taking a mental survey of prospective track and field candidates in preparation for their inaugural meet April 14 with Catholic University.

Ten out of a total of thirty thirty club hopefuls form a nucleus around which this year's squad must be built. Since it is so early in the campaign to run time trials, Ed and Dim must wait patiently as these 30 candidates condition themselves, before a principal unit can be formed.

Relay Team Split

Therefore, only a pessimistic viewpoint can be taken now due to the graduation of Larry Brandenburg, Mickey Hubbard, Alie Alendall, Francis Drayton and Lew Bissard. These five men possessed the spark which enabled the Matmon and Black to capture the Mison-Dixon Trial and Field Championships during the past two years. Although Brandenburg, Roy Ward, Hubbard were members of the renowned Washington College relay squad, men hope for the future are lagged by the return of Jim Twilley and Kenney Howard who teamed with Larry and Mickey last year. The lack of a club which the team will by no means be easy.

20 New Candidates

Diminutive Kenney Howard led, the sprinters and broad jumpers while Twilley concentrates on the 440 and 880 yard runs. The eight club selections include the "jacked-up" Lee Cook, discus thrower Jim Taylor, hurdler Ed Byrd, distance man Tom Benson and sprinter "Soft shoes" Byham. Not to be forgotten are the mile and 800 men, Jack McCallough, Fred LaWall and Bill Landon.

Intramural League Ends

It's all over but the shouting now, for the intramural basketball league facilities only a few more minutes. One team has finished the regular season and most of the others have only one game left. Theta Chi, the New Man Club, West Hall, and Kappa Alpha are the teams that will face each other in the playoffs.

Theta Chi Continues To Win
The action of last week set off with a bang as Theta Chi, led by Johnny Cox and Kenney Howard, who hit for 20 and 17 points respectively, trounced C. E. Hall 35-21. The following action was the Day Students' overcame AONA 37-24 as Jim Hinkel played the cards for 13 points while George Horan scored 10 for the losers.

The next evening, the Day Students again prevailed, but this time they were edged by an eager Foxwell squad 27-23. Mulvaney led both teams in scoring as he netted 7 markers for the losers. In a game between two of the top four teams, West Hall turned out a 27-23 victory over the New Man Club. Coxy DeLoach was high man with 12 points, while Vandy Mag Biochetti totaled 10.

Zolowski Nets 35 Points

The next day KA ran away from Foxwell in a high scoring duel. Al Zolowski led the way to the 67-34 win by tipping the nets for a surprising 55 points. In the next contest Foxwell was defeated as Cooper

Stick Team Intact - Await Midshipmen

The Tritone squad, now rounding out its third week of training, has been blessed to date with relatively good weather.

At this point, it appears that it will be difficult for the returning reserves or newcomers to oust first-stringers of last year where the latter are available. The position of goal, vacated by last year's captain, Peter Ransome, and Bill Toan, is as yet unfilled. The most experienced goalie on the squad, Bob Jackson, has played on defense for two years and Coach Clark is reluctant to change his position unless absolutely necessary. Every opportunity is being given Bill Russell, third-string goalie of last year, to earn a starting berth. In due time he is progressing nicely, other competitors for the position are Ray Dyer, Duke Johnson, and Frank Dickey.

Leland Looks Good

The offense is exceptionally strong with Harry Kalkreuth, Bill Bennett, and Bob Jackson, and promises any attack plenty of opportunity. Lyle Abbott, moved back from mid-field to left half, and Kenyon and Don Black, "big play" players, will work with the second defense line up. Capt. Ed Leonard, a natural goal keeper and organizational leader, is the backbone of the midfield line-up with John Ginn and Duke Johnson as running mates. Larry Lemke has been moved up to attack to fill Charlie Hoffman's pos, and will team with two veterans, Ray Ward and Graham Meades who are showing fine form. Benjie Kaula has just reported from the basketball squad and will be used on both attack and as midfield. Other midfielders who will see much action are Wayne Miller, Doug Fox and Jim Atton.

Newcomers Progress

At the attack Rod Finkler, Dick Cadden, Jim McCully, and Bob Dickey are expected to add upping. Newcomers to the game, John Wilson, Ben Krone, Warren Ginn, Dick Weller, Ralph Stephenson, Myer Brinson and others are progressing nicely in the fundamentals of this age old sport. The toughest part of the conditioning is over and attention is now focused upon the first game at the U. S. Naval Academy on the 29th.

DeLoach led West Hall with an underhand shot and 19 points to a 39-21 victory.

The following day Kappa Alpha failed to show up and the New Man Club posted a forfeit victory. Nevertheless, the action again led to high scoring as Theta Chi bucketed 63 markers while Alpha Omega N. handled only 26. On C. Ginn, John Ginn, and Kenney Howard each scored more points than the highest man on the losing squad.

Down Hopkins In Finale

By Ellis Boyd

The Eagles of American University have been flying their victory colors the past week due to their decisive 22 point victory margin last Hopkins night over a favored Johns Hopkins quintet.

The tautness champions from our nation's capital asserted the victory ladder by walloping Mount St. Mary's and Western Maryland previous to their final against the Bluejays. Hopkins fought valiantly, however, the Mounts placing three men in the 20 point bracket—Ron Garshag, Leroy Johnson and Sherry Webster, set a rapid pace which J.H.U. could not match.

Jays Crumbled

The Baltimore contingent surprised everyone as it staged a "Cinderella Act" by conquering third-seeded Loyola College in its opening round and overthrowing Rossmore in the final. Sparked by center forward, Bertman and guard Simon Margolis, the Blue and White turned the 1951 tourney into an upturned affair attempting to give their coach, Bob Jackson, a going away present as he leaves for service in the Marines, April 9.

At Pitts, Western Md. are set a new one game high record for field goals as he bucketed 15. He averaged 42 points for 2 contests as the Terros buckled off Hampden-Sydney before falling to the well-manned Eagle outfit.

Season Extended

American U. and Mt. St. Mary's have not yet concluded their hardwood campaigns for each quintet was scheduled to finish their tournament competition this past week. A.U. moved into the 32 team N.A.B.A. affair at Kansas City while the Mountaineers participated in the National Catholic University Tournament at Albany, N.Y. Following are the string leaders in the conference tournament:

	G	P	Avg.
Pitts, West. Md.	3	60	25.0
Johnson, Amer. U.	3	51	18.0
Garshag, Amer. U.	3	35	17.7
Margolis, J.H.U.	3	32	17.3
Berkman, J.H.U.	3	41	16.7
Coxy, Rutanok	2	45	21.5
Lilien, J.H.U.	3	39	15.0
Webster, Amer. U.	3	32	16.7

Nifty Nick Nets 26.9

Although Jack Whitcomb of Randolph-Macon detested Nick Scallion as a scoring leader of the Mason-Dixon Conference, Nicky Nick climaxed his 1950-51 campaign leading the state scoring column with a 22 game high average of 26.9 points. The swift one-hand push shot artist dropped in 219 field goals and 131 fouls for a total of 592 markers.

His nearest competitor was Art Price, Western Maryland star, whose average was 22.7. This terror threat came within three points of Nicky's 2 game tourney record of 64 as the Greens and Gold bowed out of the tournament via a powerful American University outfit.

Nicky's successful average this season was climaxed by his 39 point record breaker against Mountain College in which he displayed incredible marksmanship and polished court finesse.

Scholarships . . .

Maryland. However, due to rising costs and inflation this policy can no longer be followed. Currently the major fees are a $100 tuition fee and a $52.26 college fee. Beginning next fall the college fee will be reduced by $100 and the tuition fee increased by $100. While this will mean no added cost to the students it will mean an addition of $100 to the value of tuition scholarships.

The following scholarships are thus affected:

58 State Senatorial Scholarships (tuition, books, room, board — about $670).

9 Scholarships for Eastern Shore girls (tuition, books, room, board — about $250).

20 Scholarships for Western Shore girls or boys (boy or girl from each Senatorial District — tuition and books — about $250).

Girls Eligible On Shore

At the request of Dr. Gibson, President of Washington College, Dr. Monroe Thack, Director of the Department of Legislative Reference of the State of Maryland, has examined the laws governing the awarding of the Eastern Shore Senatorial Scholarships, and has concluded that the college is authorized to award them to either male or female students. The Senatorial Scholarships for the Western Shore are open to boys only. A list of the Senatorial Scholarships available for 1951 will be found at the end of this article.

The examination on March 31 will automatically place the students in competition for both types of scholarships.

From The Files

Twenty Years Ago

The Elm was operating under the impending misdeed of The Washington Collegian and was published on a bi-monthly basis. (Ed. note — These were the good old days.)

Lovely and W. C. had failed in an attempt to make financial arrangements for a playoff basketball game to settle a season tie between the two schools. The first game had gone to Lovely 28-21 and the Greyhounds' home court, while W. C. had taken a 21-28 tilt in Chestertown. This dead lock was to have been settled, but it seems that Lovely thought that W. C. wanted too much money.

Washington College had voted to discontinue basketball for the 1951 season. (Ed. note — What's this about history repeating itself.)

A practical use was found for the Elm (or The Washington Collegian) when someone hit upon the idea that the windows of the gym should be plastered with them in order to exclude light and free the basketball court from glare.

Nine Years Ago

Announcement was made that plans were under way for the annual Junior Prom. The theme for the decorations would be "hell". (Ed. note — We all have our troubles, but worth your language.)

Washington College was on a yellow sheet system. No blue books were given. The setup allowed for only "pop" yellow sheets and final exams, and the students were grilling through the editorial channels of the Elm. Seems that they had to study day-by-day instead of month-by-month.

The stacks of Bunting Library were closed for reasons which were not disclosed, and the students wanted them reopened. The Director of the Library stated that when a student wished to use the stacks, he might request a permission card, and from the slight demand for them, there seemed to be little inconvenience to anyone.

In Los Angeles, California, a favorite gathering spot of students at the University of California at Los Angeles is the Student Co-op because it is a cheerful place—full of friendly university atmosphere. And when the gang gathers around, ice-cold Coca-Cola gets the call. For here, as in college haunts everywhere—Coke belongs.

Economy Axe Hits College Snack Bar

Following an announcement made several weeks ago by Frederick W. Dammschott stating the financial status of the Snack Bar, the eating habit of Washington College students began closing its doors at 5:00 P.M. last Monday instead of the usual 11:00 P.M. This action, ordered by Mr. Dammschott is being tried as a method to save money for the Snack Bar which has been reportedly losing money since last September.

The reason given for the early closing was that the amount of sales carried on in the evening did not cover operating costs for that period. In order to keep from raising prices to make up the difference, the working hours in the Bar were cut.

The Snack Bar situation was brought to the attention of the students by the publishing in the Elm of a survey on food prices made by ODK. It was also brought to the attention of the student advisory committee.

In a statement to the Elm concerning the survey Mr. Dammschott mentioned the possibility of closing the Snack Bar as one of the alternatives to be taken in order to economize. The other alternative was a raise in prices, particularly on coffee and ice cream which were thought to be possible money losers.

It was noted however by the ODK committee that the Snack Bar would suffer other establishment on only (Continued on Page Four)

Art Club Plans Exhibit

The Art Club of Washington College will hold an exhibition of student art late in April, it was announced by Dr. Voelker today. The exact date will be announced later. Any student, whether a member or not, may take part in this exhibition, which is an all campus activity.

The exhibition will consist of water colors, oils, pencil, pastels, charcoal, pen and ink, carous, carving, photography, model making, needlework, leather work, crafts, clay modeling and ceramics, and other artistic hobbies of the students.

One objective of this exhibition is to ascertain what interest there is in art among Washington College students. This will be used in deciding what out of art courses the college might offer. Dr. Voelker believes that there is a possibility that art might become a major department at Washington College.

All students who are interested may find out the details about exhibiting from Peggy Reimer, President of the Art Club, or from Dr. Voelker, Faculty Advisor.

Elections Scheduled This Month

The ODR Committee on Class Elections has announced that the annual elections will take place Wednesday, April 25th. The announcement, and the following schedule, were released by Glen Gray, Senior member and Chairman of the Committee. Junior members are Joe Ingorta and Fred Nixon.

Regulations Listed
The usual election procedure will apply. I.e., all candidates for office must have an accumulative index of at least 75 and nomination petitions for each candidate must have a minimum of fifteen signatures. Any duplication of signatures on two or more petitions for the same office will render them invalid. The petition must be given to the Dean of Men no later than noon, Wednesday, April 18th.

Twelve Offices Open
Twelve offices will be filled by the elections, including those of President, Vice-president, Secretary, and Treasurer of the classes of 1952, 1953, and 1954. Those elected will, take office at the beginning of the first semester of next year.

The current Senior Class, i.e., the Class of 1951 will not participate in the elections. Officers for the Freshman Class will be elected next year. Thus, only the current Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes will be concerned with the elections, and only their members will be eligible to sign nomination petitions and vote.

Schedule Outlined
The schedule for the class elections is listed below:
Friday, April 6: Regulations and schedule published in the ELM.
Friday, April 13: Regulations, schedule, other information published in the ELM.
Wednesday, April 18: Petitions due to Dean of Men's office by noon.
Friday, April 20: List of candidates for office published in ELM.
Tuesday, April 24: Rally in Cahn Hall or Bill Smith, time and place to be announced later.
Wednesday, April 25: Elections. Polls open in Snack Bar, 8:15 to 1:00 P.M.
Friday, April 27: Election results to be published in ELM.

Sunday Movies Ruled Out

The plan of the Mc. Vernon Literary Society to sponsor Sunday movies on the campus has not met with the necessary approval. It was revealed this week by Viante Magliocchetti, former President of the Society.

In a letter dated February 27 and released for publication this week by the Society, Dr. Charles B. Clark, in Charge of Student Activities, stated the reasons for the failure to approve the plan. In brief, it was felt that the movies would conflict with the schedule of the lower branches and, in addition, would interfere with students preparing for classes Monday. (See text of letter on page 4.)

Gives Science Demonstration

A liquid air demonstration presented by Mr. John Sloan, a graduate of Duke University was sponsored by the Science Club for the assembly program on Thursday. A former science teacher, Mr. Sloan has performed over five thousand demonstrations to high school and college students in forty-two states.

In a series of experiments, Mr. Sloan presented the peculiar properties of liquid air. Made by subjecting air to high pressure and lowering its temperature, pale blue liquid air has a temperature of 321 degrees F. below zero. To show the effect of subjecting other materials to this low temperature, Mr. Sloan immersed various solids in the liquid air. In this way, he made a banana hard enough to drive nails, a rubber ball that would break like glass, and a piece of iron that could be broken with the hands.

Demonstrating liquid air's expansive force as it changes to a gas, Mr. Sloan inflated a balloon by attaching it to a test tube of liquid air, and played a clarinet by performing a similar action.

Combustion experiments were also presented, made possible as Mr. Sloan explained by the fact that as liquid air evaporates, almost pure liquid oxygen is obtained. A steel wire burned when placed into the liquid.

Debate Team Successful

Members of the Paul A. Townsend Society Debating Team, representing Washington College in a recent tour of debates with Pennsylvania College University teams, were successful in winning three out of four of the debates that were decided. The team defeated a total of twelve times although eight of the debates were not decided.

Representing the negative for Washington were Fred Nixon and Paul Miller. Bill Treuth and Charles Whitman presented the affirmative viewpoint. The topic debated was this year's national college debate topic: "Resolved, That Non-Communist Nations Should Form a New World Organization."

Three teams debated in the itinerary were Ursinus, University of Pennsylvania, Haverford, Temple, Swarthmore, and St. John's College. There were two debates at each school with the exception of Temple and Ursinus. The affirmative team defeated the topic with Temple's success, while the negative argued the question with the negative team of Ursinus.

Those teams which the Washington team defeated were the University of Pennsylvania, Haverford, and Temple. The team sustained a loss at Swarthmore. All the other verbal topics were undecided affairs.

This afternoon the Washington College Debating Team will journey to the Naval Academy, where they will debate the Midshipmen. The team is also entertaining the possibility of meeting the Loyola team at Washington, Friday, April 27.

Scholastic Ability Counts

President Truman last Saturday ordered draft deferment for college students on the basis of their scholastic ability. Later this week, selective service director, Sam Hershler, selective service director, sent to all draft boards the complete procedure for taking aptitude tests to determine student ability to attend college. Over 1,000 places were held where examinations will be held and thirty sample questions were released to let students know what they could expect. Tests will be administered at Washington College May 26, June 16 and June 30. College students were advised to get in touch with their local boards immediately and obtain Selective Service Forms 106 and 107. These actually are 1-cent post cards attached to each other.

The student can indicate the date on which he would like to take the test and the place. After the form is filled out, the registrant must mail it to the Selective Service examining station.

The Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., then will assign the date and place where a student will take the test and return half of the card to the registrant. He must take the card with him when he takes the test. The service will follow the student's wishes as far as possible on time and place for the test.

Each applicant will be fingerprinted to make sure that only authorized persons take the test. The test will be in the form of multiple-choice questions. Anyone caught cheating will be dismissed from the examination immediately.

The tests will include mathematical problems and the reading of passages, charts and tables to see how students apply general principles. They are designed to determine ability to learn rather than actual knowledge.

The test is aimed at providing for the deferment of enough pursuing students to give the nation well-trained scientists, technicians and professional men it needs. Only men already in college will be permitted to take it.

Other eligibility rules for test applicants are as follows:

1. The applicant must intend to seek occupational deferment as a student.
2. He must be under 26 years old. (The draft age limit).
3. The applicant must not have previously taken the test.

No cost will be involved except the applicant's transportation costs to and from the examination center.

The action was taken in recognition of the fact that the nation cannot hope to match Soviet Russia and her facilities in manpower but must rather place its prime reliance in American scientific and technical superiority.

General Hershler noted that Congress had provided for deferments of college and university students "in such numbers as may be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest."

By executive order Mr. Truman defined a student as necessary to national health, safety or interest if he falls within one of the three following categories:

1. A student (or a man accepted for admission) at a professional school of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy, or optometry who has been certified by the school as pursuing satisfactorily a full-time course leading to graduation.
2. A full-time graduate student certi-

Stickmen Bow To Middies -- Meet Hofstra Today

SportsLights

By Ellsworth Boyd

Sho' Stick Team Praised

Although the Maroon and Black was defeated by Navy in its initial outing of the '51 lacrosse season, it is the opinion of veteran stickmen that the Chestertown squad should remain victorious throughout the remainder of their campaign. Navy's assistant coach, John Donohue, labels the Eastern Shoremen as the best small college team since the championship days of St. Johns (when he played, and Navy's Dinty Moore coached).

B.O.C. Boasts Hubbard

Many track fans will recognize a former alumnus and eminent track star at Washington College this year when The Baltimore Olympic Club once again visits the Shore for a dual track and field encounter. Although we would rather have him with us than against us, it looks as if Mickey Hubbard will be one of the Baltimore Club's mainstays and a reliable point-maker as he was at Washington College last year.

Racketeers Tuning Up

The tennis ranks within the M-D Conference have depleted with the announcement that The University of Baltimore and Mt. St. Mary's will not field teams this year. However, our racketeers have been practicing daily in the gym until their outdoor courts are erected. The schedule is not yet complete, nevertheless, matches have been slated with Catholic U., Towson, Western Maryland and Johns Hopkins.

This An' That

Al Doory, ex-Washington College student now attending Balto. U., was one of five Y.M.C.A. wrestlers who grappled Ichiro Hata's touring team of Japanese champions in an exhibition event at the Baltimore "Y" last Friday -- At the M-D Conference meeting last week, it was decided to pick an all conference basketball team in 1952 instead of the usual all tourney five -- The W.C. lacrosse squad threw a scare into Navy coach Dinty Moore before the initial game of the season. "I heard about that scrimmage Washington had with Maryland and that's reason enough to be concerned over our game," exclaimed coach Moore -- Out of the group of 30 who reported for track practice several weeks ago, only half have been attending daily workouts. Those gym classes must be getting pretty rough if students have to draw equipment and supposedly go out for a sport in order to eliminate gym from their schedules !!!

Marylanders Win Game

As a prelude to our Spring Holidis, the handwound gladiators composed of Maryland residents defeated the out-of-state 45-35 in a fast back yard style open ball game which was decidedly marked by personal fouls.

The in states forced a starting five consisting of Mt. Morgan, Ellsworth Boyd, Ken Howard, Ed Gunning and Bernie Rink, which was pitted against the entire first string variety, led by "Coach" Nick Sallman.

The victors were led by Mt. Morgan who bucketed five field goals and seven fouls for a 17 point total. Substituting early, the losers were headed by Nifty Nick and Lee Cook who netted 16 and 11 markers respectively. The first quarter terminated with the Marylanders holding a slim 5 point edge as Morgan continually scored on his difficult drive-in shots. The winner of the second period brought the Md. "shock troops" into the contest. This fresh group was headed by Coaches Ed Athey and Frank Applejohn, reinforced by John Cox, Babe Johnson and Red Ware.

Half Time Tie
However, this quintet was matched goal and goal and foul for foul as Kenney Sullivan dominantly controlled the "visitors" offensive rebounds. Despite the smooth ball handling of Ed Athey, and pivot shots by John Johnson.

Kent County Savings Bank

son, the victory lead dwindled and in the half-time buzzer sounded, the score stood 36 up.

The 3rd stanza was a nip and tuck battle as the ball continually changed hands. Referees Ed Gunning and Bill Russell allowed very few fouls to slip past them as 15 were called during the evening. Kenney Howard aggressively stole the ball during crucial phases of the skirmish and led to the big goals. Morgan and Johnson, entering the victory to score a five point lead entering the last quarter.

One Minute Freeze
Sullivan's one hand push shots and Cook's rapids cut the lead, nevertheless, the Maryland squad's depth proved to be a decisive factor as they had a six point advantage with 14 minutes and 10 seconds remaining. A well executed freebie enabled them to retain the lead and the victory, 61-56.

"THINCLAD THREATS"

The addition of a dual meet with The Baltimore Olympic Club has increased the 1951 track schedule to a total of four dual meets, two championships, and the Penn Relays. This is one of the roughest slates that any college athlete has faced in the past, and promises plentiful competition in every track and field event.

The defending Mason-Dixon Champions open their new campaign Saturday, April 14, when they will match strides with the Cardinals of Catholic University who are sparked by their record-breaking high jumper, Russ Johnson. Last year the Maroon and Black trimmed the Cardinals 81 to 40, as seven records were smashed. This year however, the Red Birds will be out to avenge this defeat.

Middle-Atlantic Relay

April 18 pits the Shoemen against Penn's "Millers" at College Park. April 21 The Baltimore Olympic Club invades the Shore. Both squads were evenly taken in hand last year, but the former shows promise of a stronger group this season, while M.D.C. is quite unproven.

The Penn Relays fall on the 28th of this month in which W.C. will enter but one mile relay. This will be the Middle Atlantic Conference mile relay representing such adversaries as Lafayette, St. Joseph's, Lehigh, Muhlenberg and Le Salfe. The annual Mason-Dixon one mile race has been withdrawn from the program.

2 Championship Meets

The latter part of the schedule includes West Chester State Teachers who completed the quadrennial 3051 last year and have lost very little depth since then. May 8 brings the Loyola Greyhounds to the Shore. Their strength undoubtedly lies in the distance and middle distance events. This dual affair warrants a close score due to balanced competition.

Catholic University is once again playing host to the M-D Championships, May 11-12. Each Mason-Dixon College has lost some material since last year and those which were weakest seem to have contributed their units so as to force the 1951 Championship into a closely knitted outcome.

The Chestertown trackmen end their campaign May 18 when they travel to Johns Hopkins for the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships. Once again they will face stiff opposition by renowned colleges from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey.

Athey At Meeting

No startling developments came out of the 10th annual session of the Mason-Dixon Conference's annual spring meeting, but interestingly enough, at the Emerson Hall in Baltimore, however, several recommendations were advanced by representatives of the 15 M-D schools.

Edward L. Athey, athletic director of Washington College, vice president of the conference and is head of the committee on lacrosse. Emil G. Reitz, Jr., Loyola's athletic director and coach, is treasurer and chairman of

Theta Chi Captures Cage Crown

After the two semi-final games and one championship game the red and white of Theta Chi twice emerged victorious to win the intra-mural basketball title. This Chi, beaten in the final last year by G.I. Hall simply ran the opposition into the ground with a high scoring offense and an effective foul court press.

In the first semi-final game the eventual champs readily beat KA 47-38. With Johnny Cox hitting for 23 points, mostly set shots, KA trailed all the way. Al Zakalski had an off day but was good enough to lead his team and bucket ten. After the first quarter KA had little chance to produce an offensive, for the Theta quint displayed a full court press led by speedy Kenny Howard and alert Jack Nacrelli. Meanwhile, the victors showed the finest ball handling seen this year among the afternoon cagers and easily cracked the ineffectual KA zone.

West Hall In Frail

Then West Hall took the court and rattled the Newman Club by a 38-33 score. West Hall, boasting the tallest club in the circuit, had five technicians called against it, but sparked by rings Neil Tilghman they had little trouble in winning the victory. However, twice the Newman Club pulled within one point of the winners, 15-14 and 23-21, but each time Tilghman bucketed a shot shut to put a margin between the opponents. With Tilghman scoring 22 points in the first and Ted Leach, Krueger and Barnes working from the outside, their scoring punch was versatile, while Vinny Magliocco almost singlehandedly led the Newman Club with 11 points.

Theta Wins 53-36

In the final, Theta Chi coasted to an easy 53-36 victory. An evenly distributed scoring punch seemed to sell West Hall, Ed Canaglia led the winners with 16 points. Jack Nacrelli and speedster Kenny Howard were next with 9 and 8, as every man on the Theta chi rattled the cords. Neil Tilghman figured to be the main gun. West Hall, liveliest up to the game producer, with 18 points. However, only John Krueger was able to hit from the outside while Theta Chi scored from every angle.

Again using a full court press and fast break, Theta had little trouble in tying the five man West Hall quint. The coldest the losers came was six points at the end of the first quarter. Possession of the ball was the Theta Chi rule as they topped up and down the court, repeatedly sealing the sphere. With a bare scoring drive widening the margin, the Ox-Men became the intra-mural champions with their 53-36 win.

The awards and trophies summited. Athey announced that Washington College will have a tennis squad through Mt. St. Mary's and Baltimore. Ave. have bowed out.

Midshipmen Score 8-6 Victory

Last week marked the opening of the 1951 lacrosse campaign for Washington College as the team were victorious by the Naval Academy at Annapolis, 8-6.

The Middies wasted no time as they jumped to an early 2-0 lead in the first quarter. After Navy Captain Cret McDonough fired two into the net, the Shoemen tied the Midshipmen goal for goal. The score stood at 4-0 before the local lads could find the range in the second quarter.

Goal Breaks Ice

Washington's scoring was opened by John Grin on a ricochet shot midway in the second stanza. Graeme Minnie followed liberally with another and the half time score stood at 4-2, with the Middies in front.

Early in the second half, the Chestertown stickmen changed the score-board to read 4-3 in a fine shot by John Grin. However, Bob Burch covered for the sailors and Dick Wright added another to lengthen the lead to three goals. Larry Leonard flipped one in from the side as the third quarter ended.

The fourth game saw the Shoemen oust play the Middies for the first time in the game. They again closed the gap on a shot by Mennies but McDonough and Billy Earl penetrated for numbers seven and eight for Navy. Wood fired in the final tally of the game with less than a minute to play.

The Middies, with free substitutions, wore down Shoemen Coach Clark's unit. The local lads showed good stickwork and accurate passes but were overcome by Navy's reserve strength.

Shoemen Meet Hofstra

Today, the team travels north to meet the Hofstra team under the leadership of former All-American from Johns Hopkins, Lloyd Bunting. Hofstra should be well skilled in the fundamentals of the game.

According to Hoody Myers, former Hopkins lacrosse coach and present Washington director, the Hofstra team is a little shallow in reserves, but have plenty of bourse and hustle.

Announce Softball Rules

Coach Francis Apicella, who turned in a creditable job managing the intra-mural basketball league, has announced that the 1951 softball league will begin Tuesday, April 10. Due to the non available variety softball play from last season, this year's league is expected to let one of the choicest lines of the intra-mural sports ball. Nine teams have volunteered their entries which include: Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Chi, A.D. Nu, Foxwell, St. Stephens, Somerset, East Hall and C. I. Hall. All managers are requested to submit the complete roster of their squad as soon as possible.

The following rules have been set up by Coach Apicella:

1. Only 2 variety men to each team. Games -- 9:30 to 12:00 -- Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.
2. No spikes allowed.
3. League play to terminate 1 week before exams.
4. First round "in playoffs" -- May 16 and 17.
5. Winners determined after playoffs, based on best records.
6. Seven inning games.
7. Ties or postponements to be played on Monday or Friday.
8. Three fields -- lower, upper and triangle in front of Somerset.
9. Schedule is to be posted on bulletin board in track bar.

Sunday Movies . . .

day night shows was introduced as a method of raising funds to sponsor a appearance of the Barter Theatre of some other theatrical group here.

Previously the Society had sought aid from ODK which handles student funds in the absence of student government. No aid was offered, however, and the Society, currently operating at a deficit sought other methods of securing financial stability.

A spokesman for ODK explained that organization's reasons for discouraging the Mt. Vernon's request: "Noting the Mt. Vernon's request, we usually make, according to its bylaws, ODK receives all profits, in he added to the Student Activities Fund, of any function which it underwrites, sponsors, or backs. The Mt. Vernon, in sponsoring previous appearances of the Barter, had made a profit of $98.00. This sum was then set aside to be used if needed to pay for future productions of the Barter, which usually charges $5.00 per night. The Barter was sponsored again, but attendance was poor, and money was lost. Only $252 was raised through ticket sales, consequently the Barter's profit of $98 was needed, in addition to $50.00 which was extended from personal funds by Mr. Ralph Thornton, former professor here and advisor to the Mt. Vernon."

The full text of Dr. Clark's letter, addressed to Jant Newman, then Corresponding Secretary of the Society, is printed below:

Feb. 27, 1951

Miss Janet Newman, Secretary
Mt. Vernon Literary Society
Washington College
Chestertown, Maryland.

Dear Janet:
The request of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society to hold movies on Sunday evenings has been given careful consideration. It is our belief that Sunday evening is not a good evening for this activity, based upon these considerations:

(1) Chestertown churches would have a just complaint inasmuch as the hours would conflict. Whether students would be going to church or not is in a sense beside the point, for the churches would still feel justified in making the complaint.

(2) It is our feeling that students, many of them returning to the campus on Sunday evening from a week end away, should be interested in preparing for their classes the next day. As far as possible, we do not desire to have any activity interfere with classes.

We will be perfectly agreeable to the idea of your attempting these movies on clear Friday evenings. We have some doubts about them on the basis of past experience. The Music Guild, under the leadership especially of Lenny Kratzer, operated here for a couple of years in rather a spasmodic way. They were allowed to hold movies on Fridays when there were no dances, games, etc. Whether they made any money I cannot say off hand. If you want to try them, alright. Check dates with me to avoid conflict. We assume you would want to use the Auditorium. We would want to be fully satisfied that no smoking would be allowed in there because of the danger involved with exposed film. This was a sore point when the Music Guild was operating.

I will be glad to talk with you or anyone connected with the Society about this matter at any time.

Sincerely yours,

CHARLES B. CLARK, Jr.
In Charge, Student Activities.

Players Begin Work On New Production

Monty Woodley's own vehicle, and a rollicking Broadway success before stage plays, namely, "The Man Who Came To Dinner" has been chosen by the Washington Players for their final presentation for the 1950-51 season. The production will take place on May 3 and 4 in Bill Smith Auditorium.

Following the tradition of having a comedy as their final play, the Players chose with care the Most Hilarious George Kaufman takeoff on Alexander Woodstock as "The Man Who Came To Dinner". It is filled with satirical humor, humor typical of Dr. Woodstock and cleverly presented by the two playwrights.

The cast of "The Man" is unusually large and will be something of a novelty to the Washington College stage. It boasts a cast list of nine women and eighteen men. Director of the production will be Phyllis Selig, current secretary of the Players.

Playing the major role of Sheridan Whitehead, a la Woodstock, will be Tom Lowe, K.A. President and newcomer to the dramatics field at Washington. Dr. Dryden assists as his equally sarcastic secretary, Maggie Cutler, whose mazy comedies make the show a constant verbal battle.

Listed below is the cast list, chosen by the casting committee at tryouts:

A student at college, university, or similar institution who is satisfactorily following a full-time course of instruction. Men accepted for admission will be included in this category.

The graduate students in the first two categories need not have a special rating to maintain their deferment. However, college students must meet certain scholastic standards.

Scholastic standing can be determined in one of two ways. A student must be in a certain upper portion of his class, yet to be announced. However, a Selective Service official said that a plan proposed by General Hershey several weeks ago will probably be used at first.

At that time, Hershey suggested that all college freshmen in the upper half of their class be deferred. All second year students in the upper two thirds, and all third year men in the upper three fourths of their class.

The passing score will probably be withheld by Selective Service headquarters for several weeks. Earlier this month General Hershey called for a passing mark of 70 based on a perfect score of 100 in proposing a similar plan. Officials, however, would not say this will be the new passing level.

Faculty Show Slated For Wednesday

A turn-out from the ordinary course for college events occurs next week when the faculty will entertain the students in a Variety Show on Wednesday, April 18, 1951, at 8:30 P.M. Tickets are on sale at fifty cents a person, and all proceeds are for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund.

The cast for the production includes faculty members of all departments and the clerical department. Music and humor will be featured as the main fare of the evening's show. Jokes will be specialized, with particular emphasis on commentaries concerning Washington College life. Individual acts revealed for publication include two song and dance acts, a barber shop quartet, a dramatic sketch, and two satiric parodies on college life.

Rehearsals are progressing behind closed doors, and the faculty remains reticent about the details of the presentation. Not until Wednesday evening will the students learn what the faculty has planned.

The business and technical properties of the show are being handled by students in a special committee under the World Student Service Fund, under the chairmanship of Elmer Gustafson. Mr. Edward Brubaker is chairman of the faculty group. Tickets for the Variety Show can be purchased from any member of the committee for the W.S.S.F.

Five Professors Receive Promotions

As a result of action taken by the Board of Visitors and Governors here last Saturday, five members of the faculty received promotions. One of the Assistant Professors to that of Associate Professor, those affected by the action include: Dr. Lawrence Ford of the Language Department; Dr. Joseph McLean of Chemistry; Dean Bradley of English; Mrs. Benson of Mathematics; and Mr. Dumchott of Political Science.

Prospective Presidential Candidates Interviewed

(Editor's Note: In view of the mounting interest in the forthcoming class elections, the ELM has interviewed the following students, whose names have been mentioned as possible candidates for the office of President of their respective classes. This is not to be considered in any way an editorial or complete list of candidates, nor does the ELM necessarily endorse any person, named or unnamed, for these offices.)

Senior Class
Bob Brink: "I nominated I would accept, for I feel that it would be a great honor. In any case, I will give my full support to strengthening our class, for there is much work to be done toward that end in the Senior Class."
Bob Jackson: "I would accept the nomination with pleasure. If elected I will endeavor to do a conscientious job. Election to the office of President of the Senior Class is a great honor, and anyone elected to that office should take full advantage of the opportunity to serve his class and school well."

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE"

The next two weeks will decide the fate of the Snack Bar. The action of ODK in assuming the night-time operation of the Snack Bar is commendable; however, the success of their action rests entirely with the student body.

ODK, with the support of the Student Advisory Committee, is out to prove that the Snack Bar can be run on a profitable basis for two and one-half hours during the evening. The other participant in this undertaking is the student body — the final verdict will be announced by the cash register.

In short, the assumption that the Snack Bar can be run on a profitable basis at night depends upon student patronage for verification. Unless the students take this opportunity to support the Snack Bar, it will close. In that event, we will have no one to blame but ourselves.

Phyllis Seitz Is Installed

Phyllis M. Seitz was installed on Monday evening as President of Beta Pi chapter of Alpha Chi Omega for the 1951-1952 year. She replaces Ruth Roe, who is graduating in June.

Before her election to the present office, Phyllis served as first and second vice-president of the group. In addition to her offices within the sorority, she has participated in the Greek activities as President of the Panhellenic Council during the past year. She is the newly elected secretary of the Washington Players and current director of their present production, "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

The new first vice-president of the sorority is Marlene Meyer, and the second vice-president is Nancy Crabtree. Marlene was former secretary of the group, and Nancy was rush chairman. Mickey Ross replaces Helen Roe as recording secretary. Two new initiates, Dorothy Willis and Peggy Feather, held the offices of corresponding secretary and treasurer respectively.

Additional officers include Helen Roe as such chairman, Davis Schellinger as chaplain, Janice Palmer as wardens, Anne Simmonds as activities and social chairman, and Betty Boone as scholarship chairman. All of the new officers were installed during the meeting on Monday evening.

Syd Bare Elected

Monday night, Alpha Omega Nu held their elections and Syd Bare became the new president. Formerly Vice-president, Bare has been acting president for the past month.

The office of Vice-president was won by Bill Treuth, Treuth, former Secretary, followed Syd Bare to this office. The new Secretary is Bill Hetzel who stepped up from the office of Corresponding Secretary which was assumed by Charlie Whitist. Paul Miller was elected to the post of Treasurer. Jim Mangus is the new delegate to the Inter-Fraternity Council, replacing Randy Mason, Pledge-master after the elections was also won by Mangus, as he succeeds Walt Orel.

Following the election of officers, the fraternity traveled to the Gracery for its annual banquet.

Name Alumni Secretary

Mr. Spencer Robinson, a former student at Washington College, was named to the post of Alumni Secretary by the Board of Visitors and Governors at their meeting last Saturday. Mr. Robinson will take office here on June 1.

The Alumni Secretary was chosen after a series of conferences of the Executive Committee of the Board and his appointment was confirmed last week. He has given notice of his acceptance, and expects to return to Swarthmore with his family in early summer.

Mr. Robinson, a native of Ridley Park, Pennsylvania, entered Washington College in September, 1939 and graduated in June, 1941 to enter the Navy. He served in that service until December, 1945 at which time he was released as an Ensign. He was married while in service and now has two children.

Upon leaving the service Mr. Robinson entered Rutgers University, from which institution he was graduated in June, 1948. From that date he served until January, 1950 as administrative assistant in the office of admissions at Rutgers. Since that time he has been the assistant to the Director of Admission while pursuing graduate work in Education. He expects to receive a master's degree in June.

Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men and Professor of History and Political Science, addressed the Chesterton Lions Club on Monday evening, April 9, on the topic: "How U. S. Foreign Policy is Made." He spoke on a similar subject to the Preston, Md. Community Club on Tuesday, April 10.

Nominations Due April 18

Nominations for class officers will be due Wednesday, April 18, according to the schedule released last week by the ODK Committee on Class Elections. Petitions bearing the names of at least fifteen members of the class must be given to the Dean of Men no later than noon of the above date.

To be eligible as a candidate a student must have a minimum index of .75. Any duplication of signatures on two or more petitions for the same office will render them invalid. Twelve officers will be filled by the elections, including those of President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer of the classes of 1952, 1953, and 1954. Those elected will take office at the beginning of the first semester of next year.

The Committee announced that plans are being made for a pre-election rally on Tuesday, April 24, in Bill Smith Auditorium. The rally, scheduled to begin at 6:30 P.M., will give the students an opportunity to hear the candidates expound their views and present their platforms. The elections will be held the next day, Wednesday, April 25, in the Snack Bar. The voting polls will be open from 8:15 to 1:00 P.M.

Society To Hold Exhibit

The Society of Sciences will present its annual Science Exhibit on April 26 in Dunning Hall. Five sciences: chemistry, physics, mathematics, biology and psychology, will be represented. The physics department will have on display a Geiger Counter, Wilson Cloud Chamber, and a spectroscope. The theme of the biology division will be evolution with comparative displays of the brains and skeletons of various animals.

A life detector demonstration will highlight the psychology display. Also, visitors to the exhibit may have their blood typed and take a number of vocational aptitude tests. In addition to the students' exhibits there will be a guest speaker and a film "The Doctor in Indenture". Last night the Society sponsored a Bell Telephone exhibit featuring electric displays and other display of interest to the students. One of the more prominent features was a demonstration of modern communication systems.

ODK will operate the Snack Bar at night on a two week trial basis, beginning Monday, April 16. This action resulted from a joint meeting of the students and the Student Advisory Committee with Dr. Gilson and Mr. Dumchott Wednesday night. A special meeting of ODK Thursday was held to confirm the action and to put the plan into operation.

Executive plans as the Elm went to press were for the appointment of a student manager selected from ODK. Different members of ODK will serve as managers on a rotation basis. The job will be entirely voluntary. It was proposed that the Snack Bar be open between the hours of 8:00 P.M. and 10:30 P.M.

The purpose of the move was two-fold: (1) to have the Snack Bar open at night for the convenience of the students and (2) to give the staff the Snack Bar can be operated on a profitable basis during those hours.

This action was proposed by Eddie Leonard, President of ODK, after a number of other suggestions had been discussed by the group. Under the plan, ODK, which has the responsibility for the allocation of student funds in the absence of student government, will assume complete responsibility for any financial loss incurred during the trial period.

Other suggestions included the institution of a subsidy for the Snack Bar which would be paid by all registered students of the college as a part of the college activities fee; letting the Snack Bar as a concession to outside commercial interests; the installation of pin-ball and other cheap machines or games; and, finally, a conversion of Hodson Hall to a cafe. This last suggestion, referred to as the "John Hodgkins Plan" would involve the operation of a joint cafeteria — Snack Bar under one roof. It was pointed out, however, that this plan might prove unsatisfactory in that the heavy "business-class" trade would be eliminated due to the inconvenience location of Hodson in relation to classrooms.

The joint meeting was called by Dr. Gilson at the request of ODK for the purpose of finding some way to reopen the Snack Bar at night, while shopping a profit. Mr. Dumchott, business manager of the college, had ordered the doors of the Snack Bar closed at 5:00 P.M. effective April 2. The reason given at that time for the closing was that the amount of sales carried on in the evening did not cover operating costs for that period. The dissatisfaction of the students at this action resulted in the joint meeting Wednesday.

PLAY BENEFIT DANCE
The Washingtons, newly formed home-page dance combo, will play at an informal dance tonight for the benefit of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society.

The dance will be held in Hobson Hall from 7:50 P.M. to 10:45 P.M. Called a "Bad Luck Dance," the evening's entertainment will feature a minivision and a Chinese Auction in addition to the regular dance program.

SOCIETY VISITS NEW YORK
Four members of the Mount Vernon Literary Society paid a one-day visit to New York last Saturday. The group succeeded in seeing the highly rated show, "South Pacific," as well as other points of interest in the city. Those making the trip were Paul Miller, Bruce Hornstein, Dick Stevens, and Bill Treuth, President.

IN EXPLANATION

Several years ago a policy of guest editors was formed whereby those persons under consideration for the ELM editorship could be tried and their worth proved. Under this system, guest editors are invited by the editor to publish the ELM one week during April.

At a later date, the new editor is appointed by the Board of Publications. His or her tenure begins immediately after the appointment has been announced and ends at the same time the following year.

This week's ELM was edited by Jane Bradley.

'...and the Band Played On'

Latest campus gossip concerns the organization of a dance band composed entirely of Washington College students. Christened the "Washington tonians", their musical debut was made last Saturday night, April 7, with an appearance before a capacity crowd at the Miles River Youth Club in St. Michaels, Md. The reception was so enthusiastic that a second engagement was booked for Saturday, April 21.

Members of the combo headed by Jim Metcalfe are: Joe Gallo, trumpet; Mack Noland, trombone; Doug Tillery, tenor sax; Bob Brink, piano; Teddy Bender, drums; with Metcalfe playing guitar and handling the vocal chores. When questioned about plans of the group, Metcalfe seemed very bashful over the potentialities of the outfit. Most of the boys have had past musical experience, and all seem anxious to improve.

Featured numbers include that beautiful old standard, "Blue Moon"; Gallo's brilliant trumpet technique on the immortal "Wardcut"; Noland's smooth interpretation of T.D.'s "Ten Getting Sentimental Over You"; and the stellar tenor work with Doug Twilley's smooth intonation and style much like that of Flip Phillips. Jim Metcalfe's vocals are another highlight as the evening as he, along with Bender and Brink, sets the rhythmic pattern.

It is felt that this group fills a real campus need, as the last such organization was Eddie Ray's first band of the years 1946 through 1949. For the benefit of campus "youngsters", this group was composed of 3 saxes, 2 trumpets, drum, piano and vocal and featured such excellent musicians as Gibby Meekins on the trumpet, Wilbur Barnes tinkling the ivory, and Jack Shoemaker doing the crowding.

Since this group graduated, musical talent at W.C. has been conspicuous only by its absence up until the first semester of this school year. An attempt to form a dance orchestra during the first semester was a flop, and instrumental music on the hill seemed doomed for another year of silence. Largely through the efforts of Jim Metcalfe, however, the present combo was gradually smoothed into shape. Although the boys realize there isn't a big name band, they do try to present a smooth, enjoyable sound, pleasant both for dancing and listening. Members feel that with the encouragement, backing, and cooperation of individuals and organizations, they can provide many hours of enjoyable entertainment on the Washington College campus. Future dates during the month include a Friday, April 13, date at Hudson Hall; their second visit to St. Michaels; and a dance at the Rock Hall Fire House on April 28.

The reason for all this traveling was to see her father's position as a doctor in the U. S. Navy. Jane did an excellent job in the portrayal of Mrs. White in the one act play, "The Stanley's Paw", presented by the Washington Players recently. However, her acting experience has not been confined to her work in college as she was active in dramatics in high school and in the Children's Theatre in Spokane.

Besides the Washington Players, Jane spends much of her time in the Eta Club, Canterbury Club, W.C. Choir, and as a member of the board managers of the G.I.A.A. She is

Dissension On The Feature Page

By Tom Lowe

Since we're all so completely in the dark as to that enlightening column as "What's New?" or "Who's A Fool?" or whatever it is, it would be impossible to attempt to refute any particular person in reference to it. It would be ridiculous to assume that Miss Metcalfe or Bob Jackson had collaborated with Lord Tenyson to compose that classic satire in last week's Washington confidential. However, after speaking to Miss Metcalfe she has allowed me to use her name. Surely for a metrical column — an amusing that it was she. This very noble gesture arose from the fact that we are relatives... or so she claims.

Lacrosse Team Routs Hofstra And Adelphi

SportsLights

By Ellsworth Boyd

Fine Stick Handlers

After their twin killing of Hofstra College and Adelphi, the Shore lacrosse squad was designated by one Long Island newspaper as having a polished club possessing fine stick handlers. Coach Charles Clark believes that Hofstra College has the potentialities of developing into a well-rounded group due to their high spirit and willing play. It seems that Adelphi employed rough tactics which the Sho team soon erased, then forcing the New Yorkers to play our style of lacrosse.

Ellison To Coach Netenon

Kenney Howard turned in a time of 10 seconds for the hundred last Saturday which is an indication that "The Jet" will do a little flying this season. Promising newcomers to the Sho thindland clan are George Eichelberger, halfmiller; Jim Schaffer, pole vaulter; and Bob Appleby, sprinter. "People like to throw objects," and Lee Cook isn't doing bad with that 16 lb. shot put.

Tom Ellision of Chetertown, who coached the W.C. netmen last year, has agreed to once again take the reins of the racketeers. Tom has been rated "one of the best" and this year's squad is expected to match his rating.

Spots In Sports

Kenney Sullivan, John Santilli, John Cox, Wes Edwards and Babe Johnson will don their diamond attire in May, playing for Millington of the Bi-State league — Ed Athey pitched the Day Students to a hardfought victory over G.I. Hall last Monday, raising the curtain of the 1951 intramural softball league — "The Bird Man" has been slaming a wicked tennis ball and may push someone for a starting berth — Pete Caruso, Mt. St. Mary's athletic director and coach of the M-D conference championship basketball team, was recently dismissed — The Mason-Dixon track championships show promise of being much closer this year than they have been in many previous title meets.

Athlete Of Week

Softball Loop Opens

In a series of weekly articles, The Elm will select one athlete who has contributed much to Washington College in the way of sports and all-around athletic ability. This week's honor goes to the "Bronx Kid", Kenney Sullivan.

For an athlete who did not participate in sports while in high school, Kenney has certainly highly developed himself here at Washington College as an outstanding basketball and baseball player. Graduating from Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx, N.Y., he has pitched the Shoremen to eight baseball victories and held a starting berth on the varsity cage squad during his first two years here at the Chetertown school. Sullivan finds it quite a disappointment that the school has dropped the diamond sport, however, he has decided to pitch for Millington on the Eastern Shore until school is over, and then play in his hometown. As for his most thrilling moment in basketball, the modest junior will never forget his field goal winning shot in 49' against Catholic U. In the fading seconds of the nip and tuck contest, guard Sullivan hit the nets as the buzzer sounded, placing the Shoremen on top by one marker.

Bachall fans may remember the Bronx lefty's most outstanding performance here at Killer Field last year when he pitched a calm 64 win over Johns Hopkins. Kenney also led victories over Western M.D. and Randolph-Macon, slaming a homer in the second game of the twin bill against the Yellow Jackets.

The 1951 intramural softball league began last Monday at the Day Students, Theta Chi and A.O.N.U. emerged victoriously.

Ed Athey pitched the Day Students to a 6-3 win over G.I. Hall as Frank Apicella and Athey clowned several hits to lead their team. The G.I. squad was able to get only four hits, though by Neil Tilghman, Cooper DeLoach, Jim Kreiger and Jim Bousack.

In what looked like a closely contested game in the first inning, Theta Chi came through to rout K.A. 19-1. Babe Johnson pitched the victory and added several drives to the conqueror's goal. K.A. committed many errors while failing to match the OX hitting.

A.O.N.U. led by pitcher Don Herndon by dubbed Foxwell, 15-2 as the latter failed to hit Heverly's rapid style. Employing three pitchers during the afternoon, the Foxwell nine could not withstand the Nu's hitting.

Following this is a reminder of the scheduled games for April. In case of postponement, coach, Apicella will designate another date.

BRUCE AND GARY WYCOFF — "TOPNOTCH NETMEN"

Cagers Seen As Stickmen

Lacrosse coach Pete Belfield of the University of Pennsylvania recently stated, "An accomplished basketball player is a potential lacrosse star." Many controversies have begun over this fact, however, the Mason and Black lacrosse men, Charles Clark and Clark definitely advocates this theory and cites many undisputable reasons for doing so.

Similarities Cited

Coach Clark believes that a great similarity lies in the pick-off which must be stationary when executed. It is the same in basketball; if the pick-off is not stationary a foul is usually called. Such accurate passes have broken up many defenses on the lacrosse field as they have on the basketball court. The court sport stresses rebound as does the team behind the lacrosse goal who picks up loose shots, enabling his team to retain their tie of elusive drive.

In defense often times a pick-off will fall into a smug, usually when there is an extra man on the opposing team. Many plays may also be set up on the field and completed in court fashion.

Abundant Ability

A cager is usually well coordinated and is often thoroughly skilled in the fundamentals of his sport. A lacrosse player must also possess these characteristics in order to further develop himself. Therefore, it is very easy to teach a former hardworker the groundwork of the Indian sport.

A smooth, fast forward often becomes a midfielder and a tall, rangy center makes a fine defenceman. All-arounding defense, many football players have been desirable candidates here. The gridiron sport also offers many advantages which may be utilized in lacrosse.

With a few basketball players, two or three football players, and the remainder of the stick wielders, it may be an easy task for a school to develop a topnotch lacrosse team.

All-Opponent Team Picked

Washington College's varsity basketball players unanimously selected three opposing opponents for their 1950-51 edition of their Mason-Dixon all-opponent team. The man drawing a first vote from each of the eleven Shoremen were Leroy Ishman of American U., Gene Janis, Mt. St. Mary's, and Art Press, Western M.D. College.

Rounding out the first five were Ed Delany of Loyola College with nine votes and Simon Margolis of Johns Hopkins U. with six. Coach Ed Athey's basketballers picked their outstanding opponents from schools who, during the season, held eight victories against one defeat over the Washington College quintet. The only victory over the five opposing team was at the expense of Western M.D. at Chetertown.

Ishman, voted the best all-around opponent, was instrumental in American University's double win over the Shoremen. He helped himself to 20 and 22 points in the two games and showed added finesse. He later led his team to the championship of the Mason-Dixon tournament, and was the Sho's men.

Cinderman Encounter Catholic U.

The Washington College track contingent travels to our nation's capital tomorrow afternoon, where Catholic University has spread the welcome mat inaugurating the 1951 Maroon and Black cluster campaign.

Pessimistically viewing the situation, coach Ed Athey, and Don Montero find it difficult to determine the true strength of the Sho's men. Although the Cardinals dropped their initial dual meet to the Quantico Marines last week, results have proven that the Redskins are a well-balanced unit.

Shoe Standouts

The Chetertown squad fails to possess strength in any particular event, as it seems each race or field activity is headed by only one man. The problem of depth seems to have hindered our track teams in the past as well as the present. The bright side of the picture presents Kenney Howard in the sprints and bounce jump and Jim Willey in the quarter mile. Seventeen other track aspirants comprise the most upping C.U.

Cook Leads Fieldmen

Talented Lee Cook, who participates in the shot put, discus throw, broad jump, pole vault and high jump is expected to gather quite a few points during the afternoon in these field events. George Plocharky, Bob McAlain and Steve Maurianni may also land the 16 lb. weight. Plocharky and Jack Fredericks will handle the discus, along with Cook. Jim Schaffer has shown promise pole vaulting, backed by Bob Appleby. The high jump candidates include Elsworth Boyd and Rod Ware with Cook a questionable entry in this event.

Spartan Week

Supporting Kenney in the sprints are "Soft Shoes" Byham, Juan Hernandez, Pete Amirata and Bob Appleby. The hurdle undertaking falls to Ellis Boyd and the middle distances to middle quater mile entries include George Eichelberger and Fred LaWall. Plocharky, Byham and Schaffer, while the experienced two mile is Tom Brennan, who also handles the mile run. Jack McCullough and Bill Landan have shared points in these two distances also. Nevertheless, it is impossible for three men to score a sufficient total of points while other schools are entering five and six distance candidates. We extend to the team our best wishes and good luck as it embarks tomorrow for D.C. and an undoubted outcome.

Joined on the all-tournament team, Simon, 8 foot 1 inch center of the conference winning Mt. team from the win over Washington College. Ed Doherty chipped in 34 points while playing a terrific floor game for the Greyhounds in the two contests in which Loyola defeated Ed Athey's team.

"Difficulties" Art Press, Western Maryland's dominant playmaker and point collector, scored 20 points in their victory over the local college. He fouled out early in the second half and was badly injured by his team in the game played at Chetertown. Simon, Margolis another playmaker and a fine defensive player, led Johns Hopkins to an easy 77-66 victory over the Sho's men.

Trample N. Y. Stickmen, 10-2, 17-4

By Rod Ware

Washington College's lacrosse team returned last week end from Long Island, N.Y., where they amassed victories over the colleges of Hofstra (10-2) and Adelphi (17-4).

In Friday's contest with Hofstra, Rip Wood opened the scoring on a pass from Graham Menzies. After Buddy Corbett of Hofstra missed a 50 foot shot at an open goal, Rip bounced another into the net. Eddie Leonard set Wayne Milner up for a goal in the first quarter ended: W.C. 3, Hofstra 0.

As the second stanza opened, Milner scored his second, followed by Rip with his third. With a 5-0 advantage, Coach Charles Clark substituted Wancher, Durrey, Lipitz, Cadden, McCurdy, Ellis, Cadden, and Dyer into the lineup. Dick Corbett quickly scored from the side and the score stood 6-0 at half-time.

Midway in the third quarter, Menzies converted a loose ball into a tally, and added another moments later on a pass from Larry Leonard. After making difficult saves, Eddie Leonard scored seven attempts, goalie Collins, allowed the red head to slip one past him for his fourth of the game.

Both Lipitz made the final Washington goal, a solo run through the Hofstra defense. Corbett and Ed Brennan came through with tallies to stave off a shut-out seconds before the final gun, the final score, W.C. 10 and Hofstra 2.

Saturday afternoon, the local stickmen had arrived at Garden City to meet the Adelphiites.

Washington wasted no time in opening the scoring as Larry Leonard fired one into the net when just 20 seconds of the game had elapsed. With less than a minute having passed, Eddie Leonard switched one and the score stood 2-0. The Shoremen stretched their first period lead to 7-0 on goals by Wood (2), Dyer, Wescoat, John Graham and Graham Menzies.

Although the Sho's men controlled the ball most of the second frame, the scoring was about even. After Menzies scored for the second time, Chuck Wancher ripped the net on a solo drive, leveling the Adelphi deficit.

Harry McDonald scored the tie for the losers as he scooped a loose ball into the net, making the half-time score read W.C. 9 and Adelphi 1. Andy Livinoff opened the third period with a fine shot from the side. Shortly after, Bruce Ruck and Wood countered with markers. After taking the face off, Duke Cox passed to Larry Leonard who quickly converted it into a tally. Moments later, Rip scored again on a similar play. Wood rang up his fourth tally of the afternoon as the gun sounded.

After Bill Russell made a fine save in the goal, Rip scored on a fine shot while being covered by two men. Livinoff scored again, whereas Ruck will be gunning for their third straight win.

Wancher, Bud Fanning wound up the afternoon's excitement with a 30 foot shot from the center, making the score W.C. 17, Adelphi 4.

Board Endorses Statement

By unanimous action the Board of Visitors and Trustees last Saturday endorsed the statement of principles on academic freedom formulated by the American Association of University Professors and the Association of American Colleges. The statement on academic freedom is as follows:

(a) The teacher is entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of results, subject to the adequate performance of his other academic duties but research for pecuniary return should be based upon an understanding with the authorities of the institution.

(b) The teacher is entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing his subject, but he should be careful not to introduce material which has no relation to his subject. Limitations of academic freedom because of religious or other aims of the institution should be clearly stated in writing at the time of the appointment.

(c) The college or university teacher is a citizen, a member of a learned profession, and an officer of an educational institution. When he speaks or writes as a citizen he should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but his special position in the community imposes special obligations. As a man of learning and an educational officer, he should remember that the public may judge his profession and his institution by his utterances. Hence he should at all times be accurate, should exercise appropriate restraint, should show respect for the opinions of others, and should make every effort to indicate that he is not an institutional spokesman.

Jackson Elected Canterbury Head

New officers for next year were selected during the meeting of the Canterbury Club last Tuesday evening. Bob Jackson has been elected President, replacing Lee Smith. The new President, in addition to his work within the organization, is Vice-President of Kappa Alpha fraternity and a member of the baroque team. Russell Gale, a transfer from Canterbury College, was voted to the position of Vice-President. The two secretarial positions have been contested only once before, and Dorothy Willis won this position. The office of Treasurer has been assumed by Bill Murray. The president will appoint a chairman of the publicity committee. The list of retiring officers includes: President, Lee Smith; Vice-President, Clady Rooney; Recording Secretary, Mable Metcalf; Corresponding Secretary, Grace Hele, and Treasurer, Bob Elder.

ODK Delegates In St. Louis

Two delegates of Alpha Psi circle of Omicron Delta Kappa at Washington College, Fred Nixon and Glen Gray, left school on Wednesday to attend the seventeenth biennial National Convention of the Omicron Delta Kappa at St. Louis, Missouri from April 12 to April 15, 1951.

Convention headquarters during the three day period is the Chase Hotel. The chapter at Washington University is the host for this year's meeting. The national convention is the general legislative body of the society formed by the national officers and one official voting delegate or alternate from each collegiate and semi-collegiate. A series of banquets, luncheons, parties, and conference sessions have been planned to entertain the delegates during the meeting time. Dr. Marion Ten Moor, National President of Omicron Delta Kappa, presides over the general festivities, with a series of other noted speakers on the program. Delegates to the convention will have an opportunity to discuss ideas and experiences, handle official business and meet representatives from other chapters in the country.

The chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa at Washington College was chartered in 1937. Membership to the national honorary organization is open to men who have distinguished themselves as campus leaders in various phases of student activity.

In 1932, 1,799,800 Americans were injured in traffic accidents.

Debate Team Sinks Navy

The Washington College Forensic Society Debating Team was successful in adding the Naval Academy Squad to its list of defeated opponents. The debate took place at the Academy last Friday afternoon.

The subject of this year's national college debate is the topic: "Resolved, That Non-Communist Nations Should Form a New World Organization." The team is composed of Bill Treuth and Charles Whitist, who represented the affirmative. Paul Miller and Fred Nixon represented the negative side. Don Healy, alternate on the team, also made the trip to Annapolis.

The affirmative argument was won by virtue of the Washington College rebuttal, it was stated. The negative succeeded in turning the tide by drawing the attention of the judge to a flaw in the affirmative's argument. One judge decided each debate.

The team enjoyed the hospitality of the Academy as dinner guests at the Academy's Banquet Hall. This was the first time that any member of this year's team has debated at the Academy. Washington College teams have visited the Academy in previous years, however.

On a earlier tour among the colleges of Pennsylvania, the Washington College team was successful in capturing three out of four decided debates.

Out-of-State Scholarships Authorized By Board

Ten tuition scholarships, available to non-Maryland students, were established by the Board of Visitors and Governors at its April meeting. Four of the new scholarships will be available for 1951-1952, three for 1952-1953, and three for 1953-1954.

The scholarship awards will be based on the scholastic record of the applicant, the recommendation of his guidance counselor, on letters of recommendation from citizens of his home town, and a personal interview. The scholarships will be good for four years provided the recipient maintains a "B" average.

Inter-Fraternity Dance Planned

The inter-fraternity dance, sponsored each year as a Spring festivity, will be held on April 28, 1951 at the Armory from 9:00 until 1:30.

Hal Green and his orchestra have been engaged by the inter-fraternity council to play for the dance. In accordance with the annual custom, each fraternity will submit one song to be played during the evening. Only members of the individual fraternity will dance to the song which they have selected.

The decorations will carry out a Spring theme, and all art work will be done by members of the Art Club. Tom Lowe of Kappa Alpha, is in charge of securing the tables and chairs for the dance.

To cover the expenses for the occasion, each fraternity is assessed a proportionate fee. All financial and other arrangements are being made by the inter-fraternity council, headed by President Bill Brogan of Lambda Chi

25 Candidates File For Election Races

Faculty Stages Variety Show

Members of the faculty and administration joined last Wednesday evening in a Variety Show for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund presented before a capacity crowd in William Smith Hall. Six different selections were performed during the evening.

The highlight of the show was a reversal of student-faculty relations in which the faculty imitated their prize students in a typical classroom scene at Washington College. The "students" consisted of Mr. Padgett, Mr. Krieger, Dr. Gordon, Dr. Knight, Mrs. Simpers, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Meigs and Mr. Bieby. The role of the professor was taken by Dr. Nevelin. After a musical interlude by Dorothy Hopkins and Mr. Henry portraying Joe Stafford and Tony Martin, the classroom scene was recreated with a faculty interpretation of how a class should be conducted.

Something different in the way of musical groups on campus, a barber shop quartet, comprised of Dr. Gibson, Mr. Barrett, Mr. Henry, and Mr. Foster, appeared on the program dressed in old-fashioned clothes to sing "In the Evening by the Moonlight," "Clementine," and "Beverly Hills for Two." Illustrating the last number, Dr. and Mrs. Rauhly were presented riding a tandem bicycle. The quartet was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Gibson.

Two other selections having Washington College as their theme were a musical number entitled "Middle Hall at Eight" and a skit in Norwegian dialect. In the former act, Dorothy Hopkins and Mrs. Walbert portrayed two college girls in a dormitory waiting for their dates to arrive. In the latter, Mrs. Ogrunde and Mrs. Larson related to Mr. Brinkner as Uncle Chris the experiences she had while visiting her daughter at Washington College.

Duke Caw served as Master of Ceremonies for the Variety Show. Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Todd afforded entertainment between acts as two artists. Lighting for the performance was under the direction of the members of the Washington Players. Mr. Brinkner and Mrs. Todd handled the musical arrangements, and the committee for the World Student Service Fund was in charge of ticket sales and other phases of production.

In an interview after the performance Elaine Gustafson, chairman of the committee for the W.S.S.S.F., expressed the opinion that the show was a complete success. On behalf of the student body, she extended thanks to all of the faculty members and wives who participated in the program.

APTITUDE TEST MAY 26

The first of three aptitude tests to determine college eligibility will be given on May 26. Results of the tests are not conclusive, however, as the final status of all students will be determined by their local draft boards.

SUMMER SCHOOL PRE-REGISTRATION

Pre-registration for the 1951 Summer Session at Washington College will be held from Monday, April 23 through Saturday, April 27 in the Registrar's office. All persons planning to attend are urged to apply for pre-registration during that week. No financial deposit is required at this time.

AOPi Installs New Officers

New officers for next year for Sigma Tau chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi were installed during the meeting on Monday evening. Sandy Reeder, who has been acting president since Kay Fowler's graduation in February, assumes the president's position.

In addition to sorority activities, Sandy is secretary of the Women's Student Government Association. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Omega, the Elm staff, and the committee for the World Student Service Fund.

The new vice-president is Lyn White, who replaces Dian Latsch, a June graduate. The two secretarial positions are held by Eleanor Dornand as recording secretary and Pat Bowes as corresponding secretary. Both of these positions have also been held since February, replacing Pauline Koonjian and Barbara Brewster. Shirley Hand is the new treasurer, elected to replace Sandy Reeder.

Additional sorority officers include Margaret Wilding as rush chairman, Gaby Maunier as historian and reporter in "To Dragma, John Wheeler as door keeper, Cynthia Jones as a Panhellenic delegate, Mary Lee Lin as scholarship officer, and Laylie Urig as social service chairman. The two alumnae advisors are Adelaide Clark and Virginia Elsom.

Plans For Summer School Announced

Plans for the 1951 summer school session were announced this week in a special bulletin issued by the College, and now available to all students in the Registrar's Office.

In conjunction with this announcement was the notice of pre-registration. Mr. Ervin Foster, Registrar, stated that all students planning to enroll here for summer school may accomplish this pre-registration requirement in his office from Monday, April 23 through Saturday, April 27. He also urged those students who have not as yet made a definite decision concerning summer school to register at the same time. No deposit is required now. Final registration may be attempted to at any time before June 15, though students in the current session here are expected to register by May 15, according to the catalog bulletin.

Purposes Cited

The Washington College summer session is designed for three purposes: 1. To provide immediate entrance into college work for students graduating from high school in the spring of 1951, so as to accelerate from the point of view.

NOTICE

THERE WILL BE A GENERAL MEETING OF THE ENTIRE STUDENT BODY IN BILL SMITH HALL ON TUESDAY, APRIL 24, AT 1:15 A.M. DANIEL Z. GIBSON, President

W. C. Players Progress On Final Production

The Washington Players are advancing rapidly on their coming production of "The Man Who Came To Dinner" according to Mrs. Winifred Ogrunde, advisor to the group. This presentation, which will take place Thursday and Friday, May 3 and 4, marks up the thirty-second season in the theatrical group on the hill.

Tickets are being sold under the direction of Ralph Collingsworth and Eleanor Dornand and are presently on sale in the book store. They may also be obtained from several members of the cast or at the box-office the night of the play.

"Big plans are being made for the set," says Al Vinyard, new stage manager, recently appointed at a Player's meeting. "This one will be a trick in enlarging the stage to take care of the many musical numbers associated with Sheridan Whitehead's equally unusual personality."

The cast for the play, one of the largest in Player history, has been rehearsing under the direction of Phyllis Starr for the past several weeks. Their costumes and make-up for the play will be handled by Eleanor Dornand and Dottie Willis.

Mrs. E. Winifred Ogrunde be self evident. That is Messrs. Hart and Kaufman have been unanimously fortunate in their choice of a hero. The role of Sheridan Whitehead, who Woolcott will be played by Tom Lowe, K. A. president and newcomer to the dramatic field at Washington College. Assuming the duties as Maggie O'Connell, the equally sprightly secretary, will be El Doyden.

Reviews say about Woolcott also Sheridan Whitehead "If Sheridan Whitehead sounds and behaves surprisingly like Dr. Woolcott, this in itself is a guarantee of excellent and entertaining antics. For, as everyone must know who can either turn a dial or read the language, the good doctor is one of the most colorful personalities of the day. In any of his roles, as a scientist, as a humorist, as a satirist, or as an older, less adroit or humorous raconteur, as drama critic or book trumpeter, as charity leader or private destroyer, as sentimentalist or 'old man' he is a figure not in one million, but in one hundred and fifty-million."

Twenty-five Submit Petitions Three Unopposed For Office

The names of twenty-five nominees were submitted to the Dean of Men by last Wednesday as candidates for the twelve offices to be filled by class elections next Wednesday. Nine of the offices are contested by two or more candidates while three persons will be elected by the first vote cast in their name. Two petitions nominating Kenny Howard and Doug Fox to President and Vice-President respectively, of the Junior Class, failed to meet the 12:00 noon deadline and were ruled ineligible.

The names of the candidates and their respective candidacies are listed alphabetically:

Trader To Edit Pegasus

The appointment of Jim Traylor as editor of the 1952 Pegasus was announced this week by the Board of Publications. Traylor, a Junior, served in a variety of jobs while a member of the Pegasus staff this Spring. The 1951 Pegasus was edited by Larry Wescott and is now at the printers.

The Board also announced the appointment of Bob Early as Business Manager of the ELM for the forthcoming year. Early, also a Junior, has been circulation manager of the campus weekly since last Spring.

On April 20th the names of those persons selected for other posts on the various publications will be announced. The ELM is currently following its "new editor" policy of providing editorial candidates with an opportunity to edit one issue of the ELM. Jane Bradley of the news staff edited the issue of April 13; Fred Nixon is expected to edit the issue of April 27.

Unforeseen complications developed to prevent the scheduled night opening of the Snack Bar under ODK auspices last Monday, according to the group.

The group had made arrangements to have an ODK student manager present for night supervision in work with two students behind the counter. ODK was unable to get that approval for their plans in time to open Monday as Mr. Dinneshoff, Treasurer of the College, was out of town on a business trip.

A further complication developed when Mrs. Seibert, Snack Bar Manager, became ill. It is not known when she will return to work, but until she does, the Snack Bar will continue to operate only on a daytime schedule.

Leonard said that the group hopes to start the night operation next Monday, April 23, but said that this is still a tentative date.

Greek letters nominate dominate the field numerically as only two candidates, Jim Hachel as President of the Senior Class, and Harvey Left, as President of the Junior Class, are the only non-affiliated candidates.

Competition is expected to be very stiff for the office of President of the Senior Class, the highest honor and biggest job at stake. Three candidates are in the race, including in addition to independent Jim Hachel, Bob Jackson of KA and Nick Scallion, Theta Chi basketball star.

The Vice-presidency of the Senior Class attracted two candidates, KA Mel Littleton and Theta Chi Edgar Stephenson. The Offices of Treasurer and Secretary will automatically go to unopposed candidates Jim Traylor and Manning Dyer.

Competition is also expected in the race for President of the Junior Class as three candidates have tossed their hats in the political ring. Harvey Left, Wayne Miller and Bill Treach were thought to have considerable backing in their race for the post.

Larry Weckstein and John Minnich oppose each other in the battle for the Sophomore Presidency. Of surprise to many was the large number of candidates for Sophomore offices; ten persons are in the race for the available jobs.

A pre-election rally will be held in Bill Smith Hall on Tuesday night, April 24. Wednesday, April 25, is election day, and voting polls will be open in the Snack Bar from 8:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M.

A pre-election rally will be held Tuesday night in Bill Smith Auditorium, starting at 6:30 P.M., for the purpose of giving the presidential and other candidates for the class offices an opportunity to make a last appeal to the students-voters. The floor will be open for discussion throughout the rally.

Publication Keys Awarded This Week

Publication keys were awarded this week to the editors and business managers of the three campus publications. The keys, an annual award presented by the Board of Publications, were given to the following persons: Ed Ryle and Frank Brinkner, editor and business manager of The Elm, respectively; Larry Wescott and Larry Leonard, editor and business manager of The Pegasus, respectively; and Don Duckworth, editor of The Handbook.

HE GETS THINGS DONE

After a long debate with himself, the Editor-in-Chief of the ELM has decided to use the editorial space to publicly back one of the candidates for president of next year's Senior Class. This candidate is Jim Habel.

Jim has stated that if he is elected President of next year's Senior Class there will be no profit whatsoever made on the distribution of caps and gowns to the graduates. He feels that the honor of being President of the class is enough. Prior to this year, it was said that the distribution of caps and gowns to seniors was a lucrative racket for those in charge. This year's Senior Class President, Sandy Jones, took a step forward by proposing in Constitutional form that a maximum of $1.00 per student be charged. (This was passed by a majority of this year's Senior Class.) Mr. Habel's proposal is the ultimate.

Another factor in Jim Habel's favor is that he owes no allegiance to any political group on campus. Most of us realize that political machines are a necessary evil, but it is my belief that Habel will think of his duty to his classmates first and not be sidetracked by any "political" maneuvering.

Still another thing in Habel's favor is his record in campus extra-curricular activities. He has earned the reputation of one who gets things done.

So remember when you go to the polls Wednesday, cast your vote for JIM HABEL and rest assured that he will have voted for the best man. He gets things done.

the beginning the usual four-credit curriculum.

2. To enable students from the regular session, either at Washington College or elsewhere, to advance materially the date of their graduation before entrance into national or industrial service or advanced professional schools.

3. To enable teachers in service in the public schools to secure necessary courses and credits toward the completion of the college degree or to meet certification requirements.

Classes will be held between 8:00 A.M. and 12:30 P.M. five days in the week, Monday through Friday. No classes during the summer hours of credit, the periods will be ninety minutes in length; for two hours credit, fifty minutes. A fall schedule, normally, is six semester hours or two courses, though some exceptions will be made.

Fees announced in the Bulletin were as follows:
Registration $5.00
Tuition $12.00 per semester hour.
Room $25.00 for the session.
Board $60.00 for the session.

N.B. Classes in painting are private. If conducted by the Chestertown Wood at a fee of $2.00 a two-hour lesson.

Almost three courses, covering a variety of fields, were offered in the Bulletin, and are listed below. Except for courses whose numbers are preceded by (N), all courses offered are the same as those given in the regular session of the College. Entries describing a course may be found in the regular catalog.

Should there be a demand for courses announced in the regular catalog but not listed here, provision will be made to offer them if a sufficient number of students apply during preliminary registration next week.

With The GREEKS

Lambda Chi

Congratulations are in order for the following men who were initiated Monday and Tuesday night: Herb Turk Schoch, Jimmie Frank Dickey, Bob Stahl, John Mimich, Howard Davis and Mr. Albrecht.

The brothers of Lambda Chi are planning a supper party at the Red Hall Yacht and Country Club April 28, the day of the Inter-Fraternity Dinner. Promises to be a good week end.

Alpha Chi

We gals of Beta Pi defied the old Friday 11th superstition and held our initiation banquet at the Granary on that date. Sounds true, but a good time was had by all. During the festivities, outgoing president Ruth Rose was presented with a token of our thanks for all the things she's done for us in the past year.

Congratulations and best wishes to new president Phil Seitz and all the new officers who will work with her next year. Best of luck to Phil also on the direction of the forthcoming play "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Thanks to Doris Schellinger who stepped up on an amazing list of merits to our "best pledge" award, which was presented to her by our new presy at meeting on Monday night.

A hearty welcome to our new initiates: Betty Rooser, Peg Featherby, Janice Palmer, Doris Schellinger, Anne Simmonds and Dot Willis. Seems it's the first time in history that Beta Pi has initiated all girls.

ADP

Monday night new officers were installed. They are: Sandy Reeder, President; Len Hamilton Vice, Vice President; Patsy Brown, Corresponding Secretary; Elsie Dornand, Recording Secretary; Shirley Hart, Treasurer, and Margie Winding, Rush Chairman.

Congratulations to Cynthia, Mary Lee, Gaby, Sayke, Juan and Margie who were initiated on April 8th. Thanks to Mackay and "Mac" for their down-to-earth and honest party of last week.

ADN

All the Nus have been having a busy time with an initiation, an election, and a banquet. The new members, and are to be congratulated. Three new men were also pledged: Mike Ross, Bruce Hornstein, and Joe Caputo.

Electives were held with these results: Vice President: Bill Trent, Treasurer: Bill Hestel, Secretary: Sherry Miller, Treasurer: Chuck White, corresponding secretary: Al Vinyard, sergeant at arms: Jim Mangus, pledge-master, and Mr. Brubaker, chaplain.

A laqueus was held to honor the new members and officers, and was deemed a roaring success. Congratulations are due the retiring officers who have guided the fraternity through the year.

Herb Brown didn't waste much time—the day after he received his pin a little cup used at Delaware had in, Perry Chambers, and Elaine Young are engaged, and last Sunday Murray Wolman took the fatal step.

K.A.

Everyone has heard the rumor that a few of the K.A.'s are contemplating an "shekies" or not they should tie that wedding knot. We K.A.'s are very pretty, you of "Blimp" Elliot, Bob Herman, Frank Byham, Filmore Dryden and Kenney Wever but what about Bill Reed, Gary Wylode, George Eichelberger, and "Goon" ? ? ? ?

(They're still contemplating). Best of luck and our deepest congratulations are extended by the Beta Sigma chapter of Kappa Alpha to a swell couple who have recently been engaged—Pat Bruchl and Fil Dryden.

ZTA

Congratulations to new initiates, Pat Bruchl and Joan Hellner. (And to have you about). Big plans are under way for some of our gals to make the trek to Duke this week end, should be great if everything goes off as per schedule.

These Are Your Frosh

By MARGE GLOSE

ANNE SIMMONS, 5' 5", short brown hair, green eyes. This potential of dynamite was born in Boston and attended the Knox School in Cooperstown, New York from which she graduated in 1956. During the summer she was camp counselor at Hawley Trail Camp and memories of a summer romance send her thoughts to the D.K.E's.

On campus, Anne is a member of the Washington Players, Canterbury Club, and the ASO society of which she is Social Chairman and Editor of the Lyre. She spends a lot of her time working for the Players, and has been a past member of Double Door, The Devil and Daniel Webster, and has worked on the make-up committee. She also has a part in the Players' forthcoming production of The Man Who Came to Dinner.

PAT BRUEHL, 5' 5", brown hair, blue eyes. Her high school is Baltimore and she was graduated from Notre Dame Prep School last year. Soon after she became a freshman at W.C., she was chosen as Alice in Wonderland. She is a member of Class Mod Hatters and shortly afterward, she was pinned to K.A. Filmore Dryden whose engagement ring she is now wearing.

Pat is a member of the Canterbury Club, well as the varsity hockey team, and she enjoys playing basketball and badminton. She spends many of her week ends in Salisbury and it is agreed that she is the only girl who ever was gone to be her brother and returned with an engagement ring. She loves stadium seats and wants one for a wedding present. Take a hint, Filmore.

DONNA WOOD, 5' 9 1/2", brown hair and brown eyes. She was born in Arlington, Mass., received her high school diploma in 1991, and was a member of the Washington Players and was an excellent prompter for this year's first production, Double Door. She shows a spark of genius for appreciation of finer arts and she does quite well in playing badminton.

Wood is a damn Yankee and proud of it, and she claims she has suspicions that she is an introvert. However, the girls on the third floor—Reid don't believe a word of it, as her room is always crowded by her friends. One of the third floor Cigarette Smoking Club and people who want their backs rubbed. (Donna is quite good at rubbing backs since she worked a short time in a New York hospital before coming to W.C.) Woodie expects to attain a well-rounded education and hopes to become an X-Ray technician in the future.

What's New?

Known in better circles as "Who's a Fooler" ("What is it?") Kell has become quite a jazz lover—he's even bought a new vic—where is it?

Plans for going to Duke this week end are really taking a beating. Oh well, maybe some of the Blue Devils will cheer for us.

The "machine" almost broke down this past week, but the "Maurer Engine" has returned from St. Louis and the wheels are turning smoothly again. That just goes to show you what will happen if you trust incompetent appliances.

Janie, why did you say no—he's not that black-hearted.

Congratulations to the ZTA, Lambda Chi, and AONU initiates.

Smiley, you better quit—a three time Loser and now there's no more hope. Too bad, but "IY" loves you, Tennis anyone?

Orchids to Mr. Brubaker for his direction for the "Faculty Variety Show." Very good.

The CIA is now willing to chance for a dinner for two at Bell's with movies afterward. Ten cents each for a quarter. Not a bad bargain.

"Dn" and "AJ" seem to be leaning to the left side a little—could it be those rings?

O.K. "Cousin," you win—or you don't?

ADDRESS ROTARY

Mr. Edward Padgett, Assistant Professor of History and Political Science, will address a meeting of the Chestertown Rotary Club, Monday night, April 23. He will speak on the topic "Responsibilities of Power," a discussion of the position of the United States in the modern world.

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd

Mason-Dixon Preview

Now that the Maryland spring sports' program is progressing at a rapid pace, we might take a survey of what a few of the other Mason-Dixon Conference schools possess in the line of baseball, lacrosse, track, golf, and tennis talent.

Loyola College, defending league baseball Champions, opened the '50 campaign by blanking American Un., 10-0 behind the top-notch pitching of Danny Donohue. Western Md. fashioned a 10-1 beating over Mt. St. Mary's as Jerry Phipps limited the Mounts to 3 hits while collecting the same number for himself at the plate. Towson Teachers made it two straight diamond victories of the new season as it edged American U., 6 to 3 behind the 5th inning homer of basketball star, Bucky Kimmitt.

Loyola Balto. U.

Attackman Frank Kimmel tallied four goals and assisted in four others as the Greyhound stickmen defeated the U. of Baltimore, 13 to 8. Former Shoreman, Bill Hartje held a first string berth for the Bees' defense while Joe McFadden and Bob Beasley scored seven of the losers' eight goals. Western Md. was decisively trounced, 17-0 by Penn State when in turn were outmaneuvered by Navy, 10-1.

Loyola College not only achieved a baseball victory, but their trackmen captured a triangular affair against American Un. and Gaillardet, as Greyhound speedster, Joe Paszek, was accidently spiked. He severed his Achilles tendon which unfortunately forces him out of this year's thirteenth picture. Meanwhile, Johns Hopkins was thoroughly conquered, 87-39 by a powerful Haverford cinder squad of the Middle-Atlantic Conference.

On The Home Front

Western Md. won four of six matches to pick up its second straight golf victory of the season defeating Dickinson, 6 to 2, while the Loyola College tennis team recorded a 9 to 0 net win over American Un. This marked their second success of the 1951 M-D tennis schedule.

The Washington College spring program seems to be progressing quite successfully as the lacrosse team embarks on their southern tour with four straight triumphs under their wing. Meanwhile, the track club encounters the B.O.C. at home tomorrow, after their recent victory over Pennsylvania Military Academy. Although the net winners were rained out before their Catholic U. match, they inaugurated their season with a triumph over Towson Teachers. We hope these many accomplishments are indicative of the future athletic achievements of the Sho' teams this spring.

Delicate Workmanship

A recent article appearing in the magazine section of The Sunday Sun portrayed the detailed precision-like work which is put into the production of a lacrosse stick. The greater part of the world's supply is made by Indians living in the St. Lawrence River where this industry has been tabbed as one of the oldest on the continent of North America.

A full year is necessary to transform a hickory log into a lacrosse stick in which drying, splitting, gouging, steaming, bending, setting, sanding, boring and stringing are included in the necessary operations. Each stick must be bent by hand, as machinery often splits and snaps them in half. After the sticks have been shaped and smoothed, the hubs are bored for the lacing and the Indian women then proceed in lacing them which is done in delicate complex patterns. Materials used here include cowhide, linen thread and a special type of gut made from the bowels of the muskrat.

It is a well known fact that no two lacrosse sticks are the same and no two women will string them the same. Once completed, these intricate works of art are shipped to a Baltimore sporting goods house and from there are distributed in quantities of 10,000 a year throughout the U.S. With the possible exception of the rugweaving industry, there is no other full-scale industry to compare with anywhere in the modern world. Therefore, the next time you pick up a lacrosse stick, look at it carefully — there is a lot more to that piece of wood and gut than you can ever imagine.

Pick-up Team Loses, 2-1

Washington College's baseball aspirants, without a collegiate sport, played a team of Philadelphia Athletic league league rookies at Centerville on Wednesday, April 11. The future professional, edged the Collegium 2-1 on a two run homer by the giant first baseman through the offerings of Kenny Sullivan, in the fourth inning.

Centerville was the scene of the Athletic's rookie spring training camp. Forty-two young ball players from all over the Eastern section of the country were selected and sent through a rugged eleven day workout. The survivors of the training will be sent to Class C and D ball clubs of the Athletic's minor league farm system.

Playing for the college nine were: Wes Edwards, catcher; Bob Johnson, first base; John Cox, second base; Doug Tilly, shortstop; John Santilli, third base; Joe Jorgans, left field; Buddy Brower, center field; Gene Handberry, right; and Kenny Sullivan and Jim Krieger, pitchers. Sullivan pitched five innings, giving up two runs, four hits, one walk, and striking out three. Krieger finished the game and allowed only three hits, two bases on balls, while striking out two.

Santilli closed two singles to lead the school boys at bat, while Handberry, Cox, Johnson and Ingalls also contributed base hits.

Thinclads Bow To C.U.

Although the W.E. cinderkickers scored eight first places, their lack of depth proved fatal, as Catholic University scored a 71 to 51 dual meet victory over the Shoremen last Saturday in the Cardinal stadium.

Kenny Howard lived up to expectations by he raked up 22 points, capturing first in the 100 and 200 yd. dashes, the low hurdles and the broad jump, while tying with Lee Cook for second place in the high jump. "The Jet's" unbelievable feat was only matched once in the history of the 30 markers when Cobby Young scored 30 markers in 1935.

Twilley Captures 440

Captain Jim Twilley ripped off an excellent time of 51.7 seconds as he and out Sam Selek in the quarter-mile run. Jim then placed third in the half-mile and anchored third in mile relay team. Jim Fields of C.U. displayed unexpected, yet remarkable running ability as he dominated the mile and 800 yard runs in the times of 4 minutes 42 seconds and 2 minutes 3 seconds respectively.

Elli Boyd skinned the 120 yd. high hurdles in 17 seconds to gain top honors and placed third in the 220 yd. low hurdles. Tom Berens and Bill Schmidt of C.U. across the finish line for second place honors in the 2 mile run, while placing third in the painstaking one mile grind.

Goal Dual Winner

Lee Cook, participating in five field events, walked off with two victories, one second and one third place, as he chalked up 13 points to the Maroon and Black cause. Lee threw the 16 lb. shot, 37.17" and the discus, 112'9" for his finest performances of the day. He followed this with a second place tie in the high jump and a third place tie in the running broad jump.

Russ Johnson, Redbird Mason-Dixon high jump champion, leaped 6 feet which easily scored a first in the high jump and then bounded 11 feet for another triumph in the pole vault.

The cloudy afternoon was terminated as the home team ran a 5 minute 35 second one mile relay to conclude the dual meet victoriously. The Shore relay squad, composed of George Eichelberger, Jim Schaffer, Howard and Twilley was by no means inert winning this finale event, as the "Capital City" team overwhelmingly surmounted the visitors' final threat.

Athlete Of Week

"The Connecticut Yankee" as many of his friends have dubbed him, is a suitable nickname for John Santilli, football and baseball standout for the Maroon and Black. This 180 lb., 5 foot husky hails from Waterbury, Connecticut, and accounts for half of his nickname. The other half comes from the fact that John is a New York Yankee rooter "all the way", and strict, by a Joe DiMaggio fan. He is often found defending his favorite diamond team in hotly contested disputes with his roommate, "Swish" Senelle.

The very modest sophomore began his athletic career at Wilby High School in his home town, where he was a three letter athlete participating in football, basketball, and basketball. John's record on the Shore is quite commendable as he has played two seasons at end on the gridiron and last year played the "Hot Corner" for Agnew's Aggers nine, and is now holding that position for Millington of the Bi-State League.

An absolute baseball addict, John experienced his most thrilling moment at Randolph-Macon last year when he closed the home boys to clinch a Sho' victory over the Yellowjackets. He held a batting average over .400 last season, and was the underdog. "It was raining and very muddy" described John. But that was one game that I really enjoyed playing."

Baltimore For Revenge Tomorrow

When the Baltimore Olympic Track and Field Club invades Chestertown tomorrow afternoon, they undoubtedly will be out to avenge their 78 to 38 defeat by the Sho' men last season.

The coach, manager, trainer and participant of the B.O.C., Bill Jimenez, has added considerable strength to his '50 squad. His newest addition to the team is Bert-footed Merwin (Tex) Carter, a schoolboy sensation from San Antonio, Texas. Hailed as one of the "brightest prospects on the local track and field horizon," Carter excels in record-breaking performances in the high and low hurdle events. In addition to this, "Tex" is a 12 foot pole vaulter and a 6 foot high jumper.

Flaming Distance Ace

Frank Flaging, runner-up to Hiroto Dryden in the 1951 Del-Mar Cross-Country Championships, heads the mile and two mile entries in tomorrow's dual meet. Flaging is backed by diminutive George Brown, former Mason-Dixon Cross-Country champion and ex-Loyola distance star. Not to be forgotten is Lee Curry, Johns Hopkins graduate who has just arrived in the U. S. after visiting his home in England.

Another Loyola alumnus running with the Baltimore Club is Tom Maxwell, runner-up to Abe Mendelsohn in the M-D high and low hurdles races last year at Catholic University.

Grating the high jump along with Carter, is Jerry Doyle, ex-South Atlantic Champ who gracefully tops the 6 foot mark displaying little effort.

50' Record

As we glance into the past 1950 track campaign, many fans will remember the cinder kicking Shu'nan Ray Brandenberg and Mickey Woodard. These former Maroon and Black athletes will be clad in B.O.C. toms come Saturday running the middle distance and sprint events as they did on the Washington College championship season of 19 '50.

Dashman Kenney Howard may be dashed in the hounded by Stanley Becker of Syracuse University who is holder of the I.C.A.A. 60 yard dash title.

It looks as if the Baltimore Club is out for revenge tomorrow, but track fans can be sure of one thing — "come hell or high water" the Shore men will give each B.O.C. thimble, "a race to the finish."

Net Team Is Ready

Last Saturday the Shore tennis team journeyed to Wilmington for their trials prior to their first match of the 1951 season. The new courts are now in top shape and the veterans are moving into action. The match was scheduled with Catholic University last Monday was postponed to the 25th of this month due to the muddy conditions which prevailed last week.

The number one spot went up with Wyoff with Jack Smith and Al Zaklosky following in second and third positions. The remaining order of the trials are: Bill Brandt, Gary Wyoff, Bill Murray and Tony Tondan. The doubles have been set up with Gary and Smitty in the No. 1 set and Murray and Zaklosky in the No. 2.

Other than their Mason-Dixon matches, the netmen have been trying to arrange matches with West Chester, Wilkeson 5 Teachers and American University, who has not been placed in the M-D schedule.

John school defeated Drexel last season 15-12, due to the fact the Shore men were the underdogs. "It was raining and very muddy" described John. But that was one game that I really enjoyed playing."

Swarthmore Succumbs

By Rod Ware

Washington College captured its third consecutive lacrosse victory last Saturday by downing Swarthmore College, 15-4, in the Joes' field.

Held pretty even in the first quarter, the Sho'men exploded with five tallies in the second session, which enabled them to coast to an easy triumph. Rip Wood won a personal victory as he whipped in seven goals to lead both teams in the scoring department.

Swarthmore started things off as Eddie Wright made one good in the first minute of play. Rip, Graham Menzies, and John Goin reloaded in rapid succession. Jim Blake, attackman for the northerners, tallied shortly before the period ended. The score stood 3-2, with Washington on top to stay.

The local Dominie Play team had completely dominated the play and the scoring in the second stanza. While holding swarthmore scores, Eddie Leonard, Bernie Rudo, Wayne Meyer, and Rip Wood came through with goals to make the half-time score read, Washington — 8 and Swarthmore — 2. Wood collected two goals in this stanza.

Graham Menzies "Admirable Muckam"

The Swarthmore net played heads-up ball to the third quarter to hold the locals to a single goal by Wood. Wright scored his second goal for the losers and the score stood 9-3.

With victory in sight, Coach Charlie Clark began substituting freely, as three other men saw action in addition to the starting ten.

Six Is Fourth

The final game was the highest in the scoring department. Wood added three to his credit while Grim, Al Upitis, and Doug Fox contributed one each. Swarthmore's final tally came from the efforts of Dick Kluck in the final moments of the game.

This week end, the team is invading the South to meet North Carolina on Friday and Duke on Saturday. Jack Jackson has been working his wrench-shoulder into shape, and expects to see some action on the southern trip.

LOYOLA TO DEBATE HERE

Loyola College of Baltimore will provide the opposition for the Paul E. Titusworth Debate Team here next Friday, April 27. The debate, to be open to the public, will be held in Bill Smith Hall and in Dunning Hall as the opposing negative and affirmative met simultaneously. The time of the debate has been announced.

The Washington College team, after a slow start, has won four of its last five scheduled matches, for a total of six victories in eleven starts. Its most recent victory was a double win at the expense of the U. S. Naval Academy.

VOL. XIX, NO. 22

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1951

Jackson, Howard, Minnich Take Presidencies

Littleton, Dyer, Trader Complete Senior Offices

In the heaviest election in the history of Washington College, Bob Jackson, Ken Howard and John Minnich took the presidential offices of the senior, junior and sophomore classes respectively. It was estimated that 81% of the student body cast ballots for candidates. Of the twelve offices open to the race, only three were uncontested; secretary and treasurer of the senior class and secretary of the junior class. The official election results as released by ODK are as follows:

Senior Class

President: Jackson, 36; Jim Hachet, 20; Nick Scallione, 12.

Vice-President: Mel Littleton, 36; Edgar Stephenson, 20.
Secretary: Manning Dyer (uncontested).

Treasurer: Jim Trader (uncontested).

Junior Class

President: Ken Howard, 35; Wayne Milner, 25; Bill Treuth, 22; Harvey Leff, 5.

Vice-President: Douglas Fox, 36; Chuck Wasche, 24; Tony Tomlin, 22.
Secretary: Jane Mills (uncontested).
Treasurer: Bill Murray, 56; Don Mayrort, 20.

Sophomore Class

President: John Minnich, 28; Larry Weckind, 20.

Vice-President: George Eichelberger, 19; John Newbold, 19; Frank Dickey, 10.

Secretary: Peggy Feather, 23; Joan Heffner, 22.

Treasurer: Jo Budd, 21; Janice Palmer, 17; Josh Wheeler, 8.

A run-off election was held Thursday morning by the ODK Committee between George Eichelberger and John Newbold. The results of this were *Newbold 14, Eichelberger 13.

It will be noted that ODK reversed a decision on the petitions of Ken Howard and Douglas Fox. Due to information found following the publishing of candidates names last week, the two men were considered eligible for office.

Inter-Frat Dance Sat.

Highlighting the social activities on campus this week end is the annual Inter-Fraternity Council event. Throughout the few days the fraternity houses will be open to guests, affiliates and alumni.

The week end will reach its peak on Saturday night, April 28, when the Inter-Fraternity Council will sponsor a formal dance from 9:00 P.M. to 1:00 A.M. in the Chesterton Armory. Outfitted for the music will be Al Green's orchestra, familiar to all W.C.'ers from his presentation at the same event last year. It is estimated that the orchestra, which consists of ten pieces and a vocalist, will play before another capacity crowd of fraternity men and their guests.

The decorating activities has been taken over by the Washington College Art Club, headed by Peggy Brimer. The theme of the decoration will denote the atmosphere of "spring."

Arrangements for the dance were made under the direction of Paul Becker, secretary of the Council and a member of Theta Chi. Tom Lowe is in charge of tables and chairs.

A special feature of the dance this year will be the dancing of fraternity men and their dates to a song, selected by each fraternity. At that time, only the men in their particular fraternity's song will be on the dance floor.

Receiving the guests Saturday night will be the President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, Bill Brogan, and the presidents of the four fraternities on campus. Chaperones for the evening will be: Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Don Montero, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walbert, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Thacher.

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

Students who intend to enroll for the Summer Session at college are requested by the Registrar to sign up as soon as possible. No fee is required with registration. Students are asked to sign even if they are uncertain as to whether they will be able to attend.

Hodson Hall Changes By Dr. Gibson

Plans to alleviate the conditions in Hodson Hall were revealed to the students by Dr. Gibson in a special meeting of the student body on Tuesday morning.

Six definite measures were presented which the students are requested to follow. These are:

1. Men are to wear coats and ties to the evening meal and Sunday dinner.
2. Girls are to dress in a becoming fashion.
3. Students are to remain quiet and stand during the blessing.
4. Good manners are to be used throughout the entire meal.
5. Supervisors are to be in charge during the meal and will handle all emergencies.
6. A starting plan will be adopted for all students, but will not deprive them of sitting with friends.

In an interview after his talk, Dr. Gibson said, "I realize that this is a two way affair. The conduct in the hall, some of the complaints of the students have a legitimate basis, and studies are being made of the food, cleanliness, and service in Hodson Hall." He requested that students report to the supervisors any conditions which they feel are unfavorable, and these in turn will be submitted to Dr. Gibson to make adjustments where it seems necessary to do so.

Snack Bar Reopens

ODK has started operating the Snack Bar from 8:00 to 10:30 P.M. on a two week trial basis, beginning last Wednesday night. The night sessions under the student management will run until Wednesday, May 9.

The action was taken following a joint meeting of ODK and the student advisory board with Dr. Gibson and Mr. Dumschott. The meeting, requested by ODK because of student "gripes" about the Snack Bar closing, resulted in the temporary arrangement made by ODK.

In an announcement made before the Elm went to press, president Eddie Leonard stated, "We want the students to realize that the night opening is only on temporary basis and that if ODK is not successful in this venture, the Snack Bar will resume its former business hours, closing at 5:00 P.M. every afternoon." However, he also stated that if the students show enough enthusiasm in keeping the Snack Bar open that it will continue under student management for the rest of the year, provided there is no money loss.

The plans for the night management of the bar include a manager, picked from ODK, to supervise the operation each night. This will be run on a rotating basis for the next two weeks. Two student workers will also be on hand to wait on customers. The student manager will be on an entirely voluntary basis.

Two Faculty Members, Guest Injured Early Wednesday

Edson R. Ryle, Editor-in-Chief of the ELM, was fatally injured in an auto accident at approximately 9:30 A.M. Wednesday morning on Route 213 slightly north of Chesapeake City. Injured in the crash were Mr. Edward Brubaker, owner and driver of the car and an instructor in English at Washington College; Mr. Frederick Meigs, college librarian; and Mrs. Evelyn Cross, formerly employed by the Soack Bar.

Ed Ryle

Final Production Of Players To Be Next Week

The coming attraction on the W.C. campus next week will be the Players' final production for the year, "The Man Who Came To Dinner," by the two successful Broadway playwrights Moss Hart and George Kaufman. Curtain time for the production is 8:30. Tickets are on sale in the Snack Bar and the book store.

The light comedy, a traditional choice for the spring production of the players, enjoyed a successful run on Broadway for almost three years. It proved to be an excellent attraction on the world famous Alexander Woolcott, who also played by Morny Woolley, who also did the show for Hollywood.

In view of the fact that a crowd usually gathers for the Players' comedies, reserved seats have gone on sale for $1.00. The usual general admission price remains at 57c. Reserved seats include the first nine rows in the center of Bill Smith Auditorium and the first several rows in the balcony.

Haebel Heads Forensic

James Haebel, junior on the campus, has been elected to serve as President of the Paul E. Titusworth Forensic Society, succeeding Fred Nixon. Elections on the organization were held last week.

Haebel formerly served as first vice-president of the group and chairman of the P. I. Litual Union division of the society. Under his chairmanship this year, the Washington College Student body has heard numerous speakers, lecturing on present world conditions. Other newly-elected officers are John (Continued on Page Four)

According to the State Police, the car, a 1928 Packard, was approaching Chesapeake City on route 213 from the north. The road was clear at that hour, and there was "no appreciable curve" at that point. No other vehicles were involved, and it is believed that Mr. Brubaker had lost control while driving. The car turned over at least once, and was still partially on the road when found. The occupants were rushed to Union Hospital, Elkton, where Ryle died soon after arrival.

Mr. Brubaker was reported suffering from lacerations of the face and possible head injuries. Mr. Meigs, most seriously injured of the survivors, was said to be suffering from head injuries and a possible back injury. Mrs. Cross also received lacerations of the face and scalp. All were reported Wednesday to be in a "favorable (though painful)" condition. X-rays were taken last Wednesday to determine the extent of the injuries. As late as noon Wednesday none of the survivors had been told of Ryle's death. The car was a total wreck.

The College was notified early Wednesday of the accident, and students and faculty were shocked by the sudden tragedy. The ill-fated group had left Chesterton Tuesday afternoon to attend a play in York Pa., as the guests of Mr. Brubaker, whose brother was one of the stars of the theatrical production. They saw the play and were returning to the College at the time of the accident.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, and Mr. Fred Dumschott, Business Manager, left for Elkton at 9:30 Wednesday morning shortly after learning of the accident. They visited the injured passengers as well as the funeral home to which Ryle was taken. At that time the funeral arrangements had not been made, and little was known of the causes and the extent of the injuries suffered by the survivors.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 P.M. tomorrow, at East New Market, Md., following a morning service at Deal Island, Paltimore. The funeral was planned from Washington College and includes: Sandy Jones, Bob Eldred, Dick Weide, Jim Haebel, John Byland, and Bob Brink.

Ryle, 29, was a senior, and was to have been graduated in June. This was to have been the last issue of the ELM under his editorship, a post he had held since last May. He was a former President of the Washington Players, and held a lead role in their last production. Earlier this year he was among the ten seniors honored by being named to appear in the 1951 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Ryle was born in Kentucky, but several years later his family moved to East New Market, near Cambridge, Maryland. For the past several years he had made his home with his parents. (Continued on Page Four)

ED RYLE

The Washington College community suffered a great shock and a grievous loss this week in the tragic death of Ed Ryle.

Those of us who knew him best are beginning to realize that we have lost a fine friend; his fellow students and classmates will learn, with each passing day, that they have lost one of the best of their number.

Always conservative in thought and action, Ed provided a mature and steady influence in the organizations to which he gave so much of his time and effort. We of the ELM came to rely on Ed; he never failed us. Intensely loyal to these groups, and to his friends; unselfish in his attitude and his actions, Ed represented the best — as student, as friend, and as a man.

We'll miss you, Ed.

Final Event Decides Track Meet

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd

Howard Receives Bid

The highly publicized and talent laden Penn Relays bring run in Philadelphia today and tomorrow, have a special significance toward Washington College this year. The Maroon and Black's rapid sprinter, Kenny Howard, has received a bid to run in the invitational 100 yard dash being held tomorrow afternoon. The field is loaded with top-notch sprinters throughout the East, headed by Arthur Bragg of Morgan State who recently participated in the Pan-American Games.

The Shore relay team is not running, as seven members of the track squad are journeying to Baltimore to run in the inaugural Baltimore Relays being held at Clifton Park. Seven other teams are entered, the host being the Baltimore Olympic Club. The carnival comprises five relays and eight individual events, with medals being awarded the winning relay teams and first, second and third in individual events.

Sideline Notes

Although the Shore stickmen were edged by the Blue Devils last Saturday, the high spirit of our squad was praised by Duke coach, Jack Persons. The Southern team was highly talented individually and held depth within its well-balanced unit, however, our team play was by no means excelled by the Southerners.

Rod Boyce, outstanding Blue Devil stickman who consistently dented the Shore goal, formerly played with Graham Menzies at Gilman High School in Baltimore. Menzies was Boyce's feeder when they both starred in the prep ranks.

A highlight of the contest was Bill Bonnett's third quarter score. Bonnett, Shofenseman, raced the length of the field and whipped a shot toward goalpost Don Balford that almost took him into the net with the ball. Balford was also a former high school star when he played with Bonnett, Kabernagel, and Jackson at City College.

Intramural Softball

The last two weeks has seen the intramural softball schedule off to a fine start. Somerset leads the league, but Theta Chi and the Day Students also have strong teams. Coach Appichella has announced that because of the spell of bad weather, no rainout games would be rescheduled.

Public Opinion Class Conducts Poll Here

Members of the Propaganda and Public Opinion class have made a class survey in the form of a poll on current world conditions and problems. The poll was conducted by Jim Habel, chairman of the group and distributed to the class.

Results of the poll will be sent to Maryland's Congressmen and Senators in Washington to show the opinion of the class on controversial world problems.

Netmen Edge Towson

Entering the final doubles match of the afternoon, the team score being tied 4-4, the Shoremen inaugurated their new campaign by edging the Towson "Knights," 5 to 4. Only through the combined efforts of Jack Smith and Gary Wyckoff was the victory sustained.

Smith and Gary dropped their first set, 4-6 but evened things up 6-4 in the following. Their opponents, Jack Downes and Gerry Wittlatch fought vainly as the Shoremen clinched victory, 6-3 in the final set. During the singles matches, Bruce Wyckoff displayed court finesse as he topped Al Schleuter, 6-0, 6-0. "Risetti's" Brandt was next in line to achieve a triumph as he quelled Jack Luzzum in two straight sets. Gary Wyckoff breezed to an individually successful afternoon as he trampled over Bob Lane 6-1, and 6-4.

Coach Tom Filizian was quite pleased with the Shore team's overall play and although the new men, Al Zankoff and Bill Murray dropped their singles, they are developing decisive smashes and experienced court play. The summaries:

Singles
Bruce Wyckoff vs. Al Schleuter — 6-0, 6-0; Jack Smith vs. Jack Downes — 2-6, 6-4; Al Zankoff vs. Gerry Wittlatch — 6-4, 4-6, 6-3; Bill Brandt vs. Jack Luzzum — 6-4, 9-7; Gary Wyckoff vs. Bob Lane — 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles
J. Smith and G. Wyckoff vs. J. Downes and G. Wittlatch — 6-6, 6-4, 6-3; R. Wyckoff and B. Brandt vs. G. Luzzum and A. Schleuter — 6-0, 6-1; A. Zankoff and T. Tanton vs. S. Mahan and J. Luzzum — 6-2, 10-8.

DEAN'S OFFICE

Students who plan to do summer work in other colleges must get permission from the Dean and must indicate what courses they are taking in order to acceptability of the course on records at Washington College.

W.C. Upends B.O.C. Sat.

An overconfident, yet unaware Baltimore track team was defeated 62 to 55 last Saturday on Kibler field as the deciding factor of the contest was not disturbed until the last event on the thirteen card program. "The Tide" out of the blue" invincible Kenney Howard ledged 22'10" into the air amid the home crowd's cheers, as the hopes of the Baltimore Olympic Club faded with the setting of the sun.

The score being tied 55-51, Ken Howard and Lee Cook took first and second places in the broad jump to clinch a well deserved, yet closely competitive victory.

Coach Leads B.O.C.
Coach Bill Jimison, who ran 2nd and 3rd in the high and low hurdles, added strength to this year's team, and invaded the Shore with a menacing contingent which ran one of the closest dual meets that the Chesterton school has ever participated. The meet was dominated by two men, Ken Howard of Washington and Merwin "Tex" Carter of the B.O.C. Carter, a former schoolboy track star from San Antonio, Texas, a modest athlete and a Southern gentleman, led off the afternoon's festivities by placing first in the pole vault and high jump. His jumps were 10'6" and 5'6" in each event. "The Jer" matched this with victories in the 100 and 200 yd. dashes and freeling off times of 10 second flat and 22 seconds that which was quite remarkable considering the track conditions.

The Texan's next feat was a graceful 15'4" spring over the 120 yd high hurdle which was one tenth of a second short in tying the track record. Finally Howard and Carter met in the low hurdle, in which the latter crossed the tape one tenth of a second faster than Kenney, who ran a 26.2.

Light-footed Bill Twilley was predominant in the middle distance events, as he snubbed former Shore thinned Larry Brandenburg in the quarter-mile (2:24) and captured the half-mile in 2 minutes, seven seconds. He was followed by George Eichelberger of the home team and Frank Phibing of B.O.C.

Utilizing his vitality and stamina, easy striding Tom Benson breezed to a 4:55 mile run and came back to upset former Loyola College star, Greg Brown in the endless two mile jaunt. As Tom later explained, "I was only playing with this boy to let him think he was going to win that race." Blonde Bob Appleby had a hard time running a 2 mile race before, took third place through his admirable stride and determination.

Mickey Hubbard, another Shoreman, won third in the 220 yd. dash and threatened Howard in the broad jump as he bounded to a third place in this event.

8 New Records

Other Shoremen scored points were Frank Babian in the hundred, Jim Schaffer and Al Kausch in the pole vault, Ellsworth Bond in the high vault, and high hurdles and Rod Ware in the high jump.

The discs was thrown 112'7" by Arnold Gilson of Baltimore and the bolt shot, 376" by Len Kroschberg of B.O.C. as Lee Cook drew seconds in both of these events.

Three men were responsible for establishing nine new dual meet records, erasing those set last year. Ken Howard of Baltimore won the Washington College "The Jer" broke his own 100, 200 and broad jump records, while Benson set new mile and 2 mile runs. Howard and Carter inked new entries in the pole vault and both hurdle events.

Although the Baltimore aggregation failed to avenge their 1950 loss, their competitive spirit was admired by the Maroon and Black clubmen. The Shoremen are now looking forward to tomorrow's Baltimore Relays. Although team scores will not be counted, individual events may possibly bring us

Stickmen Beat Carolina; Bow To Duke University, 6-5

Washington College's lacrosse team returned home last week end after splitting games with North Carolina and Duke Universities down in North Carolina.

In Friday's game, with North Carolina, the locals had little trouble in raking up their fifth consecutive win, 14-3. Leading the locals were Larry Leonard with four goals and Bernie Rudo with two. The remainder of the scoring was done by Chuck Wenzel, Ken Wayne Miller, Ed Leonard, Duke Case, Graham Menzies, Bob Lipitz and Dick Cadden — each counting for one tally. Scoring for the Tarheels were Buddy Kamm (2), and Ted Davies.

Seven In First

The Shoremen scored seven times in the first period in attaining their fifth win of the season, Kaufman scored for the losers at the quarter ended. In the second stanza, the Chestertonmen took the Tarheels, while dumping in the three tallies.

After the intermission, Washington marked up three more goals after Davies had scored to open the ball. The final frame saw the scoring even at each team scoring once.

Boyce Gets Four

Saturday's conflict, with Duke University, was a different story for the Shoremen. Faced by All-American Rod Boyce's four goals, the Blue Devils maintained their undefeated status by a minor conclusion.

downing the locals 6-5. It was the fourth Duke win of the year.

Scoring for Washington were Eddie Leonard and Rip Wood, with two each, and one by decemsen Bill Bonnett.

The two teams played on even terms in all but the third quarter. In the first frame, each team scored twice, and once in the second stanza. The third frame was where the locals felt behind on goals, by Jim Whitecave and Boyce. The scoring was again even in the final stanza.

Duke Deep In Reserves

The Duke game was one of the most witty plays games of the year for both teams, according to coaches, players, and spectators. As in the Navy game, however, Washington found itself up against a more experienced foe with numerous reserves. The local team scored, shocked trying to even the score in the final quarter in which several late shots missed by inches. Two fouls committed by Shoremen in the early part of the third quarter led to quick Duke goals, one of which turned out to be the decisive factor.

Playing exceptionally well for Washington were Ray Wood, All-American candidate, and Capt. Ed Leonard, Duke Case, Bonnet Kabernagel, Westcott, and Dick Cadden. The Shoremen were considerably in the closing minutes, and will be out for a few days with a maintained their undefeated status by a minor conclusion.

Sho'men Down P.M.C. With 13 Firsts

Capturing thirteen first places out of a possible fourteen, the Shore track unit turned back Pennsylvania Military College to the tune of 87½ to 37½ last week.

Versatile Kanny Howard led the winners to their initial track victory as he topped the 100 yd. dash. The firsts to total 20 markers for the afternoon. Breasting the tape in the 100 and 200 yd. dashes and the 220 yd. low hurdle, "The Jer" concluded the dual meet with a 23 foot broad jump to break his old mark of 22'10" which he set last year against Catholic U.

Dual Winners

Captain Jim Twilley, "The Helton Flash," strided to an easy quarter mile win, edging Bill Langlen, Penn's closest runner, as Twilley displayed an easy back-strack kick through which he retained victory.

Other dual event victories were achieved by distance ace, Tom Benson, the "Jack of all trades" Lee Cook, and "clunker" Jigger" Eichelberger. Benson led all contenders in the mile and two mile grinds followed by Don Drill of P.M.C. and Jack McCullough of W.C., who trailed him to the tape in both races. Lee C. threw the shot 107'6" and javelin 130' and managed to slip in a second in the discs and broad jump to attain a commendable 16 point total at the final. Loose-jointed Elvin Port at breasted to a high hurdle success over Bob Richardson of P.M.C. and followed this feat with a 5'8½" high jump to edge out the same opponent who was again a close second.

Other Standouts

Freshman George Eichelberger turned in a creditable performance checking out competition in the half-mile as he ran two well balanced barriers. Nick Cavini of the Quakers, took their only first place as he threw the javelin 130 feet. However, this event is not included in Mason-Dixon competition. Mel Littleton and Steve Martianna threw the spear near Cavini's mark as they drew second and third places in the event.

Together the same opposition which was encountered in last Saturday's dual meet,

Clarkmen Bury Leigh

Washington College opened its current season at home last week with a convincing victory over Leigh University, 15-4, at Kibler Field.

Rip Wood led the way as the Sho'men rolled to their fourth consecutive win after dropping their opener to Navy. His five tallies boosted his 1951 output to 24 first place goals.

The locals took advantage of the weak Leigh defense early, pouring in four markers in the first five minutes of the first quarter. Wood chalked up three of these.

In addition to Rip's five, Dick Cadden added three, and Bob Lipitz and Al also counting for the locals were Larry Leonard, Duke Case, Bernie Rudo, Doug Fox and Wayne Miller. Scoring for the losers were Gurney Sloan, Chuck Cox, John Wootzky and Gealy Wallwork.

Athlete Of Week

Four years of outstanding gridiron play is quite a commendable record to be chalked up by senior Bob Herriman. "Bob" began his football career at Penn Grove High School and when he graduates from Washington in June, he will have terminated 8 straight years of the age old sport.

The 6' 200 lb. tackle cites his best game as that played during his sophomore year when the Maroon and Black nipped Catholic U. 7-6. As for the 1950 campaign, Bob will always remember Wayne Miller's touchdown during the Hampden-Sydney contest, which achieved victory for the Chesterton school, 20-27. Captain Herriman played outstanding ball that afternoon and was consistently in the opponent's backfield.

As vice-president of the Inter-Fraternal Council, President of K.A., and a member of the Varsity Club, Bob leaves the W.C. campus with regret. However, come June, he'll find it hard to leave the maroon racks hoping to track some ant craw football in his home town.

The Forensic Society has presented W.C. students with several assemblies this year including a debate on the Far East question and numerous speakers talking on current world problems. The Forensic debate team has chalked up quite a few honors also in their trips to other schools for debate.

Darguing officers for the group are: Fred Nixon, president, James Haebel, vice-president, Charles Whitsett, vice president in charge of debate, Bill Trout, vice-president in charge of Economics and Sociology, Alvin June Carr, secretary and Betty Brundage, historian. These officers have served since April 1950. Incoming officers will hold office until April 1952.

From The Exchange Desk

Coeds at Northwestern University report they have been getting letters from the war departments urging them to join the Women's Army Corps. Inducement was a $275-month pay check, a second Lieutenant's commission and a "permanent career."

"Reaction to the letter was mostly negative," according to the Daily Northwestern. One girl remarked, "My fiance would divorce me if I enlisted. He's in the Coast Guard and I'd have a higher rank than he if I went in."

The Kansas State Collegian is a little jaded by all the queens on campus. It declares: "Ever stop to count them, don't. It takes too long. . . . Since queens are so commonplace these days, a coed feels accomplished if she manages to get through school without the honor. The fifty percent who aren't elected a queen or attendant are flattered to think they've kept their individuality."

Fifth Annual Science Exhibit Well Received

The Society of Sciences, last night held its Fifth Annual Science Exhibit in Dunning Hall. The exhibit, which began at 6:30 P.M., featured students exhibits, a movie and a lecture demonstration by Dr. Richard M. Sutton.

Dr. Sutton, who was very well received by the crowd, gave an interesting lecture-demonstration entitled, "Recreation in Mechanics," featuring several demonstrations of physical phenomena and law. Dr. Sutton, who served his doctorate from the California Institute of Technology, is a former national chairman of the Committee on Demonstrations in Physics for Teachers and is well known as the author of the book "Demons in Physics."

The movie, "Docue in Industry," was shown before and after Dr. Sutton's address. This film is about as close to the Hollywood action as science movies generally get, and it proved to be very interesting and informative. This film, which is quite entertaining, dealing principally with the trials and tribulations of a young doctor who decides to go into industrial work.

At always, the main attractions of the evening were the various projects which were set up and demonstrated by the science students.

Highlight of the chemistry exhibit was a demonstration of Chemfluorides (center, set up and demonstrated by Lee DeWitt. In this demonstration two solutions, when poured together, produced a mysterious glowing solution. When this was then poured on a cloth and the cloth rung out, droplets of "fluor" seemed to drip forth. Water purification, organic synthesis, and an analysis of carbon content in steel were also shown.

The biology exhibit, as always, a popular one, was this year in the hands of Bob Smith, who in addition to showing experiments with frogs and turtles, managed to keep everyone from getting his blood typed or lung capacity measured.

Betty Brundage, chairman for the mathematics exhibit, had a number of interesting devices and puzzles to keep the visitors guessing, and this department featured a model bridge which was zigzag with springs to show where major stresses occur.

The Physics department's show, run by Dick Lewis, was another big crowd getter, and everyone seemed to be interested in the Gieger Counter, the various motors and engines, the static electricity machine and the display of gas filled discharge tubes, to mention only a few items.

Last, but not least, we found the psychology exhibit, ably championed by Helen Roe, who chose "Psychology in Vocational Guidance" as the theme for this year's show. Shown were test results from campus surveys and various vocational tests which the visitors could try. Especially interesting was the demonstration of a lie detector.

Bob Brink, president of the Science club, estimated that over 350 people had attended the exhibit and added that he wished to extend his thanks to the many people who, by their contribution of time and effort, had made the show possible, and, in particular, to thank the various chairman of the departmental exhibits, Betty Irene Irwin, who handled publicity, Elmore Gustafson, secretary of the club, Paul Sadick, general chairman, and Dr. Voelker, faculty advisor to the club.

Immediately following the exhibit an informal party was given in Dunning Hall for the club members and faculty.

Bibles Given By Gideons

Mr. David J. Nelson, of Salisbury, member of the Gideons International, represented the organization at an assembly Sunday, April 22, at which time the group presented two-hundred Bibles to Washington College. Miss Dorothy A. Leverage, 55, accepted the Bibles in the behalf of the student body.

The program opened with the hymn "Love Divine." It was followed by a reading from the Scripture and a prayer by Charles B. Gale, '54. Miss Dorothy Hopkins rendered a vocal solo as part of the proceedings.

Later in the program Miss Hopkins and Carol Walbert rendered a vocal duet. The program was brought to a close by the singing of the hymn, "Our God, Our Help."

The Bibles will be placed in the Assembly Hall and used by the student body in future assemblies.

Arrangements for presentation of the Bibles to Washington College were made by Mr. Howard L. Wright, President of the Federalburg Camp of Gideons, and Mr. Kenneth A. Harrison of Tilgham, Maryland.

The Gideons International, is a group of Christian business men who "banded together for the fellowship and the promotion of the Gospel of Christ to all people, in the end that they might know the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior."

"What you mean you don't understand a regular-dude? Didn't the man just tell you you're standard? Why you're asking him so many questions. Ask me what you want to know. You think I'm not smart, boys?"

"O.K., Tony, O.K. All I want to know is should I be enlisting now or waiting till they come for me, I mean what the guy says is a good idea to join up voluntarily. So what you think?"

"What I think the boy, are you had to ask me? I tell you what I want to make, first, don't go and enlist!"

"You mean enlist, Tony, but for why not? That man, what is he, a general? What he says 'Enlist now, sign up now, come back in a couple years and get benefits.' That sounds good Tony."

"Just a minutes, boy, listen to Tony, he gives you the straight story. What he advise and what tell you're dedicated into da army."

"Inducted, Tony, not dducted. But the man says big opportunities in the Service go to schools there, get good jobs when you come out. That sounds smart, Tony, I think I like that."

"You don't think, boy, you got no brain. Tony Tony knows, boy, he's been around. You take his advice, you don't sign up for nothing! Not even Reserve Corps."

"Reserve Corps, Tony, besides I wouldn't do no such nonsense. But that regular army. That sounds good. What he wants to be an intellectual all his life! I'm looking for action, man. I ain't no parrot."

"Boy, you are stupid from ear to ear. You know what is like in Korea? No! I tell you. It stinks, boy, that's what! Worst place in the world. Of course, we gotta defend it, is very important for something or other. Don't ask me who, you stupid boys, just take my word. I know these stuff, that's all. Whose matter, you want to read da papers! And besides who you don't trust me and do like I say? You thing you be here! Nah, you ain't dumb enough."

"But, if I want to I'll drafted, Tony, they stick me right away in the infantry. You want I should get killed? If I enlisted maybe I could be a officer, huh? I'm dumb enough for that, ain't I?"

"Yeah, boy, for that you're dumb enough, but I'm telling you don't enlist. Now forget it, huh? Keep thinking."

"I guess you're right, Tony, but still I'm gonna enlist. Why not? I gotta help my country don't I? He guys like me don't join, who'll fight the war, huh? Who else is dumb enough?"

"I guess I didn't want to tell you that but since you're not listening to an officer staff, I gotta. You say who else fight war? Who else is dumb enough? Funny thing you don't guess. Hokay I tell you. You know that says what you go to schools after 2nd grade?"

"Yeah, Tony, college boys, you mean. What about 'em?"

"What you mean what about 'em? You ask me who else is dumb enough to enlist and fight war, I tell you—collegh boys do the job!"

Oh.

SONNET To A Strawberry Sundae

By Sandy Reeder

When I behold you in a glass
And feel the coolness that you radiate,

You are a work of art in my mind,
All of any senses you intoxicate.

You're fit for the feast of God or any man
To you belongs a gourmet's loud acclaim

In triumph you were born—a sweet sheep's plan

And steadily upward do you rise to fame.

Is there greater beauty anywhere than this Soft red emblazoned on a field of white?

The sight of you fills anyone with bliss,
But cannot compare to the joy of this first bite.

Yet, when I tell you the joys that I have left,
What do you do? You just lie there and wait.

SPRING

When Spring has come among the faint tree tops,
And arches bloom again in pink and white,

The Earth's reborn and breathes with life in the corpse,
Where subtly each creature would renew itself.

To serve as Persephone's acolyte
When the goes past bound up from Pluto's hall,

Through springtime's warming and salubrious air,
Some less months hence will find the trees green again.

And Earth to late slave, bid him to wake,
Ours more the green at Nature's shishboleth.

But is for me, I gladly would forego
The spring preening Summer's heat for snow.

Congratulations to Brothers Eddie Leonard and Herb Ward who planned Dofers and Pat Saturday night.

The Interfraternity dance was a huge success. Many alumni brothers attended. Among those were: Lou Bizarro, Lambert Cookley, Al Lewis, Bill Grimes, Jack Burke, Herb Ward, John Lambdon, Charles Mullikin, John Gaudin, and Jimmy King. Every body was glad to see the old gang back and also to see Eddie Ingata and his wife who were guests of his brother Joe.

Congratulations and best wishes to all the brothers to new initiates: Rip Sewell, Bernie Rudo, Ed Cumar, Dick Kent, Wes Edwards, Bobby Appleby and Freddie Miltnerberger.

Alpha Chi

Blue books, termpaper, book reports and rapidly approaching exams have cut Beta Psi social life to the bare minimum. Seems that our gals weren't too happy about conditions when in dees came out last semester.

Congratulations to Phil for his first director of "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and to Helen, Anne, Betty, Dottie and Nancy for their acting in and hard work on the technical end of the production.

We were happy to welcome back many of our alumni last week end including: Nan Smith, Nancy Nuttle, Fran Bowie and Elaine Young.

Graduation will bring the annual week-long home party in Ocean City and this year we're doubling up with the AOP's.

At the present time, we're negotiating madly for living quarters. If everything happens as hoped, a good time should be had by all.

AOP's

We held our annual do-over-bird for our patronesses in Hudson Hall last Thursday evening as a token of appreciation for all they've done for us this year.

We're looking forward to the many social activities which the end of the year always brings. New on the agenda is the annual faculty tea to be held on Sunday, May 6.

On May 12 a picnic is scheduled to be held at the Whaley's. Here's hoping for clear weather and a good luck.

Congratulations be in order for Patty Boone who was pinned on Saturday night to Herb Ward.

K.A.

Kappa Alpha was quite pleased to welcome back many of its graduates alumni last week at the Interfraternity dance. An enjoyable evening was experienced by everyone. Among the graduate brothers who returned were: Jim Jones, Bob Brown, Bill Wright, Jack Jackson, Ed Hangerford, Ken Weller, Filmore Dwyden, George Riggs, Bill Durham, John Livingston, Rod Baker, Mickey Hubbard, "Frank" Mulligan and Ed Lacy.

ZTA

The Zetas wish to congratulate the fraternities on the fine Interfraternity dance of last week end. We enjoyed it immensely.

Govie has recently returned from a regional convention in South Carolina where she met many of her sisters from other chapters.

We held our annual initiation last night at the Grannary last Tuesday in honor of new initiates Betty Brundage and Joan Heffner. After dinner, the plans were discussed and the ladies were pleasantly surprised to find that some of our neophytes are quite talented "musically". Thanks a lot, gals.

ADNA

The Brothers were happy to welcome back many of the alumni for the Interfraternity dance on Saturday night. Among them were Perry Chambers, who has recently become engaged to Elaine Young; "Cotton" O'Connor; Frank Lorenz; and Jay Miller. Several like old times. The intermission get-together at the first home was termed a success by all attending.

Now that spring comes to be here to stay, and though it arrived so belated, we're planning big things to combat spring fever and to help

MARGARET WILDING... 5721", blue eyes, brown hair. She was born in Washington, raised in Silver Spring (the county) and was graduated from Montgomery Blair High School where she was active in the band and glee club.

At W.C., Marge is active in the Glee Club, Newman Club, Washington Players and the AOP's Society. She loves music (particularly band music) and basketball (her favorite team) The Washington Senators) and has the part of a choir girl in the Washington Players' forthcoming production of "The Man Who Came To Dinner" (Plugs).

LAURA BARNETT... 5721", brown eyes, brown hair. She is originally from the "Lone Star State" but the year living in West River, Maryland. On the Hill, she is a member of the Glee Club, Canterbury Club, and varsity hockey team. Her main interests are swimming, sailing, and dancing.

Betty loves to play practical jokes on people in the dorm, and she is always ready for a big laugh. Her favorite expression is, "I only had one hand," and she makes up half of the famous boy-girl smoke train. Her future plans include... 5714", hazel eyes, and chestnut hair. This gal built from the land of the midwest, Annapolis, Maryland where she was graduated from Annapolis High School.

Joanie is a member of the Washington Players and like all Marylanders, she loves swimming and boating. She has a quiet, subdued manner, but she has a talent for quiet, subtle humor and a lovely smile.

These sunny days pass more quickly than you think. It is a hard ride to take place on Sunday, May 6.

Lambda Chi

Congratulations to Frank Grudger who was pledged recently. Glad to see many of the brothers who returned for the Interfraternity dance week end. Brothers and their girlfriends included: Walt and Pat Blake, Bob and Nan Shumley, Scott Campbell, Gene Kook, Ed Benson and Jim Kook.

A dinner was held at the Rock Hall Yacht and Country Club prior to the dance.

Local Brothers recently visited Lambda chapters at Duke University and the University of North Carolina where they were cordially received. That's real Southern hospitality!

What's New?

The first dance week end wound up with everything under control and no casualties to speak of... but back to the old grind...

Congratulations to Pat Boones and Herb Ward who were pinned on Saturday and to Eddie Leonard and "Dodo" for the same reason...

By the way, what fraternity is Otis the barber in?

Watch that last door, Ernie; it's a door!

Understand that Frog has everything. His only fault lies in the fact that he breathes.

Rumor has it that Dirty McCurdy is suffering from shell shock. Reid Harkins in two personal lonely hearts club these days. All literate females are eligible. Just contact Room 3, first floor. Immediate responses are guaranteed — and they're all confirmed boys.

It's nice to see that some of our boys are real steady at heart. They'd give their shirts to a poor, homeless girl.

"O.K., Peg, give the girl the dime!" Sure of America's most notable men have been lounded from college at one time or another... just a thought.

Great to see our boys all spread up in coats and ties for dinner, but they have to try to get half the history department, too! Come to think of it, that might not be a bad idea, in some cases.

Congratulations are in order for all the who have been elected to offices in the various campus organizations for the coming year. Best of luck!

Strange to see the athletic field taken up by his desire instead of basketball on these beautiful spring days. The great American pastime is no longer, so far as W.C. is concerned. Even worse, they're giving the place back to the Indians!

HERBIE EISENMAN Don't forget to give the Players your support tonight. They've worked hard and deserve it. Curtain time is 8:30. That's all for this time. See you next week...

Clark Will Assist Blake In N-S Clash

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd

Clark Pleased With Scrimmage

At Georgetown's request, the Washington lacrosse squad held a scrimmage last Saturday in which the home team's second and third stringers saw all the action. Since the Washington group is inaugurating its first season of lacrosse, the Maroon and Black first string rested while Coach Clark viewed the over all team play of the substitutes.

He was highly pleased with attackman Jim Trader's play. Trader had been only a manager at the start of the season, however, he took to the game like a Baltimorean. Bobby Lipsitz flipped in five goals as he displayed experienced ability.

The Georgetown unit contained many big stickmen with abundant hustle. However, our experience could not be matched by the visitors. The Chestertown starting lineup consisted of Dick Cadden, Rod Faulkner, and Lipsitz at attack and Don Elliot, Ed Curnor and Jack Bacon at defense. The midfielders were Doug Fox, Wayne Miller and Bob Jackson. Jackson has been switched to a midfield position since his return to the team after his early injury. Bob has been displaying fine stickwork and midfield ability. Bill Russell was the only starting member who played. His play in the goal position is improving and impressive as the season progresses.

Oval Observations

A few thinlads have been working strenuously during the past few weeks in preparation for the not too distant Mason-Dixon Championships.

Kenny Howard returned from the Penn Relays with a creditable 10.3 handed under his belt which was just .2 of a second short of N.C.A.A. sprint champion, Arthur Bragg, who won the heat. Howard was sixth in a field of nine in his heat, which were quite bunched together at the finish tape.

Jim Twilley ran second in the mile at the Baltimore Relays, an event that Jim seldom runs during the entire track campaign. — Jim Schaffer has display fine pole vaulting form recently and should reach his peak in another week. — Bob Appleby seems to possess an abundant supply of stamina, displayed through running the cross-country course last week.

Olympics, C. U. Share Honors In Balto. Relays

The Baltimore Olympic Club and Catholic University each captured four firsts in the inaugural Baltimore Relays held Saturday at Clifton Park. No team scores were kept in this first annual track meet between Mason-Dixon schools and the local Baltimore Olympic Club.

Washington College was represented by five thinlads, Jim Twilley, Bob Appleby, Tom Benson, Eichelberger and Ellsworth Boyd. Twilley and Benson won individual honors by grabbing second and third in the one mile run. Els Boyd took fourth in high jump, won by Russ Johnson of C.U., while Twilley, Benson, Eichelberger and Appleby ran the two mile relay. They were narrowly beaten by the Cardinals of C.U. whose quartet of Brennan, Ballint, Schmidt and Reed were clocked at 8 minutes, 22 seconds.

Carter, McGowan Star

Marvin "Tex" Carter, who recently scored 20 points for the B.O.C. in a dual meet against Washington College, grabbed first in the high hurdles, while taking second in the low hurdles and high jump. Teammate, Gus McGowan, former U. of Md. athlete, overcame Sam Lee of C.U. in the final 15 yards of the 880 yard relay, enabling his club to sustain victory. His final surge highlighted the carnival of relay during the afternoon.

Former Maroon and Black dicker Mickey Hubbard, now with the B.O.C., drew second place in the broad jump and followed this feat with excellent performances in the 140 and 800 yard winning relay teams. Larry Brammberg, another Shore alumnae utilized his championship stretch kick of last year, to make up a ten yard deficit in the one mile relay. However, the following leg of the relay saw C.U. increase its lead. Over Jack Sullivan to capture the event.

Afide from the relays were the shut

Has anyone seen "Punchy"? We're speaking of 185 lbs. 5'10" William Bonnett who has recently been wandering around campus with a far off gleam in his eye. It could be his hot weather or possibly that Bill has been visiting Beach Avenue in Baltimore too much lately.

Nevertheless, Bonnett has his head-up on the lacrosse field each afternoon, holding down a first string defense position on Charlie Clark's up-notch line. This is his third year of lacrosse at the Chestertown school where Bill has excelled at his defense position. "Punchy" began his athletic career at Baltimore City College where he played two years of lacrosse and football, being mentioned on the All-Maryland gridiron team in his senior year.

On the Shore grid team, Bill was switched from guard to tackle where he made himself known to many of the players through his power and drive. Most dominant in Bonnett's memory was the Maroon and Black

2 Drop From Undefeated Ranks

Somerset and Theta Chi have both fallen from the undefeated ranks during the past week, in closely contested battles.

G. I. Hall, defeated in the final last year, subdued East Hall by an 8-4 score to begin last week's action. East Hall was limited to six hits, while the victors collected ten, and Don Tabson scored three of his teams runs.

The next day East Hall rebounded to whip Foxwell 11-1. Kenny Howard collected three hits in four trips at bat, and also picked a winning game in allowing only six hits, as he led his team to the win. Foxwell, however, could only hold the opposition scoreless in one of the game's seven innings.

Alpha Omega Nu came from behind in the last inning to edge out C.U. Hall 5-3 in a hard fought game. The winning blow was a two run homer by "Jolting" George Pharsicki. Don Hevly again displayed his pitching speed as the G.I. Hall arm could not hit his rapid fire.

Alpha Omega Nu again won by swamping Foxwell 16-6. Pitcher Hevly again led his squad as he allowed only three runs in his five inning pitching stint, and produced a two run homer to add to the winning margin. Foxwell, engaging ten pitchers, seemed to wilt before the ball pounding team.

Somerset then dropped Theta Chi by a 2-1 score in which the game went right innings. Bob Appleby pitched the first seven to victory over Jolly, Kenney Sullivan.

An eight run fifth inning enabled East Hall to upset the Somerset squad 11 to 12 in another eight inning pitch the following afternoon. Kenny Howard and Joe Geisler pitched East to their hard-fought win, as Mel Laidton was the bowing pitcher. Two runs in the eighth, driven in by Danny Samole, forced the Somerset crew to fall by the wayside.

Team Standings

win over Hampden-Sydney. However, he was highly pleased when W.C. won in a scrimmage with Western Md., who had never beaten us two years ago. Now that football is no longer on the Shore sports program, Bill plans to play sandlot ball in his home town.

The sturdy junior also excels in swimming, tennis and golf and is planning to become a lifeguard this summer at Beverly Beach or Cape May. A Political Science major, Bill would like to join our government service upon graduation, preferably the F.B.I., in which Bill could readily put his athletic prowess into practice.

The 1951 Shore Lacrosse Team

West Chester Trimmed By Sho'men, 19-2

Washington College's Lacrosse team defeated an inexperienced West Chester team last week, 19-2, at Kibler Field.

This was the second home game for the Sho'men and their eighth of the season. It marked the second win at home, and the sixth win of the season for the Chestertowners.

Washington completely dominated play in the first quarter as they smothered West Chester under an 8-0 score. Rip Wood, quick-thinking, crossman for the Sho'men, accounted for half of this number. Rip chalked up two tallies before the game was two minutes old. Others adding their names to the score card in the first quarter were John Goin, Larry Leonard, and Graham Menier.

Second Frame Scoreless

In the second frame, Coach Charlie Clark began inventing his substitutes. With West Chester strengthening their defense and playing head-up ball, the Shore team grasping a considerable advantage.

The second half opened as a repetition of the first quarter. The Sho'men again put on an exhibition of shooting that netted them nine more goals. Leading the way in the scoring department were Wood (2), Jack Dury (2), Jim McCurdy, Dick Walker, Jim Trader, Wayne Miller, and Chuck Wasche, each with one. Meanwhile, the Sho's defense persisted in keeping West Chester scoreless through their experienced stick work. At the end of the third stanza, Washington was on top by a score of 17-0.

Visitors Score

The fourth frame opened with West Chester's Don Hudson breaking clear for his team's initial tally. After Bernie Rando made one good for the Chestertowners, the game opened back and forth on even terms. Midway in the period, Warren Komies scored 1 Washington's goal tally on a fine shot from the side. Shortly before the final gun, Jim Sylvester scored for the visitors, making the final score read, Washington College-19, West Chester-2.

The Maroon and Black closes its home season next Tuesday, May 8, when they play host to the University of Delaware. Following this they encounter a mighty Mount Washington team and end up their season on May 19 against Baltimore University.

HENRY REPRESENTS W.C.

Mr. Jack Henry, Assistant Professor of History, represented Washington College at the Spring session of the Middle States Council for the Social Studies, held recently in Washington, D.C. The sessions, held at the State Department and American University, were concerned with the topic "Sharing American Foreign Policy."

Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men and Lacrosse Coach at Washington College, has been selected as one of the three coaches of the Southern team of All-Stars that will play a similar team from the North on June 9 at Troy, New York. This All-Star game has been the climaxing feature of the lacrosse season each spring during the past years. Formerly it was played in Baltimore each year. In recent years it has been shifted to other locations, and this season will be played on the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute field.

Clark will serve with Robert "Pie" Fuller, coach at the University of Virginia, as assistant to Avery Blake, Swarthmore veteran coach who has been named head coach. The North team will have Morris Truchette of Army as head coach, with Harvey Potter of Williams College and Albert Twitchell of Rutgers as assistants.

Only seniors are eligible for the squad. Each team is limited to twenty-one players, no college players, and furnishing more than four players. Last year Washington College was honored to have two players chosen on the South squad — Jack Jackson at center, and Clodney Hoffman at an attack position. Five seniors are eligible for selection this year: Captain Ed Leonard, Ray Wood, Duke Case, Harry Kobernagel, and Larry Weston.

Clark, who played Lacrosse at Washington College, the University of North Carolina, and for the Baltimore Athletic Club (now defunct) has coached the Lacrosse team at Washington College since its reorganization in 1918. His teams have won 30 out of 31 collegiate games through 1950 and last year Washington College was rated 13th in the nation. Clark was cited as a leader who has done the standout job among players, coaches and others who have won Lacrosse during the 1950 season.

Smith Prevents W.C. Shutout

Washington dropped its first tennis match of the new campaign last week to a strong Catholic University net team 8 to 1, as Jack Smith won the only individual match.

The afternoon commenced as Paul Piccus of the Cardinals edged Bruce Winkler in their first match. Bruce's initial set, 3-6 but Piccus retaliated with a 6-4 and 10-8, gaining the best of the three sets. "Swifty" then evened things up as he defeated John Keating, winning the latter two of the three sets. Hank Freeman of the Redskins led off the home team's rally by downing Gary Wyckoff in two straight sets. Jim Hensley and Tom Browning outplayed Bill Brandt and Al Zalaski in the following match. Jim Mannas, displaying tricky footwork, beat Bill Murray in the final singles event.

Bruce Wyckoff and Bill Brandt gave their opponents the closest match of the series, but faltered before Vic Vias and Hank Freeman, whose teams played very well. Jack Smith and Gary Wyckoff were by no means frustrated as they fought gamely against Piccus and Keating who took over the match in the second set. Al Zalaski and Tony Winkler also fought hard. Bruce Eklund believes their potential ability is sounding into form.

Services Held For Ed Ryle

Funeral services for Edmond Riddle Ryle, ELM Editor and member of the Class of 1951, were held Saturday, April 28, at the Baptist Church in East New Market, Maryland. Interment followed at the Methodist cemetery near the town.

Ryle, who would have been 29 on May 11, was killed on Wednesday, April 25, when a car in which he was a passenger went out of control on Route 213 just north of Chesapeake City. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert S. Ryle of Deal Island, Maryland, and by three brothers and three sisters.

Pathbearers were selected from among Washington College students and included: Bob Elder, Sandy Jones, and Dick Wolfe, all seniors; and Bob Bruk, John Ishund, and Jim Haeckel, Juniors. Fred Nixon served as honorary pallbearer.

Mr. Edward Brubaker, member of the English Department of Washington College, and driver and owner of the car, returned to his academic duties at the college Tuesday, May 1. Released from the Elkton Hospital also on Tuesday were the other occupants of the car, Mr. Frederick Meigs, College librarian, and Mrs. Evelyn Cross.

According to the records of the National Safety Council, the most common unsafe practice in the use of hand tools are: (1) failure to use the right tool for the job and failure to use the tool properly, and (2) failure to keep tools in proper condition, and (3) failure to keep tools in a safe place when not in use.

Faculty Show Nets $132 For WSSF

The committee for the World Student Service Fund reports that ticket sales from the Faculty Variety Show two weeks ago totaled $132. This amount will be sent to the World Student Service Fund organization at Washington College's contribution.

The committee voted to allot the fund for medical supplies in India. India has been listed as one of the major countries asked and from the WSSF, with medical supplies for hospital units being one of their chief needs. The committee will report to the student body as soon as a reply is received from the WSSF.

amusing Dr. Bradley and Anne Simons as the Victorian temptress. Harriet Stanley, both gave enjoyable performances. Claire Martin's portrayal of the actress Lorraine Sheldon was well handled though not with the same sense of superiority and self-confidence usually associated with Lorraine Sheldon. Jim Beach as Bert Peterson and Margie Glose as the nurse, Mrs. Patten, also turned in convincing performances.

Less effective were the portrayals of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley by Jim Haeckel and Mackey Metralle. It was felt that they failed to make their frequent but brief appearances as the omniscient host and hostess as notable as they might have done.

The exceptionally large cast makes it impossible to cite each individual characterization, but this column would be incomplete without a passing salute to those backstage personalities, the women actors and actresses, whose contributions made possible the finished play. Among those to be congratulated for their work on the set and costume are Al Vinard, Bob Wadell, Bob Elder, George Cromwell, Bill London, Paul Kove, Eleanor Diamond and Dot Wells.

Once again to Director Phyllis Setz and her assistant Don Hevel, as well as to the "menus" Mrs. Opprande, congratulations for a difficult job exceedingly well done.

Snack Bar Sales Up

In a release from ODK and the Business Office the Snack Bar receipts under ODK management for the past week show a slight increase in sales over previous night management. However, sales are still not quite convincing enough to ODK members to maintain their present occupation of the night management of the Bar through the end of the year.

According to Eddie Leonard, president of ODK "all the students want the Snack Bar to stay open under the management of ODK there will have to be a definite rise in profits in night sales. So far ODK has managed to come a little above with the exception of one night when sales were high."

Following are the receipts for four days under ODK management: Tuesday, $4-10-30 — $18.85; Thursday, $6-00-10-30 — $19.91; Friday, $3-00-7-30 — $9.52; Monday, $3-00-10-30 — $25.87. The receipts were turned over to the Business Office by the Student Managers.

The trial period for the student managers will run for one more week ending May 9. At this time a definite decision will have been reached as to whether the Snack Bar will remain open in the evening for the rest of the school year or whether it will have to be closed.

More than 80 percent of all accidents last year on our streets and highways involved vehicles going straight.

Snack Bar To Remain Open Until School Closes

The Snack Bar will remain open during the evening hours until the end of the school year. The announcement was made this week by Eddie Leonard, president of ODK.

The management of the Snack Bar has been in the hands of ODK for the past two weeks on a trial basis and due to what they deem "successful handling" will continue under the supervision of the honorary fraternity.

Managers for the evening hours have been picked from ODK on a rotating basis with each member serving one night during the trial period. This method of supervision will continue until the Snack Bar closes officially for the year.

ODK management of the Bar took place following a meeting of students with President Gibson concerning the closing of the eating place at night by the Business Office. The reasons given for the closing were a loss in the number of sales making expenses more than the intake. For the benefit of the students who want many privileges to the honorary fraternity, ODK offered to try their hand at the situation. The results have been approved by the Business Office and business will be run as usual.

Following are Snack Bar hours under ODK management:

Monday - 8:00 P.M. to 10:30 P.M.
Tuesday - 8:00 P.M. to 10:30 P.M.
Wednesday - 8:00 P.M. to 10:30 P.M.
Thursday - 8:30 P.M. to 10:30 P.M.
Friday - 5:00 P.M. to 7:30 P.M.

President Eddie Leonard says that the students take special note of the hours posted for Friday. The Snack Bar will not be open late Friday evening.

Reid Hall Council Elects

New officers for the Reid Hall Council were elected in a house meeting held last Monday evening. Eleanor Durand will serve as President of the hall for the second year.

As President of the Reid Hall Council, Eleanor has been Freshman floor counselor and a representative in the Women's Student Government Association. As a member of the Washington Players, she has served as chairman of the costume committee during the current year. She is also Recording Secretary of Alpha Omicron Psi society. The newly elected Vice-President is Gabriele Mancini, who replaces Agnes Toranville in this office. A newcomer to campus this year, she is a member of the Newman Club, the Elm staff, and Historian of Alpha Omicron Psi. She is a transfer student from Loyola College in Louisiana.

Donna Wood was voted to the office of Secretary of Reid Hall. Donna, who will be a Sophomore next year, will serve as Freshman floor counselor. Nicholas B. Burt is the secretary position during the past year.

Elections to the Women's Student Government Association, the organization which governs the affairs of all resident girls, are expected to take place this month. The election will be held on Wednesday evening. Middle Hall will also hold elections in the near future.

SENIORS ATTENTION

Seniors are reminded to write a short letter to Dean Livingston for the files, indicating that they will be leaving from Washington College on June 3rd due to graduation.

Summer School Is Definite

There will definitely be a summer school at Washington College this summer, the registrar's office announced this week. Due to a small enrollment however, plans for the summer session may undergo some revision.

Classes will be held only where there is sufficient enrollment (a 10 minimum). Any classes slated on the schedule that do not have this minimum will be canceled.

The Registrar also stated that if enrollment for the summer session did not increase a great deal, that the dining hall and the dormitories will not be open to summer students. Those planning to live on campus will be obligated to find accommodations in town. Students planning to attend and wishing information on town residences should check with the registrar following such an announcement.

Registration for the summer session is still being held for the late-deciders and students from other schools. Those interested should see the Registrar at once.

Sausage To Go On Sale

The third edition of the Sausage, the Washington College literary magazine, will go on sale sometime next week. Copies will be available in the Snack Bar for the first two days after publication and then in the Book Store as long as the supply lasts. For the first time there will be off-campus sales of this magazine.

This year's Sausage will contain about a half-dozen short stories and many poems, both humorous and serious. It represents the work of almost twenty campus writers. The layout has been changed to get a smaller, handier volume.

The idea of such a magazine was started two years ago when Mr. Ralph Thomsen, an instructor in English and advisor to the Mr. Vernon Littleton Society, edited and published a collection of original student verse and short stories. Its title, the Sausage, was taken from that of the undergraduate humor magazine of Oxford in the 1800's.

Science Society Annual Banquet Held At Granary

Last night, the Society of Sciences held its annual banquet at the Granary. The affair was highlighted by installation of officers for the coming year and announcement of the winner of the Society of Sciences' Certificate of Merit.

The Certificate of Merit is awarded annually to the member of the graduating class who has majored in science, has been a member of the society in good standing and who has contributed most to the cause of science while at Washington College, as determined by two non-senior members of the society and the faculty heads of the various science departments. The award this year was won by Richard C. Lewis of Elkton, a physics major. Dick, who will receive

Student Test To Be Given On May 26

The Selective Service Classification Test will be given at Washington College on Saturday morning, May 26th.

Students planning to take this test must secure the regular application from their local selective service center or at the Kent County Center, fill out the application with all data complete and send it to the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, New Jersey. Washington College has been designated as testing center 450. The Testing Center will send the student an admission ticket. No students will be admitted to the test without this admission ticket.

The deadline for sending for the admission tickets for the Army Tests, to be given May 26, is May 14. The test cannot be given to anyone who does not present the ticket of admission.

The examination is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:30 A. M. and will continue until approximately 12:30 P. M. The list of rooms to be used will be posted and definite assignments made. Meaning, all students who have received their tickets of admission are requested to register with Dean Livingston so that advance assignments of testing rooms may be made.

If you have not made application for the test, there is no time to be lost in making application.

Pre-Registration For Fall To Begin

Pre-registration for all students who plan to attend Washington College next fall will begin Monday, May 14, and continue through Friday, May 18. The procedure to be followed will be the same that was used for second semester registration.

Students will go straight to their advisors to plan their courses for next fall. Schedules of next year's classes will be distributed through the registrar's office beginning Monday. These should be obtained before the conference with the advisor.

Pre-registration should be a fairly definite plan of the student's fall schedule. However, minor problems and delays will be taken care of the first day of registration, Friday, Sept. 21. Bills will also be settled on that date.

Science Society Annual Banquet Held At Granary

the award at this year's graduation exercises, is a very familiar figure in the halls of Denning Hall and is known by all for his eagerness to be of help and initiative in extra curricular science activities.

Officers for 1951-52, who were elected at a meeting Wednesday evening, were welcomed into office after the dinner. Elnor Gustafson, newly elected president, officially assumed the office formerly held by Robert Strick. Elnor, one of the most active students on campus is looking forward to one of the science club's most successful years. Mel Littleton and Betty Baugman assumed the positions of Vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

Interfraternity Council President Is Honored

Bill Brogan

In a ceremony held Thursday in William Smith Auditorium, Bill Brogan, president of the Interfraternity Council, was tapped for membership into Omicron Delta Kappa in recognition of his activities on campus. The tapping was presided over by Eddie Leonard, president of the group.

Brogan entered Washington College in September, 1948, following graduation from Hazleton Senior High School and a stint with the Coast Guard. Since his entrance he has been active in numerous campus organizations.

Besides his inter-fraternity activities, he is vice-president of Lambda Chi Alpha, a member of the Varis Club, earning letters in both football and basketball, student assistant in the Physics department and a member of the Science Club. He served as senior editor of the Pegasus in 1949.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary fraternity which originated at Washington and Lee University. Its purpose is to recognize and foster leadership and to honor those men who are outstanding leaders on college campuses. Members are selected on a basis of points acquired by participation in college activities.

Following graduation this June, Brogan's duties as Pegasus will be reduced to three members: Joe Ingara, Fred Nison, and Bill Brogan. Outgoing members are Duke Gay, Frank Brower, Bob Heerman, Don Duckworth, Glen Gray, and Larry Westcott.

Awarded at the same ceremony were certificates for ten seniors, chosen last fall to represent Washington College in the 1950 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities". These members of the class of 1951 who will appear in the national honorary publication are: Duke Gay, Elinore Davidson, Bob Elder, Bob Heerman, Sandy Jones, Pauline Koumjian, Eddie Leonard, Ed Kyle, Larry Westcott and June Williams.

These seniors were chosen for their outstanding activities and scholarship on the Washington College campus and were selected by a faculty board headed by the Dean of Men, Dr. Charles B. Clark. Announcement was made in November of the 1950-51 choices.

Unemployment Opportunities

From time to time inquiries come to the college asking that the college bring work opportunities to the attention of students. In many instances the employers are willing to come to the campus to interview candidates. Some positions are full time positions which will be open to seniors only, while others are summer positions. Some of these opportunities are listed below.

FULL TIME

E. J. Dalton, Newsroom Company, Wilmington, Delaware, Office work for women.

Federal Bureau of Investigation, Office to men twenty-five years or over.

Stewart Company Baltimore, Training program for junior executives, open to men or women.

Maryland Employment Service, Vastel positions.

SUMMER WORK

Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., Sales work.

Retail Credit Company, Wilmington. For two young men over twenty one. Must have automobiles.

Activity Awards To 17 Seniors

Seventeen seniors received activity awards in an assembly held Thursday in Bill Smith Auditorium, for recognition of their work in extra-curricular activities during their college careers.

Those receiving awards were: Let Cook, Bob Elder, Sandy Jones, Orion Robinson, Roger Smith, Ed Kyle, James Taffey, June Williams, Bob Williams, Crawford Erwin, Ray Wood, Gerhardt Strobscher, Pauline Koumjian, Ruth Roe, Edith Ann Iverson, Dot Hattstead and Mackey Metcalfe.

Winners of the certificates were selected by ODK in their meeting Monday night. Information as to the qualifications of the students was turned into that group and the recipient graded on a point system.

Each year ODK awards Student Activities Keys to those men and women of the senior and junior class who make application based on certain general requirements. These must be acceptable qualifications in the fields of Publicity, Dramatics and Forensic Administration, Student Organizations, Musical Clubs or small organizations approved by the college.

The awards were presented by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men, and secretary-treasurer of ODK. The key chain comes into the possession of the winner later in the year.

ELM To Inaugurate Memorial Award

The Editorial Staff of the Washington Elm will give an "Ed Kyle Memorial Award" to be presented at graduation ceremonies held here June 3. The action was decided upon during a meeting held recently by staff members.

The award will go to the person who has "done most for the Elm during his or her career on the paper." The winner will be selected by members of the Editorial Staff.

This award, given in memory of Ed Kyle, former editor of the Elm, is the first one in the history of the college that gives recognition to a student in newspaper work. The staff plans to make this an annual presentation.

Ed Kyle held the job of Elm editor from April 1939 until several weeks ago when he was killed in an auto wreck. But as he had been born, married and lived in Washington

EDITORIAL

Every newspaper must have a policy to enable it to fulfill consistently its obligations to its reading public.

We on the Elm realize that we have a still greater obligation than the normal newspaper, for here at Washington College you, the student body, have no choice as to whether or not you care to subscribe to the Elm. You must. This is an unfortunate situation, but it is an economic necessity. Since you have no choice, our job is to present a paper that will satisfy the diversified wants of approximately 350 students. This then is our aim.

Our policy through which we hope to carry our aim into practice then is to endeavor to bring all the news that has happened to you as fairly and unbiasedly written as possible; as accurately as it is within our command to do so, and to maintain an open mind on any and all issues which may arise. In addition we shall keep open the Elm mail-box for any "letters to the editor" regardless of what point of view the writer has taken with the one reservation that the letter must be signed.

A new Elm was planned, so to speak, by Jay Miller two years ago; it was cultivated by Ed Ryle—we hope to continue this growth by striving constantly for perfection realizing we are only human.

Let us remind you in closing, we welcome constructive criticism at all times, and we welcome your opinions on situations.

Watch The Birdie

By Betty Boone

It happens every spring: Miss Doris strings an article somewhat resembling a fish net across the middle of the gymnasium and until the end of the school year the young women of Washington College engage in a reserved method of humbling their social rivals by hitting them on the head with strategically aimed feathered birds. While on the basketball court, these usually sea-coeds put out unprintable words as they run, slide, and somewhat from one end of the net to another swinging their rackets with bloodthirsty gleams in their eyes. More is known inside the four walls of Cain Gymnasium, and nothing short of an opponent's broken back will halt the onslaught of the winning player. With happy cries she continues to slam impossible shots over the net, aiming at either the eyes or the stomach until her erstwhile foe is reduced to a state of numbing idleness and is ready for the emergency of the nearby hospital. Then, when victory is accomplished, the feeling of utterly low returns and the winner embraces the loser as she carries her away from the battleground, and the world is once again sweet with love until the next match of the tournament.

From The Exchange Desk

The following bit of humor comes from the Rumske College Bakery-Ack:

An infant was awakened from a peaceful slumber in a hospital. Looking down at his raiment, he yelled over to the attendant of the next crib: "Did you spill water on my diaper?"

"Now,"

"Humana, musta been an inside job."

The Jovial Greyhound came through with the following Shakespearean comments on defuncts for college students:

Forry, that's a danger do we respire your — Petrarch I, 1, 116.

Our general has sworn you in to receive and pardon. — Cicero V, 2, 33.

An Army cannot eat em. — Henry VIII, V, 4, 81.

The army is discharged all and gone, let them go. — 2 Henry IV, IV, 3, 137.

The soldiers, all beaded in my name, have in my name, took their divorce. — King Lear, V, 2, 125.

There's not a soldier of us all. — Meas. for Meas, I, 2, 15.

We cooped the next gem from the Mt. St. Mary's Mountain. Edna which has obviously swapped them from some one else:

Two professors found an ancient skull and began an argument as to whether it had belonged to a man or a woman.

"It's absolutely positive it's a woman's skull," declared the prof who was the argument, "because the lower jaw is worn away."

Watch That Complex

By Dot Habicht

A great deal has been written and said about the outstanding inferiority complex of the lowly freshman. There have been many courses given him that this situation might be corrected. It seems that no freshman is complete without one.

But there is another evil about which little has been said, but which is almost as pitiable and just as much in need of correction. This is the superiority complex which has become a part of the personality of many upper classmen. Many individuals who find themselves the newly-elected president of some campus organization or a wheel in some campus organization in which they take part are prone to let the fact swell their heads to an insupportable degree.

These individuals are so far in the clouds that they often miss the greater part of living. A superiority complex cannot help but be detected. It ticks our like a sore thumb," as the saying goes. None of us likes to believe that he has other vices to the disease, but there are few of us who have not.

Those of you who have recently become susceptible to this complex, by virtue of a brilliant new office or some thing other, can check the impulse to feel superior. There have been many others who have filled your position before you, and there are many who will fill the same position after you. If you had not been chosen, someone else would have. Others are equally as good as you are. Some are perhaps better.

So if you begin to think that you're slightly better than any one else, think twice. Chances are you're not.

Lost Generation

By Betty Boone

We are the lost, the strayed the wandering:

We are the children of fear and greed Born in a world turned foul and foul—

A civilized garden gone rank with weeds. Frightened at first by the shadows around us,

Learning to believe in nothing at all, Discarding the dreams of hope and of laughter,

Responding at last to the terrible call, Living our lives as best we are able, Caring but ought for our fellow man,

Rising our souls for a moment's pleasure, Paying no heed to the stain on our hands.

Hence, we are branded as wicked and sinful, Rotting a world that was rained before.

Forgotten that we, who were born into darkness, Were children whose hearts were once guiltless and pure.

Thinclads Defend Title Tomorrow

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd

Trials Today, Finals Tomorrow

For two consecutive years, the Washington College track team has captured the Mason-Dixon Conference Championships with no more than ten men scoring points. Tomorrow the Shore thinclads embark for the "Capital city," maintaining little depth in their squad which will be defending the 1950 title. As we have witnessed in past years, victory lies in the hands of but a limited number of men.

However, the Chestertown team spirit is high and each man is determined to excel whole-heartedly in ability. The trials of the two day meet are held today and the finals on Saturday. Twelve conference schools will once again burn the Catholic University cinders, striving to set new M-D records. Bridgewater College and Catholic University have been tabbed as the "teams to watch". The latter school has preserved a record of never having finished lower than third in 15 years of conference competition, and isn't likely to mar it tomorrow.

Although the Shoremen will be without the services of speedsters Larry Brandenburg, Abe Mendenhall, Mickey Hubbard and Fil Dryden, we do have highly capable performers in Ken Howard, Jim Twilley, George Eichelberger, Tom Benson and Bob Appleby.

Athey Announces Banquet

Athletic director Ed Athey has announced that the annual Washington College athletic banquet will be held in Hodson Hall, May 22. All members of varsity teams of the past year will be honored with the presentation of varsity letters awards.

Honorary guests include the members of the athletic council and President Gibson, Coach Kibler, Mr. Dumschott, Dr. Dick and Dr. Farr. Invitations have been extended to the Baltimore Sun and Baltimore Newsport sports writers, and to Ed Nichols, sports editor of the Salisbury Times. Many of the prominent alumni who have represented Washington College in sports during the past years are also expected to return.

Greyhounds Trip Shoremen 59 - 58 In M-D Dual Meet

The invading Loyola College track team, running one of the closest dual meets in the history of the Mason Dixon Conference, edged the Washington thinclads by a 59-58 score last Monday on Kibler Field.

The absence of versatile Lee Cook, who is just recovering from a spinal operation, handicapped the Shore force considerably. However, the stellar combination of stamina and speed, Kenny Howard, once again took heavy scoring honors through his first places in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, low hurdles and broad jump. "The Jet" ran a remarkable 10 seconds flat for the hundred and a 21.9 (twenty-two)

Jim Twilley and George Eichelberger "440 - 880 Thrusters" Twilley Impressive

Captain Jim Twilley, attaining first in the 440 and 880 yard sprints, showed superb running form as he coasted past Bob Hockwirth in the quarter, while nipping Ed Colborn in the half-mile, the latter time being 2 minutes, 6 seconds. George Eichelberger of the home team also ran two firsts in the quarter and half, gaining third in each.

Tom Volante, Greyhound cross country star, pugged to a 10 minute 48 second two mile triumph, with Bob Appleby of the Maroon and Black team just behind at the finish.

The Baltimore team has a record of 4 wins and 2 losses in dual meet competition. Finishing fifth in 1950, the Green and Gray squad is out to better their mark in the Mason Dixon title meet tomorrow. This meet will also give the Shore thinclads a chance to amend their one point loss to the Charles Street school.

One of the most spectacular recoveries of the U.S. was displayed by one of America's greatest runners, Glenn Cunningham. When he was just a child, Cunningham was severely injured in a fall and told he would never walk again. However, he did recover, and ran one of the fastest mile races in history - 4 minutes, 6 seconds!

Trample Del., 14-2 For Ninth Win

Coach Charlie Clark's unparalleled track squad trampled to its triumph last Tuesday against the University of Delaware.

Accounting for the fact that their All-American attackman, Don Swan was sidelined, the Delaware unit showed little opposition against the experienced, well-rounded Shore team. Ten men hit the nets for the Chestertown school, as sixteen substitutes were used during the afternoon.

Rip Wood opened the scoring in the first 35 seconds of play as he drove a smooth shot past goalie George Walbeck of the losers. Paul Catts of the Blue Heels then tallied one of the visitors two goals, to even the scoring. However, Ed and Larry Leonard and Bob Jackson, rallied to change the scoreboard to 5-1 terminating the first period.

Haight West was the only other Delaware stickman to score during the game, as he slipped one past Bill Russell in the second stanza. The Shoremen continued to dominate the nets until the final whistle with Bobby Lipitz, Graham Menzies and Bernie Rudo each scoring two, Jim Trader, Duke Case, and Jim McCurdy, accounted for the other Shor goals.

The Maroon and Black defense unit of Harry Kalerneigel, Larry Wescott, and Bill Bonnett completely outplayed the visitors as they cleared the ball exceptionally well, with direct, accurate passes.

The Shore team proved to be more tomorrow afternoon when they will encounter a strong Mt. Washington aggregation which promises strong competition including a well holed midfield and defense.

Shoremen Blank W. Md.

Last Saturday, the Washington College lacrosse team visited Westminster, Md., where they chalked up their eighth victory at the expense of Western Maryland College, 12-0.

Duke Case, Rip Wood and Graham Menzies each drove in a pair of goals to lead the Shoremen in scoring. Other Washingtonians collecting single tallies were Eddie LeRue, Eddie Leoni, and Larry Leonard, John Giam and Wayne Milburn.

Score In First Three Periods

The Shoremen scored in all but the final quarter in amassing their eighth win against two losses. The first quarter opened rather slowly, but finally Wood shook himself clear in the crease for the first goal. Once he had broken the ice, Case and Menzies soon followed with tallies to make the score 3-0 at the end of the period.

When the second opened the scoring in the first minute, John Giam and Larry Leonard soon adding their goals to the score sheet. Washington scored again on two quick goals by Case and Milburn. The halftime score then stood 8-0 in favor of the locals.

The third stanza marked the end of the scoring for the Shoremen. Bernie Rudo opened the round with a devious shot from the side. Eddie Leonard followed with a fine shot on a pass from Menzies. After a brief lull in the scoring, Menzies picked up the pace by firing in his second tally. Jim McCurdy wound things up with a flip from the crease.

Free Substitution

The final frame was characterized by substitutions on the part of both clubs. Coach Charlie Clark was able to insert 24 of his stick wielders into the line-up during the game. Eddie Leonard, Western Maryland's star, was active in six different positions, with loss in seven outings this year.

Ram Thinclads Topple Sho'men; Stay Undeclared

The West Chester State Teachers College track and field team preserved its unbeaten record of five straight victories by downing the Washington thinclads 92% to 34% last Saturday on Kibler Field.

Two dual meet records were erased, one in the shot put by Jim Meigs of West Chester, and the other by Kenny Howard of the home team in the broad jump. Meigs topped his old record of last year by 1 1/2 inches as he tossed the 16 lb. weight 44' 11 1/2". The indomitable Howard, scored 18 points during the afternoon festivities, leaped 21' 11 1/2" which was two inches better than his record set at West Chester last year. Kenny's other first places were amassed in the 220 yard dash and the low hurdles, while his second was in the 100 yd. dash.

Kenny Howard "Iron Man"

Pulled Muscle

West Chester suffered a great loss when Reese Ruediger, top dashman, pulled a thigh muscle in the 220 yard dash. He will be sidelined the remainder of the season. Ruediger had edged Howard in the hundred, his time being 10.1. However, "The Jet" held a considerable edge over Ruediger, when the latter fell to the cinders in prolonged agony. Kenny held an eight yard lead over Jim Murphy and Don Dickerson of the visitors, as he crossed the finish in 22.2.

Ed Matkowsky, Ram basketball star, captured the mile run in 4 minutes 51.4 seconds, as Tom Benson of the home team trailed him to the finish. Jim Twilley was edged by Bob Dickerson of West Chester in a thrilling climax to the 140 yd. dash which was timed in 32.1 seconds. Jack Birmingham of the visitors skated the high hurdles in 16.9 seconds, 1/10 of a second faster than Elly Boyd of West Chester. West Chester crew grabbed one, two, three in the polevault, discus, shot put and javelin throw. Boyd tied with Spiecker, Dickerson and Fackell of West Chester for first place in the high jump at 5'6" while Howard was the only Shoreman placing in the broad jump.

The one mile relay, final running event of the afternoon, was won by the Pennsylvania team in a stimulating finale. A faulty baton exchange on the second leg of the relay cost the Shoremen about twenty yards. However, Eichelberger made up a considerable distance on the third leg and Jim Twilley, anchoring the race, cut the West Chester lead from 25 to 5 yards as he crossed the finish several strides behind Ed Matkowsky.

Stickmen Subdue Loyola

Washington College overpowered the Loyola College lacrosse team, 17-9, last week in Baltimore.

Rip Wood led the winners in scoring with five goals, one more than Graham Menzies and Eddie Leonard could garner. This trio of scorers was aided considerably by Larry Leonard, who was credited with five assists in addition to his one tally.

23 Saves For Russell

In the nets, Bill Russell was kept busy thwarting the Loyola attack. He kept his stick in front of 23 shots along with the nine that got by him for tallies.

The victory leaves the Sho'men with a 7-2 season mark, the only losses coming at the hands of Navy (8-6) and Duke (6-5). Loyola, on the other hand, has a 5-2 record in the current campaign.

Shoremen Lead At Half

Larry Wescott, who got his chance to play with the regulars after Bob Jackson was injured in the opening set against Navy, and his defense teammates, Bill Bonnett and Harry Kalerneigel, also played inspired ball for the winners.

Loyola took a 2-0 lead in the first three minutes, only to have the Maroon and Black bounce back with eight straight goals and an 8-2 advantage.

The closest the hosts came after that was 6-10 at halftime, but Wood, Menzies, and Bernie Rudo got busy in the next stanza to send Washington comfortably into the home leg.

Frank Mason, with four goals, paced the losers. The Loyola goals, Will Hofferder and Marshall Love, came up with 17 saves. Several of the visitors' goals were scored from lung range.

Racketeers Lose, 5-4

In a closely contested affair which wasn't decided until the final doubles match of the afternoon, the Western Maryland tennis team edged Washington by a 5-4 score. Two men were victorious in both singles and doubles—"Biscuits" Brandt of the Shoremen and Ted Brown of the visitors.

Jack Smith and Cary Wyckoff bested Harry Suk and Bob Hallmark of Western Md. to capture their singles events.

The summary

Singles—Brown beat B. Wyckoff, 6-4, 6-1. Smith beat Suk, 6-2, 7-5. G. Wyckoff beat Hallmark, 7-5, 6-0. Brandt beat Thompson, 6-4, 7-5. Ted and Harry beat Suk, 6-3, 6-3. Trailer beat Murray, 6-1, 8-4. Doubles—Suk and Brown beat Smith and G. Wyckoff, 6-1, 6-1. Brandt and B. Wyckoff beat Hallmark and Thompson, 6-0, 6-2. Ted and Harry beat Zlosky and Timpan, 6-4, 7-5.

Wm. Doering Revisits W.C.

William Doering, graduate of Washington College in the class of 1950, revisited his alma mater this week to deliver talks to several classes on the Marshall Plan, its general purposes, achievements and results. He spoke in the National Convention, American History, Freshman History and German classes.

Mr. Doering was very active during his career on the W.C. He served as President of Lambda Chi Alpha, Editor of the Pegasus, and was a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron and Omicron Delta Kappa. Following his undergraduate work here he attended Van derbilt and did work on his Ph.D.

Directly after his schooling, Doering served with the signal corps in the U. S. Army and was with the first occupation troops to enter Berlin. In 1948, he went with the Economic Cooperation Administration working with the Marshall Plan as a supervising distributor of food in Germany. At present Mr. Doering is with the Food and Agricultural Division of the E.C.A. and is on a 60 day leave, the first in six years.

Lines We Liked

We liked the sweet simplicity of Nancy Carroll when she said — "I suppose idly must flower in the illusions of public has about us."

And that of James Joyce concerning St. Patrick — "He is the only saint a man can get drunk in honor of."

And the notable paucity of the Philadelphia radio director who said — "To my mind the word 'hell', no matter how it is used, is indecent and immodest."

And that of Dorothy Dix — "Everybody likes to have a pretty girl around."

And the truism of Peggy Hopkins Joyce — "Never before has a girl had so many opportunities to study men from so many angles."

That of Gonzalo Hamilton — "The modern young man is afflicted with half-witdom, a varicous ego, undeveloped maturity to earn his living, a tender skin and neural freckles."

And last, this from Philip Goodalla — "Life is a tough business and most of man's achievements—art, the family, the tribe, the state, the drama, letters, music—spring from an effort to relieve the solitude."

The 1,400,000 homes built last year will house a population greater than that of Massachusetts.

Panhellenic Council Selects 3 Officers

The Panhellenic Council selected the three major officers for the group at their meeting on Tuesday evening. Jean Stanton of Zeta Tau Alpha was elected President, Phyllis Seitz of Epsilon Chi Omega, chairman of the WSSF committee.

Each year, the positions rotate among the three sororities. For the last year, Alpha Chi Omega has held the Presidency with Phyllis Seitz as its representative in this office. The position of Vice-President goes to Alpha Omicron Pi next year, and Phi Beta Kappa replaces Epsilon Chi Omega. Jean Stanton, Marjorie Meyer of Alpha Chi Omega becomes Secretary-Treasurer of the group, a position held by Dean Lashaw of Alpha Omicron Pi.

It is the duty of the Panhellenic Council to govern all policies of inter-sorority concern and supervise the rushing activities during the year. Each sorority has three representatives in the Council who are chosen by the individual sorority groups. Mrs. Simpers has served as advisor to the group during the past year with Dean Bradley also aiding in the Panhellenic procedures.

In addition to activities during the rushing season, the Panhellenic Council also sponsored a luncheon on Housecoming for active and alumnae sorority members. The major activity of the Council in the inter-sorority district held this year in March. This year also marked the first year that the Council presented a book scholarship to an incoming woman student. The award, went to Peggy Featherer this year.

Fund Gets $130 Check

A letter acknowledging the receipt of the contribution from Washington College for the World Student Service Fund was received this week by Eleanor Gustafson, chairman of the WSSF committee.

The $130 will be used in the medical aid program at the Santiniketan clinic in Bengal, India. Santiniketan clinic is situated in rural surroundings about twenty miles from Calcutta. It was founded in 1928 in memory of W. W. Pearson one of the early collaborators of the poet Rabindranath Tagore — the founder of Vivek Chaitany, the International University.

The hospital is meant primarily for students, professors, and other employees of the institution. It comprises an indoor hospital with twelve beds for students and staff, an infectious ward with six beds, a sick room attached to the girls' hotel with two beds for girl students, and an outdoor dispensary. During the year, a total of 9780 patients were treated. Gifts from the WSSF provide the hospital with necessary instruments, medicines, and laboratory supplies.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Emley, regional secretary for the New York and Middle Atlantic district of the World Student Service Fund said in her letter, "This help to students in India will mean a very great deal, I assure you. Not only will this contribution make possible material aid, but perhaps even more important, it will carry with it hope and encouragement for the future which come from knowing that fellow students in this country are concerned."

It is estimated 25,200,000 lined feet, or nearly 4773 miles of kitchen chimneys were installed in the new house built in this country in 1950.

Satisfy Course Requirements

The faculty of Washington College has approved a policy effective in the fall of 1951, whereby a student has the privilege of taking a proficiency examination in a subject, and on the basis of the result may be exempt from the requirement of formal attendance at the course. This privilege is available to entering students as well as sophomore students.

The policy does not mean that a student will receive formal academic credit for courses which are bypassed through the means of a competency examination but does mean that he may avoid the necessity of repeating work unnecessarily.

The formal faculty action is as follows:

1. First-year students who pass a competency examination in a given course will be excused from a requirement of formal attendance at that course and may then take more advanced subjects in the same department. The student must satisfy the total number of departmental course hours now specified for meeting graduation requirements. Courses satisfied by the competency examination will be entered on the student's record, but the student will not be granted credit in terms of semester hours applicable towards the total number of hours for graduation.

2. Any student beyond the freshman year who wishes to take a competency examination may do so with the approval of the department head and Educational Committee on Admissions and Scholarship. The student will pay the usual fee for special examinations. This fee will be refunded if the student passes the competency examination.

Pre-Professionals May Obtain B.S. or B.A. Degrees In 3 Years

Announcement of a new policy whereby Pre-Dental, Pre-Nursing, Pre-Law, and Pre-Vet students could obtain their baccalaureate degrees by attending Washington College for three years and then transferring to an accredited professional school to finish their work was made this week by Dr. Gibson, President.

The system, as set up so far would work as follows: Any student, working in one of the above fields that has completed successfully, three years of undergraduate work at Washington College, may transfer to the professional school, provided it is fully accredited, complete his work there and still receive his B.S. or B.A. degree from Washington College. The policy will go into effect immediately, thereby making eligible freshmen, sophomores and juniors this year to receive a degree from W.C. under this arrangement.

A special arrangement has been made by Johns Hopkins University in regard to these students in Pre-Nursing. The student must complete two years of successful undergraduate work here, then transfer to Johns Hopkins where upon completion of work there he will receive a B.S. from Hopkins in three years. If a three-year student wishes to transfer to Hopkins, he may receive a degree from both schools.

In regard to the policy, President Gibson placed emphasis on the fully accredited schools. Those schools that are not fully accredited are not included in the new arrangement. For further information regarding the announcement, consult with Dr. Livingston, Dean or with Dr. Gibson.

Nancy Crabtree Chosen Women's Govt. President

Nancy Crabtree was elected President of the Women's Student Government Association in a meeting of all girls held at the Washington College on Monday, May 14, 1951. The new Vice-President is Sandy Reeder, and Peggy Brimer will hold the position of Secretary. Miriam Nichols will serve as member at large. The Council members will take office in September.

The President of the Council has been active in the Women's Student Government Association during the past year as President of Middle Hall and representative from her dormitory on the Council. In addition, she is Vice-President of Alpha Chi Omega and a former member of the Panhellenic Council. Nancy is a member of the Washington Players and has participated in several of their productions. In an interview after her election, Nancy said "I hope that all the girls will cooperate next year so that the Council may operate smoothly and efficiently for the welfare of all the girls on campus."

The Vice-President of the Council, Sandy Reeder, has been Secretary of the Women's Student Government Association during the past year and is President of Alpha Omicron Pi. She is also a member of Sigma Sigma Gamma and the Eta Sigma Phi. Peggy Brimer is President of the Art Club and Secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha. Miriam Nichols has been Secretary of Reid Hall for the past year.

The President and Vice-President of the Council are chosen each year from the three student class, and the Secretary is elected from the rising Sophomore class. If all three of the officers elected are sorority girls, an

Ed Stewart Is Elected

Sigma Sigma Omicron, the honorary scholastic society on campus, elected officers for next year at a meeting held on Wednesday in Engstrom Hall.

The new President is Ed Stewart, a Science major. Dr. Clark and Mrs. O'Grady now hold these positions. Redford Groves was voted to the Vice-Presidency, and Sandy Reeder is the Treasurer. The advisor and Secretary are selected from faculty membership in the organization and serve for a two-year period. Dr. Clark and Mrs. O'Grady now hold these positions. The retiring officers of this year, are Roger Smith, who became President when Oren Robinson left in February, and Ruth Rose, who has served as Treasurer.

Membership in Sigma Sigma Omicron is open to those Juniors or Seniors who have an accumulative index of 2.25 or better. Two privileges are afforded the members—unlimited credit and exemption from final examinations during the second semester of their senior year. At the present time there are eight members on the group.

Sigma Sigma Omicron maintains in the library a collection of catalogues available for use by the student body. Recently, they also sponsored a speech by Dr. Walker of Goucher College.

Additional member at large is also selected to serve on the Council. To be eligible for membership in the Council, a girl must be a resident of the college for at least a year and must have an accumulative index of 1.00. All resident girls of the college are members of the Association.

A new Constitution has been drawn up by the Council during the past month which will be presented to the girls for acceptance sometime in the near future. The Council decided to rewrite the Constitution to correct obsolete passages and offer new suggestions for the functioning of the Council next year. President Dorothy Hafford announced in the meeting on Monday evening that a special meeting will be held to discuss the proposed changes.

Prior to the election this year, Dr. Gibson met with the girls and explained to them the importance of the Women's Student Government on the Washington College campus. He expressed the hope that the girls would select their officers with care and that the Council would be an active organization next year.

The retiring officers of the Council for this year are Dorothy Hafford, President; Mary Jane Watson, Vice-President; and Sandy Reeder, Secretary. Additional members have been Elaine Diamond, President of Reid Hall, and Nancy Crabtree, President of Middle Hall.

New Program In Education Department

In order to give more emphasis to the practice teaching program, and to eliminate class hours in other academic departments during the practice teaching period, a plan has been approved by the faculty for the concentration of senior education courses in the second semester of the senior year.

Under the new program education students will take Ed. 201, Principles of Education, three semester hours; Ed. 202, Educational Psychology, three semester hours, during the junior year. In the second semester of the senior year education seniors will take the following courses—Ed. 302, Principles of Secondary School Teaching, three semester hours; Ed. 304, The High School, three semester hours; special methods course and Ed. 305, Observation, Participation, and Practice Teaching, six semester hours, or a total of fourteen semester hours in education courses, plus one other three semester hours course.

During the first few weeks of the second semester, the student will do concentrated work on the introduction to the theory courses. The following six weeks will be devoted entirely to work in an assigned high school class, including observation, participation and practice teaching. The student will devote the full school day to this work. The final weeks of the second semester will be spent on completing the theory courses begun during the first few weeks of the semester. The additional three hours of work in an academic department will be arranged with the student's advisor.

The new program changes credit from three hours to six semester hours for the work in practice teaching. Additional members have been Elaine Diamond, President of Reid Hall, and Nancy Crabtree, President of Middle Hall.

In order for this program to operate efficiently it will be necessary for students to begin planning courses in the summer of 1951.

Players Elect Landon Head

Bill Landon, former production manager for the Washington Players, was elected to be a president of the group at a meeting held last week. Also elected were Phyllis Set, secretary and Helen Rose, Treasurer.

Installations of officers took place at the annual awards banquet held at the Granary, Wednesday night. The meeting was presided over by Bob Elder, outgoing president of the Players and winner of the director's award.

Landon has been active with the Players in a backstage role for several years. He was appointed production manager for the last play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner". He will take office immediately.

Outgoing president, Robert M. Elder, has been with the Players since his freshman year, serving as stage manager, and afterward production manager before taking the presidency. Elder will graduate this June.

Science Club Visits Bio-Research Center

Last Wednesday night over twenty students from Washington College, representing the Society of Sciences, journeyed to the Chesapeake Biological Research Station at Solomons Island, Maryland. They were joined by Dr. Voelker.

The Solomons Station, which is located on a neck of land which juts out into the mouth of the Potomac River, is one of Maryland's most important centers of biological research and is supported by the state and many of the educational institutions in the region, including Washington College. Of special interest to residents of the Chesapeake Bay area is the work done on the various problems of maintaining the Bay's natural resources—especially oysters, crabs, and the rock fish. The trip was led by most of the club and was an extremely successful one. Maryland's role in the conservation of the Bay's natural resources is being emphasized in this year's activities.

Runners-up for the female award were Pat Fennell, for her portrayal of Victoria Van Bred, the cruel spywife who "Double Deceit" and a Marjory Glue who played Caroline Van Bred in the same production. Male runner-up was Walt Voelker, for his portrayal of Daniel Webster in the one-act play by Steven Bondi, "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

Both of the Oscar Award winners and the three runners-up were new to the Washington College stage this year. Eleanor Dryden, who played the part of Maggie Cutler, the sarcastic secretary in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" has performed several times before her high school football in Princess Anne, Md., but was associated with the Players this year only through the Promotion Staff until she was here in the three-act comedy. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and a sophomore this year.

Tom Lowe, male Oscar winner, won his trophy for his part as Sheridan Whiteside, the man who came to dinner and stave. He has had experience in productions in other schools. Besides his activities in the Players, Tom is president of Kappa Alpha Tatavious and a member of the Paul E. Titmirth, Forensic Society. The two female runners-up are both freshmen in production in other schools. Besides his activities in the Players, Tom is president of Kappa Alpha Tatavious and a member of the Paul E. Titmirth, Forensic Society. The two female runners-up are both freshmen in production in other schools. Besides his activities in the Players, Tom is president of Kappa Alpha Tatavious and a member of the Paul E. Titmirth, Forensic Society.

A Committee of students was granted in Bob Waldorf for staging the play this year. He has been stage manager for the past several plays and has designed sets for the productions. The Director's Award for the best job this year went to Bob Elder, for his work with "The Devil and Daniel Webster". Elder, who graduates in June is past president of the Players and has been active with the group since his freshman year. He served with the Promotion Staff before his presidency this year.

Awards were presented by Bob Elder, retiring president, at the annual Washington Players' banquet held at the Granary Wednesday night, May 16. The winners were selected by a faculty of the Washington College. E. W. Whitford, Oppenheimer, Faculty advisor for the Washington Players, Miss Amanda T. Bradley, Dean of Women, and Mr. Edward Brumaker, English professor.

SUMMER SESSION WORK

Students planning to attend summer sessions other than the summer sessions at Washington College must register in Dean Livingston's office to secure a place in the summer school courses. This is necessary if a transfer of summer school credit to Washington College are to be credited toward meeting graduation requirements. The student should bring the summer school degree to the office in order to receive the number and title of the course.

The Professor Sans Merci

By Marge Glose

Of all the people I have never been so amazed and overawed in my whole life! How some professors could have the gall to assign a term paper at the beginning of the term and actually expect it to be finished in less than a month or two before the time this outrageous brain-teasing masterpiece must be completed. That leaves about the last half of April and part of May on which to turn out a paper that is the equivalent of an epic upon many fine lovely professors.

Now, really, who in the world would be so merciless as to expect work such as this to be accomplished in such a glorious spring, but the vicious professor who actually expects a student to work for his grade. After all, there are so many nice things such as swimming, loafing, taking, and loafing so important that one can't be expected to put them aside for such trifles. And it just stands to reason that the average person would find it much more pleasant, educational, and healthful to learn how to do the backstroke while splashing in the gleaming, blue Chester River than to spend a hot, dreary afternoon in a room full of writing on the "Economic Development of Afghanistan from 1892 to 1950 With Special Emphasis on the Effect of Haidoul on the General Population." Looking at it privately, knowing how to do the backstroke may save your life some day, and despite advertisements to the contrary, it is doubtful whether Haidoul will do the same, particularly if it supply is in Afghanistan.

From The Exchange Desk

This is the story of a poor little college boy who made the mistake of being born.

Now this little boy had a very neat and childish, he went to grammar school and learned about reading and writing; he went to high school and learned about Latin and Algebra; he went to college and learned about National Bohemian.

Everything was very peaceful and normal. And then one day a jock named Stull told his buddy Nam the Stull to tell his pals in North Korea to cream those guys in South Korea.

Now this loaded up the works and the result was that our poor little college boy got some papers to fill out for a man named "Mickey". The fatigued him very much and he went to bed early that night. When he woke up the next morning he was in Camp Pickett.

With The GREEKS

AOP1
 The AOP1's had a busy time last week end with a picnic at Whaley's. The main attraction of the afternoon was a foot race on the Chester River. Cynthia Jones is faculty secretary. Her brother, presented to her for being the best pledge of 1951. Congratulations again, Cynthia.

There's a bad wedding coming up on May 26 when our Irish Bros. become Mrs. Kennedy's Bride. This Saturday the dust will fly when the room receives its final clean up of the year. To celebrate the end of the year there's a party at Lyle's on Monday—the final fling before exams.

Lambda Chi
 Congratulations to Bill Bogan who was tapped by ODK last Thursday in assembly. Way to go, Bill!

Coming up next Sunday is our picnic which surely will provide a good time for all Lambda's and their friends. The chapter was visited by an alumnus last week, William Doring. We were glad to have a chance to talk with him.

Alpha Chi
 Congratulations to Nancy Crabtree on her election as President of the Women's Student Government. More power to you!

We were glad to see a former pledge, Debra Koss, who was elected to the position of AOP1. She could make it more often.

The picnic at the Whaley's last Friday night, given by Mrs. Whaley and Mrs. Spencer, was a huge success. What fun!

Kappa Alpha
 The Kappa Alpha order was glad to have, with its last week our Province Commander, Dick Schaffer. We were highly honored to have Brother Schaffer pay us a visit and have he returns in the near future.

Our K's have been making plans for their annual spring outing, but haven't yet decided the site. "Goon" suggested we put out on the tennis courts and swim in the water tower, but he was overruled.

Spring fever seems to have hit the campus and a few of the boys have been seriously affected. Frank "Soft Shoes" Baham has been accused about his night studying for a blood test and "Moon" Whiffell spent all day yesterday in the hummer and looking for his draft horse. Oh, well, it happens in the best of us.

Theta Chi
 Since this is the last issue of the paper the undergraduates in Theta Chi want to wish the graduating seniors a lot of luck and hope that they will be back soon. These men are: George Wright, Lee Cook, Dick Case, Eddie Leonard, Donny Duckworth, Ray Wood, Gene Handberg, Bob Johnson, Gene Vines, Harlan Truett, Buddy Brower, Mel Morgan, and John Twilley.

Congratulations to Roger Smith, Lee Cook, Ray Wood, John Twilley, and Bob Williams for having awarded the certificates for their work in student activities.

Watch for the Theta Chi men's picnic which is Sunday.

ZTA
 Congratulations and the very best wishes go to our mortuus seniors Punksy and E. A. We all enjoyed their stipend—dances held for them in the Zeta Room last Monday. Hope the noise that shocked the good time didn't bother anyone!

We're looking forward to the senior picnic to be held this summer at Whaley's farm. The treat's on the menu for our five seniors, Marion Neighbors, Carol Graham Berker, E. A. Allen, Mickey Ott, and Punksy Jones.

Only two weeks now until we hit the beaches . . . our annual picnic to Ocean City. A good way to wind up a successful year. A last word to our seniors, the best of luck in the future and plenty of good times.

A Peculiar Species Of Human Life

By Betty Boone

The average American college student is a very distinct species of human life. His natural habitat is the campus, his fountain of life is the lecture, his diet is a combination of fast food and covered with printed words. When he is not eating, loafing, or shooting pool, he will most likely be found asleep either in the bedroom or the classroom.

His reasons for entering college are commendable. A great thirst for knowledge concerning the science of poker playing and the art of drinking straight liquor assailed him in his senior year of high school. In addition to broadening his education in these fields, higher learning has greatly enriched his daily conversation. It is a combination of the Bards, Bay Shuille and the Lindy Hop, while upon conversing with him one cannot fail to notice his cultured tones and well modulated voice, ranging from a guttural growl to an exultant roar.

As for his physical appearance, it is neat and attractive if one disregards the usual three-day growth of beard, and unbecomingly hairy, and slightly clothes, speaking of clothes, his wardrobe—to use the term loosely—consists of several different shades of blue jeans, the shade depending upon the age, and several different sizes of plaid shirts. An outstanding characteristic which is particularly in evidence around these in the morning is his extraordinary sense of humor, often prompting him to tease the girls or all normal residents of the dormitory from a window blind by his hearty guffaws as he administers a hot foot to his roommate. I shall not attempt to enumerate his many other peculiar qualities, for it is a task too great to be undertaken by an undergraduate who has yet to spend three more years of research by an undergraduate.

The stage of development which has been reached by the members of this group, although in extreme case it may linger on for six or eight. At the end of this time, the species have supposedly completed their metamorphosis, emerging from the cocoon of the campus as a full-fledged adult, an even wiser biological specimen of the present-day world.

der guidance in the close of the freshman year and will limit the student in choosing the major field of study once he has planned to prepare for teaching. The next catalogue will list the present education courses with new course numbers to correspond to the plan of having all new incoming courses listed as even-number courses.

Students planning to prepare for teaching should plan to spend the last four years at Washington College.

What's New?

Congratulations to Edith Ann and Chas.

How was swimming in Reid Hall last week, Simonds? Were your spirits dampened?

My Jane, let us in on the latest news. Will you, huh?

Congratulations on your new record, Frog. We hear it's two aces handle this year.

"Fifthy" has been making some unexpected visits to the sole campus lately. Watch yourself, Pat.

Well, cupid, roll your pretty eyes at us, won'tcha?

There's an eager beaver on our campus who believes in coming early for Sunday night dances. Really an oddity, aren't you, Jake?

What's the matter, Erno? Are you losing your sense of taste? So it was color, huh?

Vince must be studying to be a truck driver—to at least he's been waking people up in the middle of the night making like Carnot.

Seems Jane Mills got the engagement ring. Jane Bradley the wedding ring at Punksy and Edith Anne's shower the other night. Stranger things have happened!

That's all for now.

Spring Affects History Teachers

We are happy to offer congratulations to Mr. Edward R. Padgett on his engagement to Miss Betty Winter of Washington, D.C.

Miss Winter is a well known to most of us as a constant professor of political science and history. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University and received his master of arts degree from George Washington University. At present he is preparing for his Ph.D. at the University of Maryland. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the American Political Science Association.

Miss Winter is a graduate of American University. She is now an insurance executive in Washington and a press representative. She holds membership in the Women's National Press Club, the American Newspaper Women's Club, the Women's Advertising Club of Washington, and the American Association of University Women.

The wedding is to take place in the fall and we wish them every happiness in the coming years.

Loyola Contends Championship

Once again the Loyola College baseball team has slugged its way into the Mason-Dixon Championship diamond play-off which commences this afternoon on the Greychoudu's home field.

The defending champions will square off against the Southern division champions, Randolph-Macon in the best two out of three series. The Yellow Jackets own a pitching staff which has shut out four of its nine league rivals and boasts an eight game winning record.

Kaufman Tops Loop Batters

Eleven Northern division players are hitting the ball at better than a 300 clip with several games remaining in the '51 campaign. Leading the loop is Bob Kaufman, Western Maryland's freshman first baseman, who has an even 500 mark gained through 15 safeties in 30 times at bat in league contests. Just a step behind is Tom Harrison, Hopkins shortstop, who led the circuit for a while and is belting 480.

In the all-important runs-batted-in department, Bill Simmons, Towson outfielder, is leading with 15, followed by George Franz, Loyola catcher, 12, and Mel Wright, Loyola infielder, 11.

Once In A Lifetime

This is a once in a lifetime story that Sho's underkicker, Kenney Howard hopes will never repeat again during his track career at Washington College. Wayne Spangler's so-called upset victory over Howard in the 100 yd. dash at the M-D Championships will go down in the record books as a triumph for Spangler but many spectators, judges, and contestants know that "The Jet" breezeste the tape a slim margin ahead of the Bridgewater dashman.

The first place judge gave the victory to Howard, the third place judge gave the victory to Howard and even Spangler himself said Howard beat him. But—the second place judge said Howard was second and refused to alter his decision. Sam Lee of Catholic University, who took third, also said Howard broke the tape first, nevertheless, a unanimous decision by the judges was necessary to acclaim Kenney the winner and that one judge refused to give in. This is one experience that "The Jet" hopes will remain a "Once in a Lifetime."

STALWART STICKMEN

"A Potent Scoring Punch"

Intramural Softball

The fast moving intramural league has reached its conclusion except for the big one—the championship game, in the semifinals Theta Chi beat the old men, the Day Students by a close 10-9 score, to knock off the leaders in the standings. In the other semi-final game the surprising East Hall squad edged out the Somerset nine 6-4. East Hall in the lower half of the standings most of the season, staged a late winning surge to capture fourth place in the standings and the chance to take the championship. Wednesday evening, saw the show down between Theta Chi and East Hall.

Nance Stars For Hill Ten

Washington College journeyed to Baltimore last week, where they dropped a 10-7 decision to the highly rated Mount Washington Stickmen.

Paced by Harry Nance's six plays, the Hillmen nursed the Eastern Shore team in every quarter but the final to take their fourth triumph in six outings. Nance accounted for the three goals the Mounts scored in the first period and added one in each of the final three quarters as the Shore men went down to their third defeat in twelve games.

Nance Opens Scoring

Nance opened the scoring when he took a pass from Gudy Shepard and kicked after five minutes 12 seconds of play.

Washington tied the score a minute later as Bill Bonnett came down from his defense position to feed Graham Menzies for a shot on the crease. Bonnett Smith then fed Nance for a pair of markers and the Hillmen had a 3-1 first period lead.

After five seconds of the second stanza had elapsed, Nance scored their fourth straight goal, on a pass from Jim MacDonald, Bill Keigler made it 3-4, with a marker 30 seconds later.

Eddie Leonard Tallies

Eddie Leonard, with Menzies providing the assist, scored the lacrosse's second goal, as they took advantage of an extra man. MacDonald and Wayne Miller traded goals which left the Mounts with a 6-3 half-time lead.

Nance accounted for his fifth tally of the afternoon as he picked up a loose ball at midfield and ran in to score, unassisted.

Washington College again took advantage of an extra man as Larry Leonard teamed up with Eddie for a tally. Squared closed out the period's scoring as he took a pass from Jimmy Adams and tallied on a backhand shot.

Nance again found the cage as he fired in his sixth tally to push the Mounts into the lead by 9 to 4 count. After a brief lull in the action, the Shoremen closed through with a threatening rally.

Shoremen Rally

About midway in the final stanza, Ray Wood scored his only goal from the crease. Seconds later, Menzies took a pass from Wood and made it two in a row for the locals. After the Shoremen scored the second, Duke Case tallied on a solo run through the Mounts's fence.

Adams wound up the game's scoring on a pass from Hank Lowery with seconds remaining to play in the

Sho's Thinclads Run Third

Four new marks were inked into the record books last Friday and Saturday at the 16th annual Mason-Dixon track and field championship held at Catholic University.

The Cardinals of C.U., terminated Saturday afternoon's festivities, at 1:30 p.m. with a hand with a 44 point total, closely followed by Bridge-water College with 106½ points. Washington College gained third place with 32, followed by Hopkins, Lynchburg, Randolph-Macon, American U., Gal-hedon, Roanoke, Hampden-Sydney, Loyola and Towson.

Course Stars

Bridgewater's Merle Crono, who recently placed third in the Penn Relays 2 mile run, easily sped to victory in the mile and 2 mile events as he set new records in both. His remarkable times were 4:25.6 for the mile and 9:43.5 for the deuce. Thongated Earl Grinn of Johns Hopkins set a new half-mile mark as he stepped the distance in 1 minute 35.6 seconds. This eased the former standard of 1:58.8 set by Maroon and Black speedster Larry Brandenburg in 1948. Ed Moffett of American University shattered the Conference discus mark of 123.35' as he tossed the weight 159.5.8'. He was closely followed by "Smoke" Andrus of Hopkins who, also surpassed the old mark.

Howard Leads Shoremen

Versatile Kenney Howard once again led the Maroon and Black infielders as he took first place in the 100 yd. jump and second in the 100 and 220 yd. dashes and low hurdles. Howard lived up to his "Ironman" role on Friday afternoon's trials. He not only led in runs but in the 100 and 220, but semi-funk also followed close. "The Jet" won the broad jump semifinals and won his heat of the 220 yd. low hurdles. His winning broad jump of 21'11" edged out Bridge-water's Mel Myers who captured the event in the Baltimore Relays.

"Captain" Jim Twilley successfully defended Larry Brandenburg's quarter mile victory of last year, as he bounced the C.U. cinders in 31.7 seconds to break the tie ahead of second place Kenney McGinnis of C.U. Twilley also gained a third in the 800 yd. run crossing the finish line ahead of Cardinal Andy Sedick and second breaker Earl Grinn.

Jim Tasker of the Sho's squad garnered a third place in the discus throw as he heaved the disk a commendable distance of 129 feet.

Exciting Clinics

As a finale to the running events of the meet, C.U. triumphed in the one mile relay which was clinched by a stonemaking last minute surge. Washington's relay team, composed of George Lubeck, Jim Winkler, Howard and Twilley, tallied the Cardinals during the critical race. However, as Howard handed the baton to Twilley, the Shore's lead dwindled, and during the final lap the C.U. anchor man managed to jump across the finish a slim margin ahead of the Shore captain. Meanwhile, Ray Collins of Hopkins was threatening Twilley, but could not catch the "Heaven Clock."

Other individual victories were gained by Bridgewater's Mel Myers in the low hurdles, Russ Johnson of C.U. in the high jump, Bill Sidor of Lynchburg in the high hurdles, Don Decosta of Roanoke in the pole vault and Ed Moffett of V.U. in the 16 lb. shot put.

Athlete Of Week

Terminating his sports career at Washington College in June, Jim Twilley of Hebron, Md., has a credit able record to look back upon after graduation.

"Ace" as Jim is sometimes named, has captained the 1951 track squad to a commendable conclusion against tough opposition. Since his freshman year, Twilley has been clicking the Kilbuck field oval and has twice been a member of conference winning teams. He has run the quarter mile since his freshman year and considers it his favorite race.

"Captain Jim's" proudest moment was experienced at the indoor track meet at North Carolina when he was a member of the winning Washington one mile relay team which comprised: Gary, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Tennessee, L.S.U., and the U. of Florida. He was also highly honored by edging Miami's Hubbard in the quarter at the conference last year. This was the last time Jim had beaten Mick in the quarter in four years of running.

This star of the cinder path has also played 5 years of varsity soccer and managed the basketball squad in his sophomore, junior, and senior years. He plans to further pursue his education at Catholic University, where he wishes to obtain his Master's Degree in History.

Letter From Alumnus

Dr. Charles B. Clark
Washington College
Cheshamton, Md.
Dear Charlie,

The magnificent record which your lacrosse team is bringing up this spring is certainly exciting news. Alumni and friends of the college in the Wilmington area are proud and pleased to see our team so clearly establishing the fact that only five or six of the very best teams in the country are able to offer real competition to Washington College in lacrosse.

It is a special performance so far, and all of us are hoping you can add Mt. Washington and Baltimore University to your list of victories.

Those of us who have seen the team in action are particularly pleased with the determined, confident, sportsmanlike, and "big time" attitude which has characterized the team's play all season long. It is a brilliant reflection of the coaching and general college attitude which are required to effect such results.

All the alumni in this area are proud of the sparkling individual performances of such seniors as Ray Wood, Eddie Leonard, Duke Case, Harry Kalerwald and Larry Wescott. We don't see how Ray Wood can be left off the All-American team. He is not merely one of the best this year but one of the best of all time.

You and the other Athletic and General College Authorities are to be congratulated on the decision to settle

Forensics End Fifth Season

The annual dinner of the Paul E. Tidsworth Forensic Society was held at the Granary, Tuesday evening, May 15. An added attraction to the evening was a brief resume of the Forensic Society since its beginning in February by its outgoing President, Fred Nixon and a report of this year's activities by Jim Haezel.

Highlights of the year were: Dr. Brown, who spoke on "American Democracy in the Far East," Congress man Edward T. Miller from the Eastern Shore, a United Nations Symposium commending United Nations Day with professors from the Washington College history department, Dean Sawyer of George Washington University, Senator Louis Goldstein and many movies of current interest.

As outgoing President, Fred Nixon extended his wishes to incoming President, Jim Haezel, and made this statement: "While it is with a feeling of regret I leave office, I don't wish to alter any existing Program. I have even felt like the society is being run by more competent hands. Jim has shown his capabilities far better than any words of mine could ever express."

The office of vice-president of the Political Union was turned in the hands of John Buford. This committee is in charge of securing speakers for the W.C. audiences.

A complete resume of the activities of the debate team was presented by Charles Whitsett, former chairman of this committee who at the same time formally turned his office over to Bill Truett. The main debates of the year were: John Hopkins, (It should put more competent hands, Jim has even felt like the society is being run by more competent hands, Jim has shown his capabilities far better than any words of mine could ever express.") eren Debate, (Philadelphia area)—W.C. since the four decision debates. Last left last, the Forensic Society added a new division, that of Economics and Sociology under the leadership of Bill Truett. This office was turned over to Bill Murray.

The office of vice-president of the Political Union was turned in the hands of John Buford. This committee is in charge of securing speakers for the W.C. audiences.

Historian and Vice-Treasurer office were exchanged between Bill Brundage and A. J. Carr, Miss Brundage holding the treasurer's job and Carr now serving as the historian. Talks were given to the Forensic group by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men, and Mrs. Winifred Oppenfeld, both founders of the organization. In his remarks to the society, Dr. Clark cited the need for consistently keeping issues of state, national and international character before the student body and the community, emphasizing that students can hardly leave college prepared for intelligent citizenship if they lack interest in and knowledge of the basic issues that confront the citizenry. He urged the group to attempt to increase its active membership, but pointed out that with the close liaison with the History and Political Science Department, most speakers brought to the campus had spoken before large groups.

Art Exhibit Reviewed

The first annual student show on the bill was held by the art club. It was small but of good quality. There were 36 entries.

Bill Linton exhibited his Washington College and this was outstanding. Sue Weber and Bob Brink shared the oil painting award. Sue's seascape was expressionistic, giving a feeling of reality to her migration of the seasons. Bob's seascape was pure romanticism, replete with sailing ships and fishing gear.

Constance Toulon had the worst for water colors shared between two of his paintings. About one he said, "I worked six months on it. I lost my eyesight. I've worn glasses ever since." The other was a bird and flower theme, very well done. It so happens that this same theme was repeated on a fan in another of his paintings. Nothing better than this gem could be seen in any show of professionals.

In pencil, Betty Brundage's "Ecstasy" was most suggestive. "Myra Meek" use of symbolism within a strict geometrical formula suggests the limitations in language offered by the sonnet formula in poetry. This is the sort of art we read about as "avant garde" and do not expect to see at a student show.

Arden was given great credit by Toulon in photography. The photograph selected was Fox's "Shanty town", wherein light and subject and ideology was so exactly like that famous by the American artist, Birch. Many outside the camera as a tool for idealism, but here in realism, here is magic. Arden said, "I set out to get a midnight picture." What he got was art, a Sunday sunrise of deep religious feeling.

Jane Miller exhibited two lovely mezzos. These mezzos are spectacular, being life size. Strictly the tubelike tail would make these dangerous.

Peggy Brinner, president of the Art Club, has announced that at least part of the show will be reshown in the Library at Reed Hall this week end.

Last year, 299,500 pedestrians were injured in the United States.

Rolling the lawn in the spring is a good practice as well as good exercise.

C.U. Netters Top Sho'men

An undefeated Catholic University tennis team took a 5-4 victory over a determined but not outfoxed Washington College net team here last Saturday.

Captain Bruce Wyckoff, playing his latest tennis match of the year, beat Ernest Vas of C.U. 7-5, 6-2. Captain Jack Smith then made it two in a row by decisively beating Dick Pivars of C.U. 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Hank Freeman scored the initial win for the Cardinals by beating Gary Wyckoff in straight sets 6-1, 6-2.

"Biscuits" Brandt, playing his last game for Washington College, tried valiantly, but lost to Tom Browning of C.U. 6-1, 6-3. Al Zalinski recorded his first single win of the year by outlasting Jim McManus of the victors. The score in 3 sets was 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Jack Hennessy then edged Bill Murray of the Naamans and Black, the score being 6-2, 6-4.

Jack Smith and Gary Wyckoff played a head-up net game, but lost to a powerful doubles team of Freeman and Vas. The score in 3 sets was 3-7, 6-3, 6-2. Bill Brandt and Bruce Wyckoff beat the Cardinal doubles team of Pivars and McManus 6-4, winning the 2nd set through a forfeit when McManus of C.U. sprained his ankle. Bill Murray and Al Zalinski made a determined bid, but lost to Browning and Hennessy by close scores of 6-4, 6-4.

The prospects for next year look exceptionally fine as Gary Wyckoff, Bruce Wyckoff, Jack Smith, Al Zalinski, Bill Murray and Tony Toulon are the returning veterans. Washington's tennis team owes much of its success to Coach Tom Ellison who has done an outstanding job in improving the overall strength of the racketeers, according to observers.

Limitation Plan Okayed

The faculty has approved a plan which will limit extra-curricular participation for students who are reported as doing unsatisfactory academic work from month to month. The plan was previously approved by a combined meeting of the Academic Council and the President's Advisory Committee of student leaders. The following will become operative for the academic year of 1951-1952.

(1) A student, unsatisfactory in scholarship may be reported at the close of any grade month to the faculty Committee on Admissions and Scholarship by any instructor or instructor.

(2) After careful consideration of the individual student's case the Faculty Committee on Admissions and Scholarship may place the student on probation with the warning that he may be barred from extra-curricular participation if his record is not satisfactory in all subjects by the end of the following grade period.

(3) The student failing to attain a satisfactory grade standing may then be barred by the Faculty Committee on Admissions and Scholarship from further extra-curricular participation until such time as the committee may decide.

Gilded Butterflies

By Lee Blom

The subject of hubbubness has possessed (if I may be permitted the verb used) at Washington College from time to time, and quite properly, too, for I have found that one of the quaffing set has the best tradition. For this knowledge that I am about to divulge, I am indebted to L. Wheeler Barnhart, a man who knew a gag (or gag) when he saw one, and who kept a rather eye out for the shining graces of the fathers of our school.

The Maryland Historical Magazine, as respectable a publication as every you find in a tea room, is in a fact whimsically away back in 1911 printed a piece by Mr. Barnhart, entitled "The Gilded 'Washington College, 1785" from which I hope to extract enough of the precious dross to dampen the taste of the solid old. It is a little touch up with a roseate tint that fine old gentlemen, the Reverend Doctor William Smith.

On the ground on both sides of Washington Avenue were believed to the college and were old and well known by Dr. Smith in 1783. In the college records we find this indication of Dr. Smith's understanding: "Sept. 25, 1785, at the College in the Room, 1/2-6." Thus are history's mangled footprints. Dr. Smith brought his work from Philadelphia to Chestertown. He was a profound student of human nature, besides being a most generous, divine, and successful educator, and his method of overcoming this difficulty is too evident and effective."

This went on for three years, with each year getting the same old story. Res. Smith pouring into the College, until this present issue: "October 2, 1786, for 35¢ gals. Spirits and a bottle of wine for dining the visitors 1/3."

Since I could not improve on Mr. Barnhart's comment on all this I quote him in full: "It seems that in 1785 there was an argument as to whether a large swallow of rum on Saturday night to convince a workman that his service was not complete on Wednesday evening. The incongruous title wisdom of this argument was shown by the perfect harmony always existing between employers and employees the total absence of strikes and such trouble from the records of the period show that the social custom was too well indicated to be reversed."

It would not be amiss to point out that in the salad days of our republic such gungonee were as common as

A Dog's Life

By Jane Bradley

The pride and joy of Washington College is the object of a thousand local jokes—the black-haired friend who will never pass a blue book nor will he flunk one—and the only one who can get away with open stealing in the snack bar. If you could know now, you never will it's Albert, the very congenial canine that is everyone's best friend.

Albert, however, is a chameleon type animal in that he has a different name for each of his friends to call him. Through thorough research and through questioning Albert himself, it has been found that Albert's real name is Pepper, but you could call him Joe and he would come running like you were a long hot bus.

There's something about this inebriated dog that has captured the hearts of all Washingtonians particularly those who spend a great deal of time in the Snack Bar. He is notorious for stealing your drink while you are looking at the menu cup of coffee and for wagging his tail while eating up appetizing books and all the dishes, but everyone still likes him.

The Foreign sponsored Political Rally, a Thursday night event, also interested the "dog of a thousand names." At the latest meeting in the interest of politics, Albert made a grand entrance on to the stage, mimick the dog's antics for a fine plug and policy led the forum.

Albert has a terrific social spirit except that he fraternizes too freely with the opposing teams' mooks. He viewed the dog's antics for a fine plug and policy led the forum.

As for Albert's personal life, it is as we know he Red Heart Dog Food along with the dog's name in the company of a big white animal from Philadelphia. It has been said that Albert is in on all the secret plays of the football team. He helps him to head while in a crowd in a strange dog seemed to prove that, however.

On The Shore

Washington College, rest on the beach.

Where daytime is playtime; it's a haven and more;

The students have oceans; professors all work.

Instructors are quiet; the classes all walk.

Where tests are a snap and nobody studies.

The deans and the phylors are the biggest of buddies.

The snack bar sells hell, doesn't bother with cokes;

Professors don't lecture, they tell dirty jokes.

The food is supreme, a delight to the taste.

Every morsel's devoured and none goes to waste.

The coeds are out till wee hours; neat the moon,

Unlimited cots, so they all nap till noon.

Dances and parties and pinaks and things.

In Defense Of Spring Fever

By Dick Welde

By the time this issue of The Elm appears it may be winter again, but at the present moment the land abounds with symptoms of spring and an epidemic of spring fever seems to be gripping under way, unmeasurable as it is. Usually this matter of spring fever is viewed upon as an incubus of the most malicious intent, reducing mankind to a state of helplessness, and doing nothing more than to hark in the moon day. There can be no doubt that such a state of stupefaction detracts from the noble endeavors of man, and it is to be avoided and condemned even to the extent of ostracizing its unfortunate victims for fear of spreading the contagion.

Perhaps this is the "young attitude." Perhaps spring fever is merely an all too fleeting realization that man in its prime primordial day lived a simpler and happier life without being torn by his own ambition. There were no noble endeavors, no money, and man found it possible to get along without a thousand modern nuances simply because he hadn't sold them to the public. Somewhere along the line somebody got ambitious and wanted something and his neighbor, naturally coveting it, copied it. And so the race was on. Things went from bad to worse after the invention of money until man reached his present state of foolishness.

It is indeed unfortunate, however, that although everyone at one time or another is subject to spring fever, most cases recover, and those few who are chronic sufferers (that is to say, those who realize the other futility of life) are branded "boons" by society (that is, they are being accorded honor) that is due them as great philosophers.

Time lost by workers from all accident cases in 1950 totaled 416,000, 000 man-days, the National Safety Council estimates. That is equivalent to the shut-down of plants with 1,350,000 workers for an entire year.

With The GREEKS

Theta Chi

OK men this year have had the best year since their organization on the hill. They were active in all the many organizations and clubs on campus. The social season of the OX men was highlighted on February 10 with the basketball game against the Theta Chi from Drexel. This game was won by Beta Chi hands. It was followed by the annual OX hop. This year Drexel was Ruth Roe, who is engaged to Don Bilzard, a Theta Chi of last year. He was presented the corsage and trophy by Mrs. Sue Hoyer, Duckworth, last year's Dream Girl.

Men who were active in the Washington Palms are Jim Beach and Joe Inggers. Jim is a rich in the Devil and Daniel Webster, while Joe teamed with him in The Man Who Came to Dinner.

This year some new men were welcomed into OX by the Brothers. They are: John Wadley, Steve McFalls, Bill Rausch, Bernie Ruck, and Rip Cowell, Dallas Ward, Ben Shimp, Victor Maglio, chetti, Dick Kent, Bob Appleby, Fred Miltonson, and Wes Edwards.

Men who were active in the house was a huge success and enjoyed by all who attended. The picnic this year was a success also, although it was dampened by the weather somewhat.

Congratulations to our members: Joe Inggers, president; Larry Leonard, vice president; Gy Rollins, graphic and Edgar Stevenson, treasurer. Congratulations to Roger Smith, Jim Twifley, Ray Wood, Bill Williams, and Joe Inggers who received activity awards for their work in organizations. Congratulations also to Don Duckworth and Ed Cingolia who were married during the year.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Our Lambda Chi Alpha enjoyed a very successful year. Homecoming was the first big social event of the year and many brothers from previous years returned and attended the fraternity picnic and dinner at the country club. The house decorations again were under the excellent supervision of Pete Lohmann and took second place in the competition. During the year, Ephraim Thier, Jr. and Miss Mackey Metcalfe as their "Creed Girl."

After Christmas the annual Lambda Chi Dinner for the entire school was held at the country club. A good crowd was in attendance and everyone had a swell time.

The third major social function of the year was held before the Inter-Fraternity Dinner at the country club and their dates had dinner at the Rock Hall Country Club. Many alumni returned for this picnic also.

While the year was in progress, the Farm smiled out the social calendar.

In rushing this year the fraternity fared very well, initiating seven freshmen and four upper classmen.

Brothers Guy, Westcott, and Brown were tapped for ODK, with brother Brown being elected president of that group.

Other brothers distinguished themselves in the varied extra-curricular fields of athletics, publications, drama, and social affairs.

After the presidency of President Bill Bonner, Vice President Bill Bonner, Secretary Jim Traylor, and Treasurer Jim Smith, Lambda Chi is looking toward another top year during next fall.

Alpha Omicron Psi

The AOPI's have wound up a busy year, and we're glad to have new girls to even up Sigma Tau chapter next year and worry to see one of our best members, Betty, in June.

In the Fall, we raised the money that we needed to adopt a foster child, and throughout the year we've been receiving letters from Trixie, a little girl.

The famous W. C. C. Can-Chu chow, which was made its initial appearance in 1949, was again busy in October with new date routines for the Halloween dance held in the Hoesel Hall. The dance was given to raise money for the Kent County Hospital.

During the winter and up until November, the members were all at work conducting studies for our annual charity bazaar, which featured a musical review, a Chinese attraction, penny pitching, a grab bag, fortune telling, handwork table, and cake and candy table.

In the Student Night attraction, sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council for a football scholarship, some of the "gals" became "guys" to out "Urch" Bowers, Veterinary School "The Guys and Gals from Washington."

The close of the first semester found in losing four of our girls, Kay Funder, Polly Koumjian, Carolyn Barch, and Brian Beare, who had completed their studies for graduation. Eight days after the start of the second semester, we presented our informal party, an initiation of Kay Kyser's College of Musical Knowledge, with Grace Iselle, a new pledge, highlighting the show with her performance of Spike Jones' "William Tell Overture" and Dian Lashaw and Elly Dorman presenting their version of "The Thing."

When this came out, the AOPI's were busy with new members. The new members, who came out, were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house. The weekend of April 7 and 8 was filled with activities—a luncheon in Washington on Saturday sponsored by the Washington Alumnae Chapter. The new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

In May, we presented a devoted list of our past members in appreciation of the hard work they had done for us during the year. On May 6, we held a tea in the sorority room for the faculty. The following weekend, our new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

On the Monday before exams, we closed the year with a surprise picnic for Dian Lashaw, who will be home in the fall. The new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

During the year, Shirley, Fay, and Lida received fraternities from their respective friends, and Mary Ellen was married to a child, left hand sparkle.

We return next year to a room that has been slightly rejuvenated during the past year by the purchase of a new table, a coffee table, and a new lamp. The new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

Alpha Chi

This year the Alpha Chi opened with a party for their patronesses. From then on the year was filled with rapid series of events that has made the year one to be remembered. The new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

Eight members started out the year. The girls were pledged and initiated. Nine of the end of the year we had fourteen active members. To Dot, Ruth, and Mandy Jane who are leaving our number, we wish the very best of luck.

Spring elections and awards have placed many a Chi D girls on the top. Nan Crabtree was elected to the presidency of the Women's Student Government. The new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

Next year we plan to be congratulated for receiving certificates for outstanding activities during the year. On the vocal side, the new members were: Cynthia, Gary Lee, and Sign—with a party at Lyn Whites' house.

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd

As the spring sporting season draws to a close on the Shore, and the Maroon and Black uniforms are packed away for another year, the Sho'men have commendable records to boast of, for this year's spring sports finale.

The lacrosse squad, under the guidance of their unequalled coach, Charlie Clark, has terminated the '51 campaign with the finest stick team since the inception of the game here at Washington College. Although their record is the same as last year, 10 victories and 3 defeats, this year's team was pitted against several of the nation's top tens, including Duke which was tied for the national title.

A strong Navy team set the Shore school off to a bad start, however, Hofstra, Adelphi, Swarthmore, Lehigh, and the Un. of North Carolina fell in rapid succession to the well-versed Chesterton stick wielders. The second match of the Southern tour marred the Maroon and Black victory string, as the depth of the Bluevel squad spelled victory by a one point margin. Nevertheless, the Clarkmen proved their stick ability by surrounding West Chester, Western Md., Loyola, the Un. of Delaware and Baltimore Un. while they conceding to a high spirited Mt. Washington ten.

Coach Clark expects to do a little rebuilding for the '52 season, as 2 midfielders, 2 defencemen and 1 attacker, are destined to graduate. However, a strong reserve unit will be available and an experienced goalie, Bill Russell, should considerably thwart opposing forces.

Depth Problem

The Sho' thirdclass terminated their dual meet encounters with a 2 won and 3 lost record which was highly successful, considering the limited number of men who scored points. Their hindrance was not lack of ability, but lack of depth. The surprise of the season was the upset victory over the Baltimore Olympic Club who was quite over confident at the outset of the meet.

"Captain" Jim Twilley ended his 4 year track career at the top of the Mason-Dixon and Middle Atlantic contingent of cinder-kickers as he successfully filled the shoes of former Shore star, Larry Brandenburg. Highly scoring Kenny Howard, one of the topnotch runners to ever set foot on the Washington cinderpath, excelled proficiently during the entire season, aspiring a buoyant future ahead of him.

Netmen Look Ahead

The Washington College tennis team has finally obtained some real courts to cavort upon. Although the C. U. racketeers despised the Sho'men to the defeated ranks, they retaliated against Towsen when Coach Tom Eliasson discovered several talented newcomers who showed promise for the future. Bill Brandt is the lone graduate of this year which means Coach Eliasson will have the Wyckoff Bros., Jack Smith, Bill Murray, Al Zaloksi and Tony Tomian returning. This experienced crew should be a contender for the M-D title next season, if they remain intact.

Howard, Kabernagel Are Honored At Athletic Banquet

Tuesday, May 22, Washington College held its annual athletic banquet, where the athletic awards during the past year were presented by the respective team coaches.

Athletic Director Edward Athey opened the evening, after a few minutes prepared by Miss Cox and Mrs. Coleman, by welcoming those students who are graduating in June to return again to the Shore school where they will always be welcomed. President Daniel Z. Gibson then saluted on the values gained through sports in College.

Treasurer Athey introduced the Chairman of the Athletic Council, Harry Russell who captured everyone's attention through his humorous anecdotes. Mr. Russell then introduced that Kenny Howard was the recipient of the award given to the athlete who has done the most for his school during the past year, in sports and in character. Larry Brandenburg, also a track star, presented the award last year.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Ellis Dwyer, coach of Radnor High School, Radnor, Pa. was then presented. Mr. Dwyer, graduate of the class of '35 of Washington College, used as his main topic, "Character Building in Sports." Dan Montero presented the football and track awards, while Coach Athey distributed the tennis, soccer, and basketball letters.

Coach Charles B. Clark presented the lacrosse certificate, announcing that Harry Kabernagel was selected to receive the annual Woman Trophy presented to the deserving stickman of the 1951 campaigns. The three other winners during past years were Graham Menzies, Ray Wood and Ed Leonard. Dr. Clark also announced that Kabernagel, Leonard and Wood had been chosen to play for the Southern team in the annual North-South clash this year.

The banquet was as usual, highly successful and everyone's deprecit gratitude was extended to Miss Cox and Mrs. Coleman for their cooperation.

Wood Sets National Record

By Rod Ware

Leland Ray Wood may be a strange name to many persons on campus, but there is a certain red headed senior who you will want to know as "Rip", or "Dad" as he is better known, has made himself quite well known and feared by a great many lacrosse players and coaches.

"Dad" started his lacrosse career at Forest Park High School in Baltimore. While he was enrolled there, the best he could do was hold down a second string position. However, something came over the quiet-natured Leland during his year and a half stretch in the army, for when he arrived at Washington College in 1948, he jumped into a starting roll for the Shore ten.

In his freshman year, Woody tallied 40 goals to start a very brilliant career. His next season, he set a scoring record of 62 goals that stood up until Don Swan beat him by three goals this year. In his junior and senior years, "Dad" registered 38 and 37 goals respectively.

When the record books were examined, "Rip" found out that he had set a new national scoring record for four years of lacrosse. His 187 tallies bettered the old record of 146, previously held by Lee Chambers of N.Y. His output of goals is additionally commendable when one considers that he was consistent in scoring—never netting more than seven goals in any one game.

Dad has been pursuing a major in commerce, while not minding a lacrosse stick. He isn't quite sure of his plans for the future, but we all hope that whatever he undertakes will yield him as much admiration as has his stay on the Washington campus. Good Luck, "Ray".

Howard, Twilley Place In M-A Meet

Sho'men Kenny Howard and Jim Twilley earned in creditable performances in the Middle-Atlantic States' annual track and field meet. May 18-19 held at Johns Hopkins University.

Placed atop the "team of the future" of the Middle-Atlantic states, Howard gained second place in the 220 yard dash while Twilley accomplished the same feat in the 440 yd. run. Twilley turned in creditable performance in the 800 yd. race, finishing at a stride at the fifth place.

"The Jet" Returns
Wing footed Kenny Howard is destined to set new records during his future track career here at the Chesterton. However, capitalizing on his lacrosse, he is still an unrepentant lacrosse player.

Both of these men are possible entries of the Baltimore Olympic Club which will be participating in four non-season track and field contests this June. These meets begin at Clifton Heights, Maryland, June 3, and include the Municipal Games, June 9. The National Relays on the 10th, and The South Atlantic Association meet, June 16.

Former Shore cinderman, Larry Brandenburg, Mike Kelly, Hubbard and two B.O.C. tops in several of these meets. Brandt and Mike were the other two members of that renowned W.C. relay team of 1950. When June comes around, this old future might renew their talents once again in the South Atlantic one mile relay, for

4 Shoremen To Represent South In Tilt

When the annual blows for the favor of the white North-South lacrosse game, June 9, at Rutgers Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York, Washington College will be represented by three players and a coach.

The South forces boast Charlie R. Clark as an assistant coach to Avery Blake of Swarthmore and Shore stand out, Harry Kabernagel, Eddie Leonard and Rip Wood. These four men were chosen by the National Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association from the entire contingent of lacrosse coaches and players in the East. Troy is the Northern metropolis of lacrosse and frequently draws 8 to 10,000 fans to a game.

Washington's Captain

Ed Leonard, captain and regular of the Chesterton school, but won the Maroon and Black four years and has developed into one of the finest stick men in the East. He has been an inspirational leader and possesses the talent of a college team in his own efforts. His defensive play is sound and reliable and he is deadly on loose balls and in clearing to his team's offensive area. His leadership of campus activities and on the lacrosse field should serve as an inspiration to future lacrosse men.

Four Year Veterans

The other two selections, Ray Wood and Harry Kabernagel, have romped Klable for four years as threats to all opposing teams.

"Woody" who has established an all time scoring record during his collegiate career was picked as an All-American choice last year and hopes to repeat this achievement this year. Ray has remained modest, cooperative and a fine example of stick fortitude during his college career.

Harry Kabernagel, who was presented with the Walston Trophy for the outstanding player of the W.C. squad is noted for his clever diagnostics of opponents' plays. Harry, who possessed limited lacrosse experience when he entered Washington, has developed into a front-line player. He is fast about and plays the stickmen so as to thwart opponents' scoring. Modest and dependable, Kabernagel has remained the backbone of the Shore defencemen since the sport was revived here.

Unparalleled Coach

Coach Charlie Clark was picked, along with Bob Butler, coach of the Un. of Virginia, by the N.E.L.A. to assist Avery Blake with the South forces. With a background of over 20 years as a lacrosse player and coach, Clark has a fine knowledge of the game and molded the Shore stickmen into one of the top ten teams in the country. He has raised them to a central position of the stick circle, through his unifying efforts and unequalled leadership.

In 4 years, his team has won out of 46 Collegiate games and 10 out of 20 total games, which include clubs, at Mt. Washington. The only mar on the '51 record was by Navy, 6-4, Duke, 7-4, and Mt. Washington, 7-4. Ten other teams fell before the Chesterton Clarkmen who have developed into a team unequalled in Washington College lacrosse history!

Sho'men Sting Bees

Washington College closed its official 1951 lacrosse season, May 5, by downing Baltimore University, 17-11, at Baltimore's Herring Run Park.

Leading the Shore team to their final victory of the season were Ray Wood, Graham Menzies and Larry Leonard with four goals each. Charley Beasley also scored four times to pace the Shore.

Players contributing to the scoring were the Chestertonians John

Alumni, Del. Scheduled For Weekend

As a highlight of Washington College's annual June week celebration, today the lacrosse team is staging two exhibition games, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

The festivities begin at eleven o'clock when a visiting team composed of former alumni stickmen appears to storm the Shore. The Blue Hens of Delaware are visiting Kibler Field in the afternoon to encounter the Maroon and Black first string, five of whom will be playing their last game.

Alumni Returning

Indications are that the following alumni are returning to battle the Sho' reserve unit: Prior Ransom, Capt. 1950; Charley Mullikin, '50; "Smoe" Hitchcock, '50; "Learned" McLeron, '50; Charles Hoffman, '50; Jack Jackson, '50; Cliff Cox, '49; Alex MacKieff, '49; Jack Lankford, '49; Bill Ginn, Capt. '48; Bob Maloney, '48; Phil Sterling, '37; Mack Wingate, '38; Phil Wingate, '37; Dick Gamble, '35; Eury Barkhart, '34; and others who have not notified the team as yet. These alumni stick wielders will be headed by none other than Sho' Coach, Charlie Clark, a graduate of '51 and one of the top stickmen of that year. An exciting game is in store for all fans as these "grand old men of lacrosse" will attempt to prove that they can still cradle that net.

Del. Led By Swan

At 3:30 P. M. the Chesterton school's first team will match guits with the Blue Hens in an exhibition affair which may possibly become an annual festivity of homecoming activities each year. The host squad boasts a record of 10 victories and 3 defeats one of the conquests being over the Delaware team May 4 when the visitors were surmounted, 14-2.

However, the Newark invaders were without their national high scorer of the year, Don Swan, who has tallied 65 goals during the '51 season.

Swan was sidelined with an injury May 8. Since this is not an official fracas, the Blue Hen coach, Milton Roberts has requested to join his team on the field. A former Hopkins star, Roberts has progressed rapidly with his team which turned in a fine performance this spring. Teaming with Swan, Roberts will be a key man in the visitors' struggle for revenge.

Last of the "Indians"

This game will mark the final appearance of five Washington seniors. They are Ed Leonard, Ray Wood, Duke Ginn, Larry Westbrook and Harry Kabernagel. The set are the "last of the Indians" who were instrumental in reviving the sport here in 1918. They have all turned in a fine job and will also have a credit to Washington College.

Grin and Eddie Leonard with two each, while Bobby Jackson counted for a single tally.

In bogging their tenth victory in 13 outings, the Sho'men displayed a clever passing attack which the Blues were unable to cope with.

After taking an early first period lead, the Shore ten never headed. The closest the Baltimoreans were to come was with a second frame, when they dead-ended the score at 4-4. However, two goals by Wood and one each by Larry Leonard and Menzies, within the space of three minutes, made the score read 8-4 for Washington at half-time.

This was Baltimore's last game as they wound up with a 6-2 season record.

The Sho'men will participate in an unofficial double header as a feature of Commencement week.

Gold Pentagon To Leonard

Ednie Leonard, post president of Omicron Delta Kappa has been selected by that group to receive the ODK Gold Pentagon Award mark of the outstanding senior at Washington College.

Also receiving the same award is Louis Goldstein, majority floor leader in the State Senate, for the most outstanding alumnus.

Ednie Leonard has participated in numerous activities during his four years in Washington College. This year besides his ODK duties he was president of Theta Chi Fraternity, captain of the Lacrosse team and president of the President's Club.

Louis Goldstein graduated from Washington College in 1935 and has since then been active in the political world in the state of Maryland. He recently spoke to the student body at an assembly sponsored by the Forensic Society on the Maryland State Legislature.

The Gold Pentagon Awards are made each year by Omicron Delta Kappa to the most outstanding seniors and alumnus. They will be given to the winners during the graduation ceremonies.

Athlete Of Week

When the diplomas are handed out tomorrow afternoon, there will be one Washington athlete who will be remembered in the sports picture through his graduation. He is "Versatile" Les Cook who has participated in three years of varsity basketball and four years of track during his career at the Shore school. As president of the varsity club last year and an outstanding performer of the track squad, "Les C." has been talked to one of the most well-rounded athletes to ever leave the Chestertown school.

"Cankladden"

Les has such sports pastimes, especially swimming, bowling and golf. His musical talents are many and on the track team, he is a five event man. Les gets "a big kick" out of doing a little bit of everything, however, according to Les he "doesn't profess to be good in any one of them." His modest tone and easy manner are characteristic of this soft-spoken senior. No one knew his middle name until "Cankladden" was initiated into Theta Chi Fraternity 4 years ago. When his full name was called out, "Les 'Cankladden' Cook," the laughter was excessive only by "Cankladden's" redoubting fear.

Les said he "used to play a little baseball" when he was small but "was hit on the head by a speedball" and that was when he came out for track! His most thrilling experience in the threefold sport was Les' 200 yard race against John Hopkins in '49. "Cankladden" leaped 218" in the broad jump, to edge Jay Star Fed Wright for 1st place honors.

Ervin Beale Hopkins "Les C." was most thrilling moment was experienced on the hardwood against the Jays in 1941. After throwing up a shot that almost splintered the backboard, he followed the rebound with a one hand push in the dying moments of the contest, enabling the Maroon and Black to emerge victorious, 58-57.

When Les Cook receives his degree tomorrow, his absence will undoubtedly be noted by every sports fan on the hall.

ODK Names Bill Brogan

William Brogan, post president of the inter-fraternity council and recently elected by Omicron Delta Kappa to succeed the honorary fraternity to serve for the coming school year. Other newly elected officers of the group are Joe Jugara, vice-president, Edward Waid, secretary and Dr. Charles Brogan a member, has been elected B. Clark, secretary treasurer. (The secretary-treasurer's office must be a family member.)

Brogan has been active in college activities for the past three years. He is a member of the Varsity Club, plays on the basketball team, is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and post president of the Inter-Fraternity Council. He will take the position filled by Ed die Leonard, last year's ODK president. The group will be present in the taping ceremony to be held for Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, Sunday at 2:00 P. M. Governor McKeldin will receive honorary membership in the organization on that day.

ODK has been an active campus organization since its beginning. This year it is in charge of student leadership, organized right work in the Snack Bar and acted as a student governing body.

Busted Branch

By Marnadade

As I stood with my dear teacher Professor Coffey at the counter of Mary's Groves Spun munging on the free straw and spitting well-learned greetings to the meekly bowed hurried ladies, I spied my old friend Eric Loupaupe, football hero and R.M.O.G. of Tappa Kappa Kappa Fraternity. With one jump I hopped behind the counter and proceeded to run in the direction of my old pal. Haly was down 1 foot on a pan of oles and fell into the trap that was stamped on from one class to another. Fearing that I might be run over, I did not fight but let myself be pushed along. Suddenly something yanked me by the neck and I found myself flung down a street. When I got up I found that besides my broken arm and sprained pelvis I was hurt. Looking to the front of the room I saw one student standing against the wall and a student firing squirt about to make chase of him. The ghoul went to the told me that I had dropped in on the best game of the school. Excitement 100 percent by Prof. Marnadade.

"I'm putting this column in my combat boot. If I survive, you'll hear from me next week."

Intramural Softball

The surprising East Hall nine pulled the biggest upset of the intramural season by beating Theta Chi 8-0 in the championship. Theta Chi, seeded fourth, had been in the second division of the league most of the season, but with a miraculous late season victory, they came up to take it all.

Fredericks Hits Homer

East Hall's winning runs came in the sixth inning with two out and Kenny Howard on second base. Power pitcher Jack Fredericks then slugged a home run. The winning blow came one inning after East Hall had staged a three run rally to tie the red and white 6-6, after the latter nine had been leading most of the contest.

East Hall's tying marker was scored on the unmarred and bolded play seen this season on the softball diamond. With Danny Starke on first and Steve Martinson on third, double steal was attempted, and both men reached the sacks safely.

Kenny Sullivan, the pitcher, allowed only seven hits, while Kenny Howard was hit nine times, but with little power. Bob Ezary scored the first run of the game in the second inning to give Theta Chi an early 1-0 lead. In the third, the Theta Chi pitcher added three more runs in a rally led by Kenny Sullivan's two run home run.

Double Scat

Vince Magliochetti sent Theta Chi ahead 3-0 with a triple that sent home Jim Twilley, but in the fourth frame Danny Starke and Jack Nacrelli drove in three runs to close the gap. Then in the fifth Jack Fredericks hit a triple to drive in two more, and then the double steal occurred and East Hall moved ahead.

However, losing pitcher Sullivan hit a triple with a man on in the top of the sixth to even 3-3 at that time. But the inning was ended without further damage to East Hall and in the lower half of the inning, Fredericks hit his powerful home run. The game ended 8-0. Les Morris stranded one runner on base pitched out of difficulty in the last inning to take the win.

My Hobby

By Ralph Hodges

My particular hobby does not come under the heading of a hobby, for matter, does the classification of peculiar quite in the case. Let us say instead that this hobby of mine is unique—different. As well, to be a collector, my hobby is to collect. I will talk about nothing, something, or more preferably everything. Talking is an art; however, the way I do it, it's a crime.

I was launched on this hobby of mine at a very early age—seven, to be exact. I had talked myself out of my first childhood fight. The neighborhood, which I lived in was preceded over by a lad of ten, who was quite large and strong for his age. Well, one fine day this monster decided to put me in my place physically. I was definitely scared given by this uncontrollable prospect, so I suddenly started talking and to this day I still don't know what I said. I talked so fast and furious that the chap got all confused and eventually I convinced him not to plaster me, but to go and clip a few of his friends who were doing him wrong. If I didn't like some of his friends I didn't like some of his friends. I finally persuaded this big-time character into supporting me as a new neighborhood boss. (Dry politics at such an early age.)

My school saw me further perfecting my hobby by the way of debating club, dramatic productions, speech organizations, and any other means by which I could get my vocal cords unwinded.

I can recall an incident which occurred in my third year English class. We happened to be reading Julius Caesar at that time. I was the first to read and was reading it while the rest of the class was sleeping. The reading was to have taken two weeks, but I did it in three in one period.

My last year in high school saw the crowning moment in my hobby. I was selected to act as master of ceremonies at an assembly program. All I had to do was introduce the speakers and I also had to give a simple speech on keeping the locker room clean (requested by the principle). Prior to my entrance on the stage I had a fight with the assembly director, and this fight led to a roasting and I was supposed to end at twelve—after a quarter past twelve I was still talking. I was so mad when I went on stage I didn't know what I was talking about. I thought of the school and faculty, especially the assembly director.

Whenever I am with a group and one of those terrible feelings of a situation occurs, I can be counted on to keep the conversation going and eventually try to dominate it. My great asset in this hobby of mine is the fact that I have a lot of things to say and people speaking. The many times I have been called upon to speak before a group of people, I have yet to have used a profanity and I much prefer to speak extemporaneously than I am never at a loss for words.

An example of how my hobby affects people is the case of my roommate, Harold. When I first met Harold he was a civil engineer and he often used to say a few words of greeting and quite frequently he would comment on the meals. Now all he does is grin when spoken to, and he has developed a noticeable cleft around the corners of his mouth.

Ment production in 1951 is expected to exceed the 1950 meat output by a billion or more pounds.

Rudo Elected Head Of Varsity Club

Bernie Rudo, veteran lacrosse and basketball man, was elected recently to serve as president of the Varsity Club. The other officers also elected were: Bill Bonner, vice-president; Bill Brown, secretary; and Vince Magliochetti as treasurer.

The group is open to those men who have have received 3 Varsity letters. They take an active part in campus activities, sponsoring the Lacrosse and Basketball teams and assisting in pep rallies during the fall.

Past president of the group is Lee C. Cook who participated on the basketball team and played on the field crew with the track team. Other officers were Frank Brower, Ken Sullivan.

Bernie Rudo, new president, is a junior on the ball this year. He has played college lacrosse and basketball since his freshman year. Rudo is also a member of Theta Chi Fraternity.

Art Club Presents Winners

The Washington College Art Club, newly formed organization on campus, presented the winners of the Annual Art Show at a tea held in Dick Library of Reed Hall June 1st. The winners were selected by a judging committee headed by Mrs. Gretchen Wood during the Art Show held in the middle of May.

An added attraction to the tea was the showing of theatrical sets of Elizabethan theaters done by the Elizabethan club under the direction of Annals J. Bradley, Dean of Women.

Peggy Brunner, president of the Art Club, announced that the Art Club would participate in the Commencement Art Show, June 2 and 3 and would help the American Artistic Professional League manage the show. Entries were submitted for the showing by several Washington College students.

335 Students Enroll For School Year

New students and transfers to Washington College numbered 125 for the fall of 1951 according to E. N. Foster, Registrar. Enrollment dropped from 413 to 355 meaning a loss of 58 students over last year.

Seventeen different religions are represented here this year according to a breakdown taken from forms filled out during registration. Top representations are Methodist, Catholic and Episcopal, predominating in that order.

Veteran benefits go lower this year with only thirty-nine students going to school on the G.I. Bill.

Frosh Class Begins Hazing

The Freshman class can now be identified by maroon caps and name tags as Sophomores having got under way at Washington College.

Through plans adopted by the Sophomore Hazing Board, all Freshmen must wear W.C. "dicks" at all times with some ties prominently displayed across the front, and they will have to leave earlier for classes to arrive on time without walking on the "T" or cutting campus. To the upperclassmen, the Freshmen must give preference in the dining hall and in the assembly hall, plus addressing all upperclassmen by their last names and Miss and Mister.

The Sophomore Hazing Board, headed by John Minnich and consisting of several representatives of the Sophomore class will try all violations of the rules and vote upon a suitable punishment for the offense.

A deciding factor in the battle between the Freshmen and Sophomores will come at the end of the three week period of hazing. "To the victor belong the spoils." If the Freshmen win the contest, hazing will end, but if the Sophomores are victorious, there will be an additional two weeks of intensive hazing ahead for the new students.

Pan-Hellenic Forum Held In Reid Hall

The first of two Pan-Hellenic Forums introducing freshman girls and rushers to sorority life was held yesterday in Reid Hall library from 6:30 to 7:00 P.M.

President Jean Shenton, ZTA, announces that because of Homecoming Weekend, the Pan-Hellenic Tea and sorority room tour will be held on November 4 and 5 respectively. On November 12, the second forum will be presented to the rushers.

Six New Teachers Join Faculty

Six new members have joined the teaching staff here at Washington College and are instructing in several fields including, Economics, Biology, History, Law, Physical Education and Philosophy. This number brings the total of the actual teaching staff to twenty-five members.

All of the new members have served in some capacity in the educational field before coming to Washington College. Mr. Edward A. Anderson, Assistant Professor of Economics, taught for the past two years at Beaver College in Jenkintown, Pa., besides serving as administrative assistant for European Field Trips sponsored by that school. Mr. Anderson is originally from Philadelphia and received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. At present he is working on his dissertation in Economic Theory at that school. He also did speaking for the World Affairs Council in Philadelphia and free lance work in the Advertising Art field. He is a member of the American Economic Association, The American Marketing Association and the Royal Economic Society.

Dr. Edmund Berkeley, Professor of Biology, is a native of Virginia, and received both his bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Virginia. During the war he served as an officer in the Naval Reserve and following that returned to school at The University of North Carolina where he received his Doctor's degree. He served as an instructor and as assistant professor in Biology at Washington & Lee University and held a teaching fellowship at the University of North Carolina. Dr. Berkeley is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, The American Society of Biologists, The Virginia Academy of Science, the North Carolina Academy of Science and the Botanical Society of America.

Serving as a replacement for Mr. Edward R. Padgett, who is on a year's leave of absence, is Mr. Eugene R. Elkins, Assistant Professor of History and Political Science. Mr. Elkins holds a Ph.D. from the University of Maryland and served in the United States Navy in the Navy-12 unit. He received his A.B. cum laude from Marshall College, in 1948 and his M.A. in history from Syracuse University in 1951. He is a member of the American Historical Society, the American Political Science Association and the American Society of Public Administration.

Mr. Preston P. Heck, lawyer here in Chestertown for many years, is serving as a lecturer in Business Law for the college. Mr. Heck is a graduate of Washington College, class of '21 and received his law degree from the University of Maryland in 1932. He has been in the teaching field for a number of years, serving in an instructor in the Philippines and for Baltimore City College. He is a member of the Kent County Bar, the Maryland Bar, and the American Bar Association. He also served as chairman of the Selective Service Board here in Chestertown, and of the local Red Cross, and is a member of the Public Welfare Board.

Dr. Lawrence Ford Tapped For Honorary Fraternity

Five senior men were tapped Thursday by Omicron Delta Kappa in recognition of outstanding activities and leadership on the Washington College campus. They were: Tom Lowe, Jim Trader, Larry Leonard, Bernie Rudo and Nick Scallion. Also tapped as an honorary member of the group was Dr. Lawrence S. Ford, long-time professor of languages here at the college.

The tapping ceremony was presided over by William Broman, president of the group and new members were tapped by present member, Joe Inagura.

Members of the honorary fraternity are selected on a basis of points acquired by participation in college activities. Upon initiation into the fraternity they assume the responsibilities of an ODK member, that of supervising allotments of money to campus organizations and serving in the general capacity of a student government leader.

Tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa as an honorary member, Dr. Lawrence C. Ford added another honor to the many he has accumulated here on the Washington College campus. Dr. Ford has been active as a professor for the past 25 years, making him senior member of the teaching staff. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha Order and faculty advisor for the Newman Club. He also serves as Secretary of the Committee on Admissions and Scholarships, and is a member of the Inter-University Council and the Merit Scholarship Committee. He is also a member of the American Association of University Professors and is president of the local chapter.

Each of the five seniors tapped have been leaders in several fields of activities on the Washington College campus. Tom Lowe served as president of the Kappa Alpha Order, won the Washington Players Oscar for the best male performance turned in in 1950-51, was treasurer of Mount Vernon Literary Society and a member of the Canterbury Club and the Forensic Society. He also worked as a feature writer for the Washington Elm.

Larry Leonard, vice president of Theta Chi fraternity and student manager of the Snack Bar served as Business Manager of the Pegasus, was captain of the Freshman Football team, member of the Elm circulation staff, basketball manager and Variety Club member. He enters his senior year as a first-string hurdler man with three years of game experience behind him.

Gibson To Be Inaugurated At Homecoming Festivities

ODK Makes Request

ODK requests all organizations that want allotments this year to get in touch with either Bill Broman, President, or Dr. Charles B. Clark, faculty advisor, at once. This must be done early in the year so that ODK can make out an annual budget.

Forensic's 'Open House'

The Paul E. Titwirth Forensic Society sponsored an open house, October 3 in Bill Smith Hall at 7:00. The program was a panel discussion on "Scientific Service System as it Affects the College Student." The participants were Bob Bink, Henry Louis, Tom Lowe and Leonard Doll.

The debate division is making plans for an intercollegiate debate schedule for the end of the semester.

On November 20 the economic division is having Mr. J. A. DuPont here to speak on "Poverty, Thresh and Now."

The Forensic Society is also planning a program for "Observation of United Nations Day" on October 24.

TYPING COURSE

The attention of Washington College students is called to the opening of an evening course in typewriting, which will be offered without charge at the Chestertown High School, beginning Monday evening, October 8. Interested college students should telephone the high school for further details.

In inauguration ceremonies to be held here October 27th, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson will be officially installed as the twelfth president of Washington College since the founding of the school in 1782. The event will highlight activities on the hill for the annual Homecoming Weekend and is expected to attract many alumni plus numerous delegates from other educational institutions.

Dr. Gibson was elected to the office of president in June, 1950, by the Board of Visitors and Governors and assumed the presidency in August of that year.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Felix Morley, well-known author, radio commentator and one-time Pulitzer Prize Winner. Mr. Morley is also outstanding in the educational field having served as president of Haverford College in Haverford, Pennsylvania.

Also scheduled for the inauguration ceremony will be the presentation of an honorary doctor degree to James L. Madden, Washington College graduate in the class of 1911. Mr. Madden is at present acting chancellor of New York University and Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Prominent guests of the college for the event include the Governor of Maryland, Theodore McKeldin and his wife, U. S. Senators for Maryland, Hubert R. O'Connor and John M. Butler and the state delegation at Annapolis from the Eastern Shore.

The ceremony will begin at 2:00. Saturday afternoon on the 27th and will be held on the commensurate site, located in front of Middle Hall. It will be preceded by a luncheon for guests of the college in honor of the president.

Active in yearbook work, Jim Trader served as Assistant Editor and is now Editor-in-Chief of the Pegasus. He also held the office of secretary of the Kappa Alpha Order, as well as treasurer of the senior class. He served as President of the Future Teachers of America his Junior year and as lacrosse manager his freshman and sophomore years, switching to a play-back position last year.

Mason-Dixon star, Nick Scallion, has been a mainstay on the college basketball team for the past three years. He is also a member of Theta Chi fraternity serving in the capacity of chaplain his sophomore year. Scallion has been a baseball manager here for the past several years and will act as head manager during the 1951 season. He is winner of the Spidney Award for both athletic and scholastic standing. Besides his leadership in the sports field he is a member of the Newman Club, was associate sports editor of the Pegasus and served on the Interfraternity Council.

Bernie Rudo, Variety Club president, has also been active in athletics, being on the variety basketball and basketball teams. He also served as president of the local Freshman Club. Omega Nu, was a member of the Dean of Mines Council, the President Club and the President's Advisory Board.

Canterbury Club To Meet Tuesday At 7:45 P.M.

The first fall meeting of the Washington College Canterbury Club will be held on Tuesday, October 9, at 7:45 P.M. in Reid Hall Library. This first meeting will be a rather informal get-together to welcome the new students who wish to join the club, and to discuss future plans for the club. Refreshments will be served. Don't forget to come!

From The President

Dear Washingtonians:

One of the so-called "fringe benefits" of being in college work — which I include being a college student — is the pleasure each fall of greeting a new academic year and making a fresh start. To put it more personally, the pleasure of greeting one's students and classmates, both old and new, after a summer's absence from one another. I would like to make my own greetings personal, but since I have not had the opportunity in all instances so far, I will at least say here, Welcome!

Not only the fresh start, but also the frequent sense of accomplishment during the college year is almost unique to formal education. Regularly needed grades, the progression from one semester to another, and from one class level to another, seem to have little equivalent in the life after college. Recognizing that is another of those adjustments one must make after getting into his life's work. Of course, there are promotions and changing duties; but the chronological regularity of them disappears. Indeed, according to the personnel director of one large corporation, one of their major morale problems arises from the fact that many employees, just out of high school, fret because they are not regularly promoted every few months — and do not recognize that promotion is based on increased accomplishment, not merely on job-hopping.

Close friendships, regular sense of accomplishments, and youth — is it any wonder college graduates look back upon their undergraduate days with nostalgia? There is no time like it — as Chaucer would say, nowhere, now. Make the most of it. Remember that in 1952 most of you will be around when Washington College celebrates its 200th anniversary; and many of you will see the year 2000. What you do this year will help to determine what you will be doing then. Good luck!

Cordially,

DANIEL GIBSON

Introducing . . . The New FACULTY

By Anne Simonds

Everyone knows Miss Marperette Bree. She needs no introduction. Even if you don't know her personally, you know her good work; she is the genius in Hudson Hall that competes with the snack bar.

Miss Bree attended the high school in Englewood, New Jersey, and studied dietetics at Columbia University. Since then, as she puts it, she has been collecting colleges. Most recently she has been at Goucher College for two years and previous to that the spent nine years at Maryland College for Women. Her part time home is in Lutherville, Md., although she spends most of her months on the job. Her hobby, rather surprisingly, is not cooking but the collecting of antiques.

Professional Work

As an aid to students planning to enter professional fields of work, a cooperative arrangement has been made with accredited professional schools so that students may receive their undergraduate degrees from Washington College after the completion of three years of academic work and a specified amount of study in a professional school.

In pursuing, this degree may be received at the same time that a nursing certificate is secured, which is at the end of approximately six months of training. This applies to the School of Nursing at Johns Hopkins and Union Memorial in Baltimore.

A similar arrangement has been made for pre-law, pre-dental, and

To Miss Bree, the snack bar presents no menacing competition. She feels that college students eat one continuous meal from dawn to well past dusk. Such being the case, the snack bar represents a necessity on the college campus.

During the coming months Miss Bree plans to enlarge the college menu. Any suggestions from students are welcome. As yet she has not completely organized her kitchen, but when she finishes that job she will set a new standard for Hudson Hall.

Miss Bree is part of the college and she likes us. From looking at our empty plates in Hudson Hall, would seem that we like her. Let us hope that she makes this her home for many years to come.

pre-medical training. In this case, two years of professional work are required in addition to the completion of academic work.

CONDOLENCES

The Washington College Elm extends its sincerest condolences to Mr. Howard Noblitt of the faculty whose wife has recently undergone two very serious operations at the local hospital. We are hoping for a rapid recovery.

NOTICE

If any faculty member or members are interested in using the gymnasium for physical activity during the early afternoon, evening or weekends please contact Mr. Atcher, Director of Athletics at the Physical Education

With The GREEKS

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Congratulations go to Ruth Roar, past Beta Pi president, now Mrs. Lou Blizard; Barbara Storr, Mrs. Sony Rosier; Hugh Hood, Mrs. Mrs. Lurimore and Debra K. Rouse, Mrs. Rosier. All were married during the summer vacation.

During the summer Marlene Meyer attended the Alpha Chi convention at Roanoke, Va. With her return she brought many fine ideas for a new and better year and the best wishes of our sisters.

Janice Palmer and Barbara Riggs, an Alpha Chi from the University of Maryland, were caught judging in England on the Maryland 4-H team which won the contest in the U. S. and therefore competed in the latter national event. We are proud to relate that the Maryland team won!

Our room looks lovely now. It beams with a new coat of paint. Mickey painted out cost of arms and legs from the singlet. When the reconstruction ends we should be handsome.

Welcome back, Fran. We've missed you. Greetings and a hearty welcome to all the freshmen. Hope you like college.

Look for the carnation girl of the month!

ALPHA OMEGA NU

All of the dust has been cleared out of the house and the boys of A. O. Nu are planning bigger and better things for this year.

We wish to extend a warm hello to all of the returning upperclassmen and a hearty welcome to the freshmen of Washington College.

A few new guests have moved into the house — Joe Capolicchio, Jack McCallough, Henry Flynn, Mike Rossi, Lee DeWitt and Bob Rosier.

"Ucke Waldo," that innamout you have been rubbing on your accented nose, can certainly shouldn't make you sing "Sweet Adeline" all night!

K.A.

The boys at the house don't remark of Bruce Winkler and Bob Jackson these days. Guess they must be really busy with school work or something.

The Beta Omega's have a new house member in Roy Proom. Roy says he will be plenty tough on the fellow to clean up the place. Moving up to treasurer is Fred LaWall. Leon Benjamin asked to be relieved of the treasurer's job in order to devote more time to studying. We know the new officer will do a good job.

Following is a list of those who will now provide for two of this year's summer: Wilfred Dryden, Ken Brier, Don Elliott, Bob Hermann, Roy Sutton and Frank Byham. Good luck, brothers!

THETA CHI

Well, another school year has started and the members of Theta Chi would like to take this opportunity to welcome all the new students over to the house. Just walk in for you are always welcome.

Congratulations are in order for a few members who took that good step during the past summer. They were Bob Williams, Roger Smith, Bill Kenworthy, Larry Leonard and Lou Blizard.

With the coming of the new year we find ourselves with a new house manager in the person of "Dick Mittie". Best of luck with the cleaning detail, Fred.

Back to visit this past week end were Leek, Cook, Dick Cas, Eddie Leonard, Chalk Mulliken, and Don Greenly.

On The Hill

Senas like we've never been here away from this place. . . well, now it's over now and here we've been. Another year, new faces, and who knows what will happen this year?

So far . . . seems that Bill Russell came back and brought a young edition with him, but there's no hope girls . . . both boys have it had—the suit case kids . . . there's also a younger Pete. Look! He's back! It's a multitude of cute freshman coeds and it's a mad scramble between the three sororities . . . saw John cutting the same young lady two weeks ago in a row . . . the tennis team has turned to during their competition . . . you'd better watch the "Arizona Kid" . . . the old ones on campus are glad to see "Choo-choo" . . . but can he work that swing machine yet? We notice that Winkle is fortunate enough to have his live again—no more trips to Bremer.

Jim Smith seems to be occupying a certain young lady's time rather fully, but what is the news with Bobby Jackson? How did "Mr. Roberts" look like the other aristocrat . . . at the "Granary" event? What has M. A. done to Bob Early—he's in! . . . I suppose—five dates in five nights! . . . Shirley, have you played that record at Bennett's for Fred yet? What three girls drove all the way to Villanova for a few short hours? From the snipers it must have been worth it! Aunt Simonds now waxes her hair with a bathing cap on—what rocks? Janusia, just where were you going in the arms of Prince Charm? What about society picnic has been called into court? These people that leave their wallets at home! The "Vinnibic" is acquiring a Vienna atmosphere . . . Have you noticed that Tom Galt has a new pair of dungarees and has he called his uncle yet? Mr. Whitsett is living up to tradition—late again. Have you seen the new girl in the mask bar? I like her name is Francis. What happened to Crabtree on the picnic—it must have been something! Who is Pat Bowser's new friend? . . . it must be nice to have someone walk you home . . . Is it true what they're saying about Gustin—I can't believe it—but the letters are flying to Pitts-burgh . . . How was the movie, Cynara? The Lacrosse team is at it already, but where does Bernie go weekends? We hear that Pete thought there were two teams when only one existed—better luck that room next time, Pete. Little Mickey's back with her arm in a sling—that ring is so big for such a little girl! . . . How did the Hapsick get on Ma's pillow case? We were told that Beau and Graham were slumming—how shocking!

—Until Next Week—

Meeting The Frosh

By Ramona Willey

Editor's Note: One of the most popular features of last year's Elm of articles entitled "These Are Your Frosh," which presented a series of sketches on some of last year's new aristocrats . . . at this time, Pete, Little Mickey, and Winkle we feel that there exists a need for a similar series this year and will therefore inaugurate this week a collection of brief biographical sketches of some of our fresh with the hope that it will enable all of us to get to know them just a little sooner and a little better than we might.

JACK BERGAN—bailing from New Brunswick, New Jersey, where he attended St. Peter's High and Rutgers Prep. At the present G. J. Hall is home, sweet home. Jack's 175 pounds are distributed over a well-built 6 feet, one inch frame—topped by a crew cut and grounded by a pair of steel 11 white bucks. Expressive hazel eyes and an ear, friendly smile are two of his top notes.

Jack likes sports (especially basketball), steak, the opposite sex, and Mary Worth (Who'd a thunk it!), reading and historical novels; but when it comes down to girls with a much-made-up, people who ask for second helpings (he's one of our kind, courteous and congenial fellow—like their hearts), shaving, and, above all, school.

Does he like Washington College? Emphatically, yes! He likes W.C.'s friendly spirit and general atmosphere, and he likes the answer of a doubt, "W.C." will like Jack.

VIRGINIA MARSH—better known as Ginny, the tennis player. No doubt you've seen her on the courts and know what a terrific shot she has. Ginny is from out Arizona way—Tucson to be exact—where all the cowboys live. As far as we've discovered, Ginny's only hobby that is not her occasional impulse to entertain the girls on the third floor of Reid Hall with her ukulele renditions.

Well, slim, and brown haired, layered, Ginny went to Tucson High. She plans to major in history or languages at college and hopes to go into the field of physical therapy later.

Ginny cats, skips, and exists solely for tennis. She also likes Latin, basketball, life in the dorm, raw oysters with catnip, Frankie Lee and country jazz, and the cat—even though it is a great contrast to the wide open spaces.

When your reporter asked Ginny what she thought of Washington College, she answered, "Just put down the check W.C. is wonderful! The office who Ginny best, I think that she is pretty wonderful, too!"

Senior Of . . . ... The Week

ELINORE GUSTAFSON

Elinore Gustafson . . . known on the campus as "Gus," has been in Baltimore where she graduated from Eastern High School in 1948. In her freshman year she was elected to the G.I.A.A., joined Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, and was her class representative in the Homecoming Queen Court.

As a sophomore she continued with activities in the Society of Sciences and the G.I.A.A., of which she has been member for three years. During her junior year "Gus" became well acquainted with the office of secretary, serving in that position for ZTA, the Junior Class, and as secretary-treasurer for the Society of Sciences.

In this, her senior year, she is president of ZTA, and of the Society of Sciences. In addition to this she is working in Hudson Hall and manages to keep rather busy with lab work—for her major is biology. She hopes to continue studies in biology after graduation from W.C. and to eventually get a job in some specialty in that field.

"Gus" loves to travel and particularly enjoys spending her summers in different parts of the country. In the past she has done summer work at Rehoboth Beach, Del., Cape May, N. J., Cape Cod, Mass., and Christchurch, New Zealand.

She is looking forward to a happy and successful senior year to end with a much welcomed diploma.

THE Scoreboard

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Atley Elected President

At a recent meeting of the Mason-Dixon Conference in Baltimore, Edward L. Athey, athletic director of Washington College, was elected president of the M-D Association for 1951. The directors of each school held this council to discuss any changes in their respective school sports program. George S. Proctor of Hampden-Sidney received the vice-presidency, while Lefty Reitz of Loyola was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Six M-D Grid Squads

Only six of the fifteen schools in the Mason-Dixon Conference are fielding football teams this year. Hopkins and Western Maryland boast eight game schedules, five of which are non-conference contests.

Now that the Maroon and Black has tucked its football equipment into the mothballs, the big question is, "Will school spirit decline now that football has been dropped?" Or, you might ask, "Excluding homecoming, did football ever arouse intense spirit on the hill?"

This 'An That

A 24 game varsity and a 12 game J.V. basketball schedule has been arranged for the coming season.

Looks like it will be back to the army for the hardwood games this year. The new high school gymnasium will not be finished in time.

Gallaudet College is once again sponsoring the annual Mason-Dixon cross-country championship, even though the D.C. school has dropped the sport.

Campus Corner

John Santulli, Babe Johnson, Kenney Sullivan, Wes Edwards, and John Wilson are once again favoring the baseball diamond for Millington of the Bi-State League. Millington not only won the league, but also the play-offs. Slugger John Santulli was responsible for Millington's final play-off victory last Sunday, as he clinched a homer in the 10th inning to break the 1-1 deadlock against Centreville.

Don Nutzel returned from his semi-pro debut in Newark, Ohio, and Wellville, N. Y., with an 8-B pitching record. Nice going, Don. Rumor has it that freshman George Hecsey, ex-Southern High School lacrosse star, is quite agile at the age old Indian sport.

Looks like it will be back to the army for the hardwood games V. M.) may be pushing some of the boys for a varsity net berth next spring.

Jim Twilley, captain of last year's varsity track team, is still training diligently. Basic training that is—at Great Lakes, Ill., for the U. S. Navy.

Howard C. Nesbitt, Assistant Professor of Physical Education, is also a graduate of Washington College in the class of 1918. From here he went to Columbia Teachers' College in New York where he received his Master's degree in Physical Education. He served as instructor at the McBurney School in New York City and as teacher-coach at St. Ann's Junior High School in Somerville, New Jersey. He also directed the Riverside Church Playground and was instructor for Police Athletic in New York. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary teachers' fraternity.

Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Religion, Stuart L. Penn has come from Detroit, Michigan, where he attended Wayne University. He received his A.B. degree in 1943 and then served in the armed forces as a pilot in the Mediterranean theater. He then entered Yale University where he received his master's degree in Philosophy.

Pitchmen Prepare For F. & M.

With the suspension of football from the Washington College campus, the entire fall spotlight falls upon the soccer and cross-country teams.

Coch Nesbitt realizes this fact and has had his boys working out for about two weeks in preparation for the season opener at Franklin and Marshall, October 12. Coach Nesbitt, returning to his Alma Mater, is a coach who graduated in 1918, is faced with the problem of building an all-star entirely new team around the nucleus of only six lettermen returning from last year's squad.

Another burden confronting the Maroon and Black is their highly competitive opposition. Playing five games in October makes it necessary for the pitchmen to be in top condition when they inaugurate the campaign next Friday against F. & M.

Nesbitt Sees Fiasco

In spite of the handicap confronting our freshman camp, he is pleased with the way the team is shaping up.

"I think we'll have a good team," he said, "and we'll play a lot of close games. Most Nesbitt is especially satisfied with the way the backfield is rounding into shape. The fire-centered around John (Poochie) Hernandez at center forward, needs more work, but the boys are improving daily."

Small Nucleus

Roughly 25 candidates, less than one-fourth being lettermen, have been looking for starting positions. Some of last year's regulars are being utilized, and will find themselves playing different positions in Coach Nesbitt's starting aggregation.

Forming this small, but able nucleus, are the veterans Hernandez, John Crim, Don (C) McHugh, Walt Griel, Doug Tully and George Horn.

Tournament Progress

Gary Wyckoff, captain-elect of the Washington College tennis team, has announced that the first annual Washington College tennis tournament has reached the semi-final stages of play and will be completed during the latter part of the week.

On Monday reached the semi-finals by knocking out Bob Hoffman in straight sets of 6-1, 6-4. Bob Appleby, top journey favorite, will not be pitted against Heverly due to Bulb's decisive romp over John Parker, 6-1, 6-4.

Met Littleton recorded a tightly contested victory over Joe Pakynikovich, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Met was scheduled to play the winner of the Wits Hoffman vs. Bill Carter match.

Athletic Policy Is Changed

Beginning with the present class of freshmen, a new program has been arranged for the physical education requirement. Although remaining as a two year requirement, necessary for graduation, there will now be a menu for each student to be selective in the matter of the physical activity in which he wishes to engage.

This revision has been made possible chiefly through the efforts of Mr. Foster, Registrar, who has been able, in the majority of cases, to separate the freshmen and sophomores into different class periods.

The course, as now outlined over the two year period, is divided into eight quarters, two per semester. The student therefore, will have a choice of eight different activities. Of the eight, five of these must be team sports, three individual sports and one a combative sport. This will enable the individual to experience hands the skill and rules of a variety number of activities. It is hoped that by doing so the individual will take enough interest in the activities to use as a recreational device now and in the future.

The list of activities now offered with the program are:

Team Sports (Required)—1

Soccer

Touch Football

Fundamentals of basketball

Advanced Basketball

Volleyball

Baseball

Softball

Individual Sports (Req.)—3

Tennis

Cross Country

Badminton

Play Ping

Hoop Games

Gymnastics

Combative Sports (Req.)

Wrestling

Boxing (fundamental only)

Star In N-S Tilt

Stickmen in the Limestone

Three Washington College Lacrosse players, graduates of 1931, played important roles in the North-South All-Star Lacrosse game played at Tarry, N. Y., on the campus of Renaldi Polytechnic Institute, on June 9, 1951.

Ray Wood, star Washington attackman for four years; Eddie Leonard, 1931 captain and outstanding mid-fielder; and Harry Katsenogian, fine close defenceman, performed in a highly creditable manner. Wood, who is already scoring records in inter-collegiate lacrosse, was a starting berth and scored three goals for the South. His outstanding play was acclaimed by all who saw the game. Picked on an unofficial first-string All-American team by the BALTIMORE NEWS-POST AND SUNDAY AMERICAN, Wood is expected to lead a place on the official All-American team.

Washington College will play its fifth season of Lacrosse next spring, having been reactivated as a major sport on the campus in 1938. Coached by Dr. Charles B. Clark, who was one of the southern coaches in the 1924 All-Star game, the team has won 41 of 47 collegiate games played in the past four years. A fine anecdote, handled by Captain Clarence Menzies, is back to back and some promising freshmen are reported to be on hand. Rated ninth among approximately seventy-five colleges and universities playing the Old Indian Game in 1951, the students will be seeking to improve their position this year, or at least to retain their high rating.

10 Men Oppose Rams

Lacking depth, but not spirit, ten Maroon and Black cross-country hopefuls will compete against a strong West Chester triple unit tomorrow.

Two losses through graduation, that of Fil Dryden and Tom Benson, have hampered the team considerably. However, the lone remaining veterans and six newcomers show unstinted promise of molding into a well-knit group.

Becker New Captain

Paul Becker has been elected the new team captain and along with George Eichelberger, Jack McCullough and Ely Boyd, rounds out the quartet that assisted in capturing 81 place honors at the Mason-Dixon Conference last fall.

A surprising newcomer to the hill and dale sport is Bob Appleby, whose tireless efforts show promise of developing him into one of the top runners of the Mason-Dixon this year. Don Heverly, another first year man at this sport, has exhibited hidden ability during the every day workouts.

5 Meets, 3 Championships

Jack Barton and Dick Seymen are representative of the lacrosse tanks who are experimenting a different type of running from that displayed on the lacrosse field. Two freshman additions to the squad are Wayne Grady and Ed Hough, the latter being a former Towson High School harrier.

Coach Ed Athey has arranged a schedule composed of five dual meets plus three championships. Dual encounters which follow the West Chester meet are, Loyola, Hopkins, The Balt., Olympic Club and Towson. The three championship runs follow in order: The Del-Mar, Middle-Atlantic and Mason-Dixon.

2 Weeks Training

Although the Shore signal has been training for only two weeks, each member seems to have rounded into good condition. Coach Athey seems pleased with the unity of the team, no single man being far ahead of another.

The Rams will assuredly get "a run for their money" tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock over the 3.5 mile course.

The Schedule:

Oct. 6 West Chester (h)
Oct. 13 Loyola (h)
Oct. 20 Hopkins (a)
Oct. 27 B.O.C. (h)
Oct. 30 Towson (h)
Nov. 3 Del-Mar Championships (Balt.)
Nov. 9 Middle-Atlantic (Muhlenburg)
Nov. 17 Mason-Dixon (Wash. D.C.)

Highlights In Hockey

The freshman team out at the initial hockey practice last week served as an inspirational hope for Miss Doris T. Bell of the physical educational dept. A large number of enthusiastic female athletes took their position on the field and began lumbering up in preparation for future intramural games. Many of the girls have some background in the sport and these newcomers lacking complete knowledge of the game are making it up through their initiative and perseverance.

If the interest in hockey continues along its present course, there is a strong possibility of an all-freshman squad, a practice discontinued several years ago due to the small enrollment. If so, watch out upscalesmen—those girls giving a lethal side!

The historian Rhoads declared that no single man in his time influenced any people as Hecsey Greely, editor of the New York Tribune.

Players To Cast For 'The Glass Menagerie'

As their first presentation for the 1951-52 season, the Washington Players have selected "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams, a popular Broadway production, directing the first show of the play to be Helen Roe, veteran player with 5 years of experience in working with dramatics behind her. Casting for the play will begin next Monday and Tuesday at 3:30 in the Ferguson Hall.

"The Glass Menagerie" will be something along a new line for the W.C. dramatic group, mainly because it consists of only four characters. In previous productions, cast lists have been as high as 50, as in last year's production of "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

The play itself is one of the most famous plays of the modern theatre, enjoying a great success on Broadway and on the Road. It has also been played in several European countries and in many small theatre groups. The author is equally well known for many successes in modern drama on Broadway.

The story of "The Glass Menagerie" is around a mother and her two children, living in poverty in a St. Louis apartment. The action centers around them the tries to make life look half-way decent to her children, especially the girl who is a cripple. The world of illusion she finally manages to create for her does not last however, and seems to crash into absolute nothingness. The story has been described as one of "great tenderness, charm and beauty" by critics for the Broadway production.

Assembly Programs

The following is a list of the assembly programs to be presented during the next several weeks in William Smith auditorium on Thursday morning:

OCTOBER

- 11—Professor J. William Frey, Professor of German at Franklin and Marshall College and an authority on Penna. Dutch folklore. In addition to his talk, Mr. Frey will sing and accompany himself on the guitar in traditions of Penna. Dutch songs.

- 18—Speaker from the Gulf Oil Company in connection with Oil Progress Week.

- 25—State Senator Dale Adams from Wisconsin County.

NOVEMBER

- 1—Program by the Speech Department of Washington College.

- 8—Mr. William A. Bradley, an engineer with the Radio Corporation of America in a non-technical discussion of television and related developments entitled, "Electronics, the Key of Progress."

- 15—7:00 P.M. An illustrated travel talk on Alaska by Mr. Edgar Raine.

Alumni Ready Inauguration Bulletin

In preparation for the inauguration of Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, as the 20th President of Washington College, the W.C. Alumni Association will publish the first issue of the Washington College Alumni and Bulletin featuring the coming installation. This issue is being published three weeks prior to Dr. Gibson's inauguration in order to inform the alumni, thus allowing the ample time to return for this program.

Following the suggestion of and under the directorship of F. Spencer Robinson, Secretary of the Alumni Association, the original tabloid format of the Washington College Alumni and Bulletin has been changed to magazine fashion in order to conform with the trend. This magazine will be published four times during the academic year—the first installment being October, the following ones, December, March, and May. The May issue will serve primarily to acquaint the alumni with the commencement program for 1952.

Mr. Robinson hopes that students will take advantage of the fact that the letter to the editor of the Alumni magazine are in order and wanted as the executive of the Association, as well as the alumni themselves, are interested in knowing what the students think and how they feel about the work of the Association.

One aim of the Association is to get the alumni to aid in the recruiting of potential students for Washington College which will promote student-alumni interest. Consequently, the high school files have been rearranged and a "travel" map planned in preparation for fall visits to various high schools.

The system of files has been changed and Mr. Robinson has kept a set of files on our alumni dating back to 1931 which is available for their own reference. In order to keep these files up to date, questionnaires are sent out each year to new alumni who in "letters fill them out thus giving information concerning their whereabouts and the nature of the present work.

Visits will be made to other alumni chapters in hopes of getting some of these older and inactive societies reorganized. To date there are about five active chapters and those not active in the Upper, Middle, and Lower Delmarva vicinity are being reorganized.

The Boston Gazette, leading newspaper which espoused the cause of the American Revolution never had more than 2,860 circulation.

Organization Meetings Scheduled

The schedule below of meeting times for student organizations has been worked out for the greater advantage of all organizations. With one or two changes this year, the schedule is tested over several years. Its success depends upon adherence to it by all concerned. Any organization that contemplates a meeting at other than the scheduled time should not proceed with plans until the proposed change is cleared with the Dean of Men. No change should be requested unless absolutely necessary. Changes mean rearrangement of the activities of several organizations very often.

Fraternities, sororities, and the Washington Players in particular are requested to observe regulations about changing meeting times without proper clearance. These groups have been cited offenders in the past.

Any group requiring the use of the Auditorium must secure a key from the Business Office or the Dean of Men. Whenever possible, the faculty adviser to the organizations should make arrangements to have the auditorium open.

Concert Series To Start Here Tonight

Mrs. Daniel Z. Gibson Accepts Sorority Post

This past week, Mrs. Daniel Z. Gibson was chosen by the Pan-Hellenic Council to serve on their board in an advisory capacity.

In addition to accepting this post, Mrs. Gibson offered her home for the annual Pan-Hellenic Tea to be held on November 4. The Tea marks the opening of formal rushing of sororities on campus.

In order to act as advisor to the sorority council, a woman must have full knowledge of the rules and regulations of the Washington College campus—not only those rules of the Pan-Hellenic Council, but, too, the rules set up by the student body and the administration of the college.

Although not a necessity but a valuable asset is the knowledge of the functions and handling of a sorority itself. This factor is all-important in the eyes of the Council when relationships with sororities have been more or less limited to those found on our own campus.

In view of these facts, Mrs. Gibson was deemed well-qualified because of her past membership and present affiliation with her own two sororities—Sigma Alpha Etsi, and Chi Beta Phi Social sorority. Also Mrs. Gibson is familiar with the business of the school—both the fiscal situation and the way it is operated.

As the duties of the advisory demand it, Mrs. Gibson will be present at all regular scheduled meetings and discuss the problems of each sorority and give her views and opinions on any questions which the delegates may present. It will be her job to make suggestions to ameliorate difficult situations arising during the course of the academic year.

Mrs. Gibson was born in Gary, Indiana, and received her A.B. at Ohio State College at Athens, Ohio. While attending college there she was a member of the Chi Beta Phi Social sorority. She later received her Master's Degree in Music at the Cincinnati Music Conservatory and was there an active member of Sigma Alpha Etsi.

The mother of three children, Danny, Mary, seven, and Jill, two, and one-half, Mrs. Gibson is an interested member of the Parent-Teachers Association of Chestertown. Mrs. Gibson is also President of the Women's League of Washington College.

Art Club Elects

New Officers

The Washington College Art Club, organized on the hill last fall, held elections this past week for 1951-52 officers. They were: Tony Toniai, president; Jane Miller, Vice-President; Mickey Ross, Secretary, and Sue Webster, Treasurer.

Fortuitous plans for the club include the decorations for the Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club. The theme they will use has not yet been announced.

The Art Club has been a hard-working organization on campus, doing projects for other clubs, planning decorations for dances and entering their first year with an art exhibit held in the museum of the Library. The club plans to enter into as many helpful activities in their second year.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Dr. Cae, Raptid, of the Department of Languages, recently underwent an emergency appendectomy at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore. During his absence, Mrs. Raptid is conducting his classes in German and French.

Homecoming Dance Plans

Arrangements for the annual Homecoming Dance have been completed according to Berdie Rudo, president of the sponsoring Varsity Club. Music for the affair will be furnished by Manny Klein, well known Delaware dancer hand, currently playing at the Dufont Country Club in Wilmington.

The dance, held annually at the Chestertown Armory will get underway at nine o'clock following a day filled with other events. Tickets are $1.75 per person and $3.50 per couple. They will be sold on campus by Varsity Club members and at the door the evening of the dance.

The entire schedule of Homecoming Day consists of a soccer game with Kings College at 11:00, Inauguration of President Gilson at 2:00 and a dance in the evening. A large crowd of alumni and guests are expected to be on hand for the festivities.

The dance is sponsored each year by the Washington College Varsity Club in order to obtain sufficient funds with which they can buy sweaters for W.C. letter winners. They also aid the cheerleaders in their activities and sponsor the Freshman-Sophomore football game.

Faulkner Appointed

In a meeting held Wednesday of this week, The Board of Publications appointed Rod Faulkner as Business Manager of the Washington Elm. Faulkner replaces Bob Easter who resigned the job early this year.

In assuming his new job, Faulkner steps in with almost three years of experience in the publication business. He has served as "general manager" in the advertising department for both the newspaper and the year book. He will now assume full responsibility for all business matters relating to the Elm and set up a working budget for the paper to use.

Faulkner is in his senior year in school, is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and has played several years of lacrosse.

The Board of Publications, which made the appointment consists of the Editors of the Elm and the Register, the business manager of the two publications, editor of the W.C. handbook and faculty advisors.

Conservatory Artists Inaugurate Evening Series

The first in a series of eight concerts will be presented this evening in William Smith Auditorium. The concerts have been planned through a cooperative arrangement of the college and the community group which, for the past few years, has sponsored concerts here at Washington College, and full time students of the college may attend the entire series without additional charge, for the fee of $3.00 was included in this year's activities fee. A limited number of tickets are also being sold to residents of the town and surrounding communities.

The two artists for this evening's program are Miss Shalek Vartinskian, Soprano, and Mr. Casper Vecchiene, Baritone. Both are graduate students from the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore. Their concert program will be:

MR. VECCHIENE
Innoventions of Orfeo ..... J. Peri
Plegion Song ..... P. Tschakowski
Elegy ..... J. Massenet

MISS VARTINSKIAN
Il Parnaso Conquisito ..... C. W. Oluk

MISS VARTINSKIAN
Gretchen am Spinnrade ..... Schubert
Stanchen ..... R. Strauss
Rain ..... D. Wolf
The Little Damocel ..... Novello

The next concert will be on November 8, 1951, and will feature Richard Kaprielian's first edition of the Brahms Symphony, in a program of sonatas. Edward T. Comer, pianist, will be present for the concert of December 7, 1951. Mr. Bone is a member of the faculty of Music at Princeton University. For the first program of the new year on January 9th, Earl Spicer, who is a professional concert baritone, has been engaged. Artists for programs in February and March have not been selected as yet.

A young French pianist, Pierre Sanchez, who will be touring the United States for the first time, will present a recital here on April 10th. Sanchez, a promising pianist of the present day, won the annual prize of the Paris Conservatory last year. To complete the program for the year, a chamber orchestra comprised of members of the Baltimore Symphony will play a varied program on May 16, 1952.

High School P.T.A.

Hears Forecasts

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Chestertown High School had as guest speakers last night the Forensic Society from Washington College. The group presented a panel discussion on the topic "The Selective Service and How It Affects the High School Student."

Members of the panel were Bob Brink, Tom Lowe, Henry Lonie and Leonard Doll. The chairman of the group was Jim Habel, president of the society.

At a recent meeting of the Forensic group, other activities for the year were tentatively planned, including preparation for the observation of United Nations Day on October 24. The society also elected two new officers: President of Political Union, Charles Whitsett, and Historian, Robert Reue.

Panhellenic Scholarship

Last year, the Panhellenic Council established a scholarship of fifty dollars to be awarded to a freshman girl who is in need of financial assistance. As yet, no one has applied for the scholarship this year.

Applications are made to the Admissions and Scholarship Committee. The committee then recommends several girls to the Panhellenic Council, which in turn makes the final decision and appointment. To retain the scholarship for second semester, a girl must have achieved a 1.00 index for her first semester's work. If she should fail to do this, the scholarship will go to another girl.

Any freshman girl who is interested and feels that she is in need of assistance should obtain an application blank from the Secretary of the Council, Markle Meyer. The blank asks for the girl's name and address, age, high school, and honors achieved in high school. She should also accompany the application with a short essay of not more than 400 words telling why she would like to be awarded the scholarship.

The recipient of last year's scholarship was Peggy Featherer, a resident of New Jersey.

Wanted: Violin Players

During the period from 1925 until the middle of the year 1949-1950 the Washington College Concert Orchestra had a continuous and rather successful history, offering musical training to students and providing music for assemblies, commencement and various college occasions. In February, 1950, the orchestra suspended activity due to the lack of violin players. Last year an attempt was made to recruit the orchestra but again there was a lack of violin players. Unless violin players can be discovered in the student body, the orchestra will have to continue inactive since stringed instruments are very essential for concert work covering classical and semi-classical music.

Whether Washington College will have a concert orchestra must depend on whether there are violin players available. Since there is so much diversified talent in the student body, it would appear that there should be a minimum of a half dozen violin players available. With the cooperation of talent it may be possible to reactivate the concert orchestra.

FROM THE REGISTRAR

All February and June candidates for degree who have not been in to have their records in the Registrar's office are requested to do so as soon as possible.

OBEYING THE RULES

Freshman stay within the law as they are transported over the "Sacred L.I." by upperclassmen. Hazing rules are now in full swing and will continue until the "test of strength" tug of war takes place as the end of the three week period. If the fresh win—no more rules—if they don't. "We're the freshman class."

Stickmen Begin Drills

A group of the Washington College lacrosse squad is now informally working out under the supervision of their 1952 team captain, Graeme Menzies. Coach Charles B. Clark, currently occupied with plans and preparation for the inauguration of Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson as President of Washington College on October 27, will conduct a series of workouts following the latter date and running to about November 15.

The purpose of these fall workouts is to improve stickwork and to give the new candidates of the team an opportunity to show their abilities. Various combinations will be worked out by Coach Clark to find capable replacements for the five positions vacated by graduation in June. A potent schedule, again featuring the Naval Academy, Duke, Mt. Washington and other powers, faces the Shoremen next spring.

Del-Mar Championship Impressive

Coach Bill Jirson of the Baltimore Olympic Club has invited the Washington College cross-country team to run a triangular meet with Morgan College and the B.O.C. on November 9. The scheduled trip to the Middle-Atlantics Nov. 9 may be canceled.

The Del-Mar Championship, November 3, offers quite an incentive to the harriers of the six teams entered. There will be a total of 30 medals awarded to individual and team scorers.

Soccer Sidelines

American U. canceled their soccer game against the Maroon and Black, scheduled for homecoming. However, King's College of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., has filled in the vacancy. This is the college at which Dim Montero, former Sho' grid mentor, now coaches the pigskin sport.

Juan "Pancho" Hernandez was quite inspired during last Thursday's intra-squad scrimmage. At the outset of the contest, he surged downfield and booted the first tally through the uprights. He then gaized dreamily up into the stands, where he sped his lovely "Scritoria" cheering madly for her little "center forward."

Harriers Invade Evergreen

The Sho' hill and dale hopefuls journey to Baltimore tomorrow afternoon where they will match strides against the Loyola College Greyhounds at Evergreen.

The Greyhounds promise to be one of the top Mason-Dixon teams of 1951, due to their depth and experience. The five men responsible for the Green and Gray win over Washington last year, are once again pitted against the Athymen. Loyola invaded the Eastern Shore last fall and returned home boasting a 27-30 victory. It was in this dual meet that Fil Dryden, now a W.C. alum, set a new course record for the Chestertown squad. His absence has considerably weakened the Shoremen.

Headline the list of former high school standouts now at Loyola are Tom Volatile, Ed Colbourne, George Bonadira, Pat Patrick, Bob Robinson and Mike Callahan. It was this group of thinlads that captured third place honors at the M-D last year.

The Chestertown squad, finding from past performance, seems to be equally balanced. The new men have proven their ability and are progressing rapidly with the season. The eleven foot-and-a-half-inch athletes challenging the Green and Gray include: Bob Appleby, George Eichelberger, Eli Boyd, Paul Becker, Jack Bacon, Don Heverly, Don Steymen, Ed Gorsuch, Jack McCulloch, Wayne Gruchin and Pete Lohman.

New Art Courses

Are Announced

Two new courses have been placed in the college academic program this year, enabling students interested in the study of art to pursue this study as part of their regular semester's work.

The first is a two-hour course in the History and Appreciation of Art, taught by Mr. Edward Brubaker of the English Department. Mr. Brubaker studied art at the Chicago Art Institute. The second is an arrangement whereby students may take art lessons from Gretchen Hunt in her studio in Chestertown and receive full academic credit for the work. Mrs. Wood has studied art in America and Spain and has had an extensive career as a professional artist. She is also chairman of the American Artists Professional League on the Eastern Shore.

and Mike Ross hit for extra bases in the free-for-all.

Rod Faulkner was the losing pitcher, while the only hit was by Jack Sauer. Dickie played on outstanding defensive game for Lambda Chi.

Launch 10-Game Schedule

Washington College opens its 1951 soccer season this afternoon as the Maroon & Black take the field against Franklin & Marshall College, in Lancaster, Pa.

Freshman coach Howie Nesbitt was unsure as to his starting line-up for today's opener, but in all probability, diminutive Juan Hernandez will be staring at center forward. "Poncho" led the local pitchmen in scoring last season, with 8 goals in ten games. Thinking "Pancho" on the inside, will be letterman Walt Ortel on the left, and freshman Gary Duncan on the right. Filling in the rest of the line on the wings will be veteran Ted Redwood and newcomer George Wiedersheim.

Backfield Hoely Contested

The backfield positions have been hotly contested, more so than has the line. Butch McHugh has been playing dirt defensive ball in the goal, having played goals for the Shoremen in '50. Letterman John Gail is holding down the right fullback position, but it seems to be a toss-up between Bill Russell and Bill Bonnett. Both are new to the game, and will probably split the assignments.

Another highly contested position is right halfback. Freshman Bill Kabanog and newcomer Rod Ware pegged Coach Nesbitt with a tough decision, choosing between them. Left halfback is being well filled by letterman George Horne. Pre-season "quarterbacks" were at one time for someone to fill the shoes of the Shoremen's All-American center half of last year, Buddy Brower. However, they can be sure of a capable replacement in Doug Tilley. Doug was a lineman on last year's squad, but due to his experience and talent he, he has been shifted to the backfield by Coach Nesbitt.

High Spirited Team

Many of the starters today will be newcomers to the game of soccer, and many others lack the finesse of the veteran club members of last year's squad. However, the coach, Mel Littleton, agreed that "the boys have more heart than this year." What our Shoremen lack in experience will be made up by that "old college try."

G. I. Leads Intramurals

G. I. Hall defeated K. A. Thursday, 43 in its only intra-mural softball game of the week. All other games scheduled for the past week were forfeited.

Don Heverly, pastor of the Freshman Church, pitched a commendable game for G. I., as he allowed only 7 hits throughout the contest. Mel Littleton starred on the mound for K.A., but he was relieved by Chuck Warsche after the G.I. boys banged 3 runs around on him in the first inning. Mel was saved for a homer by Jerry Lambdin, G.I. third catcher, and a triple by Tom Bounds, shortstop.

K.A. got a run in the third when Mighty Al Zolasky knocked a home run off Heverly. G. I. Hall got another run in the fourth when Howie Black, leftfielder, hit a fly ball to left field to score Jack Oule, who tagged up and raced home for the freshman's last run of the game.

It was an even contest until the seventh inning. The boys from K.A. scored two runs in the last inning on a series of base hits and a pair of walks issued by Heverly. With the bases loaded in the final inning and two outs, Harold White hit an easy groundout to Heverly who threw to Stan Kaufman, G. I. first baseman for the last out of the game.

G. I. Hall now leads the league with 3 wins and no losses.

Athlete Of Week

Softball Loop Reopens

Inaugurating this semester's athlete of the week series is the versatile Kenny Howard, captain. His outstanding performance on the gridiron.

This diminutive sports star began his athletic career in his home town of Eddyville, Va. He attended Eddyville High and participated in football, basketball and track. His outstanding performance on the gridiron and the cinder path led to his attendance here at Washington College, after one semester at West Chester State Teachers' College.

As for his greatest thrill in football came on the Shore. Kenny was highly pleased with the team's 18-13 victory over the Drexel eleven last year. In this game he broke loose for several astounding runs, one of which let to a Maroon and Black 1-0.

In track, Kenny's most thrilling moment was that of running the 100 yard dash in 9.7 against Catholic U. last year. Howard also holds the school hand-punching record of 23 which he set against F.M.C. "The Jet" has played a leading role in the College's success in the Mason-Dixon Championships, during the past three years. He is most proud of his part in aiding Theta Chi to capture the basketball championship last season, while pacing the East Hall "Seniors" to a softball championship the year before.

Howard is not only president of the Junior Class, but captain of the 1952 track squad. Now that the school has dropped football, the agile competitor is not to be outdone, as he was one of the first to report for the soccer team. There are very few athletes on the Sho' campus that can compare with Kenny's versatile ability and you can be sure that there will be new records laid into the books before "The Jet" graduates from the hill.

The direct interview story was first used by Hiram Greedy.

The intermural softball league has once again begun, after a three month interval. The first round opened with G.I. Hall, K.A. and East Hall trouncing Theta Chi, Foxwell and Lambda Chi.

First Inning Sports

G.I. Hall, comprised mainly of the Freshman class, topped Theta Chi 3-2 in a closely contested pitching duel. Charlie Russell outlasted Bob Appleby as his G.I. team scored all of their runs in the first inning. Three errors by the losers in the first were fatal, as the contest closed with the Thetas on the short end of the score. The losers scored one in the third and one in the fourth on "Choo-choo" Gandola's double and Phil Ross' single. Jack Pinner's play at home plate was outstanding for the winners while Bob Early slammed the longest hit ball of the game, a triple, for the Thetas.

K.A. A Foxwell-2

Chuck Wachebe, pitching a two hit ball game, led the K.A.'s to an 82 win over Foxwell Hall. The losing pitcher, Joe Mustache, put up a valiant battle, but was thwarted by the home runs hit by mighty Al Zolasky and Bob Jackson. The entire game was dominated by errors on both teams, as the winners scored four runs in the first inning. The K.A.'s executed a double play in the third inning through the combined efforts of "Mouse" Wyckoff and Don Nuzet. Captain Leon Benjamin was impressive through his display of a strong throwing arm, as was Dick Weller, the losing catcher.

Athly Wins

The East Hall team, led by the one hit pitcher, Ed Alicky, trampled Lambda Chi, 16-0. The "Connecticut Yankees," John Santilli and Steve Mattianni, hammered consecutive home runs to rally their team to victory, while Dan Samuels and Huddle Thayer each clouted three hits. Ed Clagerty

Rams Outrun Shoremen Saturday

The Washington College cross-country team left before a well-known West Chester outfit here last Saturday, by the score of 17 to 46.

The visitors placed three men across the finish line before the first Sho' harrier, Bob Appleby, scored for the home team. Although Francis Wright, West Chester's lead man broke the tape fifty yards ahead of the remaining three, the highlights of the meet was staged by Lawrence Russell and Bob Appleby. The latter was edged out by five thirds of a second in a thrilling last minute surge. Both men spindled the length of the foot-place men fourth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth.

Four Gray and Gold runners tallied Appleby across the finish line, followed by four Maroon and Black harriers. The first five men scoring for the home team were Appleby, George Eichelberger, Jack Bacon, Ellsworth Boyd, and Don Heverly.

The course for the meet was cut down from 3.5 miles to 3 miles since it was so early in the season for a dual encounter. Francis Wright topped the distance in 17 minutes, 57 seconds, a creditable time considering the unbecoming heat of the mid-day sun.

For the benefit of those who are doubtful as to how a cross-country meet is scored, a brief explanation should simplify any skepticism. The score is tabulated from the first five men of each team to cross the finish line. Therefore, if your team scores 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

Use Of College

In order to properly safeguard the new piano in the Auditorium and to save other pianos protected, the Administration has announced that the Auditorium will be kept locked except when in use by recognized groups.

Student organizations desiring to have the use of the Auditorium, after securing approval for their plans, should apply to the Dean of Men, should secure a key from either the Business Office or the Dean of Men. In general, the key will be loaned only to faculty advisors of the various groups. Keys have been too readily duplicated in the past and the policy described above appears necessary in the best interests of all concerned.

Interest Sheets Tabulated

A breakdown of the interest sheets filled out by students during registration shows W.C.ers representing sixteen different religions, twenty-five different vocations and the ability to play sixteen musical instruments. Results also showed a great interest in extra-curricular activities and athletics. The tabulation was made by the Dean of Men's office and figures are shown by the specific questions asked on the sheet.

Answers to the first question showed 211 Arts students and 116 Science students. This, however, is a beginning of the year estimate and subject to change.

The second questions showed the following representation of seventeen religions:

1. Baptist—10
2. Catholic—61
3. Christian Science—1
4. Church of the Brethren—1
5. Congregational—2
6. Disciple of Christ—1
7. Episcopal—2
8. Evangelist—2
9. Greek Orthodox—1
10. Jewish—15
11. Lutheran—21
12. Methodist—77
13. Presbyterians—38
14. Quaker—3
15. Reformed—2
16. Unitarian—4
17. None stated—17
18. Protestant—text not stated—22

In an attempt to discover student reasons for entering Washington College questions were asked about previous connections with the school. Followed is a breakdown as shown on the sheet:

1. Father or mother and alumnus—9
2. Brother or sister and alumnus—17
3. Brother or sister a student—9
4. Other relative an alumnus—29
5. Friend an alumnus—93
6. Friend a student—101
7. Teacher or principal an alumnus—42
8. Father an alumnus—5
9. Other connections:
  - a. Bulletin—1
  - b. Summer session—1
  - c. Recommended—5
  - d. Through McDonough—2
  - e. New York Times—1
  - f. State Scholarship—1

Following previous connections, the students were asked point-blank why they selected Washington College. They answered in this order:

1. Influenced by relative, pastor or friend who is W.C. alumnus or student—1st choice, 87; 2nd, 24; 3rd, 34
2. Contacted by member of W.C. staff—1st choice, 13; 2nd, 11; 3rd, 6
3. Because of course of study offered—1st choice, 37; 2nd, 34; 3rd, 38
4. Location (close to home)—1st choice, 33; 2nd, 30; 3rd, 35
5. Scholarship award—1st choice, 32; 2nd, 23; 3rd, 42
6. Reputation of athletic team—1st choice, 2; 2nd, 7; 3rd, 5
7. Scholastic standards—1st choice, 15; 2nd, 23; 3rd, 5
8. A co-duration college—1st choice, 4; 2nd, 20; 3rd, 29
9. An college—1st choice, 86; 2nd, 50; 3rd, 70
10. Other reasons:
  - Low cost—11
  - Friendly atmosphere—1
  - Advisor's recommendation—2
  - Suggested by V.A.—2
  - Good friend in college—1
  - Suggested by Rev. Pell—1
  - Approved by American Medical Assn.—1
  - Reputation of alumni—1
  - Away from home—1
  - Recommended by teacher who is not W.C. alumni—1

Tabulation of intended vocations revealed twenty-five different fields that students were preparing for. Business led the group, followed closely by teaching and medicine. Chemistry and engineering were also rated high.

Women's League Continues Work

New and active on the Washington College campus is the Women's League for Washington College, headed by Mrs. Donald Z. Gibson, wife of the president. Organized last spring as a small group of alumni, wives of professors and women who were interested in helping the college with practical assistance the league has now jumped to 150 in its membership.

The group was set up for two original purposes: 1. To increase the bond between Washington College and women on the Eastern Shore that are interested in the welfare of the school; and 2. To provide for the college, practical assistance in the accomplishment of certain objectives in which women are interested. The league emphasizes, however, that membership is not restricted to the Eastern Shore but is open to all women who have an interest in the school.

As its first project, the Women's League undertook the redecoration of the lounge in Reid Hall. To chairs were reupholstered in bright colored fabrics and the once dark woodwork was lightened with off-white paint. The Artists League which in Chestertown loaned seven paintings to be hung on the walls, and plans are being studied on the low-dark ceiling problem.

At the first fall meeting this year, the Women's League had as a guest speaker, Mr. A. M. Follenbaum, who served as president of the same type of organization for Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. She introduced new ideas and methods for the women to use in their work for the school. Future activities of the group include continued work on the Reid Hall lounge and general aid to the girls of Washington College. Tentative plans have also been made for the purpose of giving a luncheon show on campus for the women students here.

PREPARING SKETCHES

Mr. John Moll, Jr., an artist who specializes in marine life paintings and sketches, is preparing a series of ten sketches of Washington College from which prints will be made for correspondence or greeting cards. The series of ten prints will sell for $1.00.

Mademoiselle Opens Contest

MADemoiselle magazine is now accepting applications from under graduate women for membership on its 1951-52 College Board.

Girls who are accepted on the College Board do three assignments during the college year. Assignments are College Board Members a chance to write features about: 1. life on their campus; 2. submit an work, fashion or promenade ideas for possible use in MADemoiselle; to develop their critical and creative talents to discover their own abilities and job interests.

College Board Members who come out among the top twenty on the assignments with a MADemoiselle Guest Editorship, will be brought to New York next June to help write, edit and illustrate the August College issue. They will be paid a regular salary for their month's work, plus round-trip transportation to New York City.

While in New York, each Guest Editor takes part in a full calendar of activities designed to give her a head start in her career. She interviews a celebrity in her chosen field, visits fashion workrooms, newspaper of fices, stores and advertising agencies.

October 31 is the deadline for applying for the College Board. The application is a criticism of either MADemoiselle's August, 1951 College issue (see page 355) or the September issue (see page 111). Successful candidates will be notified of acceptance on the College Board the first week in November; the first College Board

Cast Selected For "Glass Menagerie"

Four upperclassmen were selected for the roles in "The Glass Menagerie," first production of the year for the Washington Players. They were selected by a casting committee headed by the director of the play, Helen Roe.

Marge Glose, who was chosen for the role of the mother, will have playing the rest of her family, Jim McCallie and Jamie Miller. The part of the "trapezoidal caller" was awarded to Bill Bloomfield. Selections were made following three days of casting in Ferguson Hall.

"The Glass Menagerie" is one of the best known plays of the modern theatre, having had a successful run of several years on Broadway and in Europe. It has also been a favorite among amateurs in colleges and theatre groups. The author, Tennessee Williams, is equally well known as producing several popular modern plays.

This particular play will be something new for the Washington Players, in that the cast list contains only four names. In previous productions the cast lists have been as high as 20, as in last year's production of the one-act play "The Glass Menagerie."

Work on this first production will begin immediately with rehearsal scheduled several times a week. Presentation will be Thursday and Friday, November 15 and 16.

The story of "The Glass Menagerie" centers around a mother and her four children, living in poverty in a St. Louis apartment. The action is concerned with how she tries to make life look happy without it being so, especially the girl who is a cripple. The world of illusion she finally manages to create for her, however, does not last, and crashes into absolute nothingness. The story has been described as "one of great tenderness and charged by crisis for the Broadway production."

Physical Education Directors To Meet

Announcement has been made by Mr. Elmer Ward, Director of Physical Education for Chesterton High School, that the physical education directors from the high schools of the Fourth District, comprising the Upper Shore counties, will hold a dinner meeting in Hodson Hall on Tuesday evening, October 30. The speaker will be Herb Steiner, newly appointed Supervisor of Physical Education and Recreation in the Maryland State Department of Education.

Students in Education, particularly those students planning to go into work of physical education in the secondary schools, are invited to attend. Cost of the dinner will be $2.00. Notify Mr. Ward at least one week in advance of the dinner.

Pre-Medical Students

Any pre-medical students who failed to sign the list in Dean Livingston's office are requested to sign. Invitation has been extended by a well known Medical School to Washington College pre-medical students for a tour of the school sometime during November. It is necessary to have the total number in order to notify the Medical School.

"Getting Down To Work"

The new cast of "The Glass Menagerie" settles down to take a few hints from their directors, Helen Roe and Fred LaWall. The forthcoming production will take place November 15 and 16 in William Smith Hall.

Council Revises Constitution

The Council of the Women's Student Government Association is completing a revision of the Constitution for the Association and will soon submit it at a meeting of all girls for a final vote.

The work began in the Spring of last year, and a rough draft was drawn up before the close of school in June. The new Constitution expands the size of the Council, deletes obsolete rules, and in general, attempts to improve the original Constitution. The new Constitution is presented to members of the Association, it will be delivered to the Administration for suggested changes or approval.

The members of the Council this year are: Nancy Crabtree, President; Sandy Reeder, Vice-President; Eleanor Dornand, President of Reid Hall; and Mary Annette Applegate, President of Middle Hall. Peggy Brimer, elected Secretary last year, has not returned to school, and a new Secretary must be voted upon. This fall from the Junior class to fill this position.

French Club Met Here Last Night

The French Club of Washington College held its first annual dinner meeting last night at the Chival Methodist Church. The group was presided over by Tony Tonian and had as guest speaker, Madame Neve. During the entire meeting, only the French language was spoken and Madame Neve spoke to the group in her native tongue. Faculty supervisor for the club is Mr. Langley, language professor at the college.

Tug O' War To End Hazing On Campus

A tug o' war, over a small body of water with the hazy-headed freshmen pulling on one side and the sophomores on the other, will officially end the hazing period for 1951. The event will take place next Thursday, October 25, at 4:00 P. M., in the field behind the soccer field.

Original plans for the tug o' war were that the winning side should determine whether hazing should continue. If the Freshmen won, hazing would stop; if they lost—three more weeks of banter and "recreation areas." However, a change in plans made by the Sophomore Council, has stated that hazing will officially be over following the tug o' war.

Girls Hear WAC Colonel

Lt. Colonel Emily C. Gorman spoke here today at Dick Library to acquaint women students with the activities and duties of two branches of the Women's Army—the WAC's and the WAFC's.

Her talk was addressed primarily to girls of the senior class relating to them the functions of the service, their daily routine, as well as their special phases of work.

A former New York state high school teacher and personnel director, Colonel Gorman is currently assigned as Second Army WAC Staff Advisor in the G.I. (Personnel) Section, Headquarters Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, Md.

From June, 1945, until September, 1946, she served in the European Theater, and upon her return to the U.S. she was assigned to active duty in Washington, D. C. There she was instrumental in joining the WAC Director, Col. Mary A. Halle, in planning the organization of the new War Training Center at Fort Lee, Va.

Colonel Gorman is a Regular Army officer. Her awards and decorations include the Women's Army Corps Service Medal, European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal, American Campaign Medal, World War II Victory Medal, and the Army Occupation (Germany) Medal.

A native of Pulaski, N. Y., Colonel Gorman was graduated from Pulaski Academy in 1926. She received an AB degree from Cornell University and took graduate work in English and education at both the Syracuse University and the University of Rochester. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority.

Colonel Gorman's visit to Washington College came in lieu of her work is particularly interesting, as one of our former students, Mary Lou Trudlow, is now a First Lieutenant at Camp Lee, the training center for WAC's. That Colonel Gorman helped establish.

HOMECOMING NOOMEES

The nominations for homecoming queen and court which were held on Thursday, October 18, in Hodson Hall, were sponsored by The Interfraternity Council, Mt. Lebanon, president.

Out of the four freshmen girls nominated by members of their class, one will be chosen to serve on the Queen's Court as freshman representative. The freshmen nominees are as follows: Barbara J. Jones, Jane Carr, Ethel M. Knill, Rhonda Willems. The upperclass nominees are: Elmo Gutzke, Gabriele Mantua, Jane Bradley.

One of the above upperclassmen students will be chosen to reign as queen during homecoming activities. The two runners-up plus the freshman representative will compose the Queen's Court.

Pictures of the homecoming will be posted on the Bulletin Board in the South East on Monday.

Committee To Plan Projects For International Fund

A committee for the World Student Service Fund, headed by Tony Tonian, was organized this week to plan projects for the year to raise funds for this international student aid plan.

The World Student Service Fund is the American branch of World University Service, an organization devoted to student aid in Europe and Asia. Funds collected by the W.U.S. are used for the purchase of books, equipment, food, clothing, shelter, and medical service for needy students.

Final Plans For Inaugural Celebration

One hundred and fifteen educational institutions will be represented on the Washington College campus at the forthcoming inauguration of Dr. Daniel Z. Cushman as the twentieth president of the school. Eleven of these institutions were founded, as was Washington College, before the year 1800.

Those eleven schools of early establishment that will be here are: William and Mary, Princeton, Washington and Lee, Rutgers, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, North Carolina, Union College, and Yale University.

Other large schools to be represented are: Columbia, Wellesley, Smith, Maryland, Wisconsin, Stanford, Temple, George Washington, Chicago, Oklahoma A & M, Tulane, Alabama, and George Washington.

Activities scheduled for Homecoming Day, October 27 will begin with a registration of the delegates in Huntington Library, and a soccer game and cross country meet to be held on Kibler field. These activities will take place at 11:00 A. M.

Following registration and the athletic events, a luncheon will be held in Hodson Hall at 12:00 noon for all delegates and guests.

The inauguration ceremony will begin promptly at two with the academic procession. The proceedings will be held at the commencement site in front of Middle Hall. Unders will consist of ODK members and selections made by that group.

G.I.A.A. Elects Budd At Meeting This Week

New officers for the G.I.A.A. were elected in a meeting held Wednesday of this week to serve for the remainder of the school year. They were: President, Jo Budd, Vice-President, Muelier, Secretary-Treasurer, Sue Webb.

Members elected to serve on the Board of Managers were: Senior Members—Kay Heighs, Sheron and Palmer; Junior Member, Jane Carr; and Gint Maris; Sophomore Member, Lynn Danna; Freshman Member, Marian Wasserman. Members at Large: Peggy Carlton, Donna Turner and Rhonda Willems.

In addition to material aid to the universities, the organization endeavors to promote mutual understanding and interest among all of the students of the world, and in many colleges in the United States contact has been made with overseas universities and correspondence has been established among the students.

Most of the foreign universities are still in need of numerous supplies, and help is given to these students in great need without discrimination as to race, religion, or politics. World University Service has its main office in Geneva, Switzerland.

For the past three years, Washington College has contributed money to the World Student Service Fund, and last week, Tania Mandelak of Greece, visited the campus urging students to again donate to the organization.

At the closing of the year, a regional conference of W.S.S.F. was held at Johns Hopkins University on Sunday, and four representatives of Washington College attended—Jim Hisebel, Sandy Reeder, Tony Tonian, and Mr. Jack Henry. Students are present from Johns Hopkins, Georgetown College, University of Maryland, Western Maryland, Towson State Teachers', and other colleges of the Middle Atlantic region. The main speaker for the conference was Theodore Harris, associate general secretary of the entire World University Service. Reports of progress in the area were presented by Elizabeth Enlin, W.S.S.F. regional secretary, followed by a round table discussion of suggestions for campus fund raising campaigns during the year.

A faculty talent show was the project for Washington College last year in raising the money for the World Student Service Fund. This year, the committee, comprised of representatives from all of the campus organizations, hopes to plan many projects during the year and exceed the amount of $150 contributed last year.

LADIES ONLY!

Girls! Here's your last chance before leap year! The Annual Saddle Hawkins Jamboree is commemorating the plight of Miss Saddle Hawkins of Dog Patch, U.S.A. (Boys' rack shoes sold on sale in the book store) will be held on November 17, in the recreation room of Hodson Hall.

In Memoriam

L. Russel Russell, Jr., life-long alumnus of Chesterton and Washington College, Alumnus Class of 1915, died suddenly on Monday night at the Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Wells Funeral Home and interment was in the Chester Cemetery.

Mr. Russell is survived by his wife, two daughters, one sister and three brothers, all of Chesterton.

At the time of his death, Mr. Russell was the owner of the Russell Motor Company, a director of the Peoples Bank of Chesterton, and a member of the Chesterton Rotary Club.

Students should take note that the concert series that is being presented through a cooperative arrangement of the college and the community group was included in their activities fee and that they may attend the entire series without additional charge. The next concert is scheduled for November 9 and will feature Richard Knapinski, first cellist of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

ODK REQUEST

ODK requests all organizations that want allocations this year to get in touch with either Bill Brogan, president, Tom Lowe, or Dr. Charles R. Clark, faculty adviser, at once. This must be done early in the year so that ODK can make out an annual budget.

RETRACTION

In correction of an error made concerning the members of the Board of Publications: The Board is made up of faculty advisers and the Editors and Business Managers of the Pegasus and the ELM. It does not include the editors of the Washington College handbook.

In W. C. Catalogue
Of 1888 - 9

Editor's Note: In the issue of last February the 28th we presented a collection of regulations for students which appeared in the Washington College Catalogue of 1888-9. Since the freshmen of this year have not seen these and many of last year's students missed seeing them, we are reprinting them now for the benefit of all who may feel that their years are tough.

The Good Old Days

All students from a distance are expected to live in the college buildings. The cost of rooms varies from $3.00 to $10.00 per week.

By a resolution of the Visitors and Governors of the College, the board will, under no circumstances, be allowed to exceed $200 per week, and will be made as much less as the cost of provisions will permit.

From Senior's Office

Applications for the December 15, 1951, and the April 21, 1952 administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to offer their test on either date should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided. Applications for the December 15 test may be postmarked no later than midnight, November 8, 1951.

Students who wish to be invited to the parties must take every precaution not to disturb those who are still asleep.

Students are strictly forbidden to use tobacco in any form.

No board student can leave Chestertown without the permission of the president.

No students, except seniors, can be absent from their classes after 7 p.m. with the exception of Friday and Sunday evenings. Inspection of the dormitories are made every night by some member of the faculty, and one by the president each week, so that the rooms are kept in an orderly condition.

Social intercourse between the ladies and gentlemen is permitted only under the supervision of one of the teachers.

We were all so glad to see a little rain last week because it meant that the painters could get out into the sun. Here's hoping for a few more rainy days so that the job will be completed before Homecoming! And — speaking of Homecoming, we are looking forward to seeing all our returning alumni.

Thank you, Lady Clark, for letting us use your home last Monday for meeting, and we really did appreciate that delicious cake. It was a nice surprise to have Cynthia Jones, now Mrs. John Hodges, with us last Monday night. We hope she will visit again soon.

Welcome back to Ginny Eliason, our Alumnae Advisor, who has been away on vacation in New Hampshire.

Alpha Omega Psi

The red and brown leaves of Autumn are decorating the campus of old W.C. which means that Homecoming is just around the corner. By now, all of the fraternities are busily working on their decorations for this coming event. In the AOHU house they're working overtime to create that winning idea and retain last year's cup.

After the last remnants of the week-end are cleared away, the activities of our house expect to be sporting national fair pins.

A hearty welcome back was given to Bill Truett who has returned from a surge of illness.

Congratulations are also in order for Lee DeWitt and Jack McCullough who were pledged last Monday night. A very enjoyable party was held that same evening.

Herb Boston has announced that he is using up the game of bridge Mondays thru Thursdays, Walt!

K.A.

Fond congratulations to Brothers Larry Wiedelind, Don Brill, George Escheffenger, and Stump Gardner who were initiated last Monday night. Thank-in-thanks to group we have musicians, athletes, politicians, students, and lovers.

More congratulations, and these really come from our hearts, for the "Young 18" Five Year's Kid, Rod Evans, who accepted us last week. Brother Rod, we're proud to have you with us.

Brother Jim Jones paid a visit last week-end. Rumor has it that he was here to see the new home coming. Could this be true?

Right here, let's overstep our limits and offer congratulations to Linda and her congratulations to Linda and her congratulations to Linda.

Alpha Chi Omega

Los Friday! Ruth Ralston paid a visit. It really was great to see her again. Since she lives in Seaford, Delaware, we hope to be seeing more of her.

Monday night we held an open house for our alumni. Although the attendance was small, the affair was enjoyed by all.

A belated but happy birthday greeting to Phyllis Seitz.

Lambda Chi Alpha

An error appeared in last week's fraternity article in regard to the marriage of Brother Faulkner. It should have stated that Faulkner was married in February, 1951. Our apologies.

Eggs were passed out by Brother Faulkner who is the father of an 8 pound 12 ounce girl, Kendall R. Faulkner, born on October 15th at the Chestertown hospital. The father is progressing very nicely since the operation.

Also and ah-ah—the termies have finally won the battle of the back porch. The landmark will be missed by returning alumni.

Congratulations to our new pledges: Don Vetter, Dutch Spangnig, Bill Bloomfield, and Bill Wright.

Who will be the Lambda Chi Crest Girl on Homecoming Week-end?

THE CHI GAI

Congratulations to our new members who managed to stand the members of Theta Chi. The new members are Joe Gallo, Danay Samuel,

Oh boy, draw two! Guess what freshman girl has been chosen "Miss Blanket" of October 15th! Really girls, can't you dates do better than that? We tell that Herman about it, and run over someone in his Model-T, please, be careful, Herman. Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner, free cigars, too—it's a girl. Does anyone want to join the Swat Club? Dues are $84 a week, and for lunch—those who are interested should attend this Saturday's meeting. We hear that the soccer team "guy" success? ... way to go—Jarring Jack Jackson! The new dean of activity is the country club ... the only hazard is the smoke screen that appears at 11 P. M. ... Hey, Josephine, there's a song called "Full Moon and Empty Arms" ... and who owns the ring that Lola wears around her neck? Just what was Henry Louis doing in the for George. Gaby, just who is going to blackmail whom? Jack the water has a date for Homecoming! Bulls-head says, "Vote Republican" ... Marian Waterman and Sally Sellers are tied up for the place about last shorts contest. Does anybody want to buy a magazine? ... the sixth-man is selling them, aren't you, Macdonald? We hear that the Tucson Terror has a swing shift going ... What's this we're hearing about last love life in Ocean City, Elio? There's a new lover on campus—W. E. Theta Chi ... Nancy Crabtree says, "Of all the soaps, I like Campbells best." They're putting a juke box in "woodstock"! Sadie Hawkins Day is coming soon—better get your dates early. There is a ghost in Middle Hall—every night you can hear it laughing—but someone keeps insisting it's only Mary Lee ... Hi Lyn, does it again—better get your dates early. We understand that some of our off campus people (and a few who aren't) have been gorging themselves at church suppers of late ... understand the meals are really good ... probably the only time these people get near church.

Neal Tighmon, and Ted Bedlow.

As you may have, in all probability, noticed, the pledges treat all members with a great deal of respect. But only explanation is that the whip has been cracked. Right, pledges?

Congratulations are also in order for our newest pledge addition—Jim Hachel. Glad to have you aboard, Jim.

Judging by the noise emanating from the Beta Eta house, it should not be hard to figure out that the boys are the proudest of the new building. It should be ready by Homecoming.

Pretty features and eyes that change color according to what she's wearing contribute to Pat's appeal. She took to Regional High in Plains Grove, New Jersey, where she has always lived.

Foremost in her plans for the future is marriage; and, if there is any question, she'll probably reach history.

Pat likes dancing, what (any kind) liver and onions, tailored clothes, and the social life at W.C. Among her favorite songs is "Blues in the Night" as done by Fred Warde. She also has a slight tendency to swoon over Tony Curtis. Among the things which the diatribe may be found incite people, lamb and squash, large cities, hockey and the color blue. (Nothing coherent about this gal.)

She claims to like W.C., very much and wouldn't trade it for any other in the world. To stick with us, Pat. We like having you.

For some reason, Ocean City, Md. attracts him like a magnet, and don't interrupt when he is listening to "Because of you" or "I Love of Sam Kent's" or "Creative jazz. In the sports field he hasn't decidedly toward tennis.

We also understand that he likes scrambled eggs, or used to.

The student "wheel" of the Physics department was born and raised in Haddonfield, Pa., which seems to have sent us a number of good men—including, besides Bill, Nick Stallion, Blutch McHugh, and Coach Appleton, is of recent time. Following graduation from Haddonfield High, Bill went to a stint with the United States Coast Guard.

Since entering W.C. Bill has been very successful in doing well in many activities and obtaining a reputation as one of our "athletic student leaders." Among his many achievements can be listed: former president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, member of the Varsity Club, first string football and basketball player, student assistant in the Physics department, and member of the Society of Sciences. He also served as senior editor of the Pegasus in 1949. In June of 1950 he was awarded with the Thomas Reeder Speeden Athletic Award, which is given to the student for outstanding achievement in scholarship and athletics.

At the present, Bill is serving as student assistant in the Physics Department, as President of ODK, vice-president of Lambda Chi Alpha, and vice-president of the Beta Eta. During the past summer, Bill spent some time as golf course manicurist for the local country club and finished off the summer by testing out the absorption of shock waves occurring on explosives in a ground at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

In addition to these many interests, we might add that Bill seems to manage to spend some time with one Peggy Mescale in Chestertown, now and then.

Bill's plans for the future are still up in the air, but he does hope to go to graduate school and eventually wind up doing research in the field of physics. Here's wishing him good fortune and lots of success.

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Jays Confide In Manger

When the Maroon and Black harrier stride against Johns Hopkins tomorrow afternoon at Homewood, the Bluejays are likely to unveil one of the top cross-country aspirants of the Mason-Dixon Conference.

He is Don Manger, former high school star at Baltimore Polytechnic. He raised the curtain of the Jays' 1951 hill and dale campaign last Saturday by romping across the finish far ahead of the following contenders from Franklin and Marshall.

Among his undefeated track achievements as a freshman at Hopkins last year, Manger ran the 8th fastest freshman mile in the country—4:24.41!

Nesbitt Praises Defense

As the pitchers prepare for their fourth encounter tomorrow afternoon against Western Md., coach Howie Nesbitt is working on the squad's main fault, that of constantly relying on the defense. Coach Nesbitt expressed his approval of the team's defensive status by stating, "Undoubtedly, we have one of the strongest defensive units in the Mason-Dixon Conference."

Commendable performances have been turned in by Dough Tilley, George Horn, John Grim, Walt Orlie and Bill Russell. Goatslayer "Butch" McHugh has progressed rapidly since last year and has achieved a high rating from his teammates and opposing booters.

Sports Shorts

Western Md. and King's College remain as the preliminaries of the soccer schedule. The "Supreme Tests" face the booters on November 1st, 3rd and 6th, when they encounter Hopkins, Balto. U., and Loyola!

Rumor has it that Don Nutzel will be graduating from Washington College in about 1958. He is leaving school again this February to play professional baseball. However, this time it is with Norfolk of the Piedmont League, Class "B" baseball!

The semi-finals of the intramural tennis tournament have finally been completed. Bob Appleby outplayed Don Heverly 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 and has been pitted against Mel Littlejohn in the finale.

Rod Ware has been selected by many soccer fans to develop into one of the topnotch booters of the M-D Conference. He suffered a sprained foot in the F and M game and has seen limited action since then. However, he may return to his halfback slot when the Shoremen face the Terrors tomorrow.

Greyhounds Edge Sho'men

The Loyola College cross-country team successfully opened its 1951 campaign by edging out the Washington College Greyhounds, 20 to 31 last Saturday at Evergreen.

The well-balanced Greyhound contingent placed men second, third, fourth, fifth and eleventh. However, Bob Appleby of the Maroon and Black provided the highlight of the afternoon by capturing first place honors in the dual meet. He crossed the finish line fifty yards ahead of Ed Colburn, of the Green and Gray. The latter's time was 19 minutes 41 seconds, while the winner's time was 18 minutes 45 seconds.

Becker Impressive

Colburn established the pace at the outset of the meet and continued to lead the field of fifteen men well to the halfway mark. At this point the uniting Appleby took over and held the lead for the remainder of the course. Loyola's George Kimmerline and Tom Volatile were never far behind the two leading contestants. The former harrier crossed the finish line step behind Ed Colburn.

The Chestertown school's second runner, Paul Becker, maintained a constant pace for the entire 3.5 mile course. However, he did not put on a final 100 yard sprint which brought him within twenty-five yards of Jim Ball, the Greyhound's fourth best harrier. But Ball without captain Becker's challenge and captured fifth position.

Davis Clinches Victory

The third Shoreman to complete the race was Ellis Boyd, closely followed by Don Heverly, who is rapidly improving as the season progresses. Ninth place was filled by Don Steynen and tenth by Jack Bacon.

The decision of the meet rested upon Ed Davis, the home team's fifth runner, who clinched the affair through his twelfth place position.

This dual meet was closer than any other Mason-Dixon meet that has been run this season. The surprisingly Appleby assumed every-one as he outran former high school stars, Colburn and Volatile. The Shoremen oppose Hopkins next week in Baltimore.

The Summaries (10-12 only)

Edge State Teachers, 1-0

In a thrill packed contest held last Tuesday at Towson State Teachers' College the Maroon and Black pitchers emerged victorious through half-back George Horn's third quarter tally.

It was a loosely played encounter throughout the first half, neither team threatening the other to any great extent. Both ball clubs relied upon their defense to keep them out of trouble.

McHugh Saves 8

The defensive standouts for the Shoremen were fullback Johnny Grim and Bill Bonnett who protected goal "Butch" McHugh reliably. The latter was subjected to only 8 saves during the entire contest.

At the outset of the 2nd half the Shore force renewed their hustle and spirit which led to Horn's goal midway in the third period. Wingman Ted Reddon consistently threatened the Towson defense, while center halfback Dough Tilley displayed his usual talents at the pitch spot.

Hottey Leads Lossers

Jack Zimmerman, the home team's right wing, troubled the Chestertown school's defense innumerable times through his leads toward the center. Center forward Jim Hottey, leading M-D rooster for this season, remained an ever constant scoring threat the entire afternoon.

Minor injuries resulting during the game, however, F and M (and Towson) have handicapped and weakened the team considerably. George Wiedrich, Rod Ware, Dick Weiler and Juan Hernandez are expected to shake their ailments in preparation for tomorrow's outing at Western Maryland. The Terrors invade the Shore at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Hardwood Drills Begin

After a week of intensive training, coach Ed Athey's hardwood applicants are rounding into a well balanced combination. The first cut took only a few boys from the squad, while those remaining will see action on either the varsity or J.V. teams.

Among last week's quartet are: Kerry Sullivan, Wes Edwards, Nick Scallion, Bernie Rudo, Jim Taylor, Danny Samuels, Jack Smith and Bill Brogan. Among the newcomers are: "Huddy" Thayer, a good man under the boards; Jack Berg, who handles an accurate set shot; George Hese, a good all-around player; John Parker, who possesses a deadly one-hand push shot; Jack Palmer, a towering center who handles himself nicely; Shelle Deutch, a lad who is dangerous whenever he gets the ball in his hands; and John Santilli, a very aggressive boy on the court. The only player up from the J.V. this year is Ed Athey, who was recently with an easy book shot.

During the past week the team has been working mainly on defensive and offensive plays. The "dribblers" seem to have the plays down pat and Ed Davis, may be a top contender in the Mason-Dixon conference this year.

Coach Athey is starting evening workouts Tuesday, and plans to start scrimmaging them. There are still several boys who will be on the squad this year, but are competing in Fall sports.

Nick Scallion, leading scorer in the conference for the past three seasons, will undoubtedly be a threat again this year. Ed Athey, who was recently appointed President of the Mason-Dixon Conference for 1951, is building the team around the versatile Scallion to shape a smooth-running ball club.

JOHN GRIM
"Stalwart Defenseman"

Athlete Of Week

We seldom meet an athlete quite as modest as this week's sportsman of the week, John Grim, a third year man at W.C.

This 6' 18 1/2 lb. "stalwart defenseman" of coach Howie Nesbitt's pitching squad, is an "easy going" student well-liked around the Washington campus. He is well liked on the athletic field also, but Johnny has made it very rough for Maroon and Black opposition through his rugged, yet "cool" play style. His talents are not centered upon soccer alone, for Grim has played under coach Charlie Clark, as a midfielder in the net works during the past two seasons.

"Don't pin me down" was John's smiling reply when asked to choose his favorite of the two team sports. While attending Catonsville High School he earned the pitch and the lacrosse field for two and four years respectively. However, foremost in his memory is last season's soccer contest against Balto. U., which the latter team won, 2-1. This was one of John's topmost performances of the year, as he played the entire encounter without a break. His lengthy boots and calm, collected team play will long be remembered by the Baltimore Bers. The blonde-haired youth stated, "I respected Balto. U. more than any other hall club, and would take pride in seeing them; but should I would sure love to trounce Loyola College this season."

When the spring weather wars around you will seldom see John without his lacrosse stick. His love for the sport is proven through his tireless efforts put forth during the daily work-outs. Hesse is John's key-note here and he is thrilled at the thought of romping over the field in tight competition. His most thrilling experience was in 1949 when he assisted the Shoremen in their 12-1 victory over the Greyhounds at Evergreen.

John is one of the most conscientious athletes here on the hill and his athletic prowess is sure to bolster the Sho' furies during his next two years at the Chestertown school.

Group Finish

The bluejay finish which the Sho' harriers staged against Loyola last week, in which not more than ten seconds separated the times of the last five Washington runners, proved the balance of the team.

George Eichelberger, Ellis Boyd, Don Heverly, Jack Bacon, Wayne Gruhn, Jack McCullough and Don Steynen complete the list of wiry muscled thirties competing against Hopkins tomorrow. Steynen is expected to race up several slots due to the recovery of his past pay-level condition.

The home team has re-mapped their course and its length is now 4 miles. Notwithstanding this, the Shore forces are yearning to stage a repeat performance of last year.

Diplomats Control Play

By Rod Ware

Washington College opened its 1951 soccer season last Friday as it battled Franklin and Marshall College to a 2-2 tie in Lancaster, Pa.

F and M, playing their third game of the year, controlled the play throughout most of the game. They were constantly knocking at the goal, but the Maroon and Black defense proved a match for the Diplomats. Quite impressive at defense was "Butch" McHugh, Sho' goalkeeper. "Butch" had 27 personal saves, which was more than he had in any other game last season.

The first quarter was evenly matched, neither team gaining the lead. However, in the second frame, the superior experience of the Pennsylvanians began to show. They were forcing the Sho'men to play a strictly defensive game.

Shortly after intermission, Carl Klings scored for F and M on a short boot from the left side. Moments later, Dick Weiler rammed one into the net from a long kick-off by the Chestertown school's first score. At the end of the period the score stood at 1-1.

This renewed the hopes of the local boys, but F and M continued to control the ball in Washington territory. Midway in the final frame, the "Dips" regained the lead as Klings registered his second goal on a penalty kick. This one-point margin seemed to be the ticket of the game, but with only 3 minutes remaining in the game, Juan Hernandez blasted a shot at goalie Walt Leny. The F and M safety man knocked the shot down, but Walt Orlie was there to make the goal.

With the score tied and time rapidly running out, both teams tried to win in vain to score. The game was forced to be played off in two five minute overtime periods, in which neither team could outmaneuver the other. The defenses of both teams held and the final score stood at 2-2.

Bluejays Seek Revenge

When the Shore harriers invade Johns Hopkins tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, the Jays will undoubtedly seek to avenge their 2-1 to 2 defeat by the Maroon and Black in 1950.

Although the record breaking Earl Grim of the home team has graduated, coach Carl Rees has conditioned a capable replacement, sophomore stand-out Don Manger.

Undeatable in '50

Ineligible for varsity competition last year, Manger finished the season undefeated in the freshman ranks. Continuing in post-armor races he seemed indicated as he led the Baltimore Olympic Club to several dual meet victories.

Veteran Mike McGinnis was very impressive in Hopkins' deadlock against F and M last week, being the second best of the Blue and Black quartet to cross the finish. Rounding out the top five are Bud Howard, John Fritz and Bill Logan.

Appleby Replaces Dryden

Missus the running ability of graduate Ed Dryden, Grim's line, had longer last year, coach Athey figured to be considerably weakened in '51. However, "Blonde Bob" Appleby has been running true to form in competition and daily work-outs, and Athey expects him to improve rapidly at the season progresses.

Paul Becker, team captain, is another leading candidate who is striving to upset the vengeful Homewood thistle. Becker's pace increased rapidly through his rigid conditioning.

New Series Of Deferment Tests

Announcement has been made by the Selective Service and by the U. S. Office of Education of plans for the second nationwide series of Selective Service College Qualification Tests to provide local boards with evidence of the aptitude of registrants for college work.

The new series of tests will be given on Thursday, December 13, 1951, and on Thursday, April 24, 1952, by the Educational Testing Service. Application blanks for the postmarked not later than midnight, November 5, 1951. Applications for the April 24, 1952, test must be postmarked not later than midnight March 10, 1952. Application blanks for the test are now available at all local boards.

To be eligible to apply for the test a student:

- (1) Must intend to request deferment as a student.
- (2) Must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course;
- (3) Must not previously have taken a Selective Service College Qualification Test.

Students whose academic year will end in January, 1952, are urged to apply for the December 13, 1951, test.

To qualify for deferment as a student, the student must meet one of the following two requirements:

- (1) Pass the Selective Service College Qualification Test with a score of 70 or better;
- (2) Have satisfactory rank in class (upper half of the freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, upper three-fourths of the junior class). Seniors accepted for admission to graduate school satisfy the criteria if they stand in the upper half of their classes, or make a score of 75 or better on the test.

Students who wish to be considered candidates for deferment should apply to a local board for an application blank and send it immediately. Applications for the December test must be postmarked no later than November 5, 1951. Do not delay.

Civil Service Exams Announced

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced a new examination for Junior Agricultural positions covering the following positions: Agricultural economist, agronomist, animal husbandman (including animal physiologists), botanist (including histologists), entomologist (including apiculturists), fishery biologist, forester, geneticist, home economist, horticulturist, plant pathologist, plant quarantine inspector, poultry husbandman, soil scientist, statistician, wildlife biologist, and zoologist (parasitology). (Including nematologists). The majority of positions to be filled are located in the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States. The beginning salary for these positions is $3,100 a year.

To qualify, applicants must pass a written test, and, in addition, must have completed a 4-year college course leading to a bachelor's degree in the optional field for which they apply. They may also qualify on the basis of a combination of pertinent college study and appropriate experience totaling 4 years. Students who expect to complete their courses by June 30, 1952 may apply. The application, waived for persons entitled to veteran preference, are from 18 to 35 years.

Full information and application forms may be secured at most first- and second-class post offices, from civil service regional offices, or direct from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications must be received in the Commission's Washington office not later than October 23, 1951.

Introducing . . . THE FACULTY

Mr. Stuart L. Penn should be known to all, by now, as our new Philosophy professor. He hails from Detroit, Michigan, where he has lived, studied and taught most of his life, with time out for duty with the armed forces.

After graduating from high school in Detroit, Mr. Penn attended Wayne University, where, in 1943, he received his A.B. At that time he began pilot training and saw duty in Italy, with the 15th Air Force, and also, incidentally, met his wife, Mrs. Penn, who, at the time, serving with the armed forces in Italy and originally came from Kansas City.

When Mr. Penn returned from the service he taught history at Wayne University during 1945-46. Penn also acted, during this time, as Assistant Dean of Veterans. In the fall of 1946 he went to Yale and studied philosophy until the spring of this year when he decided to come to Washington College.

At the present he is living in Greenwood, not Philosophers' Terrace—as might be presumed. With him are his wife and 22 months old daughter. Although they have been in town only a short time, they like Chestertown and hope to make it their home.

United Nations' Day To Be Observed

In observance of United Nations' Day, the Forensic Society will present an evening program in Bill Smith Hall for Washington College students. The presentation will be Wednesday, October 24, at 7:30 p. m. The program will be divided into three parts, the first being a background sketch of the United Nation by Mr. Jack W. Henry, History Professor. Following Mr. Henry's talk, Dr. Charles B. Clark will narrate a New York Times film strip entitled "How Strong is Russia."

The student group will then present a mock session of the Security Council at work. This session will include Tony Tonian, Henry Louis, Bob Brink, Tom Lowe, Herb Brown, Bill Treuth and J. Charles Hachel.

This year marks the sixth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations and the third year that the Forensics have made special plans for the observance of United Nations' Day.

Inaugural Ceremonies To Be At 2:00

G. Mautner, J. Bradley, T. Knill Are Attendants

Elinore Gustafson will be crowned Queen of the 1951 Homecoming festivities by Dean F. G. Livingston during half time at the soccer game today. Her three court attendants will be Gabrielle Mautner, Jane Bradley, and Freshman representative Terry Knill. Last year's queen, Matlene Meyer, will also participate in the ceremonies.

The queen, known as "Gussie" on campus, is a Baltimore girl and a member of this year's Senior class. At the Homecoming ceremony four years ago, she served as Freshman representative on the court. Active in numerous organizations, Elinore holds two presidential positions this year—President of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and President of the Science Club. Last year, she was Secretary-Treasurer of the Science Club and Secretary of the sorority. When the World Student Service Fund Committee was organized, she also served as its first chairman.

In activities within her class, she held the position of Secretary during her Junior year. "Gussie" also has participated in girls' athletics, serving on the G. I. A. A. for three years and on theVarsity hockey squad for her first two years in college. After graduation, she plans to enter biological work in connection with her major field in college.

Wants To Travel

"Gaby" Mautner transferred from Loyola University in New Orleans, Louisiana, last year. At Loyola, she was Society Editor of the school newspaper and was runner-up in a school-wide popularity contest conducted as an annual event. After entering Washington last year, she became a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, and serves this year as Rush Chairman and Panhellenic delegate for the sorority. In the Women's Student Government Association, she is Vice-President of the Reid Hall Council. She is also a member of the Newman Club. This summer after graduation, "Gaby" plans to travel to Europe to join her mother in Vienna, Austria, and possibly continue studies abroad.

Jane Bradley, a resident of Bethesda, Maryland, has been an active member of the ELM staff during her three years at college. For two years she served as a member of the News Editor, and this year she began as News Editor and has been recently appointed Managing Editor. In her Freshman year, she was initiated into Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority and holds the position of Treasurer this year. Jane is also a member of the Washington Players and is Promoter-Manager. Rounding out her activities, she is on the cheerleading squad.

From Howard County

The Freshman representative, Terry Knill, is from Lisbon, Maryland, in Howard County. At Lisbon High School, she was initiated in dramatics, and acted in several school plays. She was also a member of the newspaper staff and the yearbook staff. Here at Washington College, she plans to prepare for a position as a secondary school teacher.

Voting next plan for the Homecoming Court are handled as an annual function of the Inter-Fraternity Council. This year, Mel Littleton of Kappa Alpha fraternity serves as President.

Honorary Degree To J. L. Madden

James L. Madden, Washington College alumnus from the class of 1911, will be the object of a special feature during Inaugural Ceremonies today when he is presented with an honorary LL. D. from the school.

Madden is a native of New Jersey, and received his A.B. degree from Washington College in 1911. Following graduation here he attended New York University where he received his master and finally his law degree. He has been associated with the faculty of the New York University Law School, and is on committees connected with Duke University and Notre Dame. He also was a lecturer for Princeton and Oxford University in England.

Mr. Madden served in both wars, the first as a captain, and the second, in an advisory capacity for several government agencies. At present he is acting chancellor of New York University and Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

NOTICE!

The dining hall will be open for students at 1:15 today rather than at the usual 12:15.

This is due to the fact that a special luncheon has been scheduled at 12:00 noon in Hodson Hall for the delegates of the inauguration, official guests, and the Board of Visitors and Governors.

The administration asks for the students' cooperation on this matter.

Pitchmen Face King's College Today

Today's feature athletic attraction of the homecoming celebration will be a soccer game between King's College and the Shoemakers, starting at 11 o'clock A. M., on Kibler Field.

Washington College will enter the game with a record of one win, one loss, and two tied in open competition. Opening the season with a 2-2 deadlock against Franklin and Marshall the Maroons and Black bounced back to edge Towson Teachers, 1-0. Gettysburg handed the locals their initial setback last Thursday, 4-2. The Shoemen's recent game with Western Maryland ended in a 1-1 draw. This records a record of one win and one tie in Mason-Dixon play.

Coach Horve Nesbitt has had trouble in keeping a steady line-up on the field, due to injuries. Rod Ware, an indispensable team player, who received a sprained foot in the season's opener at Franklin and Marshall, has been limited action throughout the season. Butch McHugh suffered with an injured knee in the Gettysburg game, and has been out of action since then. Also handicapped by ailments have been John Grim, Bill Russell, Dick Weller, George Wiederholt, Ted Beddow, and Juan Hernandez.

However, with a week's rest and light workouts, Coach Nesbitt hopes to have everyone available for today's game. The probable starting line-up will be Butch McHugh in the fullbacks, John Grim and Bill Russell at the fullbacks, and George Horn, Doug Tilley, and Rod Ware at the halves. Rounding out the starters in the line will be Juan Hernandez, Ted Beddow, George Wiederholt, Horn, and Walt Ortel.

Homecoming Dance At Armory Tonight

The annual Homecoming dance will be held again this year at the Armory from 9:00 until 1:00 this evening. Many Kirtin and his orchestra will be featured for dancing, and admission is $1.75 a person.

This year, the decorations are being provided by the Art Club, under the supervision of Tony Tonius, President. Since this weekend marks the close of October, the decorations will be centered around a Halloween theme. Jane Miller, a member of the organization, is chairman of the decorating committee.

Felix Morley, Guest Speaker For Today's Celebration

FELIX MORLEY

Felix Morley, well known radio commentator and college president, will deliver the principal address today in the inaugural ceremonies for Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson. His speech will highlight the festivities centered around the installation of Dr. Gibson as twelfth president of Washington College.

Dr. Morley was educated at Haverford College in Pennsylvania, and served that institution as President from 1940 until 1945. Prior to holding that position, he was a noted newspaper man with the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the United Press Service, and the Baltimore Sun. In 1950 he was awarded a Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing.

Born in Haverford, Pennsylvania, Dr. Morley attended the Haverford College and, after receiving his degree, attended the New College of Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar. He also has held a Hutchinson research fellowship at the London School of Economics and Political Science and a Guggenheim fellowship in political science. He was awarded his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the Brookings Institute in 1936. He holds honorary degrees from George Washington University, Hamilton College and the University of Pennsylvania.

During World War II he was a consultant for the War Manpower Commission and was a member of the advisory committee of the Army Specialized Training Program.

Dr. Morley is married and has four children. He is a brother of Christopher Morley, noted author and playwright.

In inauguration ceremonies to be held here today, October 27th, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson will be officially installed as the twelfth president of Washington College since the founding of the school in 1782. The event will highlight activities on the hill for the annual Homecoming Week, and it is expected to attract many alumni plus delegates from over 115 different colleges and universities.

Dr. Gibson was elected to the office of president in June, 1950, by the Board of Visitors and Governors and assumed the presidency in August of that year.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Felix Morley, well known author, radio commentator and one-time Pulitzer Prize winner. Mr. Morley is also outstanding in the educational field, having served as president of Haverford College in Haverford, Pa.

Prominent guests of the college for the event include the Governor of Maryland, the Honorable Theodore McKeldin and his wife, U.S. Senators for Maryland, the Honorable Herbert R. O'Connor and the Honorable John M. Butler, and the state delegation at Annapolis from the Eastern Shore.

Also scheduled for the inauguration ceremony will be the conferring of an honorary doctor degree to James L. Madden, Washington College graduate in the class of 1911. Mr. Madden is at present acting chancellor of New York University and Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The ceremony will begin at 2:00 Saturday afternoon on the 27th, and will be held on the communications site, located in front of Middle Hall. It will be followed by a reception at 4:00 for guests of the college at Ringgold House, home of the president.

135 Institutions To Be Represented

At least 135 educational institutions will be represented here today for the inauguration ceremony of Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson as twelfth president of Washington College. Eleven of the schools that will have delegates here, were founded at was Washington College, by the year 1800.

Those schools of early establishment that are here today are: William and Mary, Princeton, Washington and Leesburg, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, North Carolina Union College and Yale University. Several of these schools are among the first ten established colleges in the country as is Washington College, standing as number one on the list.

Numerous other large schools have also sent delegates, as have the Liberal Arts Societies of the Country. Some of these schools are: Columbia University, Wellesley, Smith, Maryland University, Tufts, Dartmouth, Stanford University, Temple, Case Western Reserve, University of Chicago, Oklahoma A&M, Tulane, Alabama and George Washington University.

Prominent guests of the college, other than the educational delegates, will be Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor of Maryland, and several senators and representatives, both national and local, from the state of Maryland.

OVER THE SHOULDER

Eighteen years ago this month, another president of Washington College was inaugurated in the same setting of the brightness of an autumn day and a flag-decked stand. Historic Washington College had installed as her nineteenth president, Dr. Gilbert Wilcox Meade, who was to serve the school until his death in 1949.

The distinguished guest of honor on that day was Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, who received the highest degree awarded by Washington College. In his acceptance speech, the President spoke to the group of the necessity of educating the nation's young in what was then a dark period for the Americans.

The crowd that assembled to witness the inauguration numbered beyond anything ever seen on the Washington College campus and amplifiers carried the details of the exercises to the farthest limits of the audience as network microphones broadcast the entire proceedings to the nation. It was a gala event to Washington alumni and citizens of Maryland, as well as to the numerous delegates from other educational institutions.

Yet, the importance of the day lay not in the fact that Washington College had installed her nineteenth president, but that the inauguration served as a reminder to a depressed American public that education of her young people was an absolute necessity and that institutions such as Washington College were striving in every possible way to accomplish that necessity.

Today, Washington College will inaugurate her twentieth president, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, in a situation similar to the one in 1933. The brilliance of the autumn day, the flag decked stands, and above all, the same need for America to promote higher education. As the distinguished guest for the ceremony, Felix Morley, an authority on education, as well as national affairs, will speak to the alumni and friends of Washington College.

And again, this inauguration of Washington College's twentieth president, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, will serve as a reminder to the crowd that gathers to witness the event, that education is a necessity. Through the leadership of the new president of Washington College, the institution will continue to grow as it has for the last 169 years and continue to stress the ideals of an educational foundation in America, that the world is always resting in the hands of the children of the age—prepare them for it!

"Gus" and Jane Bradley on being nominated for homecoming queen. If Dryden for becoming our new secretary, replacing Peggy Leonard. "Punky" and Rod Kousko on the addition to their family—on 8 pound, 12 ounce baby girl.

The party we gave for our patrons was lots of fun. Characters is a great way to get everyone into the act.

The Zetas will like to take this time to extend congratulations to Dr. Gibson on his forthcoming inauguration. It will really make the Homecoming week-end memorable.

Don't forget to keep Friday night, November the 2nd, open. The Zetas are planning a bingo party—with prizes at everything. There will be open house all day Saturday for our alumni. Drop by and see us in the Zeta room.

Hopps Homecoming!

Alpha Chi Omega

Welcome to our two new patronesses—Mrs. Buckley and Miss Schellinger. Sunday we are having a party at Mrs. Harter's house. A good time will be had by all, we are sure. The perfect ending for a Homecoming week-end.

Monday our room will be open to all alumni. Drop in and see us in our redecorated room.

Alpha Omega Nu

We of Alpha Omega Nu would like to welcome home all of the returning alumni throughout the campus.

It certainly looks as if this year's Homecoming is going to be bigger and better than ever. We have quite a few things planned for the week-end. Besides a more than fabulous Homecoming dinner, we are also planning a party for after the dance on Saturday night.

Congratulations and a hearty welcome to the fraternity for Bob Rouse, who was initiated on Monday night.

Have a nice time everyone—see you all at the dance. Also, welcome to Scotty and Sam.

AOH News

Many thanks to Ginny Elison and Mary Margaret Hoopes for the wonderful picnic they gave us Sunday afternoon at Farlie on the Bay. We all had a super day. Time is just such a perfect spot, and the food was just delicious. Now we are all looking forward to a spring picnic at the cottage.

Monday we gave a desert bridge for our patronesses in the drawing room of Reid Hall. We were all so glad to meet the new members of our patroness club, and to talk with all the enthusiastic members.

A box full of Christmas surprises has just been donated to Trienje, the little Dutch girl whom we have

Senior Of... The Week

Sandy Reeder—the girl who occasionally has a three joint limo, claims Baltimore as her hometown and Forest Park High School, from which she graduated in 1948, as her secondary school alma mater.

When she entered her freshman year at W.C. she became a reporter on the Elm staff, a position which she held for four years. The same year, she was also initiated into A.O.P. society. Later in her college career she became assistant treasurer, and, finally, president of this group.

In her sophomore year, Sandy became secretary of the Reid Hall Council and freshmen floor counselor. She was elected to the Women's Student Government Association in her junior year and is now serving as vice-president. She was also, in her junior year, initiated into S.S.O., the honorary scholarship fraternity, and was elected to serve as its treasurer for 1951-52. In addition, she is also associate editor of the Pegasus, of which she became a staff member last year.

Although she has taken time to do good jobs in all of her extra-curricular activities, she spends a good amount of time studying. She has adopted for the second year under the Foster Parent Plan. We all hope she will enjoy opening the box as much as we enjoyed packing it for her.

Theta Chi

"Hey, watch out! Don't let that sandy get away from you!"

That is the cry issuing from the Theta Chi house at this writing, as the hushers work to get the floors finished for Homecoming.

We anticipate a large crowd of alumni brothers on to fill this week. The party will be at the Ranch and is expected to be the best yet.

Brother John Wilson will be with us soon. He is recovering from a knee injury in the Delaware General Hospital.

Special attention should be paid by all visitors to the new style piano in the house.

Hope to see all the alumni at the alumni meeting at 4:00 p. m. in Bill Smith.

On The Hill

Frothy—for the benefit of the guests on our campus this week, this column "Club 87" for this Saturday at the college will be the gossip section.

Siggie is having trouble again... she just couldn't find the ramp in Nortonston. The other night we were hummed (?) by a concert from the neighborhood of the parking lot.

Jo and I were practicing. We hear that Jackie had some rather unusual dates this past week-end; and so on to Villanova! Beanie Benjie is back in the social whirl... these freshmen really have influence.

Janice Palmer has been chosen "Miss Parliamentary Procedure of 2013".... she's a regular genius on the stuff. It seems that Beau is getting tired of up in classes—Graham's going to get homesick if she keeps up—and one to go to Baltimore with on Friday.... Sue Weber is on her way to the Dean's list again.

Jack Kline has requested that Pat, Gracie and Jo either invite him to the party or let him get some sleep. Seems that J.H. got trapped in a phone booth. Three big cheers for Schellinger—some people just don't realize that there are other things than test tubes and statistics. We have been with blue-eyes—guess who.

proved herself something of a scholar by maintaining a high index of her four years at Washington College.

Sandy is an easy-going girl, but she has discovered that there is one way one can be certain of making her undying animosity and of exciting her usually calm countenance to the point of hysteria. One needs only to call her by her correct first name, Alexandra.

Next June, Sandy will receive a well earned diploma, and to the sorrow of those who know her, leave the Elm. We are glad to have known her and wish to extend, at this premature, perhaps our best wishes for the future.

Meeting The Frosh

Barbara Townsend-Barbara

Barbara Townsend-Barbara is that brainy member of the freshmen class who managed to come up with a 101 score on a Spanish test that was based on a high of 100. She has a deep and dark secret. But then, Barbara is an amazing girl. Another Eastern Shoreman—she claims Potomac City as her home town. Barbara has already displayed quite a talent for making an amusing story amusing—quite a work of art in itself. Physically she might be described as of medium height, with short, curly, brown hair and hazel eyes.

Barbara likes the Eastern Shore, music (excepting Hillbilly), her room-mate (flattery will get you nowhere), banana nut bread, and all of college life except studying. She doesn't like getting up in the morning, curfew hours, fish, and the Washington of them. Barbara says that Washington College is just "terrible" and that after graduation she wants to go back to Potomac City and do nothing but relax and go to parties.

Warrior Waterman—He's plain to see that Marion is the athlete of the freshmen class. She has already been elected to G.L.A.A. Board of Managers.

Dark eyes, dark hair, and well looked in saddle shoes serve as this girl's characteristics. She comes in from Cromwell High in Cromwell, Maryland, and wherever she goes one finds with her a spirit of light heartedness and a keen appreciation of the humor in life.

Sports (all kinds) rate high on her list of favorite activities. Considering that she spent $10 on chocolate milk shakes her first week here, she must be rather fond of them, too. She also likes seeing Rock Hall, and parties. Naturally, she likes Washington College.

Marion tells us that after graduation she hopes to get into the Law School at the University of Maryland. Perhaps we have another Portia in our midst—we hope so.

To Serve As "A Reminder"

"It Is Sir, A Small College . . . There Are Those Who Love It"

(Courtesy of the Washington College Bulletin)

"I am much indebted," wrote George Washington in 1782, "for the honor conferred on me, by giving my name to the College at Chestertown." In this letter to his friend, the Reverend Dr. William Smith, General Washington also expressed the hope that the fortunes of the incipient college would prosper and "donated" the trifling sum of Fifty Guinea's . . . as trifling sum of any wishes for the prosperity of this seminary." Two years later he consented to serve as a member of the Board of Visitors and Governors.

The college to which George Washington lent his name, his interest and his support was the product of the combination of two elements. The first of these was the Kent County public school, an institution of more than sixty years' standing and, by 1780, of considerable strength and community importance. The second element was the Reverend William Smith, a Scots by birth, educated at the University of Aberdeen, who came to America in 1751 and served the College of Philadelphia (now the University of Pennsylvania) as its first president from 1759 until its charter was revoked.

In 1780 Dr. Smith came to Chestertown as rector of the Anglican Church. A man of great enthusiasm, energy and vitality, he successfully prosecuted many projects during his nineteen year stay. He called together in Chestertown the conference of church dignitaries who gave the Protestant Episcopal Church of America its name. During four years he rode on horseback between Easton and Chestertown — a distance of thirty-six miles — to institute the Grand Lodge of Maryland, A.F. and A.M. Less than six months after his arrival, he was given charge of the Kent County School. After two years of his guidance, the school had grown till 140 students were enrolled, and the Visitors petitioned that a college charter be granted. The state agreed, with the provision that 10,000 pounds be raised, within five years, for the support of the fledgling institution. Dr. Smith, mounted his horse and riding from town to town and from farm to farm, raised more than the required amount in less than five months.

Dr. Smith's wide acquaintance among the great men of colonial days insured for the Board of Visitors and Governors of the new college, besides General Washington, such men as John Page, Robert Goldsborough, Joshua Sney and His Excellency, William Paca, Governor of Maryland. As the specified 10,000 pounds had been raised, the name of Washington had been obtained and an official board of inspiring names had been accumulated, the Maryland legislature immediately granted a charter on October 15, 1782, the first college charter in Maryland. The regular activities of the new college were set on smoothly into such a good purpose that the following spring on May 14th, 1783, the first commencement took place.

The next day, a great procession formed in the town and marched to the hill, a short distance to the north, for the exercises attending the laying of the cornerstone for a college building. The students contributed to the ceremony two French orations and a pastoral play, while the address of the occasion was delivered by one of the Visitors, Governor William Paca, who was accorded a salute of thirteen discharges of cannon.

The first of two other highlights in the early history of the College occurred in 1784 when Washington visited the College as a member of its governing board. The students acted before him and a great crowd the tragedy of Gustavus Vasa, the deliverer of Sweden from Danish oppression. At its conclusion Dr. Smith pointed to Washington and said: "Behold, the Gaius of America!" On the second occasion, in 1789, Washington was the recipient of the degree of Doctor of Laws, the first honorary degree ever conferred on a President of the United States while in office. The diploma is preserved in the Library of Congress. His letter of acknowledgment shows his continued interest in the college:

"To the corporation of Visitors and Governors and the Principal and Faculty of Professors of Washington College in the State of Maryland."

Gentlemen:

Your very affectionate address and the honorary Testimony of your regard which accompanied it call forth my grateful acknowledgments. A recollection of past events and the happy termination of our glorious struggle for the establishment of the rights of man cannot fail to inspire every feeling heart with veneration and gratitude towards the greater rulers of events, who has so successfully interposed in our behalf.

Among the numerous blessings which are attendant on Peace, and as one whose consequences are of the most important and extensive kind, may be reckoned the prosperity of Colleges and Seminaries of learning.

As in civilized societies the welfare of the state and happiness of her people are advanced or retarded in proportion as the morals and good education of the youth are attended to, I cannot forbear, on the occasional, to express the satisfaction which I feel on seeing the increase of seminaries of learning through this extensive country, and the general wish which seems to prevail for establishing and maintaining these valuable institutions.

It affords me great pleasure to know that the seat of learning under your direction hath attained to such proficiency in the sciences since the peace; and I sincerely pray the great Authors of the Universe may smile upon the Institution, and make it an extensive blessing to this country.

G. Washington
(New York, July 11, 1789)

The location of the campus has not changed since the eighteenth century. The first building, an elaborate structure one hundred and sixty feet in length, was destroyed by fire in 1827. For seventeen years thereafter, classes were held in rented houses in town. The college, however, had sufficiently vitality to survive this period of depression and in 1844 another building was erected, now known as Middle Hall. Ten years later, the present East and West Halls were built.

The renewal of State appropriations in the last decade of the nineteenth century inaugurated a new era in the expansion of the physical plant. In 1892 the citizens of Chestertown presented the college with a new gymnasium. A normal department was instituted in 1896 (women had been admitted to the student body since 1861) and a large building, Normal Hall, erected for its accommodation. In 1906 the original William Smith Hall, an administration building, was completed; destroyed by fire six years later, it was replaced immediately by another building very similar to the first. With the development of college athletics, the playing fields, and the gymnasiums became inadequate. New land was purchased for the present Kibler Field and in 1922 the old gymnasium was replaced by a new building named in honor of President Carter. Following the discontinuance of the normal department, its building was remodeled, in 1929, into the modern women's dormitory now known as Reid Hall.

Hodson Hall, the college dining hall and social center, was opened in 1936. It is a benediction of a trust left by the late Colonel Clarence Hodson. The generosity of Dr. H. A. B. Dunning and of Dr. George A. Bunting made possible the development early in 1936 of a new building for the science departments, Dunning Hall, and of the new Bunting Library. In 1941 The Ringgold House, one of Maryland's most beautiful eighteenth century mansions, was presented to the College for use as a President's House. Further expansion was made necessary by the increase in enrollment that followed the end of the Second World War. In 1946 a small frame dormitory for men was erected and two frame structures secured from the Army were remodeled for class rooms and faculty offices. Foxwell Dormitory for women on the south campus, was opened in 1949 and in the fall of 1950 another men's dormitory, Somerset House, also a Hodson benediction, was ready for use.

In the original charter of 1782, the State undertook to provide funds for the maintenance of the college. This obligation was but partially met, and over the years was in fact alleviated by a series of agreements, legislative enactments, and judicial decisions. Since 1839, various agreements with the State have provided for the maintenance of a large number of scholarships. About 1890 the State began to increase its support of education and Washington College has since that time received an annual appropriation. By the charter amendment of 1922, one-half of the Board of Visitors and Governors are appointed by the Governor of Maryland.

Since the reorganization of its governing body in 1922, the college has enjoyed steady growth and an extension of its influence. Though it still draws most of its students from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, in recent years more and more have come from the Western Shore, from adjoining states, and from New York and New England. In the educational background of its faculty of thirty-five, 20 different graduate institutions are represented. It remains small, in a small community, and perhaps in that fact resides its greatest attraction and its strength. As Daniel Webster said of Dartmouth College many years ago: "It is drab, as I have said, a small college. And yet, there are those who love it."

Introducing . . . The Faculty

Dr. Conrad H. Riser—our new physics professor—is a native of St. Louis, Missouri, and graduated from high school in that city. Perhaps it is the legendary "show em" attitude of Missourians that enabled him to specialize in the field of physics.

After a hitch in the army at the time of the first World War, Dr. Riser went on to get his Bachelor and Masters degrees from the University of Pittsburgh, the latter being received in 1925. After this he spent five years working for Westinghouse in Pittsburgh and, in 1930, moved to New York City, where he has spent a major portion of his life. While in New York, Dr. Riser taught Physics at C.C.N.Y. In 1939 he was persuaded to instruct the New York police in the role physics plays in the collecting of data pertinent to the solving of crimes. It is in connection with this special study that he received his Doctor's Degree from N.Y.U.

Dr. Riser is married and is now making Chesterton his home. We are glad to have him with his wife and hope that he likes our school. He has already shown that he is interested in student activities by becoming, with Dr. Beckley of the Biology department, co-chairman to the Society of Sciences.

Historical Display

An exhibit of historical materials relating to the growth of Washington College is on display today in Bunting Library on the second floor.

The exhibit has been arranged in chronological order, beginning with information on the founding of the college and continuing with pertinent data down through the years. Special emphasis has been placed on big events such as the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. Gilbert Mead and the granting of honorary degrees to Dr. Joseph L. Davis to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Harry S. Truman. Minute books of the Board of Visitors and Governors dating back to the early nineteenth century will also be on display. In addition to material in the showcase, there are also portraits on the walls of the early founders of the college and other important personages.

The exhibit has been prepared by three members of the faculty, Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dr. Minnie Knapp, and Mr. Emmon Foster.

Twentieth President

of The Citadel, in Charleston, South Carolina. He also served as the executive officer of the Naval Training Unit at Franklin and Marshall and following his discharge took the post of dean for that school.

The new president was born in Middleboro, Kentucky, in 1908, and attended public schools there, graduating from high school in 1925. He entered Kentucky Wesleyan in September of that year as a pre-medical student and was graduated in 1929. During his four years there he earned four letters in football, was named All-Kentucky guard and captained his team.

Following graduation he worked a year as trainee representative with the Saint-Valieres in Detroit, and then, having decided against a medical career, entered the graduate school of the University of Cincinnati for the study of English. He received his M.A. degree in June, 1931, and then taught English Composition and Literature at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music until 1940, with the exception of two years when he was on leave of absence, continuing his work toward his doctorate. He was granted the Ph.D. in English from the University of Cincinnati in June, 1933. Dr. Gibson has not only been active in advancing the affairs of Washington College, but is busy throughout the state with clubs, committees, and speaking engagements. He also manages to find a great deal of time to spend with his lively family which consists of his equally active wife, and three children, Daniel D., nine; Mary, seven, and Helen, two and a half.

Although Dr. Gibson, from the above information, appears to be a busy man, and that he is, he has found time to be a "friend in need" to the college students and is always available for the proverbial chat over a cup of coffee on campus problems or just things in general. He has walked right into Washington College and made himself at home . . . and everyone recognizes him as an essential element in their idea of Washington College and what it is.

Seniors Eligible For Fulbright Scholarship

The United States Information and Educational Exchange Act, popularly known as the Smith-Mundt Act, established for the first time on a world-wide basis an information and educational-exchange program as an integral part of U.S. foreign policy. Under this Act, known to students as the Fulbright Program, any student is eligible to be a candidate for these scholarships by which one may further his studies in one of approximately twenty foreign countries.

The basic qualifications are:

1. United States citizenship.
2. A college degree or its equivalent at the time award is to be taken up.
3. Knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry out the proposed study.
4. Good health.
5. A suitable plan of study or research.

The student is given entire maintenance. This varies according to the cost of living in each participating country.

Each state in the U.S. is permitted to give two scholarships plus a certain number of scholarships at large. If the student feels the competition is too keen, he is eligible to enter at large through the Institution of International Education in New York.

These scholarships are on a nationally competitive basis. No written examinations are held, but an

Sports Review

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

The high-spirited cheerleaders, the Maroon and Black pennants waving in the breeze, the "Saturday afternoon quarterback" comparing notes, and the evenly proportioned gridiron stripes, are only memories at Washington College on this homecoming day, Saturday, October 27, 1951.

The alumni returning today will undoubtedly retrace their never to be forgotten collegiate career through the recollection of the innumerable homecoming festivities of the past. Although the gridiron sport no longer exists at the Shore school, the spirit of the institution unquestionably remains a time-honored tradition. It will continue in this capacity as long as there are competitive athletic events on the campus, and as long as this institution regenerates the diligent athletes that it has in the past.

There are no pennants waving, no uniform pattern of cheer. There are no "Pigskin Favorites" nor razzle-dazzle gridiron tactics. However, the nimble-footed soccermen and the iron-lunged harriers are striving to achieve identical goals—the honor of their school and team, the glory of competition, and the satisfaction of victory.

Under the capable leadership of their new coach, Howie Nesbitt, (who was a graduate of the class of '40) the pitchmen have already established themselves as seasonable challengers of the Mason-Dixon Conference title. The too-talented dribblers boast an unblemished record of one win and a tie in conference play as Towson succumbed to the Sho' forces, while Western Maryland fought out a draw. A deadlock against Franklin and Marshall, and a 4-2 loss to Gettysburg College complete the overall schedule.

The hill and dale hopefuls, under the spirited supervision of coach Ed Athey, have lacked the depth to capture numberable team honors as they have in the past. However, several stamina-laden standouts have appeared in the limelight of the team's dual encounters against West Chester, Loyola and Hopkins. Bob Appleby, newcomers to the harrier sport, has continually led his teammates to the finish tape in each meet, capturing individual honors at Loyola College. Team captain Paul Becker has been close at the heels of the pace-setting Appleby, formulating an enviable reputation among M-D runners.

The student body at Washington College has donated their whole-hearted support to the soccer and cross-country teams, and we rest assured that the returning alumni will follow their example.

"From Rags To Riches" A Tribute To A Winner

BY JACK BACON

The rebirth of lacrosse at Washington College came in 1918 after the sport had been inactive for 14 years.

The '18 squad was built around Captain Bill Crim, Bob Mallonee, Chit Case, Eddie Leonard, Jack Jackson, Harry Koberg, Charles Hoffmann, Duke Case, Larry Wescott, Price Ransome, Chotchy Mulligan, Ray Wood and Bill Tonn. Although it was not a member of the Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association, this team compiled a record of 5 victories and 2 defeats, both of which were at the hands of the strong Annapolis Lacrosse Club.

In 1919, under the guidance of Dr. Charles B. Clark, a former Maroon and Black Washington College "Platoon" man, the Sho'men were recognized by the I.L.A. Playing 14 collegiate games, the Shore Ten lost only to Loyola, in a 4th quarter tally by the "Greyhounds" and to the Annapolis L.C. The 1922 campaign gave the Sho'men a 10-3 record, losing to Duke, Navy, and Washington and Lee; the former two teams being members of the "big ten." The defeat of arch rival Loyola, 12-11, was one of the highlights of the season. In the national North and South lacrosse game, Charlie Hoffmann and Jack Jackson were selected to play on the all South team, capably representing Washington College.

Marvay Wolman, a lacrosse enthusiast, in the class of '50, donated a trophy which was to have the most valuable player's name inscribed upon it each year. A smaller trophy was to be awarded to the individual. In 1948, the trophy was won by Eddie Leonard, who was the team captain last year. In 1949, the trophy was awarded to Ray Wood, who led the nation with 60 goals for the season. In his the North edged the South, 12-11.

Coach Charles B. Clark
"Stick Instructor"

1950, the award was given to Graeme Menzies, who is the captain-elect for next spring. It was Menzies' "cool" and methodical thinking which set up many plays that ruled the Sho'men to their hard-fought victories. The winner of the '51 trophy was Harry Koberg, who had played 11 string defense for four years. It was Harry's fine performance that held all American Dual Series at Baltimore, senseless in last year's contest.

In the '51 season the Sho'men won 11 of their 13 collegiate games. The team lost a tough one to third ranking Duke, 6-5, in a non-scholastic practice game. The Shore Ten humbled the University of Maryland, who were lately destined to defeat the powerful Hopkins Tens. Again Washington College sent squad members to the North-South game, Ray Wood and Harry Koberg earned "saving" berths on the South squad while Eddie Leonard turned in a great performance in the midfield as a substitute. Ray Wood scored 5 goals, while the North edged the South, 12-11.

"Cage Co-Captains"

Nick Scallion and Kenny Sullivan shake hands in agreement that it will be a good year for the hardwood boys—Basketball will dominate the sports scene this winter with most of last year's players returning to the line-up.

Terrors Rally In 3rd Period

Terrors Rally in Third Period

Washington College's pitchmen fought to a 1-1 tie against Western Maryland College last Saturday on Kitter field to tally their Conference record of a win, a tie and no defeat. The Maroon and Black, playing their third game of the week, were severely handicapped by injuries to many key players—several of the boys being unable to play.

Although the first period was evenly played, the Sho'men were able to take a temporary lead just before the whistle terminated the quarter. Dick Weller became the first two-goal man on the squad as he fired one from the middle, 10 yards out.

The Green and Gold were forced to play a defensive game throughout the second stanza as the Washington offense began to click. However, Frank Hunsaker, leading goalie, rose to the occasion with clock save. The half ended, Washington holding a 1-0 margin.

Returning with new light and spirit, the boys from across the Bay reversed the order of the game in the third period. Midway in the third quarter, Don Louis, right inside, punched a goal past Bob Scerelli to tie the score. In the final frame, plus two overtime periods, neither team was able to score. The game ended in a 1-1 deadlock.

Bob Scerelli, replacing Butch McHugh in the goal, played an outstanding game. This was Bob's first full game of college soccer. The Terrors' goalie, Hunsaker, constantly hampered the Sho'men's scoring punch, which eventually led to the draw.

Dribblers Lose, 4 - 2

Washington College opened its 1951 soccer season Thursday, Oct. 18, dropping a 4-2 decision to Gettysburg College.

The Sho'men drew first blood as Gary Dunson, playing inside right, shifted from ten yards out in the first quarter. Washington's other goal came in the fourth period, when Juan Hernandez booted the ball out of the hands of the G-Burg goalie in the score.

In the third frame the Shore defense faltered as the visitors penetrated deep into home territory. Taking full advantage of this slack in defense, the Pennsylvaniaans punctured the goal three times in eight minutes. Anding the victory came over center halfback Ed Robinson, who scored twice, and center forward Bill Ruick. Their other tally came in the second stanza on a line shot, again by Ruick.

This was the second Middle Atlantic Conference game for the Maroon and Black. Their other encounter, against Franklin and Marshall, resulted in a 2-2 deadlock.

A great deal of thanks may be extended to the Baltimore Sun paper and Baltimore News-Post for the publicity which they have given the Sho'men. In John Steadman's column of the News-Post, Ray Wood was voted a berth as an All-American at Lakeland. Wood set an all-time national four-year record with 192 goals, while capturing the Lacrosse field for the Chestertown institution.

In the four years that Larowe has been president here at Washington College, the team has compiled a record of 41 victories in 47 collegiate games.

Bluejays Defeat Sho'men

Rebounding from their 24 to 32 loss to the Shore harriers in 1950, the Johns Hopkins cross-country team decisively defeated the Maroon and Black last Saturday at Homewood, 19 to 40.

Don Manger, Jay freshman sensation of last season, was first across the finish line, timed at 21 minutes, 55 seconds for the 4 mile course. Manger is one of the leading contenders for the Mason-Dixon cross-country title and proved his ability on his winning 4 mile jump, Saturday.

Rapid stepping Bob Appleby of the Chestertown squad finished only fifty yards behind Manger. Appleby ran neck to neck with the smooth striding Manger during the first 3 miles. At this point the latter increased his pace and wound up bounding the finish tape.

The Homewood harriers placed five men after Appleby. Five Sho' harriers crossed the line in order from 11th to 12th position. George Kirchberger stored his best performance of the season being the second Sho'men to score in the 17th minute. Captain Paul Becker was third, Ellis Boyd was fourth and Jack Bacon fifth, to complete the scoring.

Bill Maginnis of the Blue and Black was never far behind the two leaders, as he finished 50 yards behind Appleby. With the exception of Maginnis, this entire Hopkins squad has advanced from the freshman ranks of last year into a main threat of the M-D Conference title this season.

Athey Elected President

Edward L. Athey

Edward Athey, director of athletics and coach at Washington College, is the tenth president of the Mason-Dixon Conference, having been elected at a recent meeting of the organization.

Going into office with the Sho'men's boss is Vice-President George S. Proctor, director of athletics at Hampden-Sydney College. Loyola's Emil (Lofly) Reitz remains as secretary-treasurer.

Athey is the second Washington College man (John Hopkins also has had two) to serve as proxy. The first was J. Thomas Kahler, elected at the formation of the Mason-Dixon Conference in 1940. He served for two years, as did his successor, Reitz. Since then the presidents have changed each year, the office having been held by C. Gardner Mallonee, Dorsey J. Griffith, Charles W. Hayes, William J. McGee, Taylor H. Sanford, Daniel S. Clor and Marshall Tonn.

The recent meeting also set a new venue for the conference's Spring convulsions. It will be held in Richmond, for the first time, on March 29-30. The Mason-Dixon calendar of 1951-52 events, also was approved, with the annual basketball tournament to be held either in Baltimore or in Washington, March 6-7-8, with the decision to be made later.

Atheson Heads B.O.C. Invaders

Perhaps the greatest array of distance runners ever seen at this Short institution will "beat their stuff" this Saturday as part of the annual homecoming celebration.

At 3:30, by the hands on Kibler Field, Washington College and the Baltimore Olympic Club will begin the 3.6 mile cross-country run. The Baltimore club is headed by one of the foremost distance runners of the East, Walt Atheson. Atheson, former Michigan State college star, was a member of the U.S.A. and I.C.A.A. championship barrier squad. Last Saturday in a dual meet on our capital city, he came within 30 seconds of the world's record for 5 miles!

Flagging Impressive

The distance sports has been closely followed by Frank Flagging, a 19 year old Baltimore high school senior. Flagging was only between seconds behind Atheson when he sped to his near record 3 mile jump.

Other standouts of the Baltimore organization are Henry Schaffer, South Atlantic 2 mile champion; Harry Gross, former C.I.A.A. 880 yard champ; Billy Milke, Trevor Thomas and George Brown. The latter was a former M.D. champion. To illustrate the B.O.C. strength, Brown is only their number 8 man!

Appleby Leads Shoremen

Bob Appleby, who showed up well in the Hopkins meet Saturday, will face his sternest test when the red and white invade Chestertown. There is no doubt that Earl Grim's course record will fall by the wayside, and it is possible that Appleby will be pressed to run a time that would exceed Earl Meyers' best of last year.

"Appleby," in the opinion of Bill Jimson, Baltimore Olympic Club team coach, "is one of Washington College's greatest barrier fielders. He needs only seasoning and competition to reach great heights."

Afternoon Highlight

The Maroon and Black is looking forward to this meet and peak efforts are expected from Paul Becker, George Eickelberger, Ellis Boyd, Jack McCullough, Jack Bacon, Don Heverly, Don Steynen, and Wayne Grubbs. While the soccer game will feature the morning alumni day activities, the cross-country meet will highlight the afternoon's sporting activities. It is hoped that many alumni and students will line the course to cheer on the team which will be facing one of the greatest running aggregations of the East.

The Shoremen have yet to post a win, losing to West Chester, Loyola and Hopkins. They have shown steady improvement. The team spirit is high following Appleby's splendid run at Homewood last Saturday.

Deferment Test Deadline Is Nearing

Colonel Henry C. Stanwood, Director of Selective Service for Maryland, reminded college students today that the deadline for filing application blanks for the new series of Selective Service College Qualification Test is fast approaching and he stressed the importance of all eligible students taking the test if they intend to apply for deferment as students.

The test dates in the second series are December 13, 1951, and April 21, 1952. The tests are conducted by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey. Blanks may be obtained by the registrant in any local board office.

Colonel Stanwood said that students whose academic work will end in January of 1952 are urged to apply for the December 13 test, so they will have scores in their files when the local boards consider their cases in January.

Colonel Stanwood indicated that those who do not have test score listings in their Cover Sheets may have "a very difficult time indeed" in convincing their local boards that they should be deferred as students. A total of 239,000 students took the first series of tests given last spring and summer, Colonel Stanwood said, and 63 per cent received scores of 70 or better.

Application blanks for the December 13, 1951, test must be postmarked no later than midnight, Monday, November 5, 1951. Applications for the April 21, 1952, test must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 10, 1952.

The Congress, in the 1951 Amendments to the Universal Military Training and Service Act, declared that adequate provision for national security requires maximum effort in the fields of scientific research and development and the future possible development of the Nation's intellectual resources. Congress authorized the President to provide for the deferment of any or all categories of persons whose activity in study is found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest.

The criterion for deferment as a student is either a satisfactory score (70) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or satisfactory rank in class (upper half of the freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, upper three-fourths of the junior class). Seniors accepted for admission to a graduate school satisfy the criteria if they stand in the upper half of their classes, or make a score of 75 or better on the test. Students already enrolled in graduate schools may be deferred so long as they remain in good standing.

The standards may be raised or lowered as necessity demands. It is not mandatory for the local boards to follow the criteria.

The testing centers in Maryland are as follows:

Annapolis, St. John's College
Baltimore, Johns Hopkins University
Baltimore, Loyola College
Baltimore, Morgan State College
Baltimore, University of Baltimore
Bowie, Maryland State Teachers College
Chestertown, Washington College

Pan Hellenic Tea Will Open Rushing

Dr. Gibson Defends Small Colleges

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson officially became the twentieth president of Washington College at the inauguration ceremonies held on last Saturday of Homecoming week-end. Pledges for the ceremonies were Governor McKeldin, Senator O'Connor, Representative Miller, the Board of Visitors and Governors, and delegates from 135 colleges, universities and learned societies.

Following the invocation by Reverend Allen J. Miller and introductory remarks, W. Lester Baldwin, Chairman of the Board of Visitors and Governors, administered the oath of office to Dr. Gibson. Greetings were extended to the new President by William Brogan, representing the students as President of Omicron Delta Kappa; H. Gibson Young, President of the Alumni Association; Dr. Lawrence C. Ford, representing the faculty; and Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor of Maryland.

In his inaugural address, Dr. Gibson defended the position of the small college in the educational world and urged the return to the "ivory tower concept" as opposed to the current worldliness and delinquency on the college campuses today. The blame for the present condition, he added, lies with the educators themselves, and he expressed the belief that the impetus toward moral and ethical leadership would come from the smaller institutions.

Felix Morley, radio commentator, author and former President of Harvard College, delivered the principal speech for the occasion. Echoing Dr. Gibson's views, he stated that the purpose of the small college was not to train technicians but rather to develop the critical faculties of the individual. He pointed out that college presidents have been forced to let their fiscal

From The President

The ELM
Washington College
Chertstown, Maryland

Dear Washingtonians:

From the bottom of my heart, I want to thank all the members of the student body for their part in making my inauguration last Saturday the success it apparently was. I appreciate not only the work of those who participated directly, but also the support of those who came. For only one thing am I regretful; the invitation which the chairman of the Board extended to all those present to attend the reception at the President's house apparently was not understood by the students to include them. I am sorry for that, for I wished you all to come to the reception.

Certainly no president could have undertaken his administration more auspiciously. I am proud of you and proud of Washington College, and together I look forward, with your help, to making our school all that our dreams want it to be.

Cordially yours,
Daniel Z. Gibson
President

Ringgold House Is Scene Of Formal Rush Opening

The Pan Hellenic Tea, annual affair given by the three sororities on the campus for the freshman girls, will be held Sunday, Nov. 4, at 3:00 at Ringgold House, home of President and Mrs. Gibson.

This will officially open the formal rushing period for the girls. During the tea, all girls interested in being considered for a sorority will be asked to sign a rush list. Those who do not sign are ineligible for bids in February from the various sororities on campus.

Two Are Tapped

Charles Whitsett, a junior, and Eleanor Durand, a senior, were tapped as members into Sigma Sigma Omicron, the honorary scholarship fraternity, yesterday, during the Assembly in the auditorium. This swells the total to nine members in S. S. O.

Ed Stewart, president of the organization, administered the oath to both newly selected members. A tea was held Wednesday to honor the new members and also to acquaint the new members of the faculty with the purpose and aims of the honor group.

Membership in the organization is open to those juniors and seniors who have an accumulative index of 2.25 or better.

The society was founded on March 23, 1935. Dean Livingston was its first president. In 1933 the society adopted the motto, "Service through Scholarship for Washington," and changed its name from "Honor Society" to Sigma Sigma Omicron—Service through Scholarship.

Belford J. Groves, vice-president, and Sandy Reeder, treasurer, are the other student officers in the organization. Mrs. Winifred O'Grady serves as secretary, a post which is held by a faculty member. Dr. Charles Clark, Dean of Men, is advisor to the group.

This is the first year that the affair has been held at the home of the President. The offer was made to the Pan Hellenic Council by Mrs. Gibson, who recently was appointed as advisor to the group. Mrs. Gibson, as well as the officers of the Pan Hellenic Council, will serve as hostesses.

Guests for the occasion will be the various patronesses of the sororities who have been taking an active part in their social affairs this year.

Following the tea as a formal opening, there will be a tour of all sorority rooms. Monday night, November 5, this will begin at 6:00 and the group will meet in Hudson Hall. During the tour the girls will be told about each sorority and have a chance to inspect the sorority rooms. The girls will be welcomed in each room by the members of each sorority.

The following week the sororities will begin having "open rooms," and all freshmen are invited to get acquainted with the sorority girls on this night. Each sorority will have a different night so that all rooms may be visited, giving the rusher a chance to know all of the girls. The rooms are open on these nights from 5:30 until 7:00.

The rush period extends through the first semester and following the students return to school from the semester holidays a series of informal and formal rush parties are given. Immediately after the parties are over, bids are extended.

The Pan Hellenic Council is in complete charge of all the sorority activities and sees up rushing done as well as sponsoring the opening tea to acquaint the girls with sorority life. The present officers are Jean Shenton, President; Pat Bowes, vice-president; and Marlene Meyer, secretary-treasurer.

The following rules, set up by the Pan Hellenic Council for the rushing season, must be followed at all times. Violation will affect both the sorority and the rusher:

1. Sorority girls may visit freshman rooms from 4:00 to 7:00 P.M. every day.
  2. No sorority girls or freshman girls may be behind closed doors together.
  3. No sorority girls may offer freshman girls cigarettes, food, clothing or money, or do any assignment for a freshman girl. Nor can any sorority girl accept the same from a freshman girl.
- These rules apply to all rushers except in the case of upperclassmen rooming with sorority girls.

Notice To Freshmen

ODK, as one of its special functions, has planned class elections for the near future. The election committee of this group asks that you be looking for candidates for these offices. Requirements for eligibility will appear at a future date in the Elm. The ODK committee includes Joe Ingara, chairman; Tom Lowe and Nick Scallion.

Dryden's Mark Threatened

The second annual Del-Mar Cross-country Championship at Clifton Park tomorrow afternoon features The Baltimore Olympic Club, Washington College, Towson State Teachers' College and Catholic University.

Filmore Dryden, former Shore harrier, who captured individual honors last year, will not return to defend his title. However, his time of 20 minutes, 41 seconds for the 3.8 mile course will be threatened by individuals from each of the four teams entered.

Walt Atcheson, sensational Baltimore Olympic Club harrier, remains the "man to beat." His record-breaking performance on the Shore last week is proof enough of his speed and endurance.

Catholic University boasts Jim Field, middle distance ace from the track ranks, while Towson Teachers' features Bob Kane, one of the current Mason-Dixon threats.

The Shore forces are headed by sophomore standout Bob Appleby whose times are improving each meet. Undoubtedly, the old record will face a supreme test come tomorrow afternoon when these 4 men match strides over the rugged Clifton Park course.

Title Events Set

The Mason-Dixon calendar of 1951-52 title events was recently arranged with the first championship on November 17. This is the cross-country run to be held at Gallaudet College. Johns Hopkins will be the scene of the wrestling championships, February 27-28, with the titular swimming meet at American U on March 14-15.

In the spring, Hopkins will play host to the May 9-10 track and field championships; the May 12 golf tournament goes to Bonnie View Country Club; the May 16-17 baseball championship playoffs site will be decided later, with the May 17 tennis championship playoff to be held on the courts of the southern division winner.

Introducing . . . THE FACULTY

Mrs. Marguerite E. Wellham, a native of Kent County, returned last year to her home on Goose Hill and this fall was called by Dr. Gibson to be house mother of Middle Hall.

She attended Towson State Teachers' College and then taught school in Baltimore. After her marriage she kept home in that city. She worked for the Red Cross in Baltimore as a unit's Aid in the Maryland General Hospital. She was also a member of the Eastern Shore Society in Baltimore.

Last year Mrs. Wellham returned to the Eastern Shore and built her home on Goose Hill. She is an officer in the St. James' Methodist Church and remains active in the Red Cross, although Middle Hall occupies most of her time.

Mrs. Wellham has spent much of her life in Kent County, but this is her first experience with Washington College. She likes Middle Hall and the College. We hope that she can continue to like us and will stay with us.

Host Team Favored In Del Mar Meet

The Baltimore Olympic Club, scoring 32 points, won the first annual Del-Mar Cross-Country Association Championship last year over a 3.8 mile course.

Runners-up, with 56 points, was Washington College, whose Filmore Dryden walked off with individual honors and a new course record. Rounding out the scoring were King's College with 73 markers, Salisbury State Teachers', 92, and Mt. St. Mary's College with 101 points.

The latter two teams have dropped the fall sport this season and in their place, the Catholic University squad was invited. The host team and defending champion are highly favored to capture team honors once again this season.

Well-Balanced Group

Walt Atcheson, who came within 14 seconds of the world's record for 3 miles three weeks ago, has been established as the pre-meet favorite. The B.O.C. team strength is enlivened by Frank Pfalzing, Henry Schaffer, Wiley Miller, George Brown, Trevor Thomas and Harry Gross. All but the latter, son with the B.O.C. team last week on the Washington course.

According to coach Bill Jensen, through whose tireless efforts the meet is being sanctioned, "It will be one of the most interesting and high spirited running events to be held in Baltimore this season."

The spectators present will be focusing their attention upon Atcheson and Pfalzing, both of whom have their sights set on the old course record.

Becker Sixth

In last year's endurance test, Shoreman Paul Becker ran one of the finest races of his hill and dale career as he captured 6th place among the field of 30 contestants. He will be striving to repeat this performance tomorrow afternoon.

Speedster Bob Appleby will run the 3.8 mile grind for the first time tomorrow and is not to avenge the 15-40 championship that he lost to the Shoremen last week. The Maroon and Black team strength can cope with that of the Red and White, but the spirit is present.

Veterans George Eichelberger and Ellsworth Boyd are decidedly improving their pace as the meets progress and aided by Don Heverly, Jack Bacon, Wayne Gruhn and Don Steynen, are preparing to upset C.U. and Towson.

Sponsored by New-Pont

Chester Bill Jensen of the "Pica" has arranged with the Baltimore News-Pont to award medals to the first 15 individual finishers plus the first five teams of men, two and three to cross the finish.

The Del-Mar meet has done a great deal to increase the ever-growing interest of cross-country in Baltimore and its surrounding districts. When the Shore harriers invade Clifton Park tomorrow, each member of the team will be in high spirits, striving to bring the team into its own.

Athlete Of The Week

The name Joe Ingwers may not sound familiar to most freshmen, but all upperclassmen respect "dumstie Joe" as a very versatile athlete.

"Little Joe," as he is nicknamed, by many students, was a hard-working guard on Washington College's football team for three years and held down the rightfield spot on the football team during his Fresh-Soph years. Joe was named co-captain for this year's grid team, was destined to become a "captain without a command."

When asked what game he remembered most vividly, the stocky guard's answer was very prompt. He recalls the game with Catholic U., in his freshman year as his favorite. This contest was the "Homecoming" encounter and the Shoreman played a head-hurtling battle against the boys from D. C., the Maroon and Black winning, 7-6. Joe exclaimed, "That was really a tough nut!"

The versatile star doesn't let sports take up all of his time. He is President of Theta Chi Fraternity, V. President of ODK, and has been a member of the varsity club for three years. His classroom abilities match those exhibited upon the gridiron.

The Navy took four years of Joe's time, from 1942-1946. He is 26 years old, married, and is the father of two children. Joe, Jr., who is 4 years old, and Nancy, who is 18 months of age.

When Joe graduates in June, his ambition is to obtain a job as a school coaching football. If he procures such a position, you can rest assured he'll be a favorite among his players. "Little Joe" has a dominating personality. He can be serious when the occasion demands, and is often times the life of the party. Although Joe will not be competing the gridiron this year, you will always find him in the stands rooting the remaining fall sports on to victory!

Barbell Jugglers

If you have passed by East Hall during the past few weeks, you may have heard numerous grunts and groans and the rattle of iron against the cement flooring. This wouldn't be a plumb's conversation, only a group of aspiring weight-lifters and Highlighting the homecoming festivities last week, the Shore soccer team trounced King's College of Delaware by a 3-2 score.

The third quarter accounted for the victory margin as the home team scored three successive goals, while holding the visitors scoreless.

Tilley Takes First

At 1:50 of the second period, noted Doug Tilley edged one past the King goalie on a smoothly executed feed from wingman Kenny Howard. With twelve minutes remaining in the half, "Jolting Joe" Geisler slammed one into the net, allowing the Maroon and Black a 2-0 lead.

Walt Oetel soon found the range and was next to split the uprisings as the Chestertown school gained a decisive lead at the half.

Victory Taken

The Shore forces had made up for their poor showing in the initial quarter and as the third stanza began, Juan Hernandez blasted the visiting goalie on a smoothly executed feed into the left-hand corner.

Rip Seal, replacing the injured Butch McHugh, played an outstanding defensive game in the goal. However, as the 3rd period progressed, the Maroon and White squad rallied to flip two scores into the Shore goal.

Jim Martin and John Parker were the key men in this scoring threat which fell short in the last quarter.

Free Substitution

When Walt Oetel boosted his second point through the nets in the last period to complete the Maroon and Black scoring, Coach Howie Nebitt cleared the bench. Every W.C. player saw action.

The Washington defense, led by George Hous, Bill Bonnett and Rod Ware, consistently thwarted the King's attack.

Face B.U. Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon the Shore soccer journey to the Western Shore where they will engage in one of their most important contests of the '51 campaign. The opposition, Baltimore University, boasts an unbeaten record and holds the Mason-Dixon title from last year.

Notwithstanding that, the Maroon and Black will be out to snap the B.U. record and "ding the Bell" in tomorrow afternoon's clash.

body-builders working out in the East Hall basement.

The barbell men usually lift on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:35 P. M. and occasionally in the afternoon. At the present, the conscientious and veteran weight-lifters of last year who have continued the sport include: Ted Bedlow and Jesse Klossner, contenders for the Mid-Atlantic lightweight crown; Ed Bunkins, state featherweight and Junior State Champ of New Jersey, and Ray Wall, novice hopeful, who is displaying promising ability. At the present time, Ed and Jess are rounding into shape in preparation for the junior and senior Middle-Atlantic Weight-lifting Meet, to be held in February at Wilmington.

Enthusiasm interested in this muscular sport has been shown by John Santilli, Tony Towson, Tom Love, Al Kanan, Mike Rasi, and Hays Ward, all of whom are novices at the game. However, they are learning to juggle the barbells with skill.

Anyone interested in body-building or weight-lifting is invited to drop down to East Hall during one of the scheduled practice periods on Monday, Wednesday or Friday. Who knows, one of these days from behind those large grunts and groans of East Hall may issue "Mr. America," the Gene Stanke of Washington College.

Cup Is Awarded

Alpha Omega Nu was awarded the Inter-Fraternity Cup this week for having the best Homecoming decorations. The awarding of the cup to the Nu's marks the second year in succession that the fraternity has won the honor.

The winning idea was suggested by Sid Bare, president of the fraternity. It consisted of the figure of Washington, representing Washington College, kicking a dummy, which was rigged up to resemble a Red Coat. The foot of Washington was powered by an electric motor which actually raised the foot up and down, thus presenting the effect of the figure kicking the dummy.

A large sign nearby carried the slogan which boasted of Washington's defeat of the King's men (the British) in '76, and the suggestion that the feat could be duplicated in '51, meaning the defeat of King College by the Washington College boaters.

The cup, which circulates from year to year, has been in existence for three years. It was first won by Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity in 1949.

Alpha Omega Nu will keep possession of the cup '50 next year's contest, at which time it will be presented to the fraternity preparing the best Homecoming display.

As part of the ceremonies, an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon James L. Madden, an alumnus of Washington College. Mr. Madden is Acting Chancellor of New York University and Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

A reception at Ringgold House followed the inauguration.

Dr. Gibson began his second year of administrative head of Washington College this year. A native of Middleport, Kentucky, and a graduate of Kentucky Wesleyan, he was formerly dean of Franklin and Marshall College in Pennsylvania before coming to the campus.

Dean Bradley Attends Conference

Dean Amanda T. Bradley was a reluctant absentee from the campus last Saturday as she was attending a meeting of the Regional Association of Dean of Women, which was held at Goucher College and Friends School in Baltimore. Mrs. Bradley served as hostess to the group as the vice-president of the Maryland group of Deans of Women.

The Association had two guest speakers, one in the morning session and one during the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Mildred McVie Horton spoke in the morning group on "Moral and Spiritual Values in Education and Guidance." During the afternoon session Mr. Wilfrid Timms of the Charterhouse School of England, spoke on the Public School System in England.

Unfortunately, the date for the convention of the deans had been set last year and at that time it did not conflict with the inauguration of Dr. Gibson here. However, last minute changes on the Washington College campus forced Dean Bradley to miss the ceremony.

The Regional Association of Deans of Women includes members of educational institutions from Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and Virginia.

Fall Practice Begins For Lacrosse Team

By Mike Bronstein

Although spring is still far away, the "butterfly" net boys are at it again. Official fall practice for the Lacrosse Squad began Monday, under the helm of Coach Charley Clark. Dr. Clark stated that the purpose of the fall practice was four-fold. The early practice will provide him with the opportunity of looking over the new men for the first time. At the same time, he added, it will allow the "new men" opportunity to work with the "old men", thus fitting them into the pattern of play which the "Sho squad" employs. He also stressed the "all-around stick work" which he will attempt to perfect among both the new men and veterans of the squad. Dr. Clark, long a proponent of keeping his squads in excellent physical shape, said that the fall practice will give the members of the squad an excellent opportunity to keep themselves in reasonable all-season condition.

The squad, which boasts of an excellent record of eleven wins and but three defeats last year, will face a formidable array of foes this spring, among them Mount Washington, of Baltimore, perennial national open champions, in addition to such top-ranking squads as Duke, tied for second place honors in the country, and Navy, 8th ranking among the top ten. The "Crossers" will really have their hands full when they meet the Maryland Lacrosse Club, conquerors of mighty Mount Washington.

In addition, the squad will play such top-notch teams as Loyola, ranked tenth in the country last year; Baltimore University, always considered a tough team; and coming Swarthmore, North Carolina, Western Maryland, Delaware, Lehigh, and two other squads, as yet unnamed. The spring season will also include scrimmages with Hopkins and Maryland.

Dr. Clark commented that the team will no doubt be hurt by the loss of Duke Cox, Eddie Leonard, Ray Wood, and Larry Westcott, all of whom were graduated last year. He stated that this year's squad will have a good first year, which should be able to hold their own with the best. "Our weakness," he stated, "will be in our lack of reserve strength which has hampered us in the past, but will hurt us more this year than is previous years."

He looked to Bobbie Lipsitz and Bo Hearn as leading contenders for the spot on the tress left vacant by the graduation of Wood, Hearn, out last year because of a kidney operation, will be available for double duty, at both attack and midfield.

Eleven Seniors Selected For Who's Who

'Sadie Hawkins' On Loose As 'Dogpatch' Comes To Life

Al Capp's "All American" cartoon will come to life tomorrow night as the senior class presents to W.C. the annual celebration of "Sadie Hawkins Day," that day, day to the hours of all the toads, that eventful day when they may choose their escort and make eyes at the handsome Lil Ahner, passing by, without giving it a second thought.

The festivities will take place in Hodson Hall, which for the occasion has been redecorated to resemble that great American town, "Dogpatch." The time is eight o'clock. The price for admission is seventy-five cents per couple, fifty cents for single. On hand for "bitties" will be the original "kissapoo joy juice" and such items that might be tasty in its company.

Highlights of the dance, if you may call it a dance, will be the selection of the gal, most like Daisy Mae, and the boy, that resembles Lil Ahner... then, Marylin Sam will do his duty and get them together for good, a feat that Al Capp never has managed to accomplish.

There are several requirements for entering into the Sadie Hawkins Day festivities. Namely: Each couple must be dressed to represent some form or other of Dogpatch, also, each couple must bring a blanket, the floor might be chilly. Cokes must be supplied by the "Bitties" for their dates, and these ladies must also call for their dates and pay all expenses for the evening.

All this galavanting by the girls will carry on until midnight, when the day does its magic spell, and the girls must wait again until the next Sadie Hawkins Day to have their choice, or perhaps if Leap Year comes first, but that's a different story... so what you can do tomorrow night, girls!

AOII Bazaar November 30

Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will sponsor a Christmas bazaar on Friday, November 30, in Hodson Hall at 8:00 P.M. Part of the money raised by the group will be used for the rededication of a Dutch war orphan through the Foster Parents' Plan, and the balance will be used for national or local charity work.

There will be a fancy table with articles available for Christmas presents, and a cake table with homemade baked goods. For those who come to the bazaar with dates, there will be dancing at the back of Hodson Hall to juke box music. Rounding out the variety of tables, there will be a grab bag and penny pitching. Refreshments will also be available during the evening.

Dinner for two at the Greasy with a faculty member will be raffled off, and tickets can be purchased.

Thanksgiving Holidays

The Thanksgiving recess will begin Wednesday at 12:15, November 21, and classes will be resumed at 8:15, Monday, November 26. Any cuts taken immediately before or after the holiday will be counted as double cuts. No special arrangements have been made for students who have to travel long distances.

F. C. Russell To Address Assembly

A prominent member of the assembly program on Nov. 29 will be Frank C. Russell, guest speaker, who will speak on "The Opportunity for College Graduates in Advertising and Marketing."

Recently, Mr. Russell was appointed national chairman of the Horatio Alger Committee.

In commenting on his appointment, F. C. Russell, president of the F. C. Russell Company, Cleveland, Ohio, which is now the largest manufacturers of combination windows, said, "The high ideals and purposes lack of the Horatio Alger Awards are truly inspiring to me, and I am proud to anyone who is connected with this good work."

The personal career of Mr. Russell reads like a page out of Horatio Alger. He is a native of Toledo, Ohio, and typifies the dynamic "sales type." He believes that specially selected men are largely responsible for the present high standard of American living.

Positions Are Open In College Choir

"Positions in all four sections of the Washington College Choir are open to any interested persons," states Mrs. E. Winifred Upgrade, director of the choir. Choir rehearsal is held every Tuesday in Jerguson Hall at 6:30 p.m.

Plans for the annual Christmas program are being formulated by a temporary committee including Lyn White, Pete Burbridge, Soph Seigler, Barbara Dulane, and Harold White, chairman. Tom Holcster is serving as librarian for the group with Pete Burbridge as assistant. Other choir officers will be elected in the near future.

James DuPont To Speak At Dunning Hall, Nov. 20

James C. du Pont, a great-grandson of the founder of the Du Pont Company, will speak here on "Pioneers, Then and Now," at 1:30 p.m. on Nov. 20, in Dunning Hall.

A trained engineer with the Extension Division of the Du Pont Company at Wilmington, Del., Mr. Du Pont says that there is still much to be planned today, just as frontiers were conquered by the pioneers of the past. "Much may be done," said in explaining, "Mr. du Pont said in explaining the theme of his talk, it men and women everywhere are to save their individual rights and responsibilities as individuals."

Mr. du Pont, a native of Johnstown, Pa., is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Evan Morgan du Pont. His father was associated with a brother, the late T. Coleman du Pont, in business ventures in Kentucky and Pennsylvania. T. Coleman du Pont was president of the Du Pont Company from 1902 to 1915.

After being graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a degree in electrical engineering in 1926, James C. du Pont worked in Johnson until 1940, when he joined the Engineering Department of the Du Pont Company. After assignment to religious and other plants, he worked from 1945 to 1946 with the atomic energy project which the Du Pont Company carried out for the

Three Women Students Chosen For Award

Set Dates For Players' Production

The first presentation by the Washington Players for the 1951-52 season will bring to Washington College and Chesterton audiences, Tennessee Williams' prize Broadway play, "The Glass Menagerie." The production will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 4 and 5.

The cast for the three-act play includes, Jane Miller as the mother, Helen Rose as her daughter, Jim Metcalfe as her son, and Bill Bloomfield as the "Gentleman caller." Fred LaWall is the student director for the production, and is being assisted by Mrs. E. Winifred Upgrade, faculty advisor for the group.

This will be the first time the Players have scheduled a production for a week night, but due to difficulties on the already filled schedule, a week night production was found to be necessary. This will provide for the college "mobility of the week" entertainment and have the week-end free for athletic activities and dances.

The play itself is a real driving card and a delicate challenge to the drama group. A totally different type of set will be used for what will be a different type of play for the group.

It will show a combination of the imagination plus a delicate touch of realism. The set is being designed by the production staff, headed by Al Vinyard and directed by George Cromwell.

Tickets will go on sale immediately following the Thanksgiving holidays for all seats. As a new idea this year, all seats will be reserved for the same price of $75. This will enable late Eleven members of the Senior Class have been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. It was announced this week by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men. Of the total number, three were women.

Among those selected were Phyllis Scher, president of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, oldest national sorority on Campus; Sandy Reeder, president of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority, initiator of the Elm staff, member of SSO Scholarship Honor Fraternity; and Eleanor Gossman, president of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority, and president of Socie Sciences.

The men selected include Joe Ingara, co-captain of the Football team, president of Theta Chi Fraternity, member of the Baseball Squad, Varsity Club Member and Vice President ODK Honor Society; James Truener, editor of the Pegasus, High Gamma (secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, member of the Lacrosse squad, and president of the Future Teachers of America; William Borgan, president of ODK, High Beta (vice-president of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, Varsity Club, member of the basketball and football squad, student assistant in Physics; and Tom Lore, president of Kappa Alpha Order, member of ODK, member of the Washington Players, member of the Forensic Society, former member of the football squad, and student assistant in History and Practical Science.

Completing the list were Mel Littleton, K Alpha Order, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, Vice-President Society of Sciences, letter man in track, former member of the Soccer team, member of the Varsity Club, Jim Haebe, chairman of the Forensic Society, and Deborah Hill, student; president Lambda Chi, former Class President, member of the Varsity Club, veteran of the Football, Lacrosse, and Soccer Squads; and Bob Jackson, president of the Canterbury Club, president of the Senior Class, K Alpha, member of the Lacrosse Squad.

The job of selecting the students is assigned as a function of the Dean of Men. Dr. Clark explained that he conducted a poll among members of the Administration, Faculty, and Student Body, in order to make his selections as representative as possible.

A certificate of membership will be awarded those chosen. In addition, the biographies of these students will be written and published as part of the compilation of annual college and university students throughout the country. Those selected will also be eligible to obtain membership lists.

The hardest part of the project, Dr. Clark asserted, was the narrowing down of the candidates. This is necessary because of the quota set up by the national group sponsoring the venture. The selection of these outstanding students also makes it possible to recognize some of the outstanding students who were not accorded any previous recognition of their efforts, such as being selected to ODK, honor fraternity.

CLARIFY THE ISSUE

At the time of this writing, the mass meeting on the subject of student government has not taken place, but is scheduled for November 15. I presume that Thursday's meeting, rather than solve any problems or establish anything concrete, will serve mainly as a sounding board for the collection of student opinion on the subject and a basis for deciding whether it would be worthwhile to go ahead with such a program.

In this connection, there are a few points which it would do well for every student to keep in mind.

In the first place, "student government" has many different interpretations as the word "democracy." What one person thinks of as student government may be radically different from another's views on the same subject. Some may want only that each class be represented by an elected member who may speak on behalf of his class' interests. Others believe that student government should encompass many other functions, such as those now held by the disciplinary committee and ODK, while others insist that student government and an honor system are inseparable. Since this situation does exist, no one should say either "Yes" or "No" to the question, "Are you in favor of student government?" Find out what the questioner means when he says "student government," give serious consideration to each point, and then make up your mind.

Until the issues become clear cut and the various factions distinguish (if they ever do), the Elm must reserve judgment on the question. We recommend that the individual student also reserve judgment until it is clear just what is meant by the "student government" that appears (once more, we might add) to have become an issue at W.C.

On The Hill

Or—just Plain Gossip. Due to the reluctance of the authority on gossip here at W.C., it would seem that I must volunteer to pull out choice tidbits from the dose-moulded youths who make the sidewalks, where the students, by the way, Kay Heigh, don't stop too suddenly!

While we're on the subject of students, isn't it kind of the college to let us take those lovely apricot trees? Their kindness is extended only to the charming manner in which they are presented.

Hey, Jackson—let up—it just ain't in the cards. Speaking of "letting up," Bonnett seems to be under the impression that the Foes are rushing fresh man girls; however, that does leave John Foo his long awaited opportunity.

"Mr. Amosch," the terror of the mats, has great confidence in your. He must be a fighter, he ain't no loser. Down on Water Street, we're trying rather interesting situation. "Frasco Feta" McCarly is now at a time for love and the peaceful Chestertown waterfront renews with "Don't hang on me Manito!" It began with big Macky and ends with the lovely one.

With all the discussion of "Student Government," the old political bores are back in harness. Ex Arc Ungrus now wears its coat and tie.

Rumor has it that Bauld Head has volunteered to let the K.A.'s use his flag pole for the stars and bars if they won't make him salute General Lee any more.

"Escalators" is no longer in the big leagues. Well, Nick, you can still play basketball—that's how it goes in sports. And speaking of sports, tell your roommate that it's all in the game, even if his heart throbs with galloping with royalty—well, a Duke, in any case.

Congrats to Gary and his wife on the latest addition!

Question Period:

Mye—Do you really wear perfume? Stump—What's the latest sport on the campus?

Leus—Is it the sub rats that cause the fun?

Seniors are requested to turn in all college master keys before receiving diplomas.

That's all—have a wonderful Thanksgiving and don't get too accustomed to the easy life—it's only for 4½ days.

Introducing . . .
The Faculty

Another new and welcome member of the faculty is Mr. Elkins of the political science department. He built from West Virginia, where he attended high school and went to Emory and Henry College under the Naval V-12 program. During his three years and nineteen days in the service, he served as an aerial navigator and communication officer.

In 1948 Mr. Elkins graduated from Marshall College, after which he entered Syracuse University where he did graduate work in political science and served as a graduate assistant.

Mr. Elkins is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and was also president of a pre-war fraternity. At Washington College he is teaching courses in political science and history.

With him in Chestertown are Mrs. Elkins and their two-year-old daughter. We are glad to say that he likes it here at W.C., and with him the best of luck for the future.

With The GREEKS

Theta Chi

We would like to take this opportunity to invite everyone on campus—students, faculty, administration and maintenance staff—to come over to the house and watch television on the biggest, newest, and best TV set on campus.

Welcome back to Brother John Wilson and Pledge Ben Kroter after their recent complications with knee and toe trouble respectively. It's good to see you back on campus again.

Leg and foot trouble seems to be in the air. The OX house this year, in light of the two most recent injuries to Sullivan's ankle and McHugh's knee, as well as two torn tendons.

In the next couple of weeks we will see the lightning touches on the house. What needs to be done is on a small scale. Everyone is invited to inspect the work and any constructive criticism will be greatly appreciated.

Alpha Chi Omega

November carnation is Phyl Seitz. Congratulations! We won't forget your good work.

Thursday, November 8, we had a desert-dish (Canada) party for our patronesses and alumni. Congratulations to Peggy Featherer for winning the house cup.

Mrs. Riley Campbell, our province president, was down for the Pan Hellenic test. Not only was her company enjoyed, but her visit proved a great inspiration to us.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Congratulations to Gussie for top honors. She's been selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Keep up the good work.

All the freshmen are invited to our "open room" every Tuesday night. Hope they enjoyed their visit last week as much as we did.

Seems like all Theta's are getting "Protestantizing" conations. Middle Hall looks like something out of Better Homes and Gardens . . . practical, h, anyway!

All are looking forward to a wonderful Thanksgiving, and hope the turkey and geese gets their fill of turkey and good times. So till then—have a wonderful holiday!

N.Y.U. Offers
Scholarships

Dean Russell D. Niles of the New York University Law Center, announced this week the intention of N.Y.U. to give 20 Law Scholarships to that school. The scholarships consists of three years of study with all expenses paid.

Practically every top-ranking senior man on the American campus is eligible to apply for this scholarship which has been named The Rockefeller Scholarship, after two distinguished graduates of the New York U. Law School.

Two students will be selected for each of the ten Federal Judicial Circuits, making a total of 20 students selected yearly. Selection of the scholars will be based upon three points. Grades and extra-curricular activities will be judged equally and the candidates' personalities for "unselfish public leadership" will also be a deciding factor.

Once the students have been selected they will have the opportunity of working on a comprehensive publishing program. Included are the Tax Law Review, the most widely read law school publication in the U. S. They will be in contact with the Inter-American Law Institute where scholars from the western hemisphere make comparative studies of systems of jurisprudence, the English Common Law and the Roman Civil Law. They will also take part in the Citizenship Clearing House which encourages young people to take an active interest in politics.

Senior Of . . .
... The Week

Fred Nixon was born in Baltimore and attended City College there. Four years after graduation he entered Washington College. Fred has majored in economics and doubled in philosophy and political science.

Fred has always been interested in extra-curricular activities. He is a member of the Forensic Society and a past president of that group. He has been particularly interested in debate, from which he feels he has gotten more experience than anything else at Washington College.

Last year he was tapped by ODK. Now editor-in-chief of The Elm, Fred is probably best known for his work on the newspaper. He started as sports editor, and last year was chosen as managing editor. To him the epitomes of journalism are the Baltimore Sun and the New York Times.

After graduating in February, Fred will continue to work for Waverly Press, his present employer.

He likes chess, big dogs, big classical records, small women, and the southern corner of the snack bar. He resents Fulton Lewis, Jr., and the Baltimore Post for laughs. His pet peeve is the Hearst papers.

Teaching Fellowships Available

The Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, has announced the inauguration of a series of Graduate Fellowships for college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of teaching, either at the college or the high school level, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1952, for their first year of graduate study.

President Gilson has named Dean F. G. Livingston as the liaison officer to work with the Danforth Foundation on the selection of candidates. These fellowships will be granted on the basis of need with a minimum of $500.00 to $2400.00. Students without financial need are also invited to apply, and it accepted will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation conference on teaching and the other activities of the program. The qualifications of the candidate as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are:

Evidence of superior intellectual ability in college record. Good record of health and emotional stability.

Outgoing personality and the concern for people, essential for successful teaching. Choice of vocation of teaching as a career in Christian service. Deep religious convictions and growing religious perspectives. Foundation is looking for candidates who are seriously examining their own religious life, and are seeking a meaning, faith and a social outlet.

Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Dean F. G. Livingston.

comes to have seats waiting for them rather than having to sit in the rear. Ticket sales are being heated by Ralph Shillingburg.

The story of the Mass. Menorah Center around a mother and her two children, living in poverty in a St. Louis apartment. The action is centered with how she tries to make life half-way decent to her children, especially the girl who is a cripple. The story of a man who has made a fortune of blinding the finally manages to treat for her, however, she is not lost and thrives into absolute nothingness. The story has been described as "one of great tenderness and charm" by critics of the Broadway production.

Question of the Week

Who should student government do and what should its functions be? Movie: Davis Deal with student misdeemeanors. Should supervise elections. Should represent student body to faculty.

John Minnich: It should take over the functions of ODK; it should bring students into closer contact with the administration.

Jim Trader: It should take over for functions of ODK, provide means for students to handle own problems. It can be done without trying in an honor system.

Manuel Crespo: It should take care of all student activities.

Ted Ichimiowski: It should put the lost spirit back in school.

Donnas Turner and Jane Carr: Student government should bring about an honor system, but gradually.

Kay Heigh: Student government should enable students to handle their own discipline and bring about an honor system as decided upon by the students themselves.

Don Hevley: I'm not clear on what I am for.

Joe Ingars, Larry Leonard, and Bernie Kudo: No comment.

Jim Hadden: I refuse to answer on grounds that my answer might tend to incriminate me.

Jane Bradley: I feel that student government should set up its own rules for students and then be responsible for the actions of the students.

Courtmen To Launch 24-Game State

Sports Slants

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Help Wanted—"Referees"

The Maryland Board of Secondary Schools Physical Education Association of District Four held its board meeting at Washington College, October 30, 1951.

The four counties of this district, Queen Anne, Kent, Cecil, and Caroline, were skeptical as to where they could obtain basketball referees to officiate the secondary school court contests this season. In accordance with this, Coach Edward L. Athey offered the services of the Shore physical education department.

Therefore, the department intends to sponsor special classes in basketball officiating, both boys' and girls'. Experienced hardwood players, and those thoroughly versed in the fundamentals of the sport, who are interested, are urged to attend these classes which began last Tuesday evening. Most of the court action takes place at night and will provide the students with a practical job which pays easy money and which may aid future endeavors.

Conference Capers

The Western Maryland gridiron forces have accredited them, selves as one of the top small college elites of the East. They recorded their 7th straight victory of the '51 campaign at the expense of a stubborn Lebanon Valley eleven last Saturday, 20-12.

Center forward Larry Surock, of Baltimore University's unbeaten soccer squad, has been tabbed by many fans as the "Best all-around player in Baltimore, and a contender for All-American honors."

Gallaudet College of the Mason-Dixon Conference, which has molded many winning football and basketball teams in the past, is the nation's only college for the deaf.

Leroy Ishman, the former American U. cage star, making his pro bid, has been optioned by the Baltimore Bullets to the Washington Caps in a lower league.

Hernandez Ends Soccer Career Here

When Washington College ended its soccer season Tuesday against Delaware at Chestertown, Coach Nowie Nesbitt bade farewell to Capt. Juan Hernandez, his center forward.

The diminutive Central American is winding up his collegiate booting career on Tuesday night, having been on the Sho' campus only two years. Hernandez spent two years at Wesley Junior College, in Delaware, before transferring to Washington.

The 24-year-old son of a Honduran doctor, Juan plans to continue his studies at St. Louis institution to become a medical technician.

Last year Hernandez was the Sho' men's leading scorer as they ran up victories in nine games. His ability for goal-getting and his all-around clever play earned him a spot on the second All-Mason-Dixon Conference team.

This fall both Washington and Juan have found the going a bit rougher in the Soccer Slants.

"Policed" This Year

Hernandez has been more effectively policed this year as rivals have become accustomed to his style of play, and in one respect he is in very select company. He scored in the 62nd defeat at the hands of Baltimore University, and only three goals have been registered against his host for all season.

How sound the description for the difference in pitch play in his native and adopted countries.

In Honduras soccer is a game of mathematical precision—short passes, short shots and better ball control?

"The game here may seem rougher," he says, "but that's because Americans are bigger and bulkier than South and Central Americans. Actually, it isn't. And remember, in my country you can't shove the goalie."

To appreciate Juan's point, one need only look at the man himself. He's only 5 feet 5 and weighs 140 pounds, dripping wet.

Sho'men Win Medals At Meet

To the casual reader, Washington College's fourth place in the Del-Mar Championship cross-country race might seem like a bad showing. However, such was not the case.

Three Sho'men walked off with medals. Bob Appleby placed ninth, Eli Boyd, 14th, and George Eichelberger, 15th.

Competition in this year's event was much tougher. For example, Appleby's time of 22:59 would have placed him fourth last year, while Boyd's 22:57 would have put him 10th in 1950. Eichelberger trimmed three minutes and 18 seconds off the time he recorded in his initial Del-Mar start. George has greatly improved his times this season, and is one of the Maroon and Black threats in the Mason-Dixon.

C.U. Better by 2

The first team scoring showed the Baltimore Olympic Club the winner, with 16 points; Towson State Teachers, 37 points; and Catholic U., 74. The Washingtonians were two better than the Chestertown kids. Figured on a dual meet basis, the Sho'men would have beaten Catholic U., 27-28.

Jack Bacon, of the Maroon and Black, ran one of his finest races of the year as he finished 18th. Paul Becker was close behind in 26th position to complete the team scoring. Don Heverly's 24:01 was a commendable time as he captured 22nd place in the field of over thirty men. Don Streyen, Jack McCollough and Wayne McCollough were not far back, as they bettered their times over the 3.6 mile jaunt.

The hardies embark for the nation's Capital City tomorrow afternoon to participate in the annual Mason-Dixon Cross-Country Championship at Gallaudet College, Bridgeport. The defending champion of the 11-team field, will face stiff competition from a power-laden Johns Hopkins group.

Blue Hens Eke Out 2-1 Win As Soccer Team Ends Season

The Shore boosters concluded their 1951 soccer campaign last Tuesday as they fell before a strong Delaware squad, 2-1, on Kibler Field.

The Sho'men remained stubborn and continued to threaten the Blue Hens until the final whistle. Goals Donald Martin of the visiting team was the decisive setback of the afternoon as he blocked 19 attempts by the Maroon and Black to score. Goals "Rip" Seal of the home team was by no means outplayed, as he accounted for 17 saves in the hard-fought contest.

Paston Scores First

The visitor's Nick Paston, the inside right who stood out as the "ry in the district," and hindered the Shore forces during the 4 quarters of play, scored at 21:07 of the first period. The Chestertown squad had pressed the Delaware defense during most of the quarter, however, Paston broke through to upset the Shore defense.

The Hens held the upper hand despite the untiring efforts of Johnny Grimo, George Horn and Juan Hernandez, whose play was outstanding during the entire contest.

Weller Leads Sho'men

Jack Jester talked the second and final goal for the Delaware outfit as he slipped one past Seal midway in the 2nd quarter.

The third quarter brought new hope to the Shoremen as Dick Weller scored at 23:07. The game became a saw-saw affair until the final stanza when the home team was continually thwarted by goal tender Martin's sensation. at goal.

Kenny Howard, Doug Tilley and Walt Oertl completely outplayed their opponents in this period as the latter two blasted several corner shots toward the goal which ended as heart-breakers.

The team as a whole played a fine game against one of the top teams of the Middle-Atlantic Conference.

B.U. CONQUERS W.C.

The University of Baltimore defeated the Maroon and Black, 6 to 2 on November 3 at Orman Field, Baltimore.

The game was played amid intermittent showers as the field was covered with water from the rains of previous days. This slowed down the attack of both teams and rendered the game almost lifeless.

In winning, the Biers displayed the class that has carried them to two Maryland Division Championships and should clinch their third title.

Larry Suock, a sure bet for All-American, led the attack with a trio of goals. Stan Romeck with two, and Len Brodsky with one, rounded out the scoring for the visitors.

Both goals for the Sho'men were garnered by Walt Oertl, center forward.

The game created a slight headache for the Shore and 6-0 tie broke McHugh, when the latter was kicked in the head while trying to make a save. He was put out of play in definitely with a slight concussion.

Bill Barnett, playing his initial season, deserves mention for his fine play and aggressive spirit on the defense.

BEATEN BY DREXEL

Two quick goals gave Drexel a 3 to 1 soccer victory over Washington College at Kibler Field last Saturday.

The two teams had battled for a 1 1/2 hours when regulation game time was up. Washington, scoring first in the third period, and Drexel matching the point early in the fourth quarter.

Chycowich put Drexel ahead after two minutes of the first, five-minute overtime period, and Jones put the game away for the Philadelphians with a goal five seconds before the period ended.

Washington's only score was by the outside left, Dick Weller, whose continued hustle kept the Maroon and Black in the game.

The triumph gave Drexel a 3-2-2 record for the season. Washington College has won three, tied four, and lost three.

THE WITH HOPKINS

Two five-minute overtime periods failed to break a 3 to 3 deadlock in a soccer game between Johns Hopkins and Washington College, and the game went into the record as a tie. It was the third stalemate of the season for the Shoremen.

It was a see-saw affair all the way, neither team being able to dominate the play. Dick Weller, of Washington, and Jim Hutchins, of Hopkins, traded goals in the first period, and Bob Lang, of Hopkins, and Gary Dunton, of the Shoremen, scored in the second.

Washington went ahead on a score by Kenny Howard in the third, but Emil Budnitz, a Hopkins substitute, tied it up in the fourth.

The two overtime periods produced several threats by both teams, but none produced a score.

Debate Tour In Dec.

The debate division of the Paul E. Titovitch Forensic Society announced this week that it has planned a debate tour for the Washington area for the first week of December.

Among the schools to be debated are: Georgetown, School of Foreign Service, American U. and Catholic U.

While the plans are tentative, a representative of the organization stated that they hope to be completed before the Thanksgiving holidays.

Impressive In Early Scrimmage

Following a scrimmage win over Bainbridge Naval Base, 75-54, Ed Athey's basketball squad is getting set for their initial league contest against Delaware U. Dec. 1.

The "delishers" showed some good team work in their scrimmage with the sailors, while, on the other hand, the team was unbalanced in spots. Ed Athey is attempting to iron out the bad points and improve on the better ones in the practice sessions prior to the Delaware game.

The Shoremen work well on rebounds and have a fine fast break. The fast break will be the main offensive play for the "hoopers" this year.

Delaware U. has an experienced team this year, with many tall men, and they will offer keen competition for the W.C. quintet this coming season. Washington will travel to Loyola Jan. 12 and this should prove to be an all-important game for Ed Athey.

In the Bainbridge scrimmage Nick Scallion ranked up 22 points, followed by Jack Bergen, who garnered 14 points. The game was comparatively close going into the last few minutes, when the "Shoremen" got hot and tossed in six straight points.

The Junior varsity schedule of 11 contests includes Baltimore University and American U., two of the strongest J. V. squads of the conference.

The schedules are:

Dec. 1—U. of Delaware, Newark, Del.; Dec. 8—Military College, home; Dec. 11—Catholic University, Washington, D. C.; Dec. 14—Towson Teachers' College, Towson, Md.; Jan. 5—West Chester Teachers, home; Jan. 9—West Chester Teachers, West Chester, Pa.; Jan. 12—Loyola College, home; Jan. 14—American University, home; Jan. 17—Mt. ## Scientists To Tour Sun Oil

Serious planning is under way to provide a field trip for the Society of Scientists to the Marcus Hook refinery of the Sun Oil Company.

When a spokesman for the Science Club was interviewed as to the possibilities of a Science Club excursion during the coming semester, we were informed that the "best bet" at the moment is that the organization will journey to Marcus Hook, Pa., to explore the vast intricacies of the Sun Oil refinery in that city on the Delaware River.

Sun Oil has a magnificent plant in Chester and an inspection of their operations should prove of great interest and value to all members interested in the complex mechanisms involved in the catalytic transformation of highly complex petroleum into the gasoline, kerosene, tar, and medicines of everyday usage.

Campus Club Contemplated

M.F.B., a new organization on campus, announced yesterday that their first meeting will be held the first Tuesday after Thanksgiving (whenever that is) at 2000 G.M.E., or some other convenient hour.

When the president, ex-officio, of the M.F.B., was asked what M.F.B. planned to do at its first meeting, he replied "M.F.B., believing that a definite need exists, will spend most of the time, at its first meeting, recruiting members and adopting a constitution which will meet the approval of all interested parties."

Some opinion has been expressed by responsible sources that there is no need for M.F.B. on the Washington College Campus, in the persons who hold this idea seem to be in the minority.

College Offers Evening Courses

Washington College plans to offer a semester of college courses for adults, beginning the middle of November and continuing until the middle of March. Courses may be taken with or without credit. For students desiring college credit two semester hours credit will be given for each course. Fee for courses will be the standard college fee of twelve dollars per semester hour.

The several departments in the college have announced courses which they will offer. History and Political Science will offer World History, Current Problems, Comparative Governments, Maryland History and Modern Political Thought. Economics and Sociology will offer The Family, Social Problems, Accounting, Business Law and Introduction to Economics. Education and Psychology will offer Child Psychology, Applied Psychology, Principles of Guidance and Audio-Visual Education. The Speech Department will offer two courses: Parliamentary Law and Public Speaking. The English Department will continue the course in Creative Writing and will offer such courses as may be requested.

The offerings in modern languages will depend on requests.

A course will be organized in any of the above subjects where there are ten individuals requesting the course. It is assumed that the minimum enrollment of ten students will continue throughout the course.

Teachers in service may take the evening college courses for credit toward the Bachelor's degree or for credit to be applied on the renewal of certificate in the State Department of Education. Teachers who plan to enroll for courses should consult with their county superintendents to secure approval of courses elected.

G. I. Club Stages Dance

The G.I. Hall Club, a newly formed organization of interested G.I. Hall students, sponsored an informal dance in Holston Hall last Saturday evening for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund. The proceeds of $11.65 from the dance were turned over to the committee for the W.S.S.F.

Don Owens headed the decorations for the Whirling Well theme, and music was provided by a photograph and records.

The queen chosen for the dance is a Freshman, Peggy Carlson. Peggy, a resident of Washington, D. C., came to the campus as a graduate of Eastern High School in Washington. She is interested in social work, especially in some foreign country, and hopes to plan her studies for this career.

The G.I. Club has been organized in an attempt to knit the students of the campus closer together. The members hope to form a nucleus for an expanded club, which will include men students from the other dormitories. In a meeting held last Tuesday, students from Foxwell Hall and others who were interested, were invited to attend. Dr. Berkeley, Head of the Biology Department, was the guest speaker for the gathering. The two elected officers of the G.I. club are Greg Sophocles, President, and Jerry Lambdin, Treasurer.

LAW SCHOOL TEST

Seniors planning to enter Law School in 1952-1953 are urged to inquire of the school or schools of their choice whether the law school requires the Law School Admission Test. If in doubt, write directly to the school where you are planning to make application. Candidates must file application to take the examination at least ten days prior to the scheduled date of the examination. Dates for examination during the present school year are:

Saturday, November 17, 1951
Saturday, February 23, 1952
Saturday, April 26, 1952
Saturday, August 9, 1952

Each candidate may secure application for examination and bulletin of information from the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, or from the law school admissions office.

GRADUATE RECORD EXAMINATION

A majority of graduate schools require candidates take the Graduate Record Examination as a prerequisite for admission. Up to this year Washington has been a designated center. This year the Educational Testing Service is reducing the number of centers where the test will be given in order to economize.

The examination will be given on three different dates: October 26-27, February 1-2, and May 2-3. Nearest centers where the test may be taken are Johns Hopkins University and the University of Delaware. The three

Alpha Omega Nu Fraternity To Become Tetron Epsilon Chapter Of Phi Sigma Kappa

The list of national fraternities at Washington College will swell to four, after the Christmas vacation. Alpha Omega Nu will be formally installed as the sixty-sixth chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa, it was announced this week by the local fraternity.

The move to obtain an affiliation with a national fraternity has been under way for the last couple of years. It was instigated by several spokesmen for the Nu's.

Alpha Omega Nu was founded November 7, 1947. By a group of twelve students, who felt that there was a need for a fraternity on the campus to which any outstanding student might be attracted, regardless of his race or religious creed. The Fraternity was first established as a local group and recognized by the Administration as a local Greek-letter organization.

In September, 1950, the group acquired Jones Hall as a fraternity house. The Nu's were also successful in capturing the Scholarship Cup of the University of Maryland Chapter of the national Fraternity. Phi Sigma Kappa was originally founded by six leading students at the University of Massachusetts in 1873. The organization has grown to sixty-five chapters, having a total membership of 20,000.

Alpha Omega Nu has fifteen active members. In addition to these, several alumni members have also indicated that they will join the national group along with the present members of the Fraternity.

Sydney Bure is president of Alpha Omega Nu.

Third Concert Is Tonight

The third in a series of eight concerts will be presented this evening in William Smith Auditorium, at 8:15 p.m., featuring Edward T. Cone, a member of the Princeton University Music School, at the piano.

Mr. Cone will open with "Andante in F" and then will play Brahms' "Sonata in F minor." The second half of the program will include "Six Movements Musicals," "Opus 91," by Schubert, Bartok's "Suite, Opus 14," and Chopin's "Fantasy, Opus 49."

The concerts have been planned through co-operation of the members of the college and the community group which, for the past few years, has sponsored concerts here at Washington College. Full time students of the college may attend the entire series without additional charge, as the $3.00 fee included in this year's activities fee.

NEXT PUBLICATION DATE

The next issue of the Elm will appear on the Friday before examination week.

Cost Of Board To Increase

The cost of board will go up next semester, the first time that such an increase has been made since September, 1947. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President, explained in his letter to the parents of students now attending Washington College. The increase will be twenty dollars per semester.

The overall increase per year will be forty dollars. Dr. Gibson stated, in his letter. He pointed out that the cost of food has increased 100% since 1940-1941, although the boarding cost to the student at Washington College has been increased only by 34.9%.

The decision to raise the cost of board was made by the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College at the last meeting of the group. Those students holding scholarships which include board, will not be affected by the increase, it was pointed out.

and understanding. There are five major phases of campus life in which ODK recognizes and encourages achievement—these being scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications and speech, music and dramatic arts.

National, ODK is an honorary fraternity. It is primarily a recognition of services rendered in the past. In certain circles, as that of Alpha Psi at W.C., ODK has been asked to assume various functions for the college. These services are not always pleasant tasks for the members and are not encouraged by the national headquarters of the organization.

All public services are at one time or another subjected to criticism. Most of this is expected prior to the persons involved assuming much responsibility; however, in this case it is a criticism for services that cause the members have striven for, not particularly enjoy carrying out. As

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

The Christmas holidays will begin Saturday, December 15, and continue through Wednesday, January 2. Classes will be resumed Thursday, January 3, at 8:15.

Any cuts taken immediately before or after the vacation will constitute double cuts.

Freshman Elections Held

Gary Sophocles, a graduate of Patterson High School, in Baltimore, was elected president of the Freshman Class last week, defeating Ed Hogarth, from Towson High, also of Baltimore.

Sophocles, president of the Senior Class at Patterson, was the valedictorian of his class, and member of the Honor Society. He was the recipient of the American Legion Award for "scholarship, leadership, courage, and honor." He is also a member of the Key Club, an organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. In addition to his other achievements, Sophocles is the winner of a State Senatorial Scholarship.

Eleated vice-president of the Class was Dick Snyder, an alumnus of Pleasantville High School, Pleasantville, New Jersey. While in high school, Snyder was active in dramatics, a member of the school choir, a member of the DeMatry Society, and a member of the Junior Varsity Basketball team. He was the president of the student council of his high school.

The position of treasurer of the seniors, taken by Joan Cusack, an alumnus from Roosevelt High School, Washington, D. C. While in high school, Miss Cusack was a member of the Foreign Correspondent Club, the Red Cross, the Swimming Team, the Glee Club, and participated in the Students' Day project, held at her school, on which the students assumed the roles of the educators.

The job of goldsborough, of Severna Park, who attended high school in Annapolis, where she was active in numerous extra-curricular activities. She replaces Barbara Dunlavy, who withdrew from school because of illness.

was aforementioned, a tapping by ODK is and should be specifically an honor for work accomplished in the past, not an elevation to a pedestal as a target for the release of student rebuffs. ODK is neither a tool of the administration nor a booster for student criticism.

ODK as a body has no reason to take a position on any controversial issue. As individuals, each member may take a stand on any subject but, as a group, seldom expresses a joint opinion, publicly or privately.

ODK is an end, not a mean. It is a goal—a credit for a job well done. Any degradation of the only national honorary fraternity recognizing both leadership ability and scholarship and attempting to carry out its functions, lowers the individual to a low state of petty, short-sighted thinking.

Brubaker To Serve As M.C.; Proceeds To Go To ODK

Members of the Senior Class will sponsor the second annual Stunt Night, Thursday evening, December 13, in William Smith Auditorium, at 8:00 P.M.

The committee handling the arrangements for the night of entertainment is composed of Bob Jackson, president of the Senior Class, Mel Littleton, and Bill Bonnet. Last year, when the idea for such an event was originated, the venture was sponsored by the Interfraternity Football Scholarship Committee.

All proceeds derived from the sale of tickets will be given to Omicron Delta Kappa Student Fund by the Senior Class. The committee expressed its good fortune in obtaining the services of Prof. Edward S. Brubaker of the Department of English, as Master of Ceremonies for the evening.

ZTA Dance Tomorrow

"A Symphony in Snow," new title to the traditional semi-formal Christmas dance, sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha society, will be held tomorrow night, December 8, in Cain Gymnasium, from 9:00 to 1:00.

Couples will dance to the music of a popular dance band from Havre de Grace. Tickets for the affair are $2.00 per couple or $1.25 cash, and may be gotten from Saturday members, or at the door.

The theme of the dance, "A Symphony in Snow," will be carried out in the decorations, Betty Brundage, head of the decorating committee, announced that the motif would be blue and silver, with a special white Christmas tree. Other decorations will follow the Christmas theme.

The Christmas dance is sponsored annually for the benefit of Cerebral Palsy, an organization to which Zeta Tau Alpha society has donated all over the United States contributions. There will be on display, an exhibit set up by the National Council to show the work that is being done by Cerebral Palsy Foundation and what the society has done to help.

Chaperones for the dance will include Dr. and Mrs. Stewart Penn, Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Heck, Prof. Edward Brubaker and Prof. and Mrs. Edward Anderson.

To Dedicate Memorial

Members of the Society of Science last week voted to donate a memorial plaque in honor of the late Dr. A. B. Hardcastle, Head of the Biology Department, to the school. The plaque is to be dedicated February 22, 1952, the date of Washington's birthday.

Dr. Hardcastle, who was held in high esteem by both his students and colleagues, had been a member of the faculty since 1918. Members of the organization voted to have the following inscribed on the bronze plaque, which will be placed in Dunning Hall, the Science Building:

In Memory of A. B. Hardcastle, PhD Head of the Department of Biology Washington College 1918-1950

Scientist, Teacher, Friend This Tablet Presented by S.O.S. February 22, 1952

Yesterday the Science Club members journeyed up to Marcus Hook, Pennsylvania, where they were the guests of the Sun Oil Company. In addition, they also visited a leading textile plant in the vicinity.

Judges Named

The program will consist of seven group acts presented by the four fraternities and three societies. In addition, there will be six individual acts which will be composed of one or more performers. Two trophies will be presented, one to the outstanding act and the other to the outstanding individual act.

The judges for the event will include Dr. Donald Z. Gibson, President, Mrs. Winifred Oppande, of the Department of Speech, and Prof. Howard Albert Barnett, of the Department of English, and Dr. Nicholas Newlin, Head of the Department of Law. One other judge will be selected, in addition to those named. The decision of the judges will be final.

Trophies Awarded

At the first annual Stunt Night, The Phi Beta Kappa was awarded the trophy for the best group act. The trophy for the individual act went to Clare Marino and Debra Owens for their performance.

Last year's show was received with much enthusiasm by the student body.

Dr. Berkely Reviews Play

By Dr. Edmund Berkely

The Glass Menagerie is a rather difficult play for a small amateur company to present. In the first place, it has a rather limited and transparent plot which gives itself away too early in the play. This throws a rather heavy burden upon the cast to carry the action along entirely on acting ability. This is a difficult task for a highly experienced company. The first act of the play seems much stronger of the two, the second being something of an anti-climax. On the whole, The Washington Players have overcome these obstacles well.

Despite the above mentioned limitations of the play, it does offer opportunity for good acting and the members of the cast have made the most of the opportunity. Jane Miller, as the mother, struggling to direct the lives of a neurotic daughter and a son who drives her to the verge of the daughter ever deeper into a dream world of escape. Her part requires almost continuous conversation and a frequent transition between the tragic and the comic. In addition it requires all of the maneuvering and deep strong, bitter Miller handles all of these problems extremely well.

Helen Rea, as the crippled and hyperactive daughter, tore between a morbid fear of ridicule and her

In Memoriam

The Washington Elm, on behalf of the Faculty, the Administration, and the student body, wishes to extend its deepest sympathy on the death of the fathers of Mrs. Charles B. Clark, Larry Weekblad, and Eckler King.

ODK Declares Its Stand

In the past (and we might add, recent past, there has been a complete misconception of the functions and position of ODK. Misguided individuals have interpreted these functions without heeding to infuse themselves as to the veracity of their surface knowledge. As we all know, this sort of talk is not uncommon on our campus and we feel that the time has come for some measure of clarification of ODK's position.

The purpose of ODK is three fold: first, to recognize men who have been outstanding and efficient in collegiate activities and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along similar lines; second, to bring together the members of faculty and student body on a basis of mutual interest

A Christmas Story

Now that the Yuletide is almost upon us and we are beginning to feel the presence of some of the festive spirit of the occasion in those around us, we feel that it would be appropriate to bring you a Christmas story that was told to us many moons ago by our aged grandmother. We hope that you will find it entertaining.

Once upon a time in the not too distant past, in an average sort of small town, there was, as a hill next the outskirts of the community, a beautiful Cape Cod cottage. And in this cottage lived Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their two children, Mary and John. Now Mary and John were very smart children and knew all about Santa Claus. His existence had not only been ascertained by mother and father Brown, but had been verified by the children that Mary and John played with. True, some of the older and more skeptical children seemed to be convinced that Santa was completely mythical, but their reasoning did not make much sense to John and Mary. The children also knew that if they were good and behaved themselves, Santa would remember them at Christmas time by bringing them the presents they most wanted. But try as they may, John and Mary found it awfully hard to be good all of the time. It made it even harder to be good when they noticed that children in some other families were bad all of the time and still received all of their presents from Santa Claus. So one year, just before Christmas, Mary and John decided they would put Santa to the test and find out just how good they had to be before would get back to Santa and he crossed them off his list. They took made up lists of what they wanted for Christmas and sent them to Mr. Claus at the North Pole. John wanted an erector set, and an electric train, and a football, and a big box of candy, and a Confederate Army campaign cap. Mary wanted a doll house, and a set of doll furniture and a jigsaw puzzle, and a set of water paints. Next, John began planning what had things he and Mary were to try. John remembered that his mother had once told him that the worst thing he could possibly do would be to steal something, and since John believed that boys were better at being bad than girls ever could be, he decided that he would be very, very bad and steal something. Mary didn't think that she could be quite as bad as this, but she did think that she might be able to come in late for supper some night—something which her mother had cautioned her never to do. And that is exactly what Mary and John did. Just about two days before Christmas John got caught stealing some money out of his mother's purse, and, that very evening, Mary came home twenty minutes later for supper. Of course mother and father Brown were very upset by all this bad behavior and they scolded Mary and John and warned them that they must never again do anything like that. But the children weren't so very interested in what their parents had to say. The important question was, "How would Santa react?" Well, on Christmas Day they found out. John got an erector set and a new sweater, and an electric train, and football and a small box of candy while Mary got a new sweater and a play money kit, and a sewing kit. All of which led John and Mary to the conclusion that, if one wants to be bad, one should be very, very bad and not just medium bad. They both agreed, however, that it would have been better not to have been bad at all.

With The GREEKS

Lambda Chi Alpha

Plans have been made to hold an open house for the school at the fraternity house on Sunday, December 9. Watch the bulletin boards for further announcements. All members of the student body and faculty are welcome and invited to visit the house and get to know the members more fully.

Congratulations to new brothers, Dutch Spang and Bill Wright, who were initiated December 3.

Question of the week — Where is the bathroom door?

Alpha Omega Nu

With Christmas just around the corner, we find the AONu crowd very busy. This Saturday, Mr. Schaefer, from the Phi Sigma Kappa national fraternity, is coming down to start our nationalization ball rolling by giving us the history of Phi Sigma Kappa and instructing us on some other pertinent points. This promises to be at least a two week affair.

We are also making big plans for our annual No Semester Dance, which will probably have a different name this year.

Congratulations to new members Leo DeWitt and Jack McCullough. Merry Christmas everyone—see you after the holidays.

AOPs

Thank you all for supporting the AOPs bazaar. Its overwhelming success means that now we will be able to readjust a little Dutch girl through the Foster Parents Plan. We are particularly grateful to all our patronesses for their generous contributions, and we want to give special thanks to all those boys who so enthusiastically helped us with the entertainment. We have planned a little party this week to show our appreciation to the boys.

On Sunday evening our first vice-president came for a three-day visit. We all enjoyed very much having her with us and being able to talk with her.

On The Hill

Well, everything seems to be pretty clean this time. Or could it be that I haven't been peeping through the right keyholes. Come to think of it, I've been so busy making sure that no one was spying on me that I didn't dip up much dirt this week.

I understand that the K.A. house is going to form a lovely hearts club. At the moment their chief past-time seems to be crying in their beer.

Freshmen are mighty proud of Jack Bergen these days. He looks as much like a veteran on the courts as a 4 year man.

Don't forget Jane Miller getting pinned to Bob Jackson. How 'bout that!

Rid Hill is getting a reputation as the campus infirmary, what with all the colds, sprained ankles, appendicitis, etc. The Master of Somerset House has also been attacked by some illiterate little germ. What will happen to the Chester Players?

Hats off to all the Washington Players for doing a great job with a difficult play for anyone but the best of the professionals.

Did we see a certain freshman cheerleader at the Delaware K.A. house party after the game Saturday night with the Blue Hen cage captain? Traitor!

Speak of basketball, why without the ring, Nick? You should know better. I hope the situation has been rectified.

What No. 1 boy is being constantly bugged about grades, huh, T.H.L.P. I understand that among some circles, Tom Lowe has been declared a public menace.

Well, it must be the influence of the Christmas season. Everyone is on his good behavior in the hopes that Santa will be kind. I'm looking forward to the New Year when the life of a public snop will again become profitable. Until then, may I wish you all the best of Christmas, all the merriment of New Year. See you in '52.

Question of the Week

What do you want for Christmas?

Arden Fox: I want a Pontiac "Catalina" with a yellow body and red brown top, matching leather upholstery, paid for and delivered with a courtesy card good for a year's supply of gasoline.

George Hesser: A mask to put over my roommate's face when he wakes up the morning.

Phil Roster: Better food in Hodson Hall.

Alan Kaplan: I want Snooky back. Of course, I'd like a million dollars.

Fred Miltenberger: What I'd like to have is a nice, generous someone to put me through college.

Doris Andrews: A chance to get some sleep.

Jack Durrty: A 4-F draft card. Some brains, too.

Sayle Urige: I want some snow for Christmas.

Jack Smith: A peaceful world.

Jaet Parker: A canary-yellow Cadillac convertible with leopard skin seat covers.

Gabby Mautner: Something I can't have.

Bob Jackson: A commission in a civilian defense unit.

Court Capers

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Although the Maroon and Black hardwood squad dropped their initial encounter of the season last Saturday night to a well-balanced Delaware five, continuous improvement is expected of the Shore courtmen in preparation for their conference opener December 11, at Catholic University.

8 Seniors Sing "Swan Song"

Hampered by injuries to three of the starting five during the pre-season workouts, the team is expected to be at full strength when they exchange baskets against Pennsylvania Military College tomorrow night. The squad boasts eight men who will be playing their last season as Sho'men: Nick Scallion, Bill Brogan, Kenney Howard, Butch McHugh, Bernie Rudo, Jack Smith, Kenney Sullivan, and Jim Taylor. Each one is an experienced player possessing an abundance of hardwood talent.

Two new opponents appear on the twenty-four game schedule, namely, Roanoke College, Salem, Va., and Bridgewater College of Bridgewater, Va. These two teams will be encountered in late January. With Scallion expected to have another banner season, backed by sufficient reserve strength and team experience, many fans are optimistic concerning the chances of once again seeing Washington College fighting for the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship.

"Nifty Nick" Totals 1,574 Points

The spotlight falls once again upon the smooth marksman, Nick Scallion, who has led the Shoremen in the scoring column during the past three seasons, and fires with a deft and talented left hand.

The 5'10", 145 pound forward moves into his final year ready to build upon an outstanding record of 1,574 points for three seasons. He registered 414 as a freshman, 568 as a sophomore and 592 last season.

"Nifty Nick" was high average man in the state during 1950-51 with a 26.9 mark and his 423 points in league competition were tops. Last year he established a new school scoring record for one game, swishing the nets for 39 tallies against Moravian College of Bethlehem, Pa. He will undoubtedly be favoring the hardwood under much pressure this season, but this won't be a new experience for the cool-headed, unassuming southpaw.

They Pleased With Student Rally

Expressing his views from the outcome of the Delaware skirmish, Coach Ed Athey stated that our club could not match the Blue Hens on rebounding and ball handling. However, the squad has shown decided improvement in this category during the past week.

The players were tense last Saturday and the Delaware court was larger than the army. The team did not settle down to smooth play until the latter part of the contest. Delaware deserved their win, but the Shoremen gained much knowledge and experience through their loss.

Coach Athey expressed his appreciation of the students who followed the team to Delaware Saturday and commented, "I am sure the backing that the student body gave us at the Delaware game will be rewarded. The fellows on the team will not let them down. I hope that this backing continues in the future, as it really adds spirit to the team."

Middle Atlantic Honors To W. C. Soccer Members

The Washington College athletic association recently received notice that two members of the '51 soccer team were chosen as members of an all-star aggregation from the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Dung Tilly was picked as a first string halfback on the all-star team of the Southwest District of the M.A. Conference. The other choice who made an all-star squad was George Horn. George was placed as a halfback on the first team at an all-star position eleven chosen by the Drexel Institute of Technology. Drexel put their selections out annually, and choose only the top pitchmen of the conference.

Tilly was one of the 6 returned veterans of the 1950 Maroon and Black team and was switched from center halfback to the line to replace Frank Brower. He filled his position excellently and is deserving of the honor bestowed upon him. His overall performance was one of a steady, high-spirited team player. His hustle and drive were a great asset in achieving a position on this star-studded squad.

The Southwest District of the M.A. is composed of Bucknell, Franklin and Marshall, Delaware, Western Maryland, Gettysburg, W.C. and Drexel. The other members of the team include: Cook, Leuz (F. and M.), fullbacks, Smith (Hopkins), and Kinter (Delaware), halfbacks, Roys (Gettysburg) and Wilkinson (Drexel), outside right, C. Yoder (F. and M.), inside right, Brooks (Bucknell), center forward, Hecox (Gettysburg), inside left, Sikes (Delaware), outside left, S. Yoder (F. and M.).

Horn was also a veteran of the '50 squad and this season his improvement was extraordinary. He has shown a remarkable aptitude for the game and his speed, combined with a steady performance, earned him a halfback spot on this all-opponent eleven.

Fullback Phil Hurl of Haverford, and John Kintner of Delaware, represented for the second straight year, on Drexel Tedy's all-star team, as Delaware's best players.

Intramurals Inaugurated

The annual Washington College intramural basketball tournament began yesterday in Galt Gymnasium, as President Daniel Z. Gibson threw out the first ball for the Shoremen vs. K. A. and Theta Chi vs. G. H. Hall I games.

Ten teams have been entered this year with competition promising to be plentiful. Theta Chi, the defending champions from last season, remains in the team to beat. However, the freshmen class has entered teams which are deep in reserves and talent.

The league is composed of two rounds of play, the winners of each round playing a championship series of 3 games at the conclusion of the campaign. The games will be played on Monday at 4:30, Tuesday at 5:30 and 4:30, Wednesday at 4:30 and on Thursday at 5:30 and 4:30. There will be no contests on Friday.

The 10 squads entered include Somerset, K. A. Theta Chi, G. H. Hall team I, G. H. team II, Snakes, A.D. Nu, Foxwell, Newman Club, and Lambda Chi. The schedule will be placed on the bulletin board in the Snack Bar on Monday of each week of play. The pre-holiday schedule is as follows:

- Dec. 10—Somerset vs. Lambda Chi
- Dec. 11—K. A. vs. Theta Chi; Newman Club vs. G. H. team II
- Dec. 12—G. H. team I vs. Snakes
- Dec. 13—A.D. Nu vs. Foxwell; Newman Club vs. Lambda Chi

Short Shots

Nick Scallion—Second highest scorer in nation among all colleges in 1950-51. Co-captain. Has continuously averaged 30 points for three previous years.

Ken Sullivan—Good set shot. Playing 4th year at guard position. Co-captain. Excellent on rebounds.

Jim Taylor—Has good eye for basket. Rebounds well. Success of team depends greatly on his play.

Don Samsel—In second year of varsity play. Can shoot well from anywhere. Size only "handicap," but does good job on defense.

Bill Brogan—Can handle either forward or guard position equally as well. Good ball handler and rebounder. Has basketball know-how.

Bernie Rudo—Another experienced senior. Good ball handler and takes good. Good playmaker. Is quick and fast.

Jack Smith—Has improved tremendously over previous years. Good ball handler. Much is expected of him this year.

Butch McHugh—Hampered by a bad ankle the majority of last season. Dangerous from anywhere around the basket. Can jump well.

Jack Bergen—Newcomer to the squad. May be surprise. Can jump, shoot and handle ball well.

Wes Edwards—Up from junior varsity. One of fastest and quickest men on squad. Can set shoot very well.

George Hesse—Freshman, impressive. Good either hand. Good ball handler.

Huddle Thayer—Another freshman. Is gradually finding himself and may prove very helpful during coming campaign. Deceivingly fast.

Howard Hartsford and West Chester are defending national champions, dominated the selections.

Sho'men Bow In Opener

The University of Delaware spoiled Washington College's 1951-52 basketball opener last Saturday night at Newark, defeating the Shoremen, 81 to 62.

Led by Jim Kruzinski and Ray Crawford, who tallied 21 and 19 points, respectively, Delaware was on top from start to finish, marking up its second straight victory of the early campaign.

Delaware, after being held for most of the first quarter, pulled away for a 25-6 lead as the period ended. The Blue Hens led by 15 points at the half and boosted the margin to 20 points going into the final period. Washington was able to shave a point from that during the last frame. Nick Scallion led the locals with an 18 point effort, followed by Danny Seale with 13 markers. The Maroon and Black met its Waterloo when the Blue Hens continually gathered the rebounds off both the offensive and defensive boards.

The Athenians came into their own in the final quarter, but the deficit was too much to overcome. The Shore team outscored the Newark squad 20 to 19 in this final stanza as Washington players hit the scoring column but once again the tall "Hens" took a majority of the rebounds.

Cagers Set For Home Debut

Ed Athey's Washington College basketballists will make their second appearance of the season in their home debut tomorrow night at the Chestnut Avenue arena against Pennsylvania Military College.

The Chestnut school will be bidding for a win to bring their average to the 500 point in this second contest of the '51 season. The game is set for 7:30 P.M. It will be the only contest offered, the preliminary being abandoned and the starting time of the main attraction advanced because of the Christmas dance planned the same evening.

As against Delaware in the opener, the Shoremen will be giving away a lot of help, particularly at center where big Bob Marks of the visitors towers to the six foot seven inch mark. Marks was the high scorer for the cagers last season with 247 points and is a defensive stand-out on rebounds.

However, Coach Athey has been putting his squad through the paces during the past week and is hoping for a reversal of last week's encounter against the Blue Hens. The team is building its scoring punch around the versatile Nick Scallion whose play during the past three years speaks for itself. Seale-Dan Seale has been sharpening up his eye for the caddy invasion and co-captain of the team, Kenney Sullivan, has been rounding into fine form.

This Pennsylvania team is the stepping stone for Washington's attempt to clinch the victory ladder. The first game of the Mason-Dixon Conference game for the Maroon and Black is scheduled for December 11 at Catholic University. From this point on, the team faces a rugged schedule, but each player is expected to eventually reach the M-D tournament play.

Dr. Clark, Menzies To Attend Confab

Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men, and coach of the lacrosse team will journey to New York along with Graham Menzies, '52 captain, to attend the 19th annual meeting of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association, December 15 and 16.

The meeting this year is being held in the Statler Hotel in Manhattan. While at the convention, Dr. Clark will attend meetings of the Lacrosse Coaches Association, the Rules Committee, and the Lacrosse Publicity Committee. He is a member of all three groups.

Ray Wood, Washington College attackman, high scorer in Maryland for the last four years, holder of the national scoring record for colleges over a four-year span, and star member of last year's Southern All-Star squad, will attend the banquet where he will be honored for his outstanding Lacrosse achievements.

Reviewing Manuscripts For 'Sausage'

Manuscripts for consideration for publication in the 1952 edition of the annual literary magazine, "The Sausage," are now being accepted by the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, the organization announced this week.

Poetry and short stories, both humorous and serious, are needed. Betty Irene, fiction editor, stated, "The final deadline for the manuscripts in March 5, 1952, but contributors are asked to submit their work as soon as possible so that it may be given for publication."

Manuscripts are to be given to Miss Irene or Prof. Edward S. Brinkley, of the Department of English. Arden Fox is serving as technical director of the magazine. Tentative plans have been made to print the magazine this year, instead of mimeographing it, as has been the custom in the past.

"The Sausage" was originated on Campus three years ago by Mr. Ralph Thornton, a member of the English Department at the time, who edited and published the first two issues. Its title was taken from that of the humor magazine of Oxford University in the 1890's. When Mr. Thornton left for graduate study in Italy last year, the Mount Vernon Literary Society took over the publication. Anyone wanting a copy of the 1951 edition may get one at the Bookstore or from any member of the literary society.

mother's determination to save her from spiritualism, & a convincing tragic fate. Her lines are rather brief as compared to those of the mother and brother, but as the central figure whose warped outlook on life complicates the lives of the others, she handles a difficult part well.

James Metcalf plays a dual role in the play. He is at once the narrator, who is reliving scenes from his former life with his mother and sister, and the son in the re-enactment of the scenes. It is a good part and Metcalf was well chosen for it. His performance is excellent.

William Bloomfield, the least experienced member of the cast, appears only in the part of the play which this reviewer considers to be the weakest. This puts him at somewhat of a disadvantage. The action in this act, and especially his line, seem somewhat uninspired. In spite of this he gives a competent performance, and we will no doubt see more of him in better roles.

The Washington Players deserve high praise for the manner in which they have handled other matters besides the acting. The stage setting, lighting and sound effects were remarkably well done.

Christmas Assembly To Be Held Dec. 13

Occurring in the Christmas season, the Washington College Choir will present its annual Christmas Assembly, Thursday, December 13, in the William Smith Auditorium.

Under the direction of Mrs. Osgren, the choir will carry on the usual Christmas tradition, as has been the custom in the college for many years. The group will present many of the well known Christmas carols, and in the latter part of the program, will ask for the participation of the whole student body in the singing. In addition to this, a few surprise numbers are being planned. Acting as accompanists for the students will be Miss Betty Brundage and Miss Louise Roswell.

Select All-Star Booters

Washington College placed four men on the second team all-star soccer selections of the Mason-Dixon Conference, which were released last Wednesday.

The University of Baltimore, champion in 1949, '50 and '51, placed five men on the first team with four from Loyola College, one each from Johns Hopkins and Towson Teachers College. The four Mason and Black booters picked on the second team included: Gene Ritch McHugh, full-back John Grim; halfback Doug Tilley, and lineman Walt Orel. Grim and Orel are loafers from the 1950 all-star contingent. Three men of the Chester town institution gained honorable mention: George Horn, Bill Rostek, and Juan Hernandez.

Burt McHugh's outstanding play this season (especially in the Hopkins skirmish) was noticed by many of the opposing team coaches who regarded him very highly. Hending the backfield charges was John Grim who continually kept the team out of danger with his lengthy boots and quick thinking. Orel proved that even though he was switched from the backfield which he played in 1950, he could still make the all-star squad as a lineman. Doug Tilley not only is a selection on this Mason-Dixon team, but was chosen as a member of the southwest district of the Middle-Atlantic group of stars.

The coaches' selections were as follows:

The Washington Elm

VOL. XX, NO. 8

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1952

January 16th Proclaimed 'W.S.S.F. Day' At College

Proclaiming Wednesday, January 16, as "W.S.S.F. Day," the World Student Service Fund, newly organized group headed by Constantine Tomian, will bring to the College Campus a host of activities to be presented that evening for the entertainment of both Faculty and students.

At 6:45 P. M., in William Smith Hall, a talk will be given by David Levering, World Student Service Fund traveling associate. Mr. Levering has first hand knowledge of university needs in Southeast Asia, being a representative for his undergraduate school at the Inter-University Seminar in Mysore, India. He also attended the International Students Service Conference in Bombay in 1950. Levering has traveled extensively in India, participating in study tours which covered most of its major cities. His talk will center around work that the Service Fund is doing in Asia as well as the needs of the university students there.

Highlighting the evening will be a Faculty vs. All-Star Basketball game held in Cain Gymnasium at 8:00 P. M. The Faculty team will feature such players as Dr. Joseph McClain, Dr. Charles B. Clark, Mr. Edward Anderson, Mr. Eugene Elkins, Coach Hobie Nesbitt, and Coach Ed Athley. The All-Star groups will be representatives from the various student organizations. Dr. Gibson will start the game, making the first toss-up. Admission will be $3.00, and all proceeds will go to the Washington College World Student Service Fund. Refreshments will be served during the game. The World Student Service Fund would like to set a high goal this year for funds to send to needy students in foreign countries. Last year's contribution came to $130 as a result of the W.S.S.F. sponsored Faculty Talent Show. To date, the group has collected $252.00 toward this year's goal through the contribution of the G. C. Club which sponsored a dance, and the showing of a movie. Future plans are being made for a carnival to be held in the spring on the tennis courts.

Set AONu Initiation

Members of Alpha Omega Nu, former local fraternity on campus, will be formally initiated into Phi Sigma Kappa national fraternity next Saturday, January 17. The ceremonies will take place from 10:00 A. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Following the installation will be a banquet to be held in H-don Hall. Those attending will include Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson and other members of the administration, Daniel R. Collins, president of the national fraternity, Arthur Larchmont, Director of Region III and District Deputy, Philip Schuler. Also attending will be members of its chapter at the University of Maryland and representatives of other fraternities and societies at Washington College.

Mr. Edward Brubaker, professor of English and Phi Sigma Kappa member, from Franklin and Marshall College, will serve as advisor to the fraternity.

Forthcoming plans for the fraternity include the annual semi-formal dance which will be held in Cain Gymnasium on February 23 from 8:30 to 12:00 A. M. Music will be furnished by Fred Gordans' dance band.

Spicer To Sing Ballads Tonight In Auditorium

Earle Spicer, New York baritone and well known singer of ballads, will be presented in the fourth of the season's concerts in the College-Community Concert Series, at William Smith Hall on Friday evening, January 11, at 8:15 o'clock.

Spicer has sung with many of the leading symphony orchestras and various societies in the United States and England, for the Governor-General of Canada, at the White House, and for three years was leading soloist with Donald Voorhees and his orchestra over N.B.C.

On college campuses, particularly, he has been a favorite, and he has traveled throughout the country giving recitals at the colleges. At many of them he has appeared three and four times.

Born in Acadia, as a boy he sang in the church choir four miles from his home. At college he found time to study voice, piano, and organ, as well as to sing in the glee club and college quartet, and to play the bass violin in an orchestra. Later, he studied voice in London and New York.

A young French pianist, Pierre Sancau, who will be touring the United States for the first time, will present a recital here on April 18. Sancau, a member of the faculty of the present day, was the annual prize of the Paris Conservatory last year. To complete the program for the year, a chamber orchestra, comprised of members of the Baltimore Symphony, will play a varied program on May 16, 1952.

'Fauntleroy' Evans Snaps Cup For Act

Among the individual acts presented at the Second Annual Student Night, Rod Evans, attired in short pants, a white shirt with a flowing bow tie, gave his schoolboy recitation of Shakespeare's "Winters' Tale." Rod took with him "brought down the house," but took home the cup as well.

President's Office Issues Statement On Stand Taken

At an assembly last week, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President, speaking in behalf of the Administration and Faculty of Washington College, outlined a program which has been adopted in reference to "Academic Honesty." He stated that it was the responsibility of the college to prepare the youth of today to be good citizens of the community tomorrow.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson

He cited the unsavory "mink coat" scandals, basketball fixes, and other like moral transgressions as things which the colleges and universities of the country should try to prevent by taking an avowed stand against an indifferent moral attitude.

Policy Stated

A statement of policy, which was prepared by the Administration and Faculty, was distributed to the student body. It said:

"In the belief that the colleges should be a major influence in determining the moral, as well as the intellectual tone of our society, that honesty is a first step upon an enlightened democracy, and that every educational institution must take a clear and unequivocal stand on such an issue, the Administration and Faculty of Washington College, on December 12, 1951, determined to discourage academic dishonesty by every means within its power. In doing so, it recognizes that dishonesty in academic circles is nation-wide; that most students are opposed to it in practice and in principle; and that in simple justice to the honest students, those others who succumb to temptation should be penalized equally and justly.

Code Enumerated

"The Administration and Faculty therefore directs the Student-Faculty Committee on Discipline to operate under the following code:

- (1) A student found guilty by the Committee on cheating on one of his final examinations will be failed. In that case, but be allowed to complete any examinations not yet taken, and receive credit for other courses passed. He would then be suspended for at least the entire next semester.
- (2) A student found guilty of cheating during the month of a semester, but prior to the final examinations, shall lose the entire semester's work and, in addition, be suspended from the College for at least one month. In some instances, this suspension would run into the following semester. (A student's suspension is not more than three weeks, save one of the four weeks would have been served during the final examination period of the semester during which the offense occurred.)
- (3) A student found guilty of cheating during the first three months of a semester (prior to Christmas in the fall semester, and prior to May 1 in the spring semester) shall, as a minimum penalty, lose that semester's work, being suspended from the College for the remainder of the semester.
- (4) The Committee on Discipline will be responsible for determining guilt or innocence. Once a student is found guilty, however, the Committee is bound to impose the penalty, at least, should reasonable doubt exist in the mind of the Committee, making it impossible for the Committee to agree on guilt, the student

A "GOOD YEAR"—'52

With a couple of weeks already slashed out of '52, we find Washington Collegians off to a whirlwind start to make this year a "good year." The college males returned to the campus with new hopes of further draft exemption and the girls with an array of cashmere sweaters that would make the Dutchess of Windsor take note. Considering the current situation, this makes for a good start!

The number one man on campus greeted the new year with a resolution that was heartening to all students. The policies advanced in relation to Academic Honesty constituted a great forward step for the college and promise to provide an all-around better atmosphere. We remember here the old saying, "learn it first at home," and with Chestertown being home for another six months, perhaps we can set an example for a great many other people to follow.

"Take note all you 'undecideds.'" Mr. Foster made some new year's resolutions, too. From now on don't sign the dotted line on that schedule for classes unless you are sure. New school policy issued from the registrar's office does not permit any more changes!

With the numerous promises to themselves by the students, a general desire by everyone to do a little bit better, a winning basketball team and lots of school spirit, we think that Washington College has really put her best foot forward. But time does fly—so let's take it from here and make it a "good year."

"SWAN SONG"

Due to the unfortunate financial situation, this writer must pen his farewell message in an issue of which he is no longer Editor.

Memories are always predominate in one's mind as the final semester of a college career rushes to a close. Dominating in mine is any association with the Elm over the last three and a half years. The past semester has perhaps been the peak.

I sincerely doubt if ever a person inherited such a competent staff. To all those who worked for the Elm this year should go many thanks. If there is anything derogatory, the blame rests squarely on the shoulders of this writer.

And so, having said what little is on my mind, all that remains is to add:

—to my staff, thanks for a "hang-up" job . . . from the bottom of my heart.

—to the students, thanks for your interest and criticism.

—to the faculty and administration, thanks for guidance and help in so many ways.

F. K. Nixon

Science Club Choir Will Hears Speaker Reorganize

The Society of Sciences had as guest speaker last night, Mr. H. I. Marshall of the Matheson Chemical Corporation of Baltimore. Mr. Marshall spoke to the group on "The Role of Chemistry in the Fertilizer Industry and the Part Fertilizer Plays in the World of Commerce."

On February 7th, the Society will present assembly speaker and deacon, attorney, Dr. M. E. Strieby, who will elaborate on microwave and television. In the evening, Dr. H. I. Marshall of Baltimore, will speak on "Cancer and You." His talk will include a film, "The Traitor Within."

February 28 will bring an E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Company film entitled "The DuPont Story." Other coming events include a trip, the annual Science Exhibit, and a presentation of a bronze plaque in memory of the late Dr. A. B. Handcastle, Head of the Biology Department.

Beginning second semester, the church group of Washington College will undergo a complete reorganization. This change has been made possible through the fact that church is now a placement on the regular academic schedule. As it will be run on a class schedule basis, the eleven fifteen class period on Tuesday has been kept open for this purpose. The credit and the program for this course will be as described in the college catalogue.

It has been the custom for the church group to meet on a prescribed evening during the week; however, it conflicted with other activities scheduled.

Any student who is interested in church work is encouraged to register for the class. As the organization becomes complete, many specific plans will be formulated for the remainder of the school year.

With The GREEKS

Alpha Omega Nu

Last night the Nu's held its informal rush party at which Phi Sigma Kappa rush films were shown. This event took place at Rock Hall.

On Wednesday evening, those members who had not yet been given their pledge tests for Phi Sigma Kappa were given an opportunity to take exams. In all, all the results on these exams were very satisfactory, the AONU grades being well above average.

Plans are under way for a formal initiation of the AONU into Phi Kappa Fraternity on the 19th of January. At this time, delegates from all over the Middle Atlantic States will come to Chestertown to help induce us. By the time the next Elm comes out we should all be bona-fide members of the national fraternity.

Congratulations are in order for Paul Rowe who joined the ranks of the married during the Christmas holidays, and to Walt Ortel who came engaged during the same time. Good luck to everyone on the final!

Theta Chi

The stock visited the residence of Sue and Donny Duskowich over the holidays and presented them with an eight pound one ounce baby girl. Since the "kiss" will follow in the mother's footsteps and be our dream girl in '72!

The stock is soon to visit another brother-in-law and the former Joe Galloway. Maybe a key!

Remembering to January 1st, the man who's proudly displaying a diamond on the third finger left hand from brother Lew "Kigmy" Morris. The total day will be in March.

Of course we all enjoyed the party in Baltimore over New Year's. It was good to see so many alumni there. Thanks, Sam, for the entertainment. Too much!

Watch those crutches is the cry of brother Russell, who's sporting a cast on his left leg. Basketball, he says. We're all sorry to lose President Joe Ingross in February through graduation. It's been a swell year, Joe. Thanks for the good work, Bro. Larry Leonard will fill the vacancy. How far?

Bernie Rudis has been elected president of ODK. Congratulations, Brother!

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi had a very successful fall dance and party at the Stafford Hotel in Baltimore over the Christmas holidays for members and W.C. alumni.

Epilone Theta will lose two men graduating in February—Bill Brogan and Ralph Townsend. We wish them success in their worldly endeavors.

Plans are now being formulated for the social season of the second semester which should provide pleasure to members and W.C. students alike. The "Midger Fight" basketball team is so far spending a record of complete victories in past games under the leadership of Bob Stahl, Athletic Director.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Now that the holidays are over and everyone has settled down to the old grind, it is time to wish the readers a Happy New Year! Here's hoping it brings lots of luck to all—especially in the next few weeks.

The holidays were filled with parties and fun. Betty Van Allen, was hostess of a cocktail party given for the Zetas on our first night home. It was a nice way to start the vacation.

Christmas was really merry for one Mike Janet Newman. Not only did Lew get home, but he brought an engagement ring with him that just fit her third finger, left hand. Congratulations, Janet. How the next few weeks fly by for you.

The Zetas had Open House after our meeting Monday night and the Alpha Chi's and A.O. P's joined us for refreshments and entertainment. They call that picture entertaining?

Scholarship High In College Fraternities

Information has been received by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men and Chairman of the Committee on Fraternities, that Washington College is rated second in the country among 183 colleges and universities in first fraternity scholarship standings. Ratings were made by the Scholarship Committee of the National Interfraternity Conference.

The report is for the academic year 1949-1950. Its purpose is to indicate the scholarship rating of fraternities in comparison with all men's average. At Washington College the fraternities rated 15.68% above the all-men's average, even though one of the fraternities in that year was below the all-men's average.

Of the 183 institutions rated, only 62 had fraternities averaging above the all-men's average. Washington University led, with a 21.12 percentage.

Fraternity men down through the years at Washington College have done better academic work than non-fraternity men. In 1950-1951, for example, figures from the Registrar's Office show the All-Fraternity average to be 1.509, as compared to the all-men's average of 1.127.

Senior Of . . . The Week

May we be true just one more time and say "good things come in small packages." In my case, when it comes to Jim Traylor, who doesn't admit to being any heavyweight, the saying holds true.

Jim, claiming "right around Ocean City" as his home (Berlin, Md.) says his life has been full of surprises, but he wouldn't say what they were. We do know one thing: He's a hard worker. As editor of the Pegasus, Jim finds himself in the yearbook office about half of the time. His only complaint is pictures, which have a nasty habit of disappearing just before he is supposed to send the copy out. He does hope to have a yearbook for students by May, however.

Besides the publication activities, Jim is secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha, which he joined last year. He is also a member of the Future Teachers of America. He is also a member of the Lacrosse team, advancing from two years as a manager to the position of attackman.

Jim's future plans, as most, include a stint with "Uncle Sam." Preferably in the Air Force. After that . . . he says it's a long way off and he can't quite make up his mind.

College Reviews . . .

would be free from penalty for the alleged offense. In other words, a higher penalty than the minimum approved by the Faculty, would not be imposed because of doubt; guilt must be agreed upon before any penalty may result.

(5) It was also understood by the Committee that a second offense would lead to permanent expulsion from the college.

Clark Makes Comment

Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men and Chairman of the Disciplinary Committee, made the following comment:

"In the post-war period it has been most difficult, moving the problem of academic dishonesty. As Chairman of the Disciplinary Committee I can say that it is gratifying indeed to know that the Faculty and Administration are expected, have taken a definite stand on the matter. Even more gratifying, perhaps, is the general approval by the student body. Where, as it is true that no policy is without law, I sincerely believe the new policy will promote the best interests of the College and everyone connected with it. The success of the new program will depend upon the cooperation of everyone. Let us be able to say that our academic integrity at Washington College is beyond question."

Best of luck to all the February grad. Come back to W.C. and see us.

From The Registrar

Registration for Second Semester classes will be conducted between January 7-11. Students must consult their advisors in making out their schedule. After making out the schedule please go to the Business Office and settle with them fees, tuition, etc. When this is taken care of, registration for Second semester will be completed.

Registration for incoming new and returning old students will be conducted in Registrar's office on Saturday, Feb. 2. All classes will begin on Monday, Feb. 4, at scheduled time.

Notice: The following policy has been put into effect concerning changing of class schedule with the view of reducing them to a minimum.

Change Of Schedule Policy

Your schedule which we have just made out in consultation has, where possible, been drawn up in accordance with any special considerations you have requested. These may have included special hours or instructors, free hours for part time work, athletics, etc.

In view of these considerations this schedule will positively not be changed except for one of the following causes:

- (1) Failure in a prerequisite course.
- (2) A request, initiated by a member of the administration or a faculty member, for a change.

The acceptance of your schedule constitutes an agreement to this policy.

Greyhounds Invade Shore

When the Loyola College courtmen take the floor against Ed Athey's pentagon tomorrow night at the Chestertown Armory, it will be the 68th annual meeting of these two age-old rivals.

"Lefty" Reitz, who is beginning his fourteenth year as basketball coach at Loyola College, has built his squad around five veterans and a large number of sophomores who have advanced from last year's freshman team. The Green and Gray won 12 and lost 17 contests last year, meeting such outstanding teams as, North Carolina State, La Salle, Villanova, Seton Hall and Georgetown.

The five returning lettermen who contributed to two wins over the Shoremen (57 to 43 and 59 to 37) last season, include: Ben Cook, a 6' 8" center, who came into his own as the season progressed; Ed Kowalewski, a work horse guard, who is rugged under the boards and who was an All-Maryland last year; Hound floor general and captain of this year's squad; "Nap" Doherty, leading point producer of last year's campaign; and Ed Kelly, a 6' 1" Junior, who possesses keen reflexes and court know-how.

The Sophomores who have moved up to varsity ranks from the Green and Gray Freshman squad include: Joe Lacy, Jim Seidel, Charlie Metz, John Benzing, Terry Ahearn, Tony Pastorio and Joel Hittleman. The latter was the 1950-51 Freshman scoring leader. Heading the list of newcomers to the team are Jerry Chadwick, 6'5" Freshman luminary, and Bob Cucuel, a steady hardcourt performer.

Of particular interest to the spectators who are from Baltimore is the fact that McDonough's high school All-American representative, Charlie McCullough, is one of Loyola's biggest assets from the ranks of the newcomers. McCullough is playing his first year of college ball after leaving McDonough, where he was hailed as the greatest basketball player ever to graduate. The 6'7" scoring sensation has proven his abilities in the Greyhound's early outings and, in all probability, will see a lot of action tomorrow night.

This will be the Hounds' second Mason-Dixon game. They defeated Baltimore U. in their opener of M-D play.

Off The WIRE

It was announced by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau (inclusive December 29) that Nick Scallion was placed 10th in the list of individual small college scoring leaders of the country with a 21-point average in 3 games. The Huskies are rated this average to 22.5 for four games, as he called 27 points against West Chester last Saturday.

In the regional department, Jim Taylor was ranked 8th with a 14.3 average for 3 games. However, his rebound mark will undoubtedly rise due to his fine performance against the Rams.

The Washington College-Towson Teachers' game, which was moved over before the vacation, has been scheduled for January 26.

Last week Coach Athey received a letter from the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, announcing that two of Washington College's All-American football players (Ted Holak, center and Hugh McElheney) have been scheduled for a "try out" beyond a shadow of a doubt. However, Coach Athey forwarded the letter to Washington State College where the two men were gridiron standouts during the past season.

Wayne Milner, former Shore gridiron and tennis star, who transferred to Baltimore University last semester, is a member of the Bee wrestling squad which has been tabbed by many wrestling fans as the strongest in the history of the school.

Three-Way Tie Marks Cage Loop

Coach Howie Nesbitt, director of the intramural basketball league, has reported that the present three-way tie of the league is indicative of the plentiful competition and the balanced scoring power which will be on display in future games in Cain Gymnasium.

The contests are now in full swing as Theta Chi, The Snakes and Lambda Chi are deadlocked for the lead with 2 wins each, while experiencing no setbacks. These teams are followed by Kappa Alpha with 2 and 1 record, A.O.N.U. with 1 and 2 slate, and G.I. No. 1 with 1 and 2 record, Foxwell, G. 1, No. 2 and Somerset have yet to score a win.

In three of last week's encounters, K.A. posted a 50 to 30 win over G. 1. No. 2, Lambda Chi resumed the lead by defeating Kappa Alpha 37 to 15, and Newman Club, 37 to 15, and A.O. No. 2 defeated Foxwell, 25 to 11. At Zolaski, K.A. scoring sensation, racked up 17 markers to lead his team to victory, while Bob Stahl and Howie Stahl of the Lambda scored 15 points to aid in the Foo case. Mike Ross, who has continually led the Nu's in the scoring column, except in the first game, tallied 12 points in the win over Foxwell. In one of the most exciting games last week, G. 1. No. 1 scored a 23-21 overtime victory against A.O. Nu.

The stories of the pre-holiday contests are:

Snakes: 51, G.I. No. 1, 33.
Newman: 33, G.I. No. 2, 29.
Theta Chi: 51, K.A., 39, 19.
Lambda Chi: 49, Somerset, 16.
Newman: 32, Foxwell, 25.
Snakes: 51, A.O. Nu, 19.
K.A.: 45, Somerset, 20.
Theta Chi: 49, G.I. No. 1, 27.
George Horn had taken over the league's scoring leadership with 39 tallies for 2 games. This gives the "Snake" leader an average of 19.5.

Lou Buckley, of the same team, has a 12.5 average for the same two games, deflating championship hopes. He has been headed by Bob Earley who scored 45 points in three games and Kenny Howard who hit for 21 in his first outing against K.A., and 21 against Newman.

The Lambda Chi leaders are Bob Stahl and Howie Stahl who have recorded 22 and 19 points respectively for two team victories. Rhogant Don Nutzel has scored 39 points in 3 games for the K. A. squad, led by teammates Al Zolaski and Leon Benjamin, who have scored 27 each.

The remainder of the scoring leaders are: Mike Ross, who has 16 to lead the A.O. Nu outfit. Joe Pokrzywa, 16 for Foxwell, Don Hevly, 16 to lead G.I. No. 1, Jack Murdock 17 for G.I. No. 2, and Jack Dury has scored 26 for Somerset.

Howard, and Jack Narelli, who have, however, lost the services of Lee Cook, John Wilson and Johnny Cox.

But the J. V. squad, intored by varsity coach Athey, have also lost three scorers. Their players are, Barry Byrd, Doug Tilley and Wes Edwards. All have advanced to the varsity ranks. The Juniors dropped their season opener last Saturday to an experienced West Chester team, and will be gunning for their first win of the season.

Sho'men Dub West Chester

Avenching their two defeats at the hands of West Chester State Teachers' College last season, the Maroon and Black scored a 73 to 77 court victory over the Rams last Saturday night in the Chestertown Armory, as Nick Scallion and Jim Taylor accounted for 47 points between them.

Washington jumped to a 22 to 14 first quarter lead, using a two-man zone defense and an effective fast break. They saw their 11 to 35 half-time lead shattered in the third period as the visitors rallied to tie it up, 36-34 as the quarter ended.

Three West Chester men sparked the visitors' rally: Shelden Saffran, Ralph Blessing and Earl Voss. The lead changed hands four times in the last quarter. The Sho'men gained a 75-72 lead with two minutes of playing time remaining, then fired the snail until the final gun.

Highlighting the first quarter of play was an 8-point spurge by the Maroon and Black which baffled the Ram defense. Danny Samele twisted three consecutive field goals, and Nick, as West Chester fell behind 23-14 as the quarter terminated.

Kenny Sullivan took the reins in the second quarter as he dropped in several smoothly executed shots. "Moose" Naughton, who racked up 17 points in the beginning of the third stanza, in the evening, kept the Teachers in the lead with his inside shot and backboard alidity.

Blessing, Voss, and Saffran combined their efforts to knot the count 43-41 in the beginning of the third stanza, and although the lead changed hands three times in this quarter, the score remained dead at the outset of the final period.

It was a nip and tuck battle in the final quarter. Jim Taylor, who accounted for a total of 19 points during the evening, went on a 6-point scoring spree to pull his team out of the slump. The addition of Scallion's three one-and-one shots, plus the fact that Blessing and Saffran had fouled out, enabled the Chestertown team to retain their lead. The West Chester team vainly attempted to steal the ball in the fading moments of play, but the calm maneuvers of the Sho'men in freezing the ball, forced the visitors to succumb.

Kabernagel Also Chosen

Ray Wood, outstanding attackman for Washington College, and Harry Kabernagel, stellar defenseman for the Shore eleven, were recently named to the official All-America Lacrosse Squad. The honor was accorded by the two athletes at the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association meeting in New York, Dec. 15.

Wood, who was placed on the first team, is the first Washington College player to ever make the official All-America team. The official team is selected by the Association. To be eligible for the team, a player must be on a team whose college is a member of the Association. At the present time, the Association has over forty members, including the top teams of the country. There are, however, approximately thirty other teams which are not members.

Kabernagel, first string defenseman for the Clarkmen last four seasons, was honored by being named to the third team.

Commenting upon the great honor conferred upon Wood, Coach Charles Clark made the following statement: "Wood's recognition should be an inspiration to his team-mates still in College and to the other Lacrosse players to come. Arriving here with practically no Lacrosse background, Ray, by hard work combined with natural skill, reached the top. He was both a 'player's player' and a 'coach's player,' always getting along with his team-mates, and never once acting like a prima donna, and at all times being receptive to coaching instructions and putting forth his best efforts. He had to be better than normally good to win this recognition from such a small college. I think he is still developing and will become a greater star in club Lacrosse."

Wood racked up 188 goals in four years of play at Washington College for a record-making total. He was the nation's highest scorer for two of the four years as a member of the Shore Squad and of the State of Maryland for four years.

Some official doubt had been expressed about Wood's All-America caliber prior to the '51 season. Most of his scoring had been done against teams in Washington College's class. "Woodie" proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that he had the ability, denying the net for numerous tallies against such formidable foes as Navy, Duke, Maryland, Hopkins, Virginia, and Washington, perennial Open Champions.

Wood scored three goals in the North-South game in New York last year. This accomplishment just about clinched his being chosen for All-America honors.

At Two Meetings

Two annual meetings of the U. S. Inter-collegiate Lacrosse Association were attended by Lacrosse Coach Charles B. Clark, and team captain for 1952, Graeme Menies, at the Hotel Hotel in New York on December 15 and 16, 1951.

The meetings were devoted to discussions on rules, schedules, the selection of the All-America teams, the annual All-Star game between North and South, and general administrative problems. Final plans were also made for the Lacrosse forum and game between the North and the South, staged at Miami, Florida, December 28. The highlight of the two-day session was the annual dinner at which the official All-America team election was announced. Speaker for the occasion was the famous football scout, Jack Lavelle.

Scholarships, Fellowships Listed

The following announcements concerning fellowships and scholarships have come to the Dean's office:

Rudo, Trader To ODK Posts

Bernie Rudy and Jim Trader were elected president and vice-president, respectively, at the Omicron Delta Kappa Honor Fraternity this week. They replace Bill Brogan and Joe Inverse, who will leave with the February graduating class.

These offices are only temporary, until the regular elections in May, when the members of O.D.K. will elect a new slate of officers for the following year.

These men are leaving the home society because of graduation. They are Brogan, Ingram and Fred Nixon, creating an opening for three new members, who will probably be tapped early in the spring.

Omicron Delta Kappa, the home society for men on the Washington College Campus, has its qualifications for membership in five indispensable qualities in a man. These qualities are character, scholarship, intelligence, service, and leadership in campus life, fellowship and cooperation to democratic ideals.

Opportunities Opened To W.C. Students

Numerous opportunities for summer employment and research work have been revealed by the Dean's office for students majoring in the sciences. Dr. Frederick G. Livingston, Dean, reported this week.

The Bullfinch Research Laboratories of the Aberdeen Proving Ground are again making plans for a summer program as in previous years. Summer employment for a three month period will be offered to both undergraduate and graduate students in the scientific and technical fields, especially in the fields of mathematics, physics, and engineering.

Students interested in applying for positions should file applications before February 10, 1952. Dr. Livingston stated. Applications can be sent in the Dean's office or at the local post office.

In addition, Dr. Livingston announced that the Georgia School of Technology is now offering work for the Ph.D. in chemistry. In previous years several Washington College graduates did work for the Master's Degree in chemistry at Georgia Tech.

Twenty graduate assistantships at $1,000 per year are available, with the probability that these will be raised to $1,200 for the second and third years. Two graduate instructorships are available at $3,600 per year. Students who are interested are urged by Dr. Livingston to consult the Georgia School of Technology catalogues. Any students desiring additional information concerning any of these opportunities are asked to see Dr. Livingston.

Seniors Have Banquet

Last Tuesday evening the members of the Senior Class met at the Granary, with a few faculty guests, to hold the traditional Senior Banquet.

About 30 members of the senior class made the trip to the Granary and took part in the activities of the evening. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ranciet, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, and Mrs. Wellham. It was reported that several other faculty members, who had been invited to attend were unable to be present, including Dr. and Mrs. Gibson.

The senior committee which handled arrangements for the banquet included Bob Jackson (President of the class), Jim Trader (Treasurer) and Bob Ranciet.

On Withdrawing

Any student withdrawing from Washington College, whether during the semester, at the close of a semester, or on completion of requirements for graduation must give advance written notice in a letter to the Dean of the College, stating reason for withdrawal.

"The record of a student failing to comply will be marked 'unofficial withdrawal' and the student will preclude his chances for subsequent readmission to Washington College or transfer of credit to another institution."

Student Right of Appeal
Students who are not on or below the criteria for J-1-S do not have a right of appeal if their local Board does not defer them. The appeal must be made to the State Appeal Board within 10 days from the date the local board mails the notice that have placed the student in Class Three. There is no special form for writing an appeal. A letter to the local board setting forth the student's name, Selective Service number and reasons for appeal constitutes a factory appeal. If the State Appeal Board sustains the local Board's decision, it is a final decision. If the State Appeal Board reverses the local Board's decision, the student has a right to appeal to the National Selective Service Appeal Board.

Service Test

All male college students who did not take the Selective Service Qualification Test last year are advised to register for this test. The test will be given April 24, 1952.

Students must apply to a draft board for application and mailing envelope. Locally, apply to the Selective Service Board for Kent County, in the Bartley Building, above the McCord Laundry across.

Do not delay. No applications will be accepted after March 10th.

ON EXTRA CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

The other evening, while I was reading the Alumni Bulletin, I happened to notice an article by Dr. Clark which gave some of the results of the student interest poll taken at the beginning of the year. This poll dealt in part with the indicated interests of the students in the various extra-curricular organizations on campus and, I thought, some of the figures are rather interesting. For example, I noticed that ninety-three students expressed interest in religious organizations, ninety in the Washington Players, seventy-nine in the Forensic Society, seventy-eight in college journalism, sixty-six in the Science Club, forty-four in the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, and so on.

It would appear that a majority of those students who indicated their interests must have been indicating passing interests or, at best, vague interests, for the organizations on campus certainly do not have enrollments which match the above figures. Even worse is the fact that a majority of those students who do join one or more organizations seem to join solely for the purpose of saying that they belong to such-and-such a group, for they contribute none of their time or ideas.

It must also be fairly obvious, even to non-members, that most of the work in most of our organizations is being done by a handful of the people. This system works out fairly well when we have a situation where the workers of an organization present programs which are of enough interest to the members, or, better yet, to a substantial segment of the student body, that a sizeable turnout is realized. Too often, however, this condition does not exist. One finds that there exists several groups which seem to accomplish absolutely nothing. Either they have leaders who cannot think of worthwhile programs, or they cannot build up interest among the members in working toward worthwhile goals, or else the group as a whole is interested in meeting only so that they can say that they met and not because they are actually interested in carrying out the stated purposes of their organization.

It is true that there are some people who, although interested in various extra-curricular activities, must devote most of their time to keeping their grades up to passing and these people should not be encouraged to spend too much time on extra-curriculars. Most of the students, however, do not fall into this class and, if they are interested in the Forensic Society, or the Elm, or the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, or what have you, why don't they come out and join. I don't know of any group which would refuse anyone who expressed a real interest. Every organization can use new blood and most of them are vitally in need of members who are willing to go ahead and plan programs, take part in programs, and build up student interest in their activities.

I personally feel that we have too many organizations at Washington College and that many of them should either fold up or else combine with another similar group. It is quite possible, however, that each group has a perfectly logical reason for existing. If so, let's hear from them once in awhile. Let's be made aware that the "Royal Chowder and Marching Society" actually does more and actually does have programs and actually does have a purpose and is not dead on its feet rather than the usual "John Doe was recently awarded a student activities plaque for being president of Royal Chowder and Marching Society, the Reunited Relatives of Rock Hall, and vice president of the Future Physicists," which is too often the only mention made of many extra-curricular groups.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

February 14th we presented a social with our patrons and friends. We are indebted to Miss Bradley and Pete Burbage for providing such enjoyable entertainment. Mrs. William and Miss Travers were co-hostesses in the Reid Hall drawing room.

This weekend Ruth Roe Blizard came back to present the trophy to Mrs. Ellen Howard. Congratulations Ellen.

Peggy Featherer is to be congratulated for her place on the Dean's list. The other members are now inspired to work harder on studies.

In Miss Packer's fashion show, Nan Crabtree, Marlene Myer, and Peggy Featherer were representatives of Alpha Chi Omega. A very nice show featuring the latest in fashion.

Plans are now being made for a weekend at the Harris's in the end of February. It sounds like fun.

K. A. NEWS

Tom Lowe is in love. That is the really big news in Kappa Alpha these days. Congratulations Tom — Which way is lucky girl?

This past Monday night we had a very nice little party at the Rock Hall Yacht Club. All hands had an enjoyable time. We were fortunate enough to have with us a splendid group of redneck and such members of the faculty and administration as Brothers Ford, Heck, Dumschott, Henry, Robinson, and Professor Anderson. We were also honored by the presence of Brother Bob Herrmann, 31, and Brother Don Elliott.

Look for the big night on Saturday the twenty-third of this month. We have word that Brothers George Riegs, Bob Brown, Jack Jackson, Ed Lacey, Harry Kalsberg, Don Durham, Bill Reed, and Jim Jones will be here to celebrate the twenty-third of this month. Here's to a very successful spring for all.

again there is no special form for this appeal. All that is necessary is another letter to the local board which is now up on the line. Obligations to Keep Board Informed The Selective Service law places upon each registrant the obligation of keeping the local board advised of his current status. General Hershey suggests that it would be a wise move for each student to have his school send official notice to the local board as soon as the student has been notified that he has passed his periodic physical examination. If the local board is thus informed that the student is pursuing a full-time course (and you just finished—congratulations—) there will be little danger of a last minute mis-up which might result in the induction of a student justly entitled to a statutory I-S deferment. Senior Of . . .
... The Week

JAMES C. HAEBEL—Jim is our ranking naval officer among the student body, having received his Ensign's commission last spring. He entered the Navy in 1943 and spent most of his active time as medical corpsman aboard the hospital ship, "U.S.S. Tranquility". After his discharge, in 1947, he decided to come to W. C. and entered in February of 1949. Since that time he has established himself as one of the most serious scholars on campus and has also maintained a well above average scholastic record. All years interested in debate and public speaking, Jim has been a mainstay of the Forensic Society since coming to Washington College. Last year he was Vice-President of the group and this year he was elected to serve as its President. In addition to Forensics, Jim has also taken an active part in the Science Club, the Players and the Newman Society. We will all be sorry to see him leave us and wish him the best of luck in pursuing a career with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Question of The Week

What extra-curricular organization or organizations do you consider the most important on campus and why?

PHYL SEITZ—The Players because it's a project that the students actually do for the benefit of the whole campus.

CHUCK WAECHTE—All organizations are important—each individual has his own choice.

A. J. CARR —The Washington Players—because it's representative of all students and everyone has something to do, everyone has a part to play, everyone can at least enjoy its results.

TOM HOEFETTER—An organization of a religious nature. On the non-sectarian campus, some religious emphasis should be available. Effective religious groups benefit the otherwise stalest religious individual.

AL VINYARD—It would be difficult to say which organization is the most important on campus. An organization is as good as the purpose which it fulfills. The purpose of organizations is not always clear, therefore, the worth of them would be in doubt. It's a matter of personal opinion, so take your choice.

J. E. FOX—That's a good question.

HELEN MICHAEL—I don't think that you can say that any organization is the most important. Any organization is important if it helps to broaden the lives of its members, or do something worthwhile for someone. Since all the organizations on campus tend to do this, I believe that they are all equally important. I feel that all the organizations are important in broadening our college life. They give extra fields of interest to the individual that cannot necessarily be gained in the classroom.

"Festered Lilies"

by Thomas H. Lowe

William Shakespeare once wrote a sonnet on those who retain within themselves damaging knowledge or opinions. He refers to these as "Lilies that fester", and you all know how rank a stinking flower can be. Henceforth this column will be devoted to rejuvenating the fragrance of a few few "Festered Lilies" on campus. You know what one does to put new life in a dying flower—covers it with fertilizer. And you all know what fertilizer is. Well, it takes a little of that stuff to make a flower smell sweet. This column will act in the same capacity. It may not smell too sweet but perhaps the eventual outcome will add to the fragrance of campus life.

It would appear that the emphasis this week on the feature page is upon campus organizations, so let's begin with them. One of the most ridiculous set of clubs (in my estimation mind you) on the campus is the religious groups. Here we have a club organized just to get its members to go to another organization—a church. The logical follow up would be a primer or pre-religious club to instruct you in the religious club to teach you about, and thereby keep your interest in a church. Well, who cares as long as it gives points for ODK?

This leads us to another question. Most of the clubs on the campus that are accused of being dormant were begun by interested students with good intentions. They have become one rung of a ladder for ODK or "Who's Who". After a "stricker" gets his office (he or she) does not particularly give a damn whether the club plants trees, sings songs or goes to prayer meetings. The membership in most of the clubs is so depleted that if I was to give an example I would be accused of attacking individuals. However here's an example from past years. The "Mole Club", now defunct, was started by a former Vice-President and the other two Vice-President and Sec.-Treas., respectively. If they could only have gotten another member there wouldn't have been such a strain on the Sec.-Treas. They could have split the plans. There are still groups on the campus with two or three Vice-Presidents and a chairman or so. ODK has a problem in deciding which Vice-President gets the points. With this conglomeration of clubs we'd best get a few honorary societies here to compensate the thwarted officers.

So here is the secret of a successful campus leader. If you can't get elected to enough offices in your first two years here, start a few more clubs of your own. A charter member of a campus group should be worth a few points toward ODK even if you still can't get in office.

Courtmen Gunning For Playoff Berth

Court Capers

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Three weeks ago, when the Sho'men invaded the Western Shore and returned with an 80-63 victory over Baltimore U., they also brought back the results of a poll taken in downtown Baltimore.

Seems like Scallion, Smitty, Sarnelle, Hesse and Bergen were let out of their cages to wander the streets of the metropolis before the big game that night. Picking up the sports section of the Sun-paper, they saw in big black letters, "Scallion Leads Shoremen in Hardwood Duel Tonight!"

They all turned toward Nick, who was beaming like a kid who had just been to a circus. "So you think you're famous, eh?" questioned Smitty. "Well, we'll see ten Baltimoreans if they know you, and if five of them do, I'll see to it that the imprints of your feet are placed in the cement in front of the Hippodrome theatre!"

Hesse stopped a policeman and asked, "Do you know Nick Scallion?" "Yeah!" replied the cop, "he directs traffic at Baltimore and Calvert." Bergen stopped a street cleaner and asked, "Do you know Nick Scallion?" "Ain't he the comedian at the gayety?" replied the old man.

As Nick pulled his hat further down over his face, Danny suggested they enter the May Co. as he had, "never been in a skyscraper before!" Smitty approached one of the clerks and inquired, "Do you know Nick Scallion?" "Of course," she answered, "he's the floorwalker in the basement." As they rode the elevator to the cafeteria, the question was posed to a housewife. She replied, "I see Nick Scallion every night on television. He is the baldheaded man who has that sports program."

As the quintet reached the 4th floor, Nick turned toward the elevator girl, and asked in a sweet, soft voice, "Do you know who I am?" "Get away from me you fresh thing!" she exclaimed. "Youse guys use anything for a line nowadays." They all ran to the cafeteria.

They sat down to eat and George looked up at Smitty and intellectually spoke, "I don't think many people know Nick." The proverbial question was placed before the waitress. She replied, "Nick Scallion is that poor old colored man who sings for pennies out on Howard Street."

"What do you have on the menu for today?" asked Danny. "Rhubarb, roast beef, rib roast and radishes," replied the waitress. "Boy, you certainly roll your r's don't you?" questioned Dan. "Yeah," said the waitress, "it's these high heel I'm wearing!"

As they left the revolving portals of the May Co., Bergen tapped a man on the shoulder and asked, "Do you perchance know who Nick Scallion is?" "I sho' duz!" he answered. "He's de best basketball player dat Mogan College ever had!"

No, Nick did not have his foot prints placed in the cement in front of the Hippodrome, but if you look at the bill board in front of the movie, you'll find these words initialed in the woodwork. "Nitty Nitty Was Here."

Scallion 8th Cage Scorer

Johnny O'Brien, a five-foot-nine inch set-back marksman from Seattle University, has taken over the individual scoring lead among the nation's college basketball teams with 139 points in 27 games, for a 27.4 average.

Polytechnic's star, Harmon Hoffman, dropped to second place with a 27.2 average, having scored 355 points in 12 games. O'Brien has set his sights on the all-time small college records for most points and most free throws scored in a single season. Since he can average 28 points in his nine remaining contests, the West Coast lad can give the record 907.1 total set by George King, of Morris-Harvey, in 1950.

Earl Wentzel, of Penn Military, is third in the individual point making race with an average of 26.7 followed by Arthur Fries, of Western Maryland, fourth, with 23.7 and Walter Wolfe, of Marshall, with 23.6. Press is the leading scorer of the Mason-Dixon Conference at present.

Washington's own Nick Scallion trails eighth with a 22.7 average, to keep the Maryland scorers in the limelight. Scallion's highest score came against Hopkins, 33; American U., 27; West Chester, 27; Mt. St. Mary's,

Shoremen Sting Jackets

Washington outscored its opponents 27 to 13 in the third quarter of last Saturday's hardwood skirmish to upset the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets, 69-58, at the Chestertown Armory.

Four players of the home team hit double figures, Nick Scallion, Jim Taylor, Dan Samuels and Kenny Sullivan with 22, 15, 14, and 11 respectively. Jack Whitcomb of the visitors scored 20 markers, aided by "Red" Cohn with 13 and George Pendergast with 11.

Visitors Lead at Half

The score was tied three times in the first quarter at 4-4, 6-6 and 15-15, as Jack Kely led the Jackets to a 16-16 first period lead. Samuels and Scallion kept the home team in the contest, accounting for 12 of the 15 points.

The Southerners grabbed a 6 point lead, but this was soon strangled down as Ken Sullivan and Jim Taylor controlled the backboards. With Whitcomb leading the way, the Blue and Gold left the floor at halftime with a one-point advantage, 30-29.

Third Quarter Rally

Taylor, knotted eight markers in the third period and Sully and Samuels contributed with smoothly executed sets, to forge ahead 51-41. Sullivan concluded the third quarter with a 16-foot air set shot in the final seconds of play, to give the Sho'men a 56-43 lead.

The Yellow Jackets desperately attempted to thwart the Maroon and Black scoring spree by setting up a full court press. However, Whitcomb and Cohn looked out midway in the fourth period and the visitors were no longer a strong scoring threat.

King's Bows

Washington College won its most decisive victory of the current basketball campaign, at mid-semester, by trouncing King's College of Delaware to the tune of 85 to 46.

The Maroon and Black were never threatened by the home team, as lanky Jim Taylor led the way with a 25 point total for the contest. Although Nick Scallion was ailing and unable to play, Danny Samuels and Jack Bergen, netted 13 and 14 points respectively, to add to the Sho's scoring strength.

The Chestertown squad jumped to a 26-15 first quarter lead and increased this to 45-27 by the half. Hard driving George Hesse came into his own in this contest as he garnered 5 points while setting up innumerable scores for his team mates. Bill Bowser of the losers scored 30 points to top the individual scoring for the afternoon, but his efforts were in vain against the superior Shore forces.

Sho'men Edge Hopkins, 69-68

Washington College outscored a determined John Hopkins hardwood quintet 69 to 68 in the last of the season's Mason-Dixon circuit go into the playoffs.

The Shoremen blew an 18 point lead at the outset of the third quarter as the home team called to within 3 points at 46-69. It was Bernie Rude who scored the final Sho' goal, shortly followed by a foul and a one-and-one push shot by John Gipe of Hopkins which placed the Jays' one point behind. The final buzzer sounded.

The Athetians led at the conclusion

Washington Upsets Balto.

Washington College handed an 80-63 defeat to the Baltimore U. cagers in a hotly contested affair which was played at the Bee's home floor.

Faced by high-scoring Nick Scallion, the Shoremen got the jump in the contest from the beginning and while pressed closely several times managed to hang on to the finish.

Scallion 22 points were right in stride with his season's average of 22.7. The Shore ace was ably backed up in the cord parting by Dan Samuels who added 19 points to the total.

For the Boys, Murray was the top scorer of the evening with 25 points as he racked up 10 field goals and sank half of his 10 free throws.

The Bees trailed by five points at the quarter and despite their best efforts failed back another five points and were ten down at the half.

Bees Lose Pace

Following the rest period the Bees increased their pace but found the Shoremen able to maintain their edge as Scallion and Samuels led the attack.

The finale was the hottest period of the evening with the teams trading baskets for basket.

Jack Bergen and Kenny Sullivan were main cogs in the Sho's offense with 10 and 8 points respectively. Stunned Jim Taylor, not only played excellently well off the boards, but managed to drop in 9 markers.

Va. Quints Down Sho'men

Washington's hardwood quintet was unsuccessful on its tour through Bridgewater and Salem, Va., at mid-semester, as the Shoremen dropped two hardy fought contests to Bridgewater and Roanoke Colleges.

Bridgewater scored its fifth Mason-Dixon Conference victory as it downed the Maroon and Black, 67 to 62. Billy Burkholder, who scored 29 points in the home team, once again led the offense as he sparked the Southerners to a 31-27 halftime lead. Following the half, the Bridgewater squad outscored the Sho'men 22-18 in the third quarter, while holding their own in the fourth.

No Consistency

For the losers, "Nitty Nitty" dropped in 22 points as forward Jack Bergen followed closely with 20. The remainder of the team was inconsistent in the scoring column.

Diminutive Tony Fries and lanky Karl Kummer flipped in 12 points apiece to pace the Roanoke basketball team to a 63-58 victory over the Chestertown squad.

Southgap Nick Scallion once again led the scoring column with five fouls and eight field goals for a 21-point total. Run-and-gun honors went to "Dandy Dan" Samuels whose seven fouls and four field goals totalled 15 at the conclusion of the game.

Rozkoek opened up a five point lead at the end of the first half, but Washington closed the gap to a single point near the finish of the contest.

With a minute to go, Emil Steinh dropped in a pair of field goals to insure the Roanoke triumph.

of the first quarter 22-20, as Nick Scallion scored in 13 of his 35-point total for the evening. The lead increased to 41-26 at halftime and 46-46 at the end of the third period. At this point, the Jays' fast break and inside shot out the lead as the Maroon and Black fell into a slump.

"Nitty Nitty" displayed one of his toughest efforts of the season as he led the Chestertown squad with 14 field goals and 8 fouls. Danny Samuels followed with 12 points and Jim Taylor with 8.

Stickmen Face 13-Game Schedule

Aspirants for the 1952 Washington College Lacrosse team began spring work on Wednesday of this week, following an organizational meeting and the issuance of equipment on the day before. Except for members of the squad who are basketball players, all hands are at work.

Coach Charles Clark pointed out that five regulars of 1951 are missing due to graduation and that two alternative midfielders—Wayne Miller, who transferred to Baltimore U., and Doug Fox, who has not yet reported for practice, are missing. First-string holders from 1951 are Captain Kearne Menzies and Larry Leonard; Bernie Rudo and John Grim, mid-fielders; Bill Bonart and Bob Jackson, defencemen; and Bill Russell at goal. Lettersmen on hand are Dick Cadden, Bob Lipnitz, Rod Faulkner, Chuck Wausley, Jack Bacon and "Biscuits" McCurdy. Newcomers with some experience include Randy Hamel, Jerry Proutt, Bill Kabernagel, Don Stevens, Ed Hogarth, Jack Daid, and others.

Known for their excellent spirit, condition, and team-work, the local Old Indian game players have their work cut out for them as they seek to match last year's team which was ranked ninth among approximately 70 colleges and universities playing lacrosse. In four years the Shoremen have won 42 of 47 collegiate games played. Two practice games—with the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins—will be played prior to the opening of the regular season.

The 1952 schedule follows:

March 29—Navv, Away.
April 4—Harvard, Here.
April 9—Swarthmore, Here.
April 11—Maryland Lacrosse Club, Away.
April 18—U. of N. Car., Away.
April 19—Duke, Away.
April 26—Mt. Washington, Away.
April 30—Lehigh, Away.
May 3—Lynn, Here.
May 9—Western Md., Here.
May 10—Virginia, Away.
May 14—Dartmouth, Away.
May 15—Baltimore U., Here.
One game, with the Philadelphia Lacrosse Club, is pending.

Snakes Trounce Theta Chi

The defending intramural league champions, Theta Chi, tasted their first defeat of the season as they defeated baskets with a well-rounded hardwood squad that defeated the Owens, 38 to 25.

Throughout the entire skirmish, as sharp shooting Lou Buckley led his quint in the scoring column, by netting 19 points. Only three of the Theta players scored in the game, Ken Howard, 14; Vic MacFallschate, 4; and Jack Nacrelli, 7. The Snakes have fought their way up the victory ladder with a record of 6 wins and no defeat.

Lou Buckley has taken over second place in the league with a record of 5 and 0, followed by Theta Chi in the third slot with 5 wins and 1 setback. The Newman Club, K.A., and G.I. No. 1, follow at third in the team race.

In other recent action, the Newman Club edged A.O. Nu, 28-24, as Jim Habaal swished 16 markers to lead the scoring for the winners. Theta Chi trounced G.I. No. 2, 59-29, as Ken Howard accounted for 26 G.I. No. 1, 35; Somerset, 20; Theta Chi, 54; A.O. Nu, 16. Lambda 35, G.I. No. 2, 32. G.I. No. 1, 59, Foxwell 31. Newman Club 48, Somerset 33 and Lambda 56, A.O. Nu 33.

The last game of the season in which to occupy the gymnasium will prevent each team from playing each other twice. Therefore, when the first round of play draws to a close, the top two teams are eligible for the playoffs.

26, and Western Md., 23.

Mike Magala, of Youngstown, has the best average rating in field goals, with 192 successful shots in 270 attempts for a percentage of 56.3. Jake McHenry, of Packer Sound, leads in free throws, converting 118 of 138 tries for an 85.5 percent record.

Franklin and Marshall continues to lead small college teams in offense with an 83.3 average, compared with Brooklyn Poly's 82.6. Washington of St. Louis has the best defensive mark, having allowed an average of 41.3 points a game.

Report State Scholarship Examinations

Examinations for appointments to scholarships to Washington College will be given under the direction of the Maryland State Department of Education at the various county seats by the Boards of Education in high schools or places to be designated on Saturday, March 29th. Examinations for the Baltimore County scholarships are specially given at the Polytechnic Institute.

Washington College students who plan to take examinations to qualify for scholarship appointments should notify the respective Board of Education if they plan to take the examinations in their home counties. It will be possible for all Washington College students to take the examination with the Kent County group and save the expense of a trip for the examination. Individuals planning to take the examinations should notify Dean Livingston no later than March first.

The list of openings in senatorial scholarship appointments follows:

Freshmen Celebrate

The Freshman Class entertained themselves and their guests by a party held last Sunday, February 10th, in Hesdon Hall. As treasurer of the class, Jo Cook organized and presided over the affair which was strictly informal with everyone appearing in slungers.

During the course of the evening, a fire was built, and plenty of marshmallows, hot dogs, potato chips, and coke were provided for all.

Entertainment was also presented, which included two dances—the first a "ballroom dance," and the second "Wind the Clock" led by Sam Smach. The highlight of the entertainment was a song written and sung by the Freshman girls entitled "Freshmen Lament" or "Life at W.C.C." Song sung by the entire group brought the evening to a close.

Graduate Work For '52 - '53

Senior students who are considering graduate work for 1952-1953 are advised to file applications for scholarships and fellowships no later than March 1st, since most graduate schools set this as a deadline for accepting applications for assistance. Senior students are urged to consult the file in Dean Livingston's office relative to opportunities open.

Students planning to go to graduate school next year should plan to take the Graduate Record Examination since most graduate schools require this examination for admission. The next examination will be given May 2-3, and candidates should register for the examination no later than April 10th.

Truth Elected Phi Sig Head

On Saturday, January 19, 1952, the local fraternity of Alpha Omega Sigma, which was established here in 1915, became the sixty-sixth chapter, Epsilon Iota, of Phi Sigma Kappa.

At their regular meeting on Monday, February 4, the newly inducted chapter elected and installed their officers for the coming year, under national rules. These officers are as follows:

President, William Truett; Vice President, Sidney Barr; Secretary, Henry Thum; Treasurer, Robert Rouse; Inductor, James Mangus; Sentinel, Jack McCullough.

For their first social event as a national fraternity, the Phi Sigma Kappa's will sponsor a semi-formal dance on the 23rd of the February, at the 23rd of February.

Following the national tradition of Phi Sigma Kappa's annual officer, a Moonlight Girl will be chosen and crowned at the beginning of the intermission. Four candidates will be chosen by the fraternity and the balloting will be thrown open to the student body, who will make the final choice.

Dancing will be from 8:30 to 1:00 to the music of Fred Gordon's orchestra. The winning candidate—the Moonlight Girl—will receive a special award.

Good Day For Bloodmobile

One hundred and thirty-five pints of blood were donated to the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit which visited Chestertown last Tuesday, sixty-five of which were estimated to have been given by students of the college. Red Cross officials stated that they considered it a "good day."

This particular Bloodmobile Unit works out of National Red Cross Headquarters in Baltimore and consists of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. The staff of the unit consists of a medical doctor, a chairman, and 10 registered nurses. Volunteer registered nurses from the area in which the Bloodmobile Unit is using are also on duty.

Blood donated yesterday was immediately refrigerated and shipped to the Sharpe and Dome laboratories in Pennsylvania where it will be converted into Blood Plasma and given to the Armed Forces. All blood donated through the Bloodmobile Unit is for military use only. It is in use for plasma within two or three weeks.

3 Sororities Issue 22 Bids To Women

The national fraternities and sororities of Washington College formally ended their rushing season last week with the presentation of bids.

Fraternity bids were issued the 18th of February, with a total of twenty-eight men from the various classes accepting them.

Sorority bids were presented Saturday, February 23, following a "silence period" of seventeen hours. A total number of twenty-two women accepted bids.

A breakdown of the number of men and women in the fraternities and sororities respectively, including the pledges, is as follows:

Theta Chi, thirty-eight; Lambda Chi Alpha, thirty-seven; Kappa Alpha Chapter, Phi Sigma Kappa, twenty; Zeta Tau Alpha, twenty-two; Alpha Chi Omega, nineteen; Alpha Omicron Pi, sixteen.

Lambda Pledge 12

Bea Ets Chapter of Theta Chi pledged the following men: Randy Hammett, Lou Buckley, Douglas Tilly, Phil Riggio, Bob Lipitz, and Mohdi Djanabzadeh. These men were pledged in a special ceremony Tuesday, February 19. Refreshments were served following the pledging service. The Theta Chi held their annual banquet, Wednesday night at the Granary.

Epsilon Theta Zeta Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha pledged the following men: Bill Barnett, Al Stocker, Fred Henry, Don Stoen, Gary Huxton, Dave Dougherty, Ed Hogarth, Rod Smith, Morgan Haines, Charles Wetzel, Allan Hanifan, and Talbot Henry. The pledge banquet was held February 21 at the Granary at 7:00 p. m. Dr. Clark, Dr. Howell, Dr. Livingston, and Ellery Ward were guests. Also present were Baltimore alumni Wlad Blake, George Hanover, Cos Medford, and Larry Wesoot.

Sigs Pledge Six

Pledges for Beta Omega Chapter of Kappa Alpha are: Spencer Latham, Roy MacDonald, Arden Fox, and Mort Smith. These men were pledged February 19. Their banquet will be held sometime next month.

The following men were pledged to Epsilon Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa: William Landon, Stan Kaufman, William Winterling, Henry T. Williams, Kenneth Buzane, and Paul Rowe. Pledging took place Tuesday, February 19; those pledged were officially inducted into Phi Sigma Kappa in approximately six weeks. Sometime following the initiation. (Continued on Page Four)

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1952

Bruce McKie

McKie Succeeds Lowe As Number 1 Of Kappa Alpha

Bruce McKie was chosen Number One of the Kappa Alpha Order in elections held Thursday night. He will succeed Tom Lowe in that office and will be officially installed sometime in March.

Harold White succeeds Bob Jackson as Number Two and John Grimm takes over White's position as Number Three. All of the new officers will be seniors next year.

Active On Campus
McKie has been active on campus this year as chairman of the Student Government committee which was formed last fall. He represents the junior class in that capacity. He is also a field relations man for the college, visiting numerous high schools throughout the state, to give information on W.C.

New Number Two White served as president of his Freshman class, is a member of the choir and served as Number Three in the fraternity last year.

Grimm is Number Three.

John Grimm, who will take office as Number Three, has been active in campus activities since his freshman year, serving as vice-president of his freshman class and president of the sophomore class. He is also a member of the lacrosse and soccer teams and will captain the latter next year.

UMT Proposal Unpopular Here

By Jane Bradley, Editor-in-Chief

The controversial question of Universal Military Training, now on the floor of the United States House of Representatives reached William Smith Auditorium last Wednesday night in the form of a panel discussion. Led by Dr. Charles B. Clark, who acted as moderator, the panel, composed of two professors and two senior men, weighed pro and con eight specific questions concerning U.M.T.

Despite the fact that the bill is predicted to pass in both houses of Congress, and that panel members Jim Habel and Tom Lowe advocated the proposal as students, the professors, Edward Anderson and Peter Jonits, seemed to gain the favor of the student audience with a stand against U.M.T.

Zing Zing, Zum Zum, Students To Sing Songs At Annual Spiel

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President, announced last week, at an assembly, the first annual "Song Spiel," which will be held this year May 9, 1952.

The purpose of the song fest is to initiate school spirit and encourage singing on the Campus.

The Song Spiel, which will be held in the evening, on the terrace facing Middle Hall, will be of a competitive nature. There will be two cups awarded, one going to the most outstanding male group, the other to the most outstanding women's group.

Must Be Members
The winning groups will have their names inscribed on the cups and will maintain possession of the coveted prizes for one year, when the trophies will be competed for once again.

To be eligible, a group must represent some recognized organization on Campus. In order to compete for some particular organization, an individual must be a bona fide member of the group. The competition will, however, be open to independent men's and women's groups, providing these groups organize as such.

Faculty Not Allowed
The competition is to consist of two songs, which will be rendered by each group. There will be one standard song which will be rendered by all the men's groups. In addition, there will be one song which the groups will do of their own choice. Similarly, there will be one song for all the women's groups, as well as one song of their own choice.

All members of the groups must be regular students at Washington College. Any person not a student at the College may not compete in the competition in any capacity. Leaders of the groups must be students themselves. Faculty members will not be allowed to aid in the direction of any of the groups.

Singing Is A Cappella
The individual groups are to be limited in size to a maximum of fifteen. The minimum for a group is to be ten.

The singing is to be strictly A Cappella. Judges are to be selected from individuals outside of the College, who are outstanding in the field of music and choral work.

Dr. Gibson stated that the prescribed songs will be announced sometime in the near future.

ODK HAS REQUESTED THAT
The individual classes start thinking about possible candidates for class officers. There will be further announcements in THE ELM as to the proper procedure for elections.

DRAFT TEST

All men students who have not previously taken the Selective Qualification Test should plan to take the test on April 24th on the Washington College Campus. In order to qualify for this test you must secure from an application and a mailing envelope. Mail as directed and you will receive a ticket of admission to the examination. Unless your application is on file at Princeton by March 10th you will not be admitted to the examination. In all doubt, see Dean Livingston.

Frat Elections

Hearn, Edwards New Heads Of Lambda Chi, Theta Chi

Officers of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity were elected for the coming year at the organization's meeting, February 18, 1952. Frank Hearn succeeds Bill Bonnet as President.

Tony Tonian was elected Vice-President, and Bob Stahl and John Minnich will fill the positions of Secretary and Treasurer.

The new president is a resident of Baltimore, Maryland, and will be a member of next February's graduating class. He is a member of the Science Club and the Newman Club and serves on the Interfraternity Council.

Tony Tonian has served as Rush Chairman of Lambda Chi during the past year, and he holds the Presidency of two clubs, the Phi Chi and the French Club. He is chairman of the Committee for the World Student Service Fund, a member of the Canterbury Club, a member of the Ten's Team, and serves on the Pegasus staff.

Bob Stahl has been coach of the fraternity inter-natal basketball team, major.

Frank Hearn

is Lacrosse Manager. John Minnich, the new treasurer, is president of the Sophomore class and is an Economics major.

Wes Edwards, a member of the Junior Class, was elected to succeed Larry Leonard as president of Theta Chi Fraternity Twenty. Leonard, former vice-president, served as the interim president of the organization, following the graduation of Joe Ingara in February.

Edwards is an alumnus of Woodtown High School, in New Jersey, where he was, at various times, vice-president and president of both his class and the student council. He was a three letter man in high school, gaining recognition in football, baseball, and track. Edwards is a member of the Basketball Squad and an aspirant to the Baseball Team.

Elected vice-president of the organization was Cy Rollins, a native of Baltimore, and a graduate of McDonough Military Academy. Rollins, a Junior, has been active in various positions in the Fraternity.

Bob Appleby, a Sophomore, was elected secretary to the organization. Appleby was a member of last year's Football Eleven, in addition to the

Wes Edwards

Basketball Team, Cross Country, and Track Squads, particularly excelling in the latter two.

Bob Sewell, a Junior, was appointed by Edwards to succeed Edgar Stevenson as treasurer of the Fraternity.

Players To Honor Drama Week Here

As a tribute to International Drama Week, March 16-23, the Washington Players will present an assembly program to the students Thursday, March 20. The presentation will include two one-act plays, "Aches of Rome" and "Yes, Means No."

The production will carry the theme of a history of dramatics with the one act plays providing an example of drama and comedy. A narrator will act as coordinator of the history and student casts will present the plays.

Typifying 18th Century drama will be "Aches of Rome," a short dramatic skit showing life in the theater of that period. The story centers around one of the great English actresses and her experiences.

Comedy will be exemplified by "Yes Means No," a modern Broadway one-act play. This production will bring to the stage the lighter side of modern drama that is becoming popular today.

All too regularly one overhears the comment, "What are we paying an activities fee for? We don't get anything out of it." And just as regularly the majority of the student body fails to attend the various functions which are supported, in part, by that same activities fee. I am thinking in particular of the series of concerts which have been presented here this year and the conspicuous lack of representation from the student body. The artists who have appeared to date have been very good and it seems a shame that more of the students haven't taken advantage of the opportunity to hear them. Beyond that, it even seems strange that most of the students do not attend since every one can overhear someone grumble, "What a dead town. Nothing to do." Of course, it is always possible that the average student of this liberal arts college does not like good music. If that is the case, it would be very much worth while to attend these concerts purely with the intention of coming in contact with something new and consider them a definite part of one's education. For those who are inclined to be thrifty—remember—you're paying for them whether you go or not. So let's see more of the students at these affairs. They are well worth it—but only if you attend.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The Elm staff regrets as much as everyone that there have been fewer Elms this year than in the past. We assure you that there is only one reason for the reduction and that is a matter of cut and dried financial statistics. For two big reasons we just don't have the money to give you as many Elms as we wish we could: (1) Lower enrollment in the school leaves less operating fund; (2) Higher costs of publication. The printing expenses on one four page issue amount to $34. In addition to this there are the costs of copy paper, picture proofs, etc. Below is a statement of the resources now on hand for the remainder of the semester. The costs of three issues have not been deducted from these figures.

Accounts Due	$145.50
Student Fund	405.00
Cash on hand	522.32
Cash to be deposited	$107.82
	20.00
	$109.82
Accounts payable	195.00
Balance	$ 897.82

On The Hill

Spring is coming! If anyone doubts it just look at the signs... the gleams of students' eyes—such eyes, rich, like about to blossom in the sun, the men with the butterfly nets... and that stuff... only remember boys, this is leap year, it might be a dangerous season.

It's all over now but the shrouding... no more knitting and backslapping... is everybody happy? Well, congratulations, anyway, all you new pledgers... no more sympathy cards, please. Request!

Party anyone? ... John Fox Co. next time you come to the "Cliff" bring a little more, it's quantity they want, not quality... Sure boys—rhaad! ... The club won't the only thing it's up Saturday night.

Congratulations to Peg and Larry on the blessed event. We hear she's a real personality girl... but when's your cigar?... and more congratulations to Peg Feather—moonlight becomes you!... and to all faithful box staffers—certainly don't pay—does it?... Saylor, give Saylor a break. He can't in a try everyone... For lessons in love, see Nick Scallion, appointments anytime after dark...

Mary Ler, are you engaged yet? Don't give us 'til you run out of runs.

Party Friday night... the Alpha Chi's have the right idea who is "P.B." anyway. Reid Hall has a "food" now. "Moo Pudd"—animal-vegetable-or-meat???? Bill Macdonald is working his way through college, give him a break and buy a magazine... Who'd you say was pushing, Shill? Pat Lambdas Theta fraternity has opened their rush season—rush out and get another case.

Don't forget the "Was and Is" Party Tuesday—all those who are and ever have been—are cordially invited to Fred LaWall became a sick chimp Saturday—some weekend—who?... Hey Rod—did you turn reporter?... Congratulations Jean and Tanel boy staffers—certainly don't pay—does it?... Saylor, give Saylor a break. He can't in a try everyone... For lessons in love, see Nick Scallion, appointments anytime after dark...

With The GREEKS

Alpha Chi Omega

Welcome pledged Barbara Jones, Evelyn Hamilton, Barbara Denney, Hank Donnelly, Pat Neighbor, Jane Davis, Rosemary Hatem and Donna Turner have now joined our group. In case anyone wonders about the life of a pledge, Nan Crabtree and Fran Bowie will be glad to sing their duet.

Congratulations to the Phi Sig on their very fine dance and their lovely moonlight gig. Congratulations, Peggy.

This Friday night, the 29th, we are having a party out at Mrs. Harris' to celebrate Leap Year.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Congratulations to Brother Ortel on his coming marriage to Miss Mary Elizabeth Crowe on March 7th.

The big event of the semester was the Moonlight Ball held last Saturday night. Everyone seemed to have a good time at the dance and at the intermission party held at the home of Brother Whitist. The crowning event of the evening was the installation of Peggy Feather as Phi Sig "Moonlight Girl" for 1952. She is wearing a crown of red carnations, the fraternity flower, and two trophies—one which will remain at the house with each year's winner's name engraved on it.

We know that there were quite a few people of both sexes who did not, for one reason or another, attend the Ball. We hope that they won't miss it next year.

Brothers Miller and Ortel are currently employed teaching English and Spanish respectively. This may be quite a surprise to those who know them.

Zeta Tau Alpha

One of our sorority sisters, Jane Mills, was down to see us not so long ago, it was really great to see her.

Last Saturday morning, the Zetas were joined by the Phi Sig girls. They are Sheila Alvord, 2nd, she is now a senior year, a haid like a rhinoceros. But on the other hand even a rhino has a few soft spots, so just like harpies after warm blood, we attack each other looking for something that really hurts in an atmosphere of this type no one can possibly have time to feel sorry for himself.

Occasionally we, being humans, have a tendency to carry this too far. We'll find a Middle Hall Debateur or a Somerset Lehigh and for no reason or another can't be agitated. When that poor creature digresses one iota—stand by!

You know that's a good thing too; We know the old adage that he who dances must pay the piper. Well, here's one that we seldom remember: "He who pays the piper calls the tune," so don't let it upset you.

There's just one weak plea—When you see these poor weak seniors, old before their time, remember that even if they feel like the tune, they're no damned decrepit to dance!

The traditional Washington's Birthday Convocation exercises which took place last Thursday, February 21, paid tribute to Thomas Jefferson, one of General Washington's closest colleagues and mentors. The speaker, Lyman H. Butterfield, who has spent many years studying Jefferson's papers, presented to the student body an encouraging personal history of the third president of the United States.

With emphasis on the intellectual discipline of Jefferson, Butterfield described him as an "instinctive scholar" who was interested in anything that he came across. He told numerous anecdotes of peculiar times that were found in various collections of Jefferson's papers.

Butterfield described Jefferson as a revolutionary idea of making sex water drinkable.

Butterfield proclaimed Jefferson "the greatest storehouse of information" in all history and borrowed from a comparison made recently by President Griswold of Yale showed him to be a full man for his reading, a ready man for his confidence, and a exact man for his writings. In conclusion he showed the character of Jefferson as a man of high education who was able to improve the institution of his day, stating that this was the highest any man could bestow on the world.

Mr. Butterfield is one of Thomas Jefferson's foremost scholars of America's foremost scholars of Thomas Jefferson and is associate editor of a recent publication dealing with his papers which critics quoted as being the most complete work ever presented concerning the philosopher-statesman.

There is something about Jim (Joe) Co. and Herby's saddle shoes... Say Louis—how many checks did you broken this week?... The Somerset nickel goes a long way... midnight phone calls anyone? So the "Beta Gamma" think they're the best boys but... well, well, well.

"Let's try" it at an all time low, ladies and gentlemen, so let's call time out—I remain yours in greater love... The vivacious and energetic student statesman.

"Festered Lilies"

By TOM LOWE

Everytime someone picks up an issue of THE ELM the first thing they turn to is that viviparous column disguised under the pseudonym of "Oh, the Hills." What you know the mysterious "ghost" who has the nerve to print that lacerous article (dragging innocent names through the mud) or not, one must certainly be bewitched by his or her source of information.

In a more serious vein this brings to mind a unique characteristic peculiar to small colleges in general and W.C. in particular. If you have faults, and don't we all, heaven help you when your schoolmates discover them. Now this in itself is an advantage of a small college. The recipients of this agitation become too aware of their flaws and naturally inhibit or discard them.

Of course there are those few who can't resist it and pull out for greater penalties; however, those who "naïve even when it makes them sick" turn out much better prepared to meet that chiseled youth which we refer to, by one senior year, a haid like a rhinoceros. But on the other hand even a rhino has a few soft spots, so just like harpies after warm blood, we attack each other looking for something that really hurts in an atmosphere of this type no one can possibly have time to feel sorry for himself.

Jefferson, Theme Of Convocation

Question of the Week

What do you think of The Elm?

John Shenton: I think that The Elm is a very important part of Washington College. I myself like it.

Fran Bowie: To me, any scholastic publication is a necessary part of the school. The Elm is a means of discharging the moral burden of the students and the faculty and also gives the students a better knowledge of campus affairs.

Bob Stuck: No opinion!

Hank Donnelly: If it weren't for The Elm—I wouldn't know what was happening around W.C. I only wish it would come out more often.

Bob Hild: The Elm serves as an important source of college news and pictures.

Dick Carden: Should have more feature articles.

Pat Anderson: I like the parts I read.

John Minnich: Covers the sports well. I don't like the gossip column. There is too much fraternity news.

Alvord R. Smith: It cheers me up on Saturday mornings when I don't get any mail. Then again it makes me mad when Monday rolls around and I get no mail—just The Elm. Still, it's a right fair gossip column.

Kinsman: A school publication is very important but without the printing is readable and there are no ink smears on the paper there is no use to even publish the paper because it is a waste of money. The student deserves a very good paper for their money.

George Horn: It is the worst paper I have ever seen on the high school or college level.

Berrie Rods: It shows definite lack of planning.

Mehdi Djabani: Always the same stories about the same people.

Bob Lipsitz: Not enough pictures.

Most common answer: It's pretty good, but it could come out often enough. (Editor's note: we've printed "Financial Statement" on this same page).

Sorrier Of ... The Week

Father "Rod" they call him—or at least ever since Kendall Reese arrived on the scene last Fall. But having a glamorous baby daughter to play with doesn't stop Rod Faulkner from having a lot of activities around school. One thing he did have to give up—Literacy, but maybe he can take it from the stand this year as a family man.

Rod has been active in the advertising field of the publications ever since he arrived on campus and now serves as Business Manager of THE ELM. He has also been instrumental in the Future Teachers of the Americas and helped found the group here. He served as secretary and treasurer for that organization in his sophomore and junior years.

Being a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity and the Variety Club round out the official school activities for Rod. As extra-duty he drives to Philadelphia several times a week for the biweekly miles here in Chestertown. As far as books go, Rod doesn't stop Rod Faulkner from certainly coming in handy so far that "salesman approach" to ELM customers.

Plans for the future are undecided—many fields to pick from but you can bet pretty sure it will be talking someone into buying something. At that—he should make a million.

Sho'men To Face Hopkins In Playoff Verdict

Kibler Swings Diamond Hopefuls Into Action

Court Capers

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

"A playoff for the playoffs" will be the theme next week when the home forces exchange baskets with an unpredictable Hopkins quint which terminated their Mason-Dixon Conference play with a 5 and 3 record.

It seems one-sided and unjust that the Shore team was not given the playoff berth automatically due to its 9 and 9 record in conference play. However, the record book states that regardless of the number of games played, it is the win and loss columns that decide the playoff teams. The Maroon and Black handed the Bluejays a 69-68 licking on the latter's home floor earlier in the season, and the Sho' quint is determined to be on the Loyola court when the playoffs commence, March 6-7-8.

Terrors Succumb

"The Terrible Terror" from Westminster turned out to be lambs at the slaughter last Monday night as the vastly improved Shoremen performed creditably before a high spirited crowd at the Chestertown Garden. Nick Scallion and Coach Athley's sliding zone turned high scoring Arty Press into a playmaker, while knocking his 20 point average for a loop. The zone defense, with Scallion playing Press, held the diminutive ace to 6 points.

Ten Washington players figured in the scoring. Nick scored on his dead-end hand push shots, as Jim Taylor performed like a veteran off the boards while netting 13 points. Danny Samel and Ken Sullivan thwarted several Western Maryland scoring sprees as they sighted the net for numerous baskets from set positions.

Tigers Score 8th Win

Hampden-Sydney played the role of "giant-killer" on February 23 as the Tigers broke American University's 13 game winning streak by downing the Eagles, 82-60. The Southerners notched their 8th victory against 2 defeats in conference play. The Virginia quint made a runaway of the battle in the third period outscoring the Eagles 30 to 10!

Meanwhile, Mt. St. Mary's nearly turned the tide against Loyola College as Ben Cook of the Greyhounds preserved his team's prestige by tapping in a basket in the final two seconds of play to give Loyola a 61-59 decision. This is just an inkling of what may take place when the curtain rises on the playoffs next week at Evergreen.

Shoremen Nip Terrors

Washington College used a sliding zone defense with Scallion covering Arty Press individually, to score a 64-45 victory over the Westminster quint last Monday night in the Chestertown Armory.

The Shore team outscored their visitors in every quarter as Nick Scallion once again led the scoring by netting 7 field goals and 4 fouls for an 18 point total. High scoring Press was unable to break into the Sho' defense and was held to 6 points.

Second Quarter Tie

Danny Samel, Jim Taylor and Scallion accounted for a 10-4 lead during the first 5 minutes of play which was increased to 16-14 at the end of the first quarter.

Bill Pfeiffer of the Terrors led a rally at the outset of the second quarter which tied the score, 16-16. However, Kenny Sullivan hit on several set shots and once again Scallion aided the cause which enabled the home team to retire at halftime with an 11 point lead, 36-25.

Terrors Still Defense

As the third quarter began, Dan Samel bucketed two consecutive set shots to give the Chestertown school a 15 point lead, 46-26. Jim Taylor sparked the scoring to advance the lead to 48-29. Taylor played one of his finest games of the season as he continually outscored the Western Maryland center, Chuck Hamaker, for rebounds.

As the third period commenced, the Green and Gold had shaved 6 points from the home team's 18 point advantage. After switching to a man to man defense in the final quarter, the Terrors cut the lead to 54-43 with three minutes remaining in the game.

Bees Sting Atheymen

Washington faded in the final moment of play in the third quarter against Baltimore U., as the latter cket out a 57-55 basketball win in the armory on February 20.

The Shoremen led 32-26 at the half and held a comfortable lead until the final 4 minutes of the third period when B.U. started its rally. Jerry Simon pumpe the visitors as he scored twice to knot the score, 42-42. Scallion put the Atheymen ahead as the buzzer sounded ending the third period, the Shoremen on top, 43-42.

The lead changed hands 5 times in the final period until Baltimore went ahead 57-49. Scallion and Samel closed this gap to 57-55 but the cket caught up with the home quint and saved the Bees.

Scallion, Bergen and Taylor led the home team scoring with 16, 10 and 10 points. Simon scored 19 and center Don Murray of the Bees, 18.

CHESTERTOWN
Electric Light and Power Co.

DANNY 'AUTOMATIC' SAMEL
A member of the first five which faces Hopkins in playoff encounter. This Sho' markman takes 12 point average into fray.

W.C. Trounces Towson

Washington College scored its most decisive victory of the '51-52 handsoff season by dubbing Towson State Teachers' College, 84 to 31.

Eleven Shoremen had a hand in the scoring column which was led by Nick Scallion with 21 and Jack Bergen and Jim Taylor who ovshed 11 markers apiece.

Visitors Score 4

The Washingtonians amassed 21 points in the first quarter against 8 for the visitors. In the second quarter the home team hit for 20 points and the Golden Knights hit for a total of 41. Coach Athley freely substituted in the final half as the Maroon and Black ran up 22 points in the third period and 31 in the fourth.

The only Towson player who managed to score against the Shore zone on set shots was Jack Jellulick who collected 4 field goals during the evening. Jack Smith played a creditable game along with Butch McElhugh, both of whom scored 7 points.

Beat Towson Edge K.A.

The Washington Junior Varsity basketball team scored its second win of the season by downing the Towson J.V., 51-37 in a preliminary contest to the varsity romp.

The home team took a 7-0 first quarter lead which was cut to 32-22 at halftime. Despite a rally by the visitors, which fell short, the Maroon and Black went ahead on the fine performance of Tommy Bounds and John Simon who netted 10 points apiece, to give their team a 42-31 fourth quarter lead. They retained this lead and stretched it to 51-37 as the final gun sounded.

JV's Edged

The combined teams of Guley and Beason Colleges of Wilmington, Del., dralt the Shore J.V.'s a 53-43 loss last Monday night in the armory.

After leading 15-8 in the first quarter, the Sho' J.V. could net only 4 points in the second quarter and lost in the third. Meanwhile, the visitors accounted for 17 in the second and 13 in the third.

Sheldon Deutch led the Shoremen in scoring with 17 points while Al Phillips of Beason scored 19. Despite the loss court manager of Neil Tighe and Tom Bounds the Beason squad broke up the fourth quarter rally by the Maroon and Black and preserved the win, 53-43.

Stickmen Prepare For Practice Tilt

With slightly more than two weeks of early season practice behind them, the Shore Stickmen have ironed out many kinks and are buckling down to serious work. At the moment the squad is handicapped by the lack of complete equipment. Nevertheless, the squad has had several scrimmages and the local practice is clearing up somewhat, insofar as the part new men may play in the season.

Promising Newcomers

Coch Charles Clark reports that the most promising of his new men are Bill Kallenberg and Jerry Proust at defense, and Joe Deem, Ed Hough, and Jack Ball at midfield. Kallenberg is the brother of Harry Kallenberg '51, who started for four years as a defenceman at Washington College and won All-America recognition. Both Bill Kallenberg and Proust are at the moment ineligible to play, but have equal opportunity to pull their granks up by the time of the opener on March 29 with Navy. Other new men possess potential ability and are hard at work to develop the same.

Jackson Most Versatile

Looking especially good in early workouts are Captain Graeme Menzies, Larry Leonard, John Grier, Bill Bonnet, Bob Jackson, and goalie Bill Russell. The latter is headed for a good season, as are the others unless injury intervenes. Only one player performs giving a good account of themselves include Bob Lipsitz, Jim Trader, Chuck Waecher, Dick Weller, once being used at defense, and Dick Jones. The latter is playing both attack and midfielder. Most versatile member of the squad is Bob Johnson who is a fine defenceman, midfielder, and goalie although he has played the latter positions sparingly at Washington College.

The first real test of the squad will come on March 22 when the Terrapins of the University of Maryland will be met at College Park in a practice tilt.

Lambdas Edge K.A.

At the intramural games near the conclusion of their '52 campaign, the Snake and Lambda Chi quints have remained at the head of the standings with 7.0 and 6.0 records.

The G.L. No. 1 team has pushed the Newman Club out of fourth place, having scored three consecutive wins to hold a 5 and 3 record. Theta Chi has six wins and one defeat, in third position and K. A. three wins and three losses, is in sixth place.

The Lambda Chi quint edged the K.A.'s in a hard fought game, Jan. 27, 27-25, clutching their first place standing. Bob Stahl and Howdy Davis once again led their squad, netting 10 and 5 points. Sharp-shooting Al Zaleski buckered 10, while speedy Leon Boyington scored 8 for the losing cause.

The Snakes easily handled Somerset a 36-30 thrashing behind the effective scoring of John Grier (14). Lee Silverman (12) Mehl Djabahoun (12), and George Horn (11). Leonard Dalt tallied 12 for Somerset.

Don Heverly netted 11 points to lead G.L. No. 1 to a 45-35 win over the Newman Club. Tom Martin paced the G.L.'s with 12. Munkelack and Werner scored 23 of their team's 46 points as Jack No. 1 romped to another triumph, this time against their rival No. 2 team.

Ed Chingala scored 34 points against Foxwell, as Theta Chi ran up a comfortable 79-11 win. This passed the

Shoremen List 15-Game Schedule

By Steve Mastrianna

With the weather permitting, Coach Thomas Kibler will be calling out Washington College's basketball aspirants next week after a one year absence of the diamond sport at the Shore school.

Three double headers are included in the fifteen game schedule which opens April 1 against Baltimore University.

Coach Kibler is to baseball here at Washington College, as baseball is to the thousands of fans throughout the United States. His coaching career at the Shore institution began in the fall of 1913 and with the exception of World Wars I and II, continued in that capacity until 1947 when he retired.

Kibler has been accredited in building the finest teams that the Chestertown school has ever fielded. He tutored and laid the foundation for such stars as Bill Nicholson of the Philadelphia Phillies, Jack Flowers, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves, who is now coaching with the Cleveland Indians, and Mike Kadhish, three year veteran of the Baltimore Orioles.

A highly regarded ball player in his day, Kibler was bought by the Chicago White Sox from Newark of the International League in 1908. His all engine career received a sudden jolt when he suffered a broken leg recently after this transaction.

His educational background includes an A.B. degree from Temple in 1901, and a Psy. Ed. Degree in 1908. From 1908 to 1911 he attended Yale pursuing graduate work.

The Shoremen are returning six veterans from the 1950 baseball squad plus many newcomers who are experienced to see smidglet play.

Young Republicans Will Rally Here

Committee Inspects School For Accrediting

On campus last week was an investigating team were representatives of six educational institutions who made a routine inspection of Washington College for the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges. This association is the Regional Accrediting Association for this area.

To Make Report

Normally, member institutions of the Association have an inspection every twelve years to determine whether or not they are keeping up with the standards of the organization. Because of the war, however, Washington College had not been inspected since 1925.

The inspection covered the Administration, the Business Office, library facilities and the academic program. Each phase of the tour was handled by a member of the committee, with the chairman acting as a coordinator. A full report by this committee on Washington College will be made at the spring meeting of the Association, April 11.

From Member Schools

Members of the visiting committee were Walter C. Lingam, president of Wagner College, Staten Island, N. Y., and president elect of Gettysburg College (Mr. Lingam acted as chairman of the committee); Joseph J. Romoda, Dean, St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y.; Harold F. Costerman, Dean, University of Maryland, Rockville, Md.; Business Manager, Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa.; Wayne Shirley, Dean of Library School, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Dr. James Spitznagel, Maryland State Department of Education, Baltimore.

Inspection committee members are chosen from the member institutions and represent a large variety of schools. It might be noted that among the visitors on the campus were members of technical, night, school and state universities.

'ELM' Handles Red Cross Fund

As a special project, THE WASHINGTON ELM has undertaken the direction of the annual drive for funds for the American Red Cross on the college campus. The Elm staff will be under the supervision of the Kent County Chapter of the Red Cross, which is headed by Mrs. Mary M. Hoops.

The quota for the Kent County drive this year has been set at $1,000. Approximately half of this, if collected, will be returned to the local chapter for local service.

During 1951 the Kent chapter provided Home Service, service to veterans, first aid clinics and the Blood-mobility program. "They hope to add a water safety program for 1952."

Nationally, the Red Cross performs numerous services to the needy, among which are aid to servicemen, veterans and their families—helping disaster victims find food and shelter and aiding them to return to normal living; the blood program which includes servicemen and needy people and reaching Americans to be trained for the protection of themselves and their families.

LOOK OUT "DINTY"

Coach Charley Clark and Captain Graham Menzies plot strategy in preparation for next week's opener against "Dinty" Moore's mid-chipman at Annapolis.

'51 Lacrosse Guide

Achieve National Standing

The official 1952 NCAA Lacrosse Guide, which is produced and distributed by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau of New York, has achieved Washington College not only as one of the top teams in Maryland, but as one of the strongest teams in the East.

Included in a resume of the 1951 collegiate lacrosse season, written by Glenn N. Thiel (Thiel was coach of Penn State) was the following: "Instead of the better team getting better and the smaller schools being relegated to a minor position there was a greater 'leveling off' in competition than has existed in the past twenty years. The traditional 'Big Five' which came into being in the mid-thirties, virtually dropped out of existence. In its place came the 'Top Ten'."

"Into this honored group crept the names of institutions which had never before been there, namely: Washington College from Chestersown, Md., and Loyola of Baltimore. Because two teams were tied for the top position and two others tied for second place, the 'Top Ten' in reality was the 'Top Twelve'."

This lacrosse summary also included a picture of the Maroon and Black squad of last season, plus a shot of the North-South group. The latter snapshot included Coach Charley Clark, Ray Wood, Harry Kabernagel and Eddy Leonard.

Also mentioned with high regard was Washington's first string All-American attacker, Ray Wood, who gained the all-time scoring leadership with 187 goals during his four year career at the Shore school.

Frosh Dance

To Determine 'Miss Legs'

The Carnation Ball, an informal dance to be given by the Freshman Class, April 25th, from 8:12 P. M. until 11:00 P. M., will have as its special attraction, a leg contest to elect a "Miss Legs" of Washington College.

This feature will be held at intermission along with a floor show and other entertainment with Professor Edward Anderson, of the Department of Economics, presiding as Master of Ceremonies.

The winner will be chosen under the auspices of Judges Professor Jackboys.

Henry, of the Department of History; Professor Edward S. Brubaker, of the Department of English; Douglas Fox, will have as its special attraction, a leg contest to elect a "Miss Legs" of Washington College.

There will also be drawing for door prizes at this time—two prizes for the girls and two prizes for the boys.

Voting Regulations Explained

Of interest to all Senior students and most of the Juniors is an announcement that was posted in the front hall of William Smith concerning registration for voting in Maryland.

"All students who are residents of the State of Maryland, who have already become 21 years of age, or who will be 21 before November 4, will want to exercise their citizenship privileges by voting this year. Anyone who will become 21 before the general election, November 4th, may register and vote in the preceding primary election even though he is under 21 at the time."

If you are eligible to vote this year, be sure that you will be able to vote by registering as soon as possible. You may register any day at the office of the Supervisor of Elections in the court house in your district—except for thirty days preceding and 10 days following any election. April 4th is the last day for registering before the primary election. In some districts there is a day set aside for prelate registration. Watch for an announcement of the time and places of these registration days."

Excused absence is granted to all students participating in the election.

Forensic Society Sponsors Mock GOP Convention

The Washington College Auditorium will be the scene of a mock Republican Convention the night of April 30. Members of the Forensic Society are sponsoring the event, which will feature banners, posters, campaign pictures, and all the other regalia of a national convention.

Speeches Limited

Jim Haebe

Jim Haebe, president of the organization, will serve as the convention chairman. The nominating speech for Mr. Strom will be delivered by Larry Welckind, campaign manager for the Stassen forces at the College. The nominating speech for Governor Warren will be made by Ficker King. Bill Murray will deliver the nominating speech for Senator Tuli. Mike Bruchstein, campaign manager for the Ike forces on Campus, will address the convention to deliver the nominating speech for the General.

All nominating speeches are to be held in a maximum time limit of ten minutes. They are to be followed by scolding speeches which are not to exceed the time limit of three minutes.

Demonstrations Limited

Spontaneous demonstrations for the candidates will be permitted, but will be allowed to run over the time limit of eight minutes. Final plans have not been worked out yet as to the number of delegates. It has been decided, however, that the voting will be according to states, as in the regular convention, with the members of the student body serving as the state delegates.

The keynote speaker for the convention has not been chosen as yet but is expected to be one of the leading young Republicans of the Campus.

To Hold Vote For Officers Of Classes

The procedure for electing officers of the various classes was announced this week by Tom Lowe, chairman of the election committee of Omicron Delta Kappa. The proper form must be followed in order that candidates may qualify for election.

Petitions bearing the candidates' names and signatures of fifteen supporters must be turned into the Dean of Men's Office by April 25th. The following Thursday, May 1st, a primary election will be held under the direction of ODK to determine the final slate. One week later, Thursday, May 8, the final election will be held.

Although class elections are a month or so away, ODK urges students to give thought to possible candidates. The procedure to be followed will be available again at a later date.

AOP's Elect New Officers

Lyn White was elected president of Alpha Omicron Psi Sorority in elections held last Monday night. She will replace Sandy Reeder as head of the group and will be installed into her new office sometime in April. Other officers are Shirley Hand, vice-president; Grace Lie, recording secretary; Sayles Urig, corresponding secretary; and Mary Lee Lincoln, treasurer. All officers will take over their duties following the April installation.

Mrs. White, now president, has been a member of AOP since her freshman year and held the post of vice president last year. She has also been active in choir work, participating in the annual Christmas assemblies. She will be a senior next year.

Outgoing officers of the group are Sandy Reeder, president; Lynn White, vice-president; Eleanor Dornand, recording secretary; Pat Brown, corresponding secretary; and Shirley Hand, treasurer.

Concert Features Helen Spann

Friday's program in the concert series, sponsored jointly by the College and the Community, will feature Helen Spann, soprano. The concert will be held in William Smith Auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

The program has been divided into four groups of songs and include German, French, and American melodies, by such composers as Mozart, Brahms, Debussy and Berens Taylor, well known American music critic.

The next concert in this series is April 27 and will feature Pierre Sallan, young French pianist. Mr. Sallan is winner of the competition last year of the Paris Conservatoire, and is making his first tour of the United States during the present season.

Assembly Programs

The following assemblies will be presented next semester:

March 27th—William Mason Sheehan—State Senator from Tallbot.

April 3rd—A program of religious emphasis presented by all the religious organizations on campus.

April 17th—Henry C. Forman—An illustrated lecture on St. Mary's City—the American birthplace of religious freedom.

May 12th—Dr. Franz Polgar—The Mental Wizard.

Editorial

When this article was originally written, no decision had been made on the much rumored and much discussed, behind the scenes, proclamation which was issued to the Fraternity Council regarding conduct at this semester's I.F.C. dance. Then, rather surprisingly, an apparent agreement was reached between fraternity representatives and the administration. At this point we wish to say that the Elm was never in agreement with the original decree and we are glad to see that some other arrangements have been arrived at. However, we must add, very emphatically, that we are opposed to those actions and those who perpetrated those actions, which led to the publishing of the statement which was issued to the I.F.C. a few weeks ago. There is no question that in the past a few of the students have behaved quite indiscreetly before, during and after dances held at the armory. Those indiscretions are bound to influence the school's reputation in the eyes of parents, alumni, and the people of Chestertown. Naturally the administration is going to attempt to prevent occurrences of a similar nature. The most effective way to curb injudicious behavior, however, lies with the students. If the student body would (individually) censure those persons who go beyond the bounds of common decency and if guilty parties were to find themselves cut off from mingling socially with their fellow students until genuine apologies were forthcoming, such behavior would be rare indeed.

Conference Room With Hamburgers and Coffee

At approximately 7:45 A.M. a little later if the morning is chilly, a small red Ford pickup truck parks at the lot behind Bill Smith. The driver steps out gingerly, checks over to twice to see if he has brought all necessary items for the day, and then vanishes into the building. About five minutes later, another pickup truck arrives, this one carrying a lot of coffee. The aroma of coffee drifting from the depths of the building and upon entry will find three semi-awake, but industrious persons perusing over a counter. Their faces reveal anxiety of what is to come and they smile brightly as they prepare for the day's events.

By 8:50 A.M. the man has taken on appearance of a metropolitan railroad station during the Christmas season. Impatient, "dorp-eyed" and annoyed, find up three deep in front of the counter, all calling out orders at once. The three on the other side, a few moments before not quite awake, come to their complete senses. A start and station themselves at advantageous spots. Music, unattended for early morning listening, blares from a juke box, and chairs that were piled on tables for the night come along to the floor and quickly accumulate a variety of notebooks and coats. Thus starts the day in the Snack Bar, "haves of happiness" to the Washington College student.

It is rather an amazing spectacle to watch thirty some people force down what represents breakfast in five to ten minutes, especially when the coffee is hot and several early classes feature a bluebook. There is no organization whatsoever. Coffee is sipped gingerly between glances at notes and conversation with one who is taking the same exam. Practical questions are pondered and more often than not, one comes up with one who has thought important. This occurrence causes a simple diverge for breakfast as books fly open and eager eyes search for the answers. Quite suddenly and unexpectedly the bell rings and the three behind the counter are left shuffling a pile of dirty cups with outcrops of the 9:15 class.

From about 8:45 until closing time, the Snack Bar continues to operate with activity resembling a beehive. Tables that were created to seat four, six, or even a dozen elbow, now to accommodate a lot of coffee. ## With The GREEKS

Phi Sigma Kappa

With the coming of warmer weather, the Phi Sigs are preparing for the much awaited hot house cleaning. This month is cleanup, mop-up and paint season. A lot can be done to our humble abode and we are determined to see that it gets done.

It must be odd riding in a jeep on a windy March night, even for an experienced Mary Bader driver. Congratulations to Brother Walt Ortel on his recent marriage.

We were honored by a return visit from Brothers Shorty Miller, Fred Paenit, Ed Nixon, and Frank Lorenz on our annual Phi Sig Hop.

Our pledges are looking forward to their pledge trips to some of our chapters in Maryland and Washington.

A couple of the local high schools now have two of the nation's most respected mathematicians on their staffs of only for a short time. These two scholars, Sydney Barovitch and Jack McKinnough, are supposedly experts in Einstein's Theory of Six grade arithmetic.

Theta Chi

Congrats to our new pledges—Randy Hammett, Lou Buckley, Doug Lilly, Phil Riggan, Bob Lipitz, and Mehdi Dihnabakhani. We have high hopes for you.

Beta Psi is meeting in a new place after a recent move. Bobby, Butch, and Ken are looking. Good thing—eh? Spring—no watch out. Watch for the lodge. That trio was too much. Apply it to all.

The boys at Chocoma and Dutton. They had a terrible time at MD. That party was too much!

Glad to have Brother Steve McHale back. Quite a duce. Hides... Sewell, Dougie's was too much... Ted is really hot with those drums... Hate you're too crazy. If this was good—wait till convention time—April 5.

AOH NEWS

We all want to thank Mrs. Metcalfe for the lovely dinner she gave us the Friday before last, and we are all looking forward to a party which has been planned for us this Friday by Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Penn, and Mrs. Robinson.

Congratulations to all our new officers, especially to Lynn White, our new president.

Next Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Hudson Hall AOH is holding a bridge party. The tickets are $1.00, and there will be refreshments and prizes. We will use the proceeds for the support of our little Dutch girl. Everyone is invited.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Since thanks are due to our brothers whose efforts were so rewarding during intramural basketball season. They ended the competition with the impressive record of ten wins and only one loss.

Our beautiful congratulations to new brothers, Bill Bloomfield and Dick Smith, who were initiated on March 10.

COLLEGE HUMOR

Student: (during blue book) Prof., are you sure this exam question is covered in the text?

Professor: Certainly.

Student: Well, I can't seem to find it there.

A woman got into a cab and told the driver, "Quick, get me to the fraternity ward!"

"Don't you mean maternity ward?"

"Oh, yes, I guess I do. But hurry, I have to see a patient!"

"Up? Don't you mean intern?"

"Fraternity, maternity, upturn, intern, just step on it, I think I'm stagnant."

Question: "Dear Miss Dix: I am nineteen years old, stayed out until 4 o'clock last night. Do you disagree?"

Answer: "My dear, try to remember."

Senior Of ... The Week

JOE INGAR—We must offer our apologies to "The Little Flower" of Washington College for being so late with this sketch of his life here. We remember promising him we would but fall that we wanted to include him in this series before the mid-year mail rolled around, and, for one reason and another, here it is. A football and football team in this capacity with no football team in this unusual distinction, he has been very active in the extra-curricular activities of W.C.

A loyal Theta Chi since his freshman year, Joe held the title of Marshall of his fraternity during his junior year and was honored with the presidency this year. He also represented Theta Chi on the later Fraternity Council during his 3rd year.

Things In General

by Bob Brink

It's been quite some time since anyone has written anything for The Elm in the way of a book review and I'm not going to attempt to write one now. I would like to recommend, however, if you should find a book now without anything to do some afternoon or evening that you pick up a copy of "The Catcher in the Rye" by J. D. Salinger, which came out a year or so ago and has been on the shelves of the library for almost a long time. Although this novel was rather highly recommended by several book clubs in the nation and even placed on the mailing lists of some, it is still a very fine piece of literature and worth reading. It is not a long book and is well worth spending a few hours with.

Speaking of television, and who was it, about you happen to catch Milton Berle's show last Tuesday night. I imagine that the set on old time burlesque brought back a lot of memories for old time Minsky, Gaiety, or Old Howard fans. If you get an opportunity some Sunday afternoon, try to get a look at a show called "What in the World," It's an educational type program, and as a result may not last very long, so catch it once or twice before the network decides to stop sustaining it.

It is a well known fact that most people begin to act strangely with the arrival of the vernal equinox—sulfur and sulphur, first and foremost, and all that and then, on earth does spring have a more caustic effect that it does on the college campus and W.C. is no exception. As a rule the average student probably develops quite an urge to travel during this season, since he discovers new fields to conquer. I can vouch from first hand observation that one of these new fields has already been explored and the possibilities are tremendous. Maybe before the season is over some serious student will have broken that "seven dollar shrimp at a time" record. And with custom-made Cadillac, too!

And now that we are talking about cars—do you know that we have with us this semester a collector of antique cars and as a result may not last very long, so catch it once or twice before the network decides to stop sustaining it.

And lastly—more word from that old misquoted philosopher who goes by the name Anonymous—"Don't blame the mail for the hops."

Question Of The Week

If You Had $50,000...

No one will deny that Washington College is not exactly the most heavily endowed College in the country and that there are a few situations at our Alma Mater that might be improved if the financial resources were available. If you had $50,000, how would you like to Washington College, what would you recommend that it be spent on?

Jack Smith—Raise salary of the faculty and improve the dormitories.

Jane Bradley—Build a new girls' dorm with a kitchen on every floor, hardwood beds and a Bessie wash.

Jane Miller—New washing machine for each dorm and a remodeling of the old dormitories.

Howard Seaberg—Better lighting facilities—improve the dormitories.

George Gamewell—Remodel East, Middle and West Halls.

Nick Scallion—General improvements for dormitories and campus.

Don White and Mary Lee Lincoln—Build a new girls' dorm.

Tom Hofstetter—Better meals at Hodon.

Juan Hernandez—Build an indoor swimming pool.

Bill DeLond—New equipment for tennis.

Rad Smith—Build a field house for athletics—rebuild C.F. Hall and increase food supply at Hudson Hall.

William Mulvaney—Set it in advancing the athletics and extra-curricular activities on campus to promote a more closely knit campus life for the students. Use what is left to increase supplies in science building.

Netmen Face C. U. On Home Courts

Sports Highlights

By Ellsworth Boyd
(Sports Editor)

Take the crack of the baseball bat as it echoes across Kibler Field. Add to it the spirited chatter of the lacrosse squad. Then listen carefully for the crack of the starter's gun. Sprinkle in the sounds of the tennis ball as the impact of the racquet sends it bounding over the net.

You now have the recipe of the 1952 Spring sports program which will soon be in full swing at Washington College. But wait! What's the rush? Although a preview is at hand, let's flip back the pages of the scrapbook and review some "Court Capers."

The afternoon of March 3 was one of anxiety for the students and the Athletes, as the hardwood quint embarked for Baltimore to face Johns Hopkins in a court skirmish, the winner of which was to advance to the playoffs. However, the following morning was one of melancholy, as the Shoremen had returned, having played their last game of the season. Their 74-62 loss was overshadowed only by the fact that Nick Scallion had netted 24 points to continue to lead the state in scoring.

Baltimore University, unseeded in the tournament, played the role of "David" as the mighty Goliaths—Hampton-Sydney, American U., and Roanoke succumbed to the Bees in three spectacular nights of tourney play.

Soon to follow were the choices of the M-D All-Star basketball team, headed by Washington's own Nick Scallion. Scallion not only gained this honor, but retired with the state scoring championship, (22.3 for 23 games). Although the Spring sports have been rapidly ushered in, the conclusion of the winter program had ended the career of one of W. C.'s finest athletes.

Ever since he made his debut at Chestertown in 1948-49, the sharp-shooting cager has led the conference in total points each season. Nick began with 318 in his fresh year, then posted 397, 423 and finally 424 this season. He has been the perennial pacesetter of the state of Maryland for 4 years and an All-Mason-Dixon choice for the 1951-52 season. He has scored a total of 2,067 points during his 4 seasons of play, which averages 24.5 per game!

The slim Hazelton southpaw holds the individual high-scoring record for one game at Washington College—39, which he established last season against Moravian College. A steady drawing card for the Shore institution during his four years here, Scallion played his best when under pressure. His sportsman-like conduct and unassuming personality, both on and off the court, have gained the diminutive ace notable praise and an eminent reputation.

It will be quite some time before Washington College finds another cager to wear the old number "10" which Scallion filled to successfully.

Scrimmage 'Satisfactory'

Although scrambling to the University of Maryland Lacrosse team, 24, in its first practice game, last Saturday afternoon, Coach Charlie Clark's 92 Greenmen definitely showed encouraging signs of being an even better squad than it was in the previous year.

The play of Captain Menzies, Larry Leonard, Bernie Rado, Jack Grim, Bill Bonnet, and Bob Jackson was especially outstanding. Perhaps the most thrilling goal of the afternoon, a high, hard shot, was scored by Leonard, who managed to slip by Maryland's Bill Hubbel, named as last year's most outstanding defenseman. Menzies proved to be the outstanding scorer of the game, with a total of three to his credit. He was followed by Grim, who dented the nets for 2 markers.

Dr. Clark summed the game up by stating, "Everything considered, the practice scrimmage was satisfactory. When one thinks that we lost five first-stringers last June and that the year was to be rebuilt this year, it seems to me the boys did a fine job at Maryland. We had a chance to see our strong points and our defects. Barring additional injuries, and looking toward natural improvement of new men in the lineup, we should be able to give a decent account of ourselves against teams within our class."

THETAS WIN PLAYOFFS

Once again the defending champions of the intramural basketball league, Thetas Chi have terminated the hardfought season rearing with the playoff honors.

Two wins over K.A. enabled the Osmen to walk off with the championship medals donated by the Shore athletic department. Thanks to Coach Mosie Nesbitt, the league was highly successful and the boys are looking forward to the coming softball campaign.

Led by their player-coach, Leon Benjamin, the K.A. team fought their way into the playoffs by knocking off G.I. No. 1 and then the Snakes. But when Benjamin, Zaloki, Gardiner, Jackson and Shallenburg met Howard and his boys, the opposition was too stiff. The Thetas downed Lambda 39-26 and then in their opening game, K.A. scored a 51-24 triumph.

Athlete of the Week

"Moose Gump" Retires

By Kyrleigh Abcam

Donald Francis Patrick McHugh, a sandy haired blue-eyed Irishman standing 6' 2" and weighing 180 lbs., has been chosen as the athlete of the week for March 22.

Known to the campus as "Butch" or "Moosegump," this athlete has a record not common to most. Graduating from Hazelton High in 1946, Butch enlisted in the army and served with occupation units for 1½ years in Korea and Japan. While stationed in Japan he began playing basketball on an army team which traveled from camp to camp playing other All-Star teams.

After his discharge from the army, Sgt. McHugh started his college career at Franklin and Marshall in Pennsylvania, playing basketball there. In September of 49, Butch transferred to the Hill. During his first year he played only basketball, but the next fall found the "Moose" using his talents as goalie for the soccer team. Butch started the basketball season, but had the misfortune to break an ankle and was forced to spend the rest of the season on crutches.

This fall Butch again played goalie for the Shore soccer team. Towards the end of the season his head (not his nose) got in the way of a Baltimore U. player's foot, causing a severe concussion. Due to the injury Butch could not finish the season, but was still picked as second string goalie on the Mason-Dixon Conference squad.

Basketball season found Butch at it again in spite of his long absence from the court.

We hear he refused to wear basketball shoes and played only in Roger Smith's saddle! However, his height was a definite advantage to the team and opponents will tell you he's a scrapper all the way.

To top off his college record, Butch was initiated by the Varsity Club in February.

So ends the college chapter of athletics for Butch. Since he is lacking three credits for June graduation he plans to finish in summer school. Good luck and good-bye, "Blue-eyes!"

DID YOU KNOW—

That Mel Morgan (Washington graduate of '51) who played for the Planning and Control Division of Glenn L. Martin, gathered 28 points in his first playoff game to aid his basketball team in winning the company cup and championship of the intramural league of the Martin plant? This earned him a position on the Martin Bomber central plant team which flew to England, Col., to play in the industrial champion team playoff series.

Visitors Will Defend Title

The 1952 edition of the Washington College tennis team opens its season this afternoon on the Somerset courts, pitted against a strong Catholic University squad which will be defending its second consecutive Mason-Dixon title.

The Shoremen are returning five lettermen which include Captain Gary Wyckoff, Bruce Wyckoff, Jack Smith, Tony Tonian and Bill Murray. Al Zaloki, sixth veteran of '51, has devoted his talents to the baseball diamond.

In addition to this, the team will be bolstered by several new aspirants including Don Marston, Don Heverly, Jerry Lambert, Henry Davis and Gentry Marston. This latter competition has exhibited fine form during pre-season practice sessions and may be the first fennel to ever gain recognition as a contender of a varsity team at Washington College.

The depth of the netmen is an advantage over previous years and the experience which Tonian and Murray gained in '51 will undoubtedly boost the Shore hopes. The "Big Five" Jack Smith, Bruce and Gary Wyckoff, are returning once again to plague opposing racquetmen, and have gained considerable prestige in the M-D field.

The Cardinals of the nation's capital city edged the 'Sho' team to a 4-1 last season in a match which ended in a next upset. Returning once again to match strokes with the Chestertown forces will be Ernest Van, Hank Freeman, Tom Browning, Jim McManis and Jack Hennessy.

The schedule:
Mar. 22—Catholic U. Home
Apr. 5—Baltimore U. Away
Apr. 5—Wilson 'T's Home
Apr. 8—Western Md. Away
April 18—Frost Meade Aray
April 22—Catholic U. Away U.
Apr. 29—Towson Away
May 3—Frost Meade Home
May 6—Loyola Home
May 10—Hopkins Home
May 11—Towson Home
May 17—Baltimore U. Home

RENNY SULLIVAN

This Southpaw Holds Key
To Diamond Hopes

As the crack of the horse hide against the hickory echoes across Kibler Field, everyone realizes that Spring is here and America's national pastime is in full swing at Washington College.

During the past two weeks, Coach Kibler's diamond aspirants have been conferring for starting positions and the spirit which prevails on the field is a sign of the Kibler teams of old. The squad is headed by five veterans: John Santilli, Al Zaloki, Kenny Sullivan, Ed Cingaglia and John Whits. Experienced operatives are not plentiful, but there is a treasury of promising new comers.

Some of these are: Dan "Tiger" Samuels, Wes Edwards, Doug Willey, Rip Sewell, Joe Gallo, Steve Mastrianni, Rod Ware, Cooper DeLoach, Ron Roanoke, Ken Howard, Phil Riggs, Paul Desmond, Steve McElroy, Gary Dayton, and Jack Palmer.

In order to produce results it is necessary for a club to have a good pitching staff and some power at the plate to back them up. At the present the pitching burden rests in the hands of veterans Sullivan, Howett, DeLoach, McElroy, Dayton and 115 mph men are in line to relieve Sullivan's load.

The "Coacmetric Clan"—Santilli, Santilli, Zaloki and Mastrianni, are being counted upon to deliver the needed punch from the batting angle. Nevertheless, Coach Kibler is still juggling the boys around in different positions and no one is sure of a starting berth until that opening game. The opener is on April 3 at Baltimore U. and the 'Sho men will be out to "King those Bees!"

Thinclads List 9 Meets

The Washington College track squad has been issued a 1952 schedule which is perhaps the toughest since that listed in 1949.

Two championship, five dual meets, plus the Penn Relay, is a fast menu for the Maroon and Black continent to digest. At present, the team is composed of only fourteen hopefuls, six of whom are veterans of last season. This latter group, consisting of Kenny Howard, George Eichelberger, Bob Appleby, Jack McCullough, Jim Taylor and Ellis Boyd, will find it necessary to double up in the dual meet competition and in some cases run three events.

However, Coach Howie Nesbitt is looking to the new men for the much needed support. Headed by Mike Rossi and Wayne Grunich, this group includes Dave Dougherty, John Murack, Keith Myers, Manuel Crespo, Joe Jockelyn, Leonard Duff and Bob Hollander.

Low Blizard, who threw the shot and discus, plus Jim Twitty, Mason Dixon 440 yd. champion, will be sorely missed this season. The first meet of the '52 campaign pits the Shore thinclads against Towson in Baltimore, April 1.

The following Saturday, April 5, the Shoremen meet a strong Baltimore Olympic Club squad on Kibler Field, which boasts two former Morgan State College stars, Lester Scott and Sam LaBach. Coach Nesbitt refused to go out on the limb in any prediction, but stated, "We won't win them all, but we'll be trying mighty hard to."

Summer Session Program Published

Washington College will again conduct a summer session for a six week period, extending from June 16 to July 25. Those registering will be permitted to take a maximum of two courses and may earn six to eight credit hours. The charge will be $12 per semester hour.

Providing there is sufficient demand, the dormitories and the dining hall will be open to students, with a charge of $25 for room and $70 for board.

The curriculum will be set up according to the demands of the registrants, and no course will be offered to fewer than ten students. Also, if ten or more persons request a particular subject, the college will attempt to provide an instructor. Students are asked to indicate their choices of subjects no later than May 1.

The present summer school program includes the following courses:

State To Offer Placement Test

Opportunity is offered to students from all four classes to take a battery of vocational tests, Thursday, April 3rd, at Washington College. The tests will be administered by Dr. Clara Banos and Mr. Stewart of the Department of Employment Security, Employment Service.

Dr. Banos and Mr. Stewart will hold interviews with individual students, Friday, April 4, to explain the test results and to interview for positions.

This service should be of particular value to seniors who have not secured employment for the coming year and who are interested in having their names under consideration for employment with the State of Maryland Employment Service Division. Students who may have taken the tests last year may also register for the tests.

If you plan to take these tests, register in Dean Livingston's office by noon, Saturday, March 29th.

Science Society Makes D. C. Trip

On Wednesday, March 19, twenty-four members of the Science Club took the second of their semi-annual observation trips, this time to Washington, D. C.

With their advisor, Dr. Rizer, the students went on a tour through the Bureau of Standards and then proceeded on to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology. As a special feature, the members viewed the specimens upon which the late Dr. Hardcastle had done work. These were exhibited in the Pathological Institute.

Last semester, members of the Science Club journeyed to Marzen Hook Sun Oil Refinery and to the American Viscose Corporation.

Next week there will be an important meeting of the Science Club to discuss plans for their annual exhibit. Plans for a banquet will also be discussed.

NEWS in brief

THREE NEW MEMBERS WERE recently inducted into Omicron Delta Kappa Honorary Fraternity. They were James Harbel, a member of the Senior Class, John Crim, and Bill Treuth, both members of the Junior Class.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE is currently in the process of an extended Student Procurement Program, in an effort to stimulate interest among graduating students from the high schools in the neighboring areas. Students working actively in this project are James Harbel, Tison H. Lowe, and Beate McKie.

"ON THE ROAD" FOR THE first time, the Washington Players repeated their production held here Thursday night, for Rock Hall High School. The presentation took place in the Rock Hall Auditorium at 10:00 a. m., Friday morning. This same show will be repeated again

Monday afternoon in William Smith Hall for the Women's League of Washington College.

Dulles Successor Found On Campus State Department Announces

By ARTHUR CROCK

A nation-wide search to replace the able negotiator, John Foster Dulles, whose resignation was accepted by President Truman this week, has ended on the Washington College campus. State Department officials announced that the appointment would be given to "Mr. E.A." whose identity must remain such in the press due to security reasons.

Selection of "Mr. E.A." for the post was prompted by his international fame as an expert in foreign affairs and his ability to negotiate. He has had a great deal of experience here on the campus also, giving talks to students of Foreign Affairs on remedies for the present world situation.

The new appointee will assume his duties immediately and will act for the present time as special advisor to the Korean peace negotiators. It is hoped by the national administration that his skill will lead to world peace in a very short time.

Mr. "E.A.", when told of the appointment made the following statement, "I am happy to receive the honor which has been bestowed upon me and it is my earnest hope that I may come to something." He also stated that if it was possible he would make use of all technical treaty making knowledge acquired here on campus with the proper credit given to those who had helped him.

It has been said, by numerous authors and political theorists, that the key to world problems lies within the grasp of "Mr. E.A." It is a known fact that he has at his disposal a vast library of facts concerning the present situation and that with the aid of these carefully accumulated papers he will be an asset to the Peace Talks.

Because of the high honor bestowed upon one of its members, the college has agreed to allow "Mr. E.A." an extended leave of absence for the next term, with the stipulation, of course, that he must pay over for the rest of this present term. The new negotiator has not announced, however, any plans he has made for his departure.

-- Society Stuff --

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Henry of Washington, D.C. have announced the engagement of their son, Mr. Jack W. Henry, Jr. to Miss Margaret Truman of the District. Mr. Henry is a part time lecturer on politics at Washington College and an amateur curtain puller for a theatrical group in Chestertown. Miss Truman is the daughter of some minor politician in Washington. It is believed that the Truman wealth is actually founded on Mr. Truman's part time occupation as official piano player at district weddings and wakes.

Lawmakers Ask 93.5% Be Relegated To Re-Establish College Eleven

IN A SURPRISE MOVE, THE MARYLAND LEGISLATURE UNANIMOUSLY VOTED TO SPEND $20 MILLION DOLLARS TO "IMPROVE THE PHYSICAL PLANT AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE IN CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND." Acting on the advice of Strait A. Fish, prexy of the state institution at College Park, Md., the legislative assembly in its last meeting of the current session voted last night to appropriate twenty million dollars for the improvement of Washington College. Senator I.M.A. Gen. of Kent County, was interviewed by this reporter after the close of the proceedings and announced that the money would be used, among other things, for the following projects:

Mr. Strait Fish argues on the floor of the Maryland Assembly as his wife stands by giving him aid. His powerful oratory was a boon to Washington College.

- 1) Complete raising of all college buildings.
- 2) Commissioning of Frank Lloyd Wright to design a completely new physical plant for said college.
- 3) Raising professors' salaries to minimum of $600 per annum to guarantee the best possible faculty.
- 4) Reinstating football at the Shore school (approximately 93.5% of the total appropriation) and the building of a stadium capable of holding at least 728,000 men, women and dogs.

Straight Arrow Fish, who has been president of the College Park School for the past several years and who has been rumored to be seeking the office of internal revenue collector for the city of Still Pond, in a dramatic scene last night, burst into the hallowed hall at Annapolis where the Assembly was meeting and demanded the floor. Naturally he got it, and after he sold the lumber to the Nuttle Lumber Co., he proceeded to convince the august body for his March 7th bid was ridiculous for the State of Maryland to permit a school of less than a thousand students to exist within its boundaries. He said many other things but we were unable to hear what they were over the cheers of the audience.

In an interview early this morning in the men's room of the "S.S. Governor Nice", Straight Arrow told us that he was really doing this in honor of his mother who was a Fierce of Chestertown.

We regret that we have been unable to get a statement from Dr. Gibson, president of W.C. regarding this momentous news. It seems that he was so overjoyed at the appropriation that he celebrated by jumping off the Chester River Bridge. We have not been able to locate him since then.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Who Will Win?

S.S.O. Raffles 1951 Chrysler

Sigma Sigma Omicron, local honor fraternity for those who get something out of what they read, has announced that they will raffie off a 1951 Windsor Chrysler sedan. The raffie is for the benefit of the members who wish to have refreshments at their meetings in the future.

The car to be raffied, which is pictured here, was procured by one of the members of the organization of a side street in Baltimore where it was parked. It has been announced by the group that the winner will be responsible for selecting a new serial number for the motor, as the original was chipped during the transportation of the vehicle to Chestertown.

Chances are being sold by S.S.O. for $20.00 per ticket. It is hoped that they will gain enough for their treasury to have at least one good "blowout" before the spring term ends. The drawing will be held in the near future—or as soon as the organization has made a satisfactory amount of money.

For those students who are interested in seeing the car, S.S.O. has entrusted it to the care of the night watchman who has it on display in the parking lot behind Hodson Hall.

Here I sit and fess and fret

While my seat is getting wet,
It's enough to make me fume
Teacher can't I leave the room?

Why delay me when you know,
That I simply have to go
Really, teacher, I'm not feigning,
My car top's down, and it's raining!

West Hall Gets More

Despite the fact that within the last several years West Hall has received all of the appropriation money that has been given to the school, they have again taken the first place by the announcement of a swimming pool and stinkier to be erected on the roof. Plans have also been made to employ Coney models as lifeguards.

This will be the latest improvement for the dormitories which now houses approximately seven students. With the best intention it will be remembered that television sets and maid service were given to every room. Presumably all-nighters have gone to complete recreation such as new furniture, file folders and showers for every room.

The cost of living in the dorm has risen to $5.00 per week over the usual $2.00. This rise was explained as aid for salaries for the new lifeguards.

All male students who wish to apply for a room in this hall next term should see the registrar at once at they are in great demand.

Dangerous Criminal

In The Vicinity

Citizens of Kent County and students of Washington College in particular have been warned by the Maryland State Police that "Charlie, the Dean", notorious, over-the-hill gambler and looker is in the vicinity. Rumored it is rumored that this mysterious man is a key figure in that worldwide syndicate, O.B.K. As a public service we are printing a picture of "The Dean". This man is dangerous and is usually armed with a weird looking club with a net on the end, presumably for collecting victim's valuables.

Tom Hederman Stars In—Basketball

Tom came to my house, he was feeling bad. So I said to him, "Tell me your troubles lad."

"Well," said he, "I'd like to play some basketball, But everyone says you've got to be tall!"

"Oh, how I love that sport, But they all say that I'm too short!"

The boy was in a terrible plight, Why he couldn't even sleep at night.

So I told him, "Don't cry and shout, Because there's still one way out."

He jumped up with zip and zing, And then exclaimed, "I'll do anything!"

So I said, "There is no law, That says I can't put you inside the ball!"

He stammered and stuttered and mumbled a bit, Then exclaimed, "Do you think I'll fit it!"

"If you're inside the ball, my boy, and the ball is in the game, You can help our team win, and gain lots of fame."

So I stuffed him inside the bladder, You should have heard him curse and chatter!

There he was sewed up inside, Oh, what a hell of a place to hide!

In the middle of the court he heard a call, It was the referee shouting, "Let's play ball!"

"This ball feels awfully heavy," complained our boy Nick, And then a voice within yelled, "Shut up you Haadton hick!"

The ball was tossed from goal to goal, with accuracy and speed, As the Sherermen had no trouble jumping to the lead.

The opponents' shots went everywhere, and many hit the wall, And no one ever guessed that Tom was in the ball.

We won the game by a 32-0 score, And the only thing that Tom could say was, "Gee, am I sore!"

And now you have the story of, a team that was held to zero, And of a little man, who became an unsung hero!

The International Nine

Because of its International nature, the Washington College basketball team takes this year to a new look. The delegates from Strasbourg—Maurice, Santilli and Magliocchi—are matching wits with the delegates from the Prague—Zalinski, and the delegates from the East—Lies—McClure and Sullivan. They are, at this writing at this end, sure they have yet to devise an international code of signals to be used in their forthcoming games.

Once this hurdle has been overcome, it is felt that the team will cooperate with official sanction with the United Nations in carrying out its mission.

In Hudson Hall today, the Security Council, composed of delegates from the three missions, met over a table of spaghetti, mulligan and sausage. The outcome of the meeting is pending, but well informed sources say that Eleanor Roosevelt, Chesterdown garage collector, will be chosen as Secretary General of the group in act as moderator.

In the meantime, the remainder of the diamond handlers are working furiously to whip up some sort of team to put on the field for the forthcoming game with the Mean Curriers Institute of East Orange, Shouli negrita, now fall in the Security Council, now in session in Hudson Hall, the team is on its own without the assistance of the International Squad.

Word has just come in that Coach Kibler has called up Eleanor Roosevelt, notable globe trotter, to assure up what forces she can to offset the loss of the Internationals. She has informed Kibler that there is no for the current state in India she would possibly be able to command at least fifteen thousand Sheep Dogs. However, she stated, "My day is a busy one. I feel unable at this time to bring all these dogs to the United States and on to Chesterdown, nor because of diplomatic relations between the U.S. and India, but because of the difficulty in the bureaucracy in the gold standard in the U.S. and Chesterdown."

Be what it may, Coach Kibler did not realize the importance of Mrs. Affairs and the effect upon his Maroon and Black Hall banners.

In summarizing his short quotation, Col. Kibler avowed us that if the current state in the Security Council can be liquidated and an international set of base cranking rules can be formulated, thereby releasing such stellar performers as Romeo, Maurician, Zalinski, Santilli, Magliocchi, Sullivan and McHale, the Washington College Star will be able to the diamond and forbid any influence of either Eleanor Roosevelt or any other sheep dog, the gold standard being in it is between the U.S. and Chesterdown.

Athlete of the Week

The Athlete pictured above (holding his javelin) is commonly known around campus as "Tom Balamon" up when the boys get mad at him, they call him many names as "Tom Hederman" or "Heir".

Tom used to be the man they shot out of the cannon at the circus but he quit that job as he always missed the net and landed in the horse manure! (A fitting place for him).

Not only an all-conference choice in football, basketball, marbles, squash, pocket pool, and softball, this muscular specimen also excels in spit ball shooting. His ambition is to be a movie critic, and he is majoring in that subject here at Dumbshot University.

One day two Balamons brought a pet skunk into his room which he caught hiding in the oven in Hudson Hall. "Where did you guys keep him?" questioned Santilli, his roommate. "In my oven, under the bed," replied Tom. Such exclaimed, "Migawo! What about the snail?" "He'll just have to get used to it like we did," replied Tom Balamon.

Eck King Slews Sioux

Before assuming his duties as director of the Youth Brigade for the Sioux Resistance Movement, Eck King, with the able assistance of Jack Armstrong, led the Washington Cezare men to victory this past Saturday over the Sioux Indian Lacrosse Club of Sioux City, Iowa.

Showing excellent form and demonstrating stellar sportsmanship, Eck King did as he said he would, he "helped lead the Redskins at their own game." Armstrong, fourth string defenseman on Coach Al Hart's lacrosse squad, lent able assistance to bring the crew out on top.

However, other members of the team are not to go unmentioned. "Pafefee" Bonnet, at the end of his last game for the Shonens said, "Mamaas . . . after we scored our 35th goal, I knew we would win!" Bearpaw Bonnet, upon being asked to comment on the play of the day, said, "McGrady passed me in the first quarter, causing me to delay a wonderful shot. Otherwise, I had a good day."

Balamon had's stabbed me in the eye with his nose," declared "Dinky" McGrady, "I would have scored myself."

Except for these little incidents of common occurrence, the boys did a wonderful job. "Buddies" Brumstein, with his pink pants, had all the girls in a whirl. Coach "Coaches" Clark, up and coming Freshman manager, did a fine job also—through his able assistance in chasing lefts and handling on the water buckets. And don't forget the exceptional performance of Rags "The Travelers" Deems. Were it not for his great exhibition of skill, Eck King would have been stumped.

Thanks and appreciation were given by Father Carlson, Chaplain and Spiritual Director of the squad. The last comment as the warriors left the field was made by that intellectual athlete, "Mumbles" Hesse who exclaimed, "Boy, does my kin go sweat! Hoveh Dood!"

Birds Play Tennis!

Athey Leaves For Africa

When Coach Horrie Nesbitt committed suicide, (after finding out that his track team hadn't received an invitation to the Banana Relays) Coach Athey took all his athletic supporters and journeyed to Africa looking for a glissade to replace Jack Smith on the 1953 basketball squad.

Meanwhile, Bud Hubbard was appointed as Director of Athletics here at Washington University. Coach Hubbard immediately revised a few of the rules of the department which included:

1. All gym classes are to be held in "Bully Place." Exercises will include elbow bends and chin lifting.
2. Hemlocks, gamblers, and cheats are ineligible for all sports.
3. Intramural basketball will be replaced by a chugging contest.
4. Strike out rule 2. We may field team.
5. I hope of rain, all athletes will adjourn to the highway for "Skull talks."
6. All athletes with an index below 500 will be suspended from the team for 25 hours.
7. "Pop" calls will be given by the "Boys," Mummy, Nose, and Jack.

Russians Win Track Meet

Coach Horrie Nesbitt, graduate of Moscow University, was asked to return to his native land by one of his former track brothers (Stinky Stalin) and bring his lacrosse squad from Wash-U-Never Entered College. Events were to include grenade throwing, back stabbing, mine vaulting, and vodka drinking.

However, Coach Nesbitt (McKuska gin rummy player) persuaded Coach Stalin to compete in our events, only after we promised to stop sending the Russians food from Hudson Hall. So the team embarked on the U.S.S. Concomit Banana Boat for Moscow.

Several All-American athletes who accompanied the team on their trip were: Minnie Kinn, former champion pole vault expert; Dr. Dan Gibson, pole vault champ of Alcatraz in 1939; Black "Jack" Heavy, former parachute jumper of Banana and Bailey cruises; and Amards Bradley, Jody wrestler and weightlifter of the 1932 Olympics.

When our team reached the Red shore, they were promptly welcomed by anti-American Red. Nevertheless, they made it to the stadium safely and donned their uniforms for the big meet. The Russians lined up for the hundred yard dash and our team put on bullet proof vests after seeing the Russian states with a gun.

After eluding two tanks and a low flying jet, Kenny Howard cut through the "Red" tape to score a victory. Mike Ross, one of the visiting team's strongest athletic supporters, won by a stretch in the mile run. He was then presented with the "Red" banana of the day award.

Elb Boudokli, after getting caught in the first hurdle, eluded the Russian guards and flew to victory. Georgey Fackelberger, employed the Russian spartanisms with his nose and won by the tail of his "Red" underwear. Jack McCollough, one too mile hope, was caught in the Russian "Red" tape and only after a last call to the American Embassy was able to participate. McCollough won and added more points to the American cause.

At the conclusion of the meet, Coach Nesbitt exclaimed, "We don't win this meet. I'll eat Eisenhower's 'Red' underwear!" Soon the serge was released (on the Russian adding machines) and the final score read, Russia 3-0. As the beat sailed for the American shore, Nesbitt's final words were, "This underwear sure better than anything I've ever eaten at Hudson Hall!"

Dr. B Bows Out

The madman of Somerset Hall, Mr. Edward Schiman Brubaker, musician, critic, author, actor, scenarist, painter, sculptor, choreographer, ballad singer, basket weaver, "Man of Distinction" contributor to the Reader's Digest and would-be teacher, has announced that he must leave W.C. at the end of this semester to appear next fall in the title role of "The Theatre Guild's production of 'Hamlet'." When asked how he felt about leaving here so honored, Mr. Brubaker replied: "Ooh, this is simply too grand for words. I am going to get $7777.77 per week and all the car polish I can use." After some persuasion he finally agreed to give us a sample of his portrayal of the immortal prince and we found it hard to restrain our emotions when we heard those sweet words:

I will be master of what is mine own;

She is my goods, my chattels; she is my house,
My household stuff, my field, my barn,
My horse, my ox, my ass, my any thing;
And here she stands, touch her wherever thou dost.

Ah, they were spoken like a true king. I find it hard to say how much we will miss Mr. Brubaker (or even kings, if we should), but we still wish him luck in his new job. Maybe some day he will achieve the heights reached by that other great Shakespearean, Audie Murphy.

I SAY!

I say, I say, we're out to win.
We'll sweat that ball through thick and thin.

I say you've got to sweat that ball,
And then you've got to slide,
not fall!

I say, I say don't wait till May.
To sweat that ball in a big league way.

We'll try to win each and every day.
Why?

Because I say—I say, I say!

IN MEMORIAM

In the thirties, Jim Thorpe bowed out, causing a great loss to International Sport circles. Later, the New York Yankees lost Lou Gehrig, the king of the first sackers. Red Grange grew too old for gridiron, and sports-minded folks the world over felt the loss to the all American game of football. Sea Biscuit, the derby king, died and sports enthusiasts felt that all was over in the harness game. These losses and many more, were felt by the people of the world. But the loss of which I write at this time has a most peculiar interest to the students and faculty of Washington College.

That notable run-runner, that bombastic "generator" of goodwill, the spark in the "generational" of Washington's harness team, that idol of all fair basins whose buxom lips has caressed a million fillics, Herman K. Scherman has left us. He has departed from us in order to utilize his many athletic talents in the Scottish Highlander's Fife and Drum Corps, by appointment of the Queen, Her Most British Majesty, Elizabeth. Herman will be at home, we know, in the fields of leather and violet.

NEWS in brief

Club 87 has announced that it will inaugurate its annual drive for funds today. Miss Jan Hannon, who is president pro-tem of the organization, urged students to cooperate to their fullest extent because of the dire need for appropriations with the book beer cessus in full swing.

In conformity with health rules set up by the state of Maryland, a nutrition board to act in an advisory capacity for Haddon Hall has been set up by the administration. New members were drawn from the Chestertown area and include "Bud" and "Eddie". Acting in a special capacity as chief chef for pickled sausage and beverages is "Gibby".

In a recent bulletin received by the Forensic Society in regard to their forthcoming convention, it was announced that all of the candidates for the elephant ticket would appear here to put in an extra plug for themselves. A special train will bring the personalities to the local pickle factory where they will be met by a student delegation.

The Constitutional Law class that is held here at Washington College has been called in by the Supreme Court to take over the bench during a spring recess by the regular justices. It is hoped by the class, that no case comes up!

Inmates of Reid Hall have been informed that due to the spring

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

Coach Kibler Appointed Assistant To President

J. Thomas Kibler, "Mr. Washington College" to hundreds of alumni and friends of the Eastern Shore school, has been named assistant to the president of the college. Appointment to the full-time administrative post was made Saturday by the Board of Visitors and Governors to become effective July 1, 1952.

Kibler, who was athletic director at Washington College for 35 years prior to his retirement in 1947, returned to the campus this spring to revive baseball. In his new capacity he will continue to supervise the diamond sport with Ed Athey as his assistant but will devote most of his time to public relation activities.

John Thomas Kibler was born on July 17, 1886, in Queen Anne's County, near Chestertown. He attended public school in Chestertown and, later, Temple University and Yale University.

He began a college coaching career in 1908, was at Lehigh University in 1908-09 and at Ohio State University 1909-12, inclusive. He returned to the Eastern Shore as athletic director and coach of all sports in 1913. His service from that date until 1947 was interrupted only for participation in two World Wars.

He played professional basketball in the old Eastern League and was in professional baseball as a player from 1909 until 1916. During that time he played in the Ohio State, Texas, New York State, Pacific Coast and International Leagues. He was owned by two major league clubs but never played in the big time. He was purchased by the Chicago White Sox in 1910 but sent to San Francisco, was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds in 1914, but a broken leg kept him from reporting.

Kibler was president of the Eastern Shore League of Professional Baseball Clubs, Class D, in 1937 and again in 1946 and 1947. He scouted the Del-Mar-Va. Peninsula for the Boston Braves in 1949-50 and in 1951 shifted to the Phillies in a similar capacity.

He was the first president of the Mason-Dixon Collegiate Conference, an outgrowth of the old Maryland Intercollegiate Basketball League, which he also headed.

He was Washington College's first Dean of Men, holding that post in 1946 and 1947. He is a Mason and

Gustafson And Dryden Will Co-Star In Spring Comedy "My Sister Eileen"

Elinor Gustafson and Eleanor Dryden

co-stars in spring comedy

As their annual spring comedy, The Washington Players will present what critics have called "fabulously funny" "My Sister Eileen." The presentation will be held in William Smith Auditorium Thursday and Friday, May first and second. The curtain will go up at 8:30.

Leading the cast as co-stars are Elinor Gustafson, an Eileen and last year's Oscar winner, Eleanor Dryden, who plays the part of her sister, Ruth. The entire story centers around the adventures of the two girls as they try to break into the professional world in New York.

The entire cast of the production numbers twenty-seven speaking parts and numerous walk-ons. As is the tradition, the spring comedy usually carries the largest cast. The play is being directed by veteran Players, Helen Roe and Phyllis Seitz. Both girls have been active in the production during their four years here at the college.

Acting in an advisory capacity is Mr. Edward Brubaker, professor of English. He has taken over the duties of the group's regular adviser, Mrs. E. Winfield Capen, who has been out of school due to a broken hip.

Tickets for students will go on sale in the Snack Bar the beginning of next week. The price has been lowered to $.80 for all reserved seats. There will be no general admission tickets. For the benefit of those who do not secure their tickets beforehand, the box office will open at 7:45 each night before the play where other tickets will be available.

The play itself, as mentioned before, revolves around life in a basement apartment in Greenwich Village. Ruth and Eileen Sherwood, typical of the numerous girls who go to New York to break into the professional world, and their comic acquaintances made in the village provide the comedy for the story.

The show was written by Joseph Fields and Jerome, based on the stories of Ruth McKenney. Critics have called the Broadway show "one of the funniest" and rate it as top entertainment.

Fans are also in the making for an elaborate set, the stage manager "Dutch" Spaulde has announced. The audience will be able to get a good idea of what life is like in a basement apartment where a busy sidewalk is the only place for a window.

This production is the final presentation for the Players 1951-52 season. So far this year they have presented a drama "The Glass Menagerie" and a special assembly on the History of Drama. The traditional Oscar Awards for the best male and female performers will be given at the annual banquet to be held sometime in May.

To Make Award

Fans are being made by ODK to present activities awards to students for outstanding work in extracurricular activities during their college years.

All senior students who feel qualified to receive this award should submit an application stating their activities to ODK.

These awards consisting of a certificate and a charm which may be purchased.

Alpha Chi's Elect Meyer

Marlene Meyer, junior, was installed as president of Beta Pi chapter of Alpha Chi Omega following her election to the post on Monday, April seventh. She succeeds to the top office, Phyllis Seitz, who will graduate in June.

Other newly elected officers are Janice Palmer, vice-president, Dot Willis, secretary, and Barbara A. Jones as treasurer.

Marlene served as vice-president of the group for 1951-52. She was also the sorority delegate to the national convention of Alpha Chi Omega which was held last summer in Roanoke, Va. She was Homecoming Queen in 1950, a member of the science club and a member of the Pan Hellenic Council.

Outgoing officers for the group include, Phyllis Seitz, Marlene Meyer, Mickey Ross and Peggy Featherer.

Disciplinary Board Has Equal Representation

Following recommendations on the part of the administration and the faculty here at Washington College, the Student-Faculty Committee on Discipline has been enlarged to give students and faculty an equal representation. The announcement was made by Dr. Gibson, following a meeting of prospective members of the new board.

The new system will work on the rotation basis. There will be a permanent board of seven members, five faculty, and two students, one being the president of ODK and the other a junior selected by that group. The remaining three students will come from a selected group of twenty-six students and will rotate in their positions as the board is called to meet. The new board will then be composed of ten members rather than the original seven.

Students who have been selected by the administration to serve on the rotation committee are Bruce McKie, Bill Treath, Bob Appleby, John Grimm, Wesley Edwards, Michael Borer, Richard Skipp, Ellsworth Boyd, Frank Dickey, Thomas Holliman, Fred Miltenberger, Lawrence Wedekind, William Barnett, John Berens, Cooper DeLoach, Ed Hogarth, Ted Ichowski, Jane Bradley, Elinor Dryden, Pat Neuhoff, Janice Fahner, Dot Willis, Martha Goldsborough, Barbara Townsend, Donna Turner and Joanne Cusack.

This group includes nine sophomores (1952-53) eight juniors and nine seniors. The permanent board to date includes Dr. Charles B. Clark, chairman, Dr. Berkeley, Dr. Penn, Mr. Athey, Miss Bradley, Bernice Kudo and Jane Bradley.

NOTE

All petitions for officers of the various classes must be in to ODK by Tuesday, April 29. Any names coming in after this will not be considered eligible for class office.

TAKE NOTE!

Daylight Saving Time begins Sunday, April 27. Set your watches and clocks up one hour. The new time begins Sunday morning at 2:00 a. m.

ON ELECTIONS

As far as most of the fraternities are concerned, this reminder is a little late, but we recommend that you to whom our advice applies pay heed.

Between now and the end of the school year most of the extra curricular outflits on campus will be occupied with choosing officers for the coming year. These events, notably the class elections, generally disintegrate into popularity contests. This, in our opinion, is bad. Having achieved the remarkable status of being brilliant up-perclass philosophers, we feel justified in saying that officers who are elected on a popularity basis alone usually serve just about as efficiently as a smiling picture placed on a bureau top.

Any officer who performs his duties efficiently and keeps the organization active and its members interested will be in for a devil of a lot of extra work. This is an inescapable fact. And if the officers aren't willing to assume these extra chores, the organization will disintegrate.

When elections take place in your club or class, take time to pick out those eligible persons who have gone out of their way during the year to perform extra duties, those who have volunteered to be on the various committees, those who have come up with constructive ideas at the meetings. They are officer material.

Society Of Sciences Exhibit Features Plaque Award

The sixth annual Science Exhibit, sponsored by the Society of Sciences, was presented on April 24, 1952, in Donning Hall. The exhibit was the major Spring project of the Society and was planned through the cooperation of the members of all the branches of scientific study at college.

The exhibits and demonstrations represented the five scientific fields of chemistry, biology, physics, psychology, and mathematics. The chemistry of the body and a nylon exhibit were the chief contributions of the chemistry department and were planned by Bill Phillips and Cy Rollins. The biological subjects, arranged by Bob Stuch, included a cancer exhibit, diet deficiency, blood typing, and tests for anemia. Among the mathematical problems set up by Betty Brundage was an attempt to prove that "2 equals 1." The psychology department presented tests and projects planned by the psychology students, and Helen Roe was in charge of this phase of the exhibits. The demonstrations of various physical phenomena were arranged by Gary Seach and Sid Rizer. The main speaker for the occasion was Dr. John Hall Moss, geologist at Franklin and Marshall College. Dr. Moss' talk was entitled "Geological Explorations in the Bridger Wilderness in Wyoming" and was illustrated with slides on the subject.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of the A. B. Haiskade memorial plaque by Elmer Gustafson, President of the Society of Sciences, to Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson. The plaque will be mounted in Donning Hall in memory of Dr. Haiskade, who was head of the Biology Department for twenty years before his death last year.

Rounding out entertainment, two movies were presented. One was a Dopog film entitled "The Story of Research," and the second was a General Electric presentation called "The Power by Which We Live."

AOPi's Initiate Five Pledges

Alpha Omicron Pi sorority celebrated the initiation of five new members and two honorary members with a luncheon at the Knott House last Sunday, April 20, 1952. The dinner was presided over by Lyn White, new President of the group.

The five initiates, who were taken into the sorority on April 16th during the Spring holidays, are Martha Galt, Jeannette Galt, Terry Knill, Helen Michel, and Sue Samuels. At the banquet, Sue Samuels was presented with a bracelet for being the best pledge, and Jane Galt was given a new pin for her work as a pledge.

The two honorary members are the wives of faculty professors, Mrs. Howard Barnett and Mrs. Edward Athey.

The first project of the sorority with its new members is an open house to be presented this Sunday, April 27th, in the sorority room. It is being given for members of the faculty, AOPi alumnae, and partrunesses.

From 1920 until 1951 he was associated with the firm of C. W. Kibler & Sons, Inc., a large grain firm on the Eastern Shore. He entered the field of politics in 1950 and was elected to the Board of County Commissioners for Kent County on the Democratic ticket.

He has twice been president of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club and twice Commander of the Frank M. Jarnon Post, American Legion.

Senior Of . . . ... The Week

Although we usually leave our sports stars to the sports page of THE ELM, we couldn't quite find the heart to pass up Mr. Ken Sullivan, also known as "Hilly," "Sully," and chief heart-throb of the freshman girls each September. So, a brief run-down on Mr. Sullivan's four year record at Washington College is in order.

Kenney came down to Chestertown from the Boston with basketball and baseball daicing in his brain and took it from there. He has played both sports for the last four years and very successful. This year he was co-captain of the basketball team and captain of the baseball boys. A hand has taken him out of the spring line-up for the test of the year, however.

He was initiated into the Varsity Club his sophomore year and has served as secretary of the group. He was also a member of the Newman Club. His residence, along with most of the athletes, is the Theta Chi House.

Sully's favorite activity for the present year has been as one of the "agitators." This, besides his sports activities, has kept him pretty busy most of the year. He has a cup of coffee.

After graduation this June, Sully, with his best pal, Nick, will go in the United States Marine Corps Officers' Candidate School in Quantico. May we take this opportunity to wish our favorite Irishman with the Brooklyn accent the very best of luck.

Dot Willis Heads F.T.A.

Dorothy Willis, sophomore, has been elected president of the Washington College chapter of the Future Teachers of America. She will succeed Jim Truder in her new position.

Miss Willis was also selected to represent the group in the annual F.T.A. convention to be held this month. She will also be a speaker at Hood College in Frederick, Maryland. At the convention her name will be placed on an election slate for the office of secretary of the state F.T.A.

The Future Teachers of America, a group designed for those students interested in the education field, the organization has been particularly active on this campus.

He attended Officers Training Camp when the United States entered the first World War. He went to France with the 23rd Infantry, 2nd Division, and was one of nine officers of an original company of the 1st Cavalry. He was twice wounded, once gassed and received the Distinguished Service Cross, Purple Heart, Silver Star and Croix de Guerre. He attained the rank of Captain.

After a half year in World War II, as a Lieutenant Colonel, he was executive officer at Camp Pickett where approximately 70,000 troops were constantly in training.

PRESSBOX SENTIMENT

When the Baltimore Orioles fell into a slump in the International League last year, and faced what seemed like incessant defeat, the bleachers and grandstand seats were abandoned.

When the Baltimore Bullets lost several hard-fought skirmishes to the weaker teams of the N.B.A., the fans deserted the coliseum and sought entertainment elsewhere.

And when the professional ice hockey team disbanded and then the Colt football squad was rejected, one of the major reasons being that of spectator interest, the fans demanded to know why their city couldn't hold on to its professional athletics.

This was common place not only in Baltimore, but in many other cities and towns of the U. S. It is only human nature to become disinterested when your team isn't on top. It is only normal to desert the bleachers when your team falls in the conference standings.

But—why not give the teams here at Washington College a chance? When the baseball squad opened its season at home against West Chester, fifty per cent of the rooters were from town. After the track team dropped its first major dual meet to the Baltimore Olympic Club, a majority of the fans attending the next meet were from the opposing school.

The only sizable crowd of the spring sporting season appeared at the Harvard lacrosse game. Many of these sport enthusiasts graced Kibler Field with their presence only because they had never seen a lacrosse game or because they wanted to "see what the Harvard boys looked like!" As for tennis, the crowd dwindled after several singles matches and many stopped on their way to Hodson Hall for a quick glance at the netmen.

The spirit on the hill has undoubtedly diminished since "the days of old." What good are the teams if the students don't support them? To give the participants exercise?

Although the game may begin while you are in class, it will not terminate before you are dismissed from class. It sure is nice weather to go for a swim and back in the sun. But why not soak up a little of that sun out on Kibler Field watching your teams in action and perhaps cheering them on to victory.

Grantland Rice once said, "If you can't participate in sports, then be one anyway." And I say, "If you can't be an athlete, then be an athletic supporter!"

Hopkins Downed

Washington College captured its first win of the season last Tuesday by downing the Johns Hopkins baseball squad, 11:6 on the Homewood diamond.

The Shoremen generated eleven hits off of two Jay pitchers, as Cooper DeLoach batted his first collegiate win, lasting the full nine innings on the hill.

The Chestertown nine opened the game with two runs in the first inning, but the Shoremen matched this and jumped to a 4-3 lead at the end of the fourth inning. The Shoremen came from behind in the fifth frame as four men crossed the plate to give the visitors a 7-4 advantage. From that point, the Shoremen were never behind.

There were four double plays—three by Hopkins, and two agile fielding plays by the Shoremen—combination of Doug Tilley and Dan Sankle. Tilley slammed the only extra base blow for the Maroon and Black, this being a 1-2 bouncer to right field. John Wilson, Red Ware, Cooper DeLoach, John Santulli and Steve Mattianna accounted for the plate punch which upset Hopkins, by gathering two hits apiece in the 11th win.

Netmen Win Three

The Washington tennis squad, consisting of three consecutive wins, opposes Wilson State Teachers' College today on the Somerset courts.

The team has trounced Western Maryland, 6-2; Loyola, 7-2; and Baltimore, U. 9-0.

The Shoremen won 4 of 6 singles matches when it notched strokes with the Terror at Western.

These singles were captured by Bruce Wyckoff, Jack Smith, Gary Wyckoff and Tony Tontian. Smith and Wyckoff swept their matches, 6-0, 6-0. Bill Murray and Don Hively won their first matches of the early campaign and set the winning pace for the remainder of the team, as they outplayed the Loyola Greyhounds, 7-2. Bruce and Gary Wyckoff outlasted Joe Lacy and Bill Cockey in doubles to win 8-6, 4-6, 4-6.

Baltimore University furnished little opposition last Tuesday, as the Shore aggregation swept through nine matches in a record time of two hours. The Shore netters accumulated 108 games while the Bees only won 17 games during the afternoon.

Jack Smith extended his winning string to four straight victories while Bruce Wyckoff and Tony Tontian have won their last three matches.

This tennis team is one of the strongest in the school's history. This has only been achieved through the consistent playing of Bruce Wyckoff and Jack Smith; the new tennis courts; excellent coaching by Tom Eliason and the experience and high spirit of the squad.

Stickmen Rout Tarheels

Washington College stretched its victory skin to 5 in as many years, when it whipped the Tar Heel Ten of North Carolina last Friday to the tune of 15-6.

Captain Graham Menzies of the Shore outfit was personally responsible for seven goals of the fifteen scored. Attackman Larry Leonard was second high scorer for the afternoon with a total of four.

Washington College jumped to an 8-1 lead in the first quarter and was never headed from that point on. North Carolina was able to dent the sets for three goals during the second quarter, making the score 8-4 with a total of four.

The Crusaders were able to push three goals across during the third quarter while holding the Carolina Ten scoreless. Coach Charlie Clark substituted freely in the last quarter. John Grim, George Hesse, and Jack Dail, and Bob Jackson scored one apiece to account for the rest of the Washington score.

Coach Charlie Clark singled out the play of Bill Kalerneag, Freshman, and Dick Weller, on the defense, as being especially deserving of praise. Weller took up the stick game for the first time last year, and broke into the starting lineup in the Maryland Lacrosse game this season at a defense position.

Dr. C. B. Clark Heads A.A.U.P.

In recent elections for 1952-1953 the Washington College chapter of the American Association of University Professors chose Dr. Charles B. Clark for the post of President. Dr. Clark has served as Vice President for the past three years.

Other officers chosen were: Dr. George Rathpe, vice-president, and Dr. Minnie Kipp, secretary-treasurer.

Plans are being made at present for the annual banquet at Washington which will be held on Thursday, May 15, at the Granary. Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of the College, will be guest speaker. All faculty members and their wives will be invited to attend.

The local chapter of the A.A.U.P. holds bi-monthly meetings and has as its purpose the advancement of the ideas and standards of the academic profession at Washington College.

Guidance Opportunity For Interested Men

Coach Howard Nesbitt has announced an opportunity for those who are interested, to attend a Y.M.C.A. camp at Port Jervis, N. Y., this summer as guidance counselors during the months of July and August.

Mr. William Deane, Athletic Director of McBurney Boys' School of New York City, has contacted Coach Nesbitt regarding this job for any male student at Washington College

Although the Shore track squad captured nine first places out of a possible fourteen, they were outdistanced at the hands of Pennsylvania Military College last Wednesday on the winners' track.

The meet, which was carried on through intermittent rain, was highlighted by four individual wins by Kenny Howard and a new dual meet record in the discs throw which was set by big Jim Taylor. Howard bested the tape in the 100 yard dash, the 220, and the 220 yard low hurdles. He added to this a 224' broad jump to garner 29 points of the 61 point total.

Taylor hurled the disc 157' 11" to establish his new field record. George Eichelberger and Ellis Boyd accounted for two wins apiece as the former won the 410 and 880 and the latter earned firsts in the high jump and high hurdles.

Eichelberger's win in the quarter mile was one of spectacular note, as he skillfully worked out to the front after being boxed in by three P.M.C. runners at the start. Bob Appleby ran one of his best times of the season in the mile run, just breaking the five minute mark, but was edged out by Bill Smith of the Cider squad in a thrilling finish.

The Pennsylvanians collected nine points in the javelin throw, the Shoremen being unable to match the throws of the Red and White. The javelin is not thrown in the Mason-Dixon Conference. The times for the recent running events were not on a par to those run in the earlier meet, due to the rain and wind which swept the cinder path.

Greyhounds Nip Sho'men

Loyola College captured its first Mason-Dixon baseball game last Monday by setting back the Washington squad, 9 to 1.

The defending Northern Division champions took advantage of seven Sho' runners as Danny Donahue, the winning pitcher, held the losers to five singles. Johnny Santulli moved from his usual spot in the "hot corner" to start the game on the mound. He pitched a fine game, giving up only four hits in six innings, before Gary Dutton relieved him.

"Red" Schneider and Bo Kirby scored for the Hounds in the first inning as Tom Bounds overthrew the first rack. The Shoremen, gunning for their first win after two actual shutouts, started in their half of the first frame by placing Ken Howard on third with only one out.

However, the Baltimore team performed a quick double play as Don Pearson and Mel Wright quelled the Washington rally, Loyola led 5-0 at the end of the fourth inning, each run due to a miscue.

Bo Kirby scored in the fifth inning after slanking a triple to center field. From this point, the Greyhounds coated to their win. Red Ware was walked in during the sixth. Doug Tilley sacrificed him to third base and Ware then stole home to give the only run of the afternoon for the Maroon and Black.

John Wilson, John Minnich, Wes Edwards, Santulli and Willy connected for runs made by the Shoremen in the game.

who may be interested. The work will be with boys 8 to 12 years in one camp or three 12 to 16 in another.

This offers an excellent opportunity for anyone majoring in physical education or those interested in coaching team sports. For further information, please contact Coach Nesbitt.

Clarkmen Bow, 6-3

The Washington College Lacrosse Team made a valiant try for victory last Saturday afternoon at Durham, N. C., but finally wound up on the short end of a 6 to 3 score. The game, which was closely contested throughout, was knotted 2-2 at halftime.

Freshman Ken Wilson of Duke was successful in putting one past Bill Russell, the Shore goalie, less than a minute after the start of the ball game. Washington College soon retaliated and evened the score at oneap, through a tally by Creamcup Bobby Lipitz. This was soon followed by a hard shot from the mid-field by Bob Jackson, who put the Shoremen in the lead, 2-1.

Brooke Cottman, Duke attackman, scored for the Blue Devils in the second quarter. Neither squad was able to score from this point on, and the score was tied at halftime, 2-2. Duke took the score in the third quarter on goals by Dan Peacock and Al Lynch. The score going into the fourth quarter was 4-2, Duke on top. Bob Jackson came through in the fourth quarter for another goal, making the score 4-3. Duke, however, put the game away with score by Jim Whitescarver, attackman, and Peacock.

Especially gratifying in the game was the showing that Jackson made at the midfield, beating out Coach Charlie Clark's strategy of moving Jackson up to increase the scoring punch of the squad.

The team will act action today when they face the powerful nicknamed Mount Washington Wolfpack at Mount Washington, in Baltimore.

Enter Penn Relays

Once again the Washington College thinclads will be represented in the annual relay carnival at the University of Pennsylvania on April 25-26. After a one year lull, in which the team journeyed to the Baltimore Relays, the one mile relay team will compete in the Middle Atlantic States mile relay on Saturday, the 26th.

Over three thousand athletes are expected to compete in the two day affair, which will include many of the top runners of the country and Olympic prospects.

Howard, Eichelberger, McCullough and Boyd will represent the Shoremen in the relay which includes over twenty teams from Middle Atlantic Amateur Athletic Association of the United States.

Robinson To Direct Publicity

The establishment of a Publicity Office for Washington College has been announced by Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, president. Spencer Robinson, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, has been named as director and will handle all publicity releases about the college.

In an interview for the ELM, Mr. Robinson stated that the aim of the office would be "to keep the public informed about what is going on at Washington College." The office is being set up in answer to many requests on the part of alumni who would like to see more publicity about the college in the papers of Maryland and surrounding states.

Press releases will go out from the school every week to all weekly papers in Maryland and dailies in Baltimore, Washington, D. C. and Wilmington. They will also go to the Associated Press and the United Press.

The office hopes to have a complete sports coverage for college athletic activities and plans to issue a bulletin for the seasonal sports with write-ups on the coaches and the various team statistics. These bulletins will be sent to schools that Washington College will meet in some sort of athletic contest.

Mr. Robinson plans to keep the office open during the summer and at that time will make plans for enlarging the scope of the press releases for next year. To date he has plans for feature stories about the history of the college, interview with professors and facts concerning the policies of the administration.

Two assistants to the office have been appointed this far. Jane Bradley will aid in the writing of the releases and Bill Slagle will take charge of issuing the releases. Work has been started on the new project this week and will continue until June.

"Festered Lilies"—or... Hibernation 'til Graduation

Every year around this time there is a great wailing and gnashing of teeth over the loss of the senior class. "This old school won't be the same. Every 'character' on the campus will be leaving in June." You may have heard this already. Well, take my word for it—it ain't so!

There is something about this school that creates individuality. I have yet to meet two people in the same category. In my freshman year we learned the loss of the "only co-ed" elements in the school and the next year we were quite as distraught over "the remnants of those" who held the school together. However, Washington College has somehow managed to survive in spite of the withdrawals of students.

This year we find an impetus in the income class that may be the beginning of a comradery within classes instead of a hero worship of the ones ahead of us. This class has on its own, carried more spirit than any I have witnessed (except the senior class of course)! They felt, at first, a little left out since the freshman greeting dance has somehow become a meeting place, more for returning students, than a greeting place for the incoming ones. So they had a class party—which I understand was quite a success.

This annual fall ODK dance was originally for the purpose of helping to orient freshmen. Now, why the older students stay in cliques is beyond me. Perhaps they feel that they lack the social graces to make new friends or do they feel too superior to "a high school kid?"

Be that as it may, the freshmen took it upon themselves to make the school know that if they weren't to be greeted by the upperclassmen, "If Mohammed didn't come to the mountain . . . etc." Well, during the freshmen week when all but a handful of sophomores had locked themselves up severely, the freshmen called on the seniors to come play. Although it aged them ten years, these deeprooted old men went out to join the games and found that three others from the two classes not mentioned, joined them.

After this the freshmen held several smaller intra-class parties and are now culminating the most successful year of any class by the "Caravan Ball." The work they have put into this affair puts the rest of us to shame. It may be the best dance of the year.

And what will they do with the proceeds—? They plan to give the new class next year a party. They would rather not have them feel quite as left out as they themselves felt. With this kind of spirit being backed up by the work that has been done this year, the only ones left out will be the upper level students.

If I were a member of the present junior or sophomore class I would either get out and try to show what a superior class is, or hibernation until to graduate. If the latter is your solution I suggest that you take summer courses to get out quick because that freshman class might run right over you. That could prove disastrous.

But one word of warning to the freshmen. Keep up the spirit, back it with work, but don't get carried away. You've made a fine impression now, don't get ahead of yourselves. Certain ways of doing things are traditional at W.C. and until you're sure you've got something better, don't try to change them.

Whatever you do—don't take up the tradition of destructive criticism. Don't come up with any "Festered Lilies" unless you have something a little less fragrant to take their place.

So we get back to the original topic of losing campus "characters." George Washington probably bemoaned the loss of the senior class when he gave that 50 salute, but the school is still here, so I doubt if it will close its doors through the loss of a few more students this year. You have something started—and remember this—that if you particularly care for any of those seniors that are leaving and you want to get them some back, just keep giving them the same sort of spirit you have begun. Those that give you that "I'll never come back to this place again" act aren't worth trying to entice anyway. They'll never enjoy anything or any place and they make it as miserable as hell for those who have to listen to their petty rantings. If they disliked it so much, why, in the name of heaven, did they stay for four years? You could let your bottom dollar nobody begged them.

Don't let these people get you into that attitude of sitting on their over-sized posteriors and complaining that somebody should have done something. You've heard every possible manner of complaint from us—now we've got up and do something about it. You've shown us that you can do it—now show us that you've got the guts to keep it up. We need some new blondes on the campus but we have all the "festered lilies" we can handle!

Commissions Available

Lt. Nate Adams of the Marine Officers Procurement Office at 1400 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C., announced today that Washington College male graduates and seniors will have an opportunity to earn commissions in the Marine Corps this summer.

By June 1 the expanding Marine Corps will enroll a total of 1,000 officers candidates, according to Lt. Adams. Candidates begin their training July 11 at the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Virginia.

Married or single college graduates between 20 and 27 years old are eligible for the program. Seniors who will graduate at the end of the current semester also are eligible, but must apply before the June 1 deadline. Married men will receive family allowances as soon as their candidate training begins.

Candidates successfully completing the 10-week training course will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. Following this they will receive five additional months of specialized officers' training, also at the Quantico Base which is located 35 miles south of Washington, D. C.

Lt. Adams said that the necessary application forms are available at the dean's office. He stated it would be advisable for prospective candidates to apply as soon as possible.

It was also announced that members of organized or volunteer Marine Corps Reserve units may apply if they meet the requirements.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1952

Fund Survey Results Announced To Students

For the past year there has been much discussion on the future of Washington College in terms of optimum size, income for current expenses and capital investment. The plans outlined for the college, however, have just been a discussion of possibilities and long range planning. No positive action has been taken.

It is hoped that the student body will be enlarged to include from 500- to 600 members. The full realization of this may not come, however, until 1958. Nevertheless, with this in mind provision would have to be made regarding dormitories.

Plans have been drawn for a new women's dorm that would house 100 girls, and two wings for Somerset House that were included with the architect's drawing. Other possibilities for more housing would come from the gutting of East, Middle and West Halls and rebuilding the entire interior of those dorms for men.

With an enlarged student body plans would also have to include more dining facilities. This could entail the possible extension of the back wing of Hobson Hall and the use of both the first and second floors for dining purposes. This again would pose the need for some sort of student union building to include a theater, snack bar and recreation facilities. This also presents a possibility of converting the present auditorium into two floors of classrooms and offices. The possibility of a field house is also included.

All of this long range planning is in direct relation with the recent survey made by Maritz and Lundy, Inc., a fund raising agency in New York. The survey was authorized by the Board of Visitors and Governor to interview alumni, friends and parents of students of the college to get an idea of how those groups would react to a possible fund raising campaign.

Name Tonian Pegasus Editor

Constantine Tonian, present official photographer for the 1952 Pegasus, was named editor of the 1953 publication by the Board of Publications in a meeting held last Monday. He will succeed Jim Trader to the post.

Tony has been active in all phases of the year. He also serves as vice president of Lambda Chi Alpha and is on the soccer and tennis teams.

Other new offices named Bob Stahl as Business Manager of THE ELM, and Bob Appleby as Business Manager of THE PEGASUS.

All new publications officers will take over their duties officially at the beginning of next semester. At that time they will appoint the rest of their staff.

The Board of Publications includes the Editors of the Pegasus and THE ELM, and the business managers of both publications. Faculty members on the committee are Dr. Newlin, Mr. Brubaker, and Dean Livingood.

Track Meet To Be Held

A joint "College Day" and track meet will be held here on Saturday, May 10, for all high schools on the Eastern Shore. The affair is being sponsored and directed by the Phys. Ed. class in Administration of High School Athletics.

All seniors and faculty members of the secondary schools, along with the track teams, have been invited to attend the day-long program. The events of the day have been arranged in the hope that prospective college students may have an opportunity to visit classrooms, laboratories, the library, museum, dormitories and fraternity houses in the morning while the trial heats of the track meet are being run off.

Following the tours of the campus, President Daniel Z. Gibson will welcome the guests with a short message in William Smith Hall. After the welcome, luncheon will be served to the visitors.

Highlights of the afternoon's activities will be the finals of the track meet, starting at one o'clock. The school accumulating the highest number of points in all events will receive the first annual "Eastern Shore Track Meet Trophy."

Ed Athey, Director of Athletics, is in charge of the program and is being assisted by student committees made up of members of the class in High School Athletics. Jim Beach is vice student in charge of all arrangements.

The event will be a demonstration of practical application of classroom theory, with students working on all phases of setting up and running an organized track meet.

Ralph Shillingburg Heads Players

Ralph Shillingburg, junior, was elected president of The Washington Players at a meeting held last Wednesday night. Other new officers include Eleanor Dryden, secretary and Jane Bradley, treasurer. The offices of Promotion Manager and Production Manager will be appointed by the new president at the beginning of next year.

Outgoing officers of the organization include Bill Landon, president; Phyllis Seitz, secretary and Helen Roe, treasurer. The offices of Promotion Manager and Production Manager were filled by Jane Bradley and George Grammel respectively.

The new officers will take over their positions immediately, following the final production of the Players' 1951-52 season, "My Sister Elvira." They will be officially installed at the Players' Banquet, May 12th which is being held at The Granary.

Forensics Will Stage Rally To Nominate GOP Candidate

The Washington College Auditorium will take on the appearance of a convention hall in Chicago next Wednesday evening at 7:00. Reason for the appearance will be the Mock G.O.P. Convention to be held there which is being sponsored by the Forensic Society. The event will feature the usual regalia of a national convention with banners, posters, campaign speeches and demonstrations of the various state delegations.

THE CAMPAIGNERS

Grim, Edwards Compete For Senior Class Office

John Grim and Wes Edwards will do little next Thursday for the presidency of the senior class. Primary elections were not necessary for this office as they were the only nominees presented by the senior class.

Primaries were held Thursday for the office of senior class vice-president with Charles Weasche, Cy Rollins and Herb Brown in the running. Late petitions were granted for the offices on Tuesday. These were: Grite, late unopposed as secretary and Pat Neighbor, unopposed for treasurer.

Thursday's primaries featured a three-way race for president of the junior class with Bob Appleby, Larry Werfelink and Bob Stahl on the ticket. Also in this race were candidates for vice-president: Spente Luthem, John Newbold and Doug Tilley. Jo Budd received the secretaryship automatically standing unopposed. A late petition was granted for the office of treasurer to Rod Ware who also stands unopposed.

Sophomores presented four candidates in the primaries for president who were Ed Hogarth, Roy MacDonell, Tommy Bounds and Al Shockley. Vice-presidential primaries included Melch Dijkman, Lou Buckley, Marjorie Goldsborough and Al Conditello. Standing unopposed for the offices of Secretary and Treasurer were Joan Vanick and Jo Cusack respectively.

Final elections will be held next Thursday, May 8th in William Smith Hall. The elections are being conducted by Omicron Delta Kappa, under the direction of Tom Lowe, Chairman of the elections committee.

Willis Md. F.T.A. Secretary

Dorothy Willis, a Sophomore who was recently elected President of the F.T.A. of Washington College, was elected Secretary of the Maryland Association of Future Teachers of America at their annual spring convention on Saturday, April 26th.

The meeting of the convention took place at Hood College in Frederick, Maryland. Besides the election of officers—all business, old and new, was transacted being in this case, the addition of twelve amendments to the constitution. The purpose of the state convention was to coordinate the work among all chartered chapters and clubs and to coordinate their major activities.

In addition to her activity in the F.T.A., Miss Willis is a member of the Washington Players of Washington College, Secretary of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and Corresponding Secretary for the Ginterbury Club of Washington College.

Jan Habel, president of the organization, will serve as convention chairman and will officially open the meeting by introducing the keynote speaker, Don Mariotti who is acting as Pennsylvania State Chairman.

Nominating speeches will be made by students representing the various candidates on campus. Larry Wedekind, chairman of the Minnesota delegation, will make the nominating speech for Harold E. Stassen. Governor Earl Warren will be spoken for by the California state chairman, Ezker King. Bill Murray will deliver the nominating speech for Senator Taft and Meyer Bornstein, heading the Eisenhower forces on campaign, will speak for the General. Holding out for Maryland's own Theodore McKeldin will be Tom Hedstetter who will nominate the favorite son.

All nominating speeches are to be held to a maximum time limit of ten minutes. They are to be followed by second speeches which are not to exceed the time limit of three minutes.

Spontaneous demonstration for the candidates will be permitted, but will not be allowed to run over the time limit of eight minutes. Voting will be by roll call of the states who have been allotted delegates according to the rules of the National Republican Convention.

All students enrolled at Washington College have been included in the state delegations and will have at least one vote. The state chairman that has been named in the list published by the Forensic Society will cast the vote for his or her delegation.

IMPORTANT!

The Constitution for Student Government has been completed. It will be presented to the student body at 11:15 Tuesday, May 6, in the auditorium. Thursday at 11:15 classes will meet in their designated places to discuss the Constitution. A vote to accept or reject will take place Monday, May 12, in the Snack Bar, by ballot.

Frat Dance Is Tonight

The Inter-Fraternity weekend will be climaxed tonight by the annual Inter-Fraternity dance to be held from 9 to 1:00 at the Chesterton Armory. Other activities for the weekend include a tennis match with Wilson State Teachers College at 1:00 p.m., and a lacrosse game between Washington College and Loyola College on Kilday field at 3:15 p.m.

The Fraternity Council has obtained Fred Gordon to play for the dance. He has been popular in the campus having played at several other functions during the year.

The Council has been working for the past two months on plans for the dance to insure the success of the affair. The Art Club, which has handled such functions in previous years will again be in charge of decorations. They have announced a spring theme for this occasion.

IT DOES COUNT!

"A large part of mankind regard government as a function to be performed by someone else with whom they have little or no concern, as the janitor of an apartment house whom somebody or other hired to keep out thieves and to keep the furnace running."

This statement by Ellihu Root pretty accurately sums up the attitude of many Americans toward the business of voting. It is incredible but true that many persons boast of America's democracy in one breath and in the next, admit they never vote.

To the majority of Washington College students, this November will be their first chance to participate in a presidential election, or any election for that matter. We cannot put enough emphasis on the importance of their taking this privilege into hand and exercising it.

In the 1944 Presidential election only about 55% of the voters turned out. A total of thirty eight and a half million Americans spurned their right to vote. In the 1948 Presidential election it was worse. Only about 52% of the voters turned out.

One often hears the question—"Oh, what difference does my vote make?" The question is quickly answered by historians. "Thomas Jefferson was elected President by one vote in the electoral college. So was John Quincy Adams. Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President by one vote. The man who cast the deciding vote for Hayes was a congressman from Indiana, a lawyer who was elected to office by the margin of one vote. The one vote cast from him was from a citizen, who though desperately ill, insisted on being taken to the polls!"

So, Washington Collegians who are eligible, take it from history. Your vote does count. And furthermore, you who have been criticizing the government will have the opportunity to do something about it in November besides just talk. If you have not registered already, do so at once and become one of America's truly patriotic citizens.

ORCHIDS!

Yes, orchids, and a hearty three cheers are in order for some of our graduating seniors who have particularly splendid gifts of handling their activities.

Jim Harrel, our hats are off to you for the way in which you have run the Forensic society this past year. Everyone connected with that club realizes the most of the dirty work during the past two years has fallen on your shoulders and that you have devoted a good percentage of your spare time in many odd jobs that have had to be done. It would be hard to say that any one of the Forensic Society's activities has been a high spot, but we hope that the work "Republican Convention" next Wednesday will be a huge success and the high spot of your career as pres of your organization.

Jim Trader, you also a lot of work and manure somehow to go relatively unnoticed among our hard working core of campus leaders. There is a lot of work connected with printing out a yearbook and we can hope admirably well in your top position on the staff. In addition you have tied yourself up with a number of other activities and devoted much time and energy to them.

Elmore Gustafson, how can we ever thank "Gus" enough for coming to Washington College. He never failed enthusiasm for anything he has undertaken combine to make those of us who have been fortunate enough to work with her. The Zetas, the Players, and the Service Club certainly have to be among the first to echo this praise.

Senior Of . . . ... The Week

W. C.'s "Jack of All Trades"

Bernie Kulis is Washington College's "jack-of-all-trades." He has an item on almost every line on campus and in every job he undertakes, he leaves a commendable record. Like all other athletes, Bernie takes his sports seriously, and has been a variety basketball and lacrosse player during all four years of his college career. He is now president of the Varsity Club and has been a member of that organization for the past three years. Bernie is an all-around campus leader. Having been elected president of Outrigger Delta Kappas this year, he now holds the position of the foremost male leader on campus. In other words—Bernie's the "man of the week."

"Skipper"—where'd he pick that one up?—can be seen any day rambling around the campus decked in his blue corduroy "traveling shirt" and sporting his usual raincoat outfit. Bernie has an easy manner that makes him popular with fellow students. Could he that's why he's everybody's favorite ride to Baltimore. Or should we say "used to be"—back in the days before he was a head Delta Kappa and naturally as such such a good deal of time in Snack Bar bull sessions.

If anybody is a victim, Bernie has all the victims he'll ever need. During this interview all that could be dragged out of him was "Aw—I don't know. Ask somebody that knows me." And believe me, everybody knows this guy. We wish him all the luck in the world in his Naval Officers Candidate School plans.

By Howard Barnett

"All the world's a stage," says Shakespeare. In "My Sister Elsie" the final attraction of the season for The Washington Players, an infinitely smaller stage is used, but somehow it seems that a good portion of the New York world passes across that stage. This produces much confusion, merriment and excitement. But it is all good fun and that is what The Players and the playwrights (Frieda and Chodrey) intended it to be.

In the midst of the excitement, an interesting variety of personalities make themselves known to the audience. Two innocents but determined young girls (played by Elmore Gustafson and Eleanor Dryden) from Columbus, Ohio, are the central attraction. Their lives are made chaotic by a Greek landlady (Gregory Sophocles), a football coach from Georgia Tech (Alan Esterby), a drugstore clerk (Albert Condon), a persistent newspaper reporter (Peter Burdage), a disreputable woman with a heart of gold (Joan Higginbotham) and many others, including long "abductees" from Portugal (Diphanah, Mercall, Crespo, and Smith).

In spite of the large cast, each person is a distinct personality. It reflects most on the Washington Players that they had the talent for such a variety of personalities and on Helen Roe, who directed the play, for making that variety come to life on the stage.

A Letter

Elm Sports Editor
c/o Letters to the Editor
Washington Elm
Washington College
Md., Editor,

With pen in hand, I hereby take this moment of being labeled a "feared libel."

I refer of course to your last sentence as it appeared in the Sports High Light column of the last issue of the ELM. Perhaps I am not the one to call attention to this, but it seems that the intent is clear when one is made of the excessive and irrelevant punctuation. I feel very strongly that someone should close the Editor in Chief's gate that must have been ignored through laziness or naivete.

To my mind, poor taste is not a common enough adjective to describe your choice of words and to the point to use by Gamblard like this is more to me.

The real purpose of this rather pointed letter, Mr. Bond, is not to disgrace or belittle you, but rather to point out that a former associate of yours on the ELM staff would like to see and see the above grade-school comments in an otherwise very interesting column.

Sincerely,

Joel Y. Gustafson
(Van's brother)

Things In General

by Bob Brink

When the alarm clock went off this morning and I noticed that it was still raining, I decided to stay in bed and cut my 9:15. Little did I realize the consequences. When I arrived at the snack bar I found that Bill Tarrell had taken a message for me out of the PM Sig box (which is not my mailing address) which informed me that I owed the college $1000 in overruns and would not be permitted to take exams unless this money were forthcoming. This was the first notification that I had received all year regarding overruns and, needless to say, it came as something of a surprise. Fortunately, I discovered that most of those absences were recorded for assembly which means, as I have been led to believe, aren't required to attend. But I did discover, on going back to the snack bar, that I wasn't the only student to receive a love letter from the registrar's office. It seems that the students were suddenly discovering that they owed the school from the twelve dollars for unexcused absences. Most of the ones I talked to seemed greatly surprised and claimed that this was also their first notification of overruns. Now there was a time when the registrar's office was very good about such things. When I was asked one overrun in a course I promptly received notice that I owed the school two bucks. That loss of money usually checked me enough to keep me from going overboard and cutting any more. So to the point where an automatic I was forthcoming. If I was awake that I had four cuts in a three hour course and didn't get an overrun slip I assumed that I had gotten away with it and promptly forgot that I had even been in class. Now it seems that the people in the office are letting these matters go by until the amount owed approaches astronomical figures (for a student, that is) and, worse yet, approaches the point where the debt is required to be paid in an automatic I to the student. With less than three weeks of classes left, that prospect doesn't particularly appeal to me. I for one am in favor of returning to a pay as you go system (if, indeed, that is what the registrar is in operation) which I am sure most of us find much less painful and shocking and which does not allow us to get nearly as close to the "sudden death" F without being fully aware that we are rapidly reaching it.

This being the season when most of the clubs have disbanded, I am afraid that I will go down in defeat in my attempt to get at least a couple of organizations to cut somewhere else for a change. The attitude of the management at the usual place has obviously become less and less favorable toward college students in general, despite the number of people who wear by it, is not the best in word by long shot. The people who run the Georgetown establishment no longer welcome us with open arms and, at times, seem barely able to tolerate us. I suppose that they have their reasons though. One of the men up there was telling me a few days ago that they frankly have had a lot of trouble with some of the college crowd. A certain element among the student body apparently has absolutely no respect for private property and will take anything from anywhere to mount outside home with them as souvenirs. This comes as no great surprise to anyone who has ever been foolish enough to leave a dropping fender or other such "souvenir" apparatus lying unguarded on his chemistry lab desk for a few minutes. I suppose it's the same old story. People who run public places who run their schools and who the consumers demonstrate they deserve to be treated.

"A Little Bit of Old New York"

The rapid pace of the play was effectively set by Miss Gustafson and Miss Dryden. Despite the competition of the "Broadway" personalities that continuously appeared from all parts of the stage, the co-stars managed to keep their characterizations the center of attraction.

According to the book, the landlady, Mr. Apologues, was supposed to be "lingual Bouillabaisse." A look into the dictionary discovered this definition: Bouillabaisse, a highly seasoned fish chowder of two kinds of fish. Evidently, Apologues was supposed to speak in a mixed dialect, Gregory Sophocles, who played the part, omitted the dialect, but his characterization still managed to be Bouillabaisse, a mixture of bouillabaisse and aristocratic fish—thus providing some fine entertainment.

Pete Burdage as Chick Clark played the part of a nutcase-diagnosed cat with real finesse. There were moments when Mr. Burdage looked and sounded like Jimmy Stewart. His pursuit of Elsie in the second act was especially good.

Better than competent performances came from Alan Esterby as Weck, Jo Higginbotham as Violet, Sue Samuels, Grace Heller, Marion Waters, Bob Farley, E. A. Cottle, Al Shockley, Harvey Sandt, Wayne Gruchin, Ralph Shillingberg and Roy MacDonnell.

Non-acting credit goes to Phyllis Seitz (Assistant director), Dorothy Willis (makeup), Al Vinyard (lighting), Dutch Spangnagel (scenery), Henry Flynn (props), Eleanor Desmond (costumes), Wayne Gurn (sound effects) and Mr. Brodaker (props). Special mention should be made of the superb efforts. They provided the only pauses (except for laughs) in the otherwise breathless pace of the comedy.

Many years have passed since "My Sister Elsie" had its first Broadway production on December 26, 1910. When first written, it was evidently intended as a caricature of the Bohemian life of Greenwich Village. Those days belong to the past but the play still proves more than enough cause to keep an audience busy for two hours. The Washington Players demonstrated that they have the directing, acting and staging talent to bring it to life again.

The Players can mark up another successful season.

The G. O. P. Political Pot

Last October with the "big election" still one year off, political chiefs had already turned up the fire on the political stoves and the pot boiled feverishly. Republicans were particularly noticeable for they were in the middle of a grand glorious party split. At that date Taft had already entered the big race and Eisenhower was expected to do so by the first of the year. Congress was being passed on what damage Mr. McCarthy might do to the Republican party with his "witch hunts" the talk of the daily newspapers.

Major issue during the fall was corruption in government. The Republicans had plenty of the Democrats with the R.E.C. investigation, and the Democrats were digging up nasty items here and there on dirty G.O.P. politics. A clean-up of government was the main plank in both party platforms. In November the Republicans were still shaking. No one knew what General Eisenhower would do, whether he was a Republican or even if he was, whether or not he would accept the nomination. Headlines mentioned his "draft", the possibility that he could split the south, and the hope that he might consider it his duty to run. As far as "Mr. Republican", Robert A. Taft, was concerned, political leaders could not decide what to do. They either supported him all the way, or ran him into the ground as far as possible.

November also brought a third contender to the eyes of the Republicans, Governor Earl Warren of California with 70 convention delegates in his pocket entered the race to split the party a little bit more. At the same time Senator Lodge was named chairman of the Eisenhower committee. Taft was making statements on foreign policy that raised a storm of protest and looked like isolationism.

The Christmas season brought the political stew to a nervous simmer. G.O.P. leaders who were supporting "Ike" began to think maybe they were out on a weak limb. All he was willing to say was that he had not yet decided what to do. Popular senators on Capitol Hill came out with predictions that "Ike" was the only man that could possibly win. The Gallup Poll showed the need of the Independent voters to both parties. 28% of those who would participate in the Presidential election were not registered with any party. This equals about fifteen and a half million voters, who would be swayed by the best political sales talk.

At the same time the South was drawing attention. Their only announcement was to the effect that they would do anything to defeat Truman. Republicans wondered if they might form a coalition with the Eisenhower men.

In January a fourth split came to the Republicans. Harold Stassen who had been harking Eisenhower threw his hat in the ring as a nominee for President. Some wondered if it was just to split the Taft vote or whether he really thought he could win. Then came the spring thaw. Eisenhower finally accepted and his name was entered on the ballots of the New Hampshire primary. Republicans who had been out on the limb threw up a heavy yell and set their campaign headquarters working day and night to make up for lost time.

Since that date primaries that have put Taft and Eisenhower way out in front have captured all political headlines. Eisenhower will have plenty to say on what his stand will be on the National Issues. In fact, Mr. Taft has challenged him to come out with his platform. Warren has remained in California, doing his job as governor and by that very act, staying in the political limelight as a good worker. Later reports on the Stassen show a lot of uncertainty as to just what he will do. One day he is splitting Taft votes, the next he's on his own. To date he is still a candidate, but anything can happen.

The Republican pot is really boiling but no one will be sure just what will come out of it until rooster time. All we can do is wait!

A Visitor On Campus!

Maryott Will Keynote Forensic Convention

The coming Republican National Convention on May 7th will feature one of the most ardent supporters of the "Grand Old Party" on the Washington campus, in the person of Don Maryott. Don, in addition to being a member of the Young Republican Club, is also a member of the choir and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He will deliver the keynote speech of the convention, which he feels in appropriately entitled "Let's Clear the Decks".

Don, an avid Eisenhower supporter, believes that one of the major dilemmas that the American voter must make in the coming election is "What party, on the basis of previous records, has been most strongly opposed to Communism and its spread?" He feels that a proper evaluation of this, and other basic issues, will lead the American public to place a Republican president in the White House in '53.

As keynote speaker of the Convention, Maryott holds the position of "house speaker", and is official opener of the affair. Keynotes for Republican National Conventions in the past, have usually been outstanding party men rather than particular candidate rosters. The job of this speaker is to incite party unity at the convention—to request support no matter who is selected to represent the party on the general election ticket.

What's In A Convention

"The right of popular government is incomplete, unless it includes the right of the voters not merely to choose between candidates when they have been nominated but also the right to determine who these candidates shall be." This statement, made by former president of the U. S. Theodore Roosevelt, is carried out with the event of the National Convention. It is this body, composed of representative delegates from every state in the union and all American possessions, that chooses the finalists for their particular party for the November election.

The convention consists of approximately 1200 delegates. These represent twice the number of senators and representatives of each state plus bonuses for states who have had a good year for the particular party having the convention. These delegates are chosen in various ways according to the countries or the state's constitution. They may either be elected by the primaries or they may participate in that election or they may be chosen by a central committee. In some states, including Maryland, the primary elected state delegates attend a state convention where delegates to the National Convention are chosen, making it a three-step process.

Once the delegate is chosen for the National Convention he is designated as either pledged or unpledged. Those delegates who are pledged to support a particular candidate do so as a result of the state primary or from instruction on the part of the State Central Committee. A recent Supreme Court decision ruled that the state had a right to bind their delegates to support the candidate named in the primaries. The unpledged delegates have free power to vote as they please at the convention.

Order of business at the Convention calls first for a Credentials Committee whose duties are to certify all delegates to make sure they are official. Following this preliminary action, the campaigning gets underway, usually started by a keynote speaker who is a prominent party member. His speech most often takes the form of boosting the party in general. He does not mention a candidate but rather, provides a good party background for the nomination speeches that follow.

Nominating and seconding speeches are made for all candidates with a good number of "favorite son" introduced, more so a courtesy than a serious contender for the nomination. Following numerous demonstrations from the various state delegations in support of a particular candidate the balloting gets underway. This is done by the roll call method with the State Chairmen answering for their delegation. The first ballot does not usually contain a majority for any candidate as those delegations who are pledged to a candidate must follow instruction on this first vote. Balloting continues

REGISTER!

If you are eligible to vote this year be sure you will be able to vote by registering as soon as possible. Anybody who is already 21 years of age or who will be 21 on or before November 4th is eligible to register. You may register any day at the office of the Supervisor of Elections in the court house in your district, except thirty days preceding and 10 days following any election. In some districts there is a day set aside for preprint registration. Watch for an announcement of the time and places of these registration days.

Reduced expense is granted to all students participating in the election.

until a candidate has a majority. In 1934 the Democratic Convention was unable to pick a candidate until 103 ballots had been taken. During the balloting when it appears that a nominee has obtained a majority, a great many delegations switch their votes to the successful contender in order to give the appearance of an almost unanimous vote.

Although the national party conventions have many bad points, stemming mainly from their unwieldy size, they do accomplish a great deal in producing a platform to be followed by the party in the selection of the candidate. And it has been described over and over again by Kingfishers as "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Mr. A. Parks Kinsler, spokesman of Kent County Republican also spoke to the group.

An informal discussion was held for the benefit of the students who received advice from the Young Republican officials on how to set up their organization.

The group appointed Charles Waseche as temporary chairman and A. J. Carr secretary-pro-tem. A nominating committee was set up to draw up a slate of officers to be voted on at the next meeting. A Constitutional Bylaws committee was also appointed to draw up the constitution for the group.

Who's Who In '52 For G.O.P. Candidate

Stassen's Solid Dollar

Although his entrance into the political race for president has been questioned by many people as to his motives, Harold E. Stassen, President of the University of Pennsylvania, has taken an unusually definite stand on the major issue of the coming contest. We envision questioning his motives — it has been hard to say whether or not Stassen entered the race to split the votes for Taft, or for his own benefit. Previous to tossing his hat in the ring, Stassen advocated Eisenhower for the top job. Latest rumors have it that he still has that feeling toward the General. However, he also still has a platform that needs consideration before convention delegates take the final ballot.

Stassen has built his stand on major issues around four major planks — 1: A modern gold standard for a solid American dollar — 2: An honest administration of the national government — 3: Profit sharing with employees throughout American Business and Less Tax Paying to the Federal Government — 4: A new, up-to-date American Foreign Policy. A breakdown of these stands follows: — 1: A modern gold standard for a solid American dollar.

End the climbing prices which are causing so much trouble in the family budget of the homes with moderate and small income.

Balance the federal budget and keep it balanced.

Full employment.

A just share of high national income for all groups, including particularly the farmers, in a program that does not give the government control over their crops or their marketing.

"Kingmaker" Lodge Proposes A General

Leading the box score, according to the New York Times, is America's number one General, who has stacked up more delegates by not campaigning than all the others who have made the political news. Known to most as "Doc" the outstanding characteristic of this man as a candidate for president is his ability to unite successfully all sorts of nationalities and factions. He has now said a word to the American people as yet that might be considered as campaign material. All of his strength has been gathered by what British papers called "Kingmaker" Lodge, the ambitious senator from New England, who is chairman of the Eisenhower campaign. Lodge has been America's Eisenhower and has kept the people believing that the General would accept when it looked like he might be forced to say with N.A.T.O.

As for Eisenhower's stand on policy, all that can be gathered is what he has said in previous speeches made while he was president of Columbia University. He claims to follow the foreign policy of the present administration, at least to the degree of adhering to and strengthening the United Nations and N.A.T.O.

He has given perhaps, the clearest statement of his general philosophy in a speech made before the American Bar Association in St. Louis, September '49. Declaring that those of both the right and left deliberately misrepresent the middle-of-the-road position, he asserted that "the central position . . . is the truly creative area within which we may hope to achieve the most constructive agreement for constructive world action compatible with basic American principles, and with the just aspirations of every sincere American. It is the area in which are rooted the hopes and allegiance of the vast majority of our people." He then spelled out what he called the three fundamental principles of American Life.

First—that individual freedom is our most precious possession. It is to be guarded as the chief heritage of our people, the wellspring of our spiritual and material greatness, and the central target of all enemies—internal and external—who seek to weaken and destroy the American Republic.

Second—that all our freedoms—personal, economic, social, political, freedom to buy, to work, to hire, to bargain, to save, to vote, to worship, to gather in convention or join in mutual association; all these freedoms are a single bundle. Each are an indispensable part of a single whole. Destruction of any inevitably leads to the destruction of all.

Third—that freedom to compete vigorously among ourselves, accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

The viewpoint of many, that Eisenhower is a military man and because of past experiences he should be kept out of the White House, cannot be overlooked. He is military to the teeth, but along with this military life he has shown himself to be a capable administrator and coalition manager. His service as president of Columbia University revealed a philosophical man and a Buena speaker.

Maryland's Proposal

Each year the National Conventions bring a host of favorite sons to light as possible candidates for the nomination of President of the United States. Perhaps one of the most colorful of such candidates this year will be Maryland's governor, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin. He is a true Marylander, born in Baltimore and educated there. During his political career he has served as Secretary to Mayor Boiespen of Baltimore, and then as the mayor himself. During this office he was responsible for the modernization of Baltimore's then antiquated charter. In 1950 he was elected Governor by the largest majority of votes ever given to any candidate for that office.

The Governor has received num erous honorary degrees in recognition of his public service, among which is a Doctor of Laws degree from Washington College, presented to him at Commencement exercises in June, 1951.

Governor McKeldin has stated that he would not attempt to write a platform himself, but the following is what he has always stood for while in public office.

Domestic Policy

Strict economy in civilian agencies of the Government. Reduce the Federal Payroll by at least 200,000 persons. Immediate adoption of the Hoover Report Reorganization, A Balanced Budget, Careful use of Federal funds provided for military spending. A

Mr. Republican Of '52 For Positive Action!

First to test the proverbial hot in the ring, Robert Taft, Ohio Senator, has named one contender for the Republican nomination since last fall. He has enjoyed strong backing from old line Republicans and has come out as one of the top men in the primaries to date "Senator Bob" as he is known to many of his constituents, has an excellent background for the job he is seeking. He is the son of a President, has been in Congress long enough to know how legislation is managed, and seems to have the appeal of staunch Republicans. On the other hand, it has been said of Taft, that he is either followed to the hilt, or violently disliked. His most lacked of policy is his leaning toward isolationism for America, which is in direct opposition to present day foreign policy.

Taft has taken a strong stand on all domestic policies. He advocates home town housing with the help of Federal Aid, thinks taxes should be reduced and the budget cut. He states that there are too many non-essential items in the present government economy, that the elimination of these would reduce the public debt and high taxes. He believes that Social Security is essential and should be extended to more people and that the Federal Government should give aid to the public schools but not to private or parochial institutions. In all his

Warren's Government Close To The People

California's governor, Earl Warren, has been a strongly quipped candidate for the Republican nomination of President. Many have said, however, that this stands in his favor, mainly because he has considered his job in California the most important and has centered his campaigning in that state. He is a candidate worth watching, and has high standing with the Republican party, serving as co-star on the 1948 ticket with Thomas E. Dewey.

Warren has taken a strong stand on the most controversial of issues, foreign policy. He advocates complete world cooperation and expresses the great necessity for the United Nations stating "The United Nations provides the only forum available to us for the settlement of international controversies and we must make every effort to strengthen it." As a member of the Republican Party, he is committed to bipartisan foreign policy. "When his participation has been sincerely praised it has been asked: When it has been ignored we have lost prestige among the nations of the world."

He advocates foreign aid saying, "We must help our friends of the free world to re-establish themselves and even to defend themselves against posible aggression." As for communism he declares "We must be relentless in driving out the agents of international communism who are actively working within our nation to bring about its destruction . . . we must be direct, forthright and firm. Violation of decency will not improve our relations

Sho'Nine Defeats Towson; Cindermen Edge C.U.

Sports Highlights

By Elsworth Boyd

It looks like the Indians are on the warpath once again, inspired by their win over the Lehigh lacrosse squad Wednesday.

Tomorrow the Clarksons cross battles with the Greyhounds of Loyola at Kibler Field. This will be far from a "push-over" after the Hounds edged Swarthmore 11-10 last Saturday on the losers' field. The Green and Gray staged a surprising last half rally to upset the favored Pennsylvania team as Tom Wagner sparked the attack with four goals in the last two quarters.

Swarthmore's Bunky Blake, who tallied five goals against the Shoremen, scored three consecutive goals in the first quarter to lead the Swarthmore attack. Nevertheless, the Greyhounds were not to be under-rated, as they rallied to win.

The University of Baltimore's six game winning streak was halted by Drexel Tech, 10 to 9, Saturday in a game which the Bees considered a "breather."

Hopkins displayed its way to an 8-7 win over West Point at Homewood, while Virginia dropped Navy's stickmen from the ranks of the undefeated in a 9-8 victory at Annapolis.

Just what does all this add up to? It places Virginia, who has lost only one game, in an admirable position in the national collegiate lacrosse standings. Perhaps the top position if the Southerners should complete the season without another loss.

However, the Cavaliers must face-off with Washington College May 10. The Shoremen could "upset the apple-cart" if they play the entire game like they played the second half against Harvard.

Navy, Duke, the Maryland Lacrosse Club, and the Hillmen are all part of the past. Remaining on the schedule are: Loyola, Western Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and Baltimore U. The Clarkmen are capable of completing this schedule undefeated. In an endeavor to prove this, they will be striving to run the Greyhounds back to Baltimore tomorrow afternoon.

Stickmen Swamp Lehigh

The Clarkmen returned from Bethlehem, Pa., last Wednesday with a 16 to 5 triumph over Lehigh, and their third of the 7th season.

The Shoremen defeated the Lehigh nets for five goals in the first quarter and two in the second to lead at half-time, 7-3. The Pennsylvania team threatened in the first with play to the goal springing, but were held to one tally in the second. With this five goal lead, the Chestertown creasemen coasted in the last 13 goal win.

Johnny Grim opened the scoring in the first five seconds of play as he scooped up the face-off and rapped to the Lehigh net, determined to clip one past the goalie, George Mezulis, who tallied 8 goals, scored shortly after Grant to give the Clarkmen a 2-0 lead.

Dick Welles performed creditably on defense, supported by Billy Kahnepelt and Bill Bonnett.

Constant assault from Larry Leonard caused the Shoremen to retain a comfortable lead over the Pennsylvania squad during the major part of the contest.

Hillmen Win, 15-4

Mount Washington scored in every period to defeat Washington College's lacrosse team, 15 to 4 last Saturday on the victory's rain soaked field.

The Shore stickmen tallied the first goal in each of the opening three periods, but were outmaneuvered by the unbeaten Hillmen who substituted fifteen men during the contest. Rain fell steadily during the entire game but this, plus a field thoroughly soaked by the down-pouring rain, did not hinder the Mounts as ten players came through with over 60 goals.

The Sho'men held the lacrosse team scoreless during the first nine minutes of play, and it looked like a close race was at hand. Washington even opened the scoring first when freshman George Heise drove a first quarter Skip Barry on an assist from and Washington.

Sho'Nine Beats Towson

Cooper DeLoach pitched his second consecutive Mason-Dixon diamond victory last Tuesday at Towson, Md., as the Shoremen downed the Golden Knights, 8 to 4.

It was Washington College's second straight win in the Conference after outwinning Hopkins the week before. The Chestertown team closed off four ground rule doubles over the short right field fence, and this enabled the victorious by a four run margin. Three hits came off the bats of Wes Edwards, Doug Tilley and Steve Mastrianni, (2).

DeLoach allowed only six Towson hits for nine innings on the mound, while the losers' renounced hurler, Tom Cripps, gave up seven, plus four walks.

Towson took advantage of a Washington error in the third frame, to grab a 1-0 lead. However, the Shoremen retaliated in the next inning, as four runs crossed home plate. Tilley's double drove home two runs and Mastrianni's two bagger scored two more.

Towson tallied in the fifth and sixth frames, scoring one run in each, as Bob Myers and Tom Cripps singled them in. But once again the mighty Sho'Nins drove in three runs to retain a comfortable lead, 7-3. From this point the Kiblermen coasted to victory.

Two defensive plays by the Shoremen highlighting the afternoon was Wes Edwards' running out of the right field fence and a long line drive, and a "Twingle Toe" Smealie's smooth fielding of Roy May's hard hit grounder to center that looked like a sure single.

Athlete of the Week

JACK MCCULLOUGH

One of the most deserving and diligent working athletes here at Washington College will end his career here at the Shore school come June. He is Jack McCullough, member of the varsity cross-country and track teams during the past three years.

Jack hails from a small town outside of Cumberland and is sometimes called as the "Firewheel" Flash, by his teammates on the track squad. There are few athletes on the hill that can match this dinked into-so-much improvement in a sport is concerned.

McCullough began his track career with virtually no experience and followed in the footsteps of such stars as Larry Brandenberg, Elmore Dryden and Mickey Hubbard when he first reported to track.

His improvement came through many hours of hard work after the rest of the team had terminated practice. But it paid off in the end.

He was twice a member of the cross-country teams that turned in such a creditable performance at the DeMar Championships in '49 and '50. He jumped from 7th position to 4th in the space of two seasons. He was the lead-off man on the W.C. one mile relay team which garnered fifth place in the Middle Atlantic one mile relay in the Penn Relays last week.

An unassuming athlete, who is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa, Jack is majoring in math and expects to receive the teaching profession upon graduation. We know he will succeed if he utilizes the determination and stamina in the classroom that he has on the track. We heartily extend our congratulations and good luck to "The Firewheel Flash."

Violets To Mr. G

Dear Mr. Guandolo:

In reference to your letter, which appears on another page and which is addressed to the editor, I feel it my duty to acknowledge it and to express my "grate-ah-ah" commensurate since I have offended you and Grant-Land Rice.

I definitely will not label you a "feared fly." On the contrary, I offer violets to you Mr. Guandolo for your intrepid criticism of my column. As I am sure, if I were not aware of the same, perhaps there would be an improvement not only in my column, but in other sections as well.

Now I would like to attempt to justify my last sentence, punctuation, and quotation, which appeared in my column in the last issue of The Elm. Have you ever been humorously disgraced, Mr. Guandolo? It is not an exasperating mental tone when one is humorously disgraced, but such was my mood when I wrote my "Preskies Sentiment." And why was I in such a mood? For the sole reason that the students were not supporting the athletic team here at Washington College!

During my two years here, or in the past, there never was very much of this needed support. Therefore, I began my column in an effort to stimulate their interest. Notwithstanding this, I put my pencil aside and stole through many of the past publications of The Elm. Do you realize that for the past five years there has appeared in one issue or another, a column similar to mine, encouraging the students to show more spirit to the athletic team?

I thought it a joke to constantly remind the school that the teams might appreciate their support. Therefore, I thought it appropriate to conclude my column with a joke. For without any closing remark, I praise the students would have considered it a joke anyway. You didn't laugh, Mr. Guandolo! And I think I know why. I know you to be an ardent fan of the sports on the hill and that you, too, once sought to boost the school's cheering spirit. I praise you were a member of this publication.

Then you may ask, "Why even bring the subject up?" The answer is, "Because there is a small group of students who would like to remind you that they are spirit men, while you are a 'tilt.' My arguments were fruitless. They demanded a reminder in print and I obliged.

You may think my reasoning deranged, misjudged, rationalization, or delirium. But, whatever your opinion, I would like to once again praise your criticism and send you a bouquet of "Sweetest Violets!"

Shoremen Top Cardinals

The Matrons and Black cinder squad were not to be out run last Wednesday as they turned what seemed like certain defeat, into a 62 to 60 victory, over Catholic U., defeating Monsie-Dix changes.

Captain Kenny Howard led his team to this deserved triumph as he scored 26 of the total 62 points garnered by the squad. Howard put on a fine exhibition, but without the 20th broad jump by Rod Ward, which gave him a second place, the Cardinals would have captured the meet.

The boys from the capital city were leading the meet, 53-46 going into the low hurdle event. Howard and Boyd earned first and second in the boys' and tied the score 54-54. Kenny comfortably led the broad jump, but Ward and Finn, of C.U., fought out the second place honor. Rodney came through with a jump three inches better than Finn as the Sho'men took eight points against one for the victors in the event. C.U. won the mile, but lost the 100 yard dash enough to better the Washington score.

"Song Spiel" Next Friday

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President, announced at the coming of the first annual song fest to be held this coming Friday, May 9, 1952. The purpose of the song fest is to initiate school spirit and encourage singing on the Campus.

The Song Spiel, which will be held in the evening, on the terrace facing Middle Hall, will be of a competitive nature. There will be two cups awarded, one going to the most outstanding male group, the other to the most outstanding women's group.

The winning groups will have their names inscribed on the cups and will maintain possession of the cups all day for one year, when the trophies will be competed for once again.

To be eligible, a group must represent some recognized organization on campus. In order to compete for some particular organization, an individual must be a bona fide member of the group. The competition will, however, be open to independent men's and women's groups, providing these groups organize as such.

The competition is to consist of two songs, which will be rendered by each group. There will be one standard song which will be rendered by all the men's groups. In addition, there will be one song which the groups will do for their own choice. The various songbooks have been derived upon the following songs: Aloha Oe, Oesterly, "In the Still of the Night," Aloha Oe, Oesterly, "My Hero," "Close to My Heart," "Zeta Tau Alpha," "You'll Never Walk Alone." All of these organizations are required to sing "Bravo, Kullback." The trophies are all required to sing "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" but as yet they have not decided on their individual presentations.

All members of the groups must be regular students at Washington College. Any person not a student at the College may not compete in the fest. In an capacity. Leaders of the groups must be students themselves. Faculty members will not be allowed to sing in the direction of any of the groups. The individual groups are to be limited in size to a maximum of fifteen. The minimum for a group is to be ten.

The singing will be strictly a Cappella. Judges are to be selected from individuals outside of the College, who are outstanding in the field of music and choical work.

Netmen To Meet

Wilson Tomorrow

The Maroon and Black tennis team will meet Wilson State Teachers' College tomorrow afternoon on the Sunset courts in a tennis play match for the "match of the year."

This match will be played against Hopkins on the 10th of May and this may decide the first place in the Northern Division of the Mason-Bison tennis conference.

The winner of this match will play C. U., perennial winners of the Southern Division.

clean-up of corruption in Government. Equal rights for all. Reduce income taxes, both personal and corporate. A protective tariff. Adequate Civilian Defense preparations.

Agriculture

A farm program, worked out with the farmers, for improvements to farms and farming, with the States and counties assuming responsibility for the management and promotion of such a program.

Labor and Capital

Gradual reduction over control of cash, but with the Public Interest in mind at all times.

Relations with the States

Gradual return to the states of the powers that have been usurped by the Federal government. No further infringement upon States' rights through the guise of paternalism. Service by the Federal Government to the states—as their agents—not as their Master.

Foreign Relations

THE FIRST THING IS THAT WE MUST COMBAT COMMUNISM. The reestablishment of the old pride and determination of the United States to have the respect of the other nations, whether they are friendly or hostile. Keep up our economic aid to our allies, who show us that they want to be free peoples. We must do this by building up their economies to make them economically independent. Keep up military aid to our allies, but we must see their soldiers carrying rifles and manning tanks, not only ours.

Set an example in the National Capital of respect for people without regard to race or religion or color.

4. A new up-to-date foreign policy. Be dynamic and consistent in relations to other nations.

Follow four major objectives:

1. Defeat communism without a war. 2. Turn other nations away from socialism, to more freedom.
  3. Assist other nations to help themselves to better living. 4. Make friends of other peoples. Reorganize and improve the United Nations. Reorganize the State Department.
- Turn away from the soft-internationalist foreign policy of the past six years of failures. Do not go back to the equally wrong and weak semi-isolationist policy of the 1920's and 1930's.

with Russia or her satellites." Warren's domestic policy includes a "strongly balanced" approach to "government." He advocates a thorough house-cleaning and an armoring of the people and the public officials on every level of government to moral indignation over every breach of public trust. He insists on fighting inflation as we would communism.

He has his hand in hand. "If we are to win against inflation, communism has achieved a victory over us without firing a shot." He believes the American people are entitled to a "rigid economy" in government—the kind of economy that "squeezes out of every dollar for public use everything of value it has." He advocates an effective reorganization of government (reducing duplication, overlapping and absenteeism wherever they exist as the waste they are).

For Civil Rights he states: "We must insist upon one law for all men and equal opportunity in life for all men. The heart of our Constitution is in the Bill of Rights which guarantees to every individual in our country, regardless of race, creed or color and regardless of position in life, the precious rights of freedom of assembly, speech and worship. Anything that divides us or limits the opportunities for full American citizenship is injurious to the welfare of all."

Warren favors free enterprise because it is the basic individual freedom. He also advocates social progress, carefully distinguishing this from socialism which he is opposed to. He proposes a "certain" such as a "right" to the industry to be used for the farmer. "Failure to protect agriculture from vicious boom and bust cycles can spread a chain of reaction of ruin throughout the nation."

He believes in Social Security on the ground that every worker must be afforded some protection when incapacitated by his control over the nation. He also believes in the right of workers to organize for their own protection. "That legislation affecting this right should be enacted amicably and with full regard for the rights of all."

Society Of Sciences Elects Hearn

Frank Hearn

At a meeting of the Science Club this past Wednesday, April 29th, Frank "Beau" Hearn was elected president for the coming year, succeeding Elmore Gustafson. Elected to serve with him were Cy Rollins, vice-president, and Marlene Meyer, secretary-treasurer. Hearn, recently elected president of Lambda Chi Alpha, and Rollins, new vice-president of Theta Chi, were both elected unanimously. The outgoing officers for this group include Elmore Gustafson, Mel Littleton, and Betty Brundage. Final plans are being drawn up by this organization for the annual banquet, to be held at the Craney on Tuesday, May 9th.

Final Concert To Be May 16

The eighth and final concert of the College-Community series, to be held Friday, May 16th, in William Smith Hall, will feature Dorothy Goodman, mezzo-soprano, and eight artists from the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

In addition to Dorothy Goodman, the performers will include Richard Goodman, pianist, Gerald Goldblum, violinist, Richard Kapasick, 'cello, Ray Still, oboist, Gordon Miller, clarinet, Jerry Knop, hornist, and Arthur Lamont, bassoonist.

The program will include Mozart's Quintet for piano, oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon; Beethoven's Scotch Songs for voice, violin, 'cello, and piano; and Brahms' piano Quartet, No. 1.

Plans are already being formulated for a continuation of the series next year at the rate of $5.00 for the series. Owing to the size of the auditorium, the number of subscriptions available to residents of the city and county is limited. The student will again be able to attend through their general activities fee.

Lack Of Two-Thirds Vote Downs Constitution

The Washington Elm

VOL. XX—No. 15 WASHINGTON COLLEGE SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1952

Student Government Loses With 123 Negative Votes

In the recent voting on the proposed constitution for student government at Washington College, in which over 75% of the entire student body participated, the constitution was rejected by a margin of twenty-two votes. With two hundred and two affirmative votes needed for the adoption of the document, the student body cast only one hundred and eighty in favor of the proposed plan. Eighty-three persons voted negatively, thirty-six did not vote at all, and four abstained from the balloting, showing a total negative vote of one hundred and twenty-three.

Following is a breakdown on the election results:

	No.	No.	Voting
Senior	68	64
Junior	61	56
Sophomore	60	56
Freshman	109	90
Student Seniors	2	1

Votes Negative—83
Votes Affirmative—180
Non-Voters—36
Abstentions—4

Bruce McKie, chairman of the constitutional committee and a spokesman for Student Government, stated the following in an interview for the ELM:

"The proposed Student Government Constitution has proven two things—first, that the majority of the students feel that there is a definite need for student government; and 2—by the number of votes cast (only 36 persons showed no interest in the balloting) it showed that there is a definite interest in student government in what is desirable for the student body in relations with the administration and faculty.

"Judging by the desire of many of the students, the proposed constitution will be discussed further next September with the view in mind of establishing Student Government at Washington College."

Herb Brown, Phi Sig Head

Herb Brown, junior, was elected president of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, to serve for the school year 1952-53. He will succeed Bill Trueth, first president of the national fraternity, to the post.

Other new officers were Charles Whitsett, vice-president, Dick Stevens, secretary, and Al Vinward, treasurer. These men succeed Syd Bare, Henry Fryan and Bob Rouse in their respective positions.

Additional officers for next year include Ken Brown, Sentinel and House Manager, Stan Kaufman, Inductor, and Bill Winterling, Rush Chairman.

The new president is a member of the Forensic Society and president of the Debate Society. He is also a member of Mt. Vernon Literary Society and the Washington Players. He served as a representative of the sophomore class on the Student Government Committee.

Eleven Senior Students Win ODK Activities Awards

Eleven senior students were awarded Omicron Delta Kappa activities keys for outstanding service in extra-curricular activities in an assembly held Thursday. The awards were presented by Berni Rudo, outgoing president of the honorary fraternity.

Schellinger Is Elected Women's Government Head

Dois Schellinger, a junior, has been elected president of the Women's Student Government Association of Washington College. She will succeed Nancy Crabtree, graduating senior in that office. Other newly elected officers are Eleanor Dryden, vice-president, and Sybil Urig, secretary. The new officers will assume their duties immediately.

The new president was former secretary of the Association. She is also Rush Chairman of Alpha Chi Omega society, and held the office of chairman her junior year. She is a member of Mt. Vernon Literary Society and helped with the publication of "THE SAVANNAH". She is also a delegate to the Pan Hellenic Council for the Alpha Chi's.

Eleanor Dryden, vice-president, is also vice-president of Zeta Tau Alpha. She is a very active member of the Washington Players, having won the annual Oscar Award last year, and also serves as secretary of that group. She is a member of the Future Teachers of America and serves as Rush Chairman for Zeta Tau Alpha.

Secretary, Sybil Urig, a sophomore, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi society.

The president and vice-president of the Council are chosen each year from the rising senior class and the secretary from the rising junior class. To be eligible for membership in the Council a girl must be a resident of the college for at least a year and must have an accumulative index of 1.00. All women residents of the college are members of the association.

In a statement for the ELM, the new president said "With the defeat of Student Government on campus, we will try to make the Women's Student a worthwhile and hard working organization. We will do all that we can in looking out for the interests of the women at Washington College."

NOTATION

The Athletic Department requests that the spectators at the various athletic contests on Bulder Field, please constrain themselves and their conduct at all times.

Good sportsmanship should not only be shown the visiting team, but to the officials as well.

Those receiving the awards were Syd Bare, William Bonnett, Robert Bink, Elmer Gustafson, Bob Jackson, Vince Magliochetti, Sandy Reeder, Helen Roe, Phil Fritz, Jack Smith, and Kenny Sullivan.

The awards are made each year to those seniors who have been outstanding but are not members of the honorary fraternity, O.D.K. Syd Bare has served as past president of Alpha Omicron Psi, Bill Bonnett as president of Lambda Chi Alpha, a class officer and a member of the football and lacrosse squads. Bob Bink is feature editor of the Elm, past president of the Society of Sciences, and a member of the Washington Players. Elmer Gustafson is past president of Zeta Tau Alpha, and The Society of Sciences. He also was awarded the award of Merit by the Science department and received the Oscar for the best performance by the Washington Players.

Bob Jackson is vice-president of Kappa Alpha, president of the study class and the Canterbury Club and has held numerous other club offices. He also is a member of the lacrosse team. Vince Magliochetti has been a member of the varsity football and basketball teams, served as president of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and vice-president of the Newman Club. Sandy Reeder served as president.

Pan Hellenic Council Revises Rush System

The Pan Hellenic Council which is composed of the three societies on campus has received acceptance of their petition to the administration and the Committee on Seniors to shorten the rush period from a semester to six weeks. The action was taken to prevent long drawn out rush season, and to bring senior rush activities to a close before the Thanksgiving holidays.

The following dates have been submitted and approved by the committee for rushing functions next year:

September 28—Pan Hellenic Tea. Formal opening of rushing on campus.

October 1—The rush begins through the middle of October.

October 26-30—Informal Parties, November 2-6—Formal Parties, November 8—banquet of bids.

Under this plan no girl would need an index to be pledged into a sorority. However, if in February when the indices are released, any of those girls pledged who do not receive the required .75 index will be depleted. There, then, will be regarded only as an attitude of that particular sorority until an index of .75 or better is achieved.

The plan has been under the surveillance of the societies for the past several months. All former rush rules set down by the Pan Hellenic Council will apply during the six weeks set.

Election Results

Results of the class elections held by ODK on Thursday were as follows:

Sophomore Class—
President, Al Shinkley
V-President, Al Condelio
Secretary, Joan Vanik
Treasurer, Joanne Cusack
Junior Class—
President, Bob Appleby
V-President, John Newbold
Secretary, Jo Budd
Treasurer, Red Ware
Senior Class—
President, John Gaim
V-President, Ty Rollins
Secretary, Pat Neighbor
Treasurer, Grace Isle

'52 Oscar Awards To Comedy Stars

Top honors in performance this year on the Washington College stage went to Elmer Gustafson and Pete Burdage for their part in the spring comedy, "My Sister Ellen." The awards, which are in the form of Oscars, were presented at the annual Players' banquet at the Granary, Monday, May 12.

Other winners were Jane Miller, for her portrayal of the mother in "The Glass Menagerie," and Alan Exterly for his part as "The Wreck" in "My Sister Ellen." The directors award went to Helen Roe for the spring comedy, and the staging award to Herman Spangole for his work as stage manager for the Players during the year.

All but one of the acting awards went to newcomers to the Washington College Stage. Elmer Gustafson, who played the part of Ellen has been active in various activities, serving as president of Zeta Tau Alpha and the Society of Seniors. This was his first venture behind the footlights.

Pete Burdage, male Oscar Winner, is a freshman this year. He appeared with the Chester Players in "Strange Bed Fellows" and was the narrator for the "Evilive in Drama" which the Players presented in March. Pete, who played the role of Clark, the unscrupulous newspaper man, in the comedy, has been an active member of the freshman class and participated in the entertainment during the Cornation Ball.

Jane Miller, who received honorable mention, is a veteran Player. She played in the musical "The Mark's Fair" during the 1950-51 season and was also in the one-act play "Ashes of Roses." She is a sophomore this year and a member of Zeta Tau Alpha.

"The Wreck"—Immy won in "My Sister Ellen", was for Alan Exterly, on honorable mention also. He is a newcomer this year to the Players. He had the part of the emerald boy, mean man in the one-act play "Yes Means No."

The Oscar winners were announced by William Landon, outgoing president of the Players, and the year's winner, and Mt. Vernon Freshman for Tom Lowe, also last year's winner. The awards were selected by a faculty committee including Mrs. E. Winifred O'Grady, advisor for the Players, Dean Baalby and Mt. Brubaker.

Rollins I. F. C. President

Cy Rollins, recently elected vice president of Theta Chi and the new class, has been elected by the Inter-Fraternity Council to serve as its president for the coming year. Elected to serve with him were John Minich as vice-president, and George Connolly as treasurer. Charles Whitsett was appointed to serve secretary position pending the Phi Sigma Kappa election results.

The officers of the Inter-Fraternity Council are elected on a rotation basis each year. Each officer is a representative of one of the four fraternities.

Ongoing officers for the group include Clark Wessie, president, Cy Rollins, vice-president, Steel Langford, secretary, and Charles Whitsett, treasurer. Mr. Edward Barnett, professor of English, will continue to serve as faculty advisor for the group.

O.D.K. Elects Treuth

Alpha Psi circle of Omicron Delta Kappa recently elected Bill Trueth as president for the coming year to succeed Berni Rudo. John Gaim was elected to serve as vice-president, succeeding Jim Trader, and Dr. Charles B. Clark, Dean of Men, and Edward L. Achey, athletic director, were re-elected to serve as secretary-treasurer and faculty advisor, respectively.

The meeting also consisted of the voting of awards to be given to outstanding seniors who have made notable contributions to life of the college. Final plans were drawn up for the annual banquet to be held at the Granary on May 13th.

THE RIGHT MAN

Last week on this page we emphasized the point that those of us who are eligible to vote in this year's election have a moral obligation to do so. Those who don't, have no right to criticize the man who is elected to office.

This week, we of the Elm editorial staff would like to announce that we are quite pleased with the results of the Forensic Society's mock Convention last week and offer our personal support (however insignificant it may be) to achieving the goal of nominating Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Republican candidate for the presidency and as the next president of the United States.

We feel that there is a definite need for a change of hands among those who handle the reins of our government. It is seldom a healthy thing to have one organization in control of a government for a prolonged period of time, especially when that government is for a large a scale as our federal government today.

We feel that our international policy is, in general, being conducted fairly well and we believe that Eisenhower would continue to follow essentially the same courses of action. We can not believe the same of Mr. Taft.

We believe that several healthy changes could be made on the domestic scene and that Mr. Eisenhower and his supporters are thoroughly capable of making intelligent alterations in present policy and action.

We believe that Mr. Eisenhower is the only leading G.O.P. contender who is not tied hand in foot with the "Old Guard" element of the Republican party which tends to be isolationistic.

We believe that Eisenhower is the only Republican who could win a national election if nominated.

In other words—We Like Ike!

INDIFFERENT SHOMEN

Washington College seems to be one of the most unusual college campuses in the United States. We have a reputation of being the "friendly college"—one big happy family where everybody is everyone else's friend. But—one thing that public reputation doesn't include—and we're lucky it doesn't—is the disorganization and the disinterest of students on campus, when extra-curricular activities are concerned—in relation to being friendly—the other covers way over it.

We speak of disorganization and disinterest in this instance, in reference to the decision by the students to vote down Student Government. (And we're not crying over spilled milk as several of our critics would like us believe.)

The Elm favors student government—and favors it any way we can get it. Why? Because student government is just as valuable in our education as classes—it is practical training for our future life—and most of all—it teaches us how to govern and be governed by our fellow men—which we're all going to do eventually.

We favor the constitution as drawn up by the Student Government Committee in its original form. We can, however, see a few points that could stand a change after student government is on its way. It has been mentioned that the Committee did not give itself enough power in regulating student activities. Perhaps they didn't, but—they have to start somewhere and by presenting a broad and elastic constitution they enabled themselves to work up to assuming more powers. We all must remember that we are just apprentices in the field of Student Government at Washington College.

We recognize the difficulties presented by the lateness of the presentation of the Constitution. However, we also noted a very real crowd in the assembly hall the day Chairman McKie discussed the document and in one of the class meetings—the representation was not quite a third. You can't call that the students were too busy to attend. They certainly aren't too busy to criticize everything constructive that is attempted.

Apparently the minority of the campus (it was a minority that defeated the Constitution) is opposed to change of any type—"maintain the status quo" etc. To date, however, we have failed to give one good reason for the opposition—other than "the administration is trying to run it down our throats"—which we don't consider a GOOD reason, mainly because it isn't true. Frankly, we are of the opinion that they just don't want to take the trouble to alter with it, which is no credit to them.

We suggest and urge the Student Government committee to introduce the constitution again in September—with a recall of the change made requiring two-thirds of the student body to two-thirds of the votes cast—as it appeared in the original. We see no reason for a minority such as the one that defeated the Constitution this week to stop progress at Washington College again.

Senior Of ... ...The Week

Bob Brink: Bob, originally a native of upper New York State, transferred to Washington College in January, 1950. At the end of his first semester with us, he was elected in the post of vice-president of the Society of Sciences, which, along with the Players, he joined on his arrival. In his second semester at W.C., Bob was initiated into Alpha Omega Nu Fraternity and served as Chaplain of the group for the remainder of that semester.

In January, 1951, he assumed the office of president of the Society of Sciences. In this same year, he also began writing news stories for the Elm, joined the Forensic Society, and held roles in two of the Washington Players' productions of the year. Later that spring he participated in the Art Club's Exhibit of Student Art works.

During his senior year, Bob has spent from his role as Fraternity Editor of the Elm, worked more or less behind the scenes as an advisor in various science club, literary society, and senior class activities. He served actively as chairman of the senior class banquet committee and as chairman of the recent Society of Science's Annual Exhibit.

Bob is also known, among those who care to occasionally bury their faces in some such, as a bartender. In addition to this, he spent many of his work-week last year playing piano for the now defunct college dance band.

We will be sorry to lose Bob this June and wish him the best of luck and success in his studies at McGill Medical School.

Question of the Week

Question of the Week: How do you like the 1952 Pegasus?

Do you have any suggested changes for next year's edition?

Steve McHale: Not being an expert on yearbooks, I hate to criticize. However—

George Conwell: I think it's all right, but they should have put the student's names and addresses in.

Helen Roy: Very prompt, but where was the organization?

Jim Smith: I think it is a very fine yearbook and the editor and his staff deserve a lot of credit.

Ray Poome: It is obvious that there were some gross errors made either by the editor or the printer. Otherwise the book seems on a par with the other W.C. Publications.

Peggy Carlson: I believe it to be quite good. Anyway, it's a book.

Dick Kent: I'd like to see the sports all together and a directory in the back. Otherwise it was very nice and well presented.

Mort Smith: Very nice, but what about Professor Kudo and the boys on page 49?

Carv Wyckoff: The 1952 Pegasus runs on a par with the last three editions. However, I still believe that the book can be improved 1952 by using up to date pictures.

Betty Brundage: I would like to see a directory in the back, the seniors in the front, and the sports all together. I think the people concerned should be congratulated on getting it out on time, though.

Ed Stewart: On the whole, the book was well laid out, but I would rather see the senior pictures in the front and the organization pictures better organized.

Sam O'Connell: It's O.K.

Most Frequent Criticism: Should have a student directory in the back.

OUR HATS ARE OFF

To you, the seniors, who will be, in just a couple of weeks, men and women of the world—fighting the forces of starvation and the draft board—may we the undergrads, still in the hayseed stage of our college career—take our hats off to you. It takes a lot to finish four years of college. A lot of determination, sacrifice in some instances, and a few brains tucked away here and there.

In this, the final edition of the ELM (except for the special commencement edition) we would like to tell the world that we think you're an especially great class. A lot of hard workers have come out of your class—a lot of top notch material. We won't mention names because it would take too long, but you know who you are—and we do to.

And also you seniors—who don't act a bit like most seniors are supposed to. You've been overly friendly to all the newcomers—you've been a big help in getting the freshmen interested in all the activities they have started—in fact you've stayed on the ball all year—even after your successors filled the offices, you kept piping up the honors and kept working.

So, again we say—hat's off to the seniors. We hope you'll continue your interest in us and in Washington College. With your new alumni officers you have a going organization. Keep up the good work!

On The Hill

The lack of a column for the last two weeks, due mainly to finding anyone to write it—has really galled us—the facts for a rundown this week. Here goes.

Phyl claims she was the "highest officer" at the Player's banquet Monday night. That's OK Phyl, You're just a senior once.

And speaking of Players—congratulations to all the actors winners!

We hear the Bermuda Bell in front of Middle Hall at all hours now. Some third floor cat gone Poof???

The scramble for rooms in Middle Hall is driving Mrs. Wilborn to insanity—Please—don't try for any more. There's just ain't nothin' left! And speaking of rooms—we hear the Zetas are starting a chapter house on the third floor.

Hey Grace—want to buy a bathrobe. You may need it next year!

Seen recently—a certain sophomore Lambda and a certain sophomore A.O.P. Lucrose anyone?

The "College day" track meet was quite a success—except for Harbel's melted Hershey Bar. If anyone's hungry—just stop by East Hall. He's starting his own private confectionery.

Wedding bells are ringing our ears—Nick and Sally—By Dory and Sam—Bill Rogers and Joe McCall—and Mel Littleton and Priscilla Mills—all on June 7th. Just to be different and exclusive—Cy and M.A. have picked May 28th as the life day.

Shirley Hoad—what's this about buying kitchen utensils?

Sports Highlights

By Ellsworth Boyd

TRIBUTE TO A CHAMPION

The summer of 1938 brought to a close the athletic career of one of Washington College's most notable track and field performers. The far-famed feds of Gibby Young became known to every track aspirant who entered Washington College. He was somewhat of a legend . . . an athlete who not only participated in five different track events, but also managed to set records in three of them.

The summer of 1932 is drawing near, and with it will terminate another fabulous career of one of the Shore school's most versatile cindermen. Kenay Howard's association with track here, has been like that of Babe Ruth to baseball.

This diminutive, fleet-footed thimble concluded his three years of track here with a record breaking broad jump exhibition in the Mason-Dixon Championships last Saturday at Homewood. His leap of twenty-two feet, nine and one-half inches erased the old one of twenty-two feet, four and five-eighths inches set in '38 by Washington's "Doc" Tully.

Captain of this year's squad, "The Jet" will not only graduate with this M-D record. During his three year reign he has established fifteen records in the school's dual meet competition! These marks have been set in the 100, 220 and broad jump, against such notables as West Chester, Loyola, Catholic U. and the Baltimore Olympic Club.

He holds the Kibler Field broad-jump record of 23 feet and was a member of the school's record breaking mile relay team consisting of Mickey Hubbard, Jim Twilley and Larry Brandenburg. "Captain Kenny" has been acclaimed as the high scorer of the M-D Championships in '50, '51, and '52 when he scored 14, 17, and 18 points respectively.

Through his diligent work, inspirational spirit, and unassuming personality, Kenny Howard will long be remembered as a credit to his sport, his team, and his college.

Sullivan Hurls No - Hitter

When former Shore coach, Frank Applebald, brought his Mt. Saint Mary's baseball squad to Kibler Field on May 8, his team was not only dealt a twin defeat, but his star pitcher of 1950 sent "Appy" and his boys back to Emmitsburg, disgraced by a no-hit game.

Kenny Sullivan pitched a 7-0 victory in the second game of the doubleheader, allowing only two runs in the fifth inning by walking four of the Mount tatters. It was Sullivan's second win of the season for the Sho' nine.

Cooper Delosh handled the mound duties in the initial contest, as he, too, won his second game, by the score of 5-0.

This twin killing, coupled with the twosome win over American University, brought the Kiblermen out of their slump and boosted their win column considerably.

Stickmen Win Two

Washington College scored its first post 15 seconds after the start of the first game, then rolled on to an 8-5 victory over Western Maryland on May 9 in a tune-up for their match with the U. of Virginia.

The first team raw action only during the second quarter, as Coach Clark substituted freely, every player seeing action. Dick Cadden and Chuck Waeche led the scoring for the Maroon and Black with two goals apiece.

The only highlight in the Tertiary play was that of goalie Wineland who accounted for 19 saves during the afternoon.

Two days before this Western Md. contest, the Clarkmen dealt Georgetown's crackermen a 1-5 beating on the lower field. The Sho' scoring was not up, many ways as everyone in action once again.

Kiblermen Top B.U.

Cooper Delosh turned in a brilliant evening, no-hit relief pitching effort last Saturday as Washington College came from behind to defeat Baltimore University's baseball squad 4-0.

This upset threw the Northern Division baseball race into a tie between the Bees and Loyola College, and left the Shoremen one-half game out of first. At the present time the B.U. squad has forged to the front in the league standings, but have not yet collected their season.

Delosh entered the contest in the fifth, his team trailing 4-1. He held the Bees in check throughout the rest of the contest to chalk up his fourth win of the season.

The Shoremen's big innings were in the 6th and 7th. Fourteen runs were scored in each, but three errors by the visitors aided the cause in both frames.

Bobby Thornton's, three-run homer in the first inning highlighted the initial phases of the contest for the Bees, but their awkward play in the 6th and 7th quelled any hope of victory.

Danny Samel, Al Zalesky and Dought Tilley were the big guns for the Maroon and Black as each pounded out two hits off the two Baltimore pitchers—Gebhardt and Anderson.

Netmen Bow To Hopkins

After losing out to Wilson State Teachers College, 5 to 4, and to Washington State, 8 to 1, the Washington tennis squad dropped a 5-0 decision to Johns Hopkins, and with this defeat sent their chances of capturing the Northern Division Championship.

St. Mary's was easily taken down, as Jack Smith, Bill Murray, Bruce and Gary Wyckoff and Tony Tontan all won their singles matches in quick fashion. The Wyckoff brothers, Murray and Lambdin, Tontan and Smith, then teamed up in the doubles to readily win over the Mountainers.

The Hopkins' blowouts came from behind in the final two doubles matches to upset the Maroon and Black on the Somerset courts last Saturday.

Saulis, Bruce, and Gary opened with victory by winning their singles, and Washington led in the team scoring 3-0. Tontan, Haverly and Murray led, as the Jays tied it up 3-3. The only doubles combination that stayed off the Jay rally was Haverly and Lambdin, who won 6-4, 7-5.

The netmen have a record of 7 wins and 2 defeats and will complete the season Saturday when they meet the racketeers of Baltimore U.

About 40 per cent of the nation's rock phosphate supply is in Florida, and Tennessee and 60 per cent in the Rocky Mountain States.

Cindermen Second In Mason-Dixon

Three men accounted for 32 points which were enough to give the Washington College track squad a second place honor in the annual Mason-Dixon Championships last Friday and Saturday at Homewood.

Bridgewater College of Virginia amassed 58 points to top the field of eleven schools and detestful defending champion, Catholic University.

Once again it was Washington's versatile Kenay Howard who captured individual high scoring honors. It was Kenay's final appearance for the Shore school and his superb performance was acclaimed by all.

"The Jet" won the broad jump and 220 yard dash, and was second in the 100, and low hurdles. He not only won the broad jump, but set a new meet record with a leap of 22'9 1/2". This accounted for 18 of the 32 marks gathered by the Maroon and Black.

Jim Taylor and Elly Boyd were the only other Shoremen who aided the cause, both scoring 7 points for their school. Taylor won the discus with a 133' heave and was named as the 16 lb. shot star enough for a fourth place. Boyd captured second place in the high hurdles, one-truth of a second behind the winner, tied for third in the high jump, and was fourth in the low hurdles.

Cross country, the iron man of the meet, ran trials of the 100, 220, low hurdles, and broad jump on Friday. On top of this he ran semis in the low hurdles and 220, not long after these trial runs.

Although George Eichelberger, Bob Appleby and Jack McQuinn turned in creditable runs in their trial heat, the distance races they participated in were depleted, with the Southern schools being stronger than expected.

Hopkins' Don Manger accounted for the only record that was set in the two-day carnival as he broke a 4:21 in the one mile, to break Mike Cronen's record of last year. Manger doubled his distance events, returning later to capture the 880 yard run.

The only other record threatened was in the pole vault. Ray DeCosta, of Bridgewater, vaulted 12'9" to tie the old mark, but failed to better it when the bar was moved to 13 feet.

Team point scores are as follows: Bridgewater—58, Washington—32, Hopkins—28, Catholic U.—28, Loyola—15, Roanoke—13, Hampden-Sydney—9, Western Maryland—9, Gallaudet—9, Lynchburg—4, Tusculum—0.

Oxmen Edge Day Students

By "Scamp" Hollander

Theta Chi debuted to first place in the intermural football league last week by edging the Day Students, 7-6. The Mount St. Albans was defeated by Bob Appleby who took care of the Theta mound chores. However, it was Lou Burkley's line drive single to left field in the last frame of the contest, that spelled victory for the Oxmen.

The K.A.'s beat Lambda Chi, 17-12 behind the fine pitching of Chuck Waeche. The Lambda Chi failed to hit to the outfield because Bill "The Bird" Murray flew about the pastures so efficiently.

Before entering the playoffs, the standing series as follows: Theta Chi, Day Students, K.A., Lambda Chi, G.I. and Foxwell.

K.A.'s AND DAY STUDENTS WIN
In two intramural football games, played last Tuesday night, the K.A.'s scored a 25-15 victory over G.I. High as Bill Murray handled the pitching chores for the victors.

In the other contest, the Day Students downed Foxwell High, Ed King being credited for the win. This game was called in the fifth inning.

Blue Hens Bow, 11-6

Coach Charlie Clark's lacrosse squad returned from Delaware University last Wednesday and marked its sixth win the record book after downing the Blue Hens by an 11-6 count.

However, all was not peaches and cream as the home team grabbed a 3-2 halftime lead. The Clarkmen were slow in finding the range of the Delaware net.

The Shoremen bounded back after intermission to score four goals in the third period and five in the fourth, while the Hens could only net three post goals Russell during the entire second half.

Bobby Jackson scored the first tally of the contest as the Maroon and Black took an early lead, but the Delaware net bounded back with three straight goals before Larry Leonard fired one into the goal. Both Jackson and Leonard were credited with three goals apiece and were the main cogs in the Sho' second half rally.

Bernie Rudo and John Grim scored two each in the second half, while Bob Lipsitz scored one.

Delaware midfielder, Don Scher, was high man for the Shore with three extra man goals, two of which were made on an soccer man play.

The stickmen will face-off with Baltimore U. this afternoon on Kibler Field in a contest long awaited by many lacrosse followers. The Bees own field goal record of 10 goals, and will be gunning for their eighth win in this, their final game of the year.

The Baltimoreans have two high scoring midfielders in the persons of Mike DePasquale and Joe McFadden, both former prep school stars. The Bees deal a possession type of ball, and will be out to average their defeat by the Shoremen in '51.

Virginia Laces W.C.

The University of Virginia's lacrosse squad continued its bid for national collegiate honors last Saturday by defeating the Shoremen, 10 to 6.

It was the Cavaliers' strength came from the sticks of Gordie Jones and Dick Godine who denied the Sho' nets for 5 and 4 goals respectively. These two Cavaliers have led their team during their last seven wins, the latter tallying at the rate of 3.6 goals per game.

Tom Conpton fired a shot into the Washington goal in the opening minutes of play and his teammates added three more before Larry Leonard was able to break a shut post goal.

Major late in the first period. Coach Bob Fulton's squad hit for five goals in the second period to break a 9-2 lead at intermission. The Orange and Blue outscored the Clarkmen 3-1 and 4-2 in the last two quarters to win readily. Leonard scored one more goal and was followed by Graham Menzies, Bob Jones, Bob Lipsitz and John Grim, to complete the Washington scoring.

Congratulations

The sports staff of the ELM wishes to extend its sincerest best wishes to the newly elected captains of the basketball and baseball teams for next year.

Captain Dan Samel will head the hardwood forces next season, while John Santilli was chosen to lead the diamond hoplites in '53. Santilli was also chosen as president of the Varsity Club, replacing Bernie Rudo. Jimmy Gardner was elected vice-president.

Track, cross-country, tennis, and lacrosse have yet to hold elections for captaincy.

Athletic Banquet To Be Held May 21

Athletic Director Edward L. Athey has announced that the annual Washington College athletic banquet will be held May 21, at 6:30 P.M. in Hodgson Hall.

All students other than those who have been official members of varsity athletic teams will get the first shift of dinner on the 21st.

Guest speakers include Charles Berry, Athletic Director of Wisconsin High School, and George Carrington, Principal of Crivello High. Both are former Washington College graduates.

At the conclusion of the banquet and the speeches, the letter awards for the year will be made by the coaches to the members of their respective teams.

W. C. Racquetters Down Towson

The Washington College tennis team captured its fifth Conference match last Wednesday by defeating Towson State Teachers, 8 to 1.

Jack Smith won his ninth straight singles match and took care of the first two. Saturday was a clean slate judging from past performances, he will end the season undefeated in over-all competition.

In each singles match, except the one which was lost, and in all of the doubles, the Shoremen won in straight sets.

Varsity Club Elects Johnny Santilli

At a meeting of the Varsity Club on May 12th, John Santilli was elected to serve as president for the coming year, succeeding Bernie Rudo. Elected to serve with him were Stump Gardner, vice-president; Doug Tilley, treasurer; and Eddie Cingolia, secretary.

It was reported by Vince Magliocco, manager of the Varsity Club, that the organization, after beginning the year with a deficit of $71.96, had paid off all its debts, purchased new sweaters, and at present has a balance in the treasury of $95.67.

John Smith has been a member of the senior team for four years, played varsity basketball, served on the Promotion Staff of the Washington Players. He was also president of the Newman Club. Ken Sullivan was co-captain of the basketball team and captain of the football team. He was secretary of the Varsity Club and a member of the Newman Club.

Dean Bradley

Dean Bradley At Dinner

Miss Amanda T. Bradley, Dean of Women, recently attended the annual dinner of the Shakespeare Club of New York. The affair was held at the famous National Arts Club in Gramercy Park.

The club is made up of actors, critics and friends of the Shakespearean drama. Numerous actors and critics from the New York theatrical world were present at the dinner, plus representatives from other Shakespeare Clubs from various parts of the country.

Among the awards presented for "meritorious service" in the Shakespearean theater was to the Laurence Olivier, who recently appeared in the Cleopatra plays, Mr. Marcell, Director of the British Film Academy, received the certificate for them.

Feature of the evening was a presentation by the Mines and Museums of Fordham University of Pyramons and Thibide, from Midwestern Night's Dream. This was won then top honors at the Intercollegiate Play Festival of Jesuit Colleges last year.

Science Awards

Arc Announced

It has been recently announced that the recipient of the Society of Sciences Certificate of Merit for the year will be Elinor Gustafson, past president of the Society. She will officially receive the certificate during graduation ceremonies.

"Gussie," a biology major and chemistry minor, was selected to receive the award for having contributed the most to the cause of science while at Washington College.

The recipient of the Society of Sciences Medal, which goes to the member of the graduating class who has attained the highest scholastic index while majoring in science at Washington College will be Frank C. Gumbel. He is a major in chemistry and a minor in Biology.

Song Fest Said Success

Washington College's first annual Song Fest, which was held last Friday evening, May 19th, in front of Middle Hall was carried off with some degree of success.

There were three women's organizations and two men's organizations competing for first place awards which were loving cups—one to be presented to the outstanding men's group and the other to the women's group.

The women's cup went to Alpha Omicron Pi for their rendition of "In the Still of the Night", while Lambda Chi Alpha won the men's award with "Bye-Bye My Baby". This first Song Fest was really an experiment but because of the promising turnout, might be termed a preview of those which are to be held in the future.

With The GREEKS

Alpha Omicron Pi

Friday evening, on the terrace of Middle Hall, President Gibson presented to Alpha Omicron Pi the cup of the First Annual Song Fest. The society won the cup with the singing of "In the Still of the Night" and an arrangement of Brahms' Lullaby. This triumph was the culmination of a successful year for Alpha Omicron Pi. The first in many activities during the school year was a banquet on November 30. The funds from this project and from a card party held at Hudson Hall March 26, enabled the society to adopt their little Dutch girl for another year. Most recently, the girls held a bake sale in Chestertown, and intend to donate their accumulated profits to the hospital.

The society this year was under the able leadership of Sandy Reeder. Five her outstanding work with Sigma Tau Chapter and her citizenship and scholastic record at Washington College, she was presented with a silver bowl at the Alpha Omicron Pi Annual State Day held in Baltimore, Maryland.

Alumni Officers

In an effort to form a dynamic alumni organization, the senior class has selected permanent alumni officers who will represent their class in alumni affairs. Jim Habel was elected to serve as president, and in that capacity will be charged with coordinating the activities of the class as alumnus. Elinor Gustafson was selected secretary, and will be in charge of handling correspondence and keeping the alumni Bulletin board on activities of the members. Bill Bennett and M. S. The class also initiated a Gift Fund which will be accumulative. Every five years the president will turn over the contributions of the members to the college to use as it sees fit. The elections were under the di-

85 Seniors Will Receive Degrees

The Washington Elm

VOL. XX—No. 16

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1952

63 Art Degrees-22 Science Will Be Conferred Sunday

Eighty-five seniors will receive their baccalaureate degrees Sunday in an outdoor ceremony to be held at Washington College in front of Middle Hall dormitory at 2:30 P.M. Of the graduates, 63 will receive the arts degree and 22 the science degree.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, president of the College, will preside over the ceremonies, and Rev. Thomas Donaldson, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Centerville, will give the invocation and benediction.

The academic procession, consisting of the faculty members, the Board of Visitors and Governors and the candidates for degrees, will begin at Reid Hall and march through the main gate onto the campus. There the groups will split with the faculty on one side and the candidates on the other. Awarding of diplomas will follow President Darden's address to the graduates.

Honors and prizes will be awarded following the conferring of honorary degrees. The ceremony will close with the singing of America and benediction.

Candidates for degrees are as follows: Bachelor of Arts—Kay Heigle (Continued on Page Four)

Colgate W. Darden, Jr. Will Address '52 Graduates Sun.

Colgate W. Darden, Jr., president of the University of Virginia, and former governor of that state, will deliver the Commencement address to eighty-five candidates for Bachelor's degrees at the 170th Commencement Exercises on Sunday, June 1, at 2:30 P.M. The honorary degree of doctor of laws will be conferred upon President Darden at that time.

COLGATE W. DARDEN, JR.

Capt. Gilbert T. Rude will be conferred with the honorary degree of Science during the ceremonies. The award will be made for his outstanding service to the United States and the College.

Weather permitting, the ceremonies will be held on the campus in front of Middle Hall. Baccalaureate services will be held in the morning in Ball Smith Auditorium at 10:30 a.m.

The candidates for degrees will walk down the "Saxel L" to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" Degrees will be conferred by Doctor Daniel Z. Gibson, president of the college.

President Darden, the main speaker, is a native of Virginia, and received his undergraduate education at the State University. He was awarded a master of arts degree from Columbia University, and received his LL.B. degree from the same institution.

He was a member of the House of Representatives in the 75th, 76th, 77th and 78th Congresses. He left Congress to serve as Governor of Virginia from 1912 until 1916. He has been in his present post since 1917.

President Darden served with the U. S. Marine Corps and the French Army in World War I and has served as a member of the Board of Visitors and Governors at the Naval Academy.

Sophie Kerr Will Speak

Mrs. Sophie Kerr, noted author of novels and short stories, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Women's League of Washington College, Saturday, May 31, at 2:30. The meeting will be held in Hoston Hall and will be followed by a tea in her honor.

Mrs. Kerr is a native of Maryland. Born in Denton, she attended Hoad College in Frederick, Maryland, where she received her A.B. degree. In 1912 she received an honorary Doctor of Literature degree from Washington College.

Journalistic training for Mrs. Kerr came through her editorship of the women's page of the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph, and as editor of a women's Sunday Supplement in the Gazette Times, also a Pittsburgh paper. She was also Managing Editor of the Women's Home Companion.

Mrs. Kerr is the author of numerous novels and short stories. Among these are "Carnegie Going Up," "Michael's Girl," and the play "Big Hearted Herbert."

She will be the guest of honor guests at a luncheon before Commencement Exercises and will attend the exercises on Sunday.

Brink Wins Elm Award

Robert Brink, '52 graduate and former editor of the ELM, has been awarded the Edwin Riddle Ryle Memorial Award for outstanding service to the college paper. The award is granted each year to the senior who has contributed most to the advancement of the newspaper.

Bob joined the ELM staff in his sophomore year as a reporter and was appointed feature editor in the spring of 1951. For the past year he has been responsible for all material on "page 2" including his "once in a while" column—"Things In General." Besides his ELM activities, Bob is past president of the Society of Six, a member of Alpha Omega Nu local fraternity, and a member of the Washington Players.

The ELM award was presented last year to the former news editor, Alexander Jones. This will be the second presentation. The award is in the memory of the former editor of the ELM, Edwin R. Ryle, a member of the 1931 graduating class, who was killed just prior to his graduation.

Mrs. Dickinson Is On Board

Mrs. Lula M. Dickinson, widow of John Dickinson, member of the Board of Visitors and Governors for Washington College for nine years, has been appointed to that Board to replace her husband. She will be the second woman to be a member of the Washington College Board.

Mrs. Dickinson is the former Lula M. McKee, of Greensboro, N. C. Carolina. She is the daughter of the founder of the Women's College of North Carolina and the first president of that school. Mrs. Dickinson, herself is a graduate there.

During the '70s she held several positions in the government and in 1937 was the director for the North Eastern district of the Federal Agency, handling shows for artists, musicians, etc. She was married to John Dickinson in 1908.

Mrs. Dickinson will assume her duties immediately following the meeting of the Board on the 4th of June. May 31. At this time she will be officially sworn in as a member.

Gibson Will Speak At Graduation

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College, will be the guest speaker at four commencement exercises, during the next several weeks. His talks are scheduled for Caroline High School in Dayton on the 4th of June, Cloverton High School on the 5th, Wirtsville High School in Salisbury on the 6th, and Thoreau de Grace High School on the 11th.

Rudo Awarded Wolman Trophy

Bernie Rudo, senior from Baltimore, was voted most valuable player by members of the Washington College Lacrosse squad at a recent meeting. A captain, leader, Rudo is a four-year letterman in lacrosse, having performed at both attack and midfield. For the past two seasons he has played outstanding lacrosse and his selection for the Wolman trophy, awarded by Murray Wolman, '26, a former team manager, was a popular choice on the campus.

Rudo has been president of Omicron Delta Kappa, of his social fraternity, and of the Varsity Club. He played Bernie Rudo, past president of Omicron Delta Kappa, has been voted to receive the annual Gold Pentagon Award from Alpha Psi Circle of O.D.K. The annual Gold Pentagon will go to T. R. Spedden, class of 1917.

These awards, a feature of Commencement ceremonies for many years, are awarded to an alumnus and a student who have made outstanding contributions to who have achieved distinction which reflect honor on the college.

Mr. Spedden, a prominent business man of New Orleans, La., has preserved the College with some valuable pictures and newspaper clippings or by game days which will be of great help to the College historian. He will be tapped into honorary membership in Omicron Delta Kappa (Continued on Page Four) his selection. His coach, Dr. Charles B. Clark, said "Bernie has always been a team player and has sacrificed gain for the squad. Only a coach and squad observing him each day in practice and in each game can truly appreciate his value to the team. Generally in the past the award has gone to a player who has received much greater recognition, but this year the award is almost in the class of an unusual honor award. Bernie's conquest, fine defensive play, and direction of the offense will make him a greatly missed player with 1952. He is greatly to have a squad give recognition to such qualities as he has displayed."

Honorary Degree To Capt. Rude

Captain Rude

Captain Gilbert T. Rude—ex '52, will be awarded the honorary degree of doctor of science at the Commencement Exercises for his outstanding service to the United States and the college. Captain Rude has been active in the affairs of the College, particularly in the Washington chapters of the Alumni Association.

Captain Rude served in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey for 13 years, writing on 1935. Among his many accomplishments are co-inventor of the "Rude-Forsyth Sounding Tube" and inventor of the "Rude-Forsyth Automatic Tide Gauge" and the "Rude-War Ruler and Identifier." His scholarly achievements include the award of the Newton Medal in 1925. This medal is the highest award made by the American Society (Continued on Page Four)

CONGRATULATIONS AND GOOD LUCK

Every June someone writes a special piece to the graduating seniors—wishing them well and describing in vague form—what's ahead of them, always emphasizing that a lot depends upon the way they will think and act—and it does. But it seems like it has all been said so many times that you seniors have a pretty good idea of what's ahead—and certainly by now you know what your place in the world is going to be—so we won't mention it.

However, there is a little bit of advice—it comes from an anonymous author who seemed to understand human nature a little better than most of us. With ungrounded permission we would like to take this opportunity to pass it on.

Remember This—

Be good, but not too good . . . a little naughty, but not too naughty . . . Say a prayer if you feel that way, say damn if it gives you consolation.

Be kind to the world always, if possible . . . yet if you must be unkind, smash right and left . . . get it over with and forget it . . . Smile, always smile, have a smile ready even though sometimes it hurts . . . Grab all the happiness you can . . . wherever and whenever you can . . . don't open for a wee bit slip past you . . . Live, live all things live, don't simply exist.

If you are blessed enough to know what real love is . . . love with all your heart, soul and body.

Live your life so that at any hour you will be able to shake hands with yourself and try to accomplish at least one thing worthwhile each day . . . Then when your nights come you will be able to pull up the covers and say to yourself—"I have done my best."

Good wishes and congratulations sent!

Thanks For The Memories

That first week of school in 1951— eager freshmen, the upperclassmen acting as though they had been here for fifty years—impromptu parties amid paint and unpacking—the freshman dance that always starts at least one romance—then Monday morning classes and a new existence for the freshmen—the old swing for the rest.

Sophomores start hating—nannies and beards dot the campus—a mud bath for those who rebel and a general ransacking of a few rooms in Reid Hall by a couple of friendly upperclass girls—sawdust in refectory.

No football team—but we all had that autumn spirit—Saturdays brought picnics at the cliffs—or if it rained—your guest is as good as ours! We traveled to Baltimore for football games—and more parties—and we studied for blue books from new professors.

Honors came for five seniors—ODK added a new member to the ranks—for outstanding leadership—and then Who's Who picked eleven that we thought were an indispensable part of the college campus—these were the seniors that really worked—the recognition was nice but what they got out of their jobs was better.

Then Homecoming—we missed the parade but filled evening the alumni—the usual party prevailed at the armory—all too soon we were looking for the Thanksgiving holidays—studying for a second set of bluebooks—and darning the winter coats—the fall sure lay by.

Christmas seemed better this year than ever—the spirit caught hold of the campus two weeks before the holly and ribbons were taken out of storage brought the crowds—and per usual we lost.

Second semester and we were all off to a good start. The Phi Kappa Sigma national over the semester vacation—in tuces—grades paid the A.O.P.'s on top with 2.1. Enrollment was down—covering for the class officers—and Bill Smith Hall was filled with amateur politicians—all trying to convince the California delegate to switch to The Praty of note, plenty of action—Washington College was getting a taste of November!

Lacrosse fans took to the stands and the road—the usual "followers" were found at Duke and North Carolina—and the home games brought mostly remarks for the referees—they just don't seem to get along with the stands and referees.

Then—the May Sing—something new and sometimes successful—a small crowd for the first time—mostly the curious—but the beginning of a crowd—tradition—And finally—last last couple of weeks—trying to finish up books—earn pay and reports—then the last week—full of club banquets—

Over Awards—certificates—and counting the hours till classes were over—Senior class relaying but once in a while would jump to their senses with the realization that it was all over—A week of exams—prize Heaven for the rain—and a week of just plain love—Tomorrow—graduation—Monday—the outside world!

And that "voice is the dark" for the Tribune to Drama—the show on the road for Rock Hall High School—each trip to institutions and the Supreme Court—a slight touch of "spring fever" for a majority of the students.

Sororities and fraternities took lead with the phish and initiation activities—oh those banquets at the Granary and a sassy sassy afternoon . . . but it was fun.

And that "voice is the dark" for the Tribune to Drama—the show on the road for Rock Hall High School—each trip to institutions and the Supreme Court—a slight touch of "spring fever" for a majority of the students.

And politics—think and feel—elections—student government plots—conventions—Young Republican clubs—the stack box was filled with election-age—clubs—parties—and a handful of matches for the Middle Hall girls from "D. R." Then Friday night and a snowstorm—to Saturday classes—last minute packing and food farewells—and we braved the arctic fun a few extra hours at home.

It seemed like an eternity till New Year's parties in Baltimore—then back to school. It rained for weeks—Club 82 provided—then exams—First semester couldn't be over that fast!

All this while the football team is having a career—a season—an enthusiastic crowd at the beginning—then a halt—and finally—it's hard for the cheerleaders to get a yell. Always Loy-

Sports Highlights

By Ellsworth Boyd

Howard Named Outstanding Athlete

Washington College held its annual athletic banquet May 21, and was honored to have as guest speakers two former alumni, Mr. Charles Berry, Athletic Director of Wisconsin High School, and Mr. George F. Carrington, Principal of Crisfield High School.

The toastmaster of the banquet was athletic council chairman, Harry Russell.

Kenny Howard was presented, for the second consecutive year, with the athletic council award for the best athlete of the year. This yearly award is given to any member of any athletic squad who, in opinion of the Washington College Athletic Council, has, by his cooperation, loyalty, spirit, and industry, contributed most to the development of athletics at the college.

Howard, who was captain of the track team, was also a member of the baseball squad and has been the only athlete at this school to ever compare with the immortal Gibby Young.

Rudo Awarded Trophy

The Murray Wolman trophy, presented to the outstanding lacrosse player of the season, was awarded to Bernie Rudo. Rudo has been named by Coach Clark's lacrosse squad for four years, during which time he has been a credit to the team and to the school.

The final award presentation was made by Coach Athey who acclaimed the diligent work of Tom Hiederman, manager of the basketball and baseball teams.

All-Stars Named

Coach Charlie Clark announced the names of three members of his lacrosse squad who were chosen to play for the South-all-star team in the annual North-South clash at the Polo Grounds in New York on June 6.

This trio is: Bill Bonnett—Defenceman, Larry Leonard—Attack, and Bob Jackson—Midfielder. These three stickmen will leave one week prior to the game for a seven day practice session at West Point.

The banquet was concluded with the presentation of letter award certificates by the respective coaches of the six team sports.

BILL KABERNAGLE

Promising freshman defenseman who earned starting berth on stick squad, has bright future in lacrosse at Sho' school.

Netmen Close Season With 8-2 Record

The '52 tennis squad experienced its best season in the last four years, concluding the campaign with an 8 and 2 log.

Led by captain Gary Wyckoff, Bruce Wyckoff, and Jack Smith, the netmen barely missed the Northern Division Championship, losing a close defeat to Johns Hopkins.

Highlighting the season was Smith's outstanding performance in a single play. He successfully closed his career here at the Sho' school with a perfect 10 for 10 record. In addition to this, he teamed with C. Wyckoff in the doubles to form another winning combination.

Lost Opener

The capturers opened their season against Catholic U. who defeated the Washingtons, 8 to 2. However, the squad avenged this defeat by capturing 6 consecutive matches.

Western Md. was beaten 7-2 in the Washingtons' won 4 of 6 singles and made a clean sweep of the doubles. Next victim of the Southern courtmen was Loyola College, who bowed out to Bruce Wyckoff, Bill Murray, 7-2 as Bruce Wyckoff, Bill Murray, Jack Smith, Tom Thunian and Don Hevilly all won their singles matches.

The Baltimore Bees were the third victims of the victory hungry netmen. The Baltimoreans could not stand up to the victors, 8 to 2. It was a clean sweep at Baltimore, 9 to 0.

Loyola Bows Again

In a return match on the Greenbush courts, the Maroon and Black against Loyola 7-2, as Smith accounted for his 5th singles win.

In a non-offensive match, Villanova State Teachers fell before the Sho' net, 5-4, as the doubles combination of Bill Murray and Jerry Lambdin displayed remarkable team work in downing their opponents, 14-6, 7-5.

St. Mary's was the sixth victim, by an 8-0 score.

The W.C. squad was headed toward what seemed like another win when they triumphed in their first three singles matches against Johns Hopkins. However, the Sho' proved too strong for the Saveroy hopefuls and tied out a 5-1 victory.

Murray Elected Captain

Although the conference crown was lost, the netmen avenged the Hopkins loss with an 8-1 win over Towson. This was followed with another shut-out over Baltimore, U. 9 to 0.

Final statistics show Smith winning 10 for 10 in singles; B. Wyckoff winning 9 for 10; C. Wyckoff annexing 5 for 10; Murray capturing 5 for 10, Hevilly—4, and Tolan—7.

The team will be hard hit by the graduation of the Wyckoff brothers and Smith. All three have played 4 years for the Sho' team and will be sorely missed.

Bill Murray, of Fairfield, Conn., was elected captain of the '53 team and is expected to replace Bruce Wyckoff in the number one singles slot.

Menzies Led '52 Scoring

Graeme Menzies, of Lutherville, Md., 1952 Washington College Lacrosse Captain, led the Shoemen in scoring with 28 goals while contributing nine assists. Larry Leonard, of Annapolis, assumed the leadership in the important department of assists with thirteen, and scored nineteen goals. For three previous seasons, the combination of Menzies to Ray Wood, All-American of Washington College in 1951, was the most effective scoring combination. This year, however, Leonard frequently connected with Bob Lipitz for the most effective punch. Lipitz, taking over Wood's crease job, scored 21 goals to rank second to Menzies in this department. Other leading scorers were mid-fielders Jack Grim, 18, and Bob Jackson, 17. The latter played the first three games as defense.

The squad's official record follows:

Name & Position	Goals	Assists
Graeme Menzies (a)	28	9
Bob Lipitz (a)	21	5
Larry Leonard (a)	19	39
Jack Grim (m)	18	5
Bob Jackson (d.m.)	17	4
Bernie Rudo (m)	7	7
George Hevilly (m)	7	3
Chuck Wacziarg (m)	4	1
Jack Dall (a)	4	1
Ed Hagarth (a)	2	0
Bill Bonnett (a)	0	2

Lacrosse All-Stars Named By Clark

Coach Charlie Clark announced the names of three all-stars of his lacrosse squad who were chosen to play for the South-all-star team in the annual North-South clash at the Polo Grounds in New York on June 6.

This trio is: Bill Bonnett, Defenceman; Larry Leonard, Attack; and Bob Jackson, Midfielder. These three stickmen will leave one week prior to the game for a seven day practice session at West Point.

Leonard led the Washington team in assists with 39, Jackson was 5th highest in the scoring column with 17, and Bonnett's rugged defensive play often thwarted offensive scoring.

B. U. Set For Revenge

When the Baltimore University diamond forces take to the field today at 2 P.M., you can be sure they will give the quainter, nor ask for any return.

The Kiblerians almost prevented the Northern Division Champions from capturing their crown. The Bees were coasting along at the top of the Mason-Dixon loop when the Shoemen clumped them 9 to 5, and threw the squad into a tie with Loyola College.

The Bees managed to split a double-header with Western Md., while Loyola lost to Hopkins, and once again the Charles Street school was on top. But it was the Shoemen who threw the score into the Baltimore forces and the Mason-Dixon champs will be a cautious, yet vengeful nine this afternoon.

Led By Geraghty

The Western Shore squad boasts the loop's strongest batter in Dick Geraghty who chipped a strong 43R, closely followed by Bobby Thurlow and Bill Beck who were ranked 6th and 9th respectively in the league. Fitcher Bill Anderson holds the best average, winning six and dropping six only. He has chalked up 55 strikeouts in 54 2/3 innings, and is slated for the starting role in this afternoon's contest.

Rubbery Match

The Bees tested the Shoemen one of their early season games, 6 to 1, which makes this game the rubber contest between the two age old rivals.

Coach Kibler has the difficult task of choosing between either Cooper Deloach or Kenny Sullivan to start today's game.

Deloach was responsible for the 9-5 win over the Bees, while Sullivan was credited with a no-hitter against Mt. St. Mary's. Both have shown fine team and control.

Matthias Big Gun

Two hitlined power Steve Matthias would hold the key to the Shoemen's pitching attack. He has topped the team this season with a 3.15 average, fanned by fanning Doug Tilley who owns a 3.10 average.

Most of the early season flurries have been ironed out by Coach Kibler, and the team has developed into a smooth sailing, high spirited ball club.

Although the Baltimore U. forces are out for revenge, the Shoemen will be out for their second win in an attempt to send the Bees back to their hive.

Stickmen Defeat Alumni

In a regulation post-season game played on Kibler Field last Saturday, the Washington College lacrosse team defeated an aggregation of alumni players by a score of 11-7. It was not until the third quarter, however, that the Varsity caught and scored the "old men" who led 4-2 at the end of the first quarter and 6-4 at the half. The Shoemen pulled ahead 8-7 at the three-quarter mark and added three in the final period.

Scoring was well distributed among the varsity players, with Captain Moore, Dick Cadden, Jack Bacon, and George Hevilly having two runs each. Bob Jackson, Earl Leard, and George Hevilly, and Larry Leonard adding single markers. Ray Wood, All-American in 1951, led the Alumni with four goals, while Matt Wood, ex-'53, tallied twice, and Victor Miller, ex-'53, completed the Alumni scoring.

The game, which is expected to become an annual feature, was well played. Fitter condition and better team work finally held for the varsity as they have in many season games. The starting lineup of the Alumni had Ray Wood, Matt Wood, and Chasley Hoffman, 70, at attack; Earl Leard, '51, Jack Jackson, '50, and Chasley Clark, '54, at midfield; and Harry Kiermager, '51, Larry Wescott, '51, and Bill Conn, '48, at defense. Ed Ransome, '51, in the goal. Oliver allowed to see action aside from those mentioned above were Duke Case, '51, Cliff Case, '49, Elford, ex-'53, Phil Sterling, ex-'57, and Bill Switzer, ex-'51.

Thinclads Are Sixth

LaSalle College captured the 40th annual Middle-Atlantic Track and Field Championships on May 16-17 at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa.

The winners scored 62 points while crowning five individual champions. Lafayette College, defending champion, was second with 42½ points. St. Joe was third, Lehigh, fourth, Hopkins, fifth, and Washington College, sixth.

The Shoemen scored 11 points and turned in a creditable performance in a field of twenty-two colleges and universities. Once again it was captain Kenny Howard who pointed the way for the Maroon and Black as he successfully defended his '51 broad jump title. The versatile Howard, not only scored points in the broad jump, but managed to gain fourth place in the 220 yard dash and fourth in the 100. He topped 22½' in the broad jump.

Jim Taylor annexed fifth place in the discus throw, an event in which the winners, John Ellis, of Lafayette, threw 169 to establish a new M-A record.

Ellsworth Wood reached the finals of the high hurdles in which he was sixth, while George Eichelberger barely missed the finals of the half mile run.

Coach Nesbitt was very pleased with the four-man team which he entered in the Middle-Atlantic, and although Howard and Taylor graduated, he feels that the Shoemen will be able to garner enough points in '53 to once again place them in the top ten of the twenty-two Middle-Atlantic schools.

Five Year Record Reviewed

In completing its fifth year of its cross, Washington College boasts an enviable record over that period. In strictly collegiate competition, the Shockeymen have won 49 games and lost 10 for a percentage of .830.

By seasons, the record is as follows:

	Won	Lost
1949	12	1
1950	10	3
1951	11	2

In overall competition, including six games against club teams—Mt. Washington, Maryland Lacrosse Club, and the now defunct Annapolis Lacrosse Club—and a regulation game against the Alumni this year, Washington College has won 50 games and lost 16 for a percentage of .756.

Washington College has also won national recognition in lacrosse. Ray Wood, '51, who carried first-string rating in 1951 and third-string rating in 1950, set a four-year scoring record of 188 goals. Along with Ed Leonard and Harry Kobernagel, he played in the North-South game of 1951 at Trent, New York. Kobernagel won third All-American honors in 1951, while Ed Leonard in 1951 and Jack Jackson in 1950 won Honorable Mention. Jack Jackson and Charley Hoffman, '50, played in the 1950 North-South game at College Park, Maryland. In 1950 the Washington College team ranked 13th and in 1951 moved into the Big Ten, rating ninth for that season.

Shore Ten Beats Baltimore U., 11-8

Washington College closed another successful lacrosse season May 17, by defeating the University of Baltimore, 11 to 8, on Kilday Field.

Larry Leonard, tallying three goals and assisting on four others, paced the Shockeymen to their sixth victory in their past seven contests and a final record of eight triumphs against four defeats.

Washington led throughout the opening half except midway of the second period when Doug Southard made a goal to bring the Bees even at 2all.

Then Baltimore, after tussling by 1 to 3 at the half, came back in the early part of the third quarter to go in front, 5 to 4, as Southard and Lou Phlips, who made three goals, rallied for the losers.

Welcome To 'The Hill'-Class Of 1956!

West Hall To House K.A.'s; East Hall Is Panhellenic

As part of the long range planning program of Washington College, a switch in dormitories and one fraternity house resulted this fall. Announcement came during the summer from Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of the College.

Kappa Alpha Order, national fraternity on the Hill, was the first to change. They will move from their house on Washington Avenue to West Hill upon its completion.

Their fraternity house was taken over because of the need of interior decorating and because of the limited space available for members.

West Hall when finished will have a completely new interior. The walls will be made of two materials. The lower half will consist of a tough, impregnable composition and the upper half will be plaster. The ceilings will be made of acoustic tile and the floors of asphalt tile. Each floor will have a tile bath with stall showers and ceramic tile floors.

The lower level will consist of a 32' by 17' fraternity house, a lounge 21' by 21' which will be used as a meeting place for alumni at reunions and homecoming, a powder and a store room.

The first floor will have a suite of two rooms and bath for the house director. It will also consist of three double rooms and one single room. The second and third floors will each have four double and two single rooms. In all, the dormitory will house 27 men.

The decision was made by the Board of Visitors and Governors in the spring to completely renovate each of the three dormitories on the Hill.

When this job is completed and the wings are added to Somerset House, each of the fraternities will have quarters provided for them in the individual dorms, and the members of the fraternities will have first choice of rooms in the respective dorms.

The houses which are now being used by the fraternities will, in turn, be converted into homes for the faculty.

The other dormitory change concerned Middle and East Halls. Middle Hall, formerly the dormitory for upperclass women, will be taken over by male students. East Hall, in turn, has been converted into a "Panhellenic" hall, housing only junior and senior women.

All society rooms will now be located in East Hall. Mrs. Margarette Weikham will continue as Housemother for the girls and has been given a suite of rooms on the first floor of the dorm.

All freshmen, sophomores and senior women will live in Reid Hall, the top floor being given to freshmen exclusively.

Freshmen Honored Tonight At First Social Activity

Bringing the Freshman Week activities to the traditional One, Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity on campus, will present the Freshman Dance tonight from 8:00 to 12:00 P.M. for the dance has been made under the direction of Hal Treuth, chapter president, and Dr. C. B. Clark, faculty advisor.

Fred Gordon's Orchestra, which has performed many times on the campus for large dances, will render the music. There is a possibility that there will be a refreshment stand to add a little variety.

The dance is in honor of the freshmen class and has in the past, provided an opportunity for the new students to meet each other, as well as the upperclassmen. President Treuth will be on hand to act as a sort of informal master of ceremonies and see that "everyone gets into the act."

At present there are two members of the honorary fraternities, Hal Treuth and John Gilmore. Membership is based on a percentage of student enrollment and new members will be tapped sometime this fall. The fraternity serves as recognition of leadership and scholarship on campus.

To All Pre-Med Students...

Pre-medical, pre-dental and pre-veterinary students who expect to apply for admission to professional schools for 1953-1954 should write to schools immediately for application forms and make applications as soon as possible. Some schools require that application be made by October 1 of the year preceding admission. Do not delay. If in doubt, see Dean Klingbein.

AAUP To Hold Meeting

The first meeting of the academic year for the Washington College chapter of the American Association of University Professors will be a business session on Wednesday, October 1, at 4:00 P.M. in the lecture room of Dunsmuir Science Hall. New faculty members desiring to become members or to transfer membership from other chapters are asked to attend this meeting.

The local chapter will sponsor a picnic on Sunday, October 5, at 3:00 P.M. at the lodge owned by Mr. Vester B. Harris on the Chesapeake Bay near Betterton. The entire administration and faculty is expected to be present.

The local AAUP chapter is currently completing plans for a series of informal faculty discussion groups, led by members of the faculty on academic topics of special interest. Officers of the Washington College chapter are: President, Dr. Charles B. Clark; Vice President, Dr. George Klingbein; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. Minnie B. Knipp.

West German Advisor At Convocation - Homecoming

John J. McCloy, who has recently returned from Europe, will deliver the address at the Homecoming Convocation at Washington College, Chesterton, Md., at 3 p.m. on Saturday, October 11.

Due to his distinguished service as a diplomat, military and economic advisor to the government of Western Germany, Mr. McCloy's public service included ten years as president of the World Bank, United Nations, and Assistant Secretary of War from 1941 to 1945. Before this appointment he was a partner of a prominent New York legal firm.

The Convocation exercises will formally open the College year. Other features of the day's program will include the dedication of newly erected West Hall, a dormitory for men, in honor of the late Dr. J. S. William Jones, who was professor, dean, and acting president of the College at one time or another during his 40 years of service at the East ern Shore school. An all-alumni banquet will be held in Hudson Hall at 8:30 p.m. and the Victory Club dinner at the Army in the evening.

The public is cordially invited to join alumni, faculty, and students in formally opening the 170th academic year of Washington College.

Literature For Campaign Off To "Flashing" Start

"The backbone" work on the fund-raising campaign for Washington College got off to a bright start Thursday. Flash bulbs and clicking shutters play thirty smiling students were the beginning of a wide publicity plan to inform alumni and friends of the college and its needs.

Directing the work from Washington College is Heber R. Richmond, of Mass & Lumby, an alumnus of Rutgers. He has done similar work in Rumsike College and Albany College. Mr. Richmond will be in charge of this work until June.

Long range planning for "The Washington College of the future" brought about the campaign. Last spring a survey was made to determine the possibility of such a move which included 138 personal interviews with friends, alumni and parents of students enrolled at W.C. Results showed great interest in the school and assurance of full cooperation during the drive.

The planning, announced last spring, would not take shape for four or five years and would be continuous. Many items mentioned were a new girls' dormitory, a student center building, field house and the addition of wings to Somerset House. These would go along with plans to enlarge the enrollment of the school to five hundred or more.

The "skunk" for the campaign will be Homecoming week-end, in which hundreds of alumni have been invited. This year the convocation, officially opening the school year, will take place at the same time, featuring John J. McCloy, former high commissioner for Germany, as speaker. Also at this time, plans will be announced concerning the campaign and the goal will be set.

Picture brackets will be a part of the drive and will include those taken here Thursday. There will be sent to areas where the campaign is in progress a short time before the personal interviews are made.

Registration of automobiles was pushed for at the time of regular registration on Friday, September 19. Students reporting late or who somehow failed to register cars at the proper time should do so at once in the Dean of Men's Office.

Estimate 345 Enrollment

Pre-registration figures from the registrar's office show total enrollment for the fall semester to be between 340 and 345 students. This is a slight increase over last year's total of 335 entering the fall term.

There are 135 new students on campus, 112 freshmen and 22 transfers. Further breakdown shows 27 freshmen women, and 86 freshmen men, 8 transfer women and 15 transfer men. Six of the transfer students are former students here.

Breakdown by classes shows 62 seniors, 13 juniors, 29 sophomores and 11 "social sophomores."

Final figures on enrollment will appear next week following the registration. Also at that time, the geographical distribution of students will be published and other items which appear on registration questionnaires.

The above figures are an estimate only and may be changed following the registration of all classes.

NOTICE

Students from all four classes, including seniors, will attend the weekly assembly.

Freshmen will be required to attend all evening convocations. Absences will be counted the same as absences from assembly.

Upperclass students may satisfy assembly attendance for the week that a concert is scheduled by attending the concert. Student will give the other a 3 x 5 card with his name, class and date.

Evening School Opens On Campus

Plans have been made for the Washington College faculty to conduct a campus evening school, opening with registration and the first classes on Tuesday evening, September 23rd.

The prospectus which has been distributed widely among teachers in the five upper Eastern Shore counties lists a total of eighteen courses. In the event that any group of ten individuals desire a course not listed in the prospectus, lunch is held in the Washington College catalogue, provision will be made. A minimum enrollment of ten students will be necessary for a course to be given.

The evening school offering is a part of the college program to give community service. Courses should be attractive to individuals who are interested in taking courses to complete degree requirements for teachers who desire specialized professional courses and for certain individuals who are interested primarily in self-improvement without regard to credit.

IMPORTANT!

There will be no change in schedules except for the following reasons:

1. The course registered for is not being given.
2. The course registered for was successfully completed in summer school, grade of "C" or better.

Where such changes are justified, the student will secure from the Registrar a "change of course" slip, have it approved by the Adviser and Dean, and with his adviser work out a substitution.

TO THE CLASS OF '56

"Welcome," according to Webster, means "to be received gladly into the presence of others." And seeing that Webster is our constant companion on the ELM, we will use his word welcome with a capital W on behalf of the upperclassmen of Washington College, and extend it to you, the Class of '56.

Of course, 1956 sounds like a long way off. But, ask anyone who has been to college and they will tell you that the time flies by so fast that you often wonder where it went. This may be accountable to the fact that college is a new way of life to most. It is an ever present challenge to your most important task in life—getting along with people, all kinds of people.

But this is true in any college and we are interested in welcoming you to Washington College. We can speak from experience and say "We know you will like it," but we'll also speak from experience and say "We hope you like us." We think you will find a fierce loyalty among the student body for the school, and hope that you may develop the same. Of course you will hear and be part of the constant grumbling and criticism about exams, rules and professors, etc., that take place. But just let someone outside your little clan try to criticize and watch the hairs rise on your back.

Bring a freshman, we think is about the best part of college. (Even if the sophomores with their hazing period tell you you're the lowest thing on earth.) You are the center of attraction for one solid year. The rest of the students are watching to see how you'll develop as a class, what new ideas you will bring out, what leaders you will produce. You will be making new friends fast and furiously, the kind of friends you'll consider your "best" when you finally walk up to get that diploma.

College years are some of the best, and Washington College years we think are the best. We hope you will, too. Again may we say, Welcome Freshmen. We're proud to have you become a part of Washington College.

NOTICE!

Effective in September, 1952, the College will return to its former policy of requiring all non-resident students to live on the college campus, unless special permission is given by the Board of Trustees. The policy will be effected gradually, and will be extended at the present only to new, incoming students and to those who lived in the dormitories or fraternity houses during the semester closing in June 1952.

Medical College

Admission Test

Senior premedical seniors of juniors who are planning to make application to medical school for 1953 are advised to take the Medical School Admission Test on November 3, 1952. Applications to take the test may be filed with the Educational Testing Service no later than October 20, 1952. Fee for examination is $10.00.

Applications can be secured from Dean Livingston.

To most incoming freshmen, the President of a college is, in their imagination, the unseen man, who makes the policies, appears at ceremonies in a long black robe, and is much too busy to be bothered with insignificant little student. And in most large colleges, we'll venture to say, a majority of the students know the president's name and what he looks like, then let it go.

But, there's a well beaten path across the carpet in the northeast corner of William Smith Hall. And, as it is in other president's offices, it has been used by prominent men in all fields and outstanding scholars. However, we'll guarantee that the list has been seen by Washington College students who just enjoy getting to know their president, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson.

Here, behind a massive desk, surrounded by books and pictures of former campus buildings, sits the "commander-in-chief" on the Hill. And, despite his many duties in the capacity in the field of education, he has found time to be the "friend in need" of the students, always available when you need him the most.

Since his coming to Washington College in 1950, Dr. Gibson has proved himself to be usually interested in all students, their activities and their attitudes. He is a staunch supporter of Student Government and has been instrumental in trying to get it at W.C.

He has actively supported student activities and helped out on countless occasions with their problems. And most of all, he seems to be always ready for that proverbial chat over a cup of coffee concerning campus problems or just things in general.

Aside from this role as "Mr. Anthony," Dr. Gibson is in every sense an educator, having spent more than half of his years in association with educational institutions. He came to Washington College from Franklin & Marshall College where he served as Dean for four years. Prior to that he was director of the English department of The Citadel, in Charleston, South Carolina. He also served as the executive officer of the Naval Training Unit at Franklin & Marshall and following his discharge took the navy of Minor until 1949. He was Dr. Gibson was born in Middleton, Kentucky, in 1898, and attended public schools there, graduating from high school in 1925. He entered Kentucky Wesleyan in September of that year as a pre-med student and was graduated in 1929. During his four years there he earned four letters in football, was named All-Kentucky guard and captained his team.

Following his graduation he worked a year as traffic representative with the Stout Airlines in Detroit, and then, having decided against a medical career, entered the graduate school of the University of Cincinnati for the study of English. He received his M.S. degree in June, 1931, and then taught English Composition and Literature at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music until 1940. He was granted the Ph.D. in English from the University of Cincinnati in June, 1939.

Dr. Gibson has not only been busy with the affairs of Washington College but has been active throughout the state with clubs, committees and speaking engagements. He also manages to find a great deal of time to spend with his lively family which consists of his equally active wife and three children, Daniel D., ten, Mary, eight, and Helen, three and a half.

And may we quote the inauguration year of the ELM in speaking of Dr. Gibson: "He has walked right into Washington College and made himself at home... and everyone recognizes him as an essential element in their idea of Washington College and what it is." We think the freshman class will join in this opinion.

That's Life At Washington College

The "freshman week" is over and suddenly you come to the stark realization that you're in college, going to classes at terrible hours in the morning and taking exams on Saturday. Life was never like this.

You wake up on a Monday morning, full of the week-end's activities, to the harsh yell of the alarm. It so dark they haven't even turned on the street lights! Groping your way to your toothbrush, you manage to get into the bathroom in the dark. Clothes have started. There's not much talk this early in the morning except a sleepy utterance of "what time's breakfast?" It's then when you realize that you have exactly seven minutes to be washed and dressed and at the dining hall. If there's one thing you learn at college, it's how to get dressed in three minutes flat in the morning. By the time you finally manage to arrive at the dining hall, you've used up so much energy that you think you could eat a big steak dinner but you make cereal and eggs do.

With eating out of the way until noon, you start to class. Here's where you meet the professors that like his classes on the third floor or who keeps the windows wide open, even in January just to make sure you stay awake. If you're lucky, you have a break somewhere during the morning. Just enough time to chat over a cup of coffee at the Starbuck Bay and get your mail. Enough time did we say? Beware when the mail comes in! If you have ever seen a wild west movie with the cattle stampedes, you'll know what we mean. The crowd stands six deep and inevitably when you have finally reached your bus and have started the combination, an elbow jabs you in the face and you have to start all over again. Best recommendation to remedy this we've heard is to take turns with your roommate getting the mail.

The rest of the day goes pretty much without confusion, unless you require the terrible habit of naps after lunch. Then you go through that horrible business of alarm clocks and rushing around again, unless you have an understanding roommate that will wake you up in time to get to a 2:30 class. You may think... naps are for kids, but you won't tell your student studying for an exam and burning the candle that the week hours. You'll be lucky if you get up for dinner.

This studying business, according to educators, should not be done at once, nor should you stay up so late that you won't be fresh when you take an exam... But, we have found that the average student here at Washington College does just that and we are reminded of the student who studied all night and then slept right through the exam. Take heed, friends. They're not nothing but a zero in the grade books.

Of course, this is the work side of college, the side that gets all the criticism, all the grumbling. But it is also the side that makes you laugh when you sit down and think about it.

There is the play side, too, and that means to most of us, homecoming. (Which we have found by the way, means very little to the freshmen). They don't know any of these frost-bitten alumni that come back from the cold, cold world... cigar in mouth with that eternal greeting "Good to see ya—ya don't know how lucky you are!" But freshmen join in the gassy and naive to meet a few hundred more people, old friends of their new friends and the circle becomes wider and wider. This week-end, present the first formal dance. This is the boss of the gals who heretofore have been dressing like streaks of lightning. Scrambles for the showers start about six (the dance is at 9) and the lines for the stabs stretch into the twenties. You run around borrowing earrings and hoop skirts and shoes and finally, after keeping the date waiting for a good twenty minutes (which you've been longing to do for a month or so) you arrive at the top of the stairs in all your glitter and splendor (about half of which really belongs to you).

With the rest fall weather in the air you start thinking about Thanksgiving vacation and coming days. There's plenty to take up your time between them, however. The plays begin, the sports are in full swing, ev-

OUR FRIENDLY MERCHANTS

The following merchants have, in the past, advertised in the ELM, and we of the ELM STAFF do encourage the student body to patronize, to the fullest extent, the merchants who have aided us. We wish to take this opportunity to thank our advertisers, and certainly extend to them the best in the year to come.

Student Government Issue Returns

Procurement Personality

A man from New Jersey, with curly hair, steel tinted glasses, and a personality that makes him one of the unforgettable, has taken up quarters in the W.C. campus. To be formally introduced, one would be presented to "Mr. Warren G. Ogden" but to all who make his acquaintance he is known as Curley.

Mr. Ogden has been named assistant Director of Admissions here at Washington College by President Daniel Z. Gibson. He will be in charge of the secondary school visitation program which will take him into schools in the Del-Mar-Va peninsula, part of West Virginia, Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Washington, D.C. for the procurement of students.

Whenever possible, Mr. Ogden will attend the State Association meetings, but this will be primarily contact work with no speaking, however dignified in the schools he will address college preparatory students and work with vocational guidance counselors.

Mid-October To Bring Dispensary - Infirmary

Dr. Gibson has announced that W.C. will have a new men's infirmary and dispensary which is due to open in the middle of October. The office which previously have been used by the men for athletic offices will be the site for this new set up.

This was considered the best place because of its central location on campus. It will consist of a dispensary in the office where simple medication may be obtained. The inner office will be made into a men's infirmary.

Although the dispensary will serve both men and women, the women's infirmary will remain in Reid Hall. The dispensary will be under the direction of Mrs. William Belter who is now serving as a practical nurse at Kent County Hospital. Dr. Guilbraun, a member of the organization for three years, was elected President of the group. He is succeeding Ralph Shillingburg who did not return to the campus this year.

President Cromwell has announced that the coming production of the Players will be a drama to be given November 28th and 29th. Casting for parts will take place this coming week. Everyone is encouraged to try out for a part. Tryouts are held in Ferguson Hall, Room 9.

In previous years when a student became ill he would have to report his illness to the doctor who in turn would make arrangements for a doctor to call. The doctor made his rounds about eleven a.m. If anyone was taken sick after that time there was nothing that could be done for him until the next day unless it was urgent. If a male student was ill there was no place to isolate him from his fellow students in the case of contagious disease. The women students have an infirmary in Reid Hall where they may be isolated in such a case.

This venture is sponsored in part by The Women's League of Chestertown who will help with some of the incidentals of the infirmary and dispensary. The college will absorb the cost of operation for the first year after which the cost of operation will be included on the student's bill.

George Cromwell Heads Players

At a meeting of the Washington Players on September 22nd, George Cromwell, a member of the organization for three years, was elected President of the group. He is succeeding Ralph Shillingburg who did not return to the campus this year.

President Cromwell has announced that the coming production of the Players will be a drama to be given November 28th and 29th. Casting for parts will take place this coming week. Everyone is encouraged to try out for a part. Tryouts are held in Ferguson Hall, Room 9.

IMPORTANT!

All student organizations requesting an appropriation of Student Activity Funds from ODK must have requests in the Dean of Men's Office by Monday, Oct. 6, along with books to be audited.

"Great Debate" Resumes At Wednesday Meeting

What has tended to become a perennial hotbed of opinions and discussions at Washington College was aired again Wednesday night. The question—"Is Student Government desirable for the Washington College campus?"

Before a scant audience which was not representative of any class, chairman of the Student Government Committee, Bruce McKie, conducted a panel of eight members who discussed the possibility pro and con. It might be noted here, that a meeting of G.I. Hall was called at 7:00 and drew a number of men away from the open discussion.

"Fall Frolic" Successful

The Beta Psi Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega presented its "fall frolic" dance last Saturday evening in the Cain Hall gymnasium.

Congratulations to the members of Alpha Chi for their fine work and splendid decorations. The music, which was provided by Merritt Pennek and the Vagabonds, was enjoyed by all. The dance was the first with an orchestra on campus this semester.

The entertainment offered by the student body was superb and the Alpha Chi's extend their deepest appreciation. All proceeds from the raffie, held at intermission, were donated to the National Autistic Project of Alpha Chi, and to the Children's Aid Society of Kent and Queen Anne's Counties.

Hope to see everyone present at the 30th annual Homecoming Dance this Saturday night at the Armory.

Dean Hearn led for the affirmative, showing instances of past experience with the plan. He emphasized that such an organization on the W.C. campus would serve as a unifying factor between students and teachers. He also stated that it would do away with the heavy burden that O.D.K. is carrying at present.

John Grim followed with remarks concerning the present duties of O.D.K. and how they could be taken over by a Student Government. He pointed out that the honorary fraternity was not representative of the student body and did not have enough members to handle the work. "Student Government," he said, "would be more effective and efficient."

Leading for those that opposed the plan, Bill Russell stated that although the students might think that they have more power with such an organization, the faculty had the power to veto any measure adopted. A member of the audience joined with him by relating similar experiences in high school. Russell also pointed out that the numerous organizations on campus would lose what power they did have because the Student Government would be running everything.

Warren G. Ogden

Before joining the staff of our Eastern Shore school, Mr. Ogden was on the faculty of Regional High School in Puma Grove, N.J., for 17 years where he taught Science, Chemistry, Biology, National Government, and Economics. Throughout his 17 years at Puma Grove, he was Athletic Director and for 12 years coached various athletic teams.

Mr. Ogden is a graduate of Swarthmore College and took advanced work at the University of Pennsylvania, Glensboro State Teachers College in New Jersey, and the University of Delaware. In 1951, he received his Master's Degree in Chemistry from the University of Delaware.

The pro-baseball diamond took up its time for 16 years when he played for the Philadelphia A's, the Washington Senators, and the New York Giants. He was with the Washington Senators in 1924 and 1925 when they won the pennant. Still connected with the Philadelphia ball club, Mr. Ogden was part-time in the summer as a scout.

Mr. Ogden is married and has one daughter who is presently enrolled in the sophomore class at the University of Delaware.

As student procurement director, Mr. Ogden is vitally interested in learning about high school seniors who are planning to attend college and live in your hometown. Information of this sort would be welcomed by him.

In The PRESSBOX

With (Sports Editor) Ellsworth Boyd

Coach Howie Nesbitt has been running his pitch hopefuls through pretty stiff drills during the past week in preparation for the squad's October 10 opener against Towson State Teachers.

The team has every reason to drill fast and steady, for this season's Mason-Dixon soccer league may find the Shoremen a tough place to hurdle. The booters also meet Loyola, Western Md., Baltimore U., and Hopkins in M-D competition.

Heading this conference quintet is kingpin Baltimore University. The Bees have worn the Mason-Dixon soccer crown for the past three years and Coach Cal Ermer is measuring his team for that same honor again in 1952.

Lacking depth, as is the usual problem at the outset of the season for B.U., the Baltimoreans boast returning lettermen such as Stan Rother, second high scorer in '51; Gabe Maggitti, and Don Brodsky who are big all-conference choices last year; halfback Henry Wohlfort; Al Siedlicki, goalie; halfbacks Grant Sheesley and Earl Rankin; fullbacks Herb Weidel and Hall Decker; Norman Hart, inside man; and John Hopkins, wing.

Add to these 11 veterans that All-American lineman who was a member of Uncle Sam's Olympic team, Larry Surock, plus a trio of promising freshmen, and what do you have?

A recipe for dynamite? Not quite. We find Coach Ermer's freshmen tough and experienced. However, the Shore dribblers will have six games under their belts when they tangle with the Bees on November 1. And if the Shoremen meet B.U. with the spirit that they have been displaying during practice sessions these past three weeks, those "conference kingpins" may lose that crown.

OR The Wire

Mickey DiMaggio, freshman cross-country aspirant, has been named by coach Athey as one of the most promising runners to ever enter W.C. in the past three years.

Rumor has it that Dan ("Don't forget to put that Coke bottle back when you finish") Samel, captain of the '52 basketball team, has been sneaking into the gym for secret practice sessions in order to lose a little weight before public drill sessions commence!

That star-studded Baltimore Olympic Club cross-country team has added another ex-college champion to its roster in the person of Merle Crouse, of Bridgewater College, who won individual honors in the M-D in 1950 and was runner-up in '51.

Freshmen Prospects

In a series of articles, the Elm will introduce one freshman, (each issue) whom it is believed will be a credit to athletes in future years here at Washington College.

This week's outstanding freshman prospect in sports is 6 foot, 205 pound Louie Sick, of Cambridge, Maryland.

Ronnie attended Allegany High School and while there earned 11 letters in football, basketball, and baseball.

While playing football, Ronnie earned enough recognition as a puntkicker to be named on the All-American team for two years, and the All-American team for two years, and the All-American team for two years.

In basketball he also made the All-American team for two years, while making the Western Maryland Conference All-Star team for one year.

Ronnie's favorite sport, however, is baseball, and although there were no offers, he was offered a contract by a number of the major league clubs to join for their respective minor league teams. He did not accept the offer because he wanted a college education and Ronnie had his eye on Washington College as the school to get to.

Catch Kibler was another factor that brought Ronnie to Washington, for Ronnie not only believes that he can get a good education while here, but that the experience of playing under Coach Kibler for Washington College will be one that will benefit him greatly.

9 Harriers Face Towson

Next Wednesday marks the beginning of the Washington College nine mile cross-country program, as the Shoremen square off with a strong Towson State Teachers' team.

Veterans Return

Returning for the Golden Knights will be stars Keith Wilson, Ken Wray, Bill Miller, John Bobbly and several other 1951 lettermen. The absence of Bob Kane, number one runner last season, will be advantageous to the Maroons and Black.

Veterans of the Athey coached squad who will be matching strides against the Teachers are Bob Appleby, George Eichberger, Elly Bond, Wayne Groschen, and Don Steymen.

New Men Encouraging

Several promising prospects have reported since practice began Monday a week. They are: Lew Buckley, Bob Holland and freshmen Terry Johnson and "Mickey" DiMaggio. These four harriers will be experiencing their first 9 mile race Wednesday, and have been rigidly training in order to perform impressively.

On Honeymooning Day, October 11, the harriers will run their first meet of the season on the Hill, against John Hopkins. This race will be run at 1:45 p.m. so as not to conflict with the other events of the afternoon.

With all the new material, plus the five returning veterans, the team is preparing for a big season. They will be gunning for the Del-Mar Championship on Nov. 1. Last year the Atheymen took a fourth.

Invitational Race

The first intramural cross-country meet will be run on October 7, on a

Clito Cannone Heads Touch Football League

Edward L. Athey, Director of Athletics at Washington College, has announced the appointment of Clito Cannone, of Cape May, N. J., as head of all intramural sports at the school during the '52-'53 season.

Cannone, who is a Michigan State transfer student, was a starting member of the Washington College football team in 1950. His play on the Michigan State team in 1952, prior to his service in the Army, was also outstanding—as the tackle position.

The husky Washington College senior is better known on the Jersey shore for his splendid work during the past five years as Captain of the Cape May Beach Patrol.

Cannone is majoring in economics and social studies, and improving in physical education. He eventually hopes to enter the teaching and coaching profession in or near his home town of Cape May.

A 15 mile course layed out over the campus. This race will be open to anyone who has not been on a college varsity cross-country team. If anyone desires further information, or wishes to register, they should please contact Coach Edward L. Athey.

The schedule has been changed somewhat, moving Towson up to October 8, and adding Catholic U. to the east. The complete schedule is shown below.

Oct. 8—Towson (A)
Oct. 11—Johns Hopkins (H)
Oct. 23—B. O. C. (H)
Oct. 29—Gallaudet (A)
Nov. 1—Del-Mar Champ. Bkto.
Nov. 12—Catholic U. (A)
Nov. 15—Crawley, 2 1/2 mi. run.
Nov. 22—Mason-Dixon Champ. Cal Laurel

Football Returns

By Hugh Delano

Washington College's intramural sports program swings into action on Monday afternoon as the newly organized touch football league launches its freshman season at the Shore College.

Under the direction of Clito Cannone, the league is comprised of eight teams. Among those entered are: Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Chi, Foxwell Hall, G. H. Hall, Somerset House and the East Hall Squads.

Games will start promptly at 4:00 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and will be played on a field to be staked out on the triangle in front of Somerset House. The league championship will be decided by a play-off on a round-robin basis and medals will be awarded to the winners.

Teams entered will be allowed a ten-man roster, official touch football rules, calling for a sixteen team on the field at one time. The playing area will be a layout of 70 yards long by 15 yards wide.

Anyone desiring further information regarding the games will find a list of the rules posted in the dormitories or fraternity houses.

Five officials have been named to serve as referees at the contests, those being: John Wilson, Ed Ciaclaga, John Santelli, Paul Desmond and Charles Cardner.

All students are urged to attend these games as they are equally important in promoting school spirit, as are varsity sports, and should be given the same support by the student body.

Tennis Finals This Week

The first annual Washington College tennis tournament has advanced to the semi-finals stages of play, with the finals set up for Sunday afternoon.

In both singles and doubles, medals will be awarded the winners and those in the runner-up positions.

In the doubles semi-final, Tony Tomlin and Kary Wood have advanced against Bob Appleby and Rod Ware, while Bill Murray and Chuck Wasche are matched with Jerry Landolt and Sin Young.

The singles are still in the quarter final stages with Bob Appleby, Rod Ware and Les Bell showing championship form.

A special "exhibition doubles match" is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, featuring those veteran courtmen, John Grinn and Bill Russell, pitted against those experienced racketeers, Butch McHugh and Tom (The Haircut) Heiderman. Admission is free.

Lettermen Prepare For Dance

After a rigid two hours initiation Thursday a week ago, 10 new members have been added to the Washington College Varsity Club. Congratulations to George Eichberger, Dick Weidel, Bob Lipsitz, Rod Ware, Wes Edwards, Bill Russell, Chuck Wasche, Dan Samel, Bob Appleby, and Tony Tomlin.

The group, which is now 20 strong, has been strenuously preparing for the 50th annual Washington College Homecoming Dance which will be held on October 11.

Admission to this dance will be $4.75 per person and is to feature one of the finest bands on the Shore. The dance festivities this year are of particular note, since there is only one athletic event, private and fraternity parties off the campus have been requested to disband.

When asked about further details of the dance, varsity club president, John Samel, stated: "There is nothing more to be said about this year than ever before, and with this we expect a sellout crowd at our 50th annual homecoming celebration that night."

Nesbitt Drills For Opener

After two weeks of vigorous conditioning exercises and hard scrimmages, the Washington College soccer team appears ready for its opening game.

Soccer experts, columnists, and coaches alike, agree that "Spirit, luck, condition and teamwork make a winning team." As the soccer scene now appears, the Maroon and Black are boasting an unusually high spirited squad which is gradually rounding into good condition.

This year has brought back a strong defensive unit, coupled with the acquisition of a fine array of freshman talent, who are giving many of the returning lettermen a run for their positions. Teamwork is presently in a stage of development, with Coach Howie "The Whip" Nesbitt, keeping a strict eye on their changes. Fundamental drills and scrimmages are proving new and more advantageous to the team.

One cannot overlook the stalwart backfield resources, which include Captain John Grinn, Bill Russell, Doug Tilley and goalie Don McHugh. Front line freshmen who are gradually gaining experience are Joe Howard, Roger Smoot, Joe Szemanski, Bernard Mitchell, Jack Jennings, and Jim Edwards.

The opening encounter, which is slated against Towson State Teachers on October 10 at Kibler Field, will find the Shoremen hoping to make a repeat performance of last year's 4-0 victory.

Although it is too early to make predictions as to the future standings, Captain Grinn has issued the statement that "This is undoubtedly the best soccer team that has ever been played for during his stay at Washington." Incidentally, this is Grinn's fourth and final season, and everyone hopes it will be his best.

Five New Members Join W. C. Faculty

Appointments of five new members to the Washington College faculty for the coming academic year has been announced by President Daniel Z. Gibson.

Dr. Charles B. Anderson is the new professor of sociology and will serve as head of the department of economics and sociology. Dr. Anderson comes to the Eastern State School after serving as assistant professor and acting head of the sociology department at Marquette College in Ohio from 1939 until 1952.

He has also taught at Westminister College in Utah, Winthrop College in S. C., and Davidson College in N. C. Dr. Anderson is a native of Albany, N. Y., and received his doctor's degree from New York University in 1945.

Dr. Frank C. Erb has been appointed head of the department of biology. He was previously on the staff at Johns Hopkins University where he received his doctor's degree in June of this year.

He is a native of Evansville, Ind., and is a graduate of Evansville College. He is a veteran of World War II, having served with the U. S. Army Air Forces as a second lieutenant in the Middle Pacific.

Mr. Norman James has been named as assistant professor in English. He received his bachelor's degree from Yale University in 1948 and his master's degree from the University of Maryland in 1950. He has been working on his doctor's degree at Duke University the last two years.

Mr. James served with the Army Signal Corps during the war in the Southwest Pacific.

Mr. David D. Meyer will serve as assistant professor of economics. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College, Devon, England, and has a master's degree in science and master of arts degree from that institution.

For the past three years he has been on the faculty at Penn State College teaching economics. From 1927 until 1939 he was employed in the banking field in London as an economic and investment analyst.

He is a veteran of ten years' service with the Royal Navy and served in both World Wars. He retired in 1947 with the rank of Commander.

Miss Joan E. Hartman is the only woman appointed to the faculty this year. She will serve as an instructor in English. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, magna cum laude, in 1951. Miss Hartman attended Duke University and received the master's degree this year. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

"Check That Stick"

Girls' sports seem to have gotten off to a flying start this year. Hockey has had a good turn out for its first meeting with the talented appreciation and a very sports-minded freshman class.

Teams will be formed and captains elected in the near future. The old timers in the supporting role, board of such variety players as Marion V. Verman, captain of the freshman team last year, Jo Budd, Jamie Palmer, Joan Wheeler, Wanita Macauliffe, Janet Parks, Lynn Diana, Elice Hamilton, and Jane Cole.

We hope such fine spirit will continue in the girls' sports throughout the year.

Great Debate...

Following for the negative came Jos Guandolo who related to the audience the past experience of Student Government on the campus. He stated that there was never any solid backing for such a proposal and that such a backing would be difficult to find. He also emphasized the same fact that Roosevelt stated—that from the local angle, the faculty had the last word. He suggested that the students support the clubs they were in now rather than jump into something new.

A counter-attack was offered by the affirmative side by Ted Neighbour, member of the S.G. committee, who brought out the fact the fund raising campaign now being started at W.C. could greatly benefit by such a movement. He showed here that students could would be of greater value to such a campaign than individual efforts.

Following offerings from John Parker for the affirmative and A. Carr for the negative, the floor was opened to discussion. Here the question of "civics politics" was brought up. The affirmative answered that Student Government might do away with the fraternity and society politics now on campus.

One freshman, El Aldo Gallo and a transfer student spoke out in favor of the idea. Gallo stated that the captain he had seen so far on campus was in the freshman class... that student government could help create unified spirit.

Throughout the discussion, chairman M.K. had to continue reminding the panel and the audience of the question at hand. Following another half hour of debate the assembly was adjourned with an invitation to all those against Student Government to come to a S.G. committee meeting and state their complaints.

Throughout the next several months the question will be brought up and the students will be asked to join in discussion. No definite dates have been set thus far for any more discussions of the problem.

What Is The Canterbury Club Doing?

By Ross Gale

The Canterbury Club sponsored a most successful buffet-picnic supper at the home of Col. and Mrs. Carl G. Hoffman, Broadfield, Kent County, on Sunday last. Supper was served following Evening Prayer at old St. Paul's, Kent County, at which the Reverend John O. Nelson preached a short sermon.

On Sunday, October 17th, Sunday after Tuesday, breakfast will be served for 25 cents per person in the Emmanuel Parish House immediately following the 8:00 A.M. Eucharist in Emmanuel Church. Please sign the notice in the Snark Bar if interested in attending this breakfast.

Our first meeting in October will be held on Sunday evening, October 12, with Evening Prayer being read at 5:00 P.M. in Emmanuel Church by one of our members, followed by supper at 5:30 P.M. for 50 cents per person and a short talk of interest at all Canterburyans. At this Evening Prayer service our choir will make its initial debut. Miss Hartman has volunteered to help as with this project and a rehearsal will be held during the week of October 5. Watch the bulletin board for notice of rehearsal and lead your talent.

Tryouts for "Murder in the Cathedral" will be held early in October.

ACADEMIC PROTOCOL

I have noticed that both students and townspeople hereabouts are fearful of offending some academic lady or gent, who happens to have a doctorate, by a failure to address him as "doctor so-and-so." Somewhat less horrendous is addressing a professor as "Miss" or "Mister," but that too is apparently considered bad taste. Please assure your readers that the "Miss" and "Mister" are always appropriate, regardless of what other fancy title the person may have carried, and that many of us really feel uncomfortable about the exaggerated care people take in such little matters. Only a pompous ass would be offended by being called "Miss" or "Mister," and the academic profession has no more than its normal percentage of pompous asses.

Convocation Ceremonies Set For 3:00

Two Selected For ODK In Thursday Assembly

Two senior men, Bruce McKie and Charles Whitsett, were tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity last Thursday, William Treuth, president of the group, presided over the ceremony.

Following the ritual, a talk was given by Dr. Malcolm E. Maser, Dean of Men at Bucknell and director of the northeastern region of O.D.K. His speech, commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of O.D.K. on the Washington College campus, dealt with the principles of leadership, set forth by the honorary group.

Bruce McKie

Omicron Delta Kappa membership requires recognition of outstanding achievement in extra-curricular activities. As an honorary fraternity on the campus, they have in the past, assumed the duties of a student government in dealing with campus problems.

New members, Charles Whitsett, has done outstanding work on the campus, serving as President of the Forensic Society this year, after holding other offices in that organization for the past two years. He is also president of Sigma Sigma Omicron, local honorary fraternity, vice-president of Phi Sigma Kappa national social fraternity and secretary of the Inter-fraternity Council. In addition to these duties, he has also been a member of the Washington Players, the choir and the ELM staff.

Bruce McKie is president of the Kappa Alpha Order, an organization for which he has done outstanding work in the past few years. He is also chairman of the Student Government Committee which has been working on a constitution soon to be presented to the school. Last year he rendered a great service to the school serving in the student procurement program.

The new members will assume the duties of an Omicron Delta Kappa member, immediately following their formal initiation.

S.G. Committee Still At Work

The much discussed Student Government Constitution is under more discussion in the form of committee meetings. Last year's group, selected by the individual classes to work on the project, has been meeting every Monday and Wednesday to work on possible revisions.

Chief aim of the group at present, is to get the document ready for all students to read and discuss. When this work is completed, another general meeting will be held to discuss further revision if necessary, and to receive constructive criticism.

The committee invited any interested students to attend these meetings during the week to express their views on Student Government. They are held at 12:30 in room 21 of William South Hall.

The entries of the Constitution drawn up last year will appear in the next issue of the ELM for the convenience of the students.

Wanted: Violin Players

During the period of 1925 to 1950 the Washington College concert orchestra had a continuous history of successful performance. Due to the lack of stringed instruments after 1950 it has not been possible to organize such a group. The membership in the orchestra has ranged from fifteen to thirty members. The group played for the weekly assemblies, broadcast from Baltimore and Wilmington radio stations, cooperated in concerts with the glee club and gave orchestra concerts in a number of Eastern Shore communities. At various times the orchestra has included a saxophone section, brass quartets, string quartets, string ensembles and outstanding solo performers.

In order to have a successful concert orchestra it is necessary to have an ample number of players of stringed instruments, particularly violins. Without stringed instrument players it is practically impossible to maintain a concert orchestra group.

In a college the size of Washington College there should be ample musical talent to maintain both a concert orchestra and a band.

Violin players and other players of stringed instruments are urged to contact Drew Livingston if they are interested in the reactivation of the concert orchestra. If there is sufficient interest, and if players of stringed instruments are available, the orchestra will be reorganized.

GRADE MONTH

The first grade month for the first semester ends on Saturday, October 18. Faculty members will hand in reports on students no later than noon on Tuesday, October 21. Notices should be out for students and to parents on Wednesday, October 23. Students who receive notices of deficiencies, or probable ones, should see advisors as soon as possible, and in any event no later than five o'clock, Tuesday, October 23.

Official Opening Of 170th School Year; John J. McCloy Is Featured Speaker

Convocation ceremonies opening the 170th academic year of Washington College will feature as guest speaker, John J. McCloy, former high commissioner of Germany. Over 5,000 friends and alumni of the Shore school have been invited to attend the event which will take place today at 3:00 P.M. on the campus.

Recently retired from three critical years' service as U. S. High Commissioner of Germany, Mr. McCloy has been one of the spark plugs of the German industrial boom, and helped to spearhead the formation of the European Defense Community and the German Peace Pact.

He was Assistant Secretary of War under Secretary Henry L. Stimson from 1945 to 1949, and served as chairman of the Combined Civil Affairs Committee of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

JOHN J. MCCLOY

Mr. McCloy was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his war work and was honored by France with the rank of Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor.

Returning to private law practice after the war, he was called back to public service as president of the World Bank in 1947, prior to accepting the post in Germany.

The Convocation exercises are being held this year in conjunction with a fund raising campaign for the school. This particular campaign is part of a long range planning program, formulated by Dr. Daniel Z. Glavin, president of the College, the Board of Visitors and Governors, the faculty and the alumni. Announcement of the goals for the drive and details of the program will be made at an All-Alumni Banquet following the convocations.

One of the highlights of the day's program will be the dedication of a plaque in honor of Dr. J. S. William Jones, former professor, dean and acting president of the college.

A special feature of the All-Alumni Banquet will be the presentation of citations to eight alumni of Washington College for outstanding work in their various fields of achievement. Recipient of the awards are: Dr. William H. Toulson, Baltimore, Medicine; Jerome Frankfort, Jr., Federalsburg, Md., public service; Brig. Gen. William F. Brown (U.S.M.C.) Alexandria, Va., national defense; Williams R. Huey, Chesterton, Indiana; Miss Mary G. Riffin, Wilmington, Del.; Dr. Benjamin Woods, Atlanta, Ga., education; F. Loren Langdale, Baltimore, advertising and William A. Robinson, Pittsburgh, engineering.

"Ten Little Indians" Casting Starts Monday

A 3-act mystery "Ten Little Indians" has been chosen by the Washington Players to be presented on November 20 and 21. The group selected El Dryden and Jim Metcalf, long standing members of the Players, to be co-directors.

Casting for the play will be held on Monday at 3:30 in Ferguson Hall, so come one, come all. The final cast will be selected by the directors and officers of the Players.

This will be the first production of the 1952-53 season for the theatrical group. Plans for the future include an experimental production in late winter and the annual spring comedy to be produced in May. There has been no definite selection for either of these productions as yet.

The cast for "Ten Little Indians" includes eight men and three women. The roles are for the most part "Characters." Anyone interested, whether or not they are a member of the Players, is urged to try out for one of the parts.

The play, a mystery comedy by Agatha Christie, takes place in a weird country house on an island off the coast of Devon. The "Ten Little Indians" refer to a choice of statutes on the mantelpiece and to the nursery rhymes embodied about telling how each little Indian met his death—and there were none. To this queer place eight assorted guests are invited for a week-end by a mysterious host. The guests have never met one another before, nor have they met their host. While they are all assembled for cocktails a mysterious voice comes out of the air accusing everyone present, including the two house servants, each in his turn, of murder—not the sort of murder on which a conviction can be got in the courts, but a murder just the same. And while they are exchanging data on themselves and on their host, one of the ten little Indian statues topples off the mantelpiece and breaks—and immediately thereafter one of the guests chokes to death of poison which someone has dropped in his drink. One down and nine to go—or are there? The excitement never lets up until the final curtain.

Dance Tonight At Armory

The annual Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club, will be held at the National Guard Armory on Saturday, Oct. 11. The dance is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. and will last until 1 a.m.

Since Washington College is celebrating its fifteenth annual homecoming this year, the theme of the decorations will be carried out in accordance with this event. As in the previous two years, The Art Club, this year under the direction of its president, A. J. Carr, has taken over the responsibilities of all the decorations. The gold and white theme will be carried out, and the orchestra will be the center of a huge cake representing the birthday of the dance.

John Santilli, President of the Varsity Club, has announced that Paul Witherton and his Orchestra will furnish the music. Tickets will be available at the reservation desk and at the door of the armory, and are priced at $17.50 a person. All alumni and their guests are cordially invited.

WE CAN AND SHOULD

The fall setting of brilliant days, turning leaves, and a crispness in the air, seems to lend itself to Washington College for every important occasion. One year ago, hundreds of guests witnessed the inauguration of our 20th president, Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson. Fifteen years before that, another President, Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, was installed as the 19th man to lead Washington College. On both occasions, the public was reminded of the necessity of good schools for the purpose of educating the future of America.

Today, in essentially the same setting, Washington College officially enters its 170th year as an institution of higher learning. And today, more than ever, those who are here to witness the ceremony of convocation, will be reminded of the need for schools, for Washington College takes a step forward in the world of education. The desire to progress is no longer in the dream stage, it is in the first form of actuality.

Tonight at the alumni banquet, Dr. Gibson will address the group on the needs of Washington College, why it should grow and how it can grow. Long range planning for the school has been underway for some time. The time has come to do something about it. The possibilities offered tonight will rest on the shoulders of the alumni, the friends and the students of W.C.

One thing stands out in the long range plan to be offered. Washington College is small, and wants to stay that way, but with better facilities. By small, we say 500 students, facilities at present cannot take care of that number. Daniel Webster once said, in speaking of small colleges—"It is sir, a small college, yet there are those who love it." And think, that may be part of the reason why W.C. has so many friends. We hope that everyone that is here tonight, watching the college go into its 170th year of making history will want to help make it the small college it should be. In stature we would like to live up to our namesake, General George Washington, first President of the United States. We, the students, and you, the alumni and friends, can and should.

ATTENTION VETERANS!

POST OFFICE SERVICE

All students have been assigned post office boxes in the campus post office in the snack bar. To assist in the distribution of mail, students are urged to request correspondents to indicate the post office box number. This will hasten the delivery of mail to students. If someone else's mail is in another student's box, please return it to the registrar's office and it will be delivered to the correct box. Cooperation is requested for the personal convenience of the student and for improvement of the service.

SENIOR of the WEEK

By Doris Schlinger

The members of the Elm Staff are proud to introduce Jane Bradley as the Senior of the Week. If you haven't met Jane, look for a pretty little (5'2") Miss with brown hair and blue eyes. She wants everyone to know she is engaged to Tom Lowe. When you meet her she will tell you that she is from Bethesda, that she loves Washington College, and that she is going to vote for Eisenhower.

Jane has been a member of Zeta Alpha Sorority for four years. Last year she served as treasurer, and this year the Zeta's think that she is a terrific president. Last summer the National Convention was held in California. Jane and several other members attended the convention. For some reason she hates Texas, but the trip was wonderful.

She has been an active member of the Washington Players for four years; acting as Promotion Manager, and this year as Treasurer. She was a cheerleader for three years, served on the disciplinary board for two years and acted as one of the attendants for the Homecoming Queen last year.

Jane has been a member of the Elm staff for four years. This year Jane is the very capable Editor in Chief of our college paper. She is also an assistant in the Publicity Office.

Best wishes to Jane in her plans for the future!

When we read about her in the newspapers ten years from now, we will say, "Why, I knew Jane Bradley when—"

QUESTION of the week

What can we, as students, do to help in the fund raising campaign for Washington College?

Barbara C. Jones—We could give benefit entertainments, such as plays, concerts, etc. We also talk it up in our home town.

Chuck Warner—By playing up the school in our home towns to students who are planning to enter college in the future. Also to persons who may be interested in the welfare of W.C. and might contribute to it.

Pat Anderson—Every student could contribute as much as they feel they can afford (every little bit will help) and by trying to impress upon our alumni the importance of this drive. Eck King—By talking up the virtues of our college and by showing some real school spirit.

Joan Vanik—We can help by encouraging students to come to Washington College. We can help by making our attitudes and actions at Homecoming something that will build our college up instead of down.

Bruce Thrum—By producing winning teams with the students backing them 100% and by showing the closely knit society of our campus.

Meyer Brustein—The best possible way we could help is to try to explain to as many people as possible the needs we face and if they're in any possible position to persuade them

Dr. Erk - Fly Raiser - Choir Director

By Helen Michel

"Well, now I've heard of everything. I can see some sense in raising corn, or hoes, or even dogs, but that peculiar man raises flies! He must be crazy!"

These words might be spoken by an uninformed student at Washington College about the new head of the biology department, Yes, Dr. Erk does raise flies, and fruit flies at that, but to be able to do this type of work, one must, be, on the contrary, a very competent person. Dr. Erk is just this sort of man. These flies are just one of his main interests, and with them he is working on a vitally important project concerning the study of inheritance.

When Dr. Erk is not busy working on his own research, he may be found in a classroom of Dunning Hall. About 6 feet and 1 inch tall and well built, he often lectures with his hands in the pockets of his white, knee-length laboratory coat. An occasional joke or perhaps a human interest story added to his lectures keep his students interested.

In the laboratory, he can always maintain a straighten, but the devoted student must not expect a "blob" under the microscope. Having a genuine interest in his pupils, he may often go to great lengths to explain a detail.

Far from being one-sided, Dr. Erk has many interests, one of them being music. He has taken on the difficult job of directing the College Choir this year, and also sings in the Choir of Christ Methodist Church, during his college years, he played the viola in the school symphony orchestra. Another hobby of our new professor is amateur photography.

Dr. Erk and his attractive wife came to Washington College from Johns Hopkins University where he taught while working on his PhD in genetics. However, his home town is Evansville, Indiana, where he attended Evansville College and received his bachelor's degree.

After class, Dr. Erk enjoys talking with his students on any subject from "planning a career" to "participation in extra-curricular activities." Indeed, he is not only a teacher, but a genuine friend to all his students. Yes, everyone likes Dr. Erk. We know that he will be a definite asset to the school and hope that he will like it well enough to stay with us for many years.

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Nightwatchmen

Flash—Florence Nightingale Hesse has just been appointed new night nurse at the infirmary. We predict it will only be a matter of hours before Pat Anderson will come down with pneumonia.

The big question of the week—Who stole Dr.'s drawers?

A sigh of relief has been heaved all over the campus now that Johnny Grim has put us out of our suspense. Poor fellow was in the eternal triangle and the valley of decision, all at once.

Yes, Church, we know you're a muscleman, but five in one night is too much for anyone as you found out.

We hear the K.A.'s nearly lost their heads and dissolved the B.O. chapter when they heard Miss Bradley was inviting each fraternity to tea—the K.A.'s to be the lucky first ones, with Number 1, McKie, pouring and Number 11, White, severing crumpets. Gullible!

Just what was it, Steynen, a "fig of passion" or was it an obligation?

Congratulations to the Alpha Chi on their successful "Tall Frodo." We noticed a Senior and a Soph girl bawling in seven heaven because two strange men were on campus.

It looks as though the "HA" is finally coming to life what does her "Big Brother" have to say about it?

The latest W.C. news, cat, FLASH . . . The Reid Hilt Klu Klux Klan set about their secret undermining of the revolutionary Frodo girls on October 6. A small riot took place in which heels were torn apart. It subsided only after everything from fra nut butter to underwear was covered with powder and soap-flakes. Ever-ly four hours later, the Frosh staged a counter-attack, with water as their secret weapon. A miniature Niagara Falls spilled over the stairway as the Sophs attempted to resist the 3rd floor.

Bob "The Commando" Engle is already getting in shape for the army life, but why hide those talents under a blanket?

Hear ye! All Irish lads and lassies will be glad to know that Kelly's back.

What is it with all these Freshmen going home every week-end? Must be the mysterious, mighty, interesting—Y-mighty intergroup. But why not stick around . . . you might find someone twice as "interesting." The only way to become acquainted is to meet people, and the only way to meet people is to join the week-end fun here. Try sometime . . . you'll get the surprise of your life. . . You'll honestly have a number.

I've heard of carrying a machine gun in a violin case, but what would one carry in a camera case?

We claim to have the best educated cat in America—he spends every night at the Bunting Library.

It is a coincidence, it is just that Terry likes the name "Bill?"

Whaa! Lambda Chi! Refused to date until January . . . What about it, "Budd?" A little competition never hurt anyone.

How many hotel suites can you wreck in one evening, Ken?

When will Harvey and Jack make up . . . Cat? Paw Heels, anyone?

Well, the Frosh have finally done it again . . . how about it, Sophs, you were talking big last year, let's see what you can do this year.

Don't vexen Buddy, 'cause it's a great life.

to contribute to the drive if they're financially able. Most important—spread the name of W.C.

Stan Cuffman—All the organizations on campus should have parties at which a minimum admission could be charged and the proceeds could go toward the fund. This could also result in a greater amount of fun for the students.

Dick Wolfe—1 think the students can help by writing letters to people whom we know are financially able to help the college and get them interested in our drive. Students who are talented in writing or drawing could spread the news of our drive through newspapers.

Tony Antonian—By getting on their backs and getting them to contribute. If I had my old web-bag I'd give them to W.C.

"Them days are gone forever!"

Room For Ninety-nine Coeds In Proposed Girls' Dormitory

It's The Girls' Turn At Washington College

There's nothing quite as popular for the ladies as dreaming about a new home. How many brides—and brides-to-be have mentally planned every inch of their dream house? Quite a few we'll venture to say, but at Washington College even the brides-to-be are thinking about the architect's drawing of the new girls' dormitory. Of course, it's still a drawing, but the thumb tacks have been taken out of the board and a mighty step forward to its actuality has been made.

The hall, which to date has not been named, is part of the long range plan for Washington College, that is being announced tonight. However, for the benefit of the ladies we'll try a sneak preview of what's to come in the way of living quarters for Betty Coeds.

The dorm will provide space for ninety-nine women in both single and double rooms. The building itself will be three stories and in the colonial style that marks the present campus. Construction will be of cinder block with red brick facing and white wood trim. The floors will have an asphalt tile surface and the ceilings will be treated with acoustic board.

Facing Washington Avenue, the building will be located 150 feet south of Reid Hall. The front will extend 84 feet along the street on a line with the present girls' dormitory. Living quarters will be in a wing extending east 126 feet.

The interior of the first floor will feature a large step-down recreation room 34 by 57 feet, with a large fireplace. On the south end of this room (to the right of the entrance-way) will be a large lounge, which will also serve as an informal dining room on special occasions. Next to this will be a serving room for such an event. The first floor of the long wing will provide a snack bar, three sorority rooms, laundry, storage and boiler rooms and a women's infirmary.

The second and third floors of the building will be devoted to students' room. A housekeeping suite and an office will be provided for the house mother. All single rooms will be in the front part of the building and the double rooms in the wing.

A Long Climb To Success

The following history of women at Washington College was taken from "The EASTERN SHORE of MARYLAND and VIRGINIA—edited by Dr. Charles B. Clark.

On September 16, 1891, the following communication was received by the members of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College:

"I would respectfully suggest that young women be admitted to the college as day students on the same terms as young men. My reasons for this suggestion are:

1. There are a number of young women ready to enter at once. This number can probably be increased by ten or twelve.
2. The faculty are unanimously in favor of it.
3. It will materially increase the resources of the college without increasing its expenditures.
4. There will be no risk in it, as it can be discontinued in a year, if not a success. Those who are doubtful can judge for themselves by seeing the experiment tried.
5. It will be a great financial advantage for those who have daughters to educate.
6. It will increase the friends of the college.
7. It will be the greatest help in improving the moral tone of the college."

It was signed by Dr. Charles W. Reid, president of Washington College from 1889 to 1903.

This was the first public mention of the possibility of co-eds for Washington College. At the time, there were no facilities at all for such a venture, but favorable action by the Board on their admission soon led to further requests. In 1895 President Reid made a strong plea to the board for a ladies' dormitory. In support of this he stated that during his convalescence of the Eastern Shore for students, he had interviewed five young ladies who would matriculate at the college, provided they could be accommodated; furthermore, he was convinced that as many as 25 boarding students would take advantage of the opportunity of a college education, if proper housing conditions were made available. Again the Board nodded approval and a bill was presented to the Legislature, requesting the creation of a Normal Department at Washington College. In February, 1896, a second bill was approved, petitioning the Legislature for an appropriation which would help meet the cost of the erection of a building to house the students of the normal department. Both bills were passed and in April, 1897, the dormitory was completed and ready for occupancy.

Students pursuing a prescribed course for two years, considered equal in point of difficulty to that of the freshman and sophomore years of college, received upon the completion of the course, a certificate which permitted the holder to teach, without examination in the elementary schools of Maryland. The popularity of the Normal Course showed by the fact that the enrollment of girls increased from 33 in 1896-97 to 74 in 1905-06, and that of this number, only a small percentage pursued the regular college course. Up to, and including the class of 1911, only 14 women had received the Bachelor's diploma, while 132 had received the normal certificate.

The administration, realizing that the college proper was being overshadowed by the Normal Department, discontinued it, closed Normal Hall as a girls' dormitory and accepted girls only as day students.

PROPOSED DORM

A Tribute To The Past - A Challenge To The Future!

The physical history of Washington College reads like a hard luck story. Fires, changes of heart and lack of funds kept it in a constant tussle, growing in spirit, only to be knocked out by some unforeseen malady. But, despite all these troubles, Washington College still stands, a tribute to the past and a challenge to the future.

The first building, judged by contemporary drawings which have been preserved, was imposing and beautiful. It extended its length of one hundred and sixty feet along the river on the upper campus, overlooking the river and the town. The central portion was one hundred feet wide, the two wings, sixty feet each. The date of its erection cannot be ascertained, but the founding of the College in 1782 and the granting of a charter during that year by the State Legislature may give some idea.

A noted traveller from abroad, visiting in Chertown just prior to 1800, recorded his observations of the building as follows: "The college, which is a large building, on the summit of a hill, commands a view of its fertile town. This building is in a dilapidated state of decay, although it is not yet finished. There is no glass in any of the windows, the walls have fallen away in many places and the doors are without steps. . . . Twelve or fifteen hundred dollars have already been expended on this building. It is constructed on a plan large enough to receive five hundred scholars. Funds are wanting to complete it, and like almost all the public buildings in America it will be ruins before it is finished."

In 1817 the college was threatened by fire. The board on December 8, 1817, adopted a resolution of thanks to Thomas Taylor and James Lynch "for their great exertions in extinguishing the late fire at the college, and relieving Thomas Taylor from the payment of rent on his lot up to the present time, and also making Thomas Bennett, free Negro, compensation of two dollars for his assistance in extinguishing and fire."

In 1826 a serious trouble, with the result of a permanent detriment, the board purchased the lands of a woman, Mrs. Sarah Blake. Then fell the tragic blow which came periodically close to extinguishing forever the existence of the college. In the manner looks out on Friday, January 12, 1827, one rainy, "spiral morning," and after the flames of those present this night. Yesterday evening about half past seven o'clock it was discovered that the college was on fire. The fire commenced among a parcel of iron stables belonging to Mrs. Sarah B. Blake then in the cellar under the common hall. In a few hours the building was destroyed.

The local press commented as follows: "Between the horns of a cruel trap the alarm of fire was given in our village. The fire originated in the cellar under the common hall or center building, in a quantity of hay or fodder. It is not known whether by accident or design."

It was seventeen years before the debris and overgrown weeds were cleared away and a new college building covered the hall. These seventeen years were more than once perilous to the possible future of the college. Classes were carried on in rented quarters in the village, and the immediate enthusiasm shown by the board for rebuilding, slowly waned. Immediately after the fire, college classes were held in the large brick building on the waterfront, known as the old customs house. Later they were moved to a building, located where the elementary school now stands. There they remained until the rebuilding of the college, which was begun with the erection of Middle Hall in 1844-45.

Mr. Elijah Reynolds, of Port Deposit, was hired as builder and architect. By spring the site was cleared and the foundations of the present Middle Hall were laid. The ceremony was placed with great ceremony on May 1, 1844, and the event was given great coverage in the local papers of the day. Ten years later in 1854, East and West Halls were added to the Middle Hall, then consisting of two wings. At the same time, the college's three buildings. Resident students lived in West Hall, the first floor of which was used for an auditorium. Middle Hall had four rooms on each of its three floors. Three rooms here were allotted for a chemistry and physics lab and a library. The President of the College lived in East Hall, sharing it with the vice president and his family.

Building was at a standstill until 1866 when, following a petition to the State Legislature, a girls' dormitory was erected, "Normal Hall," as it was known, was to house the normal students recently admitted to the college. This was enlarged in 1929 and was renamed Reid Hall, in honor of Dr. Charles Reid who had been instrumental in bringing girls to the campus.

During the administration of Dr. James W. Cain, the State of Maryland again recognized its obligation to the historic Shore College and between 1907 and 1918, East, Middle and West Halls were prepared for modern chemistry only and a large administration, and classroom building, William Smith Hall, was erected. Destroyed by fire in 1916, it was immediately rebuilt. In 1912 there was provided a commodious gymnasium to replace the smaller frame and less stately one erected previously by the citizens of Chertown. A modern central heating plant was also installed.

The years 1925 through 1933 saw the addition of a room of faculty and fraternities houses and the expansion of a playing field, tennis courts and other necessary useful equipment. In 1931, Dr. Gilbert W. Mead became president and, under his administration, came the marked expansion of the physical plant.

Hobson Hall was opened in October, 1926, and houses the social facilities of the students and the college dining hall. During the winter of 1929-30, Denning Hall and the George A. Denning Library were opened, the gifts of Dr. H. A. B. Denning and Dr. George A. Denning '92, respectively. Denning Hall houses the laboratories and better rooms of the departments of chemistry, biology and physics. The library provides adequate reading room, spare book stacks, seminar rooms, a museum exhibit room and other facilities.

In 1944, the Ringgold House, one of Maryland's most famous and beautiful mansions in Chertown, was presented to the college for the President's house, by a group of friends headed by William Ross Hubbard. Several times a year it is opened to the students and faculty for reception and social functions and also serves as a place for the entertaining of official college visitors. In 1946 a frame dormitory housing fifty men was erected and in the following year the college secured two frame buildings from a closed Army Air Base and remodeled them for classrooms.

The last new buildings to grace the Washington College campus were Powell Hall, which was made possible by a gift left to the college by the late Senator Foxworth, and Sumner House, made possible by the Howard Trust. Foxwell Hall was dedicated on Homecoming day in 1949 and at the same time the cornerstone was laid for Sumner House.

Over almost 170 years the college has grown from one building to a modern physical plant, capable of caring for a small student body. Its history as stated before, has met with more than its share of bad luck. Yet by moral, Washington College has come through with colors flying.

NORMAL HALL

A Long Climb . . .

The number gradually decreased from year to year until 1918-19 when there were only 8 in attendance. At a meeting of the board, April 9, 1919, the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that the board declare its approval to institute a full system of co-education and to request the state to make provision for the education of women, substantially equal to the provision being made for the education of men, and we further recommend that a committee of five be appointed to devise and to execute the best means of laying this proposition before the state authorities."

As a result of this resolution, the co-education program was liberalized so as to include the attendance of boarding students attendance being made possible by the reopening of Normal Hall again as a girls' dormitory.

A two-year course in home economics was offered to stimulate interest in the college curriculum and to meet the demand of high school teachers in that particular subject. The course, after trial of a year or two, was found to be impracticable, and was dropped at the close of the year 1922-23.

The increase enrollment of girls, from 10 in 1920-21, to 28 in 1928-29, made necessary in 1929, the enlarging of Normal Hall known thereafter as Reid Hall, so named as a memorial to Dr. Reid, since through his efforts co-education was made possible at Washington College. This was remodelled after the style of W. Vernon and had accommodations for 70 boarders. This provided comfortable housing quarters was immediately followed by noticeable increase in the enrollment of girls. The yearly average attendance for the years 1930-1942 was 104, while 39 was that of the preceding 10 years.

Harriers Bow To Towson; Run Hopkins Today

In The PRESSBOX

With (Sports Editor) Ellsworth Boyd

It's not from the Pressbox that I express my sentiments today. It is from the athletic field on which the first annual Washington College intra-mural cross-country meet was held last Monday.

Never again will this writer sponsor, publicize, or be connected with in any way, an intra-mural cross-country race. Not after the disgustingly poor turn-out that I witnessed last Wednesday when the 1½ mile race was held!

Yes, in the summaries there are twelve finishers, but did you know that four of these men were volunteers from the lacrosse squad who were spirited enough to enter to prevent the race from being a flop? Thanks to the men who did enter. They proved that the school spirit around here is not 400 like lots of indexes. School spirit may not be .000, but it's mighty close to it!

Two weeks of publicity—posters, Elm reports, talk in the dining hall, medals as prizes, brought 8 men to the starting line! Yes, I know the soccer team was away, but it offered only 3 contestants. There should have been 25, not on the soccer team, interested enough to report.

It's lucky that the touch football league, which Clito Cannone has done such a fine job with, is only a six-man league. For if it were eleven, I'm afraid there would be many forfeits due to the feeble support in intra-mural sports.

If some of the members of the "Coke Squad" would cut down on their afternoon ball sessions in the Snackbar, and a few of the "Elbow Benders" at the Bluebird would let up on their Saturday afternoon quarterback talks, the sports at the college might get a break!

Not only have the participants let the Sho' school down, but so have the spectators.

I've written many such editorials in the past issues of this Elm, and I have predecessors. In conclusion, I have this to say: If our basketball team this year is donated the support that the fall sports have seen, then we better import some alumni to root the team on victory.

Enough said? I hope so! How about some action????

DiMaggio Wins Race In 8:55

Immature Mickey DiMaggio, freshman cross-country candidate, had a complete victory in the first annual Washington College intra-mural 1½ mile race last Monday afternoon. The ex-Charlotte Hall Military Academy student crossed the Washington College campus course in 8 minutes, 55 seconds. However, it was not complete victory for DiMaggio, as the sophomore Lew Buckley pushed the runner throughout the entire race, holding only 10 yards at the finish in the excellent time of 9 minutes, 2 seconds.

Third place was won by Bernie Maginnis, who was also a freshman on the team, displaying promising running ability.

Twelve contestants started the race and twelve finished. The course included many post the triangle of Somerset Hall, the post East Hall, around G.I. Hall, the dogleg of the campus around Kibler Field to the finish which was at the far end of the school.

DiMaggio jumped to an early lead but he never relinquished during the race. He finished the 1½ mile grind. Ten medals will be awarded the harriers some of this week.

Several outstanding varsity candidates were revealed by this hill and hill point. Some of these men will be the Maroon and Black color men in the varsity meets Hopkins, at the end of the year.

G.I. Troupes Theta Chi

The freshmen of G. I. Hall displayed an explosive offense on Tuesday as they walked over Theta Chi by a score of 22-6.

Ronnie took lead the attack for G. I. as he passed for four of the five touchdowns and both extra points. Ed Silveri caught two of Ronnie's passes for T. D.'s and both extra points. Junior Everson and Dave Jacobs also caught passes to score. Dick Russell scored the only other touchdown for G. I. when he intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards to score.

Theta Chi's only touchdown came on the last play of the game when Randy Hammett passed to Jack Bergen.

Snakes Thump K.A.

By Ray Adler

The East Hall Snakes defeated K. A. by a score of 25-12 as the Intra-mural Football League got underway on Monday, October 6.

The game was played in front of Somerset Hall where a special six-man field was laid out.

East Hall scored once in the first half on a pass from John Wilson to John Leo. Football Desmond made the extra point and the score stood 7-0 at halftime. K. A. came back in the third quarter to score, when Stump Gardner grabbed a pass from Al Zalooki. The attempt for the extra point was not good and East Hall led 7-0. The Snakes striking power then broke through and before the third quarter ended they scored three times. Wilson sparked the attack as he again connected with Leo for a touchdown and ran for another. Ed Cinaglia passed to Steve McHale in the third score.

Sho'men Troupe N. A. P. S.

Coach Howie Nesbitt looked with pride upon his Sho' charges after their 8-0 scrimmage victory over Bainbridge Naval Academy Preparatory School.

He was especially pleased with the teamwork that the Marines and Elm displayed, but declined to make any statement on the future Washington College soccer schedule, Nesbitt stated. "We don't talk, we act."

(The squad's attention is mainly focused on the Baltimore U tilt which will find the Bays favored to repeat as three Mason-Dixon Conference Champions. But the Nesbitts have different ideas.)

Bainbridge and the Shoremen opened the scrimmage in furious style, both teams using rough methods of blocking, kicking, and dribbling. Condition and teamwork were the visitors' dominating factor, as the tide changed in favor of the Nesbitts.

The hustling Sho'men eleven broke the game wide open when Roger Smoot centered the ball to Bob Appleby who played inside left. Appleby promptly headed the ball into the net. Smoot connected for three more assists during the tussle. Two were to Doug Tilly who evaded the NAP defense to score, and the other to Tom Rounds who slithered behind the ball between Tilly's legs during a pileup in front of the goal.

When the first string ended their scoring punts, the second team picked it up. Freshman Joe Laporte teamed with Jack Jennings to put the visitors out in front 7-0, the latter player scoring two accurate corner shots from his outside right position.

Rip Sewell closed the scoring rampage with a swift free shot in the upper left hand corner of the Bainbridge goal.

"The defense was not to be outdone, as starters John Grim, Dick Weller, Bill Russell, Rod Ware, Phil Regan, Al Hamfeller, and Joe Gelisler all exhibited fancy footwork in the scrimmage.

Outstanding performances were displayed by Bernie Mitchell, Bill Wright, Jack Howard, John Munk, Hens Flans, Jess Klotzwick, Bill Winterling, Rip Sewell, and Ted Redford.

Goalies Bud McHugh and Joe Szymanski each contributed two extraordinary saves as the opponent's line was held scoreless.

Shore Courtmen Are Ranked Sixth In State

Coach Edward L. Athey, Washington College basketball coach, recently received a national college rating summary for the 1950-51 basketball season, which ranked the Shore team 6th in the State of Maryland and 42nd in the country.

This rating summary, prepared by K. A. managed to score once more in the first quarter when Al Zalooki passed to George Fawcett for the hour's last score and the game ended with East Hall leading 25-12.

Steve Mattasiano and John Santilli were referees for the game and Eck King was timekeeper. Mr. James, who is assisting Clito Cannone with the running of the league, was timekeeper for the game. There were only a handful of students watching the game. It seems a shame that so many of the students should neglect to attend the game after the people who sponsor them, give so much of their time to make it possible to have a league. The students are urged to give their support by attending the games.

Bob Appleby

Shore Harrier joins squad to run against Hopkins today.

Shoremen Host To Court Clinic

The annual Mason-Dixon inter-collegiate basketball clinic will be held Saturday, November 15, at Washington College, Chestertown, Md.

Athletic director of the Shore school, Edward L. Athey, has announced that this court session, which begins at 2 p.m., will include demonstrations by several different Mason-Dixon coaches and players.

Lefty Reitz, coach of Loyola College, Bill Clark, coach of St. Mary's, and Earl Kilian, of Towson State Teachers, are expected to be present at this clinic.

The officials' end of the hardwood game will be discussed by Dallas Shirley who is president of the National Basketball Association.

The four phases of basketball that are to be demonstrated and discussed are:

- 1—Individual Defense—man for man
- 2—Individual Offense—shooting, passing, dribbling
- 3—Team Offense—against man for man and zone
- 4—Warm up drill—before game and practice

Several outstanding basketball stars will be shown after the demonstrations. All high school coaches on the Shore have been invited, and all other interested personnel are welcome to attend.

Teachers Win, 21-36

Towson State Teachers' College fielded a strong, veteran cross-country squad last Wednesday, as they edged the Shore harriers, 21-36 in a dual meet.

However, individual honors were won by Washington College's freshman sensation, Mickey DiMaggio. The small 145 pound sophomore surprised the Golden Knights by running the 2½ mile course in 11 minutes 55 seconds.

Wilson Heads Towson
DiMaggio matched strides with Towson's Keith Wilson until the halfway mark, where the swift Shoreman took full command. Towson's "Killer" Kane, formerly number 1 man, crossed the finish third, behind DiMaggio and Wilson. The latter harrier pressed DiMaggio to the finish, but could not catch "The Rabbit" in the stretch run.

Buckley Looks Good
The Athletes sorely missed the presence of Bob Appleby, who ran second in 1951, in the dual meet at Towson. But he is scheduled to participate against Johns Hopkins.
Lew Buckley, of the Maroon and Black, ran sixth in the fourteen-man field, and showed a strong running style which will aid the Shoremen in the future.

The third Sho' thinned to cross the finish. Ellis Boyd in eighth place, followed by George Eichleberg, who was tenth. Bob Holland and Wayne Gruen completed the Shore scoring. Holland, who is a newcomer to the hill and dale sport, ran excellent time.

A power-laden Johns Hopkins team is scheduled to meet the home forces at 1:45 on Kibler Field. Leading the Bluejays will be Don Manger, 1951 Mason-Dixon cross-country champion. It will be an interesting and high spirit duel between DiMaggio and Manger this afternoon.

Returning for the Jay's is captain Bill Maginnis, Tom Stone, Stubby Gallo, Andrew John, Hugh Logan and Dick Martin. This team is eyeing the Mason-Dixon crown this year, all being experienced lettermen.

Freshman Prospects

This week, in the second of a series of articles dealing with freshmen athletic prospects, the Elm is presenting Ed Silveri, of Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Ed, who is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds, attended Radnor High School in Bryn Mawr. During his stay there he played two years of varsity football and basketball, earning letters both years.

While playing for Radnor he was named to the all county football team as a star halfback.

After going to Radnor, High, "Big" Ed went to Haverford Prep School in Haverford, Pa. Here he played varsity basketball, and received the honor of being named to another all-star team—the inter-academic basketball team.

Of the two sports he has played, Ed likes basketball the best, and when the Shoremen start practice Monday night, under the watchful eye of coach Edward L. Athey, Ed will be out there gunning for one of the starting spots. His favorite position is fullback, and his shot is a right hand push anywhere around the keyhole.

Ed likes the Philadelphia Phillies in big league baseball, and though he hasn't played in high school, he will be out there with the team when the Kiblermen start practice in the spring.

"Doc" Wallace, an alumnus of W.C. and director of athletics at Haverford Prep, told Ed about Washington. He says it seemed to be just what he was looking for—a small school with a fine academic standing, and a good sports program.

With The GREEKS:

Lambda Chi Alpha

The members of Lambda Chi Alpha would like to welcome to the campus, our alumni and guests. Epitaph House chapter has just initiated A) Hamlet and we extend to him our best wishes and good luck for his coming college years. Also joining as a pledge are Ed Burnham and Jerry Lambdin.

Two new officers have been added to the fraternity. Filling these places in our chapter are Jim Metcalfe, High Phi, and Herb Tark, High Kappa. Brothers Bacon and Billings, both of the class of '52, are new members of the Air Force. They would appreciate letters from all who are interested in giving them the news of Washington College and its various alumni groups.

There will be an Open House Saturday, October 19th, for all alumni and friends of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Alpha Omicron Pi

Welcome back alumni! During the summer the A O P's had a picnic on Wharton's Creek. Our patronesses provided the food and everyone had a wonderful time catching up on the summer news.

Janet Parks was initiated into A O P on September 22, 1952, at our first formal meeting. Marjorie Watson was pledged on October 1, 1952.

Our society room has been enhanced by the addition of two new lamps, several pictures and vases. The officers for the year are: President, Lyn White; Vice-President, Shirley Hand; Secretary, Grace Iselle; and Treasurer, Mary Lee Lincoln.

We are now working hard on plans for our Internal and External Parties which are held in the latter part of the month. Plans are also being made for our annual bazaar and card party. The profits from these affairs will enable us to adopt Triantia, the little Dutch girl, whom we have helped support for the past years. Congratulations to our newest initiate and pledge.

Alpha Chi Omega

Saturday was a wonderful day for Alpha Chi Omega. A group went to Baltimore and visited our new furniture which should arrive around the end of October. Aside from being wonderful, it was also very busy. We exchanged rooms with Mrs. Williams and are now located in what was for merely her sitting room. After the arrival of our furniture we plan to have a grand opening celebration, a house warming for all sororities.

We were pleasantly surprised Sunday to have Mrs. Cunningham, our province president, with us for the Pan Hellenic Tea. Her visit was most enjoyable and we are looking forward to entertaining her for a longer period of time in February.

Our 'Fall Frolic' held Saturday, October 4, was a big success. Benefactors from the dance went to our Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Zeta Tau Alpha

The Zetas have gotten settled in their new room in Pan Hellenic Hall after being evicted from their former quarters in Middle Hall. After quite a bit of work on the part of the members it seems like home again.

Open house was held in the Zeta room last Thursday evening for all freshmen. A short play was presented by the actors of Gamma Beta. The Zetas hope everyone enjoyed the open house as much as they did and they're looking forward to seeing everybody back this coming Thursday.

Bids were given by Zeta Tau Alpha to K. J. City and Wanda Mac Mullen October 17. The formal pledging ceremony was conducted the same evening by President Jane Bradley.

Congratulations to Bob and Jane Jackson, Claire and Joe Beach, the proud parents of a baby boy. Congratulations are also in order for Jay Bradley and Tom Lowe, and El Dine and Shali.

Theta Chi

First of all, the active and pledges of Theta Eta want to welcome back all the alumni. We are glad to see them back and would like to see them around the house. Congratulations to our new pledges, Dave Bebbins, F.A. King and Jack Berger. Glad to have you with us, men. Also by the time this edition is out we will have some new members. They are John Santulio, Joanne Desmond, Tom Hedemann, Frank Willis, Tom Bond and Chito Cananue.

Theta Chi's who were initiated into the Varsity Club recently are Dan Smele, Bill Russell, Wes Edwards, Bob Lipsitz, Bob Appleby and Rod Ware.

Congratulations to Doug Tilley who is now engaged to Jean; we all wish him the best of luck. Brother Moose McHugh says, "this is the one." We are glad to see Beda back. We almost lost him to the immigration authorities.

This promises to be one of the best years yet. Reports (from the house manager) show the house to be in excellent condition.

Kappa Alpha

The KA's this year are planning many coming affairs. One such affair is open house for freshmen boys on alternate Thursdays. The dates for October are the 9th and 23rd. An open house for faculty and students is also planned for Sunday, October 19th. On the 21st a Halloween party is planned for all brothers. Then, in November comes our big event—we plan to initiate a KA Sweetheart Dance and choose a KA sweetheart. The date for this event is November 22.

Two good brothers have fallen to the charm of the opposite sex. Bob Jackson married Jane Miller this summer and Gary Wyckoff was just married last Saturday to a girl from his home town. Congratulations to both of them.

Congratulations are also in order for Elly Boyd. Elly was pledged again last Monday night.

Cut System

Students are advised to read carefully the section on POLICY GOVERNING CLASS ATTENDANCE in the Student Handbook. The following is intended to supplement the handbook:

COMPLETE EXCUSES—The following absences are not included in determining "overcuts" or exceeding the 15% allotment of absences. However, the student has responsibility for making up all work to the satisfaction of the instructor concerned:

1. Academic trips approved by the coach in charge.
2. College business approved by faculty advisor or administration.
3. Student teaching approved by department of education.
4. Field trips approved by faculty member.

5. Registration or voting.
6. Military, including draft and veterans' administration.

LIMITED EXCUSED ABSENCES—These apply only if the student has taken no absences on his own initiative. Once a student takes a "cut", all absences, regardless of reason, count in the usual way.

1. Sickness—Excuse slip signed by the doctor or house mother and must be filed in the Registrar's office within one week of return to classes.
2. Emergency, to be approved by the dean.
3. Medical and dental appointments. Excuse slips must be accompanied by a statement from the medical authorities.
4. Other excuses which may be approved by the dean are:
  - a. Court summons
  - b. Graduate school interviews
  - c. Senior job interviews
  - d. Ministerial
  - e. Family emergencies
  - f. Religious holidays

DROPPED FROM COURSE BY REASON OF EXCESSIVE ABSENCES. The student will be warned that he is liable to be dropped from a course with the grade of F, when he approaches the limit. Failure to notify the student will, in no way, prevent dropping the student from the course. Maximum absences permitted are:

- 7 absences in a three semester hours course.
- 5 absences in a two semester hours course.
- 3 absences in a one semester hours course.

FINES. Fines will be collected from the student regardless of reason for absence in any course up to the number cited. "Cut" over the 15% maximum are not subject to fines, since the student is automatically dropped from the course with a grade of F. However, the student must pay on all cuts up to and including the 15% within a reasonable time or he is dropped from all other courses with absences accumulating in the usual way.

1. First excessive absence in any course is $2.00 and all subsequent absences are $1.00.
2. There is no such thing as overcut assembly or physical education. The individual pays the usual fines until the close of the semester and is marked "unsatisfactory."
3. Holiday cuts—A student leaving before or returning after the catalogue announced statement, pays $2.00 for each class missed. In addition, these absences count as "cuts."

STATUS OF ABSENCES. The student may request information on his absence status from the faculty member of each course. This information is not available in the Registrar's office.

Attention: All Men--

All male students, other than veterans, who have not taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test, take the test as soon as possible, preferably on December 4, 1952. This applies to men in all four classes in college. Applications for the December 4, 1952 and the April 15, 1953, administration of the College Qualification test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country. Applicants can secure applications from the Kent County Selective Service Board, One the First Building on High Street, or from the local board in their home districts. Eligible students who intend to defer this test on either date should apply

$2,450,000 Goal Set For College

A goal of $2,450,000.00 for the long range planning program for Washington College, was announced by Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson at the Alumni Banquet on Convocation Day.

The first step of the campaign will be to raise $100,000 for the erection of a new girls' dormitory.

John H. Hesse, chairman of the campaign, announced during the banquet that advance gifts totaling $100,000 had already been received by the school.

The banquet served as the "kick off" for the program being run by the Meritt and Lundy Corporation. Approximately 600 alumni and friends joined Dr. Gibson outline the plans for the future.

The program includes the enlarging of the dining hall to accommodate an expected enrollment of from 500 to 550 students, the addition of wings to Somerset House, the remodeling of Middle and East Halls, the construction of a field house with a swimming pool and the erection of a student union building which would house a theatre and music and art studios.

Convoying for the campaign will begin on the Eastern Shore and will take in the major cities of Washington, Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia and New York. This will be done through the use of a brochure being published by Meritt and Lundy, concerning Washington College and by personal contact.

Foils A Flourish

For the first time in twelve years at Washington College, a Fencing Club has been started. This class consists of four select persons at the present time, but is open for further enrollment. The club meets each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Mrs. Davis says that her pupils are progressing rapidly and seem adept to this sport. Perhaps if more interest is shown, Fencing will be initiated as a regular sport.

Civil Service Announces Jr. Management Tests

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS!!! Those students interested in a Junior Management Assistantship with the government should secure form 7000 AB (GSV, No. 319) from their local post office and file application with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., no later than November 15, 1952.

This offer has been made by the Department of State to colleges and universities throughout the country. It is open to all senior and graduate students with good backgrounds, in political science, economics, public administration, international relations or related fields, and who are interested in a career in foreign affairs management. The foreign affairs management training program is designed to secure a limited number of carefully selected trainees who possess outstanding potential for eventual promotion to top level executive and managerial positions.

Beginning salaries for the program, which begins in the summer of 1953, are $3410 and $2620 per annum, depending on individual qualifications and requirements of the department.

The department is again planning to use the Civil Service Commission's Junior Management Assistant Examination as part of the selection process for its 1953 program. This examination opened October 11, and will close November 11, 1952. The examination will be given on December 6, 1952, and some of the cities in which it will be given near Chesterton are: Wilmington, Dover, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Camden, and Atlantic City. It is important that students who wish to be appointed in the department compete successfully in this examination.

NOTICE

The Faculty-Student Committee on Discipline, at a meeting on Saturday, October 18, agreed to publish the following notice in the next issue of the ELM:

Disciplinary Action

"As a result of wanton destruction of property in Somerset House recently by three students who had been drinking, the Committee wants all students that any persons brought before the Committee for drinking on the campus, for intoxication on the campus, and for damage to college property, may expect suspension."

Student Committee Submits Report

The possibility of Student Government on the Washington College campus has become a major issue. It is not, however, only in the talk stage. A committee which was selected last year by the various classes has been at work since September, revising a constitution that was drawn up last year.

Catholic Youth Proclaim Week

October 1952 has been proclaimed as National Catholic Youth Week by the National Catholic Welfare Conference. The theme, chosen because of the way it coincides in the world of day, is "Unity, Sanctity, Action".

The purpose is to focus the attention of a nation on the need for sound youth programs. At present, the National Catholic Welfare Conference serves some 6,000,000 American young people of all ages, colors, and creeds. All of the many clubs, which this organization sponsors are aiding juveniles of all ages by keeping their minds and bodies occupied in good, constructive activities. This makes it harder for the virus of a new nation to enter the eager, searching minds of youth and cause corruption.

The Newman Club of Washington College is urging all students to become more alert to their responsibility as future citizens of this country. This is the policy the Newman Club urges Washington College pupils to follow with "Unity, Sanctity, and Action".

Freshmen Election To Be Held Nov. 6

Omitron Delta Kappa has recently announced its preparation for the forthcoming freshmen elections. Nominations of candidates must be signed by fifteen pupils, and submitted to Dr. Clark no later than noon on Wednesday, October 29th. The primary elections, designed to reduce the field to two candidates for each office, will be held on Thursday, October 30th, from 12:30 to 5:00 p.m. The final elections will then be held one week later, Thursday, November 6th.

SOCK DANCE!!!

On Saturday, November 1, in Holston Hall, from 8:00 to 11:00 the Wesley Foundation will hold a SOCK DANCE and party. Everyone is invited. Refreshments will be served. Prizes will be awarded for the best socks. Shoes will be checked at the door.

The following is a report, submitted by chairman of the group, Bruce McKie:

Report to Student Body From Committee on Student Government
Your committee is meeting every Monday and Wednesday at 12:50 in room 21—William Smith Hall. The immediate purpose of the committee is to revise last year's proposed constitution (see back page) in line with the present desire of the student body. This revision is now taking place.

We have also appointed a publicity committee to spot posters pertaining to Student Government around the campus from time to time. The posters will be designed so as to raise general questions of interest about Student Government.

Bruce McKie

As soon as freshmen class elections are held, it is hoped that the freshman class will elect four class representatives to attend the Student Government Committee meetings. Even though the class elections have not been held, the committee welcomes any freshman student to sit in on the proceedings. This holds for any other student at Washington College. All suggestions or criticism by or against Student Government will be discussed by the committee.

After the constitution is revised, it will be presented to the student body for general discussion. If other revisions are necessary, they will be made.

Back issues of the ELM reveal a great interest in the situation from

WHY STUDENT GOVERNMENT?

Any student who has taken a course in world history will be familiar with the phrase "maintain the status quo." It is a symbol of those nations and peoples who did not wish to advance or expand. It should not be a symbol of Washington College, yet somehow it has crept into discussions concerning Student Government.

The ELM favors the adoption of Student Government on the Washington College campus, if for no other reason than to throw out the time worn phrase. When time and money has been spent to improve and develop the college, we think that the students owe it to themselves to develop along self government lines.

Too many people are content to "keep things as they are." We think perhaps the basis for this is that it will be a little more work on someone's part to be active in Student Government. What these people don't seem to realize is that they are getting as much education by self government and students solving their own problems as they ever will in any course of government come day, where the all going to be under that type of government some day, where the man next door could be the town judge, and a little experience in that line wouldn't hurt.

Still too abstract? Well, how about the disciplinary board, the school dances, the deserted week-ends, the assemblies, better facilities and school spirit. If you stop to think about it, we think you'll find that the best answer to these problems comes from an organized student body, not from a dozen or so clubs all aiming in a different direction.

At any rate, we suggest a stab at it. We, the students, have nothing to lose and plenty to gain. No one can be sure how Student Government will work on the campus until they have tried it. We can't rightfully criticize what the effect will "probably be" because we don't know. The ELM uses every student to take stock and listen to the arguments presented by the Student Government committee. We hope you'll see it their way.

WE SALUTE.....

On behalf of the student body the ELM salutes the newest organization on campus—"The G.I. Choralers." To put it simply, we say "well done."

It takes a little something extra to organize a group like that and it takes a lot of extra to put on a show like they did. We only wish they had come to Washington College sooner.

There's not much one can say that shows real appreciation, but we think that this new group will know that we liked them, merely by saying "let's have some more."

To Haze Or Not To Haze

By Jo Casack

October 10 marked the official end of hazing. However, as has been the custom in the past, a revolt occurred which ended hazing in reality on October 9.

The question has arisen in the minds of some whether to continue hazing in the future. There are those who say hazing is childish and of little value on a college campus. Your writer is inclined to believe the opponents of hazing have forgotten, or perhaps, have never experienced the adventure of hazing.

Hazing, besides being fun, has a definite value as a builder of college spirit and loyalty. As a result of this year's hazing one can hear the college songs sung in the bottom of Hudson Hall or wherever groups of freshmen gather. The culmination of hazing gives freshmen a feeling of "making the grade" and being, at last, a part of the college.

But what do this year's freshmen think about it? Let them speak for themselves.

Markie DiMaggio, post-baccare of the class of '76, says, "Since I didn't participate in it, I think it was pretty good."

Claire Talbot, despite being a victim of mass hysteria, says, "It was out of my mind; especially being thrown into the mind palace."

Aljo Gallo was somewhat more emphatic—"Damn good idea! But you need the class behind you to get anything done, especially when a rival is rugged. It's not continued next year, we'll high light the devil on it!"

One freshman, namely, Mickey DiMaggio, put his impression in verse form: The rain was fallin', The pit was callin', The two teams were to the fray, To tug and tug 'til one line gave way, They fell with a crash, They were all in the fray, There was a big splash, Mind was all over the place.

The Fresh had won and the poor Sophomores were in disgrace. So, to the freshmen, I say you're champions true blue, But all I can say for the Sophomores is P. U.

The Stepping Stones

By E. A. Collett

We all know we must take certain steps in order to achieve a goal. One goal that is being worked for (and should be worked for) so our campus is Student Government. Let's look at some of the steps needed to have Student Government, and see if Washington College meets the requirements.

First, we need organized spirit. I won't deny the fact that the campus is full of organized spirit, but it is organized only in small groups. Although these small groups have done much in the past for the school, they could do even so much more if they were united into one Big body—Student Government Association. (If anyone wants to know what spirit can do for a campus, let him remember the freshman class, before it "died." Was there much spirit when the Furensic Society presented the Student Government Essay?)

Secondly, we need cooperation. We have some cooperation now: between groups and groups, administration and groups, faculty and groups, and all of these with the individual student, but is this kind of cooperation getting anything done for the school as a whole? (Remember Dr. Gibson's Song Festival last Spring? Did he get much cooperation? We need one group, a Student Government Association, with which everyone will cooperate.)

Thirdly, we need leaders. We all know the campus is full of leaders. We know most of those who are now in office, but we don't know about the hidden leaders, like those people who are giving their time to drawing up a petition for Student Government. Aren't we wasting some of the talents of both these peoples by not giving them something to really lead—A Student Government Association?

We have just looked at a few of the requirements for Student Government. Let's get up some spirit and organize! Remember—there is the Student Government Committee that meets every Monday and Wednesday in Room 21, Bill Smith Hall, at 12:30. They would like to hear from you.

SENIOR of the WEEK

This week we would like to introduce Marlene Meyer, who is President of Alpha Chi Omega. Marlene is 5'9", has blue eyes and long blonde hair, and wears a K. A. pin. She comes to us from Havre de Grace, Maryland.

Marlene has been an Alpha Chi Omega for four years; she served as the society treasurer her second year, as Vice-President her third, and she is now the President. In 1951 she went as the delegate for Beta Psi to the National Convention, which was held in Rome, Italy.

As an active member of the Student Club, she is now serving as their able secretary-treasurer. She was a member of the Washington Flyers, served on the Pan-Hellenic Council for two years, acting as secretary-treasurer last year, and has been a member of the Future Teachers of America for the past two years.

Marlene was in the Court for the Homecoming Queen in 1950. The following year she was the charming Queen for the Homecoming. Marlene was the Homecoming Queen on the good old days when the college had a football game.

She is a hard-working major, and plans to use her knowledge in teaching high school. We are proud of Marlene's accomplishments, and wish her much success in the future.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Mr. James Of the Umbrella and Plaid Scarf

By Janet Parks

This violates all rules of introductory literature and speech. I know, but the gentleman I am about to present needs no introduction. He is Mr. Norman James, new addition to the English and art departments and head gump of Somerset.

He comes to us from Baltimore, a product of McDonough and Gilman. Yate claims the honor of having granted his B.A. in 1948, and he is a loyal son of Old Elg. He spent two years doing graduate work at Maryland, and in 1950 emerged with his Master's. Most recently, he has studied at Duke. He expects to attract a PhD to his name as soon as he writes his thesis and takes care of a few other minor details connected with that degree. He has found W.C. A "charming place to work and do other things." It is conveniently situated near Washington, where he now lives, and Baltimore, where he enjoys supplementing the school diet with spaghetti from Maria's. He likes living in Somerset, and thinks the boys are great, if a bit unvarying at times.

In the way of activities at W.C., Mr. James teaches, and the Art Club, although he suspects that he is voted in the latter only because, as the only male member, he is conveniently tall enough to hang all the posters.

Mr. James also collects opera records, especially old Caruso numbers and the like. He has already planned to play one set for a meeting of the Mt. Vernon Society, and would welcome the opportunity for group listening sessions.

So we've already seen a lot of the umbrella and plaid scarf that means Mr. James, and we like what we see. Hope he's with us for many years, to come.

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Night Watchman

It has come to this writer's attention that various disapproving remarks have been made concerning the students and faculty. I, therefore, wish to take this opportunity to apologize to those who have been offended. However, it is you who make the noise, I just write about it. So, let's have no more catch phrases when further issues come off the press.

Homecoming per usual was a real "world buster." . . . Amid the goliath, two prominent punnings occurred "Chuck" proudly announces that at long last the K.A. colors are being worn by Barbara, Janice Palmer; can now be seen displaying "Buddy" pin.

The Ranch a couple of Friday nights ago was the scene of one of the biggest and best parties on the campus this year. Congrats to the Oxford Inn planning and managing the affair.

Looks like our soccer team is on the upgrade—lost one, tied one and finally won one. Just knew the law of averages would take over victory or later. Have you noticed these new couples on campus? Carol and Hossy, Ann and Beau, Del and John, Esther and Bob, Pete and Bobby, Dick and Judi, Emily and Chuck, Sandra and Smitty, Billy and Nancy, Bill and Terry, just and John—No predictions, no comments (as yet).

"Ho Ho Ho, He He He, I'm treating water and you can't drown yet!" Just where is this strange voice coming from, Emily?

K.M., just what is your interest in Martin's laundry? Pat, what we want to know is . . . where exactly do you swim? In Wei Hall or the bottom of Hudson.

Take off those dark, fever glasses, Miss Hartman, we know it was you. We almost lost one of our campus characters last week-end, but as you notice, Don "amnesia jinx" Steynen is still with us.

When asked to elaborate on just what did take place after the barn dance last Saturday night, "Bulb" and John replied: "Buster, I'll never tell." Scott and river water, anyone?

Congratulations to Terry for playing a winning game of hide and seek on Homecoming week-end. Or was it, you chase me and I'll run show?

Looks as if Claire, her sprong the trap on a "mouse".

Word has it that "Admiral Halsey" Dobbs is recruiting for the Navy. Since when did Hamlet wear Bermuda shorts, argyle socks and the "Don't Cry Lady"?

Heard a real funny one a couple of days ago. Something about three couples being "laked out" of a beach party by a herd of sheep. The other news of the venture was their taking it on the "lamb" as the host advanced closer.

The "Bizarro" really "gawed" us all down at lunch the other day.

Some nicknames stay and some go. How about it, "Angus Sweet Feet"? Attention all Barnacle players! This coming Monday snow shoes, parrot muffs, and St. Bernards will be issued. Skies will be issued when the first snow falls.

We determined that Steve "Gosius" Mastrina is on a diet! What's this about Steven and "Bulbhead" being "J'birds"? Tell us of your Ocean CP escapades, boys!

A Clarification

Beliefs of some, they do not go loud. The Student Government question is hand, Student government is the has been kicked back and forth across the student management of school affairs this campus like a soccer ball. It is with the proper respect The has about time for the people who think or system is a system set up to control and con on the subject to get the honesty and to prevent cheating, solve the present situation straight. Coming, etc., among students.

mutties were formed by the student. It is my belief that the 330 students body to look into the subject. Last on this campus are honorable, intelligent people, they are intelligent people. They know that they are not another thing, straight. If Student Government were passed for anybody that has any misguided conception on the matter, Student Government and the honor system is two different things. Contrary to the called honor system could create a community and hard feelings. If Student Government were passed there would be no honor system unless the student body voted it. ## In The PRESSBOX

Once again the basketballs are thumping the hardwood of Cain Gymnasium, as Coach Ed Athey preps his court hopefuls for a 24-game schedule, opening December 6 against Bridgewater College.

No longer can Washington College boast of its high scoring conference all-star, Nick Scallion. Nor does the squad have the height of 6'5" Jim Taylor. Coach Athey will undoubtedly miss the rebound fortitude of his four-year veteran, Kenny Sullivan.

However, pessimism is not the theme in Cain Hall as seven lettermen of last year's team, plus a handful of promising freshman candidates, are drilling rigorously each evening.

"Dangerous Dan" Samele and "Jumping Jack" Bergen head

this list of seven returnees who established a record of 12 wins and 12 losses during the 1951-52 season. Samele, who is captain of this year's quint, racked up a total of 267 points last season, hitting for 115 field goals, while converting 57 free throws.

Bergen, who broke into the starting lineup as a freshman, tallied 192 markers and became an exceptional rebound mainstay. Rounding out the '51-52 lettermen are Bob Appleby, Doug Tilley, George Hesse, Wes Edwards, and Sheldon Deutch.

The schedule this year includes trips to Moravian, Hofstra, and Wagner Colleges, teams the Shomeren did not encounter last year.

East Hall Downs G.I. To Move Into First

By Hugh Delano

East Hall and G. I. Hall, the two undefeated teams in the Intramural Touch Football League at Washington College, clashed for the first time this season on Tuesday afternoon with the East Hall Snakes posting a tight 18-13 win over the Rockets to gain undisturbed possession of first place.

By virtue of their one touchdown triumph, East Hall maintained their perfect record in league play with a 5-0 slate. Other undefeated teams are Foxwell Hall and Somerset House.

Tuesday's big game was a hard fought struggle all the way with passes accounting for all the scoring. G.I.'s Budie Sisk and East Hall's John Wilcox took to the air. Sisk flipping a pair of touchdown passes to Everole, and Wilson a trio of passes for T.D.'s. It was Wilson's aerial to Fougie Demand in the closing minutes of play which gave the East Hallers their win.

It was a fairly even game for the first fifteen minutes of play, until Sisk passed to Everole and G.I. jumped in front 6-0. Sisk's toss to Jacobs for the extra point was good and the first half ended with G.I. holding a 7-0 lead.

East Hall cracked the scoring column early in the second half as Wilson tossed to Samrall for the score. The try for the extra point failed and G.I. held a 7-6 edge.

A Sisk to Everole pass increased G.I.'s lead to 13-6 which at the time seemed a comfortable lead for the Rockets. However, East Hall staged a strong comeback as again Wilson passed to John Leo and cut G.I.'s lead to 13-12.

With little time remaining in the game, East Hall tallied their winning touchdown on Wilson's pass to Demand to give them a well-deserved 18-13 win.

In a game played on October 16, Foxwell Hall won their first game by shipping Lambda Chi 15-7. Jim Hackett intercepted a pass on the 40 and tallied the initial touchdown for Foxwell. Hackett's pass to Bob Cowperthwaite made the score 7-0. Jack Hunter's aerial to Cowperthwaite gave the winners their final score.

Four games are on tap for next week. Those being the K.A.-Middle Hall contest on Monday; East Hall-Lambda Chi on Tuesday; G.I.-Somerset on Wednesday and Foxwell-Theta Chi on Thursday.

Chestertown Stars Win

In a special post-season tennis match held at Washington College last Sunday, the college all-star tennis team took to the singles grid from Chestertown by a 4 to 3 score.

This college all-star competition captured three out of five singles matches, as captain Bill Murray, Al Zakolski, and Rod Wade defeated their opponents.

The most exciting match of the afternoon came in the doubles play. Don Kelly and John Wyatt of Chestertown edged out Dean Hevly and Al Zakolski 9-7, 4-6, and 6-3 in 3 sets. The upset of this all-star series was Zakolski's triumph over Wyatt in singles play, 6-2 and 7-5. Zakolski was a member of the college tennis team in '51, but gave up the net game in favor of baseball last season. This stout smooking senior proved he still had the winning spirit, by playing an outstanding singles game.

Singles-Zakolski beat Wyatt, 6-2, 7-5. Murray beat Ellison, 6-4, 6-3. Kelly beat Hevly, 7-5, 6-3. Merrick beat Lambdin, 6-2, 6-0. Ware beat Hoops, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3. Doubles-Kelly and Wyatt beat Zakolski and Hevly, 9-7, 4-6, 6-3. Elavon and Merrick beat Murray and Lambdin, 6-1, 6-4.

Sho'men Trip Bisons

By Palmer Hughes

Last Saturday, on wind swept Kibler Field, the Washington College soccer team notched its initial victory by beating a fighting, but undermanned Bucknell eleven, 1-1. Never were the visitors from Lewisburg, Pennsylvania in contention, as the Sho'men dominated play from the opening whistle.

The game started at a quick pace, both teams striving for the first score. After twelve minutes the Maroon and Black's Bob Appleby sailed on an accurate pass from Ted Hedder, a minute later the Nettidmen scored again. This time it was Freshman Roger Smoot who cut the twines, with a penalty kick. Nine minutes into the second period, Washington increased its lead to 3-0, as Smoot scored his second goal on a pass from Doug Tilley. The fourth and final tally came just before the half when Bob Appleby skilfully headed the ball into the Bison goal.

The home team seemed content with its lead, and played fine defensive ball in the second half. Bucknell finally came to life, and scored late in the game against the reserves, when the game was already tucked away.

With this victory, our team showed both teamwork and fight, and appeared for a very successful season.

AN EDITORIAL

By Joe Student

What is Hodson Hall, a prison or a dining room? Are the students in white coat waiters or inmates? And how long will the strict discipline over the waiters and the reformation of the students' table manners continue?

These and other questions have been the general topic of conversation among many of the student body. It is this student's opinion that the manners and the service in the dining room have been satisfactory in the past.

Why this sudden upheaval toward restaurant style of serving. The waiters are not serving individuals as in a restaurant. They are serving six people at a time. Why make six people at a time. Why make six people at a time. Why make six people at a time. Why make six people at a time.

As for the manners of students, we have not received any complaints from visitors or alumni who have visited our dining hall. If we have no complaints, let us be notified of it. As one of the student body who eats in Hodson Hall daily, I see no sudden need of mass improvement over our table manners.

As Benjamin Franklin once quoted: "When authority is bestowed upon an individual, let his heart, not his head, rule his hand!"

Greyhounds Win, 26 To 29

The Loyola College Greyhounds romped over the 3.2 mile Washington College cross-country course last Saturday and clocked out a 26 to 29 triumph over the Shoremen.

However, the highlight of the dual meet was once again the performance of Coach Ed Athey's freshman ace, Mickey DiMaggio. DiMaggio covered the distance in 16 minutes, 59 seconds to easily win over the second place finisher, Jim Palmer of Loyola, who was clocked in 17 minutes, 56 seconds.

Eichelberger Outstanding

Finishing in third place was Sho'man Lew Buckley who beat several accomplished Loyola College hardies. This is Buckley's first year of cross-country and he has already scored several wins over veteran runners from other schools.

In sixth place was George Eichelberger who ran an excellent race, clocking up his best time in three dual meets.

Shoremen Face B.O.C.

This was Loyola's first dual meet of the '52 season. The Greyhounds tangle with Johns Hopkins on Saturday, while the Chestertown Shomens are due to the renowned Baltimore Olympic Club.

Coach Bill Jimeson's Clubmen are a much less formidable outfit this year as compared to the 1951 squad. Walt Atchison, who set a course record last season, is no longer running, nor is Frank Pilgning and Wiley Miller.

Crouse No. 1 Man

Nevertheless, the "Ties" have found a capable replacement in Mike Crouse, former Bridgewater College star, who was runner-up to Don Manger of Hopkins in the '51 Mason-Dixon Conference Cross-Country Championships. The DiMaggio-Crouse dual will be a distinctive feature of Saturday's 3.2 mile jaunt.

Coach Bill Jimeson, who incidentally is running his 16th year of cross-country (7th for the Baltimore Olympic Club), boasts such veterans as Henry Schaefer, former South Atlantic 2 mile champion in 1951; George Brown, 1947 Mason-Dixon cross-country champion; John Parker, ex-Loyola College standout; Del Sullivan from the U. of Maryland, and Jim Ball who is also a former Loyola College hardier.

Merle Crouse will be gunning for his 32 straight win, after placing first in meets with Bainbridge Prep and Howard University.

Smoot Scores Three Goals

Washington College won its second straight victory of the 1952 soccer season campaign by defeating a favored Western Maryland 11 by the score of 6-2 last Wednesday on the looser field. The victory gave Washington College a chance to challenge Baltimore U. in the Mason-Dixon Conference. The Sho'men will be out to defeat the Bies on November 1, when they meet the defending champions on Kibler Field.

During the first period of the Western Maryland game, action was centered at midfield, with both teams showing hustle and teamwork. During a pile-up in front of the goal, Bob Appleby opened the scoring rampage by heading the ball into the top per right hand corner of the nets. Moments later, center forward Roger Smoot scored his first of three goals on a penalty kick. A pass by Doug Tilley to freshman Smoot, gave Washington a substantial 3-0 lead.

Western Maryland countered its first goal on a misfire on the part of the Washington defense. This included the scoring for the ball. But the Maroon and Black was not to be denied, and boomed back in the second half to tally three more goals to the looser's one. The scorers for the attack were Smoot, Appleby and Tom Boush. These goals were set up by the footwork of Rod Ware and Phil Riggins.

Al Hanfler, John Grim, "Rip" Sewell, Jesse Klesiewicz, Jack Jennings, Jack Howard, Joe Geisler, Joe Lopez, Phil Russell and Dick Weller all contributed to the team's victory.

Hardwood Drills Begin

The Washington College basketball squad began its practice sessions two weeks ago and Coach Athey's hard wood contingent now consists of 15 men.

After a series of continuous scrimmages during the initial week, the 40 course candidates were cut to the present group of 15. Although the soccer and cross-country basketball prospects have not yet reported for practice, the evening workouts will continue until the opening of the season.

Eight freshmen are currently drilling with last year's lettermen. These new men include: Ralph Laws, Dave Jacobs, Bob Sullivan, Ron Sisk, Ed Silverie, Ebe Josephs, Dave Bruckell, and Junior Everole. Captain Dan Samele, Jack Bergen, Wes Edwards, George Hesse, and Sheldon Deutch are members of Coach Athey's '51 aggregation, which is preparing for the Dec. 6 opener.

During the past years the home games have been held at the Chestertown Armory, but this season the home site is the new high school gymnasium. This arena has a seating capacity of 1,200 spectators.

Student Government Constitution

The following is the Student Government Constitution as it was drafted up last year by the S.G. committee. It is subject to any change that the student body might deem favorable. The ELM asks the students to keep this copy and use it for reference purposes when discussion comes up on the Student Government question.

We, the student body of Washington College, do hereby endorse this Constitution for the Student Government Association. It shall be the purpose of this Student Government Association to promote the moral and intellectual standards of our college, to honor and uphold its traditions and program and to establish conditions which will build the personal lives and character of its students.

ARTICLE I. NAME AND LIFE OF THE ORGANIZATION

Section 1. The name of this organization shall be the Student Government Association of Washington College.

Section 2. All persons pursuing the regular course offered by the College on the campus, and fully matriculated, are members of the Student Government Association and are entitled to vote in all of its proceedings.

Section 3. The life of this Association shall be subject to the regard of the student body at such at any time this Constitution may be dissolved by a three-fourths (3/4) vote of the student body.

ARTICLE II. RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Section 1. It shall be the responsibility of the Student Government Association, acting through its officers, to encourage and assist those student activities which contribute to the social and intellectual welfare of the campus.

(a) To act in liaison between the student body and the administration of the college.

(b) To officiate in the elections of all officers.

(c) To advance student activities funds.

(d) To assist in the encouragement and maintenance of high ethical standards.

(e) To represent the student body in its relations with similar organizations in other collegiate institutions.

ARTICLE III. THE COMPOSITION OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Section 1. The Student Council shall be composed of thirteen (13) members: four officers, a President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer, and eight additional members, two chosen from each of the four classes, and one faculty member.

Section 2. The executive powers of the Student Government Association shall be vested in the four aforementioned officers and in eight additional members, two chosen from each of the four classes.

Section 3. There shall be one faculty member chosen by the administration of the Student Council who shall be an advisor in the Student Council and have no vote.

Section 4. All members of the Student Council must have and maintain an accumulative index of 1.00 or better.

ARTICLE IV. ELECTIONS

Section 1. The President and Vice President of the Student Government Association shall be chosen from the rising senior class.

Section 2. The Secretary and Treasurer of the Student Government Association shall be chosen in the rising Senior, Junior, or Sophomore classes.

Section 3. Candidates for all offices in the Student Government Association shall be nominated by petition requested by thirty (30) student signatures and this petition shall be submitted to the Student Council two weeks in advance of the general election. Names of the properly certified candidates shall be published in "The Elm" at least one week prior to the election. The general election will be held during the second week of April, on a day set by the Student Council. The judges of the Election will be faculty members, who shall tabulate the votes. The candidates for President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer shall be declared elected when they have received at least a simple majority of the votes cast. Balloting shall terminate at 5:00 p.m. of the election day and the results shall be posted by the rising President of the Student Government Association by 5:00 p.m. of the same day as his last day of office.

Section 4. The candidates from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore members of the Student Council shall be nominated by petition consisting of 20 student signatures from their respective classes. The procedure for the election of these members will follow the same methods as those used in electing the officers.

Section 5. No earlier than two weeks, and no later than three weeks after the beginning of the second semester of the college year, the Freshman class shall be organized by the President of the Student Government Association at which time the Freshman members shall nominate, in the previous manner stated, and elect by secret ballot two representatives to the Student Council.

ARTICLE V. DUTIES AND POWERS OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Section 1. The Student Council shall be the legislative and executive body of the Student Government Association.

Section 2. The Duties and Powers of the Officers:

a. The President of the Student Government Association shall preside at all meetings of the Student Government Association and of the Student Council; he shall also appoint committees, call special meetings, fill temporary vacancies, administer legislation, and assume the powers not specifically assigned to other officers.

b. The Vice-President of the Student Government Association shall preside over meetings of the Student Council in the absence of the President and shall succeed the President if that officer becomes vacant.

c. The Secretary of the Student Government shall take minutes of all Council meetings and keep all necessary records.

d. The Treasurer of the Student Government Association shall handle the financial business of the Council and report the state of finances when called for.

ARTICLE VI. THE JUDICIARY BRANCH

Section 1. The Judiciary Branch of the Student Government Association shall be composed of four members of the faculty: the President, Vice President and Secretary of the Student Government Association who shall be permanent members; and three non-permanent members chosen from a Jury Panel. A jury panel shall consist of three members.

Section 2. The faculty advisor of the Student Council shall act as chairman of the Judiciary Branch, and he shall have no vote.

Section 3. The Jury Panel shall be composed of three (3) students chosen by the Student Council from names voluntarily submitted by the Student Body.

Section 4. Six affirmative votes will be necessary for conviction.

ARTICLE VII. IMPEACHMENTS

Section 1. Impeachment of Officers and Members of the Council:

a. Officers and members may be impeached by petition signed by one-third (1/3) of the members of the Student Government Association.

b. It shall require a three-fourths

(3/4) vote of the entire Student Government Association to convict the person or persons impeached.

c. If the charges are sustained the accused shall be removed from office.

Section 2. In trial proceedings either the President or the Vice-President shall preside.

Section 3. Scope of Impeachment: Officers and members may be impeached for neglect of duty, for misconduct, or for malfeasance in office.

ARTICLE VIII. PROCEDURE FOR ADOPTION OF BY-LAWS AND AMENDMENTS

Section 1. Amendments and by-laws may be proposed by a majority of any class, or by a three-fourths (3/4) vote of the Student Council, or by a petition signed by thirty per cent (30%) of the members of the Student Government Association, and shall be presented to the Student Government Association by the Student Council.

Section 2. Amendment and by-laws shall be adopted by a three-fourths (3/4) majority of the votes cast in the Student Government Association. All amendments and by-laws must be approved by the Faculty and Administration before being added to this Constitution.

ARTICLE IX. RATIFICATION

Section 1. This constitution shall be adopted upon ratification by a two-thirds (2/3) vote cast by the students of Washington College and upon approval of the Administration and Faculty.

b. This constitution shall be considered as going into effect the first school day in September, 1972.

c. Article III is to be construed as taking effect immediately, with Omicron Delta Kappa holding election of officers and Class representatives according to procedures outlined in Article III.

d. Upon ratification the association governed by this Constitution shall be the only student government association of Washington College.

faculty and students. A February article stated Dr. Gibson's desire to further the idea. In this interview he also stated that the possibility of an honor system would be up to the students, that a majority would have to vote it in. He made it clear that when the students showed that they were capable of handling their own problems, and assuming the responsibility of student government that he would give them as much leeway as possible.

In May, the constitution was up by the S.G. committee was voted down by a minority vote of 22. Thirty-six people did not vote—which also counted negative. At this time chairman McKie stated that the need for student government was evident because a big majority of the student body for it. A three-fourths tie, however, kept it from being ratified.

Civil Service . . .

Faculty members will assist the department on each campus by screening qualified students from among JMA competitors and nominating the most outstanding candidates for consideration by the department of state. Faculty members of the History and Political Science Department, Dr. Clark and Mr. Pridgen, will comprise the nominating committee for Washington College. Nominating board elections must be received in the Department of State not later than February 16, 1973.

Trainees will generally be assigned to administrative and managerial activities in Washington in keeping, where practical, with the interests and background of the individual trainee. About 90% of the trainee's time is spent in regular work assignments under the guidance of a training counselor, the remaining time being allotted to orientation, counseling and seminars. After successful completion of the program, a trainee progresses to positions of greater responsibility as he demonstrates capacity for advancement.

These assignments, which are in Washington, should not be confused with positions in the foreign service. Students interested should contact their nominating board chairman or placement director.

On behalf of the Pegasus staff, I would like to extend my gratitude for the great cooperation that I have received from the student body during the photographer's visit to the college.

dent government is only exercising its God Given Right to think for itself and by its democratic right to vote. It is not the admission of guilt if anything (if you don't vote for Student Government or the honor system, it is never introduced in the student body. When people come to college they should be intelligent enough to manage their own affairs and decide what they want for themselves in the student body. There are a lot of people on this campus who have not yet very hard and deserve a lot of credit for their work on student government. These representatives of Student Government should have the right to present their case to the students without interference from representative parties. What Student Government was on this Campus before 1971 has nothing to do with the present plan.

If you want to know anything about the Student Government of today see your student representative. If you are a freshman go in the chairman of the committee. Read the constitution and ask questions about it. Decide for yourself about it. If you can't, you should not be in college. Remember one thing—can't tell about anything until you have given it a chance.

"FROM THE OUTSIDE WORLD"

Editor's note: Although criticisms have been made during the past two weeks that the ELM is becoming a "student government magazine" we don't want to miss the opportunity to let the students know what the "outside world" thinks about Washington College and Student Government.

Editor, The Elm
Washington College
Chestertown, Maryland
Dear Editor:

I was quite surprised, at Homecoming, to hear—and to read in The Elm—that a portion of the student body is reluctant to accept the restoration of student government, even though the college administration favors its re-establishment. This is a curious "twist" even in these unusual days.

I attended the college from 1936 to 1940; we had student government, and it worked. At that time, the student body was proud and jealous of its privileges of self-determination and was always on guard against faculty interference or any indication that student government might be taken from us. Today, some of the students seem fearful that self-government will be thrust upon them. For some time now I have felt that young men and women have greater maturity and development than did the students of the late 1930's. One wonders, however, why a substantial number should now shrink from democratic management of at least a portion of their college life.

One of the reasons why I have always been proud of WC is that it affords an excellent training ground, in four of the most important years of a person's life, for development in a society having most of the attributes of that in which we spend the larger part of our lives. Being non-denominational, co-educational, not too large, and not too wealthy or select, its society is entirely "normal." But, in my opinion, the experience there would be more valuable to future citizens, and their individual careers, if it included participation in such democratic processes as student nominations, campaigns and elections, and student management of campus activities. I cannot believe that Washington College students of today are unable to do these things sensibly, or that a majority of them would rather have someone else make decisions than to do so themselves.

Very truly yours,
William B. Johnson
Assistant General Counsel
Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

OUR MISTAKE!

Two weeks ago, there appeared in the ELM an article written by one "Joe Student." It is always the policy of good journalists anywhere, never to print an item that is opinionated unless it is signed or a pen name is used and the editor knows who the author is.

We were in error to run the article and admit our mistake. However, we would like to make our policy hereafter clear. No article that is the opinion of an individual or a group of individuals will be printed in the ELM unless it is signed.

This policy is for our own protection as well as the student's. The ELM's opinions do not always coincide with those of numerous students. In order to keep the scores straight, we require the name.

It's Also Time For A Change Here

By E. A. Colletti

Washington College is now 170 years old. Its dominant interest has always been the student; to see that he receives a good education, both academically and socially. The biggest thing on the social side of the educational process is learning how to live in a democracy. Here is where Alma Mater has failed. She presents us with the "democratic way" in her classrooms, but not in practice on her campus. This is not her fault. It is our fault, yes the fault of we, the students. We let the administration tell us what we can and what we cannot do. The administration does not want to do this. We force them into doing it because we have no body in which we can govern ourselves, a Student Government. (Ask the Administration, they will tell you the same thing.)

We also have O.D.K., telling us what we can and cannot do by their control over the purse. They also perform this function because of the lack of a Student Government. They have performed the function of distributing student activity money well, but they do not have the right to perform this function. You don't have to ask O.D.K. They have repeatedly told us that it is contrary to their charter. We owe a lot to O.D.K., but it is about time we remove the burden from their shoulders that they do not want to carry.

Then, of course, we have "Joe Student." What does he do about this? I'll tell you what he does in one word, "nothing." I make this statement from observation. The Student Government meets twice a week, and never are there more than ten people at any meeting, yet the whole student body has been invited to attend. (Note: I said "Joe Student.")

Hats off to those who have helped in committees and assemblies.) What are we going to do? Leave things as they are, or are we going to bring about a change? Remember, we, the students, are the only ones who can do anything about it. I believe it's "time for a change." Let's unite, we have nothing to lose, but much to gain.

Looney, Steppen, and Parker; just how do you rate racing around in Reid Hall at all hours of the night? Rush parties, anyone . . . ?

From the latest tabulation, we can proudly announce "Bull-head's" usage. He is one-hundred and eleven, and burning brightly.

Del . . . what is your opinion of "Stinkpot" (outboard motor boats to you vulgar)?

We have seen high-chairs in many restaurants, but never in Haddon Hall, that is, until a couple of days ago . . . Chair and Lynn Duane were 'head and shoulders' above us all. 'Mule,' you do!

Attention All Pipe-smokers—Silco's still has a few very nice imported "hilar" specials; still only fifty-nine cents. Get one today, and let's all "Pee it up."

Understand "Jumping Jack" Bergen got taken to the cleaners in more ways than one last Wednesday night.

Ells, who it is evened with the girls, and not in regards to the track meet???

We notice a certain blue Ford convertible has been spending the past few weeks on campus . . . could be the "taming of the shrew"???

Well, so far, we've noticed girls with boys' jackets, and with the "Sadie Hawkins Dance" coming, it is safe to say that we will soon learn whom the girls favor? Let's hope so, for it's been one big mix-up so far.

The "Silly Sies" on their way to and from "Gossiping" may only played "Twenty Questions" and "Horse and Cows," but they carried on a conversation that was something like this:

Bobby was heard to say, "Love those steam-heated cabs!" Far then, he rorted with, "Stop the car, I left my fur in the bakery!" Bill then came in with, "I want to see little round bottom!" Barbara then wound up the conversation with, " . . . but you said you would take me to a burlesque show."

Boh, do you have Indian blood in you, or do you enjoy wearing lip-stick??

Wanta's going to Baltimore this weekend on business . . . could be "ON" business.

We received this message yesterday from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station in Silver Spring, Maryland: "Mr. James, sorry your train never made it. Better luck next time!"

Brinsfield, just what is the object of the game you initiated on campus which is causing so many headaches? Congratulations to both Fraternities and Sororities for giving such nice parties in the past two weeks. Every one we have talked to said they had the best time ever. Keep it up, and remember . . . "let's live in the 'now," it's not raining on the inside." "It is in the book."

In Reply To Joe Student

Haddon Hall, in our opinion, is not a prison and there has been no "mass reformation" to justify this statement. It has long been a college rule that male students were to wear coats and ties to the evening meals; this makes the atmosphere more like that of a prison? In many fraternities, boys are required to wear coats and ties to meetings, but still they join these fraternities and don't refer to them as prisons. Why then should the dining hall be considered a prison?

The service in the post in the dining hall has been satisfactory and the few changes which have been made certainly haven't changed the procedure to such a violent degree. The discipline is by no means strict and we can't see how it puts such an imposition on anyone as it has on Joe Student. We can't see that the mothers of the students were criticized to such a great degree; if they were criticized, most likely the criticism was meant to be constructive and not to cause hostility. The person who can't learn to take criticism and adjust to changes is rather a one-sided individual. If he can go all through life without conforming to regulations or without having anyone criticize him, he is an exception.

Pitchmen Play M-D Finale Today

Hopkins Final Mason-Dixon Opponent

The Shore soccer squad squares off against Johns Hopkins today in what shapes up to be one of the most important contests of the season for the Maroon booters.

Remaining on the schedule are two games—Hopkins and Drexel. Victories over both of these teams would earn for Coach Nesbitt and his team, an invitation to the Middle-Atlantic All-Star tournament in Philadelphia. Only Hopkins and Drexel can prevent the Shoremen from capturing the Middle-Atlantic Southeastern area championship.

Coach Wilson Fewster of Hopkins boasts a team on which most of his pitchmen have played for two complete seasons. Center forward Jim Hutchins scored in every game last year and has continued his fine play this year. The heart of the Bluejay pitch attack is Stan Henry who fills in the center halfback spot.

The Jays are not rich in close defense talent, but Fewster often shifts his halfbacks in an effort to strengthen the area near the net. Six foot, four inch Dave Hack guards the goal and is noted for a strong throwing arm and good reflexes.

Emil Budnitz, former City College star, capably handles the inside right position and is an excellent passer and dribbler. The Charles Street team has already beaten Towson and Western Md., but bowed to Drexel Tech last Saturday. If Hopkins should complete their season undefeated in Mason-Dixon competition, they would be declared co-champs along with Baltimore University. A play-off game between these two teams is doubtful.

However, Coach Howie Nesbitt and his stalwarts will be gunning for the Bluejays in an effort to knock them out of the Mason-Dixon soccer race.

Although the Nesbittmen lost to Baltimore U. 2 to 0 last Saturday, the Bees were never comfortably ahead until the dying moments of play when they tallied their second goal. The spirited Sho' team played hard for 88 minutes and kept the visitors on their toes for the same amount of time.

Baltimore Coach, Cal Ermer, has piloted his pitchmen to three straight Mason-Dixon titles. The Bees have lost only one game in the last three years, this being to West Chester, 3 to 1, in 1950. This season they have notched eight wins and dented opposing nets for 31 goals. Two contests remain—Salisbury and Loyola.

The Baltimore booters have moved into the center of the pitch spotlight via their 3-0 win over West Chester State Teachers, one of the nation's perennially best elevens.

Stickmen Stage Drills

Coach Charles Clark's Washington College lacrosse team has been holding full practice sessions on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons for men who attend, these sessions are credited as gym classes.

The practices are primarily to give the boys, who are interested in lacrosse, an opportunity to learn fundamentals and the Washington College style of play. Some of last year's players are also participating. The sessions have been running smoothly now for four weeks and the enthusiastic attitude of the boys has enabled Coach Clark to accomplish a great deal. Some equipment has been loaned and brief scrimmages are held each day.

Freshman Prospects

This week's, third of a series dealing with freshmen athletic prospects, the Elm presents Mickey DiMaggio, of Annapolis, Maryland.

Donatienne Mickey, who stands 5 feet 7 inches, and weighs 154 pounds, attended Charlotte Hall Military Academy in Southern Maryland, during his stay there, he played three years of football, basketball, lacrosse, and also boxed for a year. While excelling in all sports he was named All-Friday during his annual basketball tournament.

In his short stay at Washington College, Mickey has successfully displayed his athletic abilities by running cross-country. He has won twice against Guilford, Towson, and Loyola, while finishing second against the B.O.C. and third in the Del-Mar Championships. Mickey intends to go out for basketball and lacrosse in the coming season.

The veterans who are out are: Bob Lipitz, Chuck Wasieleski, George Hesse, Mike Branstetter, Spencer Latham, Kenney Brown, and Frank Dickey.

DiMaggio came to Washington College because he liked the idealism shown by students on campus. While he has already done well in school, his favorite subject is Spanish.

To a great little guy, who has shown ability in many fields of endeavor, we wish the best of luck for a future we know will be bright. In addition to his past athletic endeavors, DiMaggio was a member of the Charlotte Hall boxing team, where he excelled in the 130 lb. weight class.

THE COCA-COLA KID'S RETURN

Courtmen Prepare With Five Scrimmages

The Washington College hardwood courtiers will compete in their second scrimmage session against the Bainbridge Naval Prep on Monday, November 10, at Bainbridge.

As un-opens for the opening contest on December 6 against Bridgewater, Coach Atkey has also matched the Shoremen against the Duxton team on the 12th, Bainbridge again on the 18th, and Fort Meade on the 20th.

The squad is now in its preliminary stages, practicing fundamental drills plus team play in offensive and defensive maneuvers. At the conclusion of the scrimmage sessions, Coach Atkey hopes to form his starting contingent. No first team is available now due to the fall sports that are still being played. Eight to ten more aspirants are expected to report for try-outs when these fall sports terminate.

Among the freshmen prospects still battling for varsity berths, is Ronnie Sick, whose floor play has been outstanding along with an accurate eye for the basket. Ralph Laws is a promising alternate at forward and center, along with Ed Joseph and Dick Bruchel. Ed Silver is has been impressive by his accurate shots from the foul circle. Dave Jacobs, Bob Sullivan and Junior Eversole complete the list of newcomers, the latter courtmen adept at rebounding.

Six Jose, five inch Frank Ferris, transfer student from Davis-Elgin College, has been working out with the team but has been declared ineligible for this season.

Danny Sumeck and Jack Bergen have shown exceptional pre-season form and it is hoped they will continue their fine play this season, as last.

Although lacking height and experience the team as a whole is high in spirit and morale. The squad's athletic gymnasium is preparing the courtmen for a fast, wide open hard word program and every man is rounding into fine condition.

Harriers Beat NAPS

The Washington College cross-country team captured third place in the third annual Del-Mar Championships last Saturday at Clifton Park, Baltimore, Md.

In so doing, the Shore team managed to avenge the Naval Academy Pre-nary School to its own column. The meet was won by the powerful Baltimore Olympic Club who ran away from its nearest competitor, Towson State Teachers.

Individual honors went to Mickey Coose of the Clubmen who scored the 5 mile course in 16 minutes, 16 seconds. The Washington aggregation was headed by its number one finalist, Mickey DiMaggio, of Annapolis, Md. DiMaggio was third in a field of 28 barriers. He managed to stay with Charles Waggoner, who the experienced Waggoner pulled away. The Shoremen placed Lew Buckley 5th and Eds Bowd 17th. Bernie Thomas was 18th and George Eichtheimer 23rd. These five men all earned team medals in this well sponsored Del-Mar Championship.

In a dual meet last Tuesday at West Chester, Pa., the Sho' team lost to a well-named West Chester State Teachers' team, 18 to 45. The Shore top man ran the 4 mile grind in 22 minutes, 35 seconds. DiMaggio was unable to compete due to an infection of foot and Bill Clark was out because of illness. Therefore, the Athletes were forced to conserve without a full team, hampering the score considerably. Buckley, Bowd, Thomas and Fisherberger finished in this order, backing the fifth man who would have completed the working.

Washington College does not have a dual meet this Saturday, but will be training for their next encounter on the 15th of November against Catholic University in Washington, D. C.

Bees Sting Sho'men

By Palmer Hughes

Before a small crowd at Killeys Field, the Washington College soccer team lost its second game of the year to a strong Baltimore U. aggregation by the score of 2-0. Although not out-dressed, the Shoremen just lacked the scoring punch needed for victory. The game, in which the Mason-Dixon conference lead was at stake, was so exciting that spectators were kept on the edge of their seats throughout the long afternoon.

Baltimore U. opened the scoring at the sixth minute of the first half when Stan Foster boosted the ball into the upper left hand corner of the Washington goal. The Bees made this lone tally stand up, as they withstood the furious attack of the Maroon and Flunk Baltimore goalie Ed Seidelick. This was a number of excellent saves. The second score came in the last 30 seconds of the contest, when Don Brodsky's shot bounced off the goal post into the open net. Although the team lost, special mention should be made of the fight the whole squad displayed and to several players who were outstanding. Goalie Jey Symanski played his finest game of the year, as he was called on to make 19 saves, and came through in fine style. Helping on the defense was Bill Russell who was averaging 60 Seidelicks in his first hours. On the offense Dick Weller, Doug Tilley, and Rod Ware kept Seidelick busy. Other players not to be outdone were Al Hanley, Bob Appleby, Phil Rigan, "Rip" Sewell, Joe Geisler, John Grin, Jack Jennings, Ted Redwood and Joe Lawrence. As this was the last home game, we wish to thank the student body for its fine support.

G.I. Defeats Foxwell

G.I. Hall defeated Foxwell last Wednesday to gain undisputed claim of second place in the college intramural football league.

A pass from Dick Russell to Shelby Back put the G.I. squad out in front 6 to 0. Then Brockhill hit Ed Silver for the second straight tally. The G.I.'s' second headed for a rout, but Harry of Foxwell posed to Coachability for the only Fox T.D. It was Halset to Johnson for the extra point, and the Foxwell team was back in the game.

Many penalties marked the contest, as the losers threatened to score numerous times, but were thwarted by pass interception.

In two other contests last week, G.I. beat Somerset 25 to 12 and Foxwell edged Theta Chi 12 to 7.

Absences In Assembly And Physical Education

There is no such thing as dropping either of these requirements. A student over-cutting continues to pay for all unexcused absences.

Physical education must be taken the first two years by all students. A student who fails physical education by reason of excessive absences will be required to make up the work the following semester or following year. Physical education classes must be met regularly until the requirement is satisfied. There is no way of postponing except on administrative recommendation.

Meet The Frosh

By Carol Hudgins

Robert Boyd, known to all his friends as "Bob", is one of the latest additions to our campus.

Bob was born in Nottingham, Pennsylvania, in August of 1934. When his parents moved to North East, Maryland, to establish a plumbing business, Bob transferred to North East High School, where he graduated in June with the honor of best all around boy in the senior class.

There are two main topics which confuse his conversation. First and foremost in his mind are boats and water skiing. Living on a river, his summers are filled with boating. During the day he is employed with Green's Boat Works, and most of his spare time he spends water skiing or boat riding. Just before school began, however, his favorite sailboat met a horrible death when a surprise storm chopped it into firewood.

When not discussing the newest feature of a Ciss Craft, Bob is likely to be engaged in a political debate. In fact, he likes politics so well that he plans to major in law and make it his career.

Coming to Washington College, Bob considers as the best decision he ever made, but he will at mid-term when he gets his 3.0 index and can have his car down here.

By the way, Bob, how's the Club? Comeback these days.

Fellowships Offered

The Ounforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the second series (1958) of Graduate Fellowships for college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1958, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the fields of Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and other fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Galton has named Dean F. G. Livingston as the Liaison Officer to work with the Danforth Foundation on the selection of candidates. These appointments are primarily a "relationship of encouragement," carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions; they may be need. Students with or without financial aid are invited to apply. All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Ounforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Minnowa in Michigan next September. The qualifications of the candidate as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are:

Evidence of superior intellectual ability in college record.

Good record of health and emotional stability.

Outgoing personality and the concern for people, essential for successful teaching.

Choice of vocation of teaching as form of Christian Service.

Deep religious convictions and growing religious perspectives. (The Foundation is looking for candidates who are seriously examining their own religious life, and are seeking a maturing faith and a social outreach.)

Canterbury Club Active

The Canterbury Club has been having breakfast each Sunday morning at Emmanuel Church Parish House and attendance has been very good. Next Sunday morning, November 9, Miss Layton and Miss Hartman are our hosts. We surely hope you will attend. Breakfast is served immediately following the 8:00 a.m. Service of Holy Communion.

On Friday evening of this week, November 7, we shall have our first dance of the season sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Emmanuel Church. This dance will be free to all comers. Bring a friend and have a good time. It will commence at 8:00 p.m. in the Emmanuel Church Parish House.

On Sunday evening, November 9, we will be guests at supper sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Old St. Paul's Church, Kent. A charge of 50¢ per person will be charged and supper will be held in the home of a friend. Transportation will leave Reid Hall at 4:45 p.m. All are asked to attend as this is our first meeting in connection with MURDER IN THE CATHEDRAL.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

COMMITTEE REPORT

The revision of last year's proposed constitution is now underway. When the duly elected members to the committee on Student Government from the freshman class have been consulted, the revised edition of the constitution will be completed. Consultation with the freshmen representatives should take place within the next three weeks.

After the changes have been made, the constitution will be presented before the student body for discussion. Following the final discussion, the proposed constitution will then be submitted for ratification by the student body.

It is hoped that the new students, as well as the old student, will take active interest in promoting student government on the campus, by making suggestions to members of the committee on Student Government.

Members of this committee are: Bruce McKie, chairman; Pat Neighbors, Bill Malvaney, Larry Wedekind, Mary Lee Lincoln, Marion Waterman, Fred Miltonberger and Kenneth Bourn.

'Indians' Rated Successful Adventure

Kappa Alpha To Name "Sweetheart" Tonight

The first annual Sweetheart Dance of the Beta Omega chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order will be held at 8:00 P.M. on Saturday night in Cain Gymnasium. At this time the chapter will announce its sweetheart girl of old K.A. and also recognize the services rendered to the chapter by one of its alumnae.

The girl who receives the honor will then be eligible for selection as province K.A. Rose. If successful in this endeavor, she will be eligible for election as the K.A. Rose of the province region of the Order, which would enable her to be selected as the national K.A. Rose at the Order's 51st convention this spring.

The theme of the dance will be the Kappa Alpha Rose, a large replica of which will be placed at one end of the gym to highlight the decorations. The music will be supplied by the orchestra of Merritt Pennock and admission to the dance will be $1.00 per couple.

Dr. Rathje Elected

To Vice-President

Dr. G. G. Rathje, professor of language, was elected vice-president of the Philadelphia chapter of the American Association of Teachers of English at a recent meeting of the group. Both Dr. and Mrs. Rathje attended the session which was held at the University of Pennsylvania.

20 Pledge Sororities As Rush Season Ends

Fifteen freshman girls and five upperclassmen, a total of twenty rushers, have been pledged to the three national sororities on the Hill. This is the first time in several years that the old works rush system has been used by the women on campus.

New members of Alpha Chi Omega include Janice Lethbridge, Barbara Locker, Donna Miller, Esther Gould, Lee Harrison, Joan Hill, Betty Ayres, Rose Walls, and Betty Blanton. Also pledged to the group with the student body was Mrs. Betty Harris, a former patroness of Alpha Chi. She will be in honorary member of the organization.

Zeta Tau Alpha pledges are: Sondra Duval, Cora Lee Duval, Carol Judkins, Beverly Woodward, Claire Anderson, and Nancy Newman. Alpha Omicron Pi pledged Barbara Anderson, Priscilla Damschke, Eleanor Hoptensted, Janet Middleton and Carol Oakes.

Pledge banquets for the new class are all being held at The Grandview. Alpha Omicron Pi hosted last Monday, November 17, the Alpha Chi's will honor their new pledges next Monday, November 24, and the Zetas conclude the banquets on December 1.

Kent Opens Fund Drive

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson announced a goal of $150,000 for the Kent County area in connection with the Washington College Development Program, at a kick-off dinner held in Ghestown Tuesday night.

Kent County will be the first of approximately 12 areas to campaign for the primary goal set up of $400,000 which will go for the new girls dormitory.

To date the fund has received over $100,000 in special gifts from friends and alumni of the college.

As main speaker for the dinner meeting, Dr. Gibson outlined the development program of the college for the committee members present. Herbert Richman, director of the overall campaign, also spoke to the group on campaign procedure.

J. Thomas Kibler is chairman of the Kent county area for the campaign and served as toastmaster for the Tuesday dinner meeting.

coming Monday. These will be held in honor of the new pledge classes and will give the Patroness groups a chance to meet the new members.

Psychological Examination

The annual psychological examination for all upper classmen will be given on Tuesday, December 2nd, during the 11:15 period, which is an open period for all students.

Upper classmen are asked to report promptly to the room indicated: Seniors—Lecture Hall of Dunning Science Building.

Juniors—Rooms 31 and 34 of William Smith Hall, third floor. Sophomores—Rooms 21 and 25 of William Smith Hall, second floor.

Transfer students who entered this year are requested to report to the appropriate room. Even though the transfer students may have freshman status, he will report with the sophomore class.

Test will take about twenty-five minutes.

All Washington College students must take the test during the year. Results are essential for college records. Any student missing the test will make up the test at a later date.

NOTICE!

The Thanksgiving holiday will begin Wednesday, November 26, at 12:00. Classes will be resumed Monday, December 1, at 8:15.

"HAPPY THANKSGIVING"

U. N. Effectiveness Brings Out Debaters

Dipping into the international situation and clashing on the relative merits of the United Nations, a debate team composed of two students, Larry Wedekind and Harvey Samis, and two professors, Edward Padgett and Norman James, argued the resolution Wednesday night, "That the United Nations is sufficient to maintain world peace."

Leading off for the affirmative, Wedekind emphasized the need for such an organization in the present world situation. "The peace and well being of all the people of this world are intimately interrelated," he stated. He also reviewed briefly the past record of the world organization, pointing out their success in peaceful settlements and stopping aggression.

Answering as the first negative speaker, Samis pointed out that the U.N. was not united and that the numerous regional parts which have been entered into by the various nations only show the instability of the U.N. He emphasized that the U.N. should be an end in itself to be effective. He also mentioned that the nations represented in the organization were not sharing the burden in Korea.

Professor Padgett, as the second affirmative speaker was quick to answer Samis with a list of the countries contributing to the Korean war. He also came back in his opponent with a statement that the regional parts helped lessen the burden of the U.N. conflicts. He particularly emphasized the need for "parliamentary, not military, to a world of justice."

lary" battles which the U.N. could and does provide.

Both affirmative speakers admitted the imperfections of the U.N., but agreed that it was the best way to achieve the final goal of world peace. As final speaker for the negative, Mr. James stated that the present U.N. was faced with an impossible task, and that because such a tremendous burden rested on its shoulders, that it was not sufficient to maintain world peace. He listed as failures of the U.N., the trusteeship system which has fallen into outright exploitation, and the formal problem, which has caused more hard feeling than it has friendly ones. He emphasized the faults of open diplomacy and stated that secret diplomacy would bring far greater results.

As rebuttal, the negative team remarked that the United States, as well as, other nations, depended too heavily on the success of the U.N., and that because of this had not considered any alternatives for bringing about world peace. They reaffirmed their position on the weakness of the U.N. by arguing that the regional parts took power away from the organization and restoring the resolution "that the U.N. is sufficient to maintain world peace" with emphasis on its present weakness to accomplish anything effective in Korea.

Summing up for the affirmative, Mr. Padgett stated that the recognition of the U.N. weakness and the chance to improve, would give the people a chance to "progress decently and

Gallo Gains Special Praise

The Washington Flyers have staged, for their first production of the year, a smooth, amusing and often exciting performance of Agatha Christie's "Ten Little Indians." All credit for this achievement goes to the Flyers and more to Miss Christie, who has dramatized classically a novel for which one might pay twenty-five cents in order to avoid the conversation of one's neighbor on a long railway journey.

Special praise goes to Aldo Gallo for his performance as General Mackenzie. Stolidity and tenderness, resolution and resignation were all conveyed by Mr. Gallo with perfectly controlled and imaginatively manipulated subtlety, suggestion and nuance. Although Miss Christie commended the General's main speech out of some of the most inadequately embellished clichés, Mr. Gallo made that speech the highlight of the evening. It was entirely the art of Mr. Gallo that created, in place of Miss Christie's type, the General Mackenzie we were privileged to see last night—an individual with a charm and compulsion of his own.

There were other admirable performances. Although the enunciation of Al Easterby was occasionally little more distinct than that of a bullfrog, this quality is entirely forgiven and only contributed to the delightful portrayal by Mr. Easterby of the unconvincing humor often evoked by the gravity of police officers. With a frequently stunning British accent and an even more effective "Tenns any one?" smile, John Parker gave life in to Miss Christie's representation of gilded youth, Jack Daniel achieved sensitivity and range in the role of a nerve specialist, while Kay Booth Layhen gave a spirited impersonation of a savage British serving-woman.

Zetas To Give Annual Dance

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will again sponsor the traditional semi-formal Christmas Dance, to be held this year on Saturday, December 6, in Cain gymnasium.

The theme, centered around the Christmas season, will be entitled "Winter Wonderland." Music will be furnished from 8:00 to 11:00 by the hairbringer Navy Dance Band.

Tickets for the affair will go on sale immediately following Thanksgiving vacation. Admission price is $1.50. An extensive entertainment program has been planned for intermission.

Frosh Notes

Four representatives from the freshman class were elected to serve on the Student Government Committee in a class meeting held last week. Those chosen were: Joe Gallo, Dick Norris, Marie Pasquale and Ed Silvers.

These members will serve with the present committee which is currently in the process of revising the Student Government Constitution.

Announcement was made that the freshmen class would hold meetings on the first and third Thursdays of each month. Also, dues were set for a dollar a semester.

"A TRADITION"

Many an article has been written on the "Theatre." Review of productions, gossip about the stars, backstage talk, and the exploits of the various angels on Broadway. The theatre world—course as it may seem to some individuals, holds a certain magnetic element that makes possible their traditional slogan "the show must go on." And the best part about that tradition is that they really mean it, and are not trying to appear as heroes.

With the better part of the past week being taken up with talk about the Washington Players, rehearsals and ticket selling, we'd like to take this opportunity to hold them up as an example of that old theatrical slogan. With their work in the dramatic field being a side line to their education, we think they do a marvelous job with their presentation.

There's a lot more to putting on a show than meets the eye. Anyone who is a member of the Players will tell you that . . . and when a group reaches the number of 65 active members, all of them doing something towards the production, you can be sure that there's work involved . . . and it's not all acting! About 50 of these members are doing the "dirty work" of building sets, painting, working the lights and the sound effects, make-up, prompting, and all the publicity.

We think from the presentation last night, that the rest of Washington College will agree with us that it was the top notch work of a top-notch organization. A group that works entirely on their own and really has something to show for their efforts. However, if we continue, we may steal our reviewer's steam, so without further adieu, we'll just say "congratulations."

Question Of The Week

What type of production would you like to see the Washington Players produce?

A. J. Carr—I'd like to see a musical comedy or an operetta of some sort.

Bill Bloomfield—I like the production they're putting on now. My preference is murder mysteries.

Lella Davis—a musical comedy. With the cooperation of the choir I think this could be done.

Dave Humphries—After deep consideration, I'd like a comedy.

Martha Goldsborough—I'd like to see the Players combine with the chorus and have a musical production.

Jim Metcalf—Classics!

See Samuels—I'd like to see the Players do a good drama or a true comedy. (Classics).

Jane Walls—I think a comedy would be good.

Al Easterby—I like something light—a comedy.

Billy Russell—I'd like to see a comical satire on the professors and students of Washington College written by yours truly.

Chuck Waesche—Instead of the one-act plays in the middle of the year I'd like to see something very light, for example, something on the line of a minstrel show.

A Letter To The Editor

Let me begin by stating I am a "Joe Studen" who is not afraid of stating his name or belief! Let me, first of all, state that the changes which have come about this week have been, in my opinion, mostly unaccepted in my own opinion I generally concur with the change, I feel that the way it has come about, however, is wholly wrong. People, in general, are opposed to change. They become set in their ways and beliefs. There is but one way to affect a change and that is by accumulating people to a gradual acceptance rather than by the abrupt way things have been conducted. How about affecting the change by first showing the whole question open to debate. Inquiries through interviews of the students as well as appeals for suggestions would accomplish this transition in a much quicker fashion.

Now that I have discussed how to affect the conversion of public opinion, may I now state my views on one specific aspect of the transition.

I am against the coat and tie principle. I feel that it should be enough to suggest the men shave and dress casually. When I eat with my parents at home I wear a sport shirt and clean pair of trousers—I do this because wearing dress shirts constantly adds to the expense of my family's budget. I feel I am still well dressed, though not in fashion, for dining out in a respectable restaurant.

Down here at school I do not feel like I am dining out. I dress for comfort and convenience. I cannot afford to dry clean my coat constantly, nor can I afford to have my shirts constantly laundered. I feel that I am well dressed and in accord with the fashion of college when I eat in a casual, but neat fashion. Why then, may I ask, are we subjected to an army discipline of Make it obligatory that the men shave

Senior Of The Week

With this issue, the Elm honors Tony Tonian as senior of the week. Born in Reston, Russia, February 21, 1950, Tony spent all his youth in the East. He has traveled extensively through Europe, Asia and North Africa. When asked what he enjoyed most in all his travels he replied, "Paris, because of her fascinating historical background, especially the Folies!"

In 1947, soon after the war, Tony came to America—to his "land of milk and honey." He attended St. Andrew's Prep before coming to Washington College.

Last year Tony was president of the Art Club and chairman of W.S.S.F. He became a member of the Varsity Club this year. Tennis, of course, is his favorite sport.

Photography, painting and Java are his main interests at present. College photographer, editor of the Pegasus and vice-president of Lambda Chi are just a few of the many offices he has held in student activities.

Tony's major is Chemistry. Next year he plans either to enter Maryland as a medical student, or work for the United Nations as a linguist.

A Suggestion

Washington Collegians do not appear to have any particular love for hymn singing, at least that's the way it sounds on Thursday morning during assembly. In fact, it almost becomes convincing that Washington Collegians do not have any love for singing, because even the old school song doesn't bring out the voices.

Several years ago, Mrs. E. Winkfield Oppenrade wrote a school song that seemed to appeal to everyone. The words were good, the music, which she composed, was simple, and best of all, everyone liked to sing it.

Here are the words:

Our alma mater, we'll always cherish
To thee we pledge our fondest dreams.
Maroon and Black will never perish,
While honor, truth, and service gleam.

Beneath thy banner, we'll always gather
Your loyal sons and daughters true,
Thy hallowed halls of fame and valor
Will live in us all the long years through.

Now, all that is needed is a copy of the music for the assembly playing, and perhaps a good song will come forth from the crowd. It's worth a try.

and don't wear dungarees in Hobson, but don't subject us to an inconvenient out-of-date mode of college dress—the coat and tie rule. Of course, I cannot see anyone not wearing coat and ties on Sunday, as it is a day of both reverence and leisure.

In closing, may I commend you on your excellent idea of soft dinner music which makes our dinners much more palatable.

Reid Hall —

CONFIDENTIAL

By Betty Blanton

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen and readers of the "Elm." This is an on-the-spot report, direct from the inside walls of Reid Hall.

Here we are standing in the hall-way, and what's this going on? A pajama contest? Miss Anderson in her cotton caudals of charade and Miss Helen, with her arctic looking pink suit, Miss Waterman and Miss Pasquarella in their fine red and pjs, and there is Miss Goldsborough in her—What pajamas?

Evie Hamilton walks into B. Townsend's room. "Big feet" steps soundlessly into the favorite mouse trap. Could this mean that Evie is a rat?

After much ado and careful concentration of mechanical minds the mouse trap is reset. B. T. turns around to gab and absently blinks into some trap herself. What is this, a rat race? B. T.'s roommate, Miss Willey, doesn't notice all of this as she has her binoculars trained on the back room of the Theta Chi house where a lively game of Pitch is in progress.

The other end of the hall is alive with canned heels. Terry Knoll is posing prettily in her lingerie, Jane Walls has struck another pose but the chaise is basically the same.

Poem for the day—

Sue had a kitten.

The kitten liked her bed.

It stayed there too long.

Naugh said!

Speaking of beds, Parks and Waterman had quite a tussle over who was going to sleep on the third mattress one Saturday night.

Quite a rumple on the third floor. Seems like Cora Lee, Claire, Carol H., B. C., P. Anderson, Wanda, Delaney and Sandra got notes from the Reid Hall Council because they didn't make their beds.

Jennifer Debie is going to take a bath, she is carrying towel, soap, washing and victrols. Victrola????

Boo Locker just emerged from her historians with her favorite saying, "Does anybody have any food?" She and Marilyn Beck are called "Hungry Incorporated."

"Flashlight Caught"

Now that dress slips are gone and forgotten and all election bells have been paid off, W.C. is once again back to normal.

Congratulations to the senior class for giving such a successful Sadie Hawkins Dance. Good luck to our newly wed, Spencer Latham and B. C. Jones. With sixteen kids as a must they will need it.

Medli, do you really believe in those eight balls?

I've seen and heard a lot about court cases, but the one I heard on a certain tape recorder is the most interesting one I've come across in a long time.

From what I hear, everything that could be classified as unconventional happened last Saturday night. Everyone was paired off all right at the beginning of the evening, but what was said at the end of the evening was Tom Hall—"Bull", you just can't get away from Centerville, can you?

I thought we had seen the end of the beach parties at the "Poor Man's Country Club" but I guess you can't let a good thing go to waste especially when it costs twenty dollars a keg.

"Mule," you really must be worn out after that long walk last Sunday.

Stump Gardner and Al Zolotki are looking for dates for tonight. What's the matter, boys, did your girl friend get hitched?

Who brought those steak back from the pledge banquet last Monday night?

Bud Haggerty's is turning into another Madison Square Garden. Those farm boys are pretty big, aren't they, Hank?

Congratulations, Parker, after two dates you finally came through.

Del Brinsfield has a novel question: "Why does everybody get on Sunday at 6 o'clock to get ready for breakfast when it isn't till 10?"

Joke of the week: When Carol O'Connell was spied carrying a coffee pot down the hall she was reminded of the electrical appliance rule. She replied: "Oh, I don't use a hot plug. I just put it on the radiator."

The loudspeaker really comes up with some gems. The gem for the week is:

Speaker: Second Floor, is B. C. Jones there?

B. C.: "Yes, I'm here."

Speaker: "B. C., your water running?"

Joan Vanick and Jo Cusack spent many pleasant hours reminiscing of their mischievous times up and down the stairs and in and out of fog.

Down on the first floor, 108 a Newman are having quite an argument. The topic of the conversation seems to be over who will feed B. and Miss Damm Rabbit?

Melton loves to show everyone how to get a date. He is on and see real Social Note—B. A., June Wall, Suggie and Jean Davis have just gone back from a trip to New York. They had lunch in the Pick Up Room of the Billmore.

Peter Ayers and Marilyn Slankin can get grandstand tickets to the daily Foo Foo Football game. They have ringed seats as a new field has recently been inaugurated opposite their window. Bob Stahl, Bill Bloomfield and John Mimish seems to be the regular starting line up but—eyes of Reid Hall are upon them to see if they ever will complete a forward pass, Marilyn's answer to the great question comes to them by way of her record, Use Grandma's soap Foo Foo.

The lights are getting dim and everyone is preparing for Sack 101. The walls are casting eerie shadows all around and it is hard to recognize anyone approaching your faithful porter. Better leave now before the Whip cracker corners me for laundry money.

Cora Lee, what is all this old about big red apples . . . and what more, what is this sign you have a room to remind you of your late campaign?

Tell us all about your New York escapades, girls.

This new starch bar cat has to be the worst than Albert.

Ken and Mark, have you finally decided who has more Scotch blood than me?

Stacyan swears on a Lars from Mars comic book that there is nothing between him and Betty.

That was quite a jaunt the K.A. took to Baltimore last Sunday. Globe trotters, spaghetti, fog and all—but it was great, huh, kids?

Does everybody know this is "Nice to Del Week"? Happy birthday.

Congratulations to Billy Russell of getting his hand beat up, hence missing a week of lacrosse practice.

Let's all turn out to get a grade at the K.A. Sweeten the Sunday day. Get any inside dope on who'll be going to the Don?

Buy now, Don't eat too much now. See ya' around.

In The PRESSBOX

(With JOE SZYMANSKI)

At a recent meeting, the complete Maroon and Black soccer squad elected Rod Ware, Doug Tilley, and Ted Beddow as captains for 1953, and listed the following players on their All-Opponent soccer team of '52:

Outside Right—Regesta (Delaware)
Inside Right—Sones (Kings)
Inside Left—Jones (Drexel)
Center Forward—Rostek (Baltimore)
Right Half—Wilkinson (Drexel)
Center Half—Bede (Towson)
Left Half—Henry (Hopkins)
Right Fullback—Kintner (Delaware)
Goalie—Siedlicki (Baltimore)

In addition to the All-Opponent squad they also nominated the following on their All Mason-Dixon Team represented by Baltimore, Towson, Loyola, Western Maryland and Hopkins: Goalie—Siedlicki (Baltimore), Fullbacks—Cohn (Hopkins), and Maggetti (Baltimore), Halfbacks—Sheskey (Baltimore), Bede (Towson), Henry (Hopkins), Outside Right—Zimmerman (Towson), Inside Right—Budnitz (Hopkins), Center Forward—Rostek (Baltimore), Inside Left—Reinsfelder (Loyola), Outside Left—Brodsky (Baltimore).

Did you know that there exists in soccer, a bowl game held in St. Louis, Missouri? This year one of the top tight teams in the East, Baltimore University, has a great chance to be chosen for the bowl tilt, as indicated by their past record of two straight undefeated seasons. I can see no reason why they shouldn't get this year's bid, and if they do, here's hoping Coach Cal Ermer and his High-Landtown gangsters will bring home the bacon. If they don't get the bid this year, they won't get it next season because Washington hopes to throw the light of defeat into the eyes of the champions.

John Grim and Bill Russell concluded their college careers against Drexel Tech in Philadelphia, by playing one of their finest games of the year. Both displayed good footwork and will be missed next year. Captain Grim, who had some tough luck in calling the toss of the coin before games, is looking forward to brighter horizons in the field of business administration, or if Uncle Sam calls him, he might be seen performing with All-American Larry Surock in service ball.

Next year's competition will even be greater than this year's, due to the newly scheduled games with Roanoke, University of Virginia, Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall, and maybe West Chester.

After a defeat at the hands of Baltimore University Bees, the Shoremen lost their scoring punch and ended the season with shut-out losses against Balto. U., Hopkins, and Drexel. But Coach Howie Nesbitt is looking forward to a winning season in '53, with such returning lettermen as: Captains Ware, Beddow and Tilley, Smoot, Appleby, Szymanski, Riggins, Hanifce, Geisler, Bonds, Jennings, and LaPorace. As Johnny Ray sings, "Faith Can Move Mountains," so wait till next year.

It is hoped that Dick Weller will return next year to his inside right position instead of completing his 11 credit hours in summer school.

Freshmen Prospects

The freshman prospect of this week is Dick Brockell, of Elkton, Md. Dick stands 6 feet, 5½ inches tall and tips the scale at 194 pounds. He attended Elkton High School and while there earned 12 letters in four sports: soccer, football, basketball and baseball. In his freshman year, Dick earned letters in soccer, basketball, and baseball. Instead of following up all three sports, our promising prospect switched his full interest to football. He played quarterback on the Elkton high team, averaging 9 letters in grid sport. Dick averaged 26 points per game for his four years of basketball. Baseball is the tall blonder's favorite sport.

In his senior year he blazed 'out' better than a 500 balling average. He hopes to come to some major league ball, and the fact that he has great confidence in Coach Kibler as a baseball coach is one of the reasons he's come to Washington.

Dick's main reason for coming to the Shore's College is the fact that he prefers a small school to pursue his college education. He is interested in Economics, but he has not made up his mind in his choice of a major course of study.

Hardwood Loop Planned

After completing such a fine job, organizing and planning the tough football intramurals, Clete Cannone is back on the job, this time handling intramural basketball.

This court league is not scheduled to begin until after the Christmas holidays. However, when it does begin, the gymnasium will be available not only for the league contests, but for each team to practice in. Last year the teams did not have this opportunity, and this should promote better, more organized hardwood squads.

Congratulations are in order to Clete and to the three top teams of the football league—East Hall, G.I. Hall, and K.A., for their winning spirit.

Not only do the winners deserve praise, for it was the team in the lower bracket of the standings that kept the league intact. These teams did not give up when pitted against a strong rival, but fought to knock them out of the top spots.

Samele Impressive

By John Hughes

In the third of a series of scrimmages, Balmberidge's hoopers downed the Sho'men 65-51, on Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Captain Danny Samele showed his usual form, dropping in 21 points through the net, while playing a fine floor game. In the later stages of the game freshman Bob Sullivan looked very good. Although he only scored two points, his rebounding work was excellent.

Coach Edward L. Athey remarked that his team is still in the building stage, and that there is a lot of work to be done before the team opens its regular season against Bridgewater on Saturday, Dec. 6. The coach also added that he has no starting line and that there will probably be some men alternating on this starting job. The first ten men on the squad all have equal court abilities. These all average around 6'1" and the need for a tall man is already being felt. The tallest man on the team, 6'5" Frank Ferris who has been deemed ineligible to play this year, as he was transferred here from Davis-Elkins College.

Under the watchful eye of Howie Nesbitt, J.V. practice began last Monday. Approximately 18 boys reported for the squad. Of these, 12 will be kept. The J.V. outlook is a bit brighter for this year, as they are playing almost as many games as the varsity, including several road trips.

Tech Downs Sho'men

The Washington College soccer team closed its 1952 season by losing to Drexel Tech, 2-0, in Philadelphia last Saturday. The game, due to weather conditions, was sloppily played. After an all night rain, the field was actually a small lake, and the situation was not bettered by a steady drizzle throughout the contest.

After a scoreless first half, the Dragons scored with two minutes left in the third period. A shot was taken at goalie Szymanski but the wet ball slipped out of his hands in front of the goal, and was immediately converted into a score. The final Drexel tally was made by their center forward who kicked the ball into the lower right corner of the nets from 12 yards out. This concluded the scoring, but the two teams were still fighting spiritedly at the final whistle.

The Shoremen showed a slow offense as they took but two shots at the goal in the entire game, while Drexel showed a smooth agile, give and go offense. Outstanding in a losing cause was Phil Riggins who shone on both offense and defense. Coach Nesbitt put every man into the field to make the most of the team's lack of a vain effort to stem the tide. Two newcomers, who played their first game in collegiate competition, were Bill Benhoff and Dick Norris. They should play commendably and should be counted to see next year's team. Special mention should be made of Coach Howie Nesbitt, who whipped his charges into a cohesive playing unit.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The sports staff of the ELM wishes to express its sincerest congratulations to Coach Edward L. Athey of the Athletic Department, for planning and producing such a fine Mason-Dixon Basketball Clinic last Saturday.

C.U. Edges Harriers

Washington's cross-country squad ended its dual meet program last night, by bowing to Catholic University, 22 to 17.

Both C.U. and the Shoremen had beaten Gallaudet College by identical scores of 21 to 24, and a close race between the Cardinals and the Sho'men was anticipated by both team coaches.

Mickey DiMaggio crossed the finish line first running the 3.6 mile course in 19 minutes, 55 seconds. Lou Buckley was second in 20:04. The following Sho' harriers finished seventh, eighth, and eleventh: Elks Boyd, Bernice Thomas, and George Finkelberger.

Foxy Brunsell and Schmidt, of C.U., broke from the starting line like shots from a cannon and ran the first half-mile in record time. At the 1.8 mile mark, DiMaggio and Buckley strided past the tiring Redbirds and pushed them to third, fourth, and fifth places in the last half-mile race. Coach Ed Athey's thriftdads have been preparing this week for the annual Mason-Dixon Cross-Country Championship which will be held Saturday, November 22, at Gallaudet College. Fifteen schools will be represented in the colorfest event which is run over the thickly wooded 4 mile Gallaudet College course.

Cagers Show Good Attitude

Coach Al Barthelme is pleased with the attitude and performance of the University of Baltimore basketball squad in pre-season scrimmages.

The Bees are young and like to run but the lack of experience does not dull their confidence. Gilt Felter is the only senior on the team.

Barthelme said that his boys think that they can repeat as Mason-Dixon champs. They won last year with a squad of sophomores and freshmen.

After a week of practice to get the Bees in hitting the basket with consistency, Barthelme thinks that the advanced shooting is a sign that they will probably do more scoring than last year.

Wells led the Bees in assists last season and is a valuable man in Barthelme's control style of basketball. He is a good backboard man.

M-D Court Clinic Held On Shore

The annual Mason-Dixon Conference Basketball Clinic was held at the Chestertown High School gymnasium, Chestertown, Md., last Saturday, November 15.

Included in the three hour program were talks and demonstrations by Coaches "Lefty" Reitz of Loyola College, Al Barthelme of Baltimore University, Earl Kilian of Towson University, and Ed Athey of Washington College.

Official interpretation of rules and infraction of rules of the game were discussed and demonstrated by Mr. Dallas Shirley, President of the Nat'l Board of Basketball Officials.

The naming of a clinic entitled, "King Basketball," concluded the clinic which was attended by coaches and players from Baltimore, Washington, Delaware, and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The following is a list of schools which were represented: Cordova High, Chestertown High, Centerville High, Stevensville, Sudlersville, Pittsville, Wicomico, Federburg, Middle-town, Denton, Cecilton, Milbrook, Wesley Jr. College, Washington College, Loyola College, Towson State Teachers College, and Baltimore University.

Despite the poor weather conditions, the spectator interest was high and everyone was pleased with the clinic.

Theta Bow, 18-13

The accurate passing of Stump Gardner and Al Zaloski, plus the extraordinary pass receiving of Harold White, enabled Kappa Alpha to annex the 1952 Intramural fraternity crown.

White's performance, snagging a fourth quarter pass just inside the end zone, spelled the difference for the K.A.'s as Theta's Randy Hamlet snaffed a late drive which almost upset the application.

The K.A.' '06 scored first, then Theta led 7-6 and the half ended. Zaloski scored his second touchdown and then White made it 18 to 7. The last stepping Bob Lipsitz plus the cool play of Harold White, put the Shore back in the game with only 2 minutes remaining. They regained possession of the ball, but time ran out and a new champion was crowned.

G.I. vs. East Hall

By finishing one-two in the league standings the East Hall and G.I. elevens will clash Monday afternoon for the league championship. The Snakes will carry a clean slate of 7-0 into Monday's title game, while the only blemish on G.I.'s record is a seven game loss in a one-touchdown loss to East Hall last month. G.I. dined Monday, Nov. 20 to secure a playoff berth.

Monday's game should be a toss-up as far as picking a winner goes, as the previous meeting between the two teams resulted in a 13-13 tie. The East Hallers pulled out in an 1813 decision. Both teams relied mainly on a strong air attack in their first crack at each other, while G.I.'s Ronnie Sick and East Hall's John Wilson handled the passing.

Despite the East Hall-G.I. finish in the league, K.A. and Foxwell Hall also made strong bids for the touch football crown at the Shore College, while Somerset, Theta Chi, Lambda Chi and Middle Hall finished in a spirited style of play.

Joe Cannone, director of the league, announced that an All-Star team would be picked from the eight teams entered in the grid loop. The choices for such a squad will be available for the next issue of the ELM.

Team Standings

	W	L	T	Pts
East Hall	7	0	171	37
G.I. Hall	5	1	161	81
K.A.	5	2	161	61
Foxwell	5	3	73	52
Somerset	4	4	66	85
Theta Chi	2	6	71	86
Lambda Chi	1	5	16	141
Middle Hall	0	6	25	120

Coach Reitz started the program rolling by talking and demonstrating individual offense, particularly emphasizing the variety of shots a player takes in a game.

Al Barthelme, assisted by his Baltimore University team, spoke and demonstrated the attack on the nose defense, which was very effective and enlightening.

Coach Athey and his squad gave an exhibition of individual defense, stressing position and stance, front line play, the switch, and defense at the post.

Earl Kilian, playing the 'Sho' team, ran several court drills and out of bounds plays.

Of particular note in the talk by Mr. Shirley was the new "one and one foul shot rule." If a player is fouled and is not in the act of shooting, he gets his regular one shot at the basket. However, if he misses this shot, he is given another chance to convert a score by another foul try. This is the "one and one ruling."

No longer will the Baltimore Bees be able to play a possession style of ball by paying their foul shot during the entire game. The rule states that a foul shot must be taken now, and cannot be taken out of bounds until the late moments of the contest.

The "King Basketball" film which was shown at the clinic.

Dr. Brooks Anderson: Antiques and Sociology

One of the less prepossessing, but has her own ties in Chestertown—the most interesting new faculty members on campus this year is Dr. Brooks Anderson, professor of sociology and head of the economics and sociology department. Dr. Anderson has migrated to W.C. from Albany, New York. He is no stranger to the Eastern Shore, however, for he received his undergraduate degree from St. John's College in Annapolis. After receiving his B.A. he studied for his doctorate at Columbia, and was awarded a Ph.D. in 1945.

Dr. Anderson first taught at Westminster College in Salt Lake City, and since then has seen duty at Winthrop College in South Carolina, Davidson College in North Carolina, and most recently at Marietta College in Ohio. After all this traveling, however, he finds Washington College's location a welcome convenience—his own people live in Baltimore, and Mrs. Anderson's branch of the family are in North Carolina, making Chestertown an easy compromise.

Speaking of Mrs. Anderson, she teaches the fourth and fifth grades at the elementary school here. They live on College Avenue, within noise range of Foxwell, and in a position to censor the Acheson's television program effectively. The Acheson's taste in TV has increased markedly since September, it is reported.

The Andersons share a common interest in antiques, which Dr. Anderson especially enjoys collecting and refinishing. He also likes gardening, boating, and crabbing—he is in the right part of the country.

The new professors think this Chestertown is just "pleasantly isolated," and really likes W.C. His students like him, too, and the way his dry sense of humor endears his sociology classes. However, he believes there is almost too much social life at school—maybe he hasn't heard how studies can interfere with our education.

At any rate, we like the new man, hoping the halls of Ferguson, and hating he's around for years to come.

Canterbury Hears Dean

The Very Reverend James O. Pike, dean of the cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City, was the guest speaker at the home of Judge and Mrs. Collins this past Wednesday evening, November 19th. Several townspeople, faculty members, and students attended, at the invitation of Russell Cole.

Dean Pike elaborated on the various perspectives that people hold towards religion. The basis of his talk involved the humanistic and materialistic approach to religion. Of specific interest were his statements on Marxism and the Kinsey Report and how they differ from the average perspective of religion.

The next meeting of the Canterbury Club will be held at Emmanuel Episcopal Church at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, November 23. At this time, Brother Sidney, of the Librarian Ministry, will speak. Reservations for dinner, which will cost $5.00, must be made by Saturday evening. Also there will be a breakfast served in the morning of that same day following 8:00 p.m. Holy Communion service. ## "Indians" Rated...

Out of Miss Christie's vivid heads, Betty Ayres and Don Steynen created likeable characters—no mean achievement. Although Mr. Steynen might have been a little more forceful at times, he captured admirably the appropriate nonchalance. It was not Miss Ayres' fault that at one crucial point her role is impossible to play. Miss Christie having forgotten that the spectator at a play, unlike the reader of a novel, is forced to watch the person spoken to, as well as the one speaking. Miss Ayres was asked to cover before a man against whom she might have been figured to score a first-round knockout. Otherwise, she played well, especially in her range of facial expression.

Although Peter Burbridge and Sue Stalling seemed at times, each was too rigid. Mr. Burbridge went from extreme underplaying to extreme overplaying, and although he sometimes did the former well, one felt the lack of a middle register. Effective at first in projecting a personality outside of her own, Miss Stalling eventually wore us down with her alien-movie glances and her pauses beyond the point of suspense. She simply left her part in the oven too long.

The play was directed by El Oyden and Jimmy Metcalf, who composed the scenes well and saw to it that one could watch even actors in the background with interest, while a particularly effective set was constructed under the supervision of Spence Latham.

Behind The Curtain... Or "The Week Of The Play"

"What a week-end!" Yes, everyone really had a great time. No, not too many people on campus over Saturday and Sunday, but we got a pretty good start on the set. Oh, yes, we'll have it done by technical rehearsal...

Hey, is this color too bright for the walls. They're going to use that! It's terrible. I'll ask Mrs. Opprander then if you don't like it, she'll know how it will look... Yes, she's got it. My god, I sure give us bright, doesn't it. Oh, well, maybe it won't dry that way.

That sofa just won't do. I'm afraid you'll have to get another one. The color is bad and it sinks too low. The cast just can't seem to get up out of it. Try something. They might have one around somewhere. Those windows just have to get painted. All you have to enamel that! Too shiny for leaded glass. Send George downtown... yes, and here's a list of some other things we need. Just charge it... we have lots of money! I can't find any brushes. Oh, this darn paint is getting all over everything but the windows.

Where's that prop man? We need twelve more glasses. I guess you'll have to get them at the dime store. No... We can't afford two cast glass decanters. And they don't make the cheap ones. Try to borrow some. And pick up that water bottle from the library. Will you please get off this stage if you're not doing anything. The cast isn't supposed to be up here anyway. You don't come out till 8:30. Yes, we'll have your props for you... they're around here somewhere.

How are the tickets coming? You can't find row K. That's Thursday you're looking at, dupe! Are you color blind? No wonder. Who filled in this chart anyway. They sure did get things mixed up. I wonder if it has paid for these or is going to.

Watch that box, the tops coming off and all the change will be on the floor. No, first row in the balcony has been sold... sorry. Maybe we could interest you in some side seats.

Here comes part of the cast. Have you got those lights fixed yet? Not! — maybe he hasn't heard how studies can interfere with our education. The walls look funny. What in the world happened to the make-up? Oh, well, these rehearsals are just for the lights and lines anyway. If this goes all right I'll be amazed. Hey, you forgot to turn off the house lights. Are you going to leave them on during the whole performance?

Now cast... there's a reviewer in the audience tonight. Be on your toes. You can't find what? No socks. Quick, the prop man, get him some socks, yes, size 11. No, that sofa is too big for the stage, we'll have to have another one. The cast doesn't have room to walk. Try East Hall this time. This fireplace. Honestly, what did you do to it? I'll bet you changed your mind about 6 times before Thursday. It looks fresh. When are you going to finish those doors? They will really look good to the reviewer that way. Thursday afternoon? Oh, well, just so it's ready by 8:30 I guess we'll be all right.

The choir is going to sing here!

Ye gods! Yes, we can move the stuff back. Be careful not to punch any holes in the walls. They break easy. Thursday afternoon, stage crew. Everyone will have to be in. Light rehearsal at 6:30. Good luck!

The clip for the gun is gone! We have exactly 8 hours until that curtain goes up. Yes, get a car. You'll have to go to Annapolis and back by 6:30. No, I'll write a check. How much just for a gun? Don't run off the bridge for heaven's sake. I wonder what will happen next!

That rug is just too bright. Try the sonnetries. They all have raps. But, it's pouring rain... we'll be drenched. "The show must go on." Now... that doesn't look half bad. Go you mind if I drive a truck or two through this? Make sure the outside lights are on tonight... and get me a table from somewhere. Make-up at 6:30. O.K. I'll check with you down there. He hasn't turned in his tickets yet. I never saw time go so fast. Seems like we should be starting the rehearsal... oh, well, it's here. Yes, and before you know it, it's all over.

It couldn't be 8:30. I'm nervous. Do you remember your cue? I just the book. Well, here goes. Act 1 is on its way. Boy, will I sleep tonight!

Zetas Take Annual Stunt Night Cup

Alumni Team Plays Tonight

The newly organized alumni basketball team will play its initial game tonight against the Washington College varsity in the high school gym. Starting time is 8:30 p.m.

The alumni team has been organized by veteran ball player Jack Smith, graduate of 1952. Harry Russell will serve as manager for their debut.

All basketball letter winners of the last several years have been invited to participate. The team as it now stands includes: Nick Scallion, '52; Ken Sullivan, '52; Jack Smith, '52; Bill Hogan, '52; Robert Johnson, '52; Bernie Rudo, '52; Walter Romanish, '48; Jack Burke, '50; Bill Smith, '50; Mike Kordash, '51; Howard Plund, '51; and Phil Skipp, '52.

This is the first time that an alumni team has been organized for Washington College. It is hoped that this game will be only the first of many more to come.

Rules for the game have been changed slightly. The first 40 or 41 points must be by a single team will automatically bring halftime. The first 80 or 81 points will bring the end of the game.

Players Plan Next Production

Following the successful presentation of the fall drama "The Little Indian," the Washington Players are planning for the mid-winter production, dated for production in March.

A committee has been appointed to present possibilities for the usual experimental plays for this presentation. The selection may be announced before Christmas vacation.

Costing for this production will be set immediately following the holiday. President George Cromwell urges that all students, regardless of whether or not they are members of the group, try out for parts.

In its last meeting, the group voted to abandon the idea of joining with the Mount Vernon Literary in the presentation of Theater in the Round. It was decided that this would be left up to the literary group entirely.

Receive National Recognition

Jack Palmer, a junior and a member of Alpha Chi Omega society, was one of four Maryland 4-H men to achieve national recognition.

At the 4-H Congress held in Chicago in November, 1951, Jack received the award in the field of dairy production and management. He has been working with the 4-H group for seven years and was a member of the world champion singing team at the Cambridge Royal Agricultural Show held in Cambridge, England.

Starting with one calf, Jack now has a herd of thirty-two purebred Friesian cattle which she breeds for show.

'Twas three weeks before Christmas,
When in the Snack Bar
The shouts that were given,
Were heard near and far.
For up on the bulletin board I could see
The scheduled exams, just as plain as could be.

What a way to start Christmas,
I said with a sigh,
Registrations — exams,
Oh — they'll never say die.
And we'll never get all this stuff finished in time
With assembly, bazaars and Stunt Night all in line.

All through that short week
Many fast plans were made
And now for my nickel
'White Christmas' was played.
The shopping lists mounted as budgets were scored
And needles were clicking as argyles were formed.

'Twas two weeks before Christmas
And in old C-town
Peace should have been reigning
But chaos was found
Instead of the usual cheer and great joy,
Bluebooks were facing each girl and each boy.

But who cares about bluebooks
When Christmas is near!
The students were anxious
To show they'd no fear.
So up on the rooftop the Lambda's did go
To put up a Santa with beard white as snow.

And next door, the Thetas in lighted array
Were ready to welcome
The spirit so gay.
And in yellow and blue and in green and in red
Season's greetings to everyone all Phi Sigs said.

And on the last hour
Of Fraternity row,
The K.A.'s were displaying
A red Yuletide bow.
And in every nook and corner on the hill
Bright lighted Christmas trees, corners did fill.

A week full of parties,
A week full of fun,
A night out for freshmen
Vacation begun,
And as old friends departed the school on the Shore,
They left with the by-word "New Year — Baltimore!"

'Twas the night before Christmas
And in Christtown
Not a creature was stirring
There wasn't a sound
And as over the old "Sacred L" Santa flew
He muttered these words that were heard by a few —
'Merry Christmas to all at old W.C.
And a New Year that's happy as happy can be!"

Mary Lee Lincoln Wins Individual

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority took the annual Stunt Night cup for the best group presentation with a rendition of satire in verse on the six wives of Henry the 8th. Individual winner for the event was Mary Lee Lincoln with an interpretation of the French "can can" dance.

Speaking in unison, the six wives of Henry Tudor, King of England, depicted their life in hades—claiming it wasn't so bad after all, Henry, played by Sue Weber, tried his best to dominate his wives but with no luck.

Mary Lee Lincoln, member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, went through the fast paces to the lively music of the French dance that has remained on the popularity list, the "can can."

Judges for the event were faculty members: Mrs. E. Winifred Oppenrade, Dr. Minnie F. Knapp, Miss Joan Hartman and Mr. Edward Padgett. The awards were made by John Grim, president of the senior class.

Alpha Omicron Pi led off with a skit on "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," followed by the Lambda Chi's with their interpretation of the currently popular "It's In The Hook". An individual comedienne act was then presented by Jessie Klotzweil.

In the fourth place were the cup winning Zetas with "Ladies in Hades." Kappa Alpha Order took the fifth number with "Dangerous Dan McGrew," read by Harold White and acted in pantomime. Another individual act followed which took the individual honor cup, Mary Lee Lincoln, accompanied on the piano by Pete Burage, with her rendition of the "can can."

Theta Chi then presented a pantomime of Wiping's famous poem, "Gunga Din," read by Doug Fox. This was followed by John Parker and Don Steynen with a take-off on the Broadway winner "Street Car Named Desire."

"A Calendar Review of 1952," presented by the Alpha Chi's and depicting life at W.C. through the college year, brought the last sorority to the stage. Phi Sigma kappa brought the show to a close with "WPKS" (Phi Kappa Sigma) radio show.

A cup is presented each year to the best group presentation and the best individual act.

Registrar's Office

Christmas vacation begins on Wednesday, Dec. 17, 1952, at 1:15 P.M. Classes resume Monday, Jan. 5, 1953. Cuts in any class count double before and after the holidays. ## THERE HAD TO BE A CHRISTMAS

Note: Reprinted through the courtesy of the New York Times—this editorial appeared in that paper on Christmas Day, 1948. The ELM staff hopes that the readers find as much thought provoking material in it as they did.

There had to be a Christmas, for this day meets a deep need in human nature. It is true that some generations of the Christian era, so the old historians tell us, went by before this need was recognized; and after that it took a long time for the observance to grow and spread; and after that it took a long time for it to take the form it has today. Indeed, a great deal that we now associate with Christmas was invented, if that is the right word, in quite modern times. Christmas owes much to the carols of the fifteenth century and later; to Charles Dickens; to Clement Clarke Moore, who wrote his famous poem just a century and a quarter ago, and to other writers not so long past.

There had to be a Christmas. Mankind, dwelling in a world often at war and tormented by the hatreds which cause war, and are caused by war, longed and still longs for peace and good-will. Man is a selfish animal, but he loves to give; man is a quarrelsome animal, but he has his kindly impulses; man is an animal in short, but that is not all there is to him; man is a creature of dreams and he dreams of a gentler and sweeter life than the one he ordinarily lives.

There had to be a Christmas. The spirit of a solemn religious festival became gay as it spread into people's homes. It was such a beautiful festival, so appealing in its reassertion of the hopefulness, tenderness and compassion that came out of Nazareth so long ago, that its influence went beyond the followers of any one religion. The Christmas tree, the candles, the carols, mean something to everyone.

There had to be a Christmas. The goodness in man demands an occasion when it can confess itself and not be ashamed. We have to believe in that goodness, even when we look about the earth and see so many evidences of weakness, wickedness and cruelty; even when we look into our own hearts. Knowing how imperfect we ourselves are, each of us is the more driven, on this day, to be charitable toward others. If we have the vision of a kinder world, so may they; if they have, so may we.

There had to be a Christmas. There will be a Christmas to the end of human time on this great globe. Neither laws, nor armies, nor strange doctrines can destroy it. There has to be a yearning for it—for the generosity and self-forgetfulness for which it stands—is implanted in us.

Only the foolish and the cynical and the two are so often one—will scoff because there is only one Christmas in a year. The good-will of this day touches other days. It has a conquering power of its own. Down the long centuries to come, with the majestic turnings of many years, with the slow comings and goings of the sun, it will endure.

Merry Christmas

And

Happy New Year

from the ELM staff members

Senior Of The Week

The Elm usually presents Raymond Wesley Edwards as "Senior of the Week." Now, who had, from Woodstock, New Jersey, come to us as a transfer from Rutgers University. That was Rutgers' loss and W.C.'s gain. We sometimes wonder how Wes manages to have so much drive, leadership, common sense and good ideas packed in his 5 foot 7, 110 lb. frame. His height, his blond hair and his blue eyes are his distinguishing characteristics and are probably what won him his greatest claim to fame—Let's go!

Here on campus, Wes has been a member of the Forensic Society and Theta Chi Fraternity for the past three years, and is now serving as president of the latter. He has also served on the Interfraternity Council for two years. He proves that size is not the all-important factor in sports by holding various positions on both basketball and hockey teams. The greatest achievement of his college career, however, was being named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Aside from being an athletic enthusiast, Wes is fond of hunting and fly-fishing seasons. The "Little General," as he is sometimes called, can be found working in the Snack Bar or over in Reid Hall, where he is slowly and painfully learning the rudiments of bridge, despite his partner's efforts to the contrary. When asked about his stature, Wes is quick to retort, "This don't ship J.N.I. in box cars, you know!" His favorite expression is "You're all right!" And his pet peeve is the dining hall set-up.

Wes' major is Political Science in preparation for a career in Government service. His first governmental assignment will be a two-year term with the United States Marine Corps shortly after graduation. However, with Uncle Sam's permission, Wes plans to enter the field of mathematics sometime in the earth fall. Lots of luck, Wes. You deserve it!

With The Greeks

Lamela Chi Alpha

Congratulations to Al Hamner and Jerry Lamblin who were successful in winning.

Thanks to Brother Spangiel for building the two new trophy cases. He was inspired by two new trophies received for excellence in scholarship. Congratulations to Bob Horn and Jerry Fontana for making "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and to John Minich, who was inducted into Sigma Sigma Omicron.

There will be an open house on Sunday, Dec. 14 and a party Saturday night following the alumni basketball game.

AT MEETING

Dr. Friedman G. Livingston and Mr. Ernest Foster attended the Middle States Association of Collegiate Deans and Registrars meeting which was held in Atlantic City, N. J., during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Washington College

It's had a magic wand and a million dollars to dispense on Christmas presents. I would give these following things to the following people:

To Melba—A course in speaking of the English language with a compass clubbed so he could find the East while in the Catholic Church.

To Dick Nimmo—A life time supply of saunas and razor blades and a haircut.

To Rod Wan—A year's supply of cold cream and a car of his own.

To Wes Edwards—A spotlight for his car and a step-ladder.

To Danny Sante—If possible, a new shirt to take the place of the heave he made at Balabridge.

To Bob Lapiz—A Tourist Card of Steam Headed Cabins with all his prescribed equipment.

To B. C. Jones—Twenty pounds which I really don't need and which would probably look better on her.

To Doug Fox—His very own fire chief's hat and a red car with a loud vroom.

To Jo Budd—Her very own property rights on any boy she chooses in C.A.A.

To Dick Norris—A little more Bo-Boski to go with his Watten-dotted.

To Bob Appleby—A girl to date before it's too late.

To John Parker—A book telling why he should not bid 7 no trump with 13 cards in his hand.

To A. J. Carr—Her own private Post, rent free, out of Reid Hall.

To Joan Vanh—Unlimited lates in Reid Hall, also the formula not to "panic."

By now, everyone should be deluged with food from the "Thanksgiving Turkey," that is. Now, every one is looking forward to the Christmas holidays, since there will be dances and parties galore.

Speaking of Thanksgiving, under stand Hank Whiteaker, Bob Boyd, and Billy Russell had parties which were "Treasures."

Congratulations to the K.A.'s for their successful dance, and Marlene Meyer for being chosen as their sweetheart.

Congrats also to the Zetas for their dance, and to Billy Russell for being chosen as their "dreamboat."

Messrs. William R. Murray, Constantine N. Toman and John F. Newbold made their debut at the very gala Washington Cocktail on the 27th of November.

You really have to be a pretty good man to contain "shockbraking" in a duck blind. Too bad it was too late—How about B.A.?

Anyone seeking a hideous date, write—Johnny Parker, Weird Date Bureau, Baltimore, Md.

After all the holidays were counted, "B-jones" was unanimously voted "Make out man of the year."

Cheers for the OS men who carried around recently at the lavishly furnished "Ranch"—while the orchestra played Straws Walters, the merry group scooped down imported French sausages with "La National" 1952 vintage.

Crummell, who do they call you the bakery boys?

Just what was the cause of all the commotion on the 22nd of November at "the shack" in Centreville? Could it have been caused by two carloads of late comers, who came dressed in the latest fashion "with a life?"

Bully, why did you get Don's car back to late? Could it be that you were too busy studying one more chapter of your "Loving Christmas" "Carol?"

Cora Lee, do you really have a mad craving for Otter hatches and white wine?

Who left their hair in Miss Bell's office after the Zeta Dance?

To Tommy Heiderman—A case of empty milk bottles to throw at "Sore!"

To Chuck Covington—A may to show him how to get to Stockton.

To Don Hevelly—Plaid seat covers for his bike so he can keep up with Russell Gae in style.

To Don Ovinge—A year's supply of Ram and Maple and a strict promise to give Jennifer better than a 60/40 chance.

To Bobby Sullivan—A ticket to go all the free milk shakes he wants for the next year.

To Lynn Dima—This might take the whole million dollars, so shed better settle for a ride home.

To Dallas Ward—A gun to go ducking with so he won't have to wear them to death.

To H. C. Nesbitt—A toupee and championship sweater for the year.

To John Grim—More luck in calling the coin in because than he had in soccer.

To Cora Lee Duval—A Helmer! As my father would say, she has played too many games without winning.

To Jane Brindley—Tom Looz, 'cause it's going to be a cold winter.

Bill Murray—The key to the city of Washington and a case of tennis balls.

To Betty Ayres—The Academy Award for the figure of the year.

To Billy—A lot more hair on my head and another party over Christmas.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Billy Russell

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Night Watchman

It has been rumored that the Russians in the Germany are also able to sleep in—See El Dryden for further information.

Mehdi had a very illustrative vision of his first trip to a Catholic Church. Stand and then sit on your knees and vice versa.

I have heard of long filibusters, but never for four nights in a row. Hi Cy!

The Eastern Shore has never been visited with the horned steel that bit a few weeks ago.

Ted and Doug are so much in that Got Got Got!

A. J. has turned into quite a fun hunter.

The two latest additions to the cheering squad are two crazy!

John Grim enjoyed the floor show at the 774 dance very much. He just couldn't stop laughing.

What campus lovers got lost in the middle of Washington during a snow storm? Where did they end up?

May, Rod?

Seen last Saturday night at Bud Hubbard's, drinking out of a miniature using was Heiz. Do you think the pieces of shot in that duck was meant for you, Bobby? When the soldiers tried to press it was rumored that Dick Sincell might shave toes in one week.

Whose car disappeared quite mysteriously Saturday night?

Dr. Clark's assistant Gertrude Moore Bounstle is pleased with the 100 workbooks have been going. Say, if anyone was up to form this would be a big year.

There is a new song going around called "Because You're Mine." It's done very well by Mario Lanza, but I don't understand another Italian called Lynn D. Oh well! We always can hear to him.

Opportunities For Air Force Commission

New opportunities for young men and women with scientific or technical interests to enter the United States Air Force for the purpose of receiving training as weather officers, received additional emphasis from statements by the Air Force Chief of Staff and the Commanding General of the USAF Air Weather Service.

General Hoy S. Vandenberg pointed out the need for Air Force personnel in a recent statement to presidents of ROTC colleges. He said, "We are desperately in need of good minds—strong and flexible minds eager to meet the rising challenge of our new oceans, to meet the evolving meaning of air power."

Major General W. O. Senter, Commanding General of the Air Weather Service, in announcing new opportunities for direct commissions in the USAF, stated: "Today, we are witnessing an age of scientific development which stimulates the imagination. In each day's news we hear of new advances in thermonuclear energy, supersonic speeds of aircraft, longer ranges for aircraft, and many other advances which were unfamiliar to us a few years ago. As science progresses, so must the meteorologist, since his contribution to the success of these scientific advances has increased materially since the beginning of the last war."

"College graduates, or seniors who will graduate this June, now may apply for appointment in the Air Force as second lieutenant and receive government paid weather training at one of eight nationally known colleges and universities. Upon completion of their training, they will receive assignments in the USAF Air Weather Service as weather officers," General Senter continued. "These individuals must possess a bachelorette degree with credit for one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus. Qualified graduates or seniors should write to Headquarters, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C., for the required application forms."

Members of the Air Force ROTC may apply for this training through their Professors of Air Science and Tactics.

Training for these officers in the grade of second lieutenant will begin in June, 1953, and gain in September, 1953. June 1952 graduates will be considered for the latter class only. Trainees will be ordered to duty about three weeks in advance of commencing training and will arrive on campus about ten days before class, begin order to perform them in arrange housing and other matters.

Nationally prominent schools participating with the USAF in this program include the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York University, the University of Chicago, Pennsylvania State College, the University of California at Los Angeles, Florida State University, the University of Washington and St. Louis University.

This Air Force training is the start of a challenging and interesting career in meteorology, for weather officers who choose to remain on active duty with the Air Weather Service, advancement opportunities, exist through the rank of full colonel. Civilian careers in meteorology, for those who return to civilian life after Air Weather Service training and experience, cover a wide range of employment possibilities.

Made from the obvious opportunities in the U. S. Weather Bureau and the major airlines, other areas have claimed Air Weather Service "graduates." Many meteorologists have gone into business for themselves, establishing either consultative services in various parts of the United States, in which industry and business can bring their weather problems.

Business and industrial concerns employ large numbers of weather specialists in such areas as testing programs for plant locations and development sales programming. In addition, Federal and state government agencies employ many meteorologists for a variety of projects. Interested senior students and graduates, either men or women, can obtain full details on receiving direct commissions and Government expense weather training with the Air Force by writing immediately to the Commanding General, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C.

Pakistani Student Speaks Here

Emphasizing that "The students of today would be the leaders of tomorrow," Harfuddin A. Faridi, young Pakistani speaking for the World Student Service Fund, showed the need for the continuing aid to foreign students through the methods now being used in the U. S.

Faridi has been an authority on the problems arising from the partition of Pakistan and India and that he was born in New Delhi, he fled his home in 1947 to begin a new life in Karachi.

Prior to his migration to Karachi, he was active in many student and youth groups in Delhi, which included the Delhi College Students' Union, in which he serves as joint secretary. He was also a member of the Council of the All-India Muslim Students' Federation, one of the three national student organizations in India at the time.

His wide experience in student activities led to his being chosen to serve as the General Secretary of the Pakistan Student Federation from 1948 to 1950. From 1948-1951 he was secretary of the World University Service Committee in Pakistan and represented his country at the 1950 conference held in Bombay.

Faridi was sponsored here at Washington College by the World Student Service Fund Committee and the Pakistan Society. The WSSF is at present showing money to raise money for the cause of foreign students, such as Mr. Faridi. It is this committee's hope that through hearing the problems these students have the high school speakers, that they will be able to contribute more to the W. C. chapter and enable this group to send more to the International Fund.

NOTICE!

The college dispensary and men's infirmary is now open in the Cain Gymnasium. The hours are presently being worked out, but until further notice the dispensary will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 12:00 a.m., from 12:30 p.m. until 1:50 p.m., and 3:50 until 5:30 p.m., Mrs. William Butler is the college nurse; Dr. O. S. Catbran is the college physician.

The following regulations will be enforced:

1. All full-time students are eligible to use the college dispensary.
2. The student assumes financial responsibility for all treatment given on campus, unless previously and specifically informed otherwise by the college physician or the Director of Athletics.
3. Sick calls will be held from 12:30 p.m. to 1:50 p.m. at the dispensary.
4. The college nurse must be notified before 8:30 a.m. of students who ill or injured sick calls.
5. Exemptions from any regularly scheduled college activity—classes, assembly, etc.—because of illness will be valid only when signed by the college nurse or physician.
6. No visitors will be allowed in the infirmary, except by the house mother of Reed Hall (for the women's infirmary) or the college nurse (for the men's infirmary).
7. Any unusual medications or services will be charged to the student's account.
8. The infirmaries are not hospitals, and students requiring hospitalization will be sent to the hospital of their choice.
9. In case of emergency outside dispensary hours, call Mrs. William Butler at No. 1.

FIGHT TO VICTORY!

The cheerleaders should be the best yet this year. There was a good turnout for tryouts and from these we chose five new members. The girls are Marie Pasquarelli, Emily Dryden, and Rose Luckner. Believe it or not, we have two boys this year: Dick Norris and Mehdi Djabanihan. These new members, plus the five oldtimers, will do their best to cheer the basketball team on to a victorious season.

The old members wish to extend their thanks to all those who came out.

TO ALL STUDENTS!

The administration and faculty of Washington College wish you, the members of the student body, a very Merry Christmas and a New Year of happiness, prosperity, and fulfillment.

Conradly,
Daniel F. Gibson

Attention Seniors

Several business organizations have indicated their interest in securing Washington College seniors for training programs in their organizations, looking forward to the individual becoming a junior executive in the organization. These positions will not provide the same financial return as the individual might secure in certain types of employment, but in the final analysis it is a question of whether the individual wishes to enter upon a career in which growth and advancement is assured or whether he wants a job with high initial financial returns. Seniors should consider carefully the type of business organization with which they affiliate in terms of whether the position has the possibility for a career or is merely a job.

Firms which have indicated their interest in Washington College seniors are—The Proctor and Gamble Company, Montgomery Ward and Bloomingdale Brothers. Other business organizations will, no doubt, contact the college before the close of the year.

Seniors who are interested in the opportunities offered by any of the above firms are urged to check on the information which is available in the Dean's office. A copy of CAREER, a guide for business opportunities, is available for examination.

Boyd Named ELM Editor By Publications Board

The Board of Publications at Washington College announced this week, the unanimous election of Ellsworth Boyd as editor-in-chief of the Washington ELM. He will succeed Jane Bradley in this post and will take over his duties with the next issue.

Boyd has been a member of the ELM staff for the past three years and served as sports editor during the 1951-52 school year. Outside his publications activities he is a member of Kappa Alpha Order and has captained both the track and cross country teams. He is a member of the basketball team this year.

Boyd's first act as new editor was to appoint Rod Ware to succeed John Grim as News Editor and Joe Symanski to the position of Sports Editor. Ware, a member of Theta Chi fraternity, has earned letters in track, baseball and soccer, and was recently a captain of the basketball team of the latter sport. He has done work for the paper, both in that field and in news reporting. Freshman Symanski has been a sports reporter this year and has served as Boyd's right hand man. He has distinguished himself as a publicist on the soccer team and as a substitute forward on the basketball squad. Ramona Wiley, feature editor, will remain in her position.

The February appointments for the ELM staff were begun last year in order to provide better training for the new officials. Members of the Board of Publications who make all publication appointments are: Tom Toman, Bobby Appleby, Bob Stahl and Joe Bradley, plus faculty members: Dr. Nesbitt, Miss Harmon and Mr. Langley.

Board Raises Scholarship Value Here

Maryland State Senatorial Scholarships will be worth more at Washington College next September, as a result of a decision reached at the December meeting of the Visitors and Governors of the college, held last Saturday. Both new and present holders of the scholarships will be benefited by the new fee structure.

The change will take place through the abandonment of the "general college fee" which is being merged with the tuition fee. As a result, there will be a single comprehensive educational fee called tuition, which is effective next fall, will be $150.00 per year. All state scholarships which include tuition will therefore increase $250 in value. Full state scholarships carrying tuition, board, and textbooks will be worth $950.00 instead of the present $700.00. State scholarships carrying tuition and textbooks will be worth $500.00 instead of the present $250.00.

This change in fee structure will not affect outside scholarships. At the same meeting the governing board of the college increased the charge for certain single dormitory rooms. Effective next fall, single rooms in Powell Hall will be $10.00 a year; in Somerset House, $175.00 a year; in the newly renovated West Hall $150.00 double and $175.00 single.

With the opening of the new college dispensary, a health fee of $8.00 a year will be assessed to all residents. Students with the beginning of the 1953-1954 academic year.

NOTICE

The 1953 Homecoming Day will be November 14! Two special features will be the basketball game with Loyola College and the selection and crowning of a Homecoming Queen. Watch the bulletin boards for an announcement for the date of nominations. The selection of the Queen is sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Choir Plans Two Trips

On March 5th, the Washington College Choir will appear before the students of Wisconsin High School in Salisbury, Md. The choir will be guests of the Rotary Club on this same evening.

On March 19th, the 45 voice choir will again take a trip down the Eastern Shore to appear before the students of Eastern High School (in the morning) and Cambridge High School (in the afternoon).

These trips will be the first attempt in many years for the choir to sing outside the college; and when it proves a success, it will be a great achievement for Dr. Fik, the director, for the people in the choir, and for Washington College.

A.A.U.P. Discuss Communism Here

The Washington College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors held Wednesday night, January 15, a second of a series of faculty discussions on pertinent topics. The topic, "The Menace of the Soviets and of Communism," was presented by a panel of faculty members including Mr. Penn, Mr. Mercer, Mr. James, Dr. Clark and Mr. Palett. Mr. Henry acted as the chairman. The topic of the first discussion in this series was "The Role of the Liberal Arts College."

Summer Employment

Notice has been received from the United States Civil Service Commission announcing Student Aid examinations which are open to college sophomores, and juniors majoring in the fields of chemistry, physics, mathematics and in the various branches of engineering. Positions pay $2,950 to $3,175 in a year and are located in the various Federal agencies in Washington and vicinity. Appointment will be made for employment during school vacation periods or for periods of employment of students in co-operative courses. Applicants must have completed appropriate college study and must pass a written test.

New Spring Vacation

This year our spring vacation will begin now March 21st and end 8:15 March 30th, even though this is not the week of Easter. For Easter, students will have off Good Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 3, 4 and 5.

On January 15 the students of Washington College voted to accept the proposed constitution for student government. The constitution states that "this constitution shall be construed as going into effect immediately upon ratification," but since semester examinations are being given the week of January 19 - January 26, the elections of officers and class representatives are being deferred until the early part of the second semester. Procedure for the election will be announced by Bruce McKie, chairman of the Committee on Student Government.

Passed by a margin of twenty votes the constitution will put into effect the first student government at the Shore College since before World War II. Student activities since that time have been directed by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity.

The present constitution is a revised edition of the one that was rejected by the students last May. At that time facts showed that there was a definite interest in student government so a committee, composed of four representatives from each class, resumed work on the document this fall.

Statistics show that 191 votes were cast in favor of the constitution and 171 against it. The number required for passage was 171.

Mount Vernon To Produce Oscar Wilde's "Earnest"

The Mount Vernon Literary Society has begun work on Oscar Wilde's amusing classic of superficiality, "The Importance of Being Earnest." This production will not be in the conventional mode of Proscenium stage, but in the more natural form of "Theatre in the Round."

Instead of the whole audience sitting on one side of the action as it were looking through the wall, "The Theatre in the Round" audience sits on all sides of the stage as it were in the room where the action is taking place. Instead of a curtain, there is a hanging of the lights. The lights dim on again, the action begins.

This media is comparatively new in usage as the idea has only begun its popularity climb in the past ten years. In the past few years, colleges have begun to use this form for their theatrical productions.

A number of students in the society became interested in the idea and thought that it would be a good way to bring a classic on campus. The enthusiasm spread and now many people are working to make this dream come true.

Playboy Jack Worthing, J.P. (James Metcalf) loves Gwendolen Fairfax (Kay Layton) and Algernon Moncrieff (John Parker), her cousin. Jack's ward, Miss Cecily Cardow (Mary Lee Lenoir), is convinced that Jack and Algernon pretend to be someone else so that happiness may not suffer by relative's constant conpanionship. Algernon shows up at Jack's country home as his imaginary brother Ernest. The three come to the conclusion, however, that Jack and Algernon pretend to be someone else so that happiness may not suffer by relative's constant conpanionship. Algernon shows up at Jack's country home as his imaginary brother Ernest. The three come to the conclusion, however, that Jack and Algernon pretend to be someone else so that happiness may not suffer by relative's constant conpanionship.

Bruce McKie Heads Omicron Delta Kappa

Bruce McKie was elected President of ODK, Omicron Delta Kappa, at a special meeting held on Jan. 8. He will succeed William French his graduates in February.

Bruce is president of the Kappa Alpha Order in which he has done outstanding work this year. He is also Chairman of the Student Government. Committee that prepared the Constitution presented to the school this week. In addition to these he has been on the Inter-Fraternity Council for two years and rendered a great service to the school by serving on the Student Procurement Provision.

ing of the confusion, Omicron Delta Kappa's formidable pair is portrayed by Sue Stallings, while Barbara Desney is portrayed as Miss Pison, C. Marvin Burbake as Rev. Canon Chastille, D.D., Don Mayrout as Lane, and Bill Loewy as Morriam. The direction is mostly the experience of hand of J. Aldo Golik and will be staged in Cain Gymnasium on Feb. 11 and 12.

Phi Sig Elect Herb Brown, President

January 12 marked Phi Sig's election and installation of officers for the second semester. Among those elected to office were Herb Brown, president. For his second term Bill Winkler, co-president. Stan Kallman, secretary. Kenneth Rahn, treasurer. Richard V. Stapp, assistant, and Alvin Ward, treasurer.

Following the meeting plans for the coming year were discussed and the date for the annual Moonlight Ball set for March 7.

Myer Succeeds Hearn As Science Club President

At their last meeting the Science Club elected Marjorie Myer as its president to replace Ruth Hearn.

She has been an active member for three years and served as the Secretary-Treasurer during the last semester. She has been in Alpha Chi Omega for four years, serving as officers in two and is now their president. She is also a member of the Future Teachers of America and a Homecoming Queen back in the days when Washington College had football.

Players Cast "Silver Cord"

The Washington Players have completed casting for their mid-winter production, "The Silver Cord," a modern psychological drama by Sidney Howard. The presentation will take place on the 5th and 6th of March.

Those selected for the cast of six were: Joanne Gosak, playfully the lead of Mrs. Phelps, a woman who is devoted to her two sons and expects the same from them, Dean Steynor, as her eldest son who manages to escape her domination, and Patricia Neighbor as his sister-in-law. The younger son will be played by Ken Marston and his fiancée by Barbara Jones. The maid role has been taken by Lynn Danna.

This will be the second production of the year for the Players, the first being "Ten Little Indians," the mystery comedy, and the third production, the annual spring play, "The Merry Widow," the musical comedy to create a contrast of drama during the year with their selections.

The story of the Silver Cord revolves around a mother who tries to dominate her two sons. The eldest son, who has married in Europe brings his new wife home to meet the mother. The wife immediately senses the situation of domination and manages to save her husband. The younger son however, falls completely under his mother's spell and through her persuasion manages to lose his fiancee and his ambitions to see life for himself.

The play is being directed by Jack Daniels, who appeared in the last production, "Ten Little Indians," and Jane Bradley, a long standing member of the drama group. Advice to the group is Mrs. E. Wilfred O'grande.

Endowment Fund Plans

At the assembly, Thursday, Jan. 8th, Bill Frutch, as president of ODK, presented $325 to the Endowment Fund of Washington College. This money was left over after purchasing a plaque inscribed with the names of the students of Washington College. ODK also felt that the student body might like to help and consider some plans for supporting this Endowment Fund. A short meeting of all organization presidents and interested students was held afterwards to discuss the situation and plans which could be used.

Army Reserves Gain Eight Here

The Army Reserve program has gotten under way at Washington College with approximately eight students joining. These men will go to Easton twice a month for drills and instructions. If the number of these students reach fifteen however, drills and instructions can be given here on campus. The administration has endorsed the program and strongly encourages students not affiliated with any branch of the service to look into the program. Complete information can be secured from the Dean of Men.

A PROBLEM

It has been the policy of the ELM during the past year, to keep problems and instances of academic dishonesty out of the editorial columns. However, there seems to have arisen, a problem that has both professors and students wondering. It is concerned with the outside assignments given in the World History courses, which are attended in the main by freshmen.

The situation you know. The student opinions can be heard by spending five minutes in the Snack Bar. What is important, or seems important to us, is that the professors have asked why something like this has happened and why the attitude taken by those who have been named offenders is indifferent. Certainly, in the usual case, the problem is between the student and the instructor. However, in this particular instance, it concerns all of us.

We could not attempt to answer either of the questions asked by the faculty. We have heard, in several discussions, that perhaps the high school training of working together on projects may have carried over. This seems to be a rather weak argument considering that this is a college and that all of us are here to be educated individually. Another idea presented is that perhaps the students do not recognize the offense as a serious one. Surely by now, everyone in this school should know that when an assignment is given individually, it is expected that it be done by one person.

Of course there are the usual complaints that the required courses cause this type of situation. No one is required to come to college. But if you come, there are certain things that are expected, and we believe that the educators may have a better idea of what should be studied and what should not.

From all reports there appears to be a large number of students involved in this problem. One wonders, could so many have misunderstood or could so many not know the difference between right and wrong. There are still a large number who seemed to and we don't believe that is just because they have had a better education of a better training in ethics.

As this is being written, no decision has been made by the school on what to do. It is definitely a knotty problem, yet as stated before, it is expected that college students know what academic honesty is and practice it. We hope that the decision, what ever it may be, emphasizes the situation and above all, prevents it from happening again.

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Students of Washington College:

The next issue of the ELM will be under the direction of Ellis Boyd, the newly appointed editor. Seeing that this is my last chance to use these columns I would like to take the opportunity to thank all of our readers and all of my staff for splendid cooperation, helpful criticism, and the feeling created that we have accomplished a little something since last February.

Criticism comes fast and furious and compliments are few and far between in the newspaper business. I think that everyone has been particularly kind in the last instance and unusually helpful in the first. I appreciate it and I can speak for the staff and say they appreciate it, too.

I hope that you, our readers, will be as kind to the new staff. I can guarantee that they will do a good job and want helpful criticism when they need it.

Again, thanks for all you've done during the past year.

Sincerely,
Jane Bradley
Editor in Chief

Senior Of The Week

This week the Elm Staff takes pride in presenting Bruce McKie as Senior of the Week.

Bruce comes to us from Garney's Point, New Jersey, where his wife is keeping the home fires burning in their trailer.

Bruce is a regular guy with an easy going manner. Because of his abilities, achievements and interest in college activities, he became a member of the honorary society, Omicron Delta Kappa.

Before coming to college he was in the service. Maybe this has some thing to do with the nickname, "Dod" which the R. A.'s have given him. This year Bruce is the able President of Kappa Alpha Order. In past years he has served as Scholarship Chairman and Historian.

Bruce is a member of the Forensic Society, worked with the Student Proclamation Program last year; served as Chairman for the Committee on Student Government for two years; and was recently chosen a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Bruce has majored in sociology, and plans to do personnel work after graduation in June.

We want to take this opportunity to wish him the best in life in the years to come.

New Year's Resolution: WHY?—

By Bill Russell

The following things should have been resolved by these people since the last issue of the Elm went to press. You will have to ask them why, because I'll never tell.

Marie Pasarella: To always invite Wayne Green to her New Year Eve parties because when he is happy he's too much.

Melodi: To play poker with the boys, more often to increase his bank account—he in plays that is the doodle-doodle house more often.

Birdman: Murray: Never to play poker with my friends because he now holds the dubious distinction of going from "Birdman" to "Barddog" in one pat.

Don Sternen: To keep a close watch on his dates in '53 because, according to some well informed sources, he really got around New Year's Eve.

Reg Smoot: To stay the same place he did last New Year because he thinks this cabinet and foot were too crazy.

Doug Fox and Ben Krotze: To see my parents some time when they are in better form so I can really convince my parents that they are nice guys and that I should run with them next semester.

Emily Dryden: To call Stockton every New Year's Eve to say hello to her parents and to give Chuck a breakfast next New Year's. There were too good back to get that Happy New Year kiss twice this year.

Dick Norris: To always know where the gingerale and ice is because to be a good host you should know your water.

The Joeples: To play it a little more cool than he has been playing it. Remember it doesn't pay to get excited.

Betty Ayers: She says honestly will never do anything like this again—he in plays that is the Joeples.

Jo Budd: To stop planning around a tip or bouncing like a rubber ball. It's getting hard to keep up with you.

Dave Jacobes: To go to Florida during mid-semester because he thinks it really is a necessity.

Wanita Mac Schultz: To give Bob a chance early in the year because what I hear at the frat house you're too much.

Rannona Wiley: To keep her denier appointments straight during '53 because she really missed a good party.

John Grim: To get a car, horse, or some form of transportation before '53 is out because from what we know it's a long stretch car ride from Calverville to Towson.

Cora Lee: To try her best to keep from knocking over the Xmas Tree next year and to stay away from her society situation in Baltimore all year up . . . guess bald-headed men have more brains than we ever dreamed of.

Latest Political News: From the Maryland State Capitol we understand that Senator Weeden and his aid, Basil, have things under control . . . But Larry, why seas in the balcony? Didn't the door-keeper recognize you?

Grim (John, this is) . . . Don't be one or two who go to your head. Remember, the bigger they come, the harder they fall.

To whom it may concern: Mu Nancy Dukes, of Centerville, Maryland, is reported as a good looker going steady . . . Good luck, Frohlich!

Congratulations to Sue and Jim on becoming pinned.

Samele Sets A New Court Record

In The PRESSBOX

(By Ray Idler)

Mounts Invade Shore Tonight

Coach Ed Athey has high hopes that his courtmen will upset the favored Mt. St. Mary's club tonight. The Mount five is a leading contender for the Mason-Dixon title and a victory over them would best the Shoremen considerably.

In general, the visitors have good height, but it is greater speed and shooting ability which has brought them praise as one of the top teams in the conference. The defense is a little shaky, but despite this weakness the team still shapes up as a tough opponent for the Shoremen to crack. Their record is 3 wins and 1 loss, and they lead the Mason-Dixon Conference until last Monday night when the Mounts bowed to American University.

The Mountainers have two old hands, Ted Kachnowski and Jim McKeon, as steadying influences who will give us plenty of trouble. It is doubtful as to whether or not Kachnowski will play due to a leg injury suffered last week. They also have another returning veteran, Vin Gulbrin, who is a smooth, steady ball player. This 6-foot-1 star has a good jump shot, is trouble for any team under the boards, and is an accurate passer. Two newcomers round out the first five of the squad, Sal Angelo and Charley O'Donnell. Angelo is the leading scorer for the Mount with Gulbrin running a close second and O'Donnell third. Although this appears to be the number one team, Coach Bill Clarke has some other potentially good players who will probably see action before the night is over. Jack Sherman and Jack Stanley are two flashy ball players who are looking Kachnowski and McKeon for a starting berth. Then there is Ed Bals, smallest of the Mounts at 5 feet 7 inches, but he offsets his lack of height by speed and aggressiveness. Rounding out the squad are Neil Carmody, George Donahue, Jack Dunphy, Jacques Mazoreux, Frank Smith, Frank Swaine, and Frank Tumulty.

Thus far the invaders from Emmitsburg have had things pretty much their own way. Let's hope that Washington College can dim their light tonight and end up on top of the "Mount".

Freshmen Prospects

The ball game whistling through the air; there was a sudden lunge, and another save for soccer goal-keeper Joe Symanski! Although he is primarily known for his pitch play, Joe is an all-around athlete and student. In high school he excelled in basketball, basketball and soccer, being named to the "All Maryland Soccer Team" in his senior year. While at Washington College he has been a member of the varsity basketball squad and has seen considerable action in the team's first nine games. Joe has been a valuable cog in the team's attack through his 6'6" frame. He intends to try out for baseball in the spring as first baseman. Joe always kept a respectable scholastic record. Although he is no "bookworm," he is maintained a steady "B" average in his work at Patterson Park High. Joe is planning to major in either chemistry or mathematics. He is interested in music and has played the violin for eight years. We have heard many words about "Big Joe," but it takes only four to describe his character—"He's a great guy."

Terrors Edge Sho'men

Western Maryland College snapped Washington College's four game winning streak in the Mason-Dixon Conference on January 8, by edging the Greyhounds 66 to 54 in a roughly contested game in which 41 personal fouls were committed.

Trailing by 27 to 26 at halftime, the Terrors caught fire in the third quarter and outscored their opponents 18 to 4 and 22 to 19. Washington grabbed a 14 to 5 lead in the early stages of the game through the sharpshooting of Dan Samele and Dick Brockell. But the visiting team caught up with, and passed the Shoremen as five men hit double figures. George Sipe and Arnie Needleman spearheaded this attack, scoring 15 and 14 points respectively.

Dickie Brockell netted 17 markers for the evening, while Samele and Jack Bergen tossed in 15 and 11 in the losing cause.

Loyola Tops Sho' Five

Loyola College scored its third Mason-Dixon Conference basketball victory at the expense of Washington College last Saturday night at Evergreen, by overwhelming its traditional rival, 75 to 49.

The Greyhounds trailed only in the opening phases of play when the Shoremen took a 7 to 6 edge after four minutes of play. However, the Greyhounds coasted to a one-sided triumph, opening up a 30 point edge at one stage of the final quarter.

Loyola had trouble with Washington's zone defense for five minutes of play, but their "Big Three"—Joe Hittleman, Ed Kowalewski, and Nap Doberty—began to hit and opened up a 38 to 27 halftime lead. Doberty netted 22 for the evening, followed by Hittleman with 19 and Kowalewski with 14.

Dan Samele and Jack Bergen edged the cords for 9 apiece, to head the Sho' attack. The most spectacular shot of the first half came with just two seconds to play, Wes Edwards, of Washington, cut loose with a long heave from back of mid-court. It dropped into the netting just before the buzzer went off.

Thinclads Place 4th

Washington College proved that its track and field aspirants were not waiting for the spring to arrive to prove their running ability, by entering a relay team in the 10th edition of the Washington Evening Games last Saturday night.

A medley relay quartet composed of George Eichelberger, Lew Buckley, Stu Young, and Ellis Boyd, entered the Mason-Dixon mile event, where they edged out Bridgewater and Galahader College to gain fourth place in the race.

An experienced Catholic University team worked off with first place honors, touring the medley mile in 3 minutes, 50 seconds. Roanoke College was second and Towson Teamsters third. With only one week's preparation, the Shoremen turned in a creditable performance on the boards and are now preparing for the 17th Regiment South Atlantic Association Championships which are to be held in Baltimore on February 11.

JayVees Down Wesley

The J.V.'s added another win to their undefeated record by edging out Wesley Junior College 30-19 on Thursday, January 8.

Washington jumped to an early lead and at the end of the first quarter led by a score of 16-10.

The Bulldogs found themselves in the second quarter and outscored us 11-6, making the score at the halfway mark, 22-21.

As the second half got underway, it was a mad scoring spree, with the Blue and White matching us basket for basket. In the latter part of the third quarter, Wesley's Wilson dropped in two quick ticks and Carson added a foul to make the score 34-29.

The spark caught on to the Sho'men and we led throughout the last period. We were threatened twice but each time managed to keep the lead.

Scoring honors for the night went to Carson of Wesley with 12, and right behind him was Washington's Jim Hasket with 11.

Hasket, who recently joined the squad, in addition to leading in scoring, played a fine all around game. Hasket's four work, coupled with the rebounding abilities of Steve Marziana and the sharp-shooting of Dean Griffen and Les Bell, made for a well-rounded team.

Drop No. 5

Moravian outlasted Washington College in overtime Wednesday night breaking loose with 15 points in five minutes for an 86-to-74 triumph.

Diminutive Eddie Barreiro Heller, freshman, registered nine of these markers while pacing the winners with 23.

Dan Samele, high scoring Washington ace, scored 25 points to take individual honors for the game. This was Moravian's third victory in seven starts and Washington's fourth loss in eight tries.

Moravian ran up a 49-to-25 lead and was in front at the half in termination 44 to 36. The Shoremen's eagers fought back in the second half, moved ahead at 57 to 56 and once led 63 to 56, their best margin of the night.

8 Shore All-Stars Picked

The Washington College soccer team was honored at a recent meeting in December by having eight members of its team chosen on the "All South" squad.

The announcement was made by the National Soccer Association, composed of eleven coaches of the Southern Conference and Mason-Dixon Association, who nominated fifty-five players.

Members of the first team representing the Maroon and Black were fullback John Ginn, center half back Doug Tilly. Incidentally, both also made the Mason-Dixon Conference first team.

Phil Riggins, Roger Smoot, Harold White, Bill Russell, Dick Weller, and Bob Appley were given mention on the remaining second and third strings.

Coach Howie Nesbitt was somewhat surprised at the representation of his team and bestowed admiration and congratulations upon his all-star players. Nesbitt also verified the announcement of Washington College's first overnight soccer trip to be held in October of 53.

The trip will include contests with Virginia University and Roanoke College. A booking with a strong Pennsylvanian soccer squad, West Chester State Teachers, is still being sought. Bucknell University has been dropped from the '53 schedule and has been replaced by the Southern Association colleges, Virginia and Marshall. The Sho'men will open their campaign for Middle Atlantic and Mason-Dixon Conference on Sept. 21 against King's College of Delaware.

Lacrosse Men Play In Florida

Two Washington College lacrosse players, Bill Bonnett of last year's senior class, and *Bob Lipitz, a junior, played in the North-South game in West Palm Beach, Florida, during the Christmas holidays. Bonnett acted on defense, while Lipitz scored a goal for the North team. The game was played for the benefit of the Shrine's Cripple Children Fund. It was the combination of a week's lacrosse activity in Florida which included practice sessions and a coach's clinic.

Nets 41 Points At W. Chester

By Hugh Delano

Despite a stand-out performance by Captain Danny Samele, in which the Washington College ace netted 41 points, Ed Athey's Shore eagers dropped an 88-81 decision to West Chester State Teachers' College on Tuesday night at the winner's home court.

Until he fouled out with about three minutes to play, Samele's sharpshooting had highlighted the contest. His 41 points came on 16 field goals, mostly sets and lay-ups, two from the keyhole, and nine of eleven free throws.

Samele also established two new individual records with his scoring spree. He eclipsed the record of 39 points in a single game which Nick Scallion had set last season against Moravian and set a new standard for the West Chester court, which had been held by Peter Mamska since 1949.

Samele's backcourt partner, Doug Tilly, also sparked for the Shoremen as he turned in a good floor game and chipped in with 15 tallies. Jack Bergen came in 14 and Dick Brockell turned in a good job under the boards. High man Jay West Chester was Dick Munch with 26 points.

Washington held a 14-10 advantage after the opening session, having grabbed an 11-5 lead early in the period. After the Rams pulled up to a 20-20 deadlock, Athey's crew took the lead again only to have West Chester cage three quick scores for a 38-28 stalemate at the half.

The Rams got hot early in the third quarter and threatened to turn the game into a runaway, as they grabbed a 52-44 lead. However, Bergen and Samele clicked and Tilly evened the two points that knotted the count at 54-54. From that time on the score was a back-and-forth affair, until Samele netted a one-handed lay up for his team a 64-63 third period edge.

After three deadballs at 64, 66 and 68, the Shoremen fell behind by 72-68 with about four minutes to go. Samele caged two sets and Tilly a one hand pass for another tie at 74 all. After Samele's pair of one-pointers made it 76 all, the Rams' Shelly offset him with a jump shot and West Chester led at the finish.

Washington pulled up to an 84-86 deficit with only a few seconds remaining as Bob Appley pumped in a short one hander, but the Atheymen missed four fouls near the finish and West Chester had enough to lead.

Court Loop Will Begin In February

At the beginning of the second semester the Washington College intramural basketball league will open play. With 12 teams entered, there will be spirited action in quest of the championship which Theta Chi won last year. Two games will be played each session starting at 3:45 in the afternoon and 8:15 in the evening. The games will last 40 minutes, and the first six teams in the standings will qualify for the elimination play-off. Anyone interested in refereeing the games, please see Clete Cannone in G. Hall. It is requested that each team bring a representative to act as scorer.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Congratulations are in order for Brothers Brown, Winterling, Kaufman, Boura, Skipp and Vinyard on their election to office.

To Brothers, Treuth and Whittitt, who will soon be among our growing alumni, we say "good luck" and wish them every success in the future.

We hear from our alumni that Brother Rouse is studying at American University, and would appreciate correspondence from his many friends on campus; also that Brother McCullough is now a member of the U. S. Air Force, stationed in New York. Brother Syd Bare is living in Chicago, while Brother Rowe is the proud father of a daughter. At present, he is living in Aiken, South Carolina.

Question of the week—But who is "tweety"? Who knows? You might try looking in the "Bird cage". (That's the third floor of the house).

To all the Brothers we wish good luck, and so long until second semester.

Graduate Record

Examination

Seniors who plan to enter graduate school, and particularly those who desire to be considered for fellowships, are advised to take the Graduate Record Examination during the year. Two dates remain in the present school year—January 20-31 and April 17-18. If possible, the examination should be taken in January. Candidates for the January examination must make form application no later than January 16. If in doubt, see Dean Livingston.

Mid-Winter Reunion Dance Tonight

Lyn White Reigns As Queen Of Dance

On February 13, during the intermission of the dance held at the Armory, Lyn White will be crowned Homecoming Queen. Last year's queen, Eleanor Gustafson, will present the crown to President Gibson who will crown Lyn as queen. She will be attended by Mary Lee Lincoln and Jo Bland, two Juniors, and a Freshman, Robby Anderson.

Lyn was treasurer of AOP in her sophomore year, vice-president last year, and is now president of the society. She is also a member of the College Choir and Mr. Vernon Literary Society.

Mary Lee Lincoln is treasurer of AOP, vice-president of the College Choir, and is a member of Mr. Vernon Literary Society, the Washington Poets, and the Orchestra.

Jo Bland is treasurer of ZTA, treasurer of the Canterbury Club, was president of the GAA last year, and was its vice-president.

The Freshman attendant, Robby Anderson, is an AOP player, and a member of the Players and the Glee Club.

LYN WHITE

Due to the lack of time a primary election was held this year. The sophomores, students voted for their choice of Homecoming Queen and the two runners-up automatically became attendants. The freshmen were limited and voted for Freshman attendant.

The results were announced by the Players and the Glee Club. The results were announced by the Players and the Glee Club.

Homecoming Attendants

Attendants to the homecoming queen are Junior's Mary Lee Lincoln and Jo Bland and Freshman Robby Anderson.

Slight Decrease In Overall Indexes

For the first semester of the academic year 1952-53 there was a slight decline in the overall indexes for the school as compared to the corresponding period of 1951-52. In the class averages the seniors led with 1.633. Last year the figure was 1.784. The juniors were second with an average of 1.360 as compared with 1.365 last year. The sophomores made 1.130. In 1951-52 the second year students had a 1.227. The freshmen had a 917. The corresponding figure for the preceding year was 954.

Among the fraternities and societies A O P led the school with a 1.808 average. The Zeta was second with 1.762. The Phi Sig, who led the fraternities, were third with 1.741. The Alpha Chi had 1.568. The K A's 1.439, the Theta Chi's 1.347 and the Lambda Chi's 1.227. The overall average for societies was 1.704 and for the fraternities 1.384.

The women students maintained a 1.186, while the men had a 1.083. The overall college index was 1.191.

Nine freshmen who received 230 were given Honorable mention and listed as Meritorious. The twenty-six students who achieved an average of 2.25 or better were listed as Distinguished in Scholarship. Of these, twelve were seniors; six juniors; five sophomores; and three freshmen.

Statistics show that for the second semester there are 336 students at Washington College. This takes into consideration the seventeen new students, the nine who were dropped and the eleven who graduated.

S. O. S.

Lee Bloom, '51, now in Holland, has contacted the college and asked for help for the flood sufferers of Holland. Radio commentators have asked for cash donations rather than clothing.

The need is pressing and your help is needed. Over 1000 people are dead and thousands are homeless and without clothing. Here is your chance to help in a worthwhile cause.

Contributions of blankets and clothing have been pouring in since disaster, hence we are urging your donation of money only. Students who wish to contribute cash can leave their contributions with Miss Elliott in the Book Store.

John Grim Heads Student Government

Petitions for student government officers were submitted to Dr. Clark's office, Feb. 6. Since there was only one nomination for each office, no primary election was held. A general election was held yesterday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the snack bar, as supervised by the construction.

Officers elected for the interim period of January and March are: John Senn, Pres.; Pat Neighbor, Vice Pres.; Joe Greck, Sec.; and Barbara A. Jones, Treas.

Nomination, primary election and ball elections for class representatives will be held next week. Each class will elect two (2) representatives. There plus the four officers, and one faculty advisor, will comprise the student council.

Scholarship Exams Set

Examinations for candidates for appointment to senatorial scholarship vacancies will be given on Saturday, March 28, in Baltimore City and in the various counties under the supervision of the Board of Education.

Candidates who wish to take the examination should notify the Superintendent of Schools in the county from which they come, or may give notice to the Dean's office that they wish to take the examination with the Kent County group. Results will be sent to the respective counties from which the candidates come.

In any event, all candidates should give advance notice that they plan to take the examination either in their own county or district, or with the Kent County group.

Atlantic Unionist To Speak

On Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m., the Forensic Society will present Mr. John Rolison, an official of Federal Union, Inc., who will speak on the topic: "Atlantic Union—A Practical Way to Peace." After the talk, which will be presented in William Smith Auditorium, Mr. Rolison will attempt to answer any questions the members of the audience may have.

The Forensic Society cordially invites all members of the faculty and student body to attend the program on Feb. 18. It also will welcome any persons who enjoy "bull sessions" on current problems as new members, and would like to try such persons to attend the next regular meeting. A schedule of the meetings and other activities of the semester is posted in the Snack Bar. Other forums of the semester will include: a talk on the solution of American health problems by a noted Maryland physician; a talk on the dangers facing our civil liberties by a leading citizen in that field; and a symposium on the merits, demerits and future of our economic system.

A cold breath of pre-spring, the tradition of Valentine's Day, a "new" dormitory, returning alumni—all will usher in the mid-winter reunion week-end here at Washington College on February 14, 1953.

A gala week-end has been planned with the regular homecoming dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club, at the Armory from 9 to 1. The newly elected queen, Mrs. Lyn White, will hold court with her attendants, Josephine Bland, Mary Lee Lincoln, and Barbara Anderson, at the introduction of the dance. Miss Eleanor Gustafson, the homecoming queen of 1952, will be present to take part in the crowning of this year's choice.

The decorations for the dance will include a multi-colored basketball ball, a pole with red and white crepe paper strips festooning the balcony. A giant red heart will set off the band which will be located in the usual position at one side of the gym. In keeping with the Valentine theme, smaller hearts will adorn the tables.

Those alumni who prefer to meet with old classmates and acquaintances, the members of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club will sponsor a dance held at the same time as the affair at the Armory.

Preceding the two dances will be a basketball game between Loyola Greyschools and the W.C. Flying Pentagon. The game will take place in the Chestertown High School at 7:30.

Between four and seven the fraternities will hold open house, featuring their various outside decorations. The Theta Chi's plan is a take-off from the basketball game highlighted by a Greyschool defeated by a W.C. player. Scenes for the Ole'loo-no-lee Swamp are seen in front of the Lambda Chi house with Pope as the main attraction surrounded by his friends the alligator, the porcupine and the bound dog George Washington.

Plans call for Theta Chi's to entertain its alumni at the Ranch with a buffet supper starting at 4:30. Lambda Chi is serving dinner at 5:30 at the Rock Hall Yacht and Country Club, but alumni are welcome from 5 p.m. on. Kappa Alpha will hold a chicken buffet at 5:30 at the Kent Circle in the home of Mrs. Smith. There will be a small, informal party at the Phi Sigma Kappa home for their returning alumni starting at intermission time of the dance.

Advance purchase of tickets is $1.25 per person while it is $1.75 per person if purchased at the door.

WC's First Theatre In Round Rated Successful Venture

The Mount Vernon Literary Society deserves nothing but praise for its production of Oscar Wilde's comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest." The play, particularly delightful when performed. Seeing it, one is struck even more forcibly by the deft construction of the scenes and the precision of the dialogue. The comedy revolves on two people, the first, the direct relationship of the situation, shows a series of amusing crises culminate in the sheer farce of the last scene where Jack's own black scotch is replaced by two comically respectable parents; and the second, the witty dialogue, nearly every line of which contains a lively, statement spoken with great conviction or a serious and often profound one delivered with complete flippancy.

The performance is the sound, directed with intelligence and sensitivity by J. Aldo Gato, proved a successful medium for Wilde's comedy. When the actors moved, they moved with purpose, and when they paused, their grouping showed a nice sense of balance. Although the play was originally set in the late nineteenth century, the modern costume was appropriate, except that it showed a great deal of nostalgia for the English society which has completely vanished since the last world war. The greatest disconcerting encounter was the poor accents of the youngsters. That, plus a tendency on the part of the cast to swallow their syllables in an attempt to reproduce a British accent, resulted in the loss of some magnificent dialogue.

Cagers Eye 2nd Straight Win Tonight

In The PRESSBOX

(By John Hughes)

SHOREMEN RUN WITH GREYHOUNDS

Ghestertown High's gym will be filled to capacity tonight, as a large homecoming crowd will watch the Sho'men take on Loyola of Baltimore in a Mason-Dixon Conference tilt.

Although Loyola, number one in the M-D Conference with an 8-0 record, won easily in an earlier meeting this year, a victory for the Sho'men would give them a good chance for a play-off berth. Washington, with a 6-8 conference record, is fighting it out with Hampden-Sydney, Johns Hopkins and Baltimore U.

There can be no doubt in anyone's mind that the Greyhounds won't put a fine ball club on the floor. In a recent meeting with La Salle, one of the nation's top quintets, Loyola was able to maintain a lead into the second quarter, until La Salle's All American, Tom Gola, broke loose and went on to score 29 points.

The probable starting line-up for Loyola will be: Jerry Chadwick at center, Joel Hittleman and Nap Doherty at guards, and Tony Pistorio and Ed Kowalewski at forwards. Hittleman, who is one of the conference scoring leaders, is regarded by many coaches as the top player in the Mason-Dixon Conference. Nap Doherty is one of the main reasons why we were defeated by Loyola, while Pistorio and Kowalewski were responsible for keeping Samele and Bergen from hitting double figures. Chadwick, a fine rebounder, stands out the roster.

Two Sho'men go into tonight's game with very impressive scoring records. Danny Samele with 216 and Jack Bergen with 212 are one-two in points scored in the conference. Samele's average of 18 places him third in the point-per-game department while Bergen's 17.7 is a good fourth.

With these two experienced players, and the return of Bob Appleby and Doug Tilley to the squad, the Aethyemans should make a real fight out of the game. (Both were out with flu).

Mention should be made of the fine play of George Hesse and Ronnie Sisk in the past few games. Neither one of these boys scored much in the beginning of the season, but both are coming through when most needed, and have given the team added scoring punch.

Freshmen Prospects

After sitting out a period of ineligibility, John "Junior" Eversole has returned to the hardwood sport and is currently battling for a forward berth.

Junior, who hails from Cumberland, Maryland, comes to Washington College with the reputation of a high scoring forward, but since his arrival here, he has been impressive with his all-around floor play. Standing 5'9" feet and weighing 170 pounds, John is one of the finest conditioned athletes on the varsity squad. He possesses a fine one hand set shot, and is quite a ball hawk.

While at Allegany High School, John was a three letter man. He was the battery man of Ronnie Sisk on the basketball diamond, and as an end, he aided Allegheny's football team in being recognized as a prominent football power in the state. In addition to these sports, he played football three years and played basketball three years and picked up basketball football for two. He considered his favorite.

At Washington College, John hasn't yet decided what to major in, although he finds biology his best subject. His Jerry Lewis appearance and skills make him one of the funniest and most popular freshmen on the campus.

Clarkmen Commence Practice Feb. 16

Coach Charles B. Clark is beginning lacrosse practice sessions on Monday, February 16, at 3:30 p.m. All those who are interested will have report at this time. Twelve boys are listed on the spring slate, including such strong contenders as Jerry, Mt. Washington, and Swarthmore.

Beat Loyola!

Thinclads Join B.O.C.

Last Saturday afternoon, Washington College's fine track aspirants, who have been participating in several indoor track and field meets, journeyed to Baltimore to participate in the South Atlantic A.A.U. Championships, which were held at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

This time, however, the Shoremen were tied in the red and white of the Baltimore Olympic Club, which took second place behind Morgan State College team.

Outstanding among the Sho'entricks was George Eichelberger, 2 minutes, 6 seconds half mile when he ran as a member of a B.O.C. two mile relay team. Lew Buckley, also running on a two mile team, turned in a creditable time along with freshman Terry Johnson.

Stu Young, transfer from Salisbury State, barely missed a bull to the finals of the 70 yard dash, as did Ed Lloyd in the 60 yard high hurdles. The latter also high jumped 5'8", but could not match the 6'2" mark set by two Maryland U. graduates, who were also B.O.C. entries.

Mickey Hubbard, track star and graduate of '50, ran a fine quarter mile on the Baltimore Club's one mile relay team which was edged out by a fast stepping Morgan quartet.

JUMPING JACK—Jack Bergen displays shot which is responsible for his 18 point average in Conference play. He has two years of eligibility remaining.

Jays Down Sho'men

Washington College lost its fifth Mason-Dixon Conference game in a nip-and-tuck contest with Johns Hopkins on February 5th.

The win was Hopkins' third consecutive one and although the score was 61-63, it was anybody's game until the Shoremen fell apart in the final minutes of play. The visitors scored 12 of their 18 points of the first quarter in the final four minutes of play. Washington could count on only six markers in this period and the Bluejays pulled away with plenty to spare.

The Shoremen led 50-45 at the end of the first half as Danny Samele, Ronnie Sisk and Jack Bergen accounted for 45 of these 50 points. Hopkins switched to a zone defense in the second half and controlled most of the rebounds as Lowell Wilson and Al Birch led the scoring, which caught Washington at 63-63, when the third period ended. Bob Lillen scored eight points in the final quarter as Washington ran out of steam and could not check Hopkins' fast break. The Jays held a five point lead by the time the clock hit the 4 minute mark and from there it was their show.

Samele was high scorer with 24 points and Bergen and Sisk were runners-up with 15 and 15 respectively.

Tigers Romp

Jerry Adams, Maryland Conference scoring leader, netted 34 points to lead Hampden-Sydney to a 79 - 51 victory over Washington College.

After a slow start half, the Tigers found the key to Washington's zone defense and scored 31 points in the second half as center Frank Hoffmann and Adams paced the attack.

The Shoremen, headed by Jack Bergen and Danny Samele, grabbed a 17-12 first quarter lead. However, the visitors caught up midway in the second period and forged ahead 28-26 at halftime.

The lead changed hands four times in the third quarter until Adams, Hoffmann and Ben Vencio rallied the Tigers to a nine point lead as the quarter ended.

Although Washington switched from its zone to a man-to-man defense in the final stanza, the visitors rebounded a victory path and outscored the home team, 28-19.

Saints Edge J.V.

Washington College's junior varsity cagers dropped a 69-51 decision to St. Mary's of Annapolis on Feb. 5 at the visitors' gym.

A star studded St. Mary team was slow in moving into the lead, but managed to gain a 34-25 halftime advantage.

Pip Meyer, ex-Maryland U. freshman guard, and Joe Daff, former West Virginia University ace, led the scoring with 19 and 11 points respectively, as the Saints never relinquished the lead after halftime.

Mickey DiMaggio donned 10 markers through the hoops, excelling in drive-in shots, and Mule Jennings totaled 9 points, especially adept on jump shots, to lead the Sho' cagers.

Coach Neeshy's courtmen pulled to within 7 points of the home team in the fourth quarter, but Duff's 9 point surge in this period spoiled the Marion rally.

Despite the steady rebounding of Roy MacDonald and Jim Hallett, the Neeshitmen could not match their earlier opponents.

Don Combs, who led Baltimore U. in the rebounding department last season, was consistent on both boards for the winners.

The Jays dropped an exciting court encounter in the last 10 seconds of play Wednesday night to the Baltimore Naval Prep School, 68-67.

The Junies now have a 4 and 3 over all record for the season.

Track Sessions

To Begin Monday

Track coach Howard C. Neeshy has announced that all students interested in track and field will please report to the gym on Monday, Feb. 16, at 3 p.m.

The first meet will be held in early April, therefore, it is necessary to begin religious practice sessions immediately. The breaking of training rules will not be tolerated.

Coach Neeshy is hopeful of regaining the Mason-Dixon track championship this season, a title which Washington College won in '49 and '50, posted them to the front as the last team won the gold medal.

The Shoremen participated in a meet which was graced by 7 Olympic stars, and where six armory records were rewritten. The Sho' thinclads run again on the 21st of February at the U. S. Naval Academy, this time under the Baltimore Olympic Club banner.

Towson Quint Wins

Jack Downs dropped in the winning field goal with only five seconds remaining as Towson State Teachers won Washington College on the winner's court, 67 to 65, last Tuesday night.

It was the Sho'men's sixth straight loss, their last win having come at the hands of the "Teachers" on January 29. Paced by Samele and Bergen, who tallied 29 points between them, the Sho'men were ahead throughout the contest until the last minute of play. Frank Laster put Towson ahead 65 to 65 on a driving layup. Sisk, Washington forward, tied it up again with a set shot. Then came Owens' basket—a one-hander from outside the four circle—to give the Teachers their second straight victory.

At one time during the fourth period of Washington led by seven points, but the hustling Towsonites were not to be denied. Downs' sharp shooting earned him 22 points for the evening which gave him scoring honors.

Relay Team Places

Third In Meet

Running in the Mason-Dixon one mile relay relay, Washington College placed third and won in the model swimming relay, in the 175th Regiment S.A.A. track and field meet last Wednesday night at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

The relay foursome of George Eichelberger, Lew Buckley, Ellis Boyd, and Stu Young, had held the lead until the final two laps of the half mile leg, when Keather Wilson of Towson State and Larry Schmidt of Catholic U. began their kick which

New Dietitian Proposes Changes

The student body is very happy to welcome Mrs. Miller on campus, as our new dietitian. Originally from Wilmington, Delaware, she was in charge of the "White Ship" near Beach Haven, and the "High Tea Room" in the Delaware Trust Building. While residing in Delaware, Mr. Miller participated as a social worker, a charter member of the Art League, and appeared in several theatre groups.

She received her education at George School in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, where she studied painting and acquired her training as a dietitian.

At present Mrs. Miller is serving as a member in West Hall and is very pleased with her new home here. Her first major job in the community is to develop a member of the Chester Phoenix. Her future plans, with the help of both Mrs. Coleman and assistant dietitian, Mrs. Wheeler, are to try to make Heddon Hall a most pleasant dinner room for the student body.

Included in her many ideas are meeting acquainted with the students and hearing new complaints or comments to make the dining room more friendly and cheerful with suitable flowers, permanent seating arrangements, and more other new additions.

We all wish Mrs. Miller the best of luck in her managing of Heddon Hall.

Players Assembly

The Washington Players will present "Four Acts On Theatre" as their annual assembly program, on Thursday, Feb. 19, at 8:30 p.m. in William Smith Auditorium. The performance will be somewhat varied after that of the "One Jinx in Hell" reading group, that is presently touring the country so successfully, plus the revision of special vocal and lighting effects in "The Players."

The cast for this production consists of: Sam Weber, Bill Clark and Bob Pickett, and is directed by E. A. Collett, with A. J. Carr as assistant director.

The play will present readings of "The Creation of Sam Miller," by Robert Service; "The Filings of the King," by Earle Remington; and a selection from "Cassius of Begonia," by Edmund Ryland.

File Selective Service Test Application

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1935 should file applications at once for the April 23 administration. Selective Service National Headquarters advised today.

An application and a booklet of information may be obtained at any Selective Service local board. Following instructions in the booklet, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 9, 1935. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Recruits will be recruited in the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

Theatre - in - the - Round Stages Hit On Campus

Wednesday and Thursday evening, February 11 and 12, at 8:30 p.m. the Mount Vernon Literary Society of Washington College presented one of Oesch Wills', "magnum opus," "The Immortals of Berlin, Berlin!" It was shown in the Cain Gymnasium on the campus.

This production was not in the conventional style of the modern stage, but in the ancient and recently revived "Theatre in the Round". The writers chose to present this play as an experiment in arena theatre. With this type of a stage, the audience can not see one side of the action but on four sides, giving a closeness and intimacy never felt in an ordinary production. There was no curtain and the placement of seats took place by the dimming of lights. Scenery was also absent but props, such as furniture, were used.

The "arena" was the type of theatre used by the ancient Greeks and Romans and it grows to new popularity has only taken place in the last ten years. This is the first time the "arena" has been presented on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Washington College, as well as all of Chestertown was pleased with the successful performance that the Mt. Vernon Literary members staged.

logue. The acting, although by no means perfect, was generally good. An outstanding performance was that of John McCallie, as Jack, but last night the situation was reversed. Jim McCallie, as Jack, was extremely good in some scenes, but his characterization seemed slightly misplaced, as he ranged from the likable to the slightly stuffy, when he might better have gone from the slightly stuffy to the decidedly pompous. John Park, whose expression and gesture were superb, gave a more incisive performance. Goodwin and Cordy were less delightfully acted than their counterparts, although both, Ken Booth, Lashen and Mary Lee Lincoln turned in good performances, one wished for a more likable quality in Goodwin and for more ruggedness and less keen acting in Cordy. Sue Stalling, who was excellent as Lashen's mother, made up for imperfections of manner what she lacked in a commanding appearance. If only she had looked less fashionable and more instead of a haggard "mum" suit. Pete Burkhart, with his easily manner and twirling handle, was a perfect Canon Chesapeake, while Barbara Deane, although she overacted at times, was an effective Mrs. Pym. Ann Bill Lewis and Don Marvotto as Merriam and Lane, announced elegantly and had about as much to do with the play.

Everyone connected with the play deserves our gratitude for a delightful production. But the highest praise for the evening belongs to Oscar Wilde.

CANCER'S 7 DANGER SIGNALS

1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. Lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Any change in a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

None of these symptoms necessarily means that you have cancer, but any one of them should send you to your doctor. Cancer is usually curable when detected and treated early. Remember the danger signals. Cancer strikes you in five. Strike back. Give to the American Cancer Society.

Players To Present "The Silver Cord"

Next Thursday and Friday, March 5 and 6, at 8:30, the curtain will go up on the Washington Players' annual mid-winter production, "The Silver Cord," by Sidney Howard. The Players have attempted to vary their program throughout the season by presenting "Ten Little Indians," a mystery, in the fall; "The Silver Cord," a modern drama, now; and the traditional comedy later in the spring.

In this, their second production of the year, the Players have chosen a veritable in the field of psychological drama. Richard Cordell, of Purdue University, rates "The Silver Cord" (a drama of oppressive mother-love) as a masterpiece; one of the finest American plays. "Structurally, the play is flawless; the exposition is natural, the tempo is swift, the sense of horror grows throughout the play to the final curtain."

Critics Acclaim Howard
Critics have acclaimed Sidney Howard as one of the most versatile and expert craftsmen of our American stage who gave to the theatre drama, symbolism and intellectual response through keen characterization. He wrote the Pulitzer Prize with "They Knew What They Wanted."

The cast of six revolves around Mrs. Phelps, portrayed by Joanne Conick, who is a dominant mother of two sons, and manages to recapture herself to the becoming young men and leaving her. Her attempts to hold them thicken the plot of the play. David, the older son, is played by Don Stevens. David is the stronger of the two boys, has a mind of his own, and has freed himself from her to some extent. However, Robert, played by Ken Murray, is a rather weak-willed person, something of a playboy, lured to choose between his mother and fiance, Hester, played by B. C. Jones. Hester is a fragile, slightly girl who, however, Mrs. Phelps' schemes nor stand up under them. She is aided by Christina, David's scientist wife, played by Pat Neighlon. Christina is calm and level-headed, trying to right situations sensibly but determined not to lose David. The part of the maid is played by Lynn Dumas.

The cast, though relatively inexperienced, have worked hard and cooperated well under the capable direction of Jane Lowe and Jack Daniel. This production promises to uphold the Players' high standards.

Tickets are now on sale and can be obtained from any member of the Players, bought in the Snack Bar, or at the door. All seats will be $3.00 each.

Religious Day On Campus

On March 10, 1953, all classes will be suspended for the day in conjunction with a Religious Emphasis Day Program. This is the first time anything of this kind has been presented on the W.C. campus. The religious organizations, namely, The Canterbury Club, The Wesley Foundation, and The Newman Club, are working together to insure the success of such an endeavor.

The Keynote Speaker at the banquet in the evening will be Reverend Walter T. Couch, a Pastor Father, who is chaplain of the Newman Club at Johns Hopkins University. The topic for the day will be "Religion, the Student, and World Peace."

The Snack Bar will be closed until 11:00 a.m., and the Library until 7:00 p.m. on that day. Attendance will be required at the Mass Meeting at 11:00 a.m., and at the movie at 2:00 p.m.

The following is the program for the day. The first one, Communion Service and Breakfast, will take place within each respective religious group. Any change in the schedule will be posted prior to March 10.

1. Communion Service, Breakfast—8:00 - 10:30 a.m.
2. Mass Meeting—11:00 a.m. (Smith Hall)
3. Lunch—12:15 and 12:45 p.m.
4. Movie—"One Cold"—2:00 p.m.
5. Tea—3:30 p.m.
6. Banquet and speaker—5:30 p.m. (Hobson Hall)

O.D.K. Taps Two Juniors, One Senior

In recognition of outstanding achievement in leadership on the Washington College campus, Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, tapped three men into membership during a ceremony held Thursday. The new members are John Minnich and Bob Appleby, juniors, and Cy Rollins, a senior.

Presiding over the tapping exercises was president of the local circle, Bruce McKie.

All three men have made outstanding records in their years at Washington College. Cy Rollins, presently serves as President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and Vice-President at Theta Chi. He is also a Biology lab assistant. He has held the post of Secretary of his fraternity, vice-president of the science club and the senior class, was a member of the Elm staff and was editor of the Washington College Handbook.

John Minnich is a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, local scholastic honorary fraternity and received the Fox Freshman Scholarship Medal awarded to the student who attains the highest academic average during the freshman year. He was treasurer of Lambda Chi Alpha and now serves as vice-president of that fraternity. He was also president of the sophomore class and has won his varsity letter in baseball.

Bob Appleby at present holds the office of secretary of Theta Chi fraternity and is president of the junior class. He also serves as Business Manager of the Pegasus. A member of the Varsity Club, he has won letters in track and cross-country, basketball and soccer.

Here are now six student members of Omicron Delta Kappa: Bruce McKie, Charles Whist and John Grim, all seniors and the three new initiates, Conch Ed Athley serves as advisor to the group and Dr. Charles B. Clark is secretary-treasurer.

Faculty members of the honorary fraternity include Dr. Gibson, Conch Kibler, Mr. Dunsinger, Dr. Ford, Dean Livingston, Dr. McLain and Dr. Howell.

Choir Plans Concert Tour

On March 5th the College Choir under the direction of Dr. Frank Erk, will travel to Salisbury for two concerts. The first will be given at an assembly program at a William High School, Salisbury, Maryland. At 6 o'clock the Rotary Club of Salisbury will serve dinner to the choir. Following this they will present their second concert.

Also such visiting will be the second trip of the choir when they will appear before the students of Eastern and Cambridge High Schools.

FINAL NOTICE

selective Service Qualification Test
All eligible male students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test should file application at once for the April 25th administration of the test. Applications must be marked no later than midnight, March 5th. If in doubt, see Dean Livingston.

Fraternities Give 78 Bids To Frosh

Tuesday, February 24, was the long awaited day for fraternity men and freshmen on the Washington College campus. Under the direction of Dr. Clark, assisted by the Inter-Fraternity Council, 78 bids were given to freshmen who had obtained an index of .75 or better the first semester. Thirty-six bids were accepted, and the boys were pledged Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Fund Drive Hits $200,000

The current fund raising campaign at Washington College has nearly reached the $200,000 mark. This campaign was started last August and his already renovated West Hall into a modern and luxurious dormitory. The major portion of this money has come from Kent County and the Baltimore Metropolitan area, both of which have been extensively covered. Similar programs, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Richmond, are well under way in Cecil County, Queen Anne's County, Dorchester County, Washington, Wilmington, Philadelphia, and New York.

The money raised will be used for new dormitories, dormitories. The alumni chapters, from which most of this money must come, are being organized under the able direction of Spence Robinson. Plans are underway for a gala reunion at Washington College of all Alumni on May 29-31.

SCHOLARSHIP

The Pan-Hellenic Council wishes to announce that a book scholarship of $50 is available to a freshman woman.

Anyone wishing to compete for this scholarship should submit to the Pan-Hellenic Council a 150 word essay, stating their necessity for such a scholarship by April 1.

Proctor & Gamble Offer Job Opportunity Test

Through the courtesy of Proctor and Gamble it is possible to print the following "Self Analysis". Any student who is looking forward to any type of work, whether in the business field, industry, or the professions should give consideration to the questions which are raised in the following:

Quoting from Proctor and Gamble's "Opportunities for a Career"—To assist you in your self-analysis, a useful self-analysis has been prepared, covering some of the more important abilities and characteristics which are essential for success in sales work. The items involved in these questions repeat by no means a complete audit of what is necessary for success. It is felt, however, that the items are of the type on which you can rate yourself if you adopt a frank and honest attitude. Although you are asked to use a rating scale for each item, there is no total score. There is no previous grade. You are the judge of how you feel upon the completion of the form. Simply ask yourself: "How did I stack up on these important points?"

1. Do I make a good personal appearance, and a good first impression?
2. Do I express myself fluently and effectively?
3. Do I talk with enthusiasm and interest, and does my manner of speaking reflect sincerity and confidence?
4. Do I meet people naturally and without embarrassment? Am I at ease socially? Do I join in conversations easily?

5. Do I cooperate in that I am loyal and willing to carry out orders and suggestions as well as to give them?
6. Do I consider myself fair-minded, and does my manner reflect honesty and integrity?
7. Do I have organizing ability? Do I manage my personal affairs efficiently?
8. Do I have self-confidence without being overbearing?
9. Do I have a willingness to work hard? Do I give undividedly of my time and effort to complete a project once it is started?
10. Do I have self-discipline in that I control my smoking and leisure habits without supervision?
11. Am I eager to learn and willing to accept suggestions?
12. Do I use initiative in solving problems and in making decisions and yet quick in decisions?
13. Do I act aggressively? Am I a "self-starter", and do I enjoy getting results?
14. Do I have persistence in that I will try again in case at first I fail? Do I have the courage or series of defeats will not deter me from my purpose?
15. Can I make a clear explanation of a task or objective? Can I make corrections and suggestions in an encouraging manner. Can I analyze and inspire action.
16. DO I WANT A CAREER RATHER THAN A JOB?

Charles Sellers Speaks On 'The Peale Washingtons'

The annual Washington's Birthday Convocation was held on Monday, February 23, at 1:30 in the auditorium of William Smith Hall in commemoration of the two hundred and twenty-first birthday of George Washington.

After the Reverend Paul G. Langer, of Trinity Lutheran Church in Chestertown, pronounced the invocation and read the scripture, Dr. Daniel Z. Labaree gave a brief speech on the early days of Washington College and then introduced Mr. Charles Coleman Sellers, who spoke on "The Peale Washingtons."

Mr. Sellers received his Bachelor's Degree from Harvard College and his Masters from Harvard. At the present time he is curator of the Rare Book and Manuscript Collection at the Dickinson College Library in Carlisle, Penna.

In his address, Mr. Sellers, including them.

information concerning the ancestral background of Charles Wilson Peale, his childhood and youth, the challenge of his life, and his relationship to Washington College. Mr. Sellers went on to point out Peale's many associations with George Washington—both during the years of the Revolutionary War and those following when Washington was putting forth his energies to set up the new republic. He discussed also the contemporary activity of Peale's period, and finally, the other members of the Peale family who followed Charles Wilson Peale and had an interest in George Washington and a chance to point him.

Mr. Sellers is the foremost authority on Charles Wilson Peale, of whom he is a direct descendant. He had had an interest in other early Americans, and has written several books concern-

"GEORGE PORGIE"

It has been brought to my attention by more than a few of the student body, who were rather upset and disappointed, that the tenth oldest college in the United States did not observe a holiday on February 22, in honor of the man for whom the institution was named—George Washington!

"Yes, we had Sunday off, but not Monday, because we always get Sunday off," the disturbed little coed ratted on.

"Did I ever tell you of George Washington's visit to our obscure college on the Eastern Shore?" questioned I.

"He started from the shore of the Poor Man's Country Club in a half-mast boat which was borrowed from the inhabitants of the Okie-FOO-Nokie swamp. With a West wind and the salt spray of the Chester River alighting on his brow, George renewed his historic crossing of the Delaware."

"Now everyone here knows that this institution is famous for having had George W. as an overnight guest here in 17— and that this greatly influenced the administration to name the college in his behalf. As a matter of fact, he slept in room 44 in Middle Hall and from the books of it at the present, it hasn't been tidied up for two centuries for fear of disturbing that historical significance left there by George. A new generation of mice reside in that dorm, descendants of those that welcomed the "Father of our Country."

"George even ate in the old Hadson Hall building. He sent some of its soup off to the front lines where his soldiers laid starving. They sent it back! But George didn't mind, 'cause that's what he used to kill off some of the mice."

"They say that he even attended one of the very earliest convocation exercises here, bracing up on much needed sleep. Several school authorities tried to fine him for not coming to class, for in those days the rule was worse—$2 fine for undercuts! When his horse and buggy received a warning note for parking in the road behind West Hall, the poor ole man decided to leave."

"Now," says I, to that sweet little coed, "I know that colleges and universities in the East and West and North and South honor Mr. Washington by declaration of a holiday, but if we did so, we'd have to attend an extra day of school in the month of May."

"Oh!" exclaimed she, quite clated. "That takes quite a load off my mind." And as that dear little coed tramped daintily down the sacred L, I heard her articulate under her breath, "I wonder why we have classes on Thomas Jefferson's birthday?"

Senior Of The Week

Graduation will be both a sad day and a glad day in many here on campus. One of the reasons for sadness will be that Eleanor Dryden will be leaving the ivy walls of Ball Smith Hall. To many "11" has been a mainstay and a guiding light. More often than not she has been the woman behind the man in organizing and getting work done.

One of her favorite extra-curricular activities has been the Washington Players. In her sophomore year she won the Oscar for her fine portrayal of Maggie in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Not content with stardom, El worked industriously behind the scenes and has been most efficient secretary in her senior year. Last year she played Ruth in "My Sister Eileen" and this year co-directed "Ten Little Indians," the Players' fall production.

So far her other activities have been membership in the Moon Year Literary Society in her freshman year, Secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha Fraternity in her junior year, and Vice-President of Zeta Tau Alpha and of Woman's Student Government in her senior year as well as Rush Chairman for Zeta.

She has been an ardent worker in Zeta Tau Alpha and always says that the work done in her smiling and impetuous ways.

El majored in English and is planning to teach in the fall. April 3rd will be a big day in her life because that is the date of her marriage to Pvt. Ralph Shillingburg of the U. S. Army, formerly of R.A. pledge here.

Now It Can Be Told

The Theta Chi's have had a problem of world shaking importance resting on their shoulders for the past few weeks. It was not a political problem, not an economic problem, not a social problem—it might be considered a legal problem in that it involved a decision between what is right and what is wrong.

Sermon grew in the O X House until the brothers found themselves split into two definite factions—the pro's and the con's. The object of all this controversy was one very thing, very playful, and very silly at the same time. Now, there would have been no trouble if Kitty had been a good girl. But it was discovered that Kitty was a loose cat with no morals—Kitty was what you call "in trouble."

There was a poor pup expecting a family one into the street, scared downright inhuman to the pro's, led by Rip and Lipe. "But we can't afford to support a cat and six or eight," said the con's, led by Her. And in the midst was the "Little Green" for the first time unable to remember the "Troupe." Was Edwina, in a wild frenzy, said, "quince—this is the greatest problem I've had in face since incoming president of Theta Chi!"—unquote.

But it seems that Kitty sensed the decision, her home life was not longer a happy one, and she had that "unwanted" feeling. So Kitty migrated to the Lambda House, established herself, and the blessed event occurred.

The Lambda's contemplated putting Kitty in a box, wrapping her up pretty, and giving her to the K. K. S. as a house warming present. The plan wasn't carried out, however, and the Lambda's are still the proud papa's of Kitty and her brood. How are you fixed for cigars, fellow?

A WISE man is he who has sense enough to call his boy with the woman friend, for he has money enough to build a house on it.

The Perfect Schedule

The problem of arranging a schedule that will be both convenient and beneficial is one of great importance. After thought and planning should go into the perfect schedule, remembering always that we are in college to prepare ourselves to become well-rounded adults. A diversified selection of courses is best to keep our young, energetic minds from growing stale. The perfect schedule has been approved by a panel of fifteen in Reid Hall and is now before the administration for their endorsement. If all goes well, interested students will be able to take three courses in the fall semester of '53.

We, of course, are not taking any 8-1/2's. Several good courses are offered but no college student in his right mind could be induced to take an 8-1/2, 9-1/2 every day is reserved for Snork Bar 101, where we eat breakfast and say good morning to our friends.

On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the rest of the schedule runs something like this:

10-15—Bartending 215
11-15—Brillie 147 (Pitch for Theta Chi)

12-15—Lunch and Socializing
1-50—Sunbathing 315
2-30—Golf 411

3-50—Sark 210 ("Butterfly catches" for the iron men)

Tuesday and Thursday schedule is slightly easier and more relaxing

10-15—Angles 105
11-15—Birds and Bess 517
12-15—Lunch and Socializing
1-50—Tennis 205
2-50—Lunch 507

3-50—Sunbathing Races 102
4-50—Lunch and Socializing
5-50—Classes could not be avoided. Starting at 1:30 straight through to 4:50 we have Categories 101, 102, 105 and 104.

Incidentally, no term papers, book reports, outside reading, test books, or other paper are required for these courses.

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Night Watchman

Judging from the appearance of everybody last Monday morning, it looks as if W.C. had a good homecoming.

Congratulations to Homecoming Queen Lynn White and her attendants Mary Lee Linton, Jo Budd, and Bobbie Anderson.

Congratulations are also in order to the Lambda Chi's for winning home decorations.

It has been rumored that Ray Anthony has signed Bob Martell to fill a vacant spot in his brass section. . . he's really fierce on that left-handed trombone.

Terry Kline has just written a "how to" book on communism in our secondary schools.

"Twenty-three Little Human Minds at Stake," can be bought for $2.50 per copy.

The Student News Dispatch has released the statement that, "Hoon Dancy" has been seen wandering around the Mary Baldwin campus.

The case of Edward Burnham vs. Dr. Gulbrandson will take place next Wednesday at the U. S. Supreme Court. Mr. Burnham will be defended by the F. D. I.

Douglas, who did you stop weight lifting? . . . , pressing 250 pounds, is amazing for one so small.

The commanding general has just released orders in the effect that all leaves will be cancelled for Somerset Company, except grounds, for further inspection.

The W.C. crew team will officially start spring training next Monday. By the looks of the races on the night of February 19th, we will be hard to beat.

Tom's birthday party is O.K. in anyone's books, but two warnings and one hangover party have got to go.

Well, it's beach party time again guys and gals, break out your Bermuda shorts, "cheeks", blankets, and, quote! Miami jags, and let's hit the beach.

Overhead on the baroque field as two fish were observing the game for the first time—"This is more exciting than watching snark rat racing!"

From the South we hear the rumor that "Hot-Rod" Lathum has given up his racing career for a freshman girl.

What would a fish three striped like his baby blue lingerie with the "Shampoo" design hanging in the corridors of Reid Hall? Why don't you use your snail, Fink?

Moonlight Ball On March 7

Phi Sigma Kappa will hold its annual Moonlight Ball in Galt Gymnasium on Saturday evening, March 7, from 8:00 - 12:00. The dancing will be to the music of Merrin Penneck and his orchestra.

Highlighting the evening will be the crowning of the local Moonlight Queen, and honoring the members of her court.

At intermission time there will be a party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Whitson, parents of brother Charles Whitson. Everyone attending the dance is cordially invited.

Permission for women to return to their respective dorms no later than 12:15 has been granted by Dean Bradley.

Question Of The Week

Question: Now that Student Government has been installed in W.C. what do you think its first step should be?

Joan Yank—First of all Student Government should organize strongly, get a good foundation from the constitution and treat any cases which may arise to prove to the student body that it is a worthwhile endeavor.

Frank Covington—Make sure all the power that ODK has, goes to Student Government. All functions should be cleared through Student Government rather than ODK.

A Divinity student name Tweedle claims to accept his name. He didn't mind the Tweedle. But he hated the Tweedle, D.D.!!

Two old maids went for a tramp in the woods. But the tramp got away!

Then there's the one about the punchy Washington College student who stayed up all night studying for a blood test.

Then there was the story about the Moran who walked the sweater girl home so he could pull the wool over her eyes!

Moore Goldborough—I think the first step should be to set up a disciplinary committee.

Spence Latham—Get a good foundation and organize efficiently. Faculty Disunion—Establish an efficient organization. Student Government should take the burden and responsibilities off of ODK.

All Shuckles—Student Government should attempt to coordinate all activities on campus, or so to avoid conflict. It should also give preference to school activities rather than to outside organizations.

Saylor Urig—Student government should unify the campus and keep it from being divided between societies and fraternities. It should be over and above societies and fraternities.

B. C. Jones—It should set up a schedule and plan social activities for week-ends.

El Dryden—Take out the cut system and give unlimited rules. It should also revise some of the rules concerning dances. Dances should be allowed to last until 1:30 and women students should be allowed out until 2:00, providing the dance lasts until 1:30.

Monie White—Student government should consider making changes in restrictions of women students.

Student Council

The first regular meeting of the Student Council this past Thursday produced several points of information which are of importance to the Student Body. The council approved Mr. Edmund Padgett as faculty advisor and also scheduled its regular meeting time for every Friday night in the top of the library.

All past requests for financial support in the Student Activities Fund are to be submitted to the chairman of the Financial Council. Those persons who wish to serve on the Jury Panel of the Judiciary Commission are asked to submit their names to Joseph Grove or John Grim. The Student Body is also reminded to give considerable thought to future candidates for council offices, since elections will be held in early April.

Also, an amendment to the Constitution will shortly be presented for student ratification. This amendment concerns a quorum of ten voting members of the council necessary for the transaction of business.

Below are the standing committees of the Student Council:

Social—Sondra Dethall
Student Complaints and Grievances—Bill Russell
Nominations and Elections—Marion Waterman, Frank Dieck
By-Laws and Amendments—Aldo Galla, Ken Bantz
Financial—John Minnich
Women's Dormitories—Pat Neigh

In The PRESSBOX

(With Palmer Hughes)

COURT FINALE

Spring sports are ushered in as the curtain falls on the 1952-53 basketball season, with the team sporting a 8-12 conference record. It leaves fruit for discussion of past performances, and of future possibilities. Losing such memorable stars as Nick Seallion, Kenny Sullivan, Jim Taylor, and a few more, this year's flying pentagon did not figure to be among the Mason-Dixon leaders. Indeed, this was to be the year of rebuilding. Starting with a nucleus of two returning regulars, Danny Samele and Jack Bergen, Coach Athey added Doug Tilley, George Hesse, and Freshmen Dick Brockell and Ronny Sisk. Of the 15 men on the squad, a total of nine were freshmen. Starting off with a winning streak of four games, Washington gave the indication of having a top flight team. After a loss to Western Maryland, the team lost its stride, and never fully regained it. It was a team which at times could be spectacular, with beautiful passing, shooting and teamwork. The only trouble was inconsistency. After a good first period the team usually ran out of gas as the opposing teams took the lead late in the second quarter or just after the half.

The season closed last night, and there will be two boys who will never again wear the Maroon and Black of Washington College. They are Danny Samele and Wes Edwards. Now the question is, how will we do next year? With the addition of Frank Phares to the lineup the team will have adequate height, which was lacking this year. With a year of experience under their belts, many of the younger players should be ready next season. Some of the Junior Varsity might be moved up to fill the gap left by graduation.

The team this year possessed the spirit and good sportsmanship that all the Sho' cagers have in the past. Their record was commendable and we wish them luck in the spring sports which many of the courtmen will participate in.

Danny Samele Passes The 1,000 Point Mark

Washington College's phenomenal star, Danny Samele of Torrington, Conn., added two more records to his list of court achievements during the team's two-day trip to New York last week.

The Shoremen engaged Hofstra and Wagner Colleges and although they lost both encounters, Samele's outstanding play was a great revelation. Although only 5'10" tall, and playing among several giants of the hardwood, Danny set an individual scoring record against the Dutchmen, racking up 27 points for the evening. He hit for 10 of 21 shots, which brings his scoring percentage close to 42%, highest on the team.

Against Wagner, the diminutive ace totaled 23 points to bring his season's mark to 484 points, a 22 per game average.

In only 3 years of varsity competition he has surpassed the 1,000 point mark. Not including the Randolph-Macon and Roanoke contests he has hit for 1025 in the record book. Samele was an All-State choice while at Torrington High School in Connecticut, and in 1918 he attended New Britain State Teachers College. He was destined to play for Washington however, and to follow in his brother's footsteps, "Pep" Samele, Danny's brother, was a former Maroon cage star and he influenced Dan to attend the Chestertown college.

Danny followed in the footsteps of Nick Seallion, who won innumerable scoring honors, and when Nick graduated, Dan was the nucleus about which the Sho' team was built.

Fans at West Chester State Teachers College will never forget Samele's 41 point output this year which broke their school record and Washington's, too. It was none other than Nick Seallion's name which was erased from the record book. Nick had set a 39 point record but Samele exceeded him by 2.

"The Rock," as Dan is often called, experienced his biggest thrill when he netted 29 points against Loyola College on Homecoming night. The Torrington lad had been held to 9 at Loyola, but he proved his scoring ability by averaging this single figure output. He ran his ace rival, Tom Portorino, into the hardwood and gave the Greyhounds something to howl about.

On Monday of last week, he was headlining the state scoring list, but many games have been played by the Maryland state teams since then. He is, however, "The Best Bet" for Mason-Dixon All-Star honors.

Netmen Practice

Although the tryouts for the tennis squad usually do not begin until sometime in March, many of the Washington courtmen are sharpening up their game in preparation for the coming campaign.

The first match is scheduled April 2 with Baltimore University, and is followed by encounters with Catholic University, Johns Hopkins, Towson, Mt. St. Mary's, Randolph-Macon, Western Maryland and Wilson Teachers.

Some of the early aspirants who will be eyeing spots on Coach Elman's team are: Les Bell, Don Mayroff, Stan Kaufman, Gary Ward, Bruce McHatten, George Hanst and Bill Winterling. Net-minded veterans include Jerry Lambdin, Tony Tonian, and Billy Murray. Captain Murray has announced that officially, practice does not commence until March 1, but anyone interested will be welcomed on the practice courts at the present in preparation for the varsity tryouts.

Virginians Pre-Game Favorites

Coach Ed Athey's flying pentagon defeated Randolph-Macon College, 79-67 in a Mason-Dixon Conference game last Tuesday night at the lesser gym.

Paced by their dependable on-court scoring punch—Danny Samele and Jack Bergen, who netted 22 and 21 points respectively, Washington upset the confident Southerners and lightened the conference standings.

Samele led a third quarter surge by the victors when he dunked 11 points through the hoop in five minutes of play. This broke the game wide open, after it had been tied 32-32 at halftime. This third quarter rally put the visitors ahead by their widest margin in the contest—16 points.

The Jackets were able to winnie only 4 points from this lead before the final buzzer sounded.

The lead changed hands five times during the first half, until Samele and Bergen combined their set and jump shots to place the Shoremen in the lead in the third period, after which they were never headed.

Bobby Sullivan and Joe Synnanski scored 8 and 9 points for the winners and controlled the backboards on offense and defense. Bob Appleby and Doug Tilley were instrumental in the Maroon's last break. George Hesse and Ronnie Sisk played a fine third game, both effectively and defensively.

Bees Win In Overtime

On Feb. 6, a strong Baltimore U. team came from behind to force Washington into an overtime period, and then out ahead to win 76-71.

Captain Danny Samele scored five points in the first three minutes of play as the Shoremen jumped to a 4-2 lead. By the end of the first quarter this lead was increased to 2-17.

Ed Anderson led Baltimore's offense in the second period, as they broke into Washington's defense. They then set the score at 27-27 and won it 29-27 only to have the Shoremen once again take it over and retain the lead, 42-37 at halftime.

With Anderson and Ed Malin leading the attack B.U. closed the gap to 75-56 as the third period closed.

The score was tied three times and the lead changed hands three times in the last quarter. The final three minutes of play saw each team exchange baskets in a seesaw battle with the game ending in a 72-72 tie.

Both teams were tense as the overtime period started. With two and one-half minutes left to play, Bill Hackett fouled Samele, and Washington went ahead 74-72. Ron Hall then tied the score at 74-74. With two seconds left Ed Malin drove in and was fouled by Samele. Malin tossed both free throws through and B.U. won 76-74.

Scoring honors for the night went to Samele with seven field goals, and eleven free throws for twenty-five. Baltimore's high man was Hall with 21 points. George Hesse and Ron Sisk continued to play the brand of ball that has made them stand out in the latter part of the season. Even though we lost as far as statistics show, the Shoremen played a spirited game and deserve credit for an outstanding performance.

Score by quarters:
Washington 27 15 15 15 74
Baltimore U. 17 20 19 16 76

Lacrosse Men Drill For Opener

The Washington College Lacrosse squad, completing its second week of workouts, is shaping up satisfactorily according to Coach Charley Clark.

Although heavily hit by the graduation of such men as Graeme Menzies, who was leading '52 score: Larry Leonard, outstanding defender: Bob Jackson, Bill Bennett, and Bernie Rado, the Shoremen have a nucleus of several experienced men plus the addition of some promising new talent.

Among last year's lettermen are: Co-captains Jack Grinn and Bill Russell, plus Bob Lipitz, Jack Bial, Chuck Wasche, Dick Weller, George Hesse, Jerry Pruitt, and Frank Dick.

Returning members of the 1952 squad, which won eight out of twelve collegiate games and rated 15th in the nation, include: Red Smith, John Parley, Joe Deson, Kenny Bourne, Mike Bloomstein, Neptune Laithroe, Dick Sawyer, Don Stevenson, and Bill Bennett.

Newcomers who will give the veterans a run for the regular positions are: Jack Howard, Mickey DiMaggio, Stan Goldstein, Hank White-saver, Dick Norris, Ed Balz, Chuck Back, Bob Reid, Chuck Coughlin, Tom Hallett, Jack Hunter, Ray Idler, Jack Jennings, Joe Keller, Ralph La Wall, John Ritchey, Al Stevenson, and Hank Dixon. Bob Appleby, junior, is giving notice as a finger for the Western Maryland and George Sipe's compete on the track squad.

The team opposes Kenyon College in the opener of the season on March 23.

Terrors Fall, 85-68

Washington College averaged an earlier 12-point defeat by handing Western Maryland an 85-68 Mason-Dixon Conference setback on the host's court.

Danny Samele and Jack Bergen scored 23 and 20 points respectively for the Shoremen, while Western Maryland was led by Harry Tull's 24 markers and George Sipe's 16.

New Men Boost Hopes Of Thinclads

Washington College placed second in the annual Mason-Dixon Track Championships last year, but the thinclads have their sights set on the crown this season, with many new additions to the squad.

Even though Shore star Kenny Howard graduated, there is an abundance of new material to replace him in the sprints and in the broad jump. A group of eight freshmen have been diligently practicing for two weeks, and added to the indoor squad, they should form a fine nucleus about which to build.

Coach Horrie Nesbitt has arranged five dual meets, the Penn Relays and the Mason-Dixon Championships for his boys and they should be in top notch condition for the championship finale on May 8. The coach has secured new sweat uniforms for his team, and has announced that Monday, March 2, is the last day for new candidates to report.

Promising candidates for track and field honors who have recently reported include: Bernie Thomas, Marv Handlinger, Barry Phillips, Herb Turk, Gene O'Donnell, Bernie Machell, Joe LePore, John Mead, Bertly Dugan, Steve Feder, and Floyd Bissett, Indiana veterans, George Eickler, Jerry Johnson, and Elks Bond are on hand, along with members of last year's team: Hank Mizerski, Dave Humphries, Wayne Grunich, Ralph Wall and Joe Pokorsky.

Now that basketball is over, Jack Bergen, Ed Silverie, Ralph Lows, and Elie Joseph will see to it on the carpet, along with Clele Canine, who is now tied up with the intramural cage league.

The opener is a dual affair with the Baltimore Olympic Club on April 11, but an intra-squad meet is scheduled sometime in March or early April.

 Anderson, Curtis, Warner, Stanley,
 Hugel, Pickett, Davis and Pessa. Following pledging ceremonies Tuesday evening an informal party was held in the house.

The "psychological baggage" Brothers
 Lindberg, Brown, Burdette and Samis, have been requested by the management to devise a way to make Brother Vinard up in time for class.

Earnest Goes To Baltimore

On Sunday, March 1, at 2:00 p.m., in Baltimore's Congress Hotel, the Mount Vernon Literary Society will present their current season, "The Importance of Being Earnest," as an attempt to further the Theatre in the Round. The Vagabond Theatre is sponsoring this presentation as their first educational venture.

The Vagabond Theatre is the oldest "little theatre" in Baltimore and in its time has presented many successful Broadway hits. Only in the last four years has it turned to The At-tre in the Round as a medium.
 This is due to the group having lost its lease on their own theatre and consequently having to give their productions in the Congress Hotel.
 Although amateur in nature, all of its plays are presented on a professional basis and they feature many talented and expert actors and actresses.

Our college critics are anticipating a large turnout of not only members of the Vagabond Theatre, but also many alumni resident of Baltimore as this presentation has been widely publicized.

Director of "The Importance of Being Earnest," J. Alvin Gallo, states
 "If the venture is successful it will start president of the Theatre in the Round each year; also it is wonderful publicity for the school."
 The cast will remain the same except Ed Brumham will replace Don
 Marvin in the role of the butler.

Northerners Trip Sho'men

By Hugh Delano

Joining in New York last week end, Coach Ed Allen's Washington
 College eagles found the going up
 South a bit tough as they dropped both games, heading to Hoboken on Monday night and Wagner on Saturday.

The Shore quints left victims to a pair of high-jumping New York five as they suffered an 87-71 reversal to a strong Hoboken squad in the opener, and then were buried by Wagner
 College by an 83-57 count.

The opener with Hoboken, played at Hopwood, Long Island, saw the Sho'men outscore the Hobos combine from the floor 27 to 26. However, the big difference was from the foul line as the winners hit thirty-five out of forty-three free throws while Wagner's lanner seventeen of twenty-one.

Allen's charges hit for a good percentage on their shots and outdistancing that Hoboken is one of the better small college teams in the Metro-pol-itan area this season, the Sho'men were no pushover.

Washington's one-two punch of Danny Smucke and Jack Bergen set the pace with fifty-one points between them. Smucke, hitting well from outside, led the pack with 27 markers, while Bergen netted twenty-four, and freshman Ronnie Sisk dropped in 12.
 High marks for the winners were Al
 Johnson with 24, Jim Bobby and Ted Kiesel with 16 each.

Washington felt behind 26-21 after the opening stanza and then pulled up to a 44-37 deficit at the half.
 However, the Flying Dutchmen clinched the win as they pulled in front by a 65-52 margin after three periods.

After a 17-17 deadlock in the first period in the game with Wagner, the Shore offense faded as the State Island giants took a 35-28 halftime lead, increased it to 57-41 in the third period, and rolled up a 27-13 tally for the final session.

The Shore eagles were outscored from the floor 19 to 30 and sank 19 of 32 free tries, while the Seahawks were 24 for 37 from the foul line.

Once again Capt. Smucke was high man for the Sho'men with twenty-three points for a two-game total of fifty. Danny dropped in nine triangle points and caged forty-five free fire. Sisk also hit double figures, shipping in with eleven points. Jim net, while teammates Ed Mahala and Don Hansen tallied 17 and 14 respectively.

Three Fraternities Elect New Officers

Phi Sigs Sponsor Moonlight Ball

Red and white streamers, fraternity houses and a theme set the mood for the second annual Phi Sig dance held on Saturday, March 7, in Cain Gymnasium.

Couples danced to the music of Meritt Pennock beneath a maze of red and white. A theme dominated the far end of the gym. The walls were decorated with banners of each of the fraternities.

Moonlight Queen Crowned
The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Queen. Those eligible were Barbara Anderson, Betty Ayres, DeLores Cassanova, Kay Booth Layman, and Judy Wall.

Just before intermission the orchestra played "Pomp and Circumstance" while the members of Phi Sig and their dates marched up to the throne where Bill Truett, past vice-president, crowned DeLores Cassanova Moonlight Queen for 1953. A robe of mink, velvet trimmed in silver, which was being especially made for the occasion, was used in the coronation. Harvey Simas sang "Moonlight Girl of Phi Sigma Kappa" after the procession.

DeLores, a transfer student from the University of Puerto Rico, hails from New York. She is in the junior class.

The new queen received a small cup and her name will be engraved on a large cup that is kept in the Phi Sig house. The runner-up received tokens of esteem.

Chuck Whitsett, a Phi Sig active, gave an intermission party at his home on Water Street for all those attending the dance.

Players Present Drama -- Howard's 'The Silver Cord'

The Washington Players are to be commended for choosing "The Silver Cord" as their latest vehicle. This Sidney Howard play, which has scored several successes since its initial appearance in New York in December, 1926, is a fairly constructed drama, provocative in theme, charged with emotion, containing several devices which are "theatrical" in the best sense of that ambiguous word.

The "Silver cord," which gives the play its title, may be taken as an euphemism for the umbilical cord which still connects, figuratively, the demimonde Mrs. Phelps with her two sons.

Mr. Howard uses his play as a sharp scalpel with which to probe into and expose to the audience's horrified gaze the more virulent symptoms of that peculiarly American disease, for which, year after year, Philip Wylie was to invent the name, "momism."

This pathetic mother-worship which has been carried so far in this country that we now have an annual holy day for, year after year, later, Philip Wylie was to invent the name, "momism."

This pathetic mother-worship which has been carried so far in this country that we now have an annual holy day for, year after year, later, Philip Wylie was to invent the name, "momism."

Frankel & Ryder To Appear Here

The concert and assembly of March 18 and 19 will feature Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder the well acclaimed dance duo. They will perform a medley of interpretive "dance drama." Their program will include a dance set to the music of Bach, an interpretation of Duke Ellington's music entitled "The Kilde," Ballad of The False Lady, an Old English Folk Song, The Irresistible Force by M. Shkinkman, which is a story of a puppet who transforms an empty woman into a creature like himself and a number entitled "Haunted Moments," which is a humorous fantasy of people and sounds.

Following the intermission, Friday night, Frankel and Ryder will bring their performance to a climax by presenting an interpretation of the Bible Story of Jacob with music by E. Bloch. The dance is done in two scenes, "and in the evening Jacob was given his bride" and "but in the morning, when he looked at the face of his beloved, behold it was Leah!"

Concerning the performance of Frankel and Ryder, critics have stated "Miss Frankel and Mr. Ryder create a simplicity and excitement which enables both the general public as well as the connoisseur to enjoy the program. They are a wholesome young couple with a message as well as superb entertainment."

Curtain time is 8:30.

Varsity Club Initiates 8

Last week, the Varsity Club of Washington College initiated 8 new men in Cain Gymnasium.

Under the direction of President John Santoli, the initiation ceremonies were conducted as planned, including exercises, group singing and refreshments. The new men are seniors Tom Hederman and Rip Sewell; Juniors Joe Gieseler and Ted Bedlow; Sophomores Jack Bergen, Tom Bounds and George Hesse; and Freshman Joe Symanski. The addition of these eight new members about the number of athletes eligible to wear the "W" to 25.

In the past, an athlete became eligible for membership upon earning his second varsity letter. These letters could be earned in two different sports or both in the same sport over two years. However, in a recent meeting, the members voted to raise the requirement for membership to three varsity letters. There was no change in the manner in which the letters may be earned.

The purpose of this additional letter was two-fold. First, it is hoped that by this they will encourage more participants to take part in athletic teams on campus. Second, gaining membership will be a greater honor to the athlete himself and a credit to Washington College.

Student Council Reports

The Student Council wishes to submit the following report to the student body:

That the former women's student government set-up is in the process of being incorporated into the student council under a committee.

That the following complaints and grievances have been acted on: (1) Seniors are to continue attending assemblies this year, with the possibility of excused absence being proposed for next year. (2) That vending machines will be provided for dormitories where necessary. (3) That a television set for Reid Hall is under discussion.

That the election of student council officers has been scheduled for Thursday, April 9, with primary elections being held on April 7. All petitions must be submitted by Wednesday, April 1.

That the first annual student council assembly will be held in the latter part of April. This will include installation of officers, committee reports and other business.

That the social committee will endeavor to facilitate the scheduling of student activities in an attempt to eliminate possible conflicts.

That the following members of the student body have been selected to serve as members of the judiciary panel: Roger Kihnath, Bill Murray, Anne Grim, Bruce McKee, Barbara Delaney, Joan Vank, John Buckley, Bob Appleby, Joe Keller, Frank Henry, Tom Bounds, Leonard Clements, Al Vinyard, Bob Stahl, Don Willis, Janet Parks, and Mary Lee Linsdale.

That all members of the faculty and student body are invited to attend the regular meetings of the student council, which, at the present, are scheduled for 6:30 on Friday evenings.

Spring Vacation

Spring vacation will begin at noon Saturday, March 21, and classes will resume at 8:15 Monday, March 30.

There will be no classes on Good Friday or Saturday, April 3 and 4. All classes will meet as usual on Monday, April 6, following Easter.

Summer Session

Summer School at Washington College will run from June 15 to July 25, 1953. As the setup now stands, it will be possible for students to secure six semester hours, and Science majors eight.

All interested students should consult the pamphlet, available in the Registrar's office, for courses offered. If you plan to attend this summer school, notify the Registrar's office as soon as possible.

Notice!

The second grade month of the current semester ends Saturday, March 21.

Roy MacDonald succeeds Bruce McKee as Number 1 of Kappa Alpha, Spruce Lauban was elected Number 2, George Farfelberger, Number 3, and Lundy Clements is Number 4.

Rod Ware was elected President of Theta Chi, succeeding Wes Edwards; Bob Appleby, Vice-President; Frank Willis, Secretary; and Doug Tilly, Treasurer.

Howard Davis succeeded Constantine Tontian as High Alpha of Lambda Chi Alpha; John Minnich was elected High Beta; James Metcalfe, High Gamma; Jerry Linsdale, High Tau.

Elections for Epsilon Tetracton of Phi Sigma are held twice a year; the next one will be held at the end of April. At that time the outgoing officers will be: President, Herb Brown; Vice-President, William Winterling; Secretary, Stan Kaufman; and Treasurer, Ken Bourne.

Inter-Faith Day For W.C. Students

On the basis of public opinion and statistics, Washington College has launched successfully its first Religious Emphasis Day. On Tuesday, March 10, students attended the morning services at the Episcopal, Methodist, Catholic and Lutheran churches. Breakfast was served at the parish houses at the Episcopal, Methodist, and Catholic groups. Each club held a discussion or received a speech on some phase of the main topic, "Religion, the Student, and World Peace."

Choir Sings

At the general meeting at 11:00 o'clock, each one of the religious groups summarized the content of their morning discussions. Then the W.C. choir, under the direction of Dr. Frank Erk, rendered three hymns entitled, "Praise Ye the Lord," "Hail Art Thou," and "My God and I."

"One God" was the name and central theme of the movie presented at 2:00 P.M. The ways of worship were explained and illustrated in the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant ways.

Guest Speaks

At 3:30 P.M. a Tea was given in Reid Hall. The conclusion of the activities was the Banquet in Hodson Hall. The speaker was the Rev. Walter T. Gough of Johns Hopkins University. His talk was also centered around "Religion, the Student, and World Peace." Father Gough spoke of the joining of different religious groups in an endeavor to lead a world peace. He also emphasized the fact that the students should gain knowledge of their respective religions.

Most of the credit is to be given to the general chairman of the day, Thomas Holmstrom. The faculty and clergy too did all in their power to make it the success that it was. Mrs. E. L. Davis, and Mrs. Art H. Brown were in charge of refreshments for the Tea. And lastly, the students who worked on the different committees: Tony Tontian, Attendance; Bob Appleby, Arrangement; Mary Lee Linsdale, Music; Joan Vank, Publicity; Herb Turk, Statistics; Spruce Lauban and Bill Russell, Transportation; Dick Weller and Dot Willis, Ushers, should be congratulated on a job well done.

Now that the basketballs are deflated, the uniforms stored away in moth balls, and the record books closed, everyone can turn to the coming spring sports and forecast the conference winners. But wait!

Let's look back at the year just past. As we flip the pages of the Elm, we read the names of Elks scores Sarnelle, Bergen and Sisk. The fine play of Hesse, Tilly, and all the rest was mentioned, but nothing was written of a little man who guided the team through many hardships.

He is the student who arranged the uniforms before the games, carried the medicine kit and balls, kept score, ran errands, accounted for all valuables, and gathered first names and totals for the newspaper. Nothing was written of this valuable cog in the flying pentagon—Tom Hedderman—who services on the hardwood tournament this year. Tom has done another outstanding job this season, as he did last year. Nice going "Hed".

And if anyone happens to see a

Mr. Foster please to conduct pre-registration for the fall semester during the week of April 6-10.

"Mama, why does the furnace roar. Daddy shiver and make funny faces and hiccup when he comes up from the cellar?"

bag of basketball bats creeping through the grass, and three bases hanging from a moving object down on the lower athletic field, don't worry—it's not a threat! It's just Tom taking up on the diamond where he left off on the court!

Choristers
Take To Road

Crammed into a 38 seat bus, 46 choir members plus Dr. Erk and Dr. Gibson, left Washington College for Salisbury on March 5. The choir was in great spirits and rehearsed not only their own numbers, but several others, all slightly off key. Upon arriving at Wisconsin High School they all wondered if they were able to put in their program, due to the hoarse voices.

After the rivers were set up, the choir, under the direction of Dr. Erk, ran through several numbers and found that the trip hadn't harmed their golden tones.

The performance was "inspiring" to quote Dr. Erk, and many of the faculty and students of Wisconsin High School heartily cheered with him.

At the conclusion of the program there was a real dash for the front of the school where all 46 members of the choir attempted to board the bus at one time in order to proceed to a tea held at the Salisbury State Teachers' College. Upon arrival they were subbed into for lounge which served as the nucleus of the afternoon's activities throughout the campus. A touch of home was discovered down in their snack bar where the invisible brother group was in progress. The phony? Four of the choir members of course.

Forty-four members arrived at the Rotary Club (the other two were viewing the town) where they sang for their supper. Again the choir sang well, under the handicap of full voices.

A tired, but well-satisfied group, packed themselves into the bus for the trip home which consisted of a rollicking celebration.

Senior Of
The Week

This week the Elm staff presents John Grim as senior of the week. Since John arrived at Washington College he has taken an active interest in many extra-curricular activities on campus and has shown that his last name is certainly no reflection on his personality. He has proven his ability for leadership and getting things done efficiently and effectively.

He hails from Catonsville, where he attended Catonsville High. While in high school he was on the lacrosse team four years, soccer team two years and served as Student Council president.

In the sport's field John was on the soccer team four years and was captain of this year's team. He is starting his fourth season on the lacrosse team, of which he is also captain.

John was class president in his sophomore year as well as in his senior year.

As a member of Kappa Alpha Order he now serves as secretary. His contributions in the field of journalism at Washington College consist of working as news editor of the Elm and sports editor of the Regionist.

Last year, in recognition of his achievements and leadership in the activities mentioned above John was elected to the national honor fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa. This year he won further recognition when he was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

This year John spent a lot of time and effort in helping to establish Student Government at Washington College. After it was installed he became its first president.

John is majoring in economics and minoring in political science. After graduation he hopes to work for a Baltimore concern until Uncle Sam sends his summons.

Lots of luck and success in the future, John, we know you've got what it takes!

"Do you believe in the influence of childhood impressions?" some one asked Loretta Shennett.

"Yeah, I sure do," answered Loretta. "When I was a tot, my maw hired a nurse to wheedle me into my baby blues, and I've been pushed for money ever since."

College Senior: "What would you advise me to read after graduation?" English Professor: "The 'Help Wanted' columns."

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Night Watchman

Mrs. Wellem, just what is this very strange possession of Bob Appleby's which you so ardently assume?

Warning—to whom it may concern:

I. Great, notorious polyandrist, is rumored to be in this area. All fraternity men should check their pins in the nearest pay deposit box and take to the hills. . . . This goes for you too, Crowsell.

An open letter: The Sherbrook Club is again becoming active due to the approaching of spring and warm weather. All aspirants who do truly wish to join with the "card camera" to contact any active member at your earliest convenience.

Tom—at six dollars a quart, who can afford to do as the French do? Quote of the week: "During the course of the semester we are scheduled to play 14 games, by and large, and we've got to take advantage of these good days, so you younger boys pay attention and don't spend your spare time at tea parties". . . . If you know who said these words, send your answers to the paper. The results will be announced in the next issue. The winner will receive a gold-plated lacrosse stick.

Are you in the know? . . . This year the housecoat styles have changed again. Be sure to buy the latest rage: a loose robe with no buttons.

The campus distributor is Dot Willy.

Just who holds the Reid Hall title of "Miss Room Campus of 1953?"

Newest slogans and bit of advice on campus—"There's nothing like being alone!"

Everyone who is anyone is switching to gin and vodka. Sounds terrible, but word has it does the trick, so what else can be said.

Congratulations are in order to Delores for being crowned the Flaming Moonlight Girl.

Too bad there isn't going to be a leg contest at the Sophomore Dance this year, because Parker has become quite the expert.

Liquitz, was it really the snow that kept you all night at the shack on Daisy Road last Saturday night?

Why was John Richer giving everyone a free shoe last Monday night? I suppose the 20 whiskey sores had a lot to do with it.

Core Lee is certainly getting some very interesting advertisements these days.

Lorvy has installed a private phone from Somerset House to Reid Hall. Presumably Bill, I don't think she misses you.

She may have only been fourteen Al; but what a girl!

John Foo really believes in doing things right! When he takes a shower, he really takes one!

Hey, Ben, that was quite a send-off party for Bernie. Sure had all the necessary ingredients for a bang-up party: the right people, the right beverages and the right atmosphere.

Anybody else hear about Susan Schultz and her "naughty, but nice" performances down at the Armory?

From the looks of things, Reid Hall girls might be quantified even more than they normally are—seems the place is slowly but surely becoming contaminated with measles.

Interesting little tidbit picked up in the classroom: If your foresight were as good as your hindsight, you'd be better off by a damn sight! How true, how true!

And did everybody enjoy the cute little ballet danced at the "Mardi Gras" last night? Sweet, weren't they?

Have fun over the vacation, kiddies—get those term papers and book reports done. Remember—with the first signs of spring also come the first signs of beach parties and picnics—and we mustn't be bothered with little things like term papers then!

Brower
Commissioned

BUDDY BROWER—51

Included in the 129 Naval Officer Candidates who received Supply Corps of Civil Engineering Corps commissions here today, after two months indoctrination course at the Navy's only Officer Candidate School was Frank W. Brower, Jr., of Chestertown, Maryland, who received his B.A. degree in Business Administration in 1951 from Washington College in Chestertown.

The commissions as ensign in the U. S. Navy Reserve, were formally awarded at graduation ceremonies for the Civil Engineering and Supply Corps graduates, and for 840 Lieut. Officer Candidates, who have completed a four month course in more generalized Naval training. Wearing their officers' uniforms and Ensign's stripes for the first time, the 969 graduates composed the largest class to complete the Officer Candidate School since its founding in June, 1951.

The commencement address was delivered by Capt. Harold O. Larson, USN, Assistant Chief of Personnel for Education and Training, who spoke to an audience of approximately 2500 persons, which included the Staff of the school, the graduates, and the wives and families for the newly commissioned ensigns.

All Officer Candidates are required to hold college degrees. The Supply Corps and Civil Engineering Corps candidates must be between 19 and 27 years of age, and upon graduation, must have undergone further training from OCS will undergo further training at schools of their specialty.

PLAYERS . . .

and at the end of Act III, all three of the actresses were genuinely moving and effective.

The male parts, played by Del Steynson, as David the older, and Ken Murray, as the younger, were designedly so mixed, that the reviewer had some difficulty in deciding whether the occasional weakness of the playing was purposefully made so to suit the roles or lay traps in the histrionic inadequacies of the actors.

Presumably it is harder to play a weak than a strong character, which is partly the reason why Messrs. Steynson and Murray were overhauled when their female counterparts both as actors and as "specie."

Jane Bradley and Jack Daniel deserve praise for their directing, for they put together a swift and smoothly moving production.

The play was attractively staged, and the star crew showed real skill in rapidly transforming the inadequate stage from a living room to a bedroom scene, and back again. . . . In all, all the Washington Players have reason to feel well pleased with themselves, and the audience should be grateful for an opportunity to see so fine a play so capably produced and performed.

Kibler Begins 36th Year As Washington Coach

In The PRESSBOX

(With Bill Murray)

11 NETMEN VIE

With the loss of such stars as Jack Smith and Bruce Wyckoff, the tennis team is definitely rebuilding for 1953, as is the Lacrosse squad.

Three lettermen, returning from last year's team, which had an 8-2 record, are Captain Bill Murray, Tony Tomlin, and Jerry Lambdin. These men, with experience behind them, should play outstanding matches.

At this early date it is hard to predict who will fill the remaining positions on the team.

However, Les Bell has shown experience and finesse so far and is a possible starter. Other leading netmen trying for the remaining positions are Don Mayott, Bruce McHatten and Karry Ward. Other newcomers out for positions are Howard Davis, Stan Kaufman, George Hanst and Bill Winterling.

With good weather expected soon, the team should be in top shape when they open against Loyola on April 8.

STICKMEN OPTIMISTIC

It seems clear to this reporter that the 1953 Washington College lacrosse team is rebuilding this year and evidence of its strength will present itself in the scrimmage against Maryland University today.

To get a composite picture of this "rebuilding process", we will examine the team by its four main segments, namely, Attack, Midfield, Defense, and Goal.

Veterans out for the attack positions are Bob Lipsitz, able performer from last year's attack, and Chuck Waeche, up from last year's alternate midfield. Additional help is expected from Mickey DiMaggio, Jack Dail and Spencer Latham.

The midfield is headed by Co-Captain John Grim who Coach Clark calls "one of the best face-off men in college play for the past three seasons." Other men fighting for midfield positions are George Hesse, John Howard, Joe Deem, Ed Bair, Chuck Covington, Stan Goldstein and Bob Appleby.

Veteran Dick Weller leads the defense contingent this year. Other men trying out for defense positions are Jerry Proot, from last year's squad, and Dick Norris. Extra support is expected from Jack Jennings, Tom Halley, Don Steynan and Bill Barnett.

Co-Captain Bill Russell, after being handpicked by a bad ankle last year, is expected to be at his peak this year. Reserve strength for the goalie position is expected from Frank Dickey, Jack Hunter and John Parker.

M.V.P. Award To Samele

With a total of 526 points in 24 games, Washington's Danny Samele earned himself the title of "Most Valuable Player" in the 1952-1953 Mason-Dixon Conference. In addition to this award, he was named to a forward berth on the All-Conference team, by the league court coaches.

Bolting among the hardwood stars produced Samele, diminutive 5 foot, 9 inch Shommen rebound artist, who registered 383 points and a .612 average in league action, as the popular choice by getting the greatest number of votes.

The five players from as many different colleges, picked on the No. 1 team, show a combined scoring average of 18.7, with the conference's first and second high average men—Lumpden-Sydney's Jerry Adams and Washington's Don Samele—splitting the units.

Loyola College, which won the play-off tournament last Saturday by defeating American U., 65-62 in overtime, dominated the second quintet by placing three men—Joel Hittelman (13), Ed Doherty (16.4) and Ed Lowenthal (12.9) on the team. Following it out are Simpson-Margolis (10) of Johns Hopkins and Jack Kelly (16.7), of Randolph-Macon.

Following the make up of the 1952-53 first team with height, average and size:

Samele (Washington), 5 feet, 9 inches, 202 average, senior, Adams (Lumpden-Sydney), 6 feet, 3 inches, 141, senior, Dierkes (Roanoke), 6 feet, 6 inches, 183, junior, Selby (American U.), 6 feet, 3 inches, 184, senior, Angelo (Mt. St. Mary's), 6 feet, 4 inches, 184, sophomore.

Also special recognition must be given to Shoeman Jumping Jack Bergen for his consistent scoring punch throughout the '52-'53 season. Jack threw a total of 337 points through the hoop in 19 league games for a brilliant 17.7 average, the high average in the Mason-Dixon Conference. His total number of points, 337, was overshadowed by his teammate, Samele, who led all players with 526 points.

DANNY SAMELE

Voted most valuable player in Mason-Dixon Conference.

The cranky head of a horse there was making his usual inspection of the help. When he came to the daventry, play dead, coach and dumbered department he cast a cold eye over the selection, then said: "Well, I must say you men look well trained!"

Netmen Eye Cardinals

The Washington College net team faces a formidable 13-game schedule this spring.

Two matches are scheduled against Catholic University, who have won 55 straight matches against college competition. Last year they beat W.C. 7 to 2. Veteran players returning for the Cardinals are: Tom Freeman, Tom Browning, Jack Henneberry, Steve McManis and Juan Lopez. Coach Dorschavage's outfit will be the team to beat this spring.

On April 25 the tennis team journeys to Baltimore to play Johns Hopkins. Last year John Hopkins won the Northern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference by edging out the Washington College Tennis team 5 to 4.

Another formidable opponent this spring will be Western Maryland, who will be looking for revenge after their 6 to 2 defeat last year to Washington College. Henry Tait is the up and coming star at Western Maryland according to Dr. Hurt, the Western Maryland tennis coach. Last year Henry played at the number four position but is a clinch for number 1 or 2 this year.

Randolph-Macon rings down the Washington College tennis schedule for 1953 when they play W.C. on May 9. Randolph-Macon should provide plenty of trouble as they finished second in the Southern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference right behind C.U.

Other matches are scheduled against Baltimore University, Mt. St. Mary's, Loyola, Wilson Teachers, and Teton. The tennis team beat these teams last year by the respective scores of: 9-0 (twice), 8-1, 7-2 (twice, 5-4 and 6-1).

The schedule for 1953 follows:

- APRIL—
2—Baltimore U. (H)
8—Loyola (A)
11—Western Maryland (H)
13—Catholic U. (A)
16—Mt. St. Mary's (A)
18—Catholic U. (H)
21—Wilson Teachers (A)
22—Loyola (H)
23—Johns Hopkins (A)
MAY—
4—Towson (H)
6—Mt. St. Mary's (H)
8—Baltimore U. (A)
9—Randolph-Macon (H)

Asked the teacher, "What are the people of Los Angeles noted for?"

"For their stupidity," came the reply.

"What ever gave you that idea?"

"The book says the population is very dense."

Intramurals Reorganized

As the intra-mural basketball league enters its fourth week of play, Theta Chi and G.I. Hall head the standings with unblemished records. Close on the heels of the leaders are the Day Students (3-1), Lambda Chi (3-2), and Middle Hall (2-1). The rest of the teams are fighting for the remaining playoff positions.

On Wednesday, March 4, Theta Chi scored its third victory by beating Foxwell 46-31. The winners were paced by Neil Tighman with 27 points, and Randy Hammel with 11 points. For the losers Bill Beehoff chipped in with 9 points. In the nightcap the Day Students whipped the hapless Phi Sigma by a 56-17 lull.

After the first few moments the contest was never in doubt as Bill Werner and Sheldon Deutch paced the winners with 17 and 13 points respectively. Thursday night found G.I. handling the K.A.'s their second defeat 40-34. The first team was unable to stop the freshmen who used their height to good advantage, Junior Eversole scored 13 points for the winners while Ellis Boyd scored 14 in a losing cause. In the second encounter Middle Hall defeated Foxwell 42-31. After a close first half, the winners, paced by Ralph Laws, broke the game wide open in the third quarter. Laws ended the game with 15 points, while Palmer Hughes scored 13 for the losers. In the concluding game Southern disposed of Lambda Chi 50-44. In this decisive struggle Ed Silvera and Shelly Badler scored 30 and 10 points apiece. Herm Schmidt paced the Foes with 27 points. Although several teams have played more games than others, the leading scorers are: Deutch 78, Cinsella 78, Titchman 73, Hardinger 50, Boyd 49, F. Huber 41, Hughes 38, Laws 36, Geisler, J. Brugh, Klahars, Silvera 35.

All variety and junior variety players have been declared ineligible. Plans have been made to speed up league play. A round-robin of play-off games is being held, so as to prepare for the football league in April and May.

The head never swells until the brain stops growing.

8 Veterans Return

By Hugh Delano

When Washington College opens its 1953 baseball season against Baltimore U. on April 2, it will mark the 36th year that Coach Tom Kibler has handled a Sho' team.

Coach Kibler, who was Athletic Director at the college prior to his retirement in 1917, returned to the W.C. campus last spring to revive baseball. With such an experienced man at the reign, the Sho'men won seven out of the last nine games of the '52 campaign, but fell short of a playoff berth. An experienced and powerful team is expected this year, as the team preps for its opener with the Bees.

With a week's practice under their belts following workouts in the gym, the Shore line is slowly working into shape under the watchful eye of Coach Kibler. However, starting positions are undetermined but the squad boasts a number of returners from last season plus some promising freshmen candidates.

Heading the list of returning players are Third-basemen John Santulli, shortstop Danny Samele, second-sacker Doug Tilly, catcher Wes Edwards and outfielders Johnny Minnich and Red Ware.

The infield is fairly well set with Santulli, a heavy hitter at third while Samele and Tilly combine to give Kibler a smooth double play combination. Both should hold their own in the hitting department. Tilly batting at a .340 clip during the '52 season. At first base, Joe Symzanski is making a bid to win a starting spot.

Elsewhere around the infield Dick Treaves, Dean Wood, Bob Martell, Herman Schmidt, and Shelly Badler are among the hopefuls who are waiting for a crack at starting berths.

Heading the list of outfielders are Ware and Minnich, both polished players and holdovers from last season. Minnich displayed some fine stickwork in 1952 and Ware, a good field performer, is fast and possesses a strong throwing arm.

The outfield should be bolstered by several other promising candidates including Tommy Bonides, Roger Smoot, Ed Cinsella, Bill Warner, Wayne Greenwell, and Dave Jacobs. To date, Jacobs has shown plenty of power and the freshman looms as a potential heavy hitter for the Kibler-coached nine.

Such performers as Bob Sullivan, Ronnie Sick, George Catterton, Steve McGee, Bob Powell, Bud Kelling and Leo Gligli should give the Sho'men a top hurling staff. All are freshmen. Behind the platter, Wes Edwards returns and should rate the inside track for a first-string post. Wes understates John Wilton last season and has a strong arm, Freshmen Junior Eversole and Jimmy Edwards, both back up Wes and should give him a strong battle for starting work.

In brief, it would seem that the Sho'men have the makings for a good season. The squad has potential hitting power, the infield is strong, and Kibler has several promising hurlers who should develop. However, the team will undoubtedly miss the loss of Steve Martinians and Bucky Dawson. Martinians held down first base in '52 and injected a good deal of power into the lineup, while Dawson was one of the top freshman prospects.

Rich man's son: "Father, what is this strange power that I have over women?"

Father: "As of this moment it is $9,836,642.65."

"I dunno what's the matter with me, Doc," said the sick hippopotamus, "I just peek at my foot... a peek of this and peek of that."

Freshmen Prospects

One of the funniest characters ever to appear on W.C. campus is Jack Jennings, of Annapolis, Maryland. "Male's sense of humor together with his athletic ability have made him popular with both sexes.

Because of his 200 pounds and 5 feet, 11-inch frame, Jack was asked by his Annapolis High School coach, Jm. Wetherhold, to try out for the varsity football squad. In his first season of competition as a sophomore, "Male" earned the first string quarterback position and led his team to second place in conference. Because of a fairly consistent jump shot, Jack earned a starting guard position on the court team. Strong defensive assignments were given to Male throughout the year, and the final league standings showed Annapolis High in third place.

In the spring while still a sophomore, Jack turned his attention to baseball and because of his strong throwing arm, tried out for catcher. It wasn't long before Jack developed into an experienced catcher with an accurate arm. By his senior year he was one of the most versatile athletes Annapolis High had ever produced, for he continued playing all three sports until graduation.

Currently a Sho' Freshman, Jack has high hopes of remaining a three-letter man, for he has just completed a season of varsity soccer, and J.V. basketball. Now that lacrosse training has arrived, Jack has donned a helmet and lacrosse stick as one of Charles Clark's defensive charges.

Economic Geography is his major while business runs a close second. Last month he accepted a bid to the Theta Chi Fraternity, along with Annapolis buddies, Huse Howard.

Cindermen Lack Depth

Despite the pitiful condition of the track and the rough, trackless runways to the jumping pit, the track hopulds are doing their best to compete themselves for the April 11 opener against the powerful Baltimore Olympiad Club.

During the past week the team has been hard-hit, especially by the loss of shot putter and discus thrower Jack Berger, Bucky Dugan, who was an 11 foot polevaulter was lost to the team and the baseball squad is suffering from his absence just as much as the thinlads.

In addition to this, several of the candidates who reported during the first week have voluntarily dropped from the squad. Among the newcomers, Murray Hardeman had been particularly impressive during the past week, but may be lost due to academic difficulties. However, Coach Howie Nesbitt has been preparing the remaining cinderelms for the coming 7-meet schedule.

The team will rely heavily on half-milers George Eichelberger and Lew Buckley, plus two promising sprinters—Stu Young and Barry Phillips. Hardier Terry Johnson is rounding into fine shape along with distance threats Joe Keller, Bernie Thomas, Floyd Basset, John Mead, and John Ruchard. Sprinter Joe Pakynski has shown much speed in early season workouts along with Herb Turk, who lost several days with a bad leg.

Joe Lepore and Dave Humphries joined out the group which has been diligently working during the past two weeks.

The squad's weak point seems to be in the weight events and the jumps. Those who are out now will be given a crack at these events in order to develop any potential ability which may show up. Howard Smith, who threw the discus in '52, has not returned due to a recent appendectomy, and will be sidelined the rest of the season.

Relay races were held last Saturday, with special running events scheduled for today.

W.C. Host To Track Meet

Washington College will play host to the second annual Eastern Shore High School track and field meet on May 9.

This meet was also sponsored by Washington last year and it turned out to be a very successful venture, with representation from nearly all the near-by schools.

There will be three medals awarded in each event for the first, second and third places, plus a trophy which goes to the winning team.

On this day there will also be an "All College" program. All high school seniors are cordially invited to tour the W.C. campus, watch the track meet, and then see the baseball game with Randolph-Macon.

The track meet will begin at 1 P.M. and the baseball game is scheduled for 3.

All track and field contestants will eat at the college on this day.

Magazine Sponsors Short Story Contest

Eight years ago Mademoiselle established the College Fiction Contest—an opportunity for women undergraduates to test their creative writing talents by professional standards. This affords the college student a chance for recognition in a national magazine well known for its outstanding quality of fiction, and it gives to Mademoiselle a tremendous satisfaction in having a hand in the recognition of new literary talent.

Year after year, the magazine is represented in the anthologies of the best American short stories, not only by these established writers as Carson McCollers, Paul Bowles, Christina Weston, Ray Bradbury, Truman Capote, et al, but also by the winners of our College Fiction Contest.

Of the recent finalists, 1950's winners, J. Carol Goodman and Ilona Karmel, both saw their stories reprinted in The Best American Short Stories 1951, and Miss Karmel's first novel, STEPHANIA, has just been selected as an April choice by the Literary Guild. Elizabeth Marshall, who won last year, will see her story, THE HILL PEOPLE, in the 1953 edition of The Best American Short Stories.

Again this year, Mademoiselle will award a $300 fiction prize for each of the two best short stories submitted by a college student between now and April 15.

Livingood Resigns; No Successor Named

Dr. Frederick G. Livingood, who has been Dean of Washington College for the past thirteen years, recently requested that he be relieved of the duties of dean in order to resume full-time work as head of the department of education and psychology. This resignation is to become effective at the end of the current academic year.

Before serving as dean he has also been administrative assistant to the president, assistant president, and is currently vice-president.

—Expresses Regret—

In his letter of resignation, Dean Livingood expressed his appreciation to the president and Board of Visitors and Governors for the confidence they have placed in him during his years in office.

After receiving his doctor's degree from Harvard in 1925, Dr. Livingood joined the faculty of Washington College as head of the department of education and psychology.

He has been active as a member in national and regional professional societies including the American Association of University Professors, National Association of College Teachers of Education, American Psychological Association, National Society for Study of Education, Association of Deans and Advisors of Men (President, 1946-1947), National Education Association, and Maryland State Teachers' Association.

Dr. Livingood has been a member of the Kent County Board of Education since 1943 and his service as president since 1948. He is a member of the Board of the Delmarva Council, Boy Scouts of America, and a recipient of the Silver Bearer, the highest award of the Council.

He is married and has two sons, Fred, Jr., who is a member of the faculty of Sparks (Md.) High School, and John, who is completing work toward his medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Light Up The Sky" To Be Presented April 30, May 1

The Washington Players have chosen Moss Hart's "Light Up The Sky" for their concluding spring comedy. The production will be staged in William Smith Hall Thursday and Friday, April 30, and May 1. Certain time will be promptly at 8:30 p.m. The Players hope to see a good representation of both students and friends, since this production promises a thoroughly enjoyable evening of entertainment.

"Light Up The Sky" is the hilarious one-act farce by Moss Hart that has received three world archaids. This play enjoyed Broadway success in 1937, and later became a popular road show. Moss Hart has combined in "Light Up The Sky" a cast of delightful characters, play, wonderful writing. This combination results in a fast, hilarious pace throughout the play.

Jane Bradley Lowe, as Miss Lowell, makes her first appearance on stage. Miss Callio plays the role of Carole, the "bitchy" musical. New York director, Lynn Danna, is the salacious Frances Baker, who sinks her way on and off stage. Bill Clark, a freshman, makes his debut in the role of Owen Turner, a famous French playwright.

Barbara A. Jones, as Sheila Livings-

'Salty' Dance Tonight

The Nautical Swing is being presented tonight, April 18, in Gait Gymnasium. This dance, being sponsored by the Freshman Class, features Lee Page's Orchestra from Dover, Del.

Refreshments will consist of soft drinks, potato chips and pretzels.

The setting of the dance is defined "salty" since it takes place in the ballroom on a ship.

The price is $1.50, sing or drag, and tickets may be secured from freshman class officers. The dress is informal. The voyage begins at eight and returns at twelve. Come aboard!

Wesley Club Gets Successful Start

Tuesday, April 7th, the Wesley Club got off to a good start toward their reorganization. Charles Leary presented to the group a report based on the religious beliefs of students at Washington College. The report was obtained by a survey of 61 non-selected students. A lively discussion followed, in which everyone participated.

The next meeting will be in Reid Hall Library, Tuesday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. A discussion of the religious beliefs of different denominations will be held, followed by refreshments.

SCIENCE EXHIBIT SPEAKER

The speaker at the Annual Science Exhibits April 23 will be Mr. Henry J. Paar, psychologist from the Eastern Shore State Hospital, Cambridge, Md. Mr. Paar will speak on the topic, "Psychology as Science" with particular application of psychology to the mentally ill.

Presidents Named By Sororities

Elections were held recently to determine who would hold offices in the three national sororities on the hill. Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Zeta Tau Alpha, during the forthcoming year.

Janice Palmer succeeds Marlene Meyer as President of Alpha Chi. Rosemary Hagan and Barbara Ann Jones were elected first and second vice-presidents respectively. The Recording Secretary is June Wallis and the Corresponding Secretary is Janice Leithridge. Donna Miller is Treasurer.

Sylvie Urig was elected President of Alpha Omicron Pi succeeding Lyn White. Mary Lee Lincoln, vice-President; Jane Golt, Corresponding Secretary; Sigge Whaley, Recording Secretary; and Joan Whaley, Treasurer.

Joanne Cusack succeeds June Bradley Lowe as President of Gamma Beta Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha. Ramona Wilkey was elected Vice-President. Barbara Townsend, Recording Secretary; Pat Anderson, Treasurer; and B. C. Jones, Historian.

Plan 1953 Summer Session

Plans are going forward for the 1953 summer session on the Washington College campus. The summer school announcement, which has been distributed to all students, lists the courses to be offered. In the event that there is a demand for courses not listed in the announcement, provisions will be made.

Quoting from the announcement: "Classes will be held between 8:00 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., five days in the week, Monday-Thursday, inclusive. For classes bearing three semester hours credit, the periods will be ninety minutes in length; for two hours credit, fifty minutes. A full schedule, normally, is six semester hours or two courses."

In order to organize a course it will be necessary that a minimum of ten individuals enroll for the course. Costs and other essential information are listed in the announcement.

The summer session has been arranged as a convenience to Washington College students to enable them to accelerate work toward meeting requirements for graduation, for students who wish to make up courses, and to enable some students to lighten semester loads.

The announcement states that students who plan to attend the summer session should register before May 15. As an aid to the Registrar's office all students planning to attend summer sessions should notify the registrar's office by May 1. In the event that there is not sufficient registration, some courses may have to be cancelled. In order that students may know exactly what courses can be offered it is suggested that you register for the summer session as early as possible, and preferably no later than May 1.

NOTICE

Those students who have not completed their registration for Fall classes, please do so as soon as possible by seeing the registrar.

Two Amendments Not Passed

On Tuesday, April 7th, primary elections were held for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the Student Government Association. E. A. Colletti, Bob Appleby, and John Minnich were candidates for president; Jo Budd, Mary Lee Lincoln and Dot Willis for Vice-President. From the primary, Bob Appleby and John Minnich were chosen to run as candidates for president, and Mary Lee Lincoln and Jo Budd were elected as candidates for vice-president.

On Thursday, April 9th, the final elections were held in the Snuck Bar. The candidates for the secretary were Betty Ayles and Joanne Cusack; for Treasurer, Barbara A. Jones and Anne Grinn. Also on the ballot were two amendments to the constitution; one concerning declaration of non-nominate candidates for office in organization, and the other pertaining to absence and dismissal of neglectful class representatives to the Student Government. Since only 63% of the student body voted, these amendments were not passed. The final results were as follows:

Bob Appleby—President
Mary Lee Lincoln—Vice-President
Betty Ayles—Secretary
Anne Grinn—Treasurer

Bob Appleby is a member of ODK, vice-president of Theta Chi, President of the Junior Class, and a member of the Variety and Wesley Clubs.

Bob Appleby is a member of ODK, vice-president of Theta Chi, President of the Junior Class, and a member of the Variety and Wesley Clubs. He became equally expert in mixing classical and popular. Now he has become symbolized with the term "Broom Back to Boogie Woogie."

The Friday night program will include "Thaikauskovsky's 'Nutcracker Suite', several Strauss waltzes, the Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt, a medley of German music and popular songs of today including her famous 'Boogie Woogie'."

Esquire Magazine says about Miss Hellman—"Like sunlight after shadow, she sings into solid rhythm more commonly associated with hoogie pianos than the ethereal instrument."

Rosyline Hellman first won the audience with the shock of the unexpected... she introduces her music—the audience, herself, and the harp."

NOTICE

The annual Community Sing will be held for all interested groups in the evening of Wednesday, April 29.

All groups are to consist of at least ten and not more than fifteen people. The male groups are to wear white shirts, open at the neck. Female groups are to dress suitably for the occasion.

All groups on campus are urged to participate in this event, with a cup being awarded to each male and female winner.

IN REVERBERATION

To the Student-Faculty Disciplinary Committee:

I have read your Letter to the Editor which appears in another column on this page.

It hurt me deeply when you expressed the opinion that the Washington Elm condoned academic dishonesty. However, since you have brought out the names of Mastrinna and Dougan and since you have accused the Elm of printing a discriminatory cartoon (which mentioned no names whatsoever), I gather that you want the entire Mastrinna-Dougan case printed in the school paper.

The Elm has always supported the Student Council and will be glad to cooperate. Not only will I be glad to print the case, but perhaps the student whom you feel the Elm discriminated against would like to speak in his own behalf.

In this way the entire student body may judge this cartoon (which mentioned no names whatsoever), and offer opinions as to whether you were right in judging it "Inconclusive and unsubstantiated."

Always glad to cooperate, I remain . . . . .

Sincerely yours,

Ellsworth Boyd

Editor-in-Chief

A Letter To The EditorEditor
THE ELM
Washington College

Dear Sir:

As an aftermath of disciplinary action taken in the Mastrinna-Dougan case, the ELM displayed a cartoon in its last edition which the members of the Student-Faculty Disciplinary Committee felt to be inconsiderate and unsubstantiated. It appeared that not only was a student discriminated against for upholding academic principles, but that academic dishonesty was condoned by your newspaper.

It is the earnest desire of the undersigned that the entire student body realize the consequences of dishonest actions, regardless of the circumstances, and that narrow and biased opinions should not be registered against fellow students. The work of the ELM in supporting the Student Council, its aims, and its functions in the past has been greatly appreciated. It is hoped that this cooperation will continue.

Elected

The Mount Vernon Literary Society held elections last week for officers to serve for the coming year. Don Owings repudiated Arden J. Fox as President of the group, while Sue Stallings was elected vicepresident.

Sue Samuels is the new secretary and E. A. Collett is treasurer.

The annual edition of The Sage which is published by the Mount Vernon Literary Society, has set April 25 as its deadline. Any short stories, poems, essays or other original literary work by the student body are to be submitted to Don Owings, Arden Fox or Professor Jones, immediately.

Senior Of
The Week

Sparkling brown eyes, dark curly hair and an infectious, laugh characteristic Sue Weber. Sue hails from Bridgeton, New Jersey. Quoting Sue, "I'm a South Jersey Tomato."

During her four years at Washington College she has taken an active part in campus activities. Sue is a member of G.A.A., The Washington Players and the Elm staff. She has been active in the Art Club and Glee Club in previous years. Sue has also played varsity hockey and basketball. Last year she was the winner of the badminton championship. Sue has proven the theory of the "dumb athlete" to be all wrong, because quite frequently her name has appeared on the Dean's List. She is the outgoing secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Sue is majoring in Economics and minoring in Psychology. After graduation the plans to go into personnel work in industry. Judging on the basis of her record at Washington College and her ability to get things accomplished we know she'll be successful. Lots of luck, Sue.

So This Is Bridge!

Surely nowhere in any remote extremity of the globe can there be found such a grand conglomeration of Bridge and Bridge players as we possess here at Washington College. We have reduced that dignified pastime to a new all time low, and if things continue at their present pace, we may be responsible for its complete disappearance from the American social scene. Even though Mr. Culbertson wouldn't approve of our methods and techniques, we spend some of our most enjoyable hours around the Bridge table.

The main tournament is held every Saturday morning during the winter in the Snack Bar from nine to twelve. Here the college experts gather for the real test after many practice sessions following lunch and dinner in Hodgson Hall. The major problem is finding at least one expert at each table who knows how to keep score. Needless to say, the scorekeeper and his partner invariably win.

Once started, the game is on! "Little Slam Hutz" and "Blackwood" Murray are always on hand and consider themselves quite infallible. "Who's the big idea, bidding three card suits?" yells the Birdman. "But it's Jack high," retorts the Hook. And the battle rages on. "I still say no one can play as well as Tom," pipes in Mrs. Lowe, busily trying to improve her game. All the while one Betty Blanton is running around pleading, "A couple of hands for relaxation, anyone?"

At the next table—"I'm going to stop playing with you if you ever leave me in my secondary suit again," threatens, Wes Edwards, to some tall blond. In the distance we hear a voice saying, "We'll take two tricks for that mistake."

Bobbie Lipitz, running true to form, opens the bidding with four spades; ends up playing the hand at five spades. After taking the first two tricks, he throws the other eleven cards down with, "The rest are out." But his opponent, Mrs. Slinker daunts

A Run Around The Track

I wish to openly express my thanks to those students who were responsible for helping to prepare the Washington College track for the dual meet, Saturday, April 11.

Ten ambitious students did a job which was supposed to be done by the campus groundkeepers during Easter vacation. Not only did they level the track eight times, but they leveled it, scraped it and trimmed it so it would look like a track instead of a beaten Indian path through a green field.

The cooperation that I received from those who were supposed to prepare the track long ago was as large as some of the scores the aping track has been amassing—0, nothing!

What does the head groundkeeper expect the track team to run on? A mass of loose cinders and hard rocks! That's what the track would have been covered if the boys hadn't worked it themselves.

When the students offered to roll the track themselves if the roller were available, their offer was turned down. The track was rolled three times in preparation for the Baltimore Olympic Club meet. How many times should it have been rolled? At best 1!

It seems that the groundkeepers around here are a crew of specialists. One to cut grass, one to roll the ground, one to trim the hedges and so on. It's a shame that the track needs rolling the specialists' kind!

When one of the Baltimore Olympic Club runners fell in the 200 yard race because the track was loose in the far turn, that took the cake. As far as I'm concerned you should take the head groundkeeper, the hedge cutters, the landscaper, the grass cutter, the roller, and all the rest of the specialists and dump them all in the Chesley River! I'll throw another bit of wood to keep that trail in decent condition! Elsworth Boyd

Pinas Given Good Rating
By Majority Of Students

More pinas may invade W.C.

In our constant endeavor to improve the health and food situation at Washington College, we have taken a cross section of opinion to see if the consensus of opinion favors more pinas.

Most of the people queried were in favor, but all had definite opinions on the subject. The question asked was: "Do you believe the health of the students could be improved by giving pinas three times a week?"

Frank Weitzberger, who has done extensive research in chemistry, says: "Dine to food in Hodson, any kind of a pinas would undoubtedly improve the health of the student body."

Pete Burbridge took a musician's point of view when he replied: "Yes, I feel that pinas would be a great help by necessary to the physical well being of the human body. In music pinas make way for the acquisition of interpretive genius."

Dr. Livingsood was very emphatic when he said: "No!—I don't know. I don't know." He gave us the following players' opinion when he stated: "It helps the lacrosse player run eight miles and is good for baseball fans."

Bill Wright, the North East Henshew Snatcher, says: "From my past experiences on dates at the B. B. I feel that pinas would be a great help in solving the health problem."

Eric Hamman seemed delighted to think that pinas would invade W.C. and said: "Nothing is better than bottled pinas."

Bill Wintermeyer was startled at first by the question but afterward stated that he had been pinas connected with health."

Olympic Trackmen Whip Sho'men

Chestertown, Md.—Baltimore Olympic Club opened its track season on April 11 with a 75-to-33 triumph over Washington College.

The Baltimore team won 10 of the 12 track and field events, Washington College swept all three places in the 120-yard high and 220-yard hurdles.

Ellsworth Boyd was high-point man of the dual meet, winning both hurdles races and placing third in the high jump and broad jump for 12 points.

Sprinter Stu Young performed well and should be a leading contender for Mason-Dixon sprinting honors in the championships. He injured his leg broad jumping and was forced to sit out the Catholic U. meet.

Low Buckley ran a 5:50 mile, his first in collegiate competition which was an excellent time.

Hurdler Terry Johnson captured two seconds and his times were remarkable considering he had never run a full flight of highs or lows before. Hank Mazurski filled in during absence of Jack Byrger and although Mazurski hadn't planned to hurt, he pitched in a third in the shot put which helped the Shore cause.

Two Baltimore Olympic trackmen were double winners. Carl Caper, recently returned veteran of Korea, won the 100-yard and 220-yard sprints.

Thinclads Bow To C.U.

(By John Hughes)

Tuesday, April 14, W.C. lost a track meet to Catholic University by a score of 80-37.

The meet was run in spite of poor weather conditions. It was cold, windy and the boys found it difficult to warm up. Low Buckley, one of the standouts in this year, won the mile, running in a time of 5:58. Buckley, who is a sophomore, ran a brilliant race, running behind C.U. Jim Brennan for three laps, breaking the wind.

Low Buckley took over the last lap and headed to victory. In addition to this, Low won second in the two mile and third in high hurdles, giving him a total of nine points.

George Eichelberger ran a fine race in the half-mile, gaining second place and finishing strongly to nearly catch the C.U. half-miler, Jim Aris.

Ells Boyd, captain of this year's team, turned in a remarkable performance, storing over one-half of the team's points. Boyd won the high jump and hurdles, the high jump, and broad jump.

Due to the loss of Stu Young, who pulled a muscle, Joe Pokrzywa was the only W.C. dash man entered in the meet but he turned in a creditable performance against some of the best dash men in the conference, capturing third place in the 100 and 200. Jack Bergen missed a first in the shot put by six inches.

Dave Humphries, John Murdoch, Rival Thomas and George Eichelberger ran the 880-yard relay. All four boys had good times, but were edged by the Catholics in the last stretch of the race.

C.U. swept the pole vault, the three-mile and discus throw, gaining all three places in each.

The Shoremen expect a close meet with P.M.C. under.

Sprinter Young is expected to compete in this meet.

Theta Chi Captures Title For Intramural Basketball

Theta Chi won out over a determined Lambda Chi competitor to cop the 1952-53 intramural basketball league championship. The Oxmen reached the finals by triumphing over the Farmers, while the Foxes eliminated Foxwell despite John Hughes' 21 points. The championship went to the extent of three games as the Foxes, paced by Dick Weller and Bob Stall, won the initial encounter 33 to 31.

Theta Chi evened the series the following night, winning 34 to 26 as John Samuelli snuk 14 points for the winners. Before a sellout crowd at Chin Gymnasium, Theta Chi won the deciding contest in a one-sided game.

Rutgers Prevails

(By Hugh Delano)

Journeymen moths to Rutgers last Saturday, the Washington College Intramural squad dropped a 54 heart-breaker to a handily Rutgers ten at New Brunswick. It was the fourth setback in six starts for Coach Charlie Clark's Shore slickens.

The Rutgers lads parlayed a brace of goals midway through the fourth quarter to pull in front by a 54 score—a margin so great proved enough for the win. Washington had previously held 20 and 4-5 leads.

The opening stanza saw the Shoremen jump to a two goal advantage as Bob Lipsitz netted a pair of goals. However, near the close of that session, the Scarlet came out to the front with scores by Ray Maricelli and Don Stevens.

Neither squad could hit the scoring column in the second period as both defenses held up and goalies Bill Russell and Will Howard scored up well.

George Hesse's score for Washington made the count 32, but Stevens deadlocked it again for the home team. Captain John Grian put the Clarkmen ahead again 43 late in the quarter on a screen shot. However, the final quarter four goals, which the Oxmen collected four goals, which home both the tying and winning markers. Pete Thomas set up the deciding score.

Following the last goal, Russell, Shore goalie, was injured in a goal-mouth scramble and had to get relief from John Parker.

The lineup:

Washington	Pos.	Rutgers
Russell	G	W. Howard
Barnett	D	Tillotson
Weller	D	Frankie
Jennings	D	Amber
Hesse	M	Mosher
Grim	M	Howell
Appleby	M	Cwikowski
Lipsitz	A	Maricelli
J. Howard	A	Stevens
Wasieleski	A	Gabriel

Goals—Stevens 4, Lipsitz 2, Maricelli, Hesse, Grim, Substitutes: Washington—Bair, Hunter, Dean, Parker, Rogers—Rik, Bosow, Simon, Egan, McEllett, Gleason, Thomas, Montgom, Yarnall, Yarnall.

Officials—Julien and Shaffer.

Team captain: "If there's anything I hate it's a crook. In the last week I've lost a pair of Baltimore U. school pants, a Loyola lacrosse stick, a Catholic U. towel, a Holterra jersey and a pair pink Western Maryland sweat socks."

Art Critic: "Ah! And what is this? It is superb. What soul. What expression!" Coach: "Yeah! That's where I clean off my point brushes."

to 27. The Foxes were never in contention as Neil Tighman and Ed Cingilis rallied the victors into a comfortable lead with 20 and 10 points respectively.

In winning, the Theta's showed impeccable teamwork and rebounding ability as Rip Sewell and Rod Ware controlled the backboards. This season was an immense success and due credit must be given to director, Clet Canone. Clet will also handle the coming softball league which will begin within a week. Entries are to be submitted no later than April 21. Games will be played 6:30 p.m. at Kibler Field. Persons interested in umpiring are asked to contact Clet.

W.C. Tops Bridgewater

Washington College's baseball squad opened its two day Southern Tour last Friday by triumphing over a determined Bridgewater College team, 6-1, in a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball game.

The Shoremen gave Eagle pitcher Roy May a rough going over in the initial four frames and then won a late rally to top their second win in three starts.

Captain John Samuelli was the spark plug of the winner's attack as he collected a timely single in the first inning with two men aboard, putting the Shoremen out in front for the remainder of the contest. They drove May to the showers in the fourth with a three-run outburst featuring hits by Dan Samel, Samuelli, Herman Schmidt and Tom Bounds.

After the fourth, Washington was stymied by Eagle reliever Bob Will, who didn't allow a hit in the final 5 2/3 innings after coming to the assistance of May and set down nine of the Shoremen on strikes. W.C. hurlers, Roy Sick, Bob Sullivan, and Leo Gillis, limited Bridgewater to only four hits, while their teammates banded out six hits good for six runs. The Eagles threatened in the sixth and eighth innings but left the bases empty in both frames.

Bridgewater's biggest inning was the two-run eighth, when the Eagles received four walks and Fred Dorel singled.

Greyhounds Victorious

Loyola College eked out a 1-0 victory over Washington College on Thursday, April 8.

Held to two lone hits by Leo Gillis, the Greyhounds capitalized on a walk and a single for the only run of the game. Gene Howel opened the last half of the first inning with a walk, and then stole second. Ko Kirby then rapped a sharp single to left field scoring Hook with the winning run.

The Shore men threatened in the second as Doug Tiller opened with a single. Tom Bounds was safe on an error. With two on and no outs, John Samuelli struck out and Danny Samel fielded to the center fielder who made the catch and threw to second base for a double play. In a losing game, Leo Gillis struck out 11 and walked only 4. Mathews, the Loyola pitcher, struck out 4 and walked 3 men allowing 7 hits.

Along Tiller and Roger Smoot led the Shoremen hitting attack with two singles apiece, while Rod Ware, Dan Samel and Herman Schmidt contributed singles.

Freshman: "Will giving up women make me live longer?"

Doctor: "No. It only seems longer."

Hornets Sting Shoremen

Lynchburg opened its 1953 bid for Mason-Dixon honors last Saturday as right-hander Don Bowles hurled a 4-0 shutout win over Washington College.

It was the victor's second win of the season, having previously defeated Holstra 4 to 3, while the Shoremen dropped their second game in four starts.

Hornet second sacker Bill Woodbridge opened the first inning by doubling down the right field line off the slants of Shoreman hurler, Ron Sick, who was seeking his second win in two days.

Successive hits by John Evans and Winny Overstreet produced a quick two-run lead which the winces never relinquished.

Left fielder Bud Swindell blasted Sick's first pitch of the second frame high over the right field fence for a home run which put the Shoremen into a comfortable lead.

Washington threatened in the third and fifth innings with potential runs on base, but each time Bowles curbed his way out of trouble.

Fatherly Leo Gillis relieved Sick in the third, and showed good control in limiting the Hornets to only three hits in his four inning stint.

DOTS and DASHES: Washington College's baseball team is having trouble producing runs for its freshmen.

Marine Commission

The Marine Corps announced that due to the current expansion of its regular strength, it will offer approximately 5,000 regular commissions between now and June, 1953.
 Captain Nate L. Adams II, USMC, declared today.

The Marines expect to appoint a large number of these 5,000 Regular Officers from their Reserve Officer Candidate Training Programs, the Officer Candidate Course and the Plat-
 0on Leaders' Class.

Captain Adams said these two Officer Candidate Training Programs are open to both married and single college students. He advised interested college men to contact the Marine Corps Officer Procurement Office,
 Room 1105, in the temporary "Y"
 Building, opposite the Willard Hotel,
 at 1400 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.,
 Washington 4, D. C., or call Ex.
 57585 for an interview. The next class for college graduates convenes
 July 9 at the Marine Corps Schools,
 Quantico, Va. Applicants attend a ten-week course. Upon completion of this course, the candidate becomes a Second Lieutenant.

Reserve officer graduates of the Officer Candidate Course and the Plat-0on Leaders' Class Programs may qualify for Regular Marine Corps commissions upon their graduation from the five month special basic course which they attend upon being commissioner.

O. D. K. Honors Are Presented

Thursday, April 30, Omicron Delta Kappa awarded certificates of merit to eleven students who have attained meritorious achievement in all-round leadership in our college life. The 11m highly commendable, those seniors who have received this honor. The paper feels that this achievement can be far-sighted enough to realize its value.

Congratulations to: Jane Bradley, Herb Brown, Bo Heath, Bill Murray, Tom Tontan, Charles Waecher, Lynn White, Marlene Meyer, Wes Edwards, Bill Russell and Tom Hedman.

NOTICE

Those students who have bills outstanding with the college should pay them before May 15, 1953. No student will be allowed to take final exams until all bills are paid in the Business Office.

NOTICE

All students interested in attending the Washington College symposium should contact Mr. Foster immediately. It is important that he know the number of students and the names asked for.

SCENE FROM "LIGHT UP THE SKY"

Lynn Diana and Barbara A. Jones are pictured above in a scene from the Washington Players' recent comic hit by Moss Hart, "Light Up The Sky."

S.S.O. Names New Members

At the meeting of the Sigma Sigma Omicron, campus scholarship fraternity on the campus March 26th, the following new members were greeted: Carolyn White, James Bousack, K. Herbert Turk and Alvin J. Bressner.

The following students were elected to hold office for the 1953-54 academic year:

President—John Minnich
Vice-President—Richard Stevens
Secretary—Mrs. Oppenlander
Treasurer—K. Herbert Turk

Mrs. Oppenlander and Dr. Clark are fraternity faculty advisors.

At the regular meeting held April 23rd, Mr. Mercer of the faculty addressed the club on his experiences in World War I. The meeting was followed by a social hour and refreshments were served.

The members of Sigma Sigma Omicron are as follows: James Bousack, Charles R. Cole, Carolyn White, Charles Whitsett, John Minnich, Rick and Stevens, K. Herbert Turk and Alvin J. Bressner.

Doug Tilley To Head Varsity Club

In a recent election, the Washington College Varsity Club elected Doug Tilley to succeed John Samuel as President. This is Doug's second year as a member of the "W", and last year he served as treasurer of the club.

Other officers elected are: Rod Ware, vice-president; Bob Appleby, treasurer; and sophomore Jack Bryan, secretary. The other three officers are juniors.

Tilley has played three years of soccer and two years of basketball and baseball. Ware has played soccer and basketball two years, and track one year. Appleby has earned his letter in soccer, track and basketball, and is now a member of the lacrosse team. Bryan has been a stand-out on the basketball team for two years.

The Varsity Club now has 22 members with only ten graduating in June. This spring, the club raised the required number of letters from two to three. From with this addition and requirement, there will be about ten new eligible for membership next fall.

The Varsity Club sponsors one of the major social events on campus—the Homecoming Dance. With the proceeds from the dance, the club awards a white pull-over sweater to each new member, and a maroon coat sweater to all senior members. In addition to this, the club has purchased sweaters for the cheerleaders.

Sorority Dance Decorative

The annual Inter-Sorority Dance was held last Saturday, April 25, in Cain Gymnasium. Lew Kent furnished the music for the dance, which took its theme from "My Blue Heaven".

Highlights of the evening were the Grand March and the three traditional dances of each sorority. The A. O. P.'s danced to "Does your heart beat for me", the Alpha Chi's to "As time goes by", and lastly, "Dancing in the dark" was played for the Zeta's.

Student Council Officers Seated

At an assembly on Thursday, April 30, Washington College Student Government held its first official assembly.

Featured in this assembly were the installation of new officers: president, Bob Appleby; vice-president, Mary Lee Lincoln; secretary, Betty Ayares; and treasurer, Anne Grinn.

The treasurer's report was given by Barbara A. Jones and committee reports were given by the following:

Committee on Grievances: Bill Russell.
By-Laws: Ken Bourne.
Social: Sandra Duval.
Women's Dormitories: Pat Neighbor.

Elections: Frank Dickey.
Judicial: Joe Groce.

Three proposed amendments to the Student Government Association Constitution were presented to the student body.

Fraternity Evaluation

At the request of the president, a faculty committee has been meeting with fraternity representatives for the purpose of fraternity evaluation.

The administration is concerned with the question of what fraternities are doing on Washington College campus. Chief among the points brought out were ways in which the college and the fraternities could improve in order to have a more favorable understanding and cooperation.

The fraternities pointed out ways in which they themselves could change and also made recommendations to the committee for administrative action in such areas as Hudson Hall.

dent body. Following are the annual (1) to be voted in or not.

(1) The inadequate right to refuse nomination for appointments to extracurricular activities without stating a reason is recognized by the Student Council.

(2) Attendance shall be taken at every Student Council meeting. Any representative members absent from two consecutive regular meetings or from four meetings in one semester, without excuse presented to the president and upon question found acceptable to the majority of the Council members, shall be reported to his or her class and charged with delinquency with the Council's request for replacement. The Council may recommend one of its members to his or her constituents for replacement as such time as three-fourths of the Council members feel there is just cause for his removal.

(3) Affiliated with the Student Government Association shall be a judicial branch to be composed of 11 members: the president, vice-president, and secretary of the Student Government Association and four members of the faculty, who shall be representative members and three non-representative members, chosen from a student jury panel, which shall comprise a student faculty disciplinary committee. A quorum shall consist of nine members.

'ROUND THE CAMPUS

I would like to congratulate the Science Club, the Science and Psychology Departments, and the rest of the students who set up the annual science exhibit last week. It was, as usual, an excellent job and a credit to the college.

The Pan-Hellenic dance was quite successful and the decorations were very attractive. But girls, if that piano player tries to return next year, please send her to a Gay Nineties Revue or to a bar room in a gold mining town in the far west!

Concerning campus activities, it has been brought to my attention that many clubs and organizations, in scheduling meetings and special events, do not follow the calendar of events that is set up at the beginning of each semester.

Meetings and discussions are often held which interfere with such scheduled activities as: dances, plays, concerts, etc. Athletic contests are sometimes re-scheduled without any consideration for other organizations on campus.

The Student Government has begun the task of supervising the calendar of events, but a committee of reprimand is needed. This group could prevent many conflicts which arise and better coordinate campus activities.

"Flashlight Caught"

By The Night Watchman

Inter-aternity dance was comparatively noisy on the romantic front since nobody lost their heads. But watch for those pins to fly tonight! Fellow, the only safe thing to do is leave them home and yield not to temptation.

The love of the week is in the Alumni Office with Shirley and Lathia.

Top sociate at the Alpha Chi party was John Doe (what's your name?)

Terry, who fight in (Relax and enjoy it)

Four timely words of wisdom coming from one corner of the Zeta Alpha picnic were "I'll drink to that."

Who is having a sale on (Roses—Simonds, take note)

About 1945 every night Reid Hall drive looks like 5th Avenue. Would somebody please volunteer to direct traffic!

Sample look like he's taking after the "Hush Wonder" of seven years ago.

Monie, just what you're doing under the bunkbed at Betteford?

Herb, you couldn't study for that test you got Tuesday, could you?

The did it really matter who caught when you were 27 km. ahead?

Mr. Perper handles that call center like George Kell fields a lot hits a little.

The couple of the week—John and Mary Lee.

Shelly got coded off at the picnic Sunday with a G.I. can full of icy water.

Would Alice please tell us when he is going to sing the Woodpecker Song for E.D.

Flash... Youngest Alpha Chi goes on picnic or old age of three weeks—that's straining his right, Cy.

Last seen running out of the gym in quest of his pants was a boy named of Bessie... What happened?

Please note, third floor of Reid Hall. This is the most punishable version. John, where did you lose your eye clasp?

Monie, it is really true that Robbie said or is there somebody else?

Monie wants to know, "Where's my phony?"

The best dressed man in the soft ball league is R.J. peg pants and all.

The Washington Players' play was... man, I like that fine about the candle.

Baltus, where does Cordell Hall reside now? Is it Bethesda Naval Hospital or Arlington Cemetery?

Bonnie, how do you vote 236 in Germany?

What is this about Smokey and Detroit?

Sminda says, "We'll have no internal strife in our compact little ball—the song must go on, fit or not."

Rumor has it that we're thinking of exporting Melb in hopes of getting a newer model next time.

At the end of her prayers every night Pat adds, "And please let me be there next time John hits a home."

Understand the Zeta dream boy really missed the boat last weekend.

Sure is tough when baby's won't let you come home for a whole month, isn't it, Jane?

When did John Parker start working in the Snack Bar—more important still, when is he stopping?

We understand that "Bullhead" has written to the Ocean City jail for reservations now that the summer holidays is near. Bull's exclamation, "Hope they save our old cell!"

We have heard it rumored that Janet "Smoozy" Middleton is prepping to be an Arthur Murray dance instructor by giving jitter-bugs lessons in Hudson.

Here are the two snake charmers—Stump Gardner and Joe Geisler? If there had been a chandler in the room, they both would have been hanging from it.

Mary Smith has been taking some of his buddies out to the ranch to ride horses. Since one of them ran away with "Hopalong" Eisenhower in the saddle, Smith has been "The Lone Rider."

Have fun tonight, Kiddies, do try to leave at least two miles of the A.G. now standing. I'll see you about 1:35 as I'm making my rounds.

Senior Of The Week

Who is the studly boy with the dark wavy hair, soft blue eyes, tall stature, and vivacious, blond-haired wife? The fellow in question can usually be found in Dunning Hall during the afternoon, either squinting at slides or cooking with test tubes. When he is not busy with his own work, he is helping as a lab assistant, straightening befuddled science students. Everyone knows him, and you have surely guessed who it is—Cy Rollins.

Cy leads a very active life and has been in more activities during his four years at W.C. than many people could boast of in a lifetime. He has given much of his time to Theta Chi, acting as secretary in his junior year and vicepresident this year. His interest in fraternities doesn't stop here. He has formerly been the vice-president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and is currently serving as president.

Cy, who is a chemistry major, plans to continue his studies at University of Maryland Medical School in September. Judging from his work as vice-president of the Society of Science, we know that he will be successful in his field.

Cy has many other interests besides Biology, one of them being Journalism. He is now the assistant circulation manager of The Elm. As a sophomore, he was the assistant manager of the Handbook. In his junior year, he was promoted to editor.

If you are not now convinced that Cy is the best, look at University of Maryland Medical School in September. Judging from his work as vice-president of the Society of Science, we know that he will be successful in his field.

As if this is not enough to boast of, Cy and his snookys, blue-eyed wife, the former Mary Annette Apple Smith, now have an energetic baby boy, Edward. We might add that this baby is one of distinction, having already attended a picnic at the residence of three weeks.

It is very easy to see that Cy is a well liked and well rounded young man. Judging from his success at W.C., we know he'll be a success at Medicine. Good luck, Cy.

Senior Dance

Prior to the dance, the A.O.P.'s had cocktails at Mrs. Whaley's. During intermission, the Zeta's had a get together at Chas Chapman's apartment, and Alpha Chi was the guest of the Mic Week.

Decorations for the dance was furnished by Martha Goldsborough, Carol Oakerson, Wanda Macmillan, and A.J. Carr, under the direction of Rose Mary Hatem. Special recognition should be given Lella Lee Davis who designed and made the angels. These cherubs, plus a false ceiling of blue crepe streamers, the golden stars of heaven at the entrance, and a shining fairy castle in the back—room, indeed made the dance a success.

Bill Murray and Albi Collo handled the refreshment stand, under the direction of the Zeta's, and the A.G. P.'s took care of cleanup.

With The GREEKS:

Alpha Chi Omega

The night of the Inter-Society Dance, the Alpha Chi's were given an intermission party at the home of Miss Weeks on Water Street. It was a wonderful party and everyone had a nice time.

Elections were held recently for the representatives to the Pan Hellenic Council for 1953-54. Barbara A. Jones was elected Senior Delegate and June Wells was elected Junior Delegate. Rose Mary Hatem was elected as Beta Pi's delegate to the convention which is held this year in Bath, Canada.

Alpha Chi's have planned two picnics in the near future. On May 16, Cabinet and Mrs. Hoffman are having a picnic for all Alpha Chi's and their dates. On May 26, Mrs. Lamont has invited the Alpha Chi's to a buffet luncheon.

The last piece of furniture that we ordered arrived this week. This furniture is just what we have been needing for a long time. It is a bridge table and four bridge chairs.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Congratulations to Brothers Wintring, Bourn, Morrison, Bunting, Samis and Thomas on their election to office. A vote of thanks is also in order to Brothers Bourn, Vinyard, and Landon who will soon be among the ranks of our governing alumni or our Brothers Vinyard and Bourn are among the few remaining chairs.

Winterling, Bourn To Head Phi Sig

Bill Winterling and Ken Bourn were elected and installed as president and vice-president of Phi Sigma Kappa on Monday evening, April 27. Among the other officers elected were: Howard Morrison, secretary; Ken Bunting, treasurer; Harvey Samis, sentinel; and Ronnie Thomas, inductor.

Upon his installation in office, Bill appointed Peter Barbagio as chairman, Jack Winkler as secretary, and George Hunt as assistant to the treasurer.

Bill Winterling succeeds Herb Bourn, who has led the chapter for the past two years and who was also vice-president of the Inter-Fraternity and Debate Director for last group. Following graduation Herb plans to enter law in the Philadelphia area.

Ken Bourn is president of the Forensic team and a member of the lacrosse team. Among his previous offices in the fraternity were: manager (1952), and treasurer (1953).

Fraternity . . .

...shing rules, and a supervised study hall for freshmen receiving Dean slips.

As yet, no positive action has been taken by either the fraternities or the committee, but the committee is going to submit a report of their findings to the administration. It is felt by both groups that definite improvements will be forthcoming.

ter members of the chapter and their departure make a new era in the life of the group.

And Brother Bunting: If you insist on using Algonquian "shorthand" in the records may you ought to warn the auditor in advance. Anyway, it's a clack he won't have any complaints about your work.

Brother Lee DeWitt dropped by for a visit recently. At present he is working at Edgewood, Maryland, in the auditor in advance. They have now raised enough money for her complete support for the current year.

The A.O.P.'s were glad to have such a good turnout on April 22 for their open house held for faculty and alumni.

Pan Hellenic weekend was full of fun for the A.O.P.'s. Among other activities, they enjoyed a party held at the dance at the home of Squ Whaley.

Love life is booming. Mark W. Morrison, new senior, Frank Smith, senior, ring Lows of happiness, to the future to Shirley Hand and Fred LaWall who plan to marry in June.

The A.O.P.'s sing "April in Paris" at the song fest. On May 8 they are planning another good time at the Inter-Fraternity dance.

Phi Sigma Kappa's annual picnic with swimming, boating, lots of food, and lots of fun. An open house will be held on May 16th from 2 to 5 o'clock. All students are invited.

Welcome back to the alumni as this "alumni week."

Zeta Tia Alpha

Four Zetas attended the Alpha-Piata Convention at Madison College.

Jo Cusack, Pat Anderson, R.C. Jones, and Ramona Willey. They had a great time and came back full of new ideas and enthusiasm.

Phi Sigma Kappa was married to Ralph Shindler during spring vacation on March 27, at a beautiful wedding in Pymmes Area. Congratulations to both of them! The Zeta initiation banquet was April 6 at the Grand, a truly memorable evening. The Phi Sigma Kappa was big success with the best decorations ever.

The Zeta Intermission party was at F. Chapman's, and everyone had a wonderful time. No less enjoyable was the picnic they had Sunday at Mr. Phil Fier near town. (Spiders and flies, but a beautiful day.)

Monday night, Dr. Livingston was the speaker at the monthly Student meeting. It was gratifying to learn that our college stands sixtieth among other schools as to the caliber of students it attracts. The Zeta has been working long and hard preparing for the Sinf Fier and Sandra Duvall's capable direction.

K.A.

It's good to see so many of the brothers back for the interfraternity dance. Don't forget the party at the Ranch which will be held before and after the dance.

Congratulations to Beta Omega's Congratulations to Beta Omega's new initiates—Pete Long, Les Bell and Clark Colvig.

By the way, dear brothers, Mr. Foster wants to know the story he heard the story about "Those cups and bottles" which were found in between the walls of the old K.S. House! The only solution that I can see is that they were there and have put those cups and bottles there for inspiration when the house first built.

Sho' Nine Faces Terrors In Crucial Test Today

In The PRESSBOX

(With Bill Murray)

GOOD LUCK, COACH

An individual connected with Washington College Athletics who few people on campus know, yet who has coached here for five years, is bidding us farewell.

I am speaking of Tom Eliason, Jr., Coach of the Varsity Tennis Team. Tom, a resident of Chestertown, Md., graduated from Washington College in 1941. He played Varsity Tennis for four years at Washington College.

Tom is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity and has been coaching varsity tennis at Washington College for the past five years. In that time he has coached such players as "Boots" Shetterly, Lou James, Bill "Biscuits" Brandt, Gary Wyckoff and other outstanding players, including Jack Smith and Bruce Wyckoff.

Coach Eliason has served in this capacity without receiving any compensation at all. He has given up his time to further tennis at Washington College. Good luck to you in the future, Coach.

SPRING SPORTS

It is always interesting to compare statistics in sports. I would like to show how the spring sports so far this year (April 28) stack up with last year's spring program.

First of all, I notice after looking at the records that Spring Sports at Washington College this year are not doing so well, considering the won and lost columns. Baseball is the only team to have won more than it has lost. The diamond squad has won 6 and lost 4. The lacrosse team has won 3 and lost 5, while the tennis team's record is 1 win and 6 losses. The trackmen are eyeing their first win today. The overall record so far is 10 wins and 19 losses for a percentage of .345.

In the spring of 1932 the records were as follows: Tennis Team won 8 and lost 2. The baseball team won 8 and lost 5, lacrosse won 8 and lost 6 and the track won 2 and lost 4. The overall record then was 26 wins and 17 losses for a respectable percentage of .602.

This analysis shows that the spring sports record so far this spring is 257 less than last year. It is my belief that the percentage will favorably increase by the end of the season, and go over the .502 mark.

Gillis Hurls One-Hitter

Freshman Leo Gillis gave up one hit in winning his second straight M.D. Conference game, beating Mt. St. Mary's, 6-3 on April 23. Gillis retired to order the first fourteen men to face him before left fielder Paul Sharpe connected with one of his fast balls for the lone hit, a home run in the fifth inning.

Washington opened their scoring in the fourth inning when Sho'men Doug Tilly, singled to right field. After advancing all the way to third on a wild pitch by Mount hurler, Ward Clarke, Herm Sandherr singled him across for the first run of the game.

In the sixth frame Washington added to their lead by the result of Tilly being hit by a pitched ball, and a single by shortstop Dan Saatchi. In an attempt to catch Saatchi stealing second base, Mount catcher Frank Tumulty threw wildly past second with Tilly swinging on the play. Captain John Scumelli scored Saatchi with a spearing ball which opposing hurler Clark dropped.

Washington led the game away in the eighth with two more tallies, Sam Hill singled across Tilly, who had previously batted his second hit of the day, and Joe Seawright, pinch hitting for Scumelli, singled to right field, sending in Santulli with the last tally.

Score by innings:
Mt. St. Mary's 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 0—3
Washington 0 0 0 1 0 2 1 2 x—6

NOTE

Any student who does not plan to return to Washington College next fall should submit a letter of withdrawal to the Registrar's Office as soon as possible. This applies to graduating seniors, also.

Shore Nine Sweeps Doubleheader

Washington College swept a Mason-Dixon Conference double-header from Catholic University Tuesday, April 21, with freshmen pitcher, Leo Gillis, hurling a two-hit 1-0 shutout victory in the opening game.

The Sho'men's lone run came in the third frame as the result of Doug Tilly's single to right field. After advancing to third base on a successful hit and run play, set up by coach Tom Kibler, Doug scored the only run of the contest on an error by Catholic third baseman, Jack Powerley. Gillis exhibited fine control and a hard fast ball in fanning eight opposing batters.

In the first inning of the nightcap Cardinal center fielder, George Vach put on a tremendous base running exhibition. After advancing to first base via a wild pitch off the shanks of Sho'men hurler, Bob Sullivan, he stole second and third base and promptly climaxed the exhibition by swiping home plate.

Netmen Win, 5-4

The W.C. net team won its first match of the season as it defeated Mt. St. Mary's College, 5 to 1. The Shore team won 3 singles and two doubles matches to achieve this victory. Tony Tomian, playing in the number one position, won his first match of the year, winning 6-2, 6-3. Les Bell, playing in the number two position, won 6-1, 6-0. Bill Murray shorthit his opponent, 6-0, 6-0. In doubles, Bell and Landin won easily, 6-2, 6-1.

With the score tied 4 to 4, Murray and Hans won a thrilling third set match by defeating the Mt. St. Mary's third doubles team, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

The summaries were:

Singles

1. Tony Tomian beat Cammilleri, 6-1, 6-2.
2. Les Bell beat Bill Keene, 6-0, 6-1.
3. Bill Wyatt, MTS, beat Jerry Landin, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.
4. Bill Murray beat Donald Voche, 6-0, 6-0.
5. Frank Gruber, MTS, beat Karey Ward, 6-3, 6-3.
6. Terry Thomas, MTS, beat Don Mayrout, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles

1. Wyatt and Cammilleri beat Ward and Tomian, 6-3, 6-2.
2. Bell and Landin beat Keene and Voche, 6-2, 6-1.
5. Murray and Hans beat Thomas and Gruber, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

NET CAPTAIN

Captain Bill Murray who has a 4 and 3 record in single matches.

Gillis Or Sisk To Get Mound Call

Freshman hurler Leo Gillis who pitched one-hitter against Mt. St. Mary's.

Washington College will oppose Western Maryland on the Terrors' field today in what may prove to be the deciding game on the schedule for Mason-Dixon honors.

The Sho'men, currently in a first place deadlock with Hopkins University in the loop standing with a 6 and 3 record, will have both of their strong-armed freshman hurlers, Leo Gillis and Leo Gillis, ready for action. Gillis with a 2 win, 1 loss record, will probably give the starting assignment from Coach Tom Kibler, who seems to have his spirited club steadily improving in the thick of the race.

For the Terrors, big right-hander Walt Sanders will get the nod from manager Jim Bower, and will be backed up by lefty Don James. Sanders has an identical pitching record to that of Gillis.

Facing the Shore hitting attack will be first sacker Herms Schmidt and second baseman Doug Tilly. Both are currently leading the team with respective 421 and 400 batting averages.

Bruce Mills of Dundalk, Md., and Harold White are expected to supply the offensive punch in Western Maryland's attempt for its sixth league victory. They previously dropped a double-header to Baltimore U.

Hand Loyola First Defeat

Freshman hurler Ronnie Sisk held Loyola to five hits and scored three runs himself without an official time at bat last Friday as Washington College knocked the Greyhounds from the undefeated ranks of the Mason-Dixon Baseball Conference with a 8 to 4 victory.

The freshman right-hander, from Cumberland, Md., uttered only one extra-base blow, a double by pinch-hitter Don Glodick in the ninth, as he hung on for his third win against four losses.

Sisk also walked three times, scoring on each occasion, as Washington shot the Loyola favorites their first conference loss in five games.

The defeat dropped the Greyhounds from first place in the conference North Division as Western Maryland came away from a clean slate in their games.

Trackmen Bow To Loyola

Loyola College took nine first places in 13 events last Thursday to hand Washington College its fourth straight Mason-Dixon Conference track loss, 77 to 40.

Pacing the Baltimoreans to their second victory in as many starts was Tommas Volante, who won the 2-mile and half-mile events and shared first place in the mile with a team-mate, Ed Collins.

Elsworth Boyd, of Washington, was the meet's top scorer with 17 points, winning both hurdle events, tying for first in the high jump and placing second in the broad jump.

Scotchman Lew Buckley generated third place for the Shore and George Eichelberger took second in the half-mile.

Mile—Won by Collins and Volante (tie), Loyola; third, Buckley, Washington, Time—5:09.

440-Yards—Won by Boyd, Loyola; second, Palace, Loyola; third, Eichelberger, Washington, Time—5:00.

110-Yards—Won by Barringer, Loyola; second, LePore, Washington; third, Bous, Loyola, Time—10:8.

Lacrosse Win To Sho'men

Washington College exploded for six goals in the final quarter to defeat Loyola College, 14 to 8, in lacrosse last Monday at Fergusson.

Paced by John Ginn, who scored a goal in each quarter, the Sho'men pulled away steadily in the fourth period after leading, 8 to 7, at the end of three quarters.

Uses Only 3 Subs

The winners, using only three substitutes, saw Loyola into the ground in the decisive period, handing the Greyhounds their third setback in four games.

Tommy Wagner topped Loyola with four goals, while Leo Thomas got two.

Has 55 Record

Washington College has a 3 and 5 season's record, losing to Mount Washington, 13 to 5, last week.

To Discuss U.S. WAVE Program

The Wave Officer Program will be brought to the Washington College on May 6, 1959, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. by Lieut. Eleanor Homan, U. S. Navy, a representative of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Homan, who was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the College in 1955, is taking her Master's in Civil Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania, where she served the Navy as a liaison officer.

Frederick, Sophomore and Junior women may gain information on the Reserve Officer Candidate program in which undergraduates receive summer training with pay at Bainbridge, Md., and are commissioned after graduation.

Senior women may be commissioned after graduation and receive 16 weeks training as officers in Newport, R.I.

Wave officers hold responsible positions in administration, education, communications, physical education, occupational therapy, psychology, publications, public relations, and public intelligence.

Lieut. Homan will be in Dr. Livingston's office from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, May 6, at the Washington College girls' interest in joining the WAVES.

G.I. Theta Chi Favorites

The intra-mural football league at Washington College got off to a fast start last Monday at Summerville and Kibler fields with director Cleo Cannon throwing out the first ball which inaugurated the 1955 season. The league, composed of Theta Chi, Lambda Chi, Kappa Alpha, Phi Sigma, Kappa, G.I. Hall, Summerville, Foxwell and the Dark Horse, the Dark Sentinels, will consist of an array of abilities and should produce an exciting race for the flag.

In the official opening games, Theta Chi defeated Kappa Alpha by a score of 12 to 5, while top flight center, G.I. Hall, shellied Foxwell by a 35 to 11 victory.

Bob Appleby lined his first victory of '55 over the K.A.'s behind the powerful hitting attack of Bergen, Bagger, Rigdon, Ed Conagha, Neil Tighman, and Dave Belchins, while Roy MacDonald, Ed Bens, Joe Gervino, and "Fats" White contributed daintily base hits in the losing cause.

G.I. Hall seemed to have everything under control in their tussle with Foxwell as freshman curve-baller, John Eversole, sent his team into a first place tie in the standings. George Hesse, Ed Schutte, E. Joseph, Murray Heidekman, Frank Francis exhibited the potentialities of a title contender by unloading a blistering attack of 35 runs.

Critic Reviews The F Jay's Down

With a few more gags, some poses, and the throwing of a little monkey, Miss Hart's "Light Up The Sky" might be enjoyed as more lark by an audience in the mood for fun. The author, however, doubtless intended the play as a double-act comedy, a sort of entertainment that is funny only in a limited sense and is not always appreciated even by the usual connoisseurs. Like New York's The particularly objects of Mr. Hart's satire, Katherine Cornell, Eleanor Holmes, and Billy Rose among them, were not, it is said, enormously amused by the first performances of the play, years ago. Over the years their feelings have. But is this a comedy at all? The suspicious college student, perhaps, for a moral, may find all sorts of it more underneath. This is the story of a star-struck young man who writes a great deal of verse, but is too shy to utter his poems, or stress on the boards. He will have to compromise himself with the high principles that beset him to write in the first place, and he is called on to indignant and to this might be comedy. But it is not work out. On the contrary, at the last moment, an earthly, earthy heaven and accepting the devil, he takes his fate forever with the screaming, scratching, tootle, tootle, of his feet, of people who can make his nose light up the immediate sky. Maybe he should sense. But it is funny.

In a short review of this sort I believe the critic is expected to say something elegant about almost everything in the cast, and at the same time to give an impression of critical seriousness by suggesting that something about the performance was not quite right. The performance by the Washington Players this week was a remarkably competent one, for which the chief credit should go to the director, Miss Stallings. The casting, in particular, was excellent; the staging was effective, the business good, the pace sure. If there was a weakness, it lay perhaps in the matter of interpretation, which seemed to hesitate between farce and real comedy with an inclination toward the first. The tone was a little noisy. The confusion may be the fault of the author himself. Some, or indeed most of the characters—the director Fitzgerald, the actress and her husband, the moved Kibler—lead themselves irretrievably to caricature. Others, like Peter Sloan and Owen Turner, who are Miss Hart himself at different stages of his career, may be comic but are hardly farcical. Mr. Hart was unwilling or unable to caricature himself.

Of all the players, Miss Delaney and Mr. Galla seemed to me to give the most finished and consistent performances in the tradition of high comedy, and to speak a form of English most easily understood at twenty paces. Miss Delaney, as the actress, had just the right degree and right sort of aloofness and fastidiousness to suggest a hint of stone underneath. Mr. Galla, I admit, was barely credible as the (real) director; but people like that do exist in real life, and when you meet them you feel as if you're pinching yourself. Mr. Kestey, as the director, was the right man, the ablest, with had parts demanding a very difficult combination of reality and sophistication; their solution was to be alternately repulsive and lovable, raucous and tender. Miss Diana, I felt, was at times too real, but she succeeded somehow in suggesting that she was as good a woman underneath as Miss Delaney was a bad one. Of the secondary characters, Mr. Daniels as the occasionally useful henchman was certainly the funniest, when he appeared at all. Mr. Keeler, as the theatre-maven business man from the West, was in his quiet way perhaps the most convincing; he would have made Mr. Galla cry some more. Mr. Gurney, in his brief appearance as the convicted Shriner, was amusingly real (or painfully so). If that's the way you feel, Miss Jones as the actress' mother seemed like a woman in whom all passion, except that for money, had long since been spent, and Mr. Clark, as the third playwright, a man in whom all delusions had long since dried up. In Mr. Clark's role a smile or a laugh now and then might not have been out of place—but was almost too dry. Miss Jones was perhaps almost too far, Mrs. Lowe, in her small and doubtfuls arising part, succeeded abjectly in reminding us that we are not all crazy.

The role of Peter Sloan, the young playwright, is certainly the most difficult of all, for the simple reason that it is written on a higher level of comedy than the level of the play as a whole. With its tragic overtones, it is almost really in the place unless the play is refused to suit it. Mr. Loevy played a straight part. He had both dignity and immorality; his earnest hopes and awful miseries, his failures and his gulps were both comic and touching. If he had an unconvincing moment, it was at the very end when Mr. Hart himself lets him down. Quicker than you can say disestablishmentarianism he is obliged to drop from his seat in the clouds into the real world of men. Some extra time for soul-searching seems needed here, as it must be at the very end when Mr. Hart himself lets him down. ## Jays Down Shoremen

The Washington College Tennis Team dropped its sixth match of the season as it was defeated by an undefeated Hopkins team, 8 to 1, at Hometown last Saturday.

The only bright picture of the day was Les Bell's victory over Bill Jennings of Hopkins by the scores of 6-5, 6-6, 6-3. Bell has now won 5 out of his 7 singles matches. The only other member of the team that has a winning record is Bill Murray who has compiled a 4 and 3 record.

The rest of the Washington College Tennis schedule reads as follows: May 4—Towson at home May 6—Mr. St. Mary's, away May 8—Catholic U., at home May 9—Randolph-Macon, at home The team to watch in action will be Catholic University of Washington, D. C. So far they have won 70 straight tennis matches which is 16 short of a record set by William and Mike College.

Jane Lowe To Receive ELM Award

VOL. XXI, No. 14 WASHINGTON COLLEGE SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1953

Minnich Elected President Of I.F.C.

Former Editor Will Get Ryle Memorial Award

Jane B. Lowe, graduate and past Editor of the Elm, has been chosen by the Elm staff to receive the Edson Riddle Ryle Memorial Award for outstanding service to the college paper. The award is made each year to the senior who has contributed most to the advancement of the newspaper.

Journalism is not a new field for Jane. Her mother was owner and editor of the Montgomery County Record where Jane worked for two summers, "doing everything from sweeping floors to writing features," as Jane puts it. In her senior year she was editor of the Tattler, her high school newspaper.

Jane has been a member of the Elm staff for four years, serving two years as a reporter, one as News Editor, and one as Editor-in-Chief. Her experience and ability have made her a competent and indispensable member of the organization.

In addition to her work on the Elm, Jane has served as President and Treasurer of Zeta Tau Alpha, Promotion Manager and Treasurer of the Washington Players, Cheerleader and Publicity Assistant of Washington College. She was the only girl to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday of the former editor of the Elm, Edson R. Ryle, a member of the 1951 graduating class, who was killed just prior to his graduation.

Commencement Weekend Features Alumni Dance

"The campus is beginning to bloom—sure sign of spring and commencement time, which this year will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 29, 30, 31." Everyone is looking forward to seeing alumni who are planning to return for the weekend which will be highlighted by the annual Alumni Dance and Graduation.

Upon arrival on the campus, alumni should register at General Reunion Headquarters in the lounge of West Hall, on Friday and Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Alumni receiving tickets for the annual luncheon, which are priced at $1.50, should pick them up at these headquarters prior to 12:00 on May 30. Reservations for dormitory rooms for both Friday and Saturday nights will be

W. C. Freshmen Rate Above Average

The release of names and scores for the 1952 American Council Psychological Examination for College Freshmen shows that the entering freshmen for 1952 ranked in the 38th percentile for 45,332 entering freshmen who took this test in 259 colleges and universities. Among the four year colleges Washington College freshmen rank in the 50th percentile the country over. Among the 29 colleges in which the test was given Washington College ranks 69th among 259 colleges and universities, teachers' colleges and junior colleges.

Song Fest Won By Zetas, Phi Sigs

The 1953 edition of the annual Song Fest was held in two sections this year due to a postponement of the male groups.

There were three female groups participating. Each group sang "Brahm's Lullaby" and one other song of their own choice. Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority chose "I've Got You Under My Skin" to start off the program. "April in Paris" was the selection rendered by Alpha Omicron Pi, followed by Alpha Chi, rendition of "Halls of Ivy." Mary Lee Lincoln was featured as soloist by the AOP's, and Donna Miller did a solo for the Alpha Chi's.

After much deliberation by the three judges, the winners' cup was awarded to Zeta Tau Alpha.

Due to inclement weather, the male song fest was held the following week in Bill Smith Auditorium. The required selection was "Drink To Me Only With True Eyes." Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity opened the program with their own choice—"Goldmann Igitt"—with Harvey Smith doing the solo. "Now The Day Is Over" was the free choice selected by Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, featuring Dick Wister with a solo.

These were the only male groups represented because of a misunderstanding in the schedule. The judges awarded the cup to Phi Sigma Kappa, which was presented by Dr. Gibson.

Administration Changes

As a result of the resignation of March of Dr. F. G. Livingston as Dean of the College, the Visitors and Governors have announced a realignment of the administrative staff of the college, to become effective in September. As a result of this realignment, the office of Dean of Men as such is being eliminated, and the college will have a full-time administrative officer who will hold the title of Dean of the College and who will serve both as academic dean and dean of men.

This decision was influenced by several factors, particularly the fact that several of the administrative officers of the college have carried heavy teaching loads in the past, so heavy as to make it impossible for them to carry on their teaching duties and their administrative duties with full justice to their own abilities.

In this new alignment, Dr. Livingston will teach full-time in the departments of education and psychology. Professor Foster will give up his teaching duties to devote himself to full-time work as registrar, and will take over a number of the testing functions presently lodged in the office of the dean of the college; Dr. Clark will assume full-time teaching duty as head of the department of history and political science, without other specific administrative responsibilities.

The administration and the governing board of the college desire to make it clear that this realignment is in (Continued on Page 5)

Winterling, Ware, Fox Named For 1953 - '54

In the Inter-Fraternity Council meeting, Tuesday, May 5, the eight fraternity representatives elected John Minnich to succeed Cy Rollins as president for the coming school year.

The office of vice-president will be filled by Bill Winterling of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity. Arden Fox from Kappa Alpha will serve in the capacity of secretary of the Council, and Rod Ware from

Stahl To Head Pegasus

The Board of Publications recently announced that Bob Stahl would edit the 1954 yearbook, succeeding Tony Tomlin, this year's editor.

Bob has done an outstanding job as business manager of The Elm this year. He is an active member in turn. This means that each fraternity of that group.

He was recently appointed Physics lab assistant for next year, as well as Pegasus editor.

Tony Tomlin's work on the Pegasus was superb and the book was an excellent publication. In the past, the students have very seldom received the yearbook before the summer vacation. Congratulations from The Elm staff. Tony.

Dean F. G. Livingston Retires To Little Room

There are few members of any Washington College. Dr. Livingston came to Chestertown as the result of a tennis match. When he was a graduate student at Harvard, he was approached by an older man who asked if anyone was interested in a game of tennis. When none of the others spoke up, he volunteered. This match brought others and developed into a long friendship. The man was Dr. Paul E. Titoworth, President of Washington College from 1923 through 1935. In 1925 he called Dr. Livingston to the school almost as if he were asking if anyone was interested in another tennis match. . . . and he accepted.

S. G. IN JEOPARDY?

This article is not a challenge or a rebuke or a demand for further action, its sole purpose is to bring to light what more than a majority of the upperclass student body feels about the recent disciplinary action. They feel that there is well-grounded reason to consider the action partial and unfair.

All are aware that the case is closed—the thing to consider is its effect upon our new Student Government. A student committee member said, "It is not our job to please the students in a case like this."

No student is ever "pleased" with a disciplinary action—quite the contrary, the punishments are usually considered too harsh. This sudden reversal in trend is surprising. Is there assurance that this leniency will be continued?

Dishonesty is dishonesty, be it academic, moral or any other. Last year's trend seemed to be set punishments for set offenses. This system has been abided by willingly by all students. Offenders took their punishment honorably with the knowledge that they were paying the price for their mistakes and with the assurance that future offenders would pay the same price. The records certainly show that this system was effective. But as of last Saturday, Joe Student can't be sure just where he stands. Unless absolute consistency is made by the by-word for disciplinary action, confidence in our Student Government will be rapidly declining. Without the confidence and support of the students, that organization may once again be doomed to failure on our campus.

Livingood...

of education and his one secret desire during that time was to have his office in the little room on the third floor. At the time, it was by the Chemistry office, the chem lab occupying that portion of Bill Smith. It was not until 1940 that the administration told him he could have it and in the same year he was made Dean of the college. He was first Dean from 1940 to 1942. With much joy he announced that as professor of psychology, he will finally get that little room that he has wanted for twenty-seven years.

Dr. Livingood introduced the testing program for entering freshmen and inaugurated Freshman Week. From years of stroking and estimating freshmen he states that there has been a gradual growth in the quality of W.C. students. He was also responsible for the creation of the College Orchestra which has now been abandoned due to lack of violin players. There were days, however, when the group gave concerts and never missed playing for an assembly program.

Perhaps Dr. Livingood is best known to the students as "Dean Willie." In all of his psychology classes "little Willie" was the victim of persecution complexes and numerous unpronounceable mental diseases. He stated, however, that he was forced to change Willie's name to Montgomery this year, which is a little harder to talk on to "Dean."

Retiring as dean, Dr. Livingood will become Professor of Psychology Education, and with his first free time he plans to study a plan that has been under discussion at the college for a number of years. Whether or not the bust in the history room of William Smith is really Bacchus, the God of Wine or Plato, the political grandiosity of them all!

Spending on U. S. streets and highways last year killed 13,459 men, women and children.

Last year was the third consecutive year of increase in the traffic death toll.

no way a reflection upon the accomplishment or the devoted service of the men who have held the positions of Dean of the College and of Dean of Men.

In informing Dr. Clark of the decision of the board, President Gibson said: "I sincerely trust that you will not construe this action as a reflection in any way on your years as dean of the college. In reaffirming the accreditation of Washington College, the committee stated that some officers of the college were carrying too heavy a teaching load, and urged that steps be taken to remedy the condition." It is expected that appointment of a new dean of the college will be announced by the Visitors and Governors during the commencement period in late May.

Dr. Gibson also observed that this general move accorded with one of the recommendations of the visiting committee of the Middle States Association, in reaffirming the accreditation of Washington College, the committee stated that some officers of the college were carrying too heavy a teaching load, and urged that steps be taken to remedy the condition.

It is expected that appointment of a new dean of the college will be announced by the Visitors and Governors during the commencement period in late May.

College Graduates
In Medical Schools

A recent release from the Association of American Medical Colleges indicates that Washington College graduates do good work in medical schools.

Four of last year's graduates entered medical school but to date no information is available. One student entered medical school in 1951 and stood in the first third of his class. Of the three students who entered medical school in 1950, one stood in the first third of his class, one stood in third and one was forced to withdraw from medical school due to illness. Both students who entered medical school in 1949 stand in the upper third of their class.

Two campus luminaries with bright future got them nipped in the bud over the W.C. week-end because of their damp pants!

Take 10 or 12 hours and tell us about yourself, Ede, when are you leaving to play ball with Jake?

The Question of the Week: Did the tennis players pay to get the suit changed that they wore at the game of L.F.C. We hear alcohol doesn't come out too easily.

A.J., if you must, Gary Jerry's underwear around campus, you please put it in a bag.

With malice toward none and charity toward all, we leave you with the motto of a famous football team: "Do unto others before they do unto you!"

Don't gamble with fire—the odds are against you!

Goodbye Seniors, Goodbye

Graduating classes but once a year and thank goodness because the campus could not stand the stress and strain. The seniors play a minor part, the climax of this, their stroll to the College Choir, which will be singing for commencement practice until 2 a.m. tonight so that on the big day their "Down Through The Years" won't sound like "Hallelujah A Bunch."

Dr. Newlin is working furiously to get his Freshman Composition themes corrected before they graduate. Senior Ford is teaching them the Spanish for "gulp" while Monsieur Langley is teaching them the French for "TJ never tell."

Before the seniors take leave of this campus there are some questions that must be answered:

1. Who was the one out of five that was served at the Cranney? How can poison lay to be so serious?

2. Who swims in mud puddles? Is beach parties?

3. Who's anal would be sent if care of the bushell bus?

4. Who's clothes are in the laundry room?

When seniors are leaving with their luggage (if and memories, that will cherish. Just how could they forget—Albert, Frau Julie, Don's red two dollar overalls, the rattling keys?

Where else do they find the love of the world, Henson Hall? Where else do they need one article of clothing, a raincoat? Will they ever forget, "by and large" . . . "in the course of the semester" . . . "of course four feet of snow won't stop lacrosse practice" . . . "I say, man, his your ball" . . . "stand on one toe, girls, now put your other heel between your shoulders, arms over your head, now I change to the left" . . .

Yes, seniors, you'll never forget to know you, Goodbye and good luck to you, Goodbye and good luck to you, Goodbye and good luck to you.

A Letter To The Editor

To the Editor of the ELM,
Sir:

Since I will not be serving in the capacity of Dean of Men next year, I want to use this means to thank the student body of Washington College for their cooperation with me during this and past years. Working closely with student leaders and watching them develop has been one of the most gratifying aspects of my work at Washington College during the past two years.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES B. CLARK

Senior Of The Week

Our last—but far from least—senior of the week for this semester is Tom Hederman, known by every senior at W.C. as "Herb." This son of a gun, comes from the town of Herk, most memorable seniors.

Herb was born in Pittsburgh, but since his dad is in the navy he has traveled a great deal. He has lived in Coronado, Calif., Honolulu, La Jolla, Calif., Washington, Newport, R.I. and was in the town of Harbor when he was bombed on December 7.

Here at W.C., in addition to being everybody's buddy and the life of many a party, Herb has been Baseball Manager for two years and Basketball Manager for one year. He is a good team member of Theta Chi fraternity and the Forensic Society. He is a Varsity Club two-sporter, and also one of the eleven seniors to receive ODK certificates of merit.

Herb's escapades have been so numerous and famous here on campus that we must relate just a few of them. There is the time he beat up six last two inch Rip Sewell with a milk bottle. And the big moment in his life was when Jane spoon fed him strawberries. Big Ken Sullivan still carries the mark of the "Herb" kick on his stomach. And the N. How has lost more than one window when the little dynamo began to hum things. Perhaps Herb's most frustrating moment came when the baseball team went 16 innings against B.C. and the score book only had room for 12.

Yes, Herb will have his own special niche in the W.C. Hall of Fame. He has become a sort of tradition and will not be forgotten by his many friends here. Good luck in the future, Herb.

Annual Mason - Dixon Championships Today

Boyd Sets Record

By JOHN HUGHES

Western Maryland, reviving its track program this season after a ten-year lapse, scored its second straight Mason-Dixon Conference victory by beating Washington College, 65 to 52, Wednesday, May 6.

Joe Shostrom, dropping the fifth race, provided the individual star of the meet in Ellsworth Boyd, who won the high and low hurdle events and tied for first in the high jump.

His 15.2 performance in the high hurdles tied the Washington College track record set in 1939 by Basil Tully, and established a new dual meet record in competition with Western Maryland. The meeting mark was 17.3, set in 1937 by Richard Mead, of Washington.

George Eichelberger ran a superb 80, reporting first in 55.2. Stu Young, unable to run the sprint, due to a bad muscle, was close behind and scored 3 points in second place.

Joe Pokrzywa won his best all year in placing second in 200, 100 and third in the low hurdles. He has actually improved as the season progressed.

Les Buckley, running his first season on track, broke 5 minutes in the mile and had plenty left at the finish. He overtook Snyder of Western Maryland, on the 3rd lap and pulled away on the far turn to complete an evenly matched 4 lap run.

Al Kanask, having been inactive all season, reported for the first time and tied for first in the pole vault with Bernie Thomas, and won the broad jump. Both were extraordinary performances considering Al had no practice beforehand.

Joe Keller grabbed second in the 2 mile and third in the mile run. His times have been better with each 2 mile race, and he is pointing for the championships today.

100-Yard Dash—Won by Clark, Western Md.; second, Pokrzywa, Washington; third, W. Dix, Western Md.; Time: 19 seconds.

220-Yard Dash—Won by Clark, Western Md.; second, Pokrzywa, Washington; third, W. Dix, Western Md.; Time: 23.5 seconds.

400-Yard Dash—Won by Eichelberger, Washington; second, Young, Washington; third, Cronk, Western Md.; Time: 55.2 seconds.

800-Yard Run—Won by Phipps, Western Md.; second, Snyder, Western Md.; third, Buckley, Washington; Time: 2:12.

1-Mile Run—Won by Buckley, Washington; second, Snyder, Western Md.; third, Keller, Washington; Time: 4:50.

2-Mile Run—Won by R. Thomas, Western Md.; second, Keller, Washington; third, Warner, Western Md.; Time: 11:25.

120-Yard High Hurdle—Won by Boyd, Washington; second, Langrall, Western Md.; third, Snover, Western Md.; Time: 15.2 seconds (new meet record); old, 17.3, Richard Mead, Washington, 1937.

220-Yard Hurdle—Won by Boyd, Washington; second, Scott, Western Maryland; third, Pokrzywa, Washington; Time: 27 seconds.

Broad Jump—Won by Kanask, Washington; second, Scott, Western Md.; third, R. Dix, Western Md.; Distance: 19 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

High Jump—Tie for first between Boyd, Washington, and Langrall, Western Md.; third, tie between Law and Howell, Western Md.; Height: 5 feet, 8 inches.

Shot Put (16 pounds)—Won by Dick, Western Md.; second, Snover, Western Md.; third, Hellock, Western Md.; Distance: 40 feet, 6 1/4 in.

Discus—Won by Duhl, Western

John Grim (far right) scores first goal against Lehigh. Bob Lipitz (second from right) was the feeder on the play. Mickey DiMaggio is on the cross and George Hesse is on the far left. Lehigh players are: No. 10, Dick Hese; 8, Dick Breyers; 19, Jim Cutler, and goalie Morris Kaehler.

Sho'men Sting Yellow Jackets Bee-'Sho' Finale Today

By HUGH DELANO

Paced by John Santulli and Dick Brockell with two hispiers and the hurling of Leo Glitis, Tom Kibler's Washington College ninth pined for a 4-2 win over a strong Randolph-Macon club last Saturday at Kibler field.

For the Sho'men, the victory boosted their Mason-Dixon Conference date to an 8-4 record, while the victors were handed their second reversal in eight outings of league play.

Oddly enough, all the scoring was done in the first three innings with Randolph-Macon grabbing a quick, but short-lived 1-0 lead in the first frame. However, Kibler's crew tied it up in their half of the first.

Lardolf man Ted Keller opened with a ground single to left-center and took second on third-tucker Herb Winn's tap to the mound which Glitis deflected. Keller came home as Bill Walker killed a hit to right-center. A walk to Jim Edwards, Doug Tilly's sacrifice and a two-bagger by Danny Samuels tied it 1-1.

Whitley again in the second for a 1-1 edge. Winn's overthrow on Roger Smoot's ground ball put a runner on second to start things off. Brockell followed with a single and Smoot moved to third. Wex Edwards' worked Whitley for a free pass to load the bases and when Glitis bounced to short, Smoot crunched the plate. However, Brockell was cut down at third by Keller. Tilly loaded the bases again but Washington was unable to score.

In the third, Whitley put the Virginia team back in the game, slamming a long home run over the left-field fence to deadlock the count 2-2. Glitis threw wild to first on Winn's roller, and it put a man on second. Walker drew a base-on-balls and both men advanced on a passed ball. However, Glitis got Larry Shifflet to end the threat.

Washington scored twice in the third for a 4-2 edge which proved enough for the win. Santulli opened with his second double—a long blast against the fence in left-center and Herman Schmidt singled in his third. When Schmidt attempted to lead second, catcher Charlie Thomas heaved the ball into center-field to bring in Santulli followed by Schmidt.

From there on in Glitis kept Randolph-Macon completely in check to post his fourth win in four tries and fourth in a row in Mason-Dixon play. In losing, Whitley was handed his second setback against a like number of wins.

Md.; second, Hunt, Western Md.; third, Snover, Western Md.; Distance: 121 feet.

Pole Vault—Tie for first between Kanask and B. Thomas, Washington; third, tie between Duhl and Langrall, Western Md.; Height: 9 feet.

Both Baltimore U. and Washington College wind up their seasons scheduled today when they clash at 2:30 on the former's field.

Last year's encounter found the Shore stickmen victorious, by the count of 17 to 11, but the Bees will be in full force for today's encounter.

Baltimore posts a fine stellar defense in Dave Palmer, Carroll Walmeyer, and Phil Long, plus an exceptional goalie in Dick. Whether who has allowed only 37 goals so far.

Offensively, the Bees are led by scoring leader, Charles Beasley, who has contributed 31 goals in the Bees' 63 log.

Assisting Beasley are attackmen Tom Devan, Ed Kook and Wayne Milner, who are rated by Bees coach Cady Kibler, to be surely improving with each encounter. Milner is a former Washington College student.

Festured on Washington's attack will be Capt. John Grim and Chuck Waechle playing their last Washington College lacrosse game. Goalie Bill Russell, who has been playing a great role in the Shore defense, will also retire from the college squad. The Sho'men will enter today's game with an 8 and 5 overall record.

Stickmen Top Lehigh

After playing a very sloppy first half, the Shore netmen overcame a 3-1 deficit, and went ahead to beat Lehigh University, 10-4, in a game that saw goalie Bill Russell make 19 saves, 17 in the first half.

After a scoreless first quarter the Sho'men went ahead 1-0 early in the second period, with Grim scoring on a pass from Lipitz. Lipitz bounced back with three goals on a pick play by Tom Sheridan and an unsisted goal by him two minutes later. The Brown and White's final tally of the period came on a goal by George Scott who took advantage of a loose ball in front of the W.C. goal.

The third frame saw the Clarkson outscore the Engineers, 5-0, and take a 6-3 lead at the end of the period. The scoring spurge started after 1:30 with Howard scoring on an assist by Lipitz. Lipitz then scored on a deflected ball in front of the Lehigh goal to tie the score at 3-3.

The next two came within thirty seconds of one another, with DiMaggio scoring unassisted, and Howard passing to Hesse. The final score of this quarter came with Grim taking advantage of an extra man, and putting the ball in with the assist going to George Hesse.

BRIDGEWATER DEFENDING CHAMPS

Washington College, who was second last year, enters the eighteenth annual Mason-Dixon Championships with a handful of choice runners who hope to dethrone the champion Bridgewater College squad today.

Heading the list of Shore thinclads is half-miler George Eichelberger, miler Lew Buckley, two-miler Joe Keller, sprinter Joe Pokrzywa, weight man Jack Bergen, pole vaulters Bernie Thomas and Al Kanask, and hurdler El Boyd.

Sprinter Stu Young, who was out most of the season with a pulled muscle, is ready for the championships, and will boost the Shore hopes.

Lew Buckley and George Eichelberger are strong contenders for the mile and 880 respectively, and have performed well in Washington's dual meets. Buckley has broken five minutes for the mile several times this season, and is capable of running the distance in 4:40. Eichelberger is entered in both the 880 and 440, but he may pass up the quarter mile to enable him to concentrate on his specialty, the half mile. George has done much to foster track and field events at W. C. this year, and he has one year of eligibility remaining.

Veteran dash man Joe Pokrzywa will be at his peak performance for the Championship meet, having improved steadily as the season has progressed.

Captain El Boyd, who has scored 19 first places in 6 duals, meets this year, will give the team a scoring threat in both the high and low hurdles, and the high jump.

Although the team didn't win any dual meets season, it doesn't discourage championship hopes, since the points are split up into many different factions, with 17 schools vicing for honors.

The squad left yesterday for the trials, and will compete in the finals today.

Intramural Race Tightens; Theta Chi In League Lead

By ECK KING

In the crucial games of last week's top contenders looked good as Theta Chi defeated G.I. 2-0, who in turn defeated Day Students 10-5.

In the first game behind the collective hurrying of Junior Eberole and the heavy hitting of El. Joseph, George Hesse, Roger Kinkhart and Murray Hardinger, the G.I. slugs went on to win over Day Students 10-5. Ed Athey adsorbed his first loss of the year despite the clutch hitting of Mickey DiMaggio, Spence Robinson and Bull Durban. This contest dropped the Day Students into undisputed possession of second place, while G.I. Hall remained tied with Theta Chi for the league lead.

Theta Chi and G.I., both strong undefeated contenders, met in a stormy game on May 11. During the course of the game G.I.'s playing coach, Elie Joseph, was ejected from the game. The contest developed from the start into a tight pitcher's duel between the league's two leading pitchers, Bob Appleby and Junior Eberole. Eberole shouldered his first loss of the year while giving up only one hit is the "Raider's" weakened in the field behind him. At the same time "Appa" scattered 5 hits to shut out G.I. 2-0. Jack Bergen hammered out the loss. Theta Chi hit while George Hesse, Roger Kinkhart, Palmer Hesse, and Murray Hardinger led lower's attack. Other games that took place saw Somerset knock G.I. powerful attack to a mere 11-2 score. Kappa Alpha and Somerset took their first wins of the season from Phi Sig by scores of 13-4 and 15-9 respectively. The Lambda Chi lost two games, one to the still powerful Day Students and the other from losing "Ch. Mar." Theta Chi added two victims to their undefeated record by beating Phi Sig and Foxwell by scores of 12-4 and 10-4.

Freshman husher Ronnie Sisk, along with Leo Glitis, formed one-two punch on the mound for the Kibler nine.

Net Season Completed

The Washington College net team ended its 1953 season with 2 wins and 10 losses.

Of the 10 losses, five of them were by 5-4 scores.

The bright spots of the season were Les Bell's 8 victories and 4 losses in singles and Bill Murray's 7 wins out of 12 matches. Murray did an excellent job in representing Washington College.

The 1954 tennis captain will be elected on May 20 following the annual sports banquet.

The record is as follows:

W. C., 1; Loyola, 8
W. C., 4; Western Md., 5

George Hamst, 2 wins, 1 loss
Stan Kaufman, 0 wins, 2 losses

B.U. Wins In 16 Innings

Washington College's baseball squad ended its 1938 season by dominating a 4 to 3 decision to Baltimore University in sixteen innings on the winner's field.

Catcher Henry Wadhams' long single to left field off the slant, of Sho' hurler Leo Gillis in the bottom of the sixteenth, scored pinch runner Jerry Dittell with the decisive run in the game which lasted four and one-half hours.

The Shoshone opened their batting attack in the second frame as catcher Wes Edwards doubled to right field, scoring Roger Nason and Dick Brockwell who were previously walked by opposing base hurler, Ed Anderson. In the seventh, Doug Tilley scored from second base to put the Soons momentarily out in front, 5-0.

Starting hurler Ron Sisk, pitched even innings of shut-out ball before being relieved by Gillis in the bottom of the eighth. B. U. promptly rallied to tie the score with a three run outburst in their half of the eighth.

Two walks, two singles, George Dietrich's double, and a fielder's choice brought home two runs and Dick Gerber's single scored Dietrich to double the contest at 5 to 3. From there on, Ed Anderson masterfully held his opposition scoreless the remainder of the game and gave off only five hits with his assortment of fast and curve balls. He pitched the entire 16 innings.

In the bottom half of the sixteenth, clutch hitter Wohlfert collected his second hit in grand fashion with two outs to give Baltimore U. second place in the northern division of the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Washington ended its season with a Conference record of 8 wins against 5 losses, thus gaining a third place berth in the league.

Two Receive Oscars

Lynn Diana and Al Easterby received the annually awarded Oscars for the best performances of the year at the Washington Players' banquet May 7.

The banquet, held in the Granary, was opened by George Cronquist who introduced the incoming President, Spencer Latham, who in turn introduced Dorothy Willis, Secretary, and Dave Humphrey, Treasurer. Mrs. Opregan, faculty advisor, reviewed the past year and the progress of the Players.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the awards. Lynn Diana received the women's Oscar for her performance as Frances Black in "Light Up The Sky." Al Easterby received his Oscar for his portrayal of Sidney Black in the same production. Joanne Cusack and Jack Daniel received Honorable Mention certificates. Sue Stallard was awarded the certificate for the best director of the year.

Schmidt Leads Batting

Although John Hopkins won the Championship of the Northern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference, Washington College's nine exhibited a winning season under the leadership of coach Tony Kibler. Much is expected of the 1939 squad for only three starting regulars are lost through graduation.

In reviewing the past season, the Maroon and Black, while not showing good stick-work, possessed a strong pitching staff. Led by Freshman Herman Schmidt, who hit .510, and Junior Doug Tilley with an average of .355, the team as a whole hit only .196.

Schmidt, who attended Kenwood High, led the team with 24 hits, getting four for five in the Western Maryland game. He showed a keen eye at the plate as he walked eleven times during the season. Tilley, the speed merchant of the team, hit consistently from his second slot in the batting order. Mine of a spray hitter rather than a slugger, Doug kept his average high among the leaders throughout the year. Showing his versatility Tilley was on base more than any other Sho' player, besides getting half of the team's stolen bases. Washington's pitching staff was headed by little Leo "Fink" Gillis and bushy Ronnie Sisk. Possessing a good fast ball and curve, Gillis defeated 100 sl. Mary's, Western Maryland, Randolph-Macon, and Catholic Universities, while Sisk chalked up wins over Bridgewater, Loyola, and Baltimore Universities. Coach Tony Kibler expects a lot of wins from this duo next season because of their added experience.

Defeat Towson To End Season

The Washington College tennis team won its second match of the year as it downed Towson Teachers, 6-3 here on May 4.

Les Bell, Tony Toulie, Bill Murray, Jerry Lambdin and Don Maryot won their singles and Bell and Lambdin won in doubles.

Teachers Win In Track

By PALMER HUGHES

On May 1 at Kibler Field, a strong Towson Teachers team decisively defeated the Washington College track team by the score of 89-28. Showing a great deal of speed and depth the Teachers were first in nine out of the thirteen events, while showing that position in another. For the Shoshone Ed. Bord scored 15 points in winning three events. George Eichberger won the 10 yard run in the good time of 54.3 seconds. Lou Buckley was third in the 880, while Joe Pokrzywa gained second in the 220.

The other points were garnered by Kibler's third in the two-mile and Jack Bergen's second and third in the 400 and 800 yard runs.

- March 18—Desire Ligeti, baritone
- April 22—Orlando de Almeida, pianist

Please note that the concert evening this season will be Thursday, not Friday. We believe that the change will interfere less with weekday plans.

The production of the fairy opera Hamel and Gretel will be in English. As it will especially delight children, please pass the news along to all your friends who have young members in the family. Individual tickets for this performance (for non-subscribers to the season) will be one dollar for adults, fifty cents for children.

C. C. Officers Special Membership Rate

Students at Washington College may take advantage of a special membership rate at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club, according to a notice by the governing board of the golf and sailing club has one of the sportier Rhode courses on the Shore, and has recently acquired five Penna. golfers.

The student membership is $12.00 a year, plus taxes, a total of $14.40. Such membership is for the use of the golf course and waterfront facilities only. It does not include the privileges of the club house.

Interested students may obtain further information from Mr. F. Van der Sijpe at the Chestertown Bank of Maryland.

Enrollment Is Largest Since War

With the Fall Semester opening on September 24, approximately 392 students began classes making this one of the largest enrollments Washington College has had since World War II. Because of the crowded conditions and the fact that more students than ever are attending, the college is unable to make an accurate count.

Of these 392 students, 166 of them are new to our campus, 155 of these are Freshmen with 11 transfers, 46 women and 109 men students living both on and off campus make up the list of Freshmen. Eight states, Washington, D. C., and England are represented on the roster of new students. Maryland provides 87 of the registrants with 5 of these from Kent County; Connecticut, 1; Delaware, 9; New Jersey, 23; New York, 14; Ohio, 1; Pennsylvania, 8; Virginia, 4; Washington, D. C., 7; and England, 1.

Since 16 Freshman Women is the largest female enrollment Washington College has had, Kent Hall has been occupied by putting them on the second and third floors which moved most of the upperclass women into Middle Hall.

For many years the ratio of male to female students has been 3 or even 4 to one. This year's freshman class, with a ratio of slightly more than two to one, is an attempt by the administration to equalize the ratio.

1953-54 enrollment, Maryland (Eastern Shore)—54 boys, 25 girls, Maryland (Western Shore)—103 boys, 49 girls.

New Jersey, 48; New York, 34; Pennsylvania, 31; Washington, D. C., 15; Delaware, 18; Virginia, 5; Connecticut, 4; Massachusetts, 3; Michigan, 1; Ohio, 1; Idaho, 1; North Carolina, 1; Puerto Rico, 1. Complete list, p. 389.

Student Poll

Would all the student body check one of the following and drop the poll in the box beside the initial boxes. How do you feel about the nickname—Shoremen—of the College to something else? For it ( ) ; Against it ( ) ; Indifferent ( ) ;

Would all male students check one of the following:

Do you feel in favor ( ) or not in favor ( ) of wearing coats and ties to the evening meal?

Student Government Holds Dance Sept. 19

Student Government's first activity of the semester was an informal dance in honor of the freshman class. This dance was held Saturday, Sept. 19, from eight to twelve in Ginn Gymnasium. Excellent music was furnished by Frank Webb and his orchestra. Refreshments of gingerale and potato chips were served. Upper classmen, as well as freshmen, attended the dance. The attendance was estimated at 200.

For the benefit of our new friends and to remind returning students, all campus events must be cleared with the Student Government. Dr. Eric Sparrow, chairman of Complaints and Grievances Committee. Any complaint or grievance should be taken to him. Suggestions to benefit the student body will also be welcomed.

We are here to represent and help your supporters. With your cooperation, we look forward to a successful year.

Gibson Appoints Doyle Dean; Six Others Join W. C. Faculty

By Joan Vanik

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, president of Washington College, announced the appointment of Dr. Joseph Doyle, of New York, as Dean of the college and professor of literature, and Emerson P. Smith, of Easton, Md., as assistant professor of physical education and head coach of basketball.

Dr. Gibson also named Dudley W. Johnson of Evanston, Ill., as assistant professor of economics; Edgar P. Gwynn, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., as lecturer in biology; Miss Elizabeth B. Covey of Dover, Del., as assistant professor of mathematics; Dr. A. L. Motto of New York, as assistant professor of language; Mr. Ernie Cookerly as Director of Public Relations; and Dr. Bert Thom as instructor of philosophy. All appointments are effective this semester.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Doyle, President Gibson remarked that as a result of the resignation of Dr. Fred G. Livingston as dean, the Visitors and Governors have announced a realignment of the administrative staff of the College, to become effective this fall. As a result of this change, the office of dean of men as such is being eliminated, and Dr. Doyle will serve both as academic dean and dean of men.

In this new realignment, Dr. Livingston will teach full-time in the department of education and psychology. Professor Ermon Foster will give up his teaching duties to devote himself to full-time work as registrar and director of admissions; and Dr. Charles B. Clark, full-time dean of men, will assume full-time duty as head of the department of history and political science.

Dr. Doyle, a native of New York State, comes to Washington College after serving on the faculties at Columbia University and Washington & Jefferson College.

He received his bachelor's degree in French from Princeton University in

From The Dean

Dean Doyle wishes to announce that all rules and regulations in effect at the close of last semester are still in force.

This applies to all activity rules and schedules as well as to academic and related matters. This is especially true of the activities calendar, which may be consulted in the Dean's office.

Organizations are reminded that they have been assigned special nights for their activities, and to obtain permission from the Dean before holding functions on other nights. It should be understood that the Dean's office is primarily a clearing house for information among the various activities, and that the scheduling service maintained there is essential by a routine service operating under policy which the organizations have established and approved in collaboration with that office.

1937 and studied under the Graduate Faculty of Columbia University for his graduate degrees in English and American literature.

He received his M.A. in 1941 and his Ph. D. in 1952.

He served from 1945 until 1946 in the U. S. Navy and saw considerable action in the Mediterranean theatre earning two battle stars. He was released in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant.

Dr. Doyle is married and the father of an eight-year-old daughter.

Wesley Sponsors Hayride, Dance

Last night a combination square dance and hayride was sponsored by the Wesley Foundation. Leaving from William Smith Hall at 6:30 p.m., two trucks filled with bus took a group of W. C. students to a Methodist Youth Camp, a few miles from Chestertown.

Upon arrival the square dance was held and refreshments consisting of hot dogs and soft drinks were available for the hungry. Everyone sat back on campus by 11:40 p.m. because of Freshman Girls' restrictions. A good time was had by all.

his head coach of basketball, has coached basketball and track at Easton (Md.) High School since 1948. He also will assist Mr. Alvey, who has relinquished the coaching job in order to devote more time to his duties as athletic director, in teaching required physical education.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of Geneva College in Physical Education. He has done graduate work at Kent State University in Ohio.

His former basketball teams have enjoyed great success under his coaching and have participated in several state tournaments during the past several years.

He served for four years in the U. S. Navy during World War II as a chief petty officer in athletics. He is married and the father of a seven-year-old son and a four-year-old daughter.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon, and has attended Northwestern University since 1950 as a graduate student. He will receive his Master's degree in Education.

He has been acting as a teaching assistant for the past two years at Northwestern and also has been an instructor of economics at the Baptist Training Missionary School in Chicago. Mr. Johnson is married.

Mr. Gwynn, a native of Baltimore, is a 1950 graduate of the University of Maryland and received his Master's degree in botany from the University of Kentucky and Johns Hopkins in the field of biology.

He served in the army during World War II and is married.

Miss Covey is a native of Chester, Iowa and a graduate of Washington College, magna cum laude. She received her Master's degree from Columbia University in 1929.

She has had varied teaching experience in the field of mathematics. She taught at Abbot Academy, Mass., from 1929-1932; the National Cathedral School, Washington, D. C., from 1933-1939; Kent Place School, Summit, N. J., from 1950-1952; and Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del., during the past year.

A native of New York City, Dr. Anna Lydia Motto completed secondary schooling in that city and later received her AB degree from Queens College, N. Y., in 1946. She was granted her MA degree from New York University in 1948, and her Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1953. She performed teaching

One Student To Another

By Romana Waller

Freshmen, this article is for you; just like this issue of the Elm is mainly for you. In the past week and a half you've met so many people—some from Freshmen, Goshen right up down—that you'd think. You've been welcomed, advised, greeted, rushed, insulted, consoled, loved and occasionally intimidated by the people and activities planned for you. Yet, you may not have had the time or opportunity to sit down and talk to some upper classman about what is in store for you—just one student to another.

First of all, college is wonderful—and even though this phrase is overused, it's so true—you've got college. What you put in your freshman year may be the best one of the four; it undoubtedly will stand out longest in your memory. So make the most of it—he is an eager, excited, well-rounded student. Let the rest of the college know you're here.

That's enough philosophy and advice, you'll find most upper classmen aren't too expert in this field, so we'll pass on to more familiar ground and get on to a little lighter level.

Have you looked at your absolute listless—condemned to live for the rest of all you taking Freshman History and Political Science. Torture Chanters and inquiries couldn't be worse. But keep your chin up, there are a few people who have passed both courses in one semester and they should join the weeping multitudes who didn't quite make it—oh, well, misery loves company. Once through these two horrors, you'll be convinced that the worst is over; all else will be child's play after that.

Now for you—in your sophomore year you have the pleasure of taking Psychology and Philosophy. Now Psychology is very interesting and pretty soon you'll realize that everybody in the whole world (except you, of course) is crazy. This gives credit for your roommate. And Philosophy—there's a dilly if this ever was one—everybody's confused, the professor mows off all, and you emerge with a fuzzy concept of nothing at all, wondering if you really exist.

No doubt about it, the best part of college is the social life. Your code will be the center of all attention for awhile. After all, any guy in his right mind prefers a cute new face to the ones he's been looking at for a year or so. This results in a sad state of affairs. The social life is a slump. But the sophs don't mind. They've had their day. Aside from dances, plays, games and movies, you'll be planning most of your social activities yourself—impromptu parties, picnics, trips to each other's homes, and games, songs, fests, and stories of other brain stunts. Quite naturally the eternal "Cloth 8?" will be revived. Due to inflation the dues are actually $102 now, but the dividends for so small a sum are staggering, simply staggering!

Since we've used up so much of the editor's precious space, we'll have to confine our little chat in person. Seriously, if you have a chance, stop and talk to some of the upper classmen. You'll find we're really not as bad as rumor would lead you to think, and we're among those who know you. Remember, at Washington College, everybody knows everybody else by their first name.

CORRECTION

The college calendar for 1975-1976 should be corrected as follows:

1. The first semester will close on Feb. 28.
2. New students will register Feb. 1.
3. The second semester will open Feb. 5.
4. The second semester will close April 1.
5. Alumni day will be on June 5.
6. Commencement will be on June 6.

Flashlight Caught

(By The Night Watchman)

First off, let me welcome you all back, hoping each and every one of you had the best summer ever. As for the new students, let me welcome you also, and at the same time, give you some advice. Behave yourself, and you won't find yourself being talked about (at least not in this column), but if you subvert to any of the "Seven Deadly Sins" . . . look out!

Conversations are certainly in order, to Monica and Rod who were correctly planned, which, by the way, look place exactly one year after their first date. Best of luck to both of you.

Congratulations also to Bob and Jerry and Pat and Eric. Scems as though these two couples were among the few who made it through the summer. As to the rest of you—there are plenty of other fish, so suck up on bait . . . it's going to be a long, cold winter!

Understand Spence Latham was at the loss for words the other night at the Freshman Assembly . . . the "Southern Support" must have been too much for him.

No girls . . . it's not just Lancaster nor Stewart Granger—it's just Chio's little brother. One at a time, now, gals, he is human.

To whom it may concern: You are not seeing double; there are two of them, and miss L. You're one of two of them, "Hatch" on any letter.

Understand Del Brinsfield started a new taste sensation this summer in Easton . . . Gin and Scotch anyone?

Listen B. J. and J. N., Grim and Russell gave us the lowdown on the New College. So, your new jackets are no longer going to make an impression.

It seems one Fresh gal loves the Mexican Hat Club or something. What about it, Syreese?

And speaking of Freshmen, it would seem to me that this date at a diner would be enough for anyone. What about it, J. B. S.????

Freshman girl deserves talking to her upperclass date on a beach party, hasn't any "Lynn"!

"I'll be damned if I can see any similarities!"

If you don't have a part to sing in the Al Schuchly. Understand he can't see you right up.

Anyone notice the new blonde re-camps with rather short hair? What about it, C. H., is it for real, or just another Lash???

Kelly, you must sit down sometime, or you'll be out of the swing, or are you still finishing up your lectures on the art of self-defense???

I understand Joe Keller is doing a good business in telescopes out in West Hill. Why the sudden interest in astronomy, boys??

Waiters from Seaside, Va. to on the lookout for the K.O.S. kid. They're at it again. You'll see that name in print yet, gals.

Who owns the spotlight in Middle Hall??

If college girls suddenly find their shoes stinkier, it's probably because the boys read Dr. Kinsey's letter over the summer, and are just plain stung.

Doug Tilley's taking a special course—learning to count backwards, goes against unnumbering 130, 139, 129, 128, 127, and so on. The kind of day left before he gets married.

Rain comes in big drops on the Eastern Shore, doesn't it, Cora?

Mama Micky is on the loose catches unsuspicious fish, puts 'em in a coke cup, makes 'em up with fish, pines, and extra-virgin oil, then sits looking at the unsuspicious male and gloriously chams. "I have them damn things."

This past week has been officially declared "Old Flame Week" for the benefit of Jo and Bernie and Bob and Chio. Chio, love affairs never die, just fade out.

Who was fired from the National Bohemian Brewery this summer? Is drinking all the profits? Tell us about it, Steven and Parker!

Why does Joe Szymanski keep dropping trays in Hodson every time?

One certain freshman girl sits at a table by table? Must be because his talk her upperclass date on a beach party, hasn't any "Lynn"!

Fun While It Lasted

We were kings and Queens for a week. . . . It was our school and our week. We were the Freshmen and it was Freshmen Week.

It started with a long line and a long line of freshmen in the hall. Registration day was just one continuous cascade after another. Lines for loans, bills, books, drinks, and more books. Lines for meals and then even lines for baths! And finally, a long procession at the President's house. Many a girl was more names. "Jase Day meet John Smith, John Smith meet Mary Brown, etc., etc., etc."

Of course one of the first things a freshman girl looked into was the "male prospects." Washington College is quite famous for its three to two ratio. But many a girl was disappointed to find out that one was married, one was taken, and one just didn't care! . . . College catalogues have always been influential in the choice of a college and I won't put the view of a freshman girl disparaging the one line girl divulging her fond amicitia five males, had anything to do with the selection of W.C. But I will say that many of the fair sex were disillusioned that first week. But the only girl to sit there, then, who was only going to be available and/or the rest wasn't saved.

One of the first opportunities the Freshmen have to acquaint themselves with each other socially, was the square dance. However, everyone was so busy with the "square" and "intricate" steps of the polkas and "Put Your Little Fists" they hardly had time to make time. Naturally, the less were a great comfort to anyone who was trying to climb the social ladder to success. . . . The only thing in Hodson every time was to do the same thing at the same time so that nothing was accomplished.

Suddenly we were thrown from the arms of the social activities into the jaws of the awaiting faculty. . . . Assemblies on manners, little talks of advice, many followed by a class and more little talks on advice. . . . Finally the profs got a chance to pull to work after a summer of inactivity. . . . ? ? ? Whoever still forgets that math test or that sentence structure part of the English quiz. Many a girl was given a class of the hands at the conclusion of the "plagiarism" tests.

Although many of us failed in the working part of the day, hardly anyone can say we failed to have fun when the sun went down. . . . The "Zambie Ritual Dance" was a great success. . . . The "College Delight" which hardly a "delighted" in . . . Activities night when we got a good look at the mighty upper classmen and decided we were stuck to Freshmen after all. . . . And, of course, the dance on Saturday night given us by Omicron Delta Kappa Society. If anyone could have heard the words coming from Reid Hall they would have thought they were going to slaughter instead of to stalk. It wasn't until the very end that there were girls who, boys on one side and the women on the other. But after a little coaxing from an anonymous orchestra the party proceeded to get under way. The funny part about it was the fact that there were no upper classmen there. . . . Freshmen . . . . And this was the dance that . . . . (Continued on Page 4)

Booters Prep For Opener At Towson Friday

IN THE PRESSBOX

With JOE SZYMANSKI, Sports Editor

Washington College's 1951 varsity soccer squad appears to be one of the most promising teams ever to be assembled under the reins of Coach Ed Athey.

Because the Sho'men will participate in both the Mason-Dixon and Middle Atlantic Conferences, a tough schedule has been arranged with Franklin and Marshall of Pennsylvania, last year's Middle Atlantic Champion and National Collegiate winner; and Baltimore University, Mason-Dixon leaders four years in a row, both drawing the top-notch bills of the fall season.

Incidentally, in 1952, the Maroon and Black of the Eastern Shore were riding along on a four game winning streak until they felt the sting of the Baltimore Bees and were handed a 2 to 0 set-back. But this year has another story to tell!

With only three starters back from the '52 undefeated eleven, these bring all-Dean goalies, "Shudders" Siedicki, halfback Hank Wohlford, and Henman Dick Sutherland, coach Cal Ermer will naturally have his hands full in a rebuilding process. After all, how many seasons can a team go undefeated? His teams have compiled a record of approximately 32 consecutive games without a defeat in the past.

However, all good things must come to an end, and I feel as I know other teammates do, that "If we don't beat them this year, we'll never beat them!"

As for Franklin and Marshall, the Maroon and Black would like nothing better than to average the 1951 tie, 2 to 2, and on Homecoming Saturday, October 17, at eleven o'clock, the Sho'men will get that chance. A great deal of recognition must be given to the Pennsylvanians for their feat in being acclaimed National Champs over such colleges as Penn State, West Chester, Navy, Army, and Temple.

Harriers Run Double Work-Outs Daily

A new year, a new coach, plus new spirit, are the ingredients for the 1951 Washington College cross country team, which launched practice sessions last Monday, in preparation for the opening meet Tuesday, Oct. 6, at Coach Emerson Smith, of Eastern Md., has set up a rigid training program for the Shoremen, consisting of two daily practice sessions, one at 6:15 in the morning and the second at 5:30 in the afternoon. He has already aroused new spirit in the 11 man squad, and it looks like each man is running into fine form.

Heading the list of veterans is Mickey DiMaggio who placed 5th in a field of over 70 runners in the 1952 Mason-Dixon Conference Championships. His counterpart, Lew Buckley, is figured for another successful year. Both men had never run before last year, when they developed so rapidly that they were named to the team only the week of their two meet in the dual meets and championships.

Veterans George Fichtelberger and Ellsworth Boyd form a nucleus which will bolster the Maroon and Black chances in '53. Both performed well on the track last spring and are shaping up well in the hill and dual sports.

Bernie Thomas, another lad who had never run before last season, will be an asset this year, having gained much valuable experience last year. Sophomore Joe Keller, former City College of Baltimore runner, has reported this year for his first bag at the college 3 mile course. He was a 2 miles on the track team.

Two lacrosse players—Ed Baer and Carol Beck, are proving that the Indian game can fit right into the cross country picture. Both were spotted on the lacrosse field last spring and asked to report for the distance sport this fall.

Freshmen who are doing very well, include Lew Almkvist of Manhattan, former high jumper, cross country, and track star; John Vaughn, former St. Dominic's high school from Long Island, N. Y., and Chuck King of Franklin, Pa. The latter two are newcomers to the harrier sport.

It's rugged road, 2 miles in the morning, 2 in the afternoon, plus wind sprints and (aerobics), but the complaints have been few and far between. Spirit is keen and each runner is striving to condition himself. Nov. 7—Gallander, home Nov. 14—Catholic U., home Nov. 21—Mason-Dixon Conference Championships, Washington, D. C., for the first meet with Towson State Teachers here on our own 5.2 mile course.

The schedule:
Oct. 6—Towson, home
Oct. 13—Johns Hopkins, away
Oct. 17—Loyola, away
Oct. 28—West Chester, home
Oct. 31—Del-Mar Championships, Baltimore.

"Honey, we are are sitting out here in the moonlight. I want to ask you a question."
"Yes, darling?"
"Could we move over a little? I'm sitting on a nail."

Sho' Lacrosse Players Win High Honors

Three Washington College lacrosse players were honored this past June when named to the All-America squad. Leading the list of best players was John Grim, star center for four years, who was named to the Second All-America team. Grim, regarded as the best face-off man in collegiate ball last year, led his team in scoring during the regular season and was an "Ironman" of the first order. In several games he played sixty minutes without relief at a position usually calling for a substitute every six or eight minutes.

Bill Russell who, along with Grim, was captain of the 1953 Shore squad, was awarded the goalie's position on the Third All-America squad. Russell averaged nearly twenty saves a game during the season when his team won nine and lost five games. In addition to his All-America rating, Russell was voted the best goalie in Maryland and was awarded the C. Markland Kent plaque for his distinction. Washington College becomes custodian for 1953-1954 of the Kelly trophy upon which Russell's name is inscribed. This trophy may be seen in the Old Dean of Men's office.

Weller, star defenseman for two years, along with Bing Lipitz co-captain of the 1954 team, won All-America Honorable Mention. Weller is one of the finest athletes at Washington College and is the key man in Coach Clark's close defense.

In addition to their other honors, Grim and Russell were chosen to the Southern All-Star squad which defeated the Northern All-Stars in Baltimore on June 6. Each performed in highly creditable fashion in their 129 victory. The Shoremen were tutored by Washington's coach, Charles Clark.

Coach Clark has been "Mr. Lacrosse" here at Washington ever since he took over the club which was first organized here, and turned it into one of the finest intercollegiate teams in this section.

Clark won letters in 4 sports while in high school and starred in football and lacrosse during his undergraduate years at Yale. At Washington he turned out excellent basketball, soccer and track teams as a high school coach, before turning to the college ranks.

He is known for his well conditioning of teams and is keen in arousing spirit and hustle in his men. This was one of the major factors in the Sho' Stars' win last spring, plus skilled handling of the stick plays and substitutions. Coach Clark was not only a credit to his school and team, but also to his sport.

Freshmen Prospects

By Wayne Gruen

One hundred and forty-five pounds on a five foot eight inch frame, and a head of brown hair with some baby eyes, and it totals up to George Barry Burns who hails from Baltimore, Md.

"I guess Barry is best," when asked about his nickname, "I can't remember being called anything else."
Barry was born in Hayde de Grace, Md., on July 13, 1935, but later moved to Baltimore in the Highlandtown section, which we are to understand is the best part of the city, naturally.

He attended Patterson Park High School where his love of sports started to develop. And develop it did, for in the 1951 season, his junior year, he was placed on the first string of the All-Maryland soccer team.

Oong Tilly, co-captain, was member of Conference All-Star Team.

Chit Chat:

While talking with Towson State Teachers' soccer coach, Doc Munigan, he was still sobbing the blue over the loss of big Jim Geale, ex-halfback, who almost single-handedly beat the Sho'men 3 to 2 in last year's final start. He's seriously thinking of joining Ella Fitzgerald in a chorus of "Crying in the Chapel." He also wanted to know if "we" will have that push-over down on the Eastern Shore? We'll see how much of a push-over it is when we face the Teachers at Towson next Friday, October 2, in the season opener. Sorry to hear that our top-notch right half-back, Phil Riggins, has decided to play ball for another club this year. He has turned full attention to brown babies and a brown handle, and currently is playing first fiddle in "This man's army." Sorry to learn that blond haired Dick Brockell has decided not to return to college this fall. Reason is probably due to the Pittsburgh Pirates who have been in a trail ever since the end of the 1952 baseball campaign. Dick, who earned Varsity letters in basketball and baseball, will undoubtedly sign with the Bucs next spring. Can you just see it now? Brockell, the slinging waiter of Hobbs, Hall, in a duel with Bing Crosby, owner of the Pirates! ... Washington College will scrimmage Catholic University's first organized soccer team next Saturday in D. C. But the Cardinals are not to be misjudged for they are composed of some of the future Spanish Road this side of the Mexican border.

... When Coach Athey starts his charges through the conditioning wind sprint exercises, he remembers old Bill Haley in a routine chorus of "Go, Go, Go, Everybody!"

Fall Practice

Coach Charles B. Clark has officially begun 1953 Fall lacrosse practice and has extended notice to all those interested to please report immediately.

Sessions are held each afternoon on Kibler Field (the far side of the track) and not only new men, but veterans who aren't out for other sports are urged to attend.

His senior year, Barry was again a member of an All-Maryland team as he earned a first string shortstop berth on the All-Maryland team.

A fairly quiet person, Barry is planning to major in Math and minor in Physical Education, hoping to be either a coach or Phys. Ed. teacher someday. At this stage of the game, he's still a little on the uncertain side. A mile person to know, we are sure he will be a credit to Washington College.

38 Candidates Report

As another soccer season gets underway with Coach Ed Athey handling the reins, a squad of thirty-eight candidates, have been strenuously trying to drive out the old aches, pains, and kinks and harden up some of the fat that accumulated during the summer vacation.

With Athey eyeing the season's opener against Towson State Teachers at Towson, on Friday, October 2, he knows he must have a well conditioned team ready to average last year's 3 to 2 defeat.

During the past week a tough and ready training course has been set up by coach Athey with the idea in mind of having a well conditioned group of athletes. At the moment, thirty-eight uniforms have been issued to freshmen, right on up to the seniors, and every day these hoisters can be seen hustling through their workouts and scrimmages on Kibler Field.

Co-captain, Ted Bendlow, Rod Ware and Doug Tilly are currently studying the fine foot combinations that enabled last year's squad to boast a four win, four loss, one tie record. With experienced lettermen such as Jimmen, Bob Appleby, Roger Sneed, Ted Bendlow, Dick Weller, Joe Greiner, Al Hamillie, Hossy Howard, Tom Boudin, halfbacks Doug Tilly, Rod Ware, Bernie Mitchell, Melodi Djanibson and Bill Barnett, fullback Jack Jennings, and goalie Joe Symonick, a successful season can be expected. Several of the promising prospects are on hand: Jimmen Bar, Eddie Campbell, Jerry Corvey, halfbacks Mont Leman, John Grise, and fullbacks Dick Lenz, Walt Baker, Pete Williams, Dick Kane and Charles Rayson, from which a promising team could be worked. Also attempting to break into coach Athey's starting lineup are sophomores Bill Bendlow, Jay Teboer, Mickey DiMaggio, Bob Sullivan, Joe Leporeau, John Muroch, and Bob Macell.

The 1953 schedule:
Oct. 2—Towson, away
Oct. 9—Virginia U., away
Oct. 10—Roanoke College, away
Oct. 13—Loyola, away
Oct. 17—Franklin & Marshall, Homecoming

Dr. Motto

In the widespread hurry to welcome back our friends, get our rooms and schedules adjusted, grow accustomed once more to Hudson Hall food and 8:15 classes, some of us may have overlooked the presence of one faculty member on campus. We should here like to extend a cordial welcome to them all, and introduce them one by one to the student body.

We'll begin the introduction with one of our most valuable additions to the staff. She comes to us in the person of an attractive young brunette, Dr. Anna Lydia Motto. Undoubtedly you have seen her in the dining hall, or hurrying on way to a class. Don't be surprised that she is in a hurry—she has a full teaching schedule of Spanish and Latin to keep her that way.

Dr. Motto's recent history as a true daughter of Manhattan: she was raised there and stayed pretty close to home for her education. In 1946 she received her B.A. in Latin and Greek from Queens College, working no time, she went on to New York University to receive her M.A., in 1948. Still ambitious, she continued her studies in Latin and Greek at the University of Notre Dame, where she was granted her Ph.D. this year. She chose Washington College over several other small schools, and says she has not been disappointed with her decision. In fact, she thinks the campus is one of the most beautiful she has seen—here—hope she still thinks that after our inevitable snows come on.

In spite of her early urban background, Dr. Motto is accustomed to small town life from her recent stay in Chapel Hill, she likes Chestertown and finds the citizens very friendly. The students, too, have been warm with their welcome, and the new teacher says that she appreciates their spirit. She has not yet had time to investigate W. C.'s extra-curricular activities thoroughly, but is interested in campus affairs and organizations. According to her report, she has no hobbies but music—loves everything but jazz.

The only thing Dr. Motto finds lacking on our campus is an avian class of advanced Latin and Greek students. She is eager to locate fellow classics-lovers, and would like to teach Greek along with her present load of Spanish and Latin. More power to her! We hope her present good feeling for us lasts.

duties while at the University of North Carolina.

Proficiency in six languages, Dr. Motto has received during the course of her studies many scholarships, including university scholarships at Northwestern University and the University of Cincinnati, and a graduate assistantship and a teaching fellowship at the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Ernie Cookerly attended Washington College in 1916-17 and received his B.A. from Western Maryland College in 1919. He obtained his L.L.B. in 1920 from the University of Maryland. In 1951 he attended George Washington University for some graduate work. Mr. Cookerly then spent some time in the Pentagon in Washington, D. C., and in Korea as a Captain in the Army. He is at present the Director of Public Relations and is helping to raise funds for the new building project at Washington College.

Dr. Bert Thoms is teaching philosophy, temporarily taking over for Mr. Penn. Dr. Thoms received his A.B. from George Washington University in 1947 and his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1950. He is at present teaching at St. John's College in Annapolis, Md.

Forensic To Present Gloris And McCoy

For its first opening meeting the Forensic Society proudly presents Mr. Al-Mbert Goris, Commissioner of Information at the Belgian Government Information Center in New York City, who will speak on the topic "The Congo and the Problems of Colonization," on October 7, 1959, at William Smith Auditorium.

At a future date, Mr. Frederick W. Tooby, Chief of the Division of United Nations and Specialized Agencies, United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency, will speak.

Mr. Tooby was born and educated in London, England. From 1939 to 1941 he served in the British Army in the anti-aircraft defense of London, and was appointed as a civil affairs officer at the headquarters of the Allied Commission in Italy. Since that time he has served on the diplomatic staff of the British Embassy in Rome, with the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency, and now maintains technical liaison between that agency and the United Nations Secretariat.

The Forensic Society cordially invites all students, faculty members and local residents to attend these meetings.

Shirley Emmott, now touring in South America, has been enthusiastically received by metropolitan music critics, and is regarded as one of the most promising young voices in America. Blanche Targus will be making her first tour in the United States under the same auspices that brought Phyllis Slinger here two years ago.

Desire Light is being sponsored in his first tour of the United States by the Association of American Colleges. De Almeida, Brazil's foremost young pianist, represents his country in 1959 in the International Chopin competition at Warsaw and was one of the few to receive the Chopin prize. He has appeared with symphony orchestras in Europe, in England, and numerous times in Brazil.

As the week came to a close the gripes seemed to be overshadowed by the praise . . . The dorm rooms were beginning to look like home despite breaking beds and falling walls. The food wasn't so bad even though the waiters took your plate away still half full the late hours which weren't really late, but considering what was to come were heaven; and finally, the mail from home you couldn't get to because your mail box was stuck.

But at that week of glory has ended . . . The upper classmen who were once merely outsiders are now the winners . . . Now we can be undiplomatically called the lovely Freshmen.

Soccer Game, Convocation, Dance This Weekend

Frosh Panel Helps Remedy Old Problems

Washington College's weekly assembly for the week of Oct. 1 was under the direction of the Student Government Association. President Robert Appleby opened the assembly and introduced the participants of the program.

The program centered around a forum to discuss certain campus problems that have been present for years. Three members of the Student Government: Ann Grinn, Spencer Latham, and Ken Baum, directed their question at eleven freshmen. The purpose of using new students was to try to get fresh views on these old problems. The Freshman panel was composed of: Bob Bell, Josh Carey, Dick Farrow, Elaine Glendon, Allen Grimes, Davis Hall, Mark Hoke, Jessie Miller, Howard Maschne, Bob Penkethman and Sarah Schave.

The topics discussed were:

1. How to avoid the confusion outside the dining hall and the problem of finding a seat.
1. Seating cards.
2. All upperclassmen eat first shift, with the exception of freshmen and members of athletic teams eating second shift.
3. Two upperclasses eat first shift: two lower classes eat second shift.
2. How to get the required three-fourths vote out for passing amendments.
1. Vote in assembly where every-one is present.
2. Publicize elections better.
3. The advantages and disadvantages of the social restrictions here at school.
1. Study hours for freshmen then.
2. Do away with female study halls on Friday nights.
3. Voluntary study halls as practiced in Fowell.
4. How to keep the students from going home almost every weekend.
1. Have some sort of games—possibly intramural program.
2. More activities by organizations on campus.

NOTICE

Tickets for the Homecoming dance may be purchased from any member of the Varsity Club. The price is $1.75 per person, $3.50 per couple.

President Appoints 4 New Members To Student Council

President Bob Appleby recently announced the appointment of four temporary members to the Washington College Student Council. The appointments are effective as of now.

Those appointed are: Larry Clements, representative from the junior class; John Newbold, representative from the senior class; Janice Palmer, chairman of the Women's Council; in the absence of Mary Lee Lincoln, who is studying at American University, Mel Winstad will serve as (vice) president of the Council.

These appointments will be effective until the next general election, which is to be held in April, 1954.

From The Dean

Numerous cars are still visible on the college parking grounds, without their camps stickers on display. Reports of overnight parking in prohibited areas have been turned in regularly to the Dean's office. Some cars are parked so close to driveways on the streets near the college, that the owners of the homes have difficulty in taking their cars out in the morning.

Campus summons have been issued as part of a campaign to remind all automobile users that our parking problem is chronic. In the past parking offenders have been warned for first offenses and fined one dollar for each succeeding offense. This policy is still effective.

I am most hopeful that the drivers of this community can appreciate that our parking problem is one that we share not only with other education al institutions, but with towns and cities all over the country. This college is in fact relatively fortunate conditions at most institutions are far worse than they are here. To find one small space within fourteen blocks of Columbia University requires stoutness of heart enough to wait up to an hour, double parked, until someone leaves a space in the same block.

If we can accept two remedies we can reduce this problem to a minimum. All drivers should exert the utmost care to park as close to the ad-

A. A. Houghton To Speak Here

Arthur Armooy Houghton, Jr., President of Steuben Glass, Inc., noted book collector, and former curator of rare books at the Library of Congress, will be the principal speaker at the Washington College Homecoming Convocation on October 17.

Now president of Steuben Glass, Inc., Mr. Houghton went to work with the Corning Glass Works in the manufacturing department, twenty-one years ago. In 1933 he asked his family, who controlled Corning Glass, for the money-lending Steuben subsidiary and by 1935 he had made Steuben a success.

While developing the management of Steuben Glass he became interested in the improvement of understanding between businessmen and educators, particularly the contribution of the humanities to business. Though industry has become well aware of the importance of technical and engineering training to our economy, it is not clearly conscious, as Mr. Houghton is, of the importance of study of philosophy, literature, and the arts to the production of the highest type of business executive.

He graduated from Harvard with a well developed taste for rare and fine books and his activities as a collector since that time are too numerous for detailed comment. Mr. Houghton's private collection is rich in Spencer, Lewis Carroll, and contains among other rarities, a Gutenberg Bible, the first four folios of Shakespeare, a presentation copy of Ben Jonson's "Works", 1616, and a presentation copy of Chapman's "Homer". Also in his collection are manuscripts of Samuel Pepys, autographed letters of the Brownings, Samuel Johnson, James Boswell (including the original manuscript of his "Life of Johnson") and the original of Chesterfield's letters to his godson.

In 1942 he volunteered and was commissioned a Captain in the Army Air Forces. He served on the staff of the Army Air Forces Intelligence School and later as Chairman, Academic Planning Board, Army Air Forces Technical Service Command. He was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Mr. Houghton's affiliations with education, literature, art, and libraries are extensive. In addition to being actively engaged in these matters, he has served on a number of public service committees and has also been an active member of many charitable organizations.

Art Show, Citations, Banquet Also Planned

Lorraine Merritt, noted portrait artist, is having a one-man show in the Bunting Library on October 16th, 17th and 18th. The show will include work done in the past two years and will consist of portraits, landscapes and still life.

It is interesting to note that Lorraine Merritt, a resident of Cheshire for the past nine years, started painting just four years ago as her answer to what one should do now that the children have grown. Gretchen Wood, also of Cheshire, taught her the fundamentals. Later she studied under Jerry Farnsworth, the famous portrait instructor, for three years and has since demonstrated such remarkable talent that Mr. Farnsworth, in effect, said that she has "graduated".

Mrs. Merritt has done commission portrait work in Mississippi, Connecticut, Florida and Illinois. This is the second one-man show for Mrs. Merritt and many of her works have been included in art shows from California to the East Coast.

Varsity Club Dance

The annual Homecoming Dance sponsored by the Varsity Club will be held at the National Guard Armory beginning at 9 p.m. on Saturday evening.

Tickets will be available at the reservation desk for $3.50 a couple. All alumni and their guests are cordially invited.

Banquet

The Homecoming Banquet will be held at 8:30 p.m. in Hodson Hall and it is an event that everyone will wish to attend. If you are planning on being present, it would be appreciated if you would make your reservations early as it would enable the staff to make adequate preparations.

One of the highlights of the banquet will be the report of the progress of the Development Program by Mr. John H. Hesser, General Chairman. The Toastmaster will be Bill Johnson, President of the Alumni Association, and Dr. Gibson will be the principal speaker. All alumni and friends are urged to attend so that they may hear first hand about the activities and plans which are important to Washington College, its alumni and friends.

Alumni Citations

There are many alumni who have achieved outstanding careers in their chosen fields of endeavor who have not been properly recognized by the College. Therefore the Board of Visitors and Governors have authorized Alumni Citations to be awarded per-

Square That Beanie!

Next weekend is one of great expectations for hundreds of students on the Washington campus.

For the soccer team it means a chance to dethrone National Soccer Champions—Franklin and Marshall. The cross country squad gets a chance to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of Loyola College.

Many alumni and friends will return and upperclassmen are anxious to greet those who have been long lost to the "Shut" school. But what group on campus is patiently waiting for their own private celebration on October 23?

That's right—the Freshmen! During the past 3 weeks, they have been studying the rule books and training a team for the tug-of-war which will end Frehman Hazing. That is, if they win.

In previous years however, there was little question about the fact that the tug-of-war would definitely end hazing. The freshmen had given the sophs such a difficult time during the hazing period, the second year students were glad to get the Fresh "off their necks".

Raids through Sophomore dorms, shaven heads, rebel signs, and painted bodies were a common occurrence. But it looks like the upperclassmen have the upper hand this year.

A quote from Ralph Laves seems to have proven this: "I'm not really in favor of hazing, but we decided to be tough this year and make this hazing stick."

When this inquiring reporter asked J. Aldo Gallo why the Fresh hadn't rebelled due to such rigid hazing punishment, J. replied, "They're too petrified!"

Well, that's the way it goes in sports. So until the tug-of-war remember, "Square That Beanie!"

FRESHMAN FOLLIES

CONSTRUCTIVE (?) CRITICISM

The stuff we print is rot.

The paper is as peppy

You could hear him yell a mile.

Senior Of The Week

This week, the Elm staff lists Bob Applin as the Senior of the Week. During his lifetime, Bob, better known for his records as "Appie," has won quite a large part of our country, he was born in Visalia, California, raised in Oklahoma and was graduated from

Bob Applin

Railroad High School in Wayne, Pennsylvania.

From the outset of his freshman year, Bob has been a leader on the Washington College campus and also one of our top men in sports.

At present, Bob holds the most important position on campus as President of the Student Government. He is also the Vice-President of the Chi Eta Fraternity, President of O.D.K. honorary fraternity, and a member of the Wesley Club.

In the sports field, Appie is active in the Varsity Club. He is captain in basketball, soccer, track, cross country and tennis.

Keep up that leadership ability, Bob—hope your future will be as successful as your college life has been.

journals on the basis of alphabetical order.

Miss Nuttle is the chairman of a committee which has been appointed to screen the recommendations received from the alumni and several Catholics will be awarded on October 15th. Alumni Citations were first awarded in the fall of 1952, when the Board of Visitors and Governors decided that the College would perpetuate those alumni who have achieved outstanding careers in their chosen fields of endeavor.

Following are the Washington College alumni who will receive citations: Dr. Vernon Sears, Dudley, Bismarck, N.D.; M.D. Melville, Mrs. M. Deane, Princeton, N.J.; Harold, M.D. Education, Seneca, Iowa; J. Goldstein, M.D., Prince Frederick, Md.; Governor, George T. Pratt, '56, Northampton, Mass.; Education, Philip J. Livingston, '55, New Castle, Del.; Senator and William B. Nicholson, '56, Chestertown, Md.; Allegheny.

Senior Class Meeting

President John Newbold informed members of the class that the proposed cap and gown would be $625 per person. Mrs. Dickinson was the class picnic and whether or not the class was to leave a gift to the school. There was nothing definite decided on these two questions.

NOTICE

All members of the student body are expected to attend the Fall Convocation on Saturday, October 17, on the campus. This is the principal academic event of the first semester. The college community will be lent to a most distinguished visitor. All members of the community share equally in the honor of his visit.

Meet The Frosh

By JANENE RICHMAN

To the upperclassmen: Well, here we are, another ten of us. We've had two weeks of your hazing, and you probably think we can't take more. But you just wait, we'll have our day soon.

DAVE FUMORE is a citizen of Wilmington, Delaware. He had a sister that attended W. C. a few years ago, and so far Dave thinks it's OK. Dave is interested in music, and plays the drums. He played in high school band. He was also on the Student Council and Honor Court.

STEVE CAVALLI comes from Pearl River, New York. He likes popular music, and continually keeps his radio going. She is planning to major in Foreign Business and go into banking. She thinks hazing is fun, but too long. OLIVER BEALL, Jr. comes from Annapolis, Maryland, and is here on a Senatorial Scholarship. He is planning to major in business and become a Public Accountant.

FRANKLIN BULL comes from Wildwood, New Jersey, where he is at Wildwood High School. She is here on a Rotary Scholarship. He is going to major in English and become a newspaper reporter. He worked on a local paper for six months, and was an editor of the high school paper.

He was also the president of his class three out of four years. JO ANNE PLOWDEN comes from Newport, Maryland, where she attended Latatia High School. She is here on a part scholarship, and thinks W. C. is just fine. She plans to major in History and later teach in L.I.E. DALL comes from Washington, D.C., where she went to Wilson High School. She had a girl friend who was at W. C. a few years ago. She plans to major in Business and go to work when she finishes college.

RALPH CANON comes from Baltimore, Maryland, and went to a prep school in New Jersey. He chose W. C. because he wanted to come to a small college near home. So far he thinks it's very nice. ANN HIRST comes from Washington, D.C., where she attended W. C. High School. She wanted to come to a small sized college near home, and she says W. C. was highly recommended by friends. She plays the piano and loves classical music. She is taking a general course and hopes to go on to law school. JIM NEWBOLD comes from Baltimore, Maryland. He also wanted a small school, but he has a brother here. At Boys' Latin School he was on the Student Government and he was a reporter for the school paper. He likes music and art. JANE NIELSEN is a citizen of West Hempstead, New York, where she went to Hempstead High School. She likes W. C. because it's small and not too far from home. She likes to watch sports, is a Dodge fan, and likes, in swim, She plans to major in English.

Draft ...

He pointed out that failure to take the test could result in a draft call, once the draft board might think that the student was not intelligent enough to want a deferment. Mr. Foster advised taking the November test, rather than waiting for another test in April, so that the draft board would be notified of the student's intentions as soon as possible.

Complete instructions and information are posted in the Student Bar Applications may be gotten at any local draft board office.

The Battlefront

U. N. forces capture, lose and recapture "Old Bull," but half way around the world from this struggle a more determined battle rages.

Led by Commanding General William, the Greek Army joined with the Women's Independent Forces of W. C. to recapture the Hill.

The opposition was feared to act as quickly that various and valuable items were abandoned and were confiscated by the victors. Sgt. Jack Bergen overlooked his two brothers from a camp in Baltimore. He, Khazian, formerly of the 1st Division, left his initials on a window—written like lipstick.

The army now in possession of Middle Hall plans to seal off the front from the world by use of an ion ventilation field curtain.

The enemy had trouble keeping up their own morale and entertainers were a nightly appearance in the enemy camp. Mr. DrMaggo conducted relief services which were highly praised by Bunny Hops and the Hickey Pokey. Macrina Synanski eyes, entertained the musical comedy musical 10 selections on the accordion. These seemed to be quite a bit of company and racketeering in the camp of the enemy as Corp. Mule Jennings sold tickets at exorbitant prices.

Small attempts were made to get the enemy out of Middle Hall but none have been successful. However, it must be noted that one Sunday Delaney died of heart three times, killing time.

The army presently occupying Middle Hall still gets on maneuvers, and is quite busy and going to be used in the command, "The deck!"

Today Rose-B, C, got quite a fright when she spotted the white flag late at the Tank deck in East Hall.

Finally, one has been selected for a postscript for an allowed letter. He is the man doing it, Mr. May's Land. These are sometimes referred to as the "Prisoners of Love".

It has been suggested that Ralph Laves learn how to work the loud speaker and that Bob Applin read the paper before coming to Middle Hall so that he can be charged up the steps "Who has today's paper?"

One evening after the truce had been declared, folkie Anderson looked out of her window and noticed a K, a land and saw a pair of pants and eyes. "I love you," she said, "and that's the end of it."

As every army from the beginning of time has had occupation troubles, so does this army. Counted equipment, small driving rooms, had built in the ground. Cars to be taken out of the camp all over the place and none with the same numbers; but the inhabitants are happy and still cheering, "Viva la General Wellham!"

pinning on as possible and to park in neat parallel with it. At present, careless individual parking is causing between ten and twenty per cent of our available space.

The few drivers who at some times of the day do not vision left in the most convenient parking but can find space by going to a more distant lot or a street. The distances their campus destination will be at or time be great enough to cause the serious inconvenience. In part, a short drive away, instead of at the crowded campus street or parking driveway, will save serious inconvenience and annoyance to the community who must use those routes.

Tilley Sparks Initial Win

Captain Doug Tilley drove home four goals in the Shoremen's second half offensive drive to spark Washington College's first scrimmage victory of 1953 over Catholic U., 32, on the locker field.

Loose Threats First

It seemed as though C.U. would stay away with the Macon and Black coming back its goals in the first 15 minutes of play. However, the more animated and spirited visitors were not to be denied.

At half-time, with the score 29-0, Coach Al Hamrick sent the team's coaches and inspired them to a better second half performance.

er second half performance.

Doug Tilley promptly followed his mentor's orders by driving a hard shot past the untested fingers of the opposing goalie, Chloé Hernandez. In quick succession, on time assists by his hallbacks Monte Lenane, and Ted Beldor, Tilley generated 2 more goals.

Fresh, Soph Star

Ralph Smith and Bob Appleby, founded on the scoring for the Shoremen, the former scored on a penalty shot. Outstanding performances were turned in by Freshman Barry Burns, veterans Joe Geisler, Roger Smoot, "Mule" Jennings, Pete Williamson.

Dick Weller, Bob Appleby, Al Hanfiter, Jack Jennings, and goalie Joe Neumann.

DOTS & DASHES

C. U. had an all foreign contingent, with 13 players from South America, and one from Ireland.

Predictions for things to come with further confounding, C. U. will prove a hard team to beat. . . . Presumably, the Shore soccer squad is enjoying an overnight trip down south, with contests against Rosemead and Virginia University, the first overnight trip in the college's history.

F. and M. Homecoming Foo, October 17

By AL GRIMES

Washington College will play host to Franklin and Marshall's National Soccer Champions in this year's Homecoming game, Saturday morning at Kibler Field. The Homecoming crowd should witness a hard battle between the Olympians of Washington College and Bob Smith's Collegiate Champions.

Underdog No. 72

Franklin and Marshall scored their 1952 nine-game schedule indicated and united to gain the Middle Atlantic Conference Championship and Atlantic recognition by the National Soccer Coaches' Association. . . . Community's outstanding collegiate team.

Strong On Offense

The Diplomats blanketed the opposition in six of their nine games, giving up only four goals while collecting 33. The only foe that stood within one goal of F. & M. was Muhlenberg (10), a team which won none in 1952. Western Maryland was the only team to tally twice against them.

Carl Yeager, sophomore, linemen was the team's outstanding individual star and will be in action against the Shoremen next Saturday at his favorite night position.

Coach Viles will start eight letter-men against the Diplomats, six of them being seniors who will probably be playing their last game against a National Collegiate winner.

The probable starting lineup will be senior linemen Bob Appleby, Ted Beldor, Joe Geisler, Doug Tilley, Rod Wade and Dick Weller, along with freshmen Barry Burns and Pete Williams, sophomores Jack Jennings, Roger Smoot and Joe Neumann.

Captain Ted Tilley, who led the Shoremen to their first 1953 scrimmage victory over Catholic U., Roger Smoot, Bob Appleby and Rod Wade will make up Washington's mass of defensive thrusts against the Diplomats. Fullbacks Jack Jennings, Pete Williams and goalie Joe Neumann will hold the key defensive positions.

Freshmen Barry Burns, Al Mack and Pete Smoot, senior star, Pete Williams, and Monte Lenane are enjoying their first season of collegiate soccer competition and all are currently listed as next Saturday's starters.

Sho' Spirit High

The spirit of the team and the school is at its high point for the Homecoming game. The fans are displaying their enthusiasms in preparation for the coming celebrations and other organizations are arriving on similar points. A big pep rally is planned for Friday night to start off the Homecoming weekend. A program, parade and dance, by the freshman class and led by the Chesterown Fire Department and the Washington College cheerleaders, will march through the town after the pep rally. All activity points to an exciting Homecoming weekend end for 1953.

Harriers Defeat Towson

By Jim Wright

Coach Emerson Smith's cross country runners against the second tier, Tuesday, October 6, and scored their first victory by outlasting Towson state Teachers' College 21 to 51.

Each team had nine contenders on the three mile, untimed course. Miltie DeMaggio, senior, ran the stretch in fifteen minutes, forty seconds, placed 2nd, twenty yards behind Towson's Keith Wilson.

Also playing for the Shoremen were Lou Buckley, third, in sixteen minutes, ten seconds; Ed Roy, 10th, in sixteen minutes, forty seconds; Bob Appleby, sixth, in seventeen minutes, two seconds; and Chuck King, seventh, in seventeen minutes, eight seconds. Running eighth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth respectively by the Shoremen were Bernie Thomas, Lou Almaraz, Elsworth Road, and George Eichberger.

Two Towson harriers dropped out of the race and several dropped during the 3 mile grand Coach Smith's third, placed second to be well trained as each man held a steady pace and kept their life time in comparison to the more inexperienced runners.

Ed Roy, former Westminster High School star, moved in a surprising performance in 5th position, pushed all the way by Appleby who will not compete against Hopkins next. He is traveling to Virginia with the soccer team.

DeMaggio had previously beaten Wilson twice last season, and will get two more cracks in the three mile when the Shoremen compete in a pre-season training race, Towson's first meet of the season.

DeMaggio, Keith, King, who has been converted to back at cross country field, moved in an extraordinary time.

Each team has allowed a great deal of credit to be paid and has been doing its best throughout the season all week in preparation for the Homecoming day.

Sho'men Tie Teachers

In the Macon-Dixon Conference game at Towson last Friday, Washington battled Towson to a 1-1 tie.

Washington, slow to get started, allowed Towson to get its goal in the second quarter, chiefly due to the efforts of the Teachers' leading halfbacks, Wayne Harmon, center forward, made the only Towson goal when he found himself loose on Washington's two yard line, scoring from there. In the third period the Shoremen snapped back when Al Hanfiter sent a right cross kick to Roger Smoot, who in turn sent the ball into the Towson goal from the D yard line.

Constant back kicks by Jack Jennings kept the Teachers on the defensive most of the time. Another back who played an impressive game was, captain Doug Tilley, center halfback. Outstanding linemen were Barry Burns, Roger Smoot, Bob Appleby and Al Hanfiter.

Washington played its best in the last half of the game, but failed to score several times because of living alone. Towson's are goalie. This was the Teachers' second game of the season, having played Freshburg Teachers College the week before.

Freshmen Prospects

By JERRY YUDIZKY

With the opening of the '53-54 secondary season, Coach Smith is turning on Lou Almaraz to help guide out the harrier squad. The money to W.C. gained his initial and field experience in New York where he ran for Syracuse High of Manhattan. He also has played at the well-known Powers Club of New York, which has among its members some of the most outstanding runners in the country.

Education is the field that Lou is interested in after finishing college, and a job coaching track or basketball would suit him perfectly. Although no country is currently competing, he greater part of his time, track, football, and tennis also can keep on the preference list, with plans to play in his senior non-scholarship favorite.

The usual expression is, "Small men make good in big city." For Lou Almaraz it will probably be, "Big city has made good at

Stickmen Warm-Up

Although the season will not officially open until February 15, the lacrosse team has been swinging it out three days weekly from 1 to 6 p.m. since September 22.

A rugged schedule awaits their efforts. Among the foe will be Navy, Western Maryland, Washington and Lee, Delaware, Swarthmore, Keegan, Hagler, Loyola, and Baltimore U.

Light training has returned this week, attacking Jack Howard and co-captain Bob Lipsett, midfielders, Alvin DiMaggio and George Elmer, defencemen Lee Jennings, Bill Barnes, and co-captain Dick Weller, and goalie Frank Dicker.

There are twenty new prospects, hoping to coach Don Clark's blue line base had previous experience; they are Mac Council from Annapolis by High, Tom Elders from Towson, Tim Mitchell from Severn, Shorrock from Kent, and M. St. Joe, and four players from St. Paul.

Training of fundamentals to new men will be emphasized, accompanied by several scrimmages with veteran athletes.

Coach Clark reports, "There is tremendous amount of interest among the new men as well as among the returning veterans."

Intramurals Underway

By JIM WRIGHT

For the past two weeks the various sports and intramurals on the campus have been organizing their touch football, basketball, and volleyball for the intramural athletic program.

Among the fraternities which are expected to enter are Lambda Chi, Theta Chi, K. A., and Phi Sigma. The following groups will also be represented: Somerset Hall, G.I. Hall, Town Hall, and possibly East or West Hall.

All games will be played in front of Somerset Hall Monday through Thursday from 1 to 5 p.m. Jack Canine will supervise the program as intramural director, assisted by Coach Ames.

A favorite running is picked at present as most of the teams are evenly matched. Last year's champion was East Hall, G.I. Hall was runner up. Several freshmen athletes, from G.I. Hall will attempt to humble their closest rival, Theta Chi, when the two meet in the season's opener on October 21 on Somerset Field.

Pep Rally Friday

Limber up your vocal cords and save up your energy for the big Pep Rally to be held on Friday, Oct. 16, 8 p.m., at Cain Gymnasium.

The session, which will "kick-off" W.C.'s home soccer season beginning with F. & M. the next day, will give the Fresh and transferees a chance to utilize the Shoremen's cheers and songs.

Although no prizes will be given to the person shouting the cheers the loudest, there should be a number of hoarse throats by the time the rally is over.

NOTICE

The Student Government Association wishes to announce that all organizations desirous of obtaining financial aid from the student activities fund, have their requests in writing in the Student Council by October 17th. Any requests after this date will not be considered. This date not apply to loans.

O. D. K. Qualifications

In order to maintain equally high standards of admissions to O. D. K., it is required by an honor schedule, showing the ranking of prominent positions of leadership and honors on the campus. These positions are classified into major and minor groups. An occasional reevaluation is made of the honor schedule to include the circle as kept up with the changes and new developments in campus life.

No attempt is made to follow the honor schedule to the letter. The honor schedule is intended to serve as a guide by which prospective members leadership and service qualifications are checked and evaluated. One specific prerequisite is that all members must have the qualifying under-

Hansel And Gretel Coming

The Community Concert Series gets underway this Thursday evening, October 13, in William Smith Auditorium in the Washington College campus. The curtain will go up at 8:00 on The Maritime Opera Company presenting Humperdick's immortal "Hansel and Gretel." Critics all over the country have applauded the performance. The Musical Center says, "Musically they project the freshness and charm of the score—the portrayals are spirited and in character."

Engelbert Humperdick, composer of "Hansel and Gretel", was born in 1854 in Germany and rose rapidly to a high pinnacle of popular fame. His masterpiece, "Hansel and Gretel", has given in Wexlar in 1893 immediately captured all music lovers so that it ran a rapid course the world over. No other opera has a story just right for children of all ages combined with music of a major operatic work. Difficult as the music is, it seems simple because it is perfectly suited to the words and setting.

While the standards of The Maritime Opera Company are strictly professional, its underlying principle is to carry to communities outside the larger centers, a simple but not simplified production of operas.

the college, and performs myriads of other services for W.C. alumni at home and abroad. At present his office is bustling with pre-honoring activities—a great deal of the preparation for this annual college fete is made by the alumni director and his staff.

You can readily see that Mr. Groves is a busy man, but he finds time for hobbies in spite of a full working schedule and the mischief of his two active young daughters. For pure relaxation he enjoys fishing. In no time series vein, however, he indulges in some creative writing—several of his works have been published and he hopes to make the Saturday Evening Post one of these days. We all wish him luck, and he makes a literary hit before long!

Insurance statistics prove that hunting actually is one of the safest of sports, and it could be made more so if the juvenile factor in accidents could be whittled down.

Rations For Four

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a family of four—including a boy 16 and a girl 14—buys eight pounds of meat, poultry and fish every week if it is on a low-cost diet and follows recommended standards. A total of 1134 pounds is allowed for a family on a moderate cost diet.

Better Highways Essay Contest

Mark ye, budding journalists with an ink to scribble! Here's a chance to earn $500. Pick your favorite stretch of road, "unsimulated" road—and consider how much greater its potential for romance might be without the treacherous Scoville around the deposed sign on the narrow bridge at the foot of the hill. Then explore the possibilities of improving and maintaining said highway into Eden. Input your recommendations to the sponsor of the contest: THE HIGHWAY RESEARCH BOARD OF THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCE—NATIONAL HIGHWAY COUNCIL, 2101 CONSTITUTION AVENUE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

Essays must be on some phase of the general subjects: FINANCIAL, ECONOMIC, AND ADMINISTRATIVE IMPROVEMENTS FOR OUR HIGHWAYS. The treatment of the subject should be directed to bettering our present system of highways. This includes all roads, streets, turnpikes, and other ways used by motor vehicles.

The contest is open to regularly enrolled students of Washington College who are residents of Maryland. The Research Board feels that the subject should be of special interest to students in the following major courses: economics, government, finance and accounting, aviation, journalism, commerce, political science.

The contest closes March 31, 1954. If you are interested, see the bulletin board posters for further information.

Meet the Faculty

MR. GROVES

(This is a second in a series of articles introducing new faculty and administrative appointments at Washington College this year.)

One of the most important administrative jobs on campus is in the hands this year of an energetic gentleman who has long struggled familiar to the upper-class students. His name is Mr. Groves, and he is a native Kent County, Maryland. He has been an alumnus of Washington College himself for only two years. Juniors and seniors will surely remember his checking their attendance in assembly every Thursday, for he was an "administrative assistant" even before he graduated.

Indeed, Mr. Groves cannot remember the days when he was a stranger to W.C. He is a native Kent County, Maryland, and attended Chestertown High School and then became an English major at Washington, graduating cum laude in 1952. Last year he served as assistant to the manager of Chestertown Mills, a nylon tricot knitting plant, but was called back to his alma mater to replace Spence Robinson.

As alumni secretary, Mr. Groves coordinates the activities of the Alumni Association and its branches in Washington, Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia and New York. In addition he is editor of the Alumni Bulletin and other news releases of

Jo Budd, Court, Reign Over 171st Homecoming Weekend

On October 17, 1933, at Washington College's 171st Homecoming, Josephine Budd was crowned Queen. Her Court, composed of Betty Ayres, Emily Dividen, Jean Hatch and Jane Hatch, the crowning took place during the intermission of the Varsity Club Banquet. The Queen and her Court, dressed in white formal, walked on the center of the stage while the orchestra played "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World". After placing a crown of red and white roses on her head, President Gibson danced with the Queen. Then as is customary, Joe Budd, Roy MacDonald, captain of the Gibson and at this moment, the Queen's Court with their escorts joined in the dancing.

The Queen received a bouquet of red roses and a rose crown from the Varsity Club. Her attendants also received red rose crowns.

Senior Queen

Josephine Budd, who is a senior, came to Washington College from Nevada, Delaware. Her major is Biology. Jo is quite active on campus. She is President of the Eta Tau Alpha Chapter of the Middle Hall Council, Secretary of the Seneca Club, Vice President of G.A.A., a member of the Panhellenic Council and plays hockey, basketball, and badminton.

Betty Ayres, of Monroe, Ind., the Junior Class attendant, is also a well known personality on campus. She is Rich Chairman of Alpha Chi Omega, Secretary of the Student Government Council, and a member of the Elks and the Washington Players.

The Sophomore Class representative to the Court was Emily Dividen. Her home town is Stockton, Maryland. Emily's interests are varied and include such activities as Secretary of the Sophomore Class, Cheerleader, G.A.A., Representative, Film Reporter, Art Club, Washington Players and hockey.

This year, for the first time in the history of Washington College, identical twins were attendants of the Queen. Jean and Jane Hatch are freshmen from Annapolis, Maryland. Both girls are well oriented in life on campus. Jean has joined the Washington Club, the Centurion Club, the Art Club, and enjoys playing hockey in the afternoon. Jane was seen practicing on the tennis courts and attending meetings of the French Club, the Washington Players, and the Centurion Club.

Honorary Degree Given

The convocation exercises began with the procession of faculty and alumni from Dunning Hall to the speaker's platform. After one verse of the National Anthem was sung and the International prayer was delivered by the Rev. Harvie Zecker, pastor of the Wye Church, Dr. Gibson introduced Arthur Amory Houghton, Jr., speaker of the day. Mr. Houghton, noted book collector, philatrophist, lecturer, and the president of Southern College, Inc., presented a short but interesting and impressive speech on the subject of leisure time.

After Mr. Houghton's talk there was the presentation of citations to the outstanding alumni of Washington College. Dr. Gibson also conferred an honorary degree on Mr. Houghton.

These alumni receiving citations were: Dr. Norman Spur Dudley, class of '88, Church Hill Md., in the field of Medicine; Mrs. Ida Dean Plummer, '90, Hurdick, Md., Education; Senator Louis E. Goldstein, '35, Prince Frederick, Md., Government; George I. Pratt, '36, Northampton, Mass., Education; Philip J. Wingate, '35, New Castle, Md., Science; William B. Nichols, '36, Chestertown, Md., Agriculture.

Students Hold Rally For Game

Washington College students rallied last Friday night, Oct. 16, in support of the soccer team's game with F.M.C. College on Homecoming day. This marked the first time since the dropping of football that such a demonstration has been put on by the students.

With the band providing the atmosphere, the cheerleaders led an enthusiastic welcome for Coach Atkes and members of the team. After each had been introduced, the cheerleaders led the students in cheers and about songs.

The festivities were brought to a close with the formation of a line about the Bunny Hop and Hockey. Hockey around the fire.

Homecoming Dance, Sophomore Raid By V. C. At Armory Inflicts Damage

Last Saturday evening, Oct. 17, the annual Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club, was held at the Chestertown Armory. The music for the dance was supplied by Johnny Bennett and his orchestra, currently appearing at the Hotel Dolphin in Washington. Decorations consisted of blue and pink streamers, carrying on the theme "show me the Way to Home".

In addition to regular dancing, the Bunny Hop was one of the main features of the evening with students and alumni participating. Throughout the evening, singing, a generous amount of food, and a revival meeting contributed to the general atmosphere.

Just prior to intermission, Miss Jo Budd was crowned Homecoming Queen by Dr. Gibson. Her attendants were Betty Ayres, Junior, Emily Dividen, sophomore, and Jean and Jane Hatch, freshmen. Each girl was dressed in white and carried red roses. After the crowning, the queen and her attendants danced with their escorts.

The dance was brought to a close at 1:00 with the traditional song "Goodnight Sweetheart".

Fraternities Decorate Campus For Weekend

Homecoming decorations on the campus last week were put up by each of the four fraternities. Apparently there was no judging to determine the best display this year, since no official announcement has come from this source.

Kappa Alpha's display, labeled "W.C. Secret Weapon," showed Dennis the Menace, how in hand, guarding Washington's soccer goal. In front of him were two confined and injured Franklin and Marshall athletes, one with a bump on his head and the other with an arrow in his seating arrangement.

Dominating Lambda Chi's decoration was a giant Washington soccer player in the act of kicking the ball. His light bulb eyes blinked off and on. Beside the player was a grandstand full of spectators. The scoreboard showed Washington leading Franklin and Marshall 6:0. A sign welcomed fraternity alumni.

The Theta Chi exhibit showed a W.C. soccer man pushing an enthralled, crowned figure representing F.M.C.'s national soccer championship into a grave. A temporary sign accompanied the display.

Approximately sixty sophomore boys raided G. I. Hall Sunday, October 18, around midnight. The raid was in protest of the freshmen assault on Sunset Hall the preceding Friday night.

The sophomores gained entrance into the boys' dormitory by breaking several windows and forcing the doors. After they were inside, they flooded the rooms with water from the showers, poured 100 eggs upon the freshmen, and created general chaos.

During the raid, two freshmen boys received minor injuries. Dick Farrell chipped his wrist bones and Murr Jensen received a cut upper lip. The freshmen remained up until 3:30 in the morning cleaning up the place.

All the damage done to G. I. Hall will be compensated for by the sophomore boys who participated in the raid. Hazing was abruptly ended following the sophomore raid.

Lawyer Gives Talk To Assembly

On Thursday, October 15, W.C. students witnessed Thomas Bounds, Kenneth Boon, Donald Davis, and Spencer Latham tapped into ODK. ODK tapping was held after an interesting speech by Festus P. Heck, one of the outstanding members in this community, and a short talk about ODK by its President, Bob Apple.

ODK is an honorary leadership fraternity covering 5 major fields of college life: scholarship, athletics, publications, dramatics and debate, and social and religious organizations.

Another main aspect is that it is the administration and students working together to combine their interests and ideals. It exemplifies ideals of American manhood and is a goal for college men to strive for. And most of all it is the highest honor a man can receive in his college career when he can qualify in the major fields of ODK.

These four new ODK's are well known on W.C.'s campus. Thomas Bounds is a member of the Varsity Club and is a letterman in soccer and baseball. He holds the office of Business Manager of the Pegasus and is a member of the student Board of Publications. Not to be forgotten is his membership in Theta Chi Fraternity and the Seneca Club.

The second man tapped, Kenneth Boon, served on the Constitutional Committee for the Student Government for 2 years, is a representative to the Student Government and is President of the Forum Society. He has held the office of treasurer in Phi Sigma Kappa and is now vice president. He is also vice president of IFC.

Howard, third man to be tapped, is President of Lambda Chi Alpha, is a member of IFC, and belongs to the Student Board of Publications. He is Business Manager for the Washington Elm, and has earned a varsity letter in tennis.

And last, but not least, is Spencer Latham who is President of the Washington Players, Vice President of Kappa Alpha Fraternity, and is this representative to the Student Government. He is also a member of IFC and was elected Treasurer of ODK for this year.

Also tapped was Preston P. Heck who is a member of the faculty, and was very active in campus activities while here. He is an acting lawyer and is quite a prominent leader in the community.

"Egg-God," yell the Frosh while excavating G. I. Hall during a Sophomore raid. Over 1,400 rotten eggs were dumped on the Freshmen who elected to raise off hazing rules.

Thinclads Prep For Del-Mar Championship Race

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By WAYNE GRUEHN

Rounding out his last year at Washington College is Douglas Selmar Tilley who hails from Kennett Square, Pa. A senior, Doug will leave behind him a rather impressive record of accomplishments on the soccer field, the basketball court and the baseball diamond. It was the same story when he graduated from Kennett Square High School, having been a member of the varsity soccer, basketball and baseball teams, each, for three years.

When he enrolled at Washington, it wasn't long before he was in the maroon and black uniform as a starting member of the soccer squad. Came the winter, and Doug played a season of basketball on the J-V team. Unfortunately for him, Washington had no basketball team that year, and Doug's talents went unused.

His sophomore year, Doug again made the first string in soccer and ended up the season with a berth on the all-conference squad. That year also saw Mr. Tilley on the varsity basketball squad, and as one of the first to show up for practice when basketball returned to the campus.

As expected, last year's soccer team ended with Doug again on the all Mason-Dixon squad, and after the last basket was scored and the final out made, record books had the name of "Tilley-guard" and "Tilley-2nd-Base" written on their pages for game after game.

Versatile To Say The Least

For instance, anyone playing against Doug, will find a 5-foot-11-inch, 165 pound dynamo, who will look to his right, call a man who's on his left and with either foot, kick the ball to the front of him, many times past a goalie and into the net. It is ability such as that which earned Doug a co-captainship on the soccer team and as captain of Coach Kibler's baseball squad this year. As if this wasn't enough, Doug in his junior year received the Simper, Athletic Award.

As treasurer of Theta Chi, and President of the Varsity Club, Doug majors in Economics and will be receiving his diploma this June. However, first things first, and so on this coming January 10th Doug will score another goal when he starts in the serious game of matrimony.

After graduation? Well that depends on Uncle Sam, but Doug is heading for the business world.

An impressive record? Certainly. And above it all, Washington College can be proud of the true sportsmanship exemplified by Doug in every game he ever played.

Some might smile at that statement, but when it comes down to fair-play, Doug Tilley has shown that it takes more than ability to be an athlete.

And Doug is an athlete.

Intra-Murals In Full Swing

The Intra-mural Football League is now functioning in full swing, with the teams participating in the first week's activities. Operating with only six teams this year, not less than one year, the battle for top honors promises to be even hotter than last year's.

Theta Chi, one of the powers of last year, is already leading the pack in virtue of their 40-0 routing of Alpha Chi and 14-0 win over a stubborn Theta Chi. The latter, however, did humble Foxwell 33-0. In the only other action of the first week, Eta Hall and Lambda Chi battled 20-7 deadlock.

The big gun for Theta Chi in both of their victories was Ronnie Sick, the former All-Maryland star from Washington. In particular, one of the outstanding in the passing department, and has been on the throwing end of several aerials for Theta Chi. Eta Hall boasts Sam Macera, whose all-around performance was the main reason in the hospital win over the Grappys last week. Theta Chi, led by Alex Macera, who played first string in the championship Bridging (N.J.) High eleven, appears to be one of the best defenses on the campus.

If the Foxwell scores can be used as a basis of comparison, G. A. would hold an edge over Theta Chi. The latter has the advantage of greater experience. Not to be left out of the picture is Psi Hall, last year's champions.

who got off to a slow start in their initial tilt.

Clete Cammone, intra-mural director, believes that the small league will result in more balance between the teams this year. This would make the contest for the loop champion's medal award closer and more interesting.

Harriers Rout Loyola

By Jim Wright

Saturday, October 17, Coach Emerson Smith's Black and Maroon, and the Loyola Greyhounds to the tune of 14-0 at Loyola College.

Tied for first place were Washington's Mickey DiMaggio and Lou Buckley, who had previously placed second and third on October 6 against Towson.

Coach Emerson Smith, Ed Bar, Ken Binkley, Ed Binkley, Lou Altmann, and George Eckelberger placed fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and tenth respectively. Coach William McElroy's green and grey took fifth, ninth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, and fourteenth places.

This was the second Sho' Harriers victory in the Mason-Dixon Conference, coming their second to two and one. A dividing factor in the outcome of the meet was the excellent conditioning of the Shoremen, which Coach Smith has instilled in through the season. He stated, "If the squad keeps working, the future looks bright, and they ought to be a tough team to beat."

Freshman Barry Burns drives a shot at Franklin and Marshall goalie. The shot was too high, but Doug Tilley scored later. The Shoremen lost 3-1.

National Champs Stop Shoremen

Washington College fell from the undefeated ranks last Saturday, October 17, as last year's National Champions, Franklin and Marshall, humbled the Maroon and Black, 3 to 1 before the annual Homecoming crowd on Kibler Field.

The sole sho'men goal was scored in the third period by Doug Tilley, who although injured during the second quarter, was able to outmaneuver the Pennsylvania defense with his tricky footwork, and tally. Ed Hunt was scored in the first quarter for Franklin and Marshall when he headed a hard shot from the 20 yard mark past Joe Seymanski, Washington goalie. Bob Elliot scored the remaining two goals in the third and fourth quarters on two crosses into the lower corner of the net. Special recognition is due to center halfback and co-captain Rod Ware of Bethesda, Md., who was judged the outstanding player on the field by the referees.

It was the third win this year for Franklin and Marshall, who was undefeated and unified last season, scoring thirty-three goals and having but nine scored against them.

The Shoremen threatened to score throughout most of the first quarter, having many shots bounce off the opposing goal posts. Coach Athey states that, "If we had scored during the first quarter like we should have, it might have been a different ball game."

Delaware U. Next Home Foe

Saturday, October 31, the Washington College soccer team will encounter its second Middle Atlantic Conference game of the 1958 season when it meets a highly rated contender, Delaware University, on Kibler Field at 2 p.m. Ranked 61 in last year's standings with the Maroon and Black, Delaware would like nothing better than to even the score by licking the Shoremen on Saturday. Seven returning lettermen are back to strengthen the rival team, which recently lost a Coach Louisa game to highly rated Captain Doug Tilley and Rod Ware scored two of the four goals from their halfback position in last year's game.

The probable lineup for Washington will be goalie, Joe Seymanski; fullbacks, Pete Williams and Jack Jensen; center halfbacks, Joe Gelsider, Rod Ware and Ted Reddick; lineemen, Dick Welker, Bob Appleby, Roger Smoot, Doug Tilley and Barre Burns.

It is expected to be a rough contest from start to finish, however, Coach Athey feels confident that if the team plays the game it is capable of playing, the chances of defeating the Blue Devils again, are good.

Booters Shut Out Greyhounds

Washington College won its first soccer victory in the Mason-Dixon Conference last Tuesday as they defeated Loyola College of Baltimore 3 to 0 on the home field.

The Sho'men broke into the scoring column in the second quarter as freshman Barry Burns crossed a hard shot into the opposing net on an assist from Bob Appleby, inside right line man.

Rod Ware, co-captain and left halfback, added another tally in the same period as he sunk a 25 yard indirect kick.

Before the final whistle sounded, signifying the end of the contest, sophomore center forward Roger Smoot racked up his fifth tally of the '58 season with a free penalty kick.

Notable performers for the job of offense and defense were Doug Tilley, Dick Welker, Joe Gelsider, Dick Lenti, Pete Williams, Ted Reddick, Tom Lennard, John Carey and goalie Joe "Phil" Syzanski, who played his finest game to date. Incidentally this encounter was the first shutout by the Shoremen in the last two years.

Stickmen Work Out

The Indian sport is progressing well once again as the Shore Canoe and Paddle teams, a week, the local canoe hopefuls are out practicing under the able direction of Dr. Charles Clark.

Concentrating on the fundamentals such as perfecting stick work, scooping, passing, shooting, and teamwork, the 25 man squad has shown a great deal of enthusiasm and several newcomers are performing well.

These men include Tom Albrecht, midfielder; Jack Linton, defender; Ken Binkley, midfielder; and Mac Connell and Tom Elder, goalies.

A large backboard will be erected soon on Kibler Field for use by both soccer and basketball teams for diagramming various plays and strategies.

Olympics Defend Crown

By Jerry Yudaky

Fresh from an overwhelming victory over Loyola College, the Sho' Harriers are looking forward to showing their teeth to the other winners in the Del-Mar Championship meet this Saturday, October 30, at Chilton Park, Baltimore. Time for the event is 3 P.M.

The local thinclads will have their work cut out for them, with Baltimore Olympic Club, Towson Teachers and Catholic U., providing the opposition. Coach Smith's protégés, with two decisive victories in three engagements, race a good chance of winning top honor home.

Joining the field by W.C. will be Mickey DiMaggio and Lou Buckley, who, against Loyola, closed the tape for a first-place tie. Both have run the three mile distance in less than 16 minutes several times this year. They will be ready to better their previous records when they run against the combined opposition of the other teams.

Last year DiMaggio came in third and Buckley eighth in the Championship. Although he didn't join the squad until after the season had begun, Keene Baker was outstanding against Johns Hopkins and Loyola, finishing in the top two both times. Another standout has been Chuck King, a freshman who never ran a race before this fall, but who has consistently been one of the team's earlier finishers.

Winner of the previous three meet and favored to repeat is the Baltimore Olympic Club, although Merle Croshaw, last year's winner, isn't with the team this year. But Coach Bill Jimeson has a well rounded squad that triumphed over Howard U. in B.O.C.'s season opener recently. Jimeson, Thane Smith and Ray Hootley make up a triple threat for the Olympians, whose club is composed of former college and high school stars who have graduated or left school but are still interested in the ball and rule sport.

Theta Chi has been second in the total meet for two straight years. A trend shift is expected between DiMaggio and Keith Wilson of Towson. The Sho' are came in second to Wilson in the W.C. Townsall match this year, but beat the Towson harrier in the last year's meet.

Medals will be awarded to the first 20 men to cross the finish line, and Coach Smith hopes to have all of his men come in first, but stresses the fact that the team that wins a meet is the one that achieves the most of the first ten places. It is with this belief that he is confidently expecting the Maroon and Black to run off with top laurels.

Running for the Shoremen will be: Mickey DiMaggio, Lou Buckley, Len Altmann, Carol Bink, George Eckelberger, Bernie Thomas, Chuck King, Ed Bink, Keen Baker and Ellis Bond.

Yesterday's HEROS

5 Years Ago, Oct. 15, 1948
Alex Markwell was the Shoremen's outstanding lineeman as they prepared to meet the Green Terrors of Western Maryland in their second football game of the season.
Price Ransome and Buddy Bowser led the Shore Bowlers to a 20 victory over Towson State Teachers College to gain their fourteenth win in sixteen outings since the team was formed in 1946.

Open House

Last week end, during Homecoming, the four fraternities on our campus held open houses and had parties for the benefit of alumni.

Kappa Alpha Order had open house on Sunday from 5:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. serving refreshments to those who attended consisting of punch, cookies, potato chips, and doughnuts. Bridge was played by a few.

Lambda Chi Alpha's open house was on Saturday from 1:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. They served refreshments of punch, potato chips, crackers and different types of cheeses.

An open house for Phi Sigma Kappa alumni was given on Saturday from 5:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. Alumni Bill French, Dick Shipps and Charlie White were welcomed back. The Sigma Kappa also held a fraternities party which started after intermission time at the Homecoming dance.

Saturday from 4:00 P.M. to 6:30 P.M. a buffet supper held at the Ranch was given by Theta Chi. In addition to dancing, one of Theta Chi's well known social meetings was held.

Students Advised On

Qualification Tests

Applications for the November 19, 1955 and the April 22, 1956 administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards through out the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test on either date should apply for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to Selective Service Examining Section, Education and Testing Service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the November 19 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, November 2, 1955.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the selective Service system, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once, regardless of the testing date he selects. The results will be reported to the students' selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

Shoremen Play Fourth Tie; Deadlock Gettysburg, 0-0

Washington College remained a shutout in Middle-Atlantic Conference competition as it deadlocked a well-defended Gettysburg eleven, 0-0, last Thursday on the Pennsylvania's Pitch.

The Shoremen employed The Engineers' offensively, taking 32 shots without draining the opposing nets. Goalsie George Sims played one of the greatest saves of his life after the Chestertown goalie.

The Shore defense, in comparison, allowed only 12 shots to be fired at the goal as Joe Szymanski made several well executed saves to preserve the shutout.

At one time during the third period, inside left Finneman Doug Tilley had missed more shots himself than he had the entire Gettysburg team for the entire game. He was on the spot to stop them, however, and the score remained blank.

The Washington team was in good condition, playing on a field which was 100 yards by 30 yards, being used to Kibler Field which is 120 yards by 50 yards.

The halfback combination of Red Warr, Joe Geisler, Matt Leman and Ted Redwine reportedly placed the ball in the possession of the Maroon and Black lineups. It was just a question of whether or who would kick the winning goal, but none of the 32 attempts denied the nets.

Two five minute overtime periods were called, during which time Gettysburg played mostly defense, as the Shoremen fired 3 times at Sims.

Referees Kraft and Williams handled the game splendidly as they kept both teams constantly in action and hustling competitively. Very few penalties were called during the contest.

The Shore team played well, but added another tie to its record book. This was the fourth tie for the Shoremen, along with 1 win, 1 loss. The team is still undefeated in Mason-Dixon competition.

It was the second shutout of the season for the Chestertown hoisters, having blanked Loyola, 3-0.

Couch Ed Aher is experimenting with a new lineup in practice sessions by replacing Rocky Smoot with Doug Tilley as center forward moving Smoot out to the right wing and shifting Dick Weller to his old right inside position. This is an attempt to strengthen the scoring punch and while the phone of ties. The Blue Hens of Delaware invade the Shore Saturday in what promises to be an exciting Park tilt.

Brice, Bergen and Gills all live together on the third floor of East Hall, or most of the female populace of Middle Hall already know. One day Hesse brought a skunk into the room, which he had found in the back seat of Ronnie Mink's car. "I'm going to keep this skunk for a pet," George said to his roomies. "But what about the smell?" questioned The Fink and The Gimp. "He'll just have to get used to it like we did!" exclaimed George (P.S.—George kept the skunk and it turned out to be Ronnie Sisk in disguise!)

Freshmen Prospects

Chosen as freshman prospects for this week is a tall, six-foot-two 175 pounder, from Severn Park, Maryland, Tim Albright. Tim attended Severn Prep for five years, including a P.G. camp before deciding to enter Washington College.

Lacrosse is Tim's major athletic interest in which he is considered a fine freshman prospect. For last season, Tim started as an attackman for Severn High and was elected captain in his senior and post-graduate years. Because of his scoring potential, he made the 1952 All-MD. Scholastic second team, chosen by the vote papers. Tim rang up 18 goals and 28 assists in his senior year. The following year, he scored 5 less goals and added the same number of assists before bowing out of scholastic competition.

Tim also played first string on the Severn's football squad his last two years. While attending W.C., Tim has chatted cheerily as his major. That is until Doc Clark issues his spring lacrosse practices. Then his full attention will go to the stick sport, in which everyone wishes him the best of luck.

Sadie Hawkins Dance Tonight

Tonight the Bottom of Hidden Hall will be transformed into Washington College's version of Dogpatch. The action is the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance sponsored by the varsity class.

Music for dancing will be furnished by records with some square dancing and a Bunny Hop also on the schedule.

Highlighting the dance will be the dancing of Lili Almer and Daisy Mae. The participants are to be chosen at the dance on the basis of the best costumes. The ceremony will be presided by "Marryin' Sam" Meigs.

Included in the admission price (50 cents) will be refreshments, consisting of cider and doughnuts.

Go out and get that main, gals, there are still a few hours left.

Fellowships Offered

The Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications from the third class (1954) of Graduate Fellowships for college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1954, or their first year of graduate study. The Foundation receives applicants from the fields of Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and other fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Gibson has named Dean Dole as the Liaison Officer to work with the Danforth Foundation on the selection of candidates. These appointments are primarily "a relationship of encouragement," carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. Students with or without financial aid are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellowship is allowed to carry other scholarship appointment, such as Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, G.E.B., etc.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Mullanbach in Michigan next September. The qualifications of the candidate as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are:

Evidence of superior intellectual ability in college record.

Evidence of health and emotional stability.

NOTICE

A representative of the U. S. Navy Office of Naval Officer Procurement will be on campus on Monday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. He will be available to counsel all men and women students who may be considering taking part in the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Program. All students interested in the Navy, whether they are thinking of beginning Naval work very soon or want to begin later, however far in the future, are urged to talk to this officer. He will make his headquarters in Room 17.

Zetas Present Fashion Show

Last Thursday evening, Nov. 5, at 8:00 p.m., the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority presented Washington College's fall fashion show in William Smith Auditorium.

On display were evening gowns, party dresses, sport clothes, and raincoats donated by the Fashion Shop of Chesham. As in the past, proceeds from the annual Fashion Show go to the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Two door prizes were given away at the show. One was a dress and the other a sport outfit.

The Good Old Days?

It is often very fascinating to leaf through the pages of the old Elm in the library and relive the college life experienced by Washington College students of another era.

Today we present highlights from The Elm, 25 years ago today.

Sports

"Too much praise can't be given to Coach Dunscomb and Coach Garington for their efforts in providing early basketball games this season. It takes a lot of time, work and skill to produce a really first rate team. However, realizing that many of our announcements have been curtailed by the war, every effort was made to insure an early season. The first home game was with Baldwin on November 27."

"Reading the exchange papers, a note of optimism was detected concerning the court prospects of the other schools. In the Mason-Dixon Conference, Western Maryland is cutting out all major sports, while Catholic U. has only three of last year's hardwood squad returning."

Rieser Praises W. C. Players

Mr. Allan Rieser, a New York specialist in the theatre, was here on October 25. Mr. Rieser is the author of several plays and is a member of the New Dramatists' Committee, an organization of playwrights. Mr. Rieser conferred with a few of the members of the Washington Players. He spoke highly of the function of the college and universal theatre as outlets for an experimental drama, unpublicized playwrights, and seldom produced classics. He noted the tendency common among small group theatres to produce broadly Broadway plays of little originality or dramatic value. He discussed the tendency of Broadway producers to limit themselves to purely commercial and derivative themes.

On Monday morning, by invitation of Dean Bradley, Mr. Rieser appeared before the Shakespearean class and commented briefly on characteristics and literary types in Shakespearean drama. Mr. Meigs, whose Dean Bradley had also invited, then continued a discussion of Mr. Rieser's observations.

Win $3.00!

Omicron Delta Kappa is sponsoring a song and cheer contest for Washington College. There will be a $3.00 prize given by the Varsity Club to the person submitting the best cheer.

The purpose of the contest is to obtain new songs and cheers for the school. This will aid the cheerleaders in stimulating school spirit and enthusiasm at athletic contests.

The contest is open to both students and faculty, and entries may be given to any member of O.D.K.

The contest is also being backed by the fraternities and other organizations on campus.

Freshmen To Hold Class Elections

The Student Government Association will sponsor elections for the officers of the Freshman Class next week.

Primary elections for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and Treasurer will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 10, and final elections will be held Thursday, Nov. 12.

Students gave their blood so that only one may lack blood in response to the Red Cross call for donors.

"From all reports, the students appreciated this opportunity to do their share in the war effort, and were as equally appreciated by those in charge of the mobile unit."

Fraternities will continue to operate this year on the Washington College campus, stated President Mead on Wednesday, Nov. 4.

"However, the administrative group studying the question as to whether or not fraternities should remain on the campus, has deemed it wise for the Interfraternity Council to propose certain temporary emergency measures to facilitate continued equality in pledging and to insure that only the best fraternity material will be considered. Among these proposals would be a limitation of the number of men in the fraternity to 8 members. Of course, we understand and we hope that this is merely a tent.

Samis, Easterby Direct Deghton's 3-Act "Farse"

Friday and Saturday, November 13 and 14, at 8:30 p.m. the Washington Players present "The Happiest Days of Your Life" in William Smith Auditorium. This delightful English farce in three acts was created by John Deghton.

Entertainment is the keynote with an abundance of light-hearted gaiety and fast moving action. Modernistic staging is used for effectiveness.

From The Dean

Students are reminded that overcutting in any course will automatically produce failure in that course. Recently a student was forced to withdraw from school because he had overcut in more than one course. Anyone with less than twelve hours is no longer qualified as a regular student. A withdrawal student is not counted from any student whose load goes below twelve hours because of failure due to overcutting.

Students dropped because of overcutting will not be readmitted unless the Faculty Committee or Administrators of Academic Standing approves the applications for readmission.

W. Md. Alumni Form Chapter

The Western Maryland Chapter, Washington College Alumni Association, elected officers at a dinner meeting held at the Shrine Country Club, Cumberland on Saturday, Oct. 31.

John J. Cavanaugh, of Cumberland, was elected president of the Chapter. Other officers are William Benjamin, of Thurmont, vice-president; Nancy G. Nieuwamer, of Hagerstown, secretary; James P. Root, of Oakland, treasurer; and executive committee members Basil Clark, of Lincolnton; Nelson Kaylor, of Cumberland; Mrs. Jean Conners, of Hagerstown; Ray McCullough, of Cumberland; and Homer Babylon, of Williamsport.

The Western Maryland Chapter has the distinction of being the first new chapter of the Alumni Association to be organized in recent years. Other chapters have been functioning in Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia, and New York for many years.

Membership in the chapter is open to all alumni of the college living in the areas served by the respective chapters. The chapters operate at the local level in furthering the interests of the Alumni Association, and they provide the alumni a more immediate close tie with the Alma Mater.

The play itself concerns the post-war period in England. At a boys' school, Hilary Hall. After the war, because of lack of facilities, a girls' school, St. Swithins, arrives at Hilary Hall to all but take over the school. This setup is completely against the principles of both Miss Whitechurch, the principal of St. Swithins, and Mr. Pond, Headmaster of Hilary Hall. The play involves a series of trials and tribulations due to the interference of objecting parents, the mixing of sexes, and confusing romances . . . of all ages. The romances are finally successfully resolved but the finale serves as a last climax when more confusion arises from the arrival of a third school—for mentally deficient delinquent girls!

Samis Director

Harvey Samis, the Director of the play, has worked industriously for this presentation with the able assistance of Al Easterby. Both boys have had experience on the stage; Harvey as a professional singer and as a summer stock actor. Al, here at Washington, received the Oscar for his performance in last year's production of "Light Up the Sky."

Newcomers And Vets

The cast of "The Happiest Days of Your Life" include the appearance of both newcomers and veterans to the Washington Players' footlights.

Miss Whitechurch, the principal of St. Swithins School for Girls, is ably portrayed by a freshman, Phyllis Papperman.

Mr. Pond, played by E. A. Colitti, is Headmaster at Hilary Hall's School for Boys, who disapproves of this female invasion.

A sophomore transfer, Marie Rutkowski, has the role of Miss Gossage, the energetic athletic instructor at St. Swithins. Her energy, however, is directed toward the capture of Mr. Billings (Al Candelino), a teacher at Hilary Hall, who isn't desirous in the least of being a captive.

Mr. Tassell, portrayed by Bill Stein, a sophomore transfer, finds romantic interest even less a teacher at Hilary Hall. In the person of Joyce Harper (Terry Knoll), a teacher at St. Swithins.

The students of the two schools also discover the "blossoming of young love" in the character of Hapenale Moore (Tom Elder, freshman) and Barbara Caboun (Wanda MacMullen).

Forty-Six Nervous Breakdowns Coming Up

twelve in five days! Now this is had enough, but some of the girls are beginning to wonder what the future may hold. Why they already out-number the boys!

As if the mice weren't enough, giant centipedes, spiders, and various unknown organisms can be observed crawling through, under, over, and into everything. In the middle of the night the crunching and squeaking of the mice can be heard yards away. Many times the girls have resorted to violence. Throwing trash cans, knives, books and coke bottles are just a few of the ways to relieve the tension. Any of course when they're wakened to this, the house mother and floor counselor presented them with the now famous room campus. Rules were tightened up on so that now when you have to pay an "emergency call" in the middle of the night you must knock on the counselor's door and sweetly say, "May I?"

Oh well, there are only 18 days left before Thanksgiving and civilization . . . and believe me everyone of them is counting to the last second. When you ask them if they're coming back, they look shocked. "But, of course," they reply. "But the mice!" you exclaim. And then they sheepishly remark, "Oh well, they're such friendly mice!"

Need I say more . . . I think not . . . For if the mice don't break the men will.

CHECK YOUR CAR

Have you ever been suddenly awakened from a sound sleep by the nibbling of a mouse at your elbow? No doubt you have never experienced this phenomenon and no doubt you will not believe the following tale . . . But believe me, it's true . . . and it could only happen at Washington College.

In the barracks that is known as Reid Hall, forty-six strong and still young women reside. Here they live among mice, centipedes, squeaking doors, falling trash cans, house mothers, floor counselors, rules, and room campus . . . Here they live in peace and prostitution.

Two months have passed since the forty-six "green" freshmen girls stepped foot on this campus. Whether they will step off in the same state of mind is doubted very much. They did not expect the comforts of home, and they did not get them. However, they were not prepared for what they did get. Even the strong hearted male would shudder at the thought of some of the things that go on there. And now on with the story . . .

One bright sun filled day a young woman was awoken from the afternoon nap to find that a mouse had calmly crawled into bed with her and had begun to nibble on her elbow. Shocked as she was, it was no surprise. The Reid Hall "gray mice" had begun to appear almost from the first day. Until recently only one or two had been caught in a week. One soon, however, holds the record of

Senior Of The Week

Our senior for this week is "Howdy" Davis, formerly Howard W. Davis, a Yankee, from Oxford, Pa. "Howdy's" hand work and interest in his fraternity have won him the office of High Alpha, or president, of Lambda Chi Alpha this year. As a campus leader and all-around guy, he was tapped for OPA this week ago. He's a representative to the Inter-Fraternity Council, a member of the Board of Publications, and a regular reporter for the Elm.

A good athlete, "Howdy" is on the tennis team and has been an international star in basketball and football throughout his four years of college.

"Howdy's" favorite pastime is busing on the river at home.

Majoring in economics here at W.C., "Howdy" plans to enter the field of heavy engineering when he graduates. But first he plans to take a special post-graduate course at Drexel University.

With his friendly smile and quiet efficiency, "Howdy" is sure to go a long way. We all wish him luck!

Still Waiting Men?

Well, here it is Saturday morning . . . Tonight one of the lighter side of Washington College life will take place—the annual Steve Hawkins Dance. How many of you boys reading this are going? . . . or is it too childish for you? Well, let me put it another way—how many of you have been asked yet? Although many of you may feel that the "life up the road" is much more pleasant than a silly dance in Hodson on Saturday night, I bet each one of you would be tickled to death to be asked, and to have two, four, boys, the day is yours yet!

Who knows, in the next few hours some sweet young thing may approach you with the fatal question . . . and of course you will accept or reject with a nonchalant "I know she was going to ask me all the time." Of course you may wonder why you haven't been asked before this . . . it may be that you are guilty of one of the "unpardonable sins." You may be one of those who failed to ask anyone to Homecoming, or maybe you asked her only a few hours before the dance started, or maybe you broke a date, or maybe you forgot your date's name, could be you were late, or were out of "condition" when you got there, or maybe you ignored her all evening, or all the following week . . . anyway, whatever class you fall under you may be sure the girls are taking it out on you now. If you're one of the luckier ones that escaped sentence this time, be careful . . . you may be next time they'll be able to read your "hand some" face and "tough" personalities—but I doubt it.

"CRAZY MAN, CRAZY"

Once upon a time in a real gone college town on the edge of great Hoo River, lived a crazy F! Freshman named Red. Riding Hood. Her fellow students nicknamed her "Kidding" because every subject she elected was a "kide" at this wild hep-cat college.

One day when Red finished her first basket in basket weaving class, the Teach instructed her to take a trek to Grandma's shack and deliver a few choice tidbits from Hodson Hall to the poor old gray haired flapper.

"Same 'ole jazz," said Red, as she picked up the viddles and skipped down for Gran's place.

Now Granny lived on the other side of the river, at a spot named the local Squares called, "Poor Man's Country Club." Red went post haste to the outhouse in the woods, I mean house out in the woods, and when arriving on the local scene, exclaimed, "This shack makes East Hall look like The White House!"

Red peered through the window and saw the Big Bad Wolf disguising himself as Granny! Now Red wasn't no scardy-cat, she was a hep-cat who decided to go along with this animal's game.

She knocked on the portal and a deep voice within replied, "Fall in Square and deal your 'ole Grandma some skin!"

"Morning doll," smiled the Wolf.

"Happy New Year to you, too," spilled Red, while trying to figure out how she could save Granny who was stashed away in the Wolf's bread basket.

"You don't look like my Granny to me," said Red, playing her ace in the hole. But her ace fell through the hole as the Wolf forthwith, leaped from the sack!

"I don't go for none of that Joe College Jazz," the gray ar smirked. "T'm going to lay it on you, Red," he said as he pulled out a crazy cranking knife.

"Stop!" cried Red, "Today's Friday, so you've had it, Wolfe!"

"The story-teller goofed," cursed the Wolf as he tore open the wild basket of fish cakes Red had brought over from Hodson.

"Dig me now, Red, 'cause I'm all done now," gasped the Wolf as he fell down on the floor. Now you all know that Granny was in the Wolf's bread basket? Yes, you guessed it—the fish cake killed her, 'ja!

"I snored them both," sobbed Red the following day as she told her little to her be-bop buddies from Reid Hall. But everyone figured a tale would would fix Red up, so they went to lunch.

Yes, you guessed it again. There in front of Red the waiter placed a bowl of Gran-Wolf stew!

"It was it," said Red, "If I could tell Granny the Wolf." It was at this crazy moment in this fabulous tale that a chunky piece of meat popped up and repeated "Dig me now, Red, 'cause I'm all done now!"

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By WAYNE GRUEHN

Athlete's Feat for this week is actually more than one. To be confusing, I could say that this week's column is about four feet, four of the fastest on campus. They belong to sophomore Mickey DiMaggio and junior Lew Buckley, the two best cross-country runners Washington College has seen since the colorful Filmore Dryden.

Based for this statement comes from statistics covering the short period of one year. When the '52 harrier squad started training there were two new faces who were not only new to the squad but to the sport as well.

Agostino Matthew Michael DiMaggio was born on April 11, 1933, in Annapolis, Maryland, and grew up there, graduating from Charlotte Hall Military Academy.

Lewis Ernest Buckley came into the world on November 7th, 1933, in Sharon, Connecticut, but spent his childhood four miles away in Armenia, New York. Like Mickey, he had never done running atire before last year.

However new the sport, they soon caught on, and many an opposing barrier in that season, saw only the back of their maroon and black uniforms.

Admitting a poor '52 season, Washington was justified, however, in being proud of the records of these two alone. For instance, Mickey ran in eight out of nine races. In the six dual meets, he crossed the line first in four of them and second in the remaining two. In the Del-Mar Championship meet, he was third, and fifth in the Mason-Dixon run.

Lew boasted three seconds, a third, and a fourth in dual meets, while placing twelfth in Mason-Dixon and eighth in the Del-Mar Conference. It must be noted that if a conference meet there are usually twelve or thirteen seven man teams competing at once. That totals then, about eighty-odd possible places in which to finish.

Better This Year

To date, this present season has held better days for the squad in general, greatly helped by Mickey and Lew and their alternate one-two punch.

Even though pestered by leg and knee trouble, the two have between them a fourth, three thirds and two seconds. Last weekend, Lew and Mickey finished fourth and fifth respectively in the 1953 Del-Mar run. But perhaps the best display of running so far, was at Loyola, when both boys broke the tape side by side, to tie for first.

The Sport Itself

There are people on this campus who do not understand the sport of cross-country, and I hope that I may take the opportunity to explain it here. It is a team sport, for individual ability; yet not so much ability as it is endurance and plain interstinal-fortitude. Three miles is a long way to run in less than sixteen minutes, and some courses are as much as three and a half miles over fields and through woods. It's just what the name implies; cross-country.

And glory? There's little, very little. Rather its satisfaction of body condition through love of the sport.

And in one short year, Mickey DiMaggio and Lew Buckley appear to have gained satisfaction, through love of the sport, to deserve glory.

Intra-Mural Grid Race Tightens

By Alan Grimes

Upsets in football powers are not limited to the major college teams. The mighty Michigan State, the favorite Theta Chi and G.J. Hall squads were both humbled by hant playing yesterday.

G.J. Hall was the first of the mighty 9 fall when East Hall overcame a 6-0 deficit to win 13-6. This victory by one tied East Hall dropped G.J. from the ranks of the undefeated and left Theta in the number one spot. But Theta's glory was short lived as Lambda Chi, undefeated and once tied, pulled the gridiron from under them in win 13-6.

In a game marked by bitter words and feelings, Theta's football machine lost an 18-0 victory over G.J. Hall in a game that, early in the season, had figured to be the top one of the league.

The spotlight in the league is held

Shoremen Unroost Hens

by Jim Wright

At 2 p.m. the Blue Hens of Delaware U. hatched a 3-1 deficit from their skunkish, with coach Ed Athley's boosters last Saturday, October 31, on Kibler Field.

Both teams were slow to get started as the first half ended in a 0-0 deadlock. Doug Tilley broke the tie in the third quarter on a basket shot past Ken Goetz, Tom Allen. However, Delaware's Ken Whittington evened the score as the quarter ended, 1-1. Again in the fourth quarter, Coccipatin Tilley rattled the Hens with two more goals, which concluded the afternoon's scoring.

Outstanding players in the Sho'men's sterling lineup were Joe Symanski, goalie, fullbacks Pete Williams and "Mule" Jennings, fullbacks Mort Lencane, Tom Reddon, and Joe Geisler, linemen Roger Smoot, Bob Appleby, Doug Tilley, and Barry Burns.

The Sho' victory was their first in the Middle Atlantic Conference and marked their second win, four ties and one loss for 1953.

Coach Athley has been preparing his boosters for today's Hopkins U. game which, if won, will entitle them to play Baltimore U. on Monday for the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship.

Maroon To Meet Bees

Washington College's soccer squad plays its keeneast rival, Baltimore University, Monday, November 9, in Washington, Baltimore, with the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship at stake, depending upon the outcome of the Hopkins-Washington contest today.

The Sho'men, with a victory over the Jays today, will be in the driver's seat in the M-D race and a victory over the Hawks today will guarantee the race for the Washington boosters.

Coach Ed Athley feels confident that this is the year to beat the new first-man-sophomore slugged Be squad. According to previous records, the B. U. with a 3 and 1 log, has dropped in to a tie with the Hawks, 1 to 1, and 1 to 0, while the Sho'men (2 and 0), rounded C. U. 5 to 0, in a precision scrimmage.

Outstanding offensive starters for the Sho'men will be linemen Doug Tilley, Roger Smoot, Barry Burns, Dick Weller, and Bob Appleby. These will be capably backed up by the defensive unit of fullbacks, Rod Ware, Tom Reddon, Joe Geisler, and Mort Lencane, with fullbacks "Mule" Jennings, Dick Leat, Sam Spicer, Pete Williams, and goalie Joe Symanski lending their wares.

For the rebounding, Baltimore's own, Coach Cal Frantz has inserted Baltimore's top smallet and high school stars such as "Eels" Malinski, Gene Karawacki, Henry Wofford, Ralph Bates, Jerry Wise, and Jim Amato, all listed on the Sun "All Maryland Scholar" team during their soccer career in high school competition. power, is not to be pushed to the sidelines. Sam Macera, Bob Bell, Mack Hoak, Roy Pippin, Mike Koelch, Foe Jacobs, Allen Grimes, and Tim Altreich are just a few of their better players.

Theta and G.J. both get a chance to spoil the leaders' records as Theta takes on East Hall and G.J. faces Lambda Chi in the last games of the season. Foxwell and Kappa Alpha, which won the fraternity tie last year, battle it out for the cellar position to eluxate the season.

Gallaudet Invades W. C.

by Erk King

Saturday, the Sho' barriers get set to repel an invasion by the Gallaudet University team.

W.C. will go into the game sporting two wins, four ties, and one loss, being undefeated against conference teams with two wins and a tie. The Sho'men disposed of Delaware U. in their last outing, with Doug Tilley taking care of the scoring punch.

Boasting all 3 of his team's goals into the net, the Athbeymen will be in top condition for the game, both physically and mentally. The coach is stressing upon his charges the importance of this battle, since the winner will have the inside track to the Mason-Dixon Championship. The Baltimore U. who will face the Sho' eleven on Monday, is the last Mason-Div. on Conference opponent on the local schedule.

Freshmen Prospects

The name of Mort Lencane will probably be seen in the Elm's Sport Pages over and over again for a long time to come.

Our Freshman Prospect for the week hails from Del Air, Md., where, in high school, he won letters in football, soccer, basketball, and baseball.

At present, he is giving W.C.'s soccer opponents a good taste of his Irish as a starting member of Coach Athley's eleven. As soon as the soccer season is over, Mort will try to make the grade for the sho' varsity court fire. Come spring and football, this athletic frosh will be vying with Doug Tilley for the keystone position on the Maroon and Black baseball squad.

With such an all-around interest in sports, it is not surprising that he is planning on majoring in Physical Ed. If he'll record on the soccer team, on which he plays either fullback or halfback, is an indication of his athletic ability, this Irishman's French sounding name will be making these columns from fall till summer.

Title Of Champion Hangs In Outcome

by Jerry Yuditsky

Washington College hopes to keep alive its chances for the title in the Mountain Division Conference when the Maroon and Black boosters, tonight with Johns Hopkins today at Kibler Field. At the same time, the Baltimoreans will be trying to duplicate or better last year's 10-4 season over the local foe.

The Blue Jay eleven will probably be the best aggregation the Sho'men will have to face all year. Hopkins recently ended Franklin and Marshall's victory streak, edging the Pennsylvanians, 2-1. Last year won Hopkins loss to Baltimore U. in the Conference Championship title.

1. Their only previous loss, from last year's team was All-American Bud Budnitz. Outstanding performers with them again this year are center-forward Jim Hutchins, center-halfback Sam Henry, and goalie Sam Hack. Joe Lencane, a friendly neighbor from South of the border, is making quite a name for himself as a newcomer to the squad. In addition to the F. and M. victory, Hopkins blanked Gettysburg, 4-0, and tied out Tonsen Teachers, 4-4 for a perfect record to date.

W.C. will go into the game sporting two wins, four ties, and one loss, being undefeated against conference teams with two wins and a tie. The Sho'men disposed of Delaware U. in their last outing, with Doug Tilley taking care of the scoring punch. The Baltimore U. who will face the Sho' eleven on Monday, is the last Mason-Div. on Conference opponent on the local schedule.

Bow To Rams

by Palmer Hughes

Rated by Jerry Bankert, West Chester State Teachers defeated Washington College by a score of 25 to 0 in a Middle Atlantic cross country race here on Wednesday, October 28. Bankert, in leading the Rams to victory, was the first to start, stayed behind Sho'men Lou Buckley until the last quarter when he sprinted past the Maroon and Black thinned to breast the tape. A new 1953 course record of 15:07 was set, breaking the old standard of 15:22. Junior Lou Buckley also broke the previous record in finishing seconds in 15:11. Buckley has been improving with each meet and has advanced rapidly since he took up the sport last year. Other Soccer finishers were Mickey DiMaggio, Kenne Baker, seventh, Ed Baker, Buckley also broke the previous record in finishing seconds in 15:11. ## Olympics Retain Crown

Saturday, Oct. 30, saw Washington College's thirteenth with fifty points take second place behind the strong Baltimore Olympic Club who tallied up only twenty-seven markers in the fourth annual Del-Mar Cross Country Championship.

Held in Baltimore's Clifton Park, the race ended with the Olympic Club first for the fourth straight year, the Shoremen second, Catholic U. with eight points, third, and Tugson not qualifying because only four men finished.

First across the finish line was John Tibbels, former Maryland University runner, for the Olympians in 17 minutes, eight seconds. Lew Buckley, Washington's first man across, took fourth place in seventeen minutes, eleven seconds, being edged out of third place by Joseph Junior of BUC.

For Washington College, Mickey DiMaggio took fifth place in seventeen minutes, twenty-two seconds, with Keen Blaker in eighteen minutes, thirty-three seconds and Ed Blair in nineteen minutes and six seconds taking twelfth and thirteenth respectively. Other Mason and Black runners were Bernie Thomas, seven, tenth, Ello Boyd, eighteenth, Lou Altmark, twenty-first, and George Eichelberger, twenty-fifth.

Gold medals awarded to the first twenty men to cross the finish line were shared by seven of Coach Smith's men. They were: Lew Buckley, Mickey DiMaggio, Keen Blaker, Ed Blair, Bernie Thomas and Ello Boyd, his fourth medal in four years of running.

The race, over three and two-tenths miles long, was held over hilly terrain, thus making it harder for the thirteens who are to shorter distance over a level course.

Coach Smith, pleased by the performance of his team, opened the following Olympics, predicted that the Shoremen would take Callender at the match held here today and have a good chance in the Mason-Dixon Championship meets.

Yesterday's HEROS

10 Years Ago, Oct. 8, 1943

Coach Dunsmuir and Carling men were preparing to issue the first basketball call of the season. Jim Juliana, Norman Tarr and Bob Ruff were the backbone of the team that year. An early call was made due to the war eliminating full sports.

15 Years Ago, Oct. 15, 1938

Doc Tully was considered the answer to the prayers of Coach Ekman. A fast running back, the "Undefeated" teamed up with Charlie Geiler, the "Galloping Geiler," to become the mainstays of the Shoremen's backfield.

6 Years Ago, Nov. 7, 1947

Six years ago today we remember that Washington won its first Mason-Dixon soccer title, in a season which saw the Shoremen defeat Loyola, 5-2, Towson, 4-1, and humble Baltimore, 4-1. Coach Hastings had stellar performers in goalie Pete Mallicorne and linemen Steve McHale.

3 Years Ago, Nov. 17, 1950

Captain Buddy Brower of Washington's soccer eleven ended his sensational collegiate career today in a defeat by the pitchers of Baltimore U. U. Brower, who suffered a concussion in a defensive mixup during the final quarter of play, was exhibiting the talent that gave him recognition on the Middle Atlantic All-Star team when the mixup occurred in winning today's contest, Baltimore 17, keeps its record of four wins in four tries against Washington competition.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS . . .

Active plan. The idea of smaller fraternities is an excellent one, but under the circumstances here, a drastic number of members could not easily be sold.

Against Seating Arrangement

The time has come when we are again blessed with the seating arrangement in Hudson. This year it seems very unnecessary as we haven't the number of students of yesterday. There is no crowding, shoving, elbowing or dabbing for tables, as many of the tables are empty this year.

"The seating arrangement was definitely a necessity last year, but there is really no need for it now."

The Washington College girls will open the current season of field hockey on November 9. The Junior team is favored over the Seniors. The Junior team is composed of members of their own class, while the Senior team is made up of their own class along with the helpful aid of some of the underclassmen.

"The Freshmen give the impression that they are the team to look out for this year, with an experienced myriad filled with talent and enthusiasm."

And so time marches on . . . from ten years ago until today. Those who graduated in that year, from which these passages were quoted, would be approximately 32 or 33 years old now. Many of the male students body did not get a chance to graduate, being called to the service of their country.

So lay the memories of yesterday, so lay to the odds we will cherish tomorrow.

Meet The Faculty

MISS SUSAN HUCK

This week we would like to introduce another new faculty member, in the person of Miss Susan L. Huck, lecturer in geography. Miss Huck comes to us from the banks of the Hudson, having been born and raised in New York City. She is one of three girls in her family, and enjoys being the eldest.

Miss Huck attended Adelphi College on Long Island for three years, as a "misguided" English major, she was preparing to enter the field of her senior year at Adelphi, when she suddenly decided to become a cartographer. This necessitated her transferring to Syracuse University, where in one year she absorbed thirty hours of geography. In addition to all the other subjects, her adapted alma mater deemed indispensable to a well-rounded liberal arts education. After obtaining her B.A. in 1951, she worked as a cartographer for one year, then enrolled at the University of Michigan to work for her M.A. in geography. This degree was awarded her last June.

Washington College was not entirely unknown to Miss Huck, for her family owns a farm in Church Hill, where she now lives. She says she takes small town life and enjoys living here as much as she ever did in busy Manhattan. Presently she enjoys driving the tractor on her farm, "when the men will let me." Other hobbies include stamp collecting and her favorite sport, mountain climbing. On this subject, she is young teaching. As this subject is very expansive—she has maps of trails she has covered everywhere in New England, and never takes the same trail twice.

Miss Huck likes W.C. and thinks she will enjoy teaching. She plans to remain in the profession, at least until she has saved enough money to begin her travels around the world—she would like to visit some of the places she talks about. The only thing that worries her at present is that her cartographic choices seem to consist wholly of freshwater water.

can't add well enough to survive a geology or accounting. We're sure, however, that enrollment in an almost required, won't prevent Miss Huck, students from appreciating her warm personality and dry humor. We wish her the best of luck in her future work.

Penkethman To Head Freshman Class

Sweetheart Dance Tonight In Cain Hall

The second annual Kappa Alpha Sweetheart Dance will be held in Cain Hall tonight from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. and will feature a popular ballroom band—Gil Monroe.

Those of you who attended last year's affair, will remember a colorful evening highlighted by the crowning of the K.A. Sweetheart, Marlene Meyer. Miss Meyer will be on hand to crown the new queen, whose identity will not be known until intermission.

Bruce McKie, former President of K.A., member of ODK, and one of eight students chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities last year, will be presented a gavel in honor of his efficiency and untiring service as former Number 1 of Kappa Alpha.

This is the first dance on campus featuring a band since the Freshman Hop last September. The K.A. committee invite everyone to attend, so grab your sweetheart and hop over to Cain Hall. An enjoyable evening has been planned for YOU!

The dues for the dance is optional. The price is $1.50 per person, refreshments free. Tickets may be purchased from any member of Kappa Alpha or at the door.

To grab a date, put on your dancing shoes and glide to the rhythm of Gil Monroe tonight.

Zeta Xmas Dance

Dec. 5, 9 to 1

"Winter Wonderland" will again be the theme of the Zeta Tau Alpha Christmas dance. It will be held in Cain Gymnasium on Saturday, December 5, 1953, from 9:00 until 1:00 o'clock. This semi-formal dance is open for the benefit of cerebral palsy and the price of admission is $1.50 couple.

In the midst of the "Winter Wonderland" the Zeta's will again crown their Z.T.A. Decemblem. This is an old tradition which was revived by the Zeta's last year.

The decorations of pine trees and glittering stars overhead with the orchestra furnishing a musical background, will spread a dreamy Christmas feeling to all present.

Mrs. Constance Larrabee Highlights Assembly

Mrs. Constance Stuart Larrabee, noted professional photographer, who is making a documentary film about South African native life, exhibited a number of her works at the Nov. 5 assembly, and explained the social habits and backgrounds of several native tribes.

Mrs. Larrabee's enlarged black and white mounted photographs depicted everyday scenes of five South African tribes: the Ndebele, the Bushmen, the Zulus, the Transkei, and Basuto.

A native South African herself, Mrs. Larrabee was born in Pretoria and spent most of her life there. She was a war correspondent in World War II. In 1947 she served as official photographer for King George during his South African trip. This past summer her pictures were on exhibit at the American Museum of Natural History.

In giving background for her presentation, Mrs. Larrabee told about South Africa's past and present, and briefly the cities of Cape Town, Johannesburg, Kimberly, and Pretoria. She also said that soil erosion and belief in witchcraft are hard problems for the British to solve.

SSO Active 20 Years On Shore Campus

The idea which underlies the honor societies in American colleges and universities is three fold. They exist primarily to recognize the development of scholarship of a superior quality. Secondly, a few societies recognize the development of leadership, qualities, character, and good campus citizenship, in addition to a strong secondary scholarship record. Thirdly, they recognize the production of superior scholarship and leadership.

To accomplish these objectives, it is clear that an honor society must define and maintain a truly high standard of eligibility for membership and achieve sufficient status by so doing that membership becomes something to be valued highly. The honor society has followed the expansion and specialization of higher education in America. Here on the Washington College campus we have Sigma Xi, Omicron, the scholastic honor society.

In May of 1953 the honor students of the junior and senior classes joined under the guidance of Dr. Fred-

V.C. Banquet At Granary

The Varsity Club of Washington College held its first annual banquet last Tuesday evening at the Granary, one of the finer eating establishments on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Invited guests were: Mr. Edward L. Atkey, Athletic Director at W. C.; Mr. Emerson Smith, head basketball and track coach at W. C.; Mr. Tom Kibler, head baseball coach at W. C.; and Bill Nicholson, ex-valet league baseball player. Mr. Nicholson played right field for the Chicago Cubs for 10 years and for the Philadelphia Phillies for four years. He was with the latter team when they won the National League pennant in 1936. He is a graduate of Washington College and showed his prominence in sports as one of the best all-around athletes to be graduated from the Chestertown college.

Thirteen members of the club and four invited guests were present to enjoy a steak dinner, a meal which many college students haven't enjoyed since going away from home on September 15.

In order to be a member of the Varsity Club, an athlete must have three or more letters in any of the sports in which Washington College engages.

The Varsity Club encourages each member to be a credit to his school, his classmates and to good sport on the field and off.

Officers of the club are Doug Tilly, President; Rod Ware, Vice President; Bob Appleby, Treasurer; and Jack Bergen, Secretary.

Moerman Speaks To Forensic Society

On Wednesday, November 18, the Forensic Society had as its speaker, Mr. S. B. Moerman, prominent Washington lawyer. He has been a member of the District of Columbia bar for 20 years. He is also a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States, Court of Claims, and Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Moerman served in the Mediterranean with the Eighth Fleet and with the Office of General Counsel in Washington (Navy) during World War II. He now holds a reserve commission as Lieutenant. At the present time he is chairman of the I.C.C. Bar Association, Committee on Reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the past two decades, Mr. Moerman has been primarily a "Washington lawyer", specializing in legislative work—hearings, before committees of Congress—and practicing before the Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Maritime Board, representing railroads, water carriers, truck carriers, shipper and consumer committees. Among the law, it would be said that he is engaged in federal administrative practice, specializing in transportation problems.

In addition to these important duties, Mr. Moerman represents one of the largest foreign import-export houses and is interested in international trade.

NOTICE

All campus organizations are requested to inform names of all their officers to the Dean's office as soon as possible.

Connell, Sachse, Glendon Also Chosen For Office

Bob Penkethman, from Wildwood, New Jersey, won the freshman class presidency over Mark Hoke in the general election held on November 12. Others voted into office were Mac Connell, vice-president, Sarah Sachse, secretary, and Elaine Glendon, treasurer. Mac defeated Alan Grimes; Sarah beat Janice Edwards; Elaine bested Jordan Dolgin.

"Happiest Days" Pleasant Farce, Lacked Contrast

The English farce presented by the Washington Players last week, under the direction of Harvey Samuels, was a pleasant change from the usual Broadway comedy. There are no dark implications in Mr. Digholm's farce. There has been a war, apparently, and there are longhaired men in London who may strangle England in the long run. But we are not asked to think, or worry. The word plays means stuffing, and "The Happiest Days of Your Life" is just that: not meat, but a relish.

Unfortunately this sort of thing is often more readily for amateur actors than for really thoughtful plays. And it may be more difficult to direct. Since its humor depends on situation, not on character, it demands great speed, exact timing in small things like the opening of doors, and above all, the sort of teamwork that makes each actor subordinate his role to the effect of the whole. A farce in some respects is like a ballet.

The performances last week seemed to me too slow. The tone of the opening scene was one of weariness. Mr. Stein appeared to have been hung out by his five years in the R.A.F. Mr. Connell was bored in the point of tears by his little character, Mr. Orings exhausted to the point of collapse, but resigned, helplessly to more years of moving trucks. Of course much of this air of weariness was necessarily intentional. The play, however, hardly comes moving before Miss MacMullen comes down in. Even in the second and third acts there were moments when doors opened too slowly, cautious pauses when the cast appeared to be waiting for a bell to ring—in their heads, or outside.

— Needs Contrast —

The mild caricature of this farce needs contrast to make it effective. I do not feel that the opportunities here were fully exploited. If Mr. Stein is to be an effective counter to Mr. Connell, he ought to be a dashing, in-the-world-but-not-of-it sort of man. He did not give that impression. Mr. Colitti might well be the counter to Miss Papperman, the drifting female martinet—we are supposed to be on his side, no he's. If he had been a sort of modified, friendly bumbler, constantly genial, he would have held our sympathy, but as it was he gave the impression of being very much like Miss Papperman under the skin—a frustrated, distrustful, angry, nervous, and impatient. Since Miss Knoll could hardly have been quainter, it was perhaps up to Miss Knoll to appear even heavier and more athletic than she did. Between the two sets of parents the contrast was more successful: the patient forbearance and mild manner of Mr. Connell and Miss Knoll made Mr. Daniel and Miss Booth,

In his campaign speech at the auditorium, Bob told the group that the freshman class would be as strong as the students would make it, and that he would help them to do so.

Bob collected a number of positions and honors in high school. He was president of his class for three years, vice-president for one, and vice-president of the Student Council. Bob edited the school newspaper, played two years of varsity basketball and track, and served four years in the band. Chosen a member of the New Jersey Boys' State and the All-State Chorus, he was later honored with a Rotary scholarship.

A graduate of St. Mary's High, Annapolis, the new vice-president played varsity football, basketball, and lacrosse. Mac was editor of the yearbook, assistant sports editor of the yearbook, and a member of the Student Council.

Sarah attended Catonsville (Maryland) High School, where she was a Student Council representative and class secretary. Using her interest in journalism to advantage, she became co-editor of the newspaper and photographic editor of the yearbook.

Living in Burlington, New Jersey, Elaine became one of her state's delegates to the National Student Council Convention in Chicago. On the musical side, she sang in the All State Chorus and played in the All State Band. She was assistant editor of the yearbook, and a member of the class executive committee.

Primary elections took place on November 10. Bob Bell, Dick Farrow, and Jerry Levin were also nominated for president by the compulsory position method. Ken Poppert was a candidate for secretary. There was no primary for the office of secretary and treasurer.

John Richy, chairman of the Student Council elections committee, supervised the entire proceedings.

with their rammed carriage, seem all the more direct, energetic, and military. All four were very good.

— Conclude Praise —

I would be inclined to give some sort of prize to Mr. Connell if it did not occur to me that after all he was not so much in the play. He seemed to me the most convincing and assured of the major characters, dearest, dearest, and above it all, with just a proper hint of self-consciousness and conceit. But all he had to do was to sit there, making acid remarks while the rest of the cast fussed and fussed. The part taken by Miss MacMullen and Mr. Elder, though brief, were essentially more difficult, perhaps, than any of the other roles. Their performances seemed to me flawless. They looked like children, talked like children, and most important of all they moved like children. When Miss MacMullen came in, she rumped in; when she sat down, she sprawled; without saying anything definitely disrespectful, she managed to suggest impudence indirectly. Mr. Elder knew how to stand contentedly, and politely when he was told that he had done some-

STUDENT POLL

Appearing in another column on this page is a letter which was sent home to the parents of the students of Washington College. Just what is the average student's opinion—Joe Student's, opinion of the age-old "Suit Case College" problem?

Do you feel that you could make your week-end here one of quiet uninterrupted study, along with organization meetings and social events? Are you taking advantage of your educational opportunity here?

If you frequently go home on week-ends, do you visit friends and do any of a large variety of things except study?

The students should voice their opinions on this subject, as it is the students who will benefit or blunder from choosing either home or school on the week-end.

Should the parents of the students of Washington College have to use their powers of persuasion—or whatever other powers they may choose—to curb the Washington College week-end exodus?

We encourage you to voice your opinion on this subject, as it involves you, each and every one.

The brothers of the Beta Omega chapter of Kappa Alpha Order recently welcome everyone to the second annual K.A. Sweetheart Dance to-night at Cain Hall.

This is the first dance band that has appeared on campus since the freshman hop, and it's Gil Moore on the bandstand! So make it a date to bring your sweetheart to the K.A. Sweetheart Dance.

Congratulations are extended to K.A.'s new initiates—Chen Chapman, Al Brens, Bernie Thomas and Jack Palmer. Congratulations to the athletes of the week—Jerry Joe Gorman, who you may have seen showing off his 9 letter variety club sweater in the dining hall last week.

Several prominent alumni have returned during the past few weeks. Rodney "Joels" Evans was here last Saturday, and Bill Miller, Joe Gorman, the storm two weeks ago, Murray exclaimed, "This is one kind that ain't flying South for the winter!" There is the man who comes to dinner and stays for two days—"John Weeder" Grier, we understand he's taking a post graduate course here at Washington, called, Vanik-20!

A O P I

Thanks to you all for making our Bunny Hop such a big success on October 24th when Doc Jones crowned Claire Talbot "Miss Bunny Hop of '63" on the basis of wide popular acclaim. There was much to smile the new day for Miss Travers and Mrs. Weilmann who followed Claire and learned how to hop bunny style. The proceeds of the dance went toward our $180 goal for the education of our adopted Dutch war orphan.

This week-end is a big one for all three societies. Last night we pledged, and this afternoon we will party with our new sisters out at Sig's. It also marks the arrival of alumni Grace Lusk and Vesp. Mary Lee, better known as "Butterball," say hello to them at the dance tonight.

There's exciting news for the Christ, too. Holidays! One of the most promising parties will be the one at Terri's home. Main attraction—our new missus Helen Michel.

Re on the lookout for the date of our coming card party—bridge, cards, and pinocle in Haddon Hall, students, faculty, and town people. Prizes awarded and a big turkey raffish too.

We'll see you there!

Theta Chi

Related congratulations are in order for our new pledges: Bob Sullivan, Ronnie Sisk, Paul Phares, Ed Elsworth, Al Allerton, Bud Kelling, Midge Goldstein, and Mick Dittag.

Also to our new initiates, Roger Smoot, Henry Howard, Bob Pomeroy, Dean Wood, and Bob Lipitz; congratulations!

House Manager, Mike, is really keeping the house in tip-top shape these days. Everyone who went to the open house can testify to this. Of course, there are a few places in the house which could stand touching up with a little paint and we plan to begin work on this job in the near future.

A new twist, the brothers are helpful, having to set up a date book to get the elusive ones done. Congratulations also to Monie and Rod—Monie is proudly wearing the Theta Chi colors.

Phi Sigma Kappa

The Phi Sigs have currently been in the process of redecorating the front room of the house and refinishing the stairs. The ceiling and trim are to be white, the walls dark green, and the stairs a mahogany stain.

Monday there will be a Thanksgiving party for the members. Brother Brown is in charge of planning the arrangements.

Brothers Winkler, Hauer, Stevens, and Flynn are publishing a mimeographed newspaper for the Phi Sig. It will be called "The Time" and will be published at indefinite intervals.

In hopes of having a winning basketball season, the Phi Sigs have been practicing for a few weeks. Brothers Thomas, coach, is getting his squad in shape and is drilling them on plays.

Initiation for Brother Lino Paulson took place on October 29 and 30.

After reading the verbal attack against mice, in relation to their existence in Reid Hall, I do hereby take a stand for "the tiny little rodents, pointing out that they never had a chance to be harmful. I use as an example the harmless poem entitled "Three Blind Mice."

Now look at this very first line in itself: "Three Blind Mice." Picture not one, but three small mice, who are unable to see the many wonders of this great world. Old Play.

"Three blind mice" never did marks would have suffered, long, respectation brings out the drama of it all.

"See how they run, see how they run!" Perhaps the author had a sneering self!

Washington Confidential

(By JOE STUDENT)

Harvey, let us give you a little advice. In the future, and for the future of the only two eyes you'll ever have, watch what you do and not where you go!

Becky, it's not just that the boys don't love you or that you're not giving you to share you. Just that they don't want to share you! Better make up your mind. Desirable men are getting wicker and sandy!

Washington College, and I am referring to the students who are not and therefore are the school. Why don't you get wise to yourself! The administration has sent letters home to your parents requesting that they, in so many words, force you to stay here no week-ends. Now I know there are many reasons for going home, and so you, but does the administration? I don't believe going home does any more harm to one's work than does participation in any extra-curricular activity. Those students who do well scholastically will do so whether they leave here on week-ends or not, and that the students who do not do so, will not, regardless of where they spend the week-end! It is just as easy to "go off" here as it is at home. So why not make your reasons for going home known to the administration? Tell them you don't want to leave. Use your student Government or go to the administration directly, but make known the reasons for the "Week-End Exodus" so that some of them can be, perhaps, alleviated by the college. Only then the administration knows the reasons for students leaving can it know also what the students obviously lack and want. Let's see if we, the students, can't make Washington College a place in enjoy week-ends, and should some of our desires be fulfilled, let's do our part and stay here, making a reality out of what we have asked for.

Brillie, it looks as though you pushed your campaign a little too far, but let me aid, you showed the right spirit. Better luck to you next time.

It seems as though Red Jorden hasn't lost at last. Goodness! I'm glad to see him in public and in broad daylight! But I am sure every one will eventually forgive the poor unfortunate freshman for his terrible mistake! I guess love is really blind after all.

A LETTER HOME

The following is a copy of a letter which was sent home to the parents of the students of Washington College:

November 9, 1963

Dear Mrs.

I am writing to you about a matter which is becoming of increasing concern to me at Washington College. This same letter is being sent to parents of all students. It may not concern your son or daughter. If not, I ask your forbearance.

Our constant concern is to improve the educational program as much as possible. We know that as you do that we can't "educate" young people; they educate themselves. We can try to provide the environment and situation which will encourage them. But education still remains a personal matter, one of the few really important things in the world.

Some people who refuse to take advantage of the opportunity, despite all our efforts to induce them to do so, we can help little.

We feel that far too many of our dormitory students use most or all of their week-ends to go home, where they visit friends and do any of a large variety of things except study. We recognize that they have not been accustomed in the past to study on week-ends, and we are not suggesting a policy of all work and no play. But the constant feeling in our campus that the week-end is a time for travel or visits to friends who cannot afford academically to devote every week-end to that purpose. The careful handling of week-end time often spells the difference between a student who makes it through college and the student who fails to do so.

It is true that this small town provides little public entertainment for a week-end. But the Student Council and many of our campus organizations have decided to sponsor college events, now week-ends, and have virtual given up the effort because too few students are here. The week-end here should be a time for quiet, uninterrupted study, along with organization meetings and social events.

The college itself has little power to force its students to remain here over their week-ends. With 100 students, the administration cannot possibly decide who should go home and who. Nor do we think we should make decisions of this kind for students, fully insuring young people. I am asking you therefore as a parent to use your powers of persuasion—or whatever other powers you choose—to help us curb this week-end exodus, to help us to do a better job with your son or daughter during these off-campus years of college.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel Z. Gibson
President

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letters have been sent home to all of our parents stating that all grades may be partially attributed to the fact that we spend all our week-ends getting home and back to school, and asking their cooperation in seeing that we spend a little more time at this "institution."

We all explained to them the fact that many week-ends passed on campus with no activities planned at all, and instead of spending two days sleeping around with a half-asleep "get-and-go" back, we go home to a TV set, some good home cooking, and two adults that understand when we are old enough to be in college we are old enough to sit up later than twelve o'clock on Saturday nights.

Well, our story is now global. Activities are planned for week-ends—many, in fact, that we can't possibly attend them all. For instance, the week-end before school closes for the Thanksgiving holiday is a really "get-and-go" back to school night.

One of the biggest events of the season, but there will be some of us who, in view of the ensuing exodus scheduled for Sunday, will have to spend that night preparing for their own week-end. Some of us have a very close call in the middle of the night while we get in some last minute cramming. Of course, there will be loads of time for church, though, if you feel comfortable taking your own time for your own. Most of the day and most of the night are in Latin away and no one will even guess we're reading the Latin Manual, we will try!

Well, we wanted something to do on week-ends—can't we say we're doing something? Some of the things have been carried to the stage where it really ERKS us.

Hopkins' Pitchmen Defeat Sho'men

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By WAYNE GRUEHN

This week I chose to cite two rather well known members of the campus who I rate as 'versatile plus.'

I say rather well known because the mere mention of Rod or Mule brings no look of doubt to any student's face.

Mule, as you know, is the nickname for John Robert Jennings, who was born in Norwood, Massachusetts, on February 2, 1934. In 1945, the Jennings family moved to their present home at Annapolis, Maryland, where Mule eventually graduated from Annapolis High School. But before he did so, he played four years of football, basketball and baseball. With the exception of his first year in the basket game, he earned a varsity letter in every sport, all four years.

When he arrived on Washington's campus, he replaced football together with those of a soccer uniform, and in this, his second year, is one of Coach Athey's most valuable men. After a season of J. V. court-ball, Munkel decided to convert his talents to the game of lacrosse. And what happened? Records can but speak for themselves, but for those who don't know, Munkel, an iron man drive weathered the endurance of many an attackman last spring, against such teams as Rutgers, Navy, Swarthmore, and Mary.

The Other

But what about the other half of this versatile pair?

Roderic Beaulieu Ware became a part of the population on February 22.

Gallaudet Outclassed

The Sho' barriers met the cross country representatives of Gallaudet this past Tuesday and for a change, the sun was shining. Also shining were the faces of the Washington College runners as they watched Coach Smith's runners outclass the chargers from Washington, D. C. The Sho' men shook seven out of the first ten places to win handily, 24:35.

Coming in first by almost a quarter-mile was W. C. Lee, hill-and-dale, Law Buckley, who covered the course in a very good time of 15:14. Ronald Hirano, of Gallaudet, who came in second, pressed Buckley for the lead from the start, but tired rapidly at the end, coming in at 16:07. Keen Blaker got off to a shot start, but closed in fast to nose out Stephen Kugel of the visitors and give the home team third place. Ed Bird followed next in fifth, with a spring of Smithtown, Chuck King, Bernice Thomas, Ellis Bond, and Lou Atkinson coming in seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth, respectively. Art Montoya, who finished sixth, was the only other Gallaudet horseman in the first race. The rest of the blue-clad visitors finished out at their usual

With this victory the Maroon and Black boost their season's record to three wins and two losses in dual meets, and assure Coach Smith of at least a .500 record for the year.

Lacrosse Previews

In the past several weeks, hopefuls for this year's and the veterans of last year's lacrosse team are being drilled in a series of drills under the capable coaching of Charles B. Clark, getting in shape for the rugged season which comes this Spring. The signal which at present numbeareth thirty men, due to the conflicting of soccer and basketball rosters are drilled in passing, receiving, and shooting. The backboard, which the school has just erected, has been of tremendous value to both the lacrosse and soccer teams in these types of drills. Freshman prospects for this year are Tim Albrecht and Mac Connell. Back this year, helping out in practice, is Bob Lipsitz, co-captain of the 1952 squad. Our lacrosse team is a member of the United States Inter-Collegiate Lacrosse Association, which consists of about 35 of the nation's top lacrosse clubs. In the 1951 campaign the Maroon and Black finished in 9th place, and 15th in last year's season, playing such teams as Navy, Princeton, and the University of Virginia. This year, with the enthusiasm already displayed, Coach Clark has the beginnings of what should be a very successful lacrosse season at Washington College.

Matthews Award Is /

The J. H. Matthews Testimonial Dinner Committee announces a cash award of $500 for the best essay on "Communism and Academic Freedom," written by an undergraduate student of an American college or university.

Essays must be limited to two thousand words or less and submitted not later than February 1, 1954. All manuscripts must be typewritten. Only original essays will be considered.

The winner of the award will be announced on March 1, 1954.

Manuscripts should be mailed to the Matthews Award Editor, The American Mercury, 11 East 56th Street, New York 16, New York.

Captain Doug Tilley, for the second time this year, drove home three goals to spark the Shofren to a 4-2 victory over Draxel Tech on Kibbutz field Saturday.

The Sho'men and the Dragons played on even terms during the first period as each team scored one goal. Doug Tibbey, on an assist from freshman Barry Burns, put the Sho'men in the scoring column as he booted the ball into the Dragons' goal.

In the second period the Sho'men came to life and pushed through two straight goals. Doug Tilley, assisted by Barry Burns and Al Hambley, scored both to put the game on ice. Halftime found the Sho'men leading

Following the half, the Dragon first drew blood by scoring early in the third period. But the Shu-men were not to be denied. This time Roger Sano, on an assist from Riley, scored, to give the Shu-men a two-point margin.

In the final period both teams made several determined drives, but each one petered out as the defense of both stiffened.

Admission Test For Graduate Study To Start

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 19—Educational Testing Service has just announced that beginning with the academic year 1953-1954, a group of business schools and divisions will require applicants for admission to graduate study in the fall of 1954 to take the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business. Among these institutions are the graduate business schools or divisions of the following universities:

Jays Win In Soccer

By JERRY YUDIZKY

The same minute that Washington was its cross country meet with Galtland, it also lost a heart-breaking encounter with star-studded Johns Hopkins, 2-1. Hopkins, who can now boast the Most Distinguished Player award in the Metro-Dominion Conference, won the game by beating Western Maryland, 1-0, and playing Dexter Jackson, a senior, to a 1-0 tie with the Blue Jays. The Midstate team had just a little more scoring punch than the Maroon and Black. The Aherens men kept the ball in the Blue Jays' territory for the greater part of the game, but were eventually unable to penetrate goalie Stan Hark's defense of the net. Several times the Blue Jays were in the position of losing with their shot, but each time failed to get the ball past the post.

With only forty-five seconds remaining in the first half, Dave Collington, in Hopkins' inside right, sent a drive into the net for the first time in the game. Malady in the third period sent the Jays back on the attack, and they scored twice. Collington, center forward, kicked in the only goal. The partisan fans enthusiastically cheered the shot, and Collington, who was in Hopkins' territory, tallied the remaining points when center forward Jim Hutchinson doubled past all of the W. C. C. goalkeepers. The Blue Jays were down a few feet in front of the net, and a few minutes left in the game.

Outstanding for the Maroon was Black was the great defensive playing of fullbacks "Mule" Jennings and Mort Leneau. Time after time Jennings' long kicks set the ball up for W. C. deep in Hopkins' territory. Leneau, who played the entire game, continued to perform in a manner that could well earn for him the "Freshman of the Year" honors at the Mason-Dixon loop. Another freshman who displayed the coolness and finesse of a senior was outside left Sam H. Moore.

The Blue Jays' "All-Star" team consisted of Dick Cohen, (fullback); Stan Henry, (inside left) and Hutchins, all of whom made the "All-Mason-Dixon" team last year, and goalie Stan Hack who was "All-South" last year. Collegen and Sam Maracez, right halfback, also played an excellent game for the visitors. An international touch was added in the presence of one of the Blue Jays' players, Ali Arslan, who comes from Istanbul, Turkey.

The starting line-up for the Shu-men was: Joe Szymanski, goalie; "Muke" Jennings and Mort Lennan, fullbacks; Joe Grider, Rod Ware and Ted Beddow, halfbacks; Bob Appleby, Doug Tilley, Dick Weller, and Barry Burns, forwards.

A candidate must make separate applications for each office he or she seeks.

business school or division of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business and when. Since many business schools and divisions select their entering classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to the 1954 classes are advised to offer the February test, if possible.

The tests will be administered on February 6, 1964, and May 13, 1964. Applications and fees must be filed with the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, at least two weeks before the testing date desired in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements.

two boys and a girl ventured out in the snow storm to procure some cider for the Salsy Hawkins Dance. The girl, I might add, was not even a senior, but went along to help the boys gather coin stalks because no one else was around to give a helping hand.

On returning to the school, the trio's automobile hogged down in three lane drifts. Naturally, they could not get back to school, and so the girl called to explain why she would not be present for study hall and to serve time on a moon campus previously acquired. When they did finally get back to W.C.—via a snow-shed drive, triple axle-driven truck, as I am told by one of the unknowns—the girl was punished, and I think very mildly, for apparently getting stuck in the snow in the first place, she was also tried in her own absence; that is, the girl, was not allowed to attend the "trial" at which she was punished! What kind of a trial is this? And I understand that this is the practice, all offenders being tried in this same manner. Mighty strange if you ask me. In such a meeting, who serves as the defense, and who presents the charges? I can only think by saying that I am truly thankful that I do not live under such "democratic rule!"

Looks as though Miss Grim is aiming the age-old gun at a certain lacrosse player, I hope, by and large, that the team will not suffer from the relationship . . .

And speaking of aiming guns, I hope that Hurd has finally let her's come to rest on a target. Am, you were a little mixed up at first, but it looks like you finally found the right "mine" to shoot at!!

See Reichland challenged one of the Secretary members to a race. I bet you a "Buck" . . . you won't win, Reichland!

Just what is the story with these riotous cretars that some of the coeds are sporting? "Point Avaral" written across them in the most obvious place! The first of a long series of reckless activities to keep students on track will get under way this Sunday afternoon—a Cooperative Autonomy Blackout. Congratulations! The perfect solution to the problem. Has anybody considered Sunday classes yet?

Thumbs down on whoever donated the serenading Lambada—the hottest level of poor sportsmanship. Was it a blin for them to sing "Old Man River"?

erick G. Livingston to organize an honor society. The organization was dependent upon the faculty for its founding. The constitution was drawn up in October of 1951, at which time it was decided to name this organization the Honor Society of Washington College, Dr. Livingston serving as its first president. From its beginning until 1955, two years later, the faculty dominated the organization. In 1955 it was decided that the students should hold all the offices except secretary, which was to be held by a member of the faculty. It was also decided that a maximum of four members of the faculty be considered active members during any one school year.

In March of 1958 the name was changed from the Honor Society of Washington College to Sigma Sigma Omicron, expressing the idea of Service through Scholarship at Washington College. The fundamental aims of the society are to promote scholarship and foster a respect for scholastic achievement among the students.

As a service function, SSO maintains a collection of catalogues and information of undergraduate and graduate work in Reading Library. This collection is for the use of all students. SSO is also responsible for the initiation of the Dean's List at Washington College.

The president of the organization this year is John Minahan. The secretary, who must be a member of the faculty, is Mrs. E. Winifred Oppenheide. Additional student members of SSO are: Abba J. Berza, Richard E. Stevens, and Karl H. Turk.

There are three types of members in Sigma Sigma Omicron, active, alumni, and honorary. The requirements for becoming an active student member are as follows:

1. Must have one year of residence at Washington College.
2. Must have the rank of junior (senior who meet the other requirements are also eligible).
3. Must be of good character.
4. Must have a cumulative index of 2.25 or better.

Students in Sigma Sigma Omicron receive two privileges by membership. They are permitted an unlimited number of cuts in their classes and they are exempt from final examinations in the second semester of their senior year.

Alumni Form Chapter

Members of the Washington College Alumni Association living in Caroline, Talbot, and Dorchester counties formed their local alumni chapter at a dinner meeting at Cambridge on November 5.

The new alumni organization, named The Choptank Chapter, is the first to be formed on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and is the second new chapter of the Alumni Organization to be founded in recent years. Another chapter was established on October 31 at Cambridge, serving the five western counties of Maryland.

At the meeting, held at the Cambridge Country Club, the members adopted a constitution and elected officers. Fred G. Ullston, Jr., class of 1933, of Denton, was elected president. Other officers are vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Mace Farver, class of 1951, of Cambridge; secretary, Mrs. Betty Smith Orner, class of 1938, of Denton; treasurer, Mrs. Jane Oyster Meller, class of 1949, of Royal Oak; and executive committee members, Marvin H. Smith, class of 1937, of Federalsburg; William C. Johnston, class of 1927, of Cambridge; and Mrs. Eugenia Morcan Barto, class of 1951, of Easton.

General arrangements for the meeting were handled by Edward N. Evans, class of 1937, of Cambridge, who had served as organizational chairman while the chapter was in its formative stages.

The setting was imaginative and interesting. I am not sure, however, that the black paint was a good idea. Combined with Mr. Oving's awful height, it tended to make the stage look too small.

these poor creatures before they have a chance to say word one. How cruel could he be? The tragedy of it all plucks my heartstrings until the very vibration makes me cry a killer.

"Have you ever seen such a sight in your life?" Well that does it, I mean really. A grown man getting a mad fiendish joy out of seeing three wretched mice, who are unemphered, have no consequences checks at all and knowing that at home are three crying spouses and nine squealing mooses. Probably all they desired from the ugly old farmer's wife, was directions to a killing station where they could obtain a rodent map.

As he had to the physical violence, I think a shotgun would have been less painful than that it would have blown them all to you-know-where.

And as for the last line, I think that it should be changed to show the gross atrocities committed. "Have you ever seen such a sight in your life, at three hungry, blind, tailless, speechless, insatiable and horribly perverted—nice."

S.S.O. Taps 5 Juniors, 2 Seniors

Sigma Sigma Omicron, the Honorary Scholarship Fraternity on campus, held its semi-annual tapping on Thursday, December 10th. Two Seniors and five Juniors were honored in becoming active members of the society. New members with their cumulative indices are:

- Mantel Buadque 2.61 Senior
- Retty M. Ayres 2.43 Junior
- Martha A. Townsend 2.36 Junior
- Rumma E. Wiley 2.32 Junior
- Sylvie M. Urig 2.31 Senior
- Martha Goldsborough 2.30 Junior
- Clarence M. Burbage 2.28 Junior

The sponsors for the new members were: Alvin J. Brems, Dr. Frederick L. Livingston, Dean Amanda T. Bradlee, and Dr. Charles B. Clark. Dr. Richard Daniel Weigler, President of St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland, was the guest speaker. Following the assembly a formal initiation was held for the new members.

Sigma Sigma Omicron, the honorary scholarship fraternity, aims to promote scholarship and to foster a respect for academic achievement among its students. Membership is open to those juniors who have a cumulative index of 2.25 or better. Vacancies may be filled by seniors who meet the above requirement and have been in attendance here at least one year.

The society was founded March 23, 1913. In 1938 the society adopted the motto, "Service through Scholarship for Washington," and changed its name from "Honor Society" to Sigma Sigma Omicron—Service through scholarship.

Student Gov't Reports

One of the first problems to face the Student Council this year was that of housing. Extensive personnel and property damage was incurred in a raid upon G. I. Hall and it is left to the Student Council as a lesson between administration and students to handle the matter. A tour was taken of the damaged building and property. It was decided on October 13, that the Sophomore Class be held responsible for all personal damage, three-fourths of all other damage. The remaining one-fourth damage is to be paid by the Freshman Class.

- 1) Roughness is forbidden.
  - 2) No persons shall be taken from the campus in connection with hazing.
  - 3) Hazing should be shown for the tradition of the college.
  - 4) Drinks should be used.
  - 5) A mud pit should be used for rifle releasing of stored energy rather than college properties.
  - 6) Disabling of the supplies for the Sophomore Class is an aim of Sophomore Class.
  - 7) Sophomore Class should deny want an object which the Fresh shall try to confiscate in order to be exempt from certain hazing.
  - 8) Fresh shall challenge Sophomores to an athletic contest.
  - 9) Punishment for hazing mishaps should be a Council problem.
- The aim of hazing is to maintain and develop school spirit.

'Sheba' Casted For Next Sem.

Actors for the Washington Players' next production, "Come Back Little Sheba," a Broadway hit and an Academy Award winner, have been chosen by Directors Peter Burbage and Ted Ichniowski. February 12 and 13 are the scheduled dates for the presentation.

"Come Back Little Sheba" story concerns the psychological problems of Doc, played by Sam Martin, and his wife Lola, acted by Kay Bosh. Laykin Doc, a chiropractor in his 50's, is a quiet, efficient, loving husband and a one-year member of Alcoholics Anonymous. Contrasted to him is Lola—a fast, sloppy, inert, lonely, living in the past, but loving Doc. Staying in their home is Marie (Barbara Delany), a young college girl whose main fault is an admiration for the body of Turk (Jim Thompson), a convicted, well-built badkisser.

Mr. Jensen (Nada Buch), a friendly neighbor, the Postman (Bill Stein), and the Milkman (Jack Hentzer) are victims of Lola's talkativeness. Doc discovers an affair between Marie and the actor, which causes him to flunk his Alcoholics Anonymous course, and he misses the special dinner for Bruce (Dave Humphries), a successful business man who hopes to marry Marie.

Ed Anderson and Elmo Huston, as the persons of Jack Winkler and Jack Duval, are members of A.A. called in to take care of Doc.

Events and problems are finally worked out.

In response to student and alumni opinion, suggestion has been made to the administration to separate homecoming and convocation and to set them up as individual affairs so that each can be enjoyed and appreciated to the fullest. The suggestion was received favorably by the administration and should become the policy in the future.

— Freshman Elections —

Supervising the elections is always an interesting privilege and this year's freshman elections were just that. The nominated candidates stated their views and platforms and the preliminary voting was followed by a close and well-fought political race. It is hoped that this orderly yet spirited affair exemplifies what is to be expected of the Freshman Class. Congratulations to both the elected group and the opposing opposition—keep up your good work and spirit.

Among the duties of your Student Council is that of the appropriation of funds for student organizations. Thus, for this year, the auditing committee has deemed the following worthy:

- November 21—$130 to the Washington Players for a badly needed witchboard.
- October 20—$50 per semester for their music which will be kept to eventually build a permanent music library.
- October 20—$150 to the Forensic Society for operating expenses.
- October 20—$125 to ODK for report 1953-1954.
- October 20—$30 loan to the senior class which has already been repaid.

Zeta Xmas Dance Held In Cain Gym

Last Saturday, December 5, following the Alumni basketball game, the annual Zeta Alpha Christmas Dance was held in Cain Gymnasium. The music was furnished by Lee Paige and his orchestra.

Decorations for the dance carried out the theme "Zeta Wonderland" complete with stockings hung on the fireplace and Santa's bag of toys placed around it. Christmas trees decorated each side of the gym and hanging from the ceiling were silver and blue snowflakes.

The highlight of the evening was the naming of the 1953 Zeta Dream Boy. The sorority members and pledges sang "Zeta Wonderland" to open the initiation ceremonies. After the Jo Budd, President of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority, introduced last year's winner, Bill Russell, who announced this year's Dream Boy was Kid Wade. "Hey our Zeta Dream Boy" was sung to Rod, and he was presented with a pair of cuff links with the Zeta seal on them.

Banquets Are Held

ALPHA OMICRON PI held their pledge banquet on November 30 at the Granary. All of the members had delicious steak dinners. Speeches were given by the pledges and booklets were presented to the new pledges by each of their big sisters. The entire group then blended their voices in singing sorority songs. Five of their alumni were present: Pat Rowsd, Ward, Mrs. Charles Clark, Libby and Ginny Flaherty, and Beth Gibbons.

ZETA TAU ALPHA's pledge banquet was held last night, December 11, at the rustic Granary. The dinners, as always, were terrific. The entertainment consisted mainly of amusing caricatures of the active and new Zeta songs, presented by the pledges. Each neophyte received an individual booklet made by each respective big sister. More songs and speeches followed until the end of the evening.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA will hold their pledge banquet on December 12 at the Granary. All the pledges will entertain the active with songs and skits which they will prepare before hand. Some of their patrons expected are: Mrs. McLean, Helen Semper, and Dolly Harris. The Alpha Chi's are looking forward to a gala celebration next Monday night.

Moseley Is Speaker Here

On December 8, Professor Edwin M. Moseley, of Washington and Jefferson College, addressed a morning gathering of students, faculty, and friends of the College in Reid Hall Library. Professor Moseley, who is an expert on contemporary fiction and poetry, delivered an informal talk entitled "This Generation—a Paradox." He pointed out the difficulty that all generations have in knowing what is the ruling mood and the dominant belief of its time. This problem, he said, can often be solved only many years later, when history seems to have decided on the representative spokesmen for that generation. More often than it is artist, whose names escape more clearly than do those of statesmen or merchants. For instance, the names of Wordsworth, Keats, and Shelley are today more familiar than those of Lord Castlereagh, George the Fourth, or even Wellington.

Dr. Moseley thought it might be safely said that there has been an identifiable shift in beliefs and attitudes among American writers since the generation of the Twenties. He defined the mood of the generation spoken of as a steady movement toward, at one of skepticism and bitterness; the predominant view seemed to be that man was a small and passive being, living in a shattered world in which he had little inherent dignity. Since then, he said, there has been apparent a steady movement toward the tragic writings of recent years. American authors seem to affirm that man has an identity, an aspiration toward order, and a capacity for discovery and growth. He cited numerous souls of Faulkner, Hemingway, and the younger writers to illustrate these tendencies.

The general reader, Dr. Moseley advised, should be on the alert to notice the newer and more original spokesmen who appear among the artists of his time. In this way, said he, "we hope to be able to see what we can run the best chance of realizing what are the tendencies for which our period will best be remembered."

New Attendance Policy Is Set Up

The Faculty has established a new and more liberal policy on attendance. Juniors and Seniors who achieve an average of 2.25 or better in any semester may be absent from as many classes as they wish during the next semester and thereafter so long as their averages do not fall below 2.25 at the end of any succeeding semester. This privilege is conferred automatically as soon as the grades become a matter of record.

Graduating students whose averages are 2.25 may also be excused from their last semester examinations in any course in which the instructor feels that this excuse is justified.

Joseph Doyle Dean

make it up. If you plan to leave early for the Christmas holidays, please come in and take this test before you leave if possible.

E. N. Foster Registrar

At last, after weeks of parties and open houses, sorority rushing has come to an end, and the three sororities have chosen their new pledges.

In the individual breakdown, Zeta Tau Alpha emerged in the lead with 14 pledges, the girls hoping to be future Zetas (if they make their choice) are: Carol Andrews, Beverly Bowden, Jean Rymer, Anna Grace, Bobbie Dew, Aimee Nadin, Jane Hatch, Jean Hartz, Betty Halfway, Ann Hartz, Nancy Jaffert, Sue Richmond, Sue Stallings and Bobbie Steinhart.

The new pledges of Alpha Chi Omega are: Laurel Gandy, Doris Hall, Marguerite Kimbles, Martha Ann Koshut, and Marie Koshut. Alpha Omicron PI welcomed a new pledge: Lee Boteler, Lynn Emory, Debbie Heary, Carol Kinsley, Jeanne Richmond, Jean Riley and Polly Taylor.

Under the rules set up for sorority bidding and initiating, all girls who fail to obtain an index of .75 or better will automatically be dropped at the end of the first semester. Those girls who get an index between .75 and 1.00 will remain eligible until they receive a 1.00. All those pledges with an index of 1.00 or better are eligible for initiation by the sororities.

Moerman Discusses Ad. Law To Forensic

On Dec. 2, Mr. Samuel H. Moerman, D. C., addressed an open meeting of the Forensic Society in Dunning Auditorium. Mr. Moerman, a partner in the Washington law firm of LaRoe, Wynn, and Moerman, discussed the problems of administrative law practice. Administrative practice is the work carried on before Federal and other commissions and hearing boards, which make policies and settlements without taking the problems into the regular law courts. Mr. Moerman pointed out that administrative law is a vast new field for lawyers, whose extent and importance is not yet fully understood by laymen and by prospective lawyers.

Mr. Moerman illustrated the complexity of administrative practice by detailed citation from his own practice, showing how great are the problems which come before administrative bodies such as the FCC, the FCC, and the FCC. Often the decisions in such bodies on rates, franchises, and fair practice have great consequences on the national economy and even on the military position and preparedness of the entire country. Mr. Moerman approached this problem by pointing out such consequences in numerous practical legal situations that he has himself observed.

A lively audience of students and faculty followed Mr. Moerman's talk with interest and subjected the speaker to a barrage of questions, which kept up without diminishing in intensity for the best part of an hour. The talk was well received and highly applauded by the Dean, who observed that the audience's interest appeared to be so keen that whole additional sessions would be necessary to do justice to the problems under discussion.

COURT SUPPORT

Cross country and soccer are just memories now, the record books having been filed away in preparation for the hardwood season which recently opened.

At other small colleges, sports enthusiasts are eyeing the winter slates of the varsity swimming, wrestling, and basketball squads, all of which offer thrills and excitement to the interested spectator.

Here on our Shore campus however, the varsity and J.V. cagers offer the only grandstand entertainment in which school spirit can excel, and win, lose or draw, the basketball team needs encouragement and should be supported.

Perhaps weather conditions influenced the poor attendance at the soccer contests last Fall, but the same cannot be said about the hardwood sport. In addition to this, the court skirmishes are over early enough for everyone to have ample time to study for bluebooks.

The spacious, hustrous Chestertown High School gym is a Madison Square Garden compared to the smoked-filled, shadowy Armory where the games were formerly played and this was two miles away from the campus.

Seven home games remain on the varsity court schedule. The Washington cagers are a hustling, high-spirited team and deserve the backing of each and every one of the members of the faculty and the student body.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Inside Reid Hall

Dear Sir:

When I saw the letter that appeared in the last issue of the Elm, I was appalled. I feel that the author of that letter is entitled to her opinion, as are any other person, on things which concern her, but there are some things which do not fall under that portion of her heading. The letter of which I speak made reference to a Comparative Anatomy Test which was given on a Sunday, and, strange as it may seem, it was given on that particular day with the consent of the entire class. The class was asked when they would like to have the test. Various suggestions were made, and after careful consideration the class decided upon Sunday as the most convenient time. Contrary to the beliefs of some people this did not cause any real hardship on any person. Some people went to the dance which was held on the Saturday night preceding the exam, and personally, I did not spend the entire evening studying either. I feel that the author of the letter was slightly off base with some of her remarks, such as cut at breakfast, although I can't really see the objection considering Haddon Hall.

Taking everything into consideration I can see no reason why the author of the letter took it upon herself to condemn a situation which had nothing whatever to do with her. It seems that some people can find so little of worth to occupy their time that they must lose themselves by dabbling in the affairs of others. I would be interested in knowing what stress the author of the letter has had in Biology. Could there be a relationship?

Harvey V. Smith, Jr.

The impressive red brick building with the white pillars bears the inscription "ABNORMAL HALL—How and why it received this name was revealed in a recent investigation."

The third floor houses many unusual individuals. In the hall Ben Bowden and Anne Grim conduct a race practice to the delightful strains of Elaine Glendon's flute. Whizz . . . and they are off. The fourth floor is the Polk Tally rushing off to the lounge, Betty Hallway in the Blue Sreak! Nope not Betty, she and Lori Greene are practicing a duet. Whizz . . . there it goes again. I mean . . . the goes again—see Reichlin, all that gut truck stir, and the careful coaching of Doris Hall and Jean Hatch.

Let's proceed down stairs for some peace and quiet. Wow, what an understatement! Scoreboards show the winner to be don da don don—Carol Vines and Sergio Wilson! They came with the champagne! And the losers, Anne Hunt and Sue Cavalli are runner ups. The girls are more settled here since Lili Dahl and Janene Richman are pinned and Narda Borch carries it. Kudos on her leg! And Sue's "Something is wrong on this bus. Peggy Edwards' bad moves up and down and no one is even near it. Laurel Gault makes tape record of the "sleep talking" between Ben Woodward and Peg Blackall anyway.

The first floor holds those old wiser sakes—upperclass girls. The only diversion these girls get from their books is a weekly lecture by Lee Harrison on "How to start a car when the weather is cold." The sound effect is produced by Pat Brownie giggling and Donna Miller crying.

Let's stop before we all go crazy. This tour of Reid Hall was personally conducted and directed by Miss Mousie McCarthy.

Father: What do you mean by bringing my daughter home at this hour of the morning?
Student: Have to be in class by 8.

Senior Of The Week

Senior of the week this week is Saylee Urig, President of Alpha Omicron Psi. Saylee comes to W.C. from Easton, New York. Since her freshman year when she was in the French Club, Washington Flyers, Mr. Vernon Literary Society, and freshman representative to the homecoming court, Saylee has been very active in student affairs. Since she has been a member of the Pan-Hellenic Society for two years, been a member of the choir, a member of the Canterbury Club, and last year she and Mary Lee Lincoln won the Visitors and Governors' Scholarship. Her latest achievement is her membership in Sigma Sigma Omicron. Saylee has applied for the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship to study fine arts after her graduation. If she doesn't do this she plans to work in Baltimore. Whatever she does we certainly do wish her the best of luck.

Snack Bar Society

by Sadie Smart

Now, around Christmas time, is the very best of the Washington College Social Season. Here in the world famous Snack Bar, celebrities are buzzing around in the very latest of fashions. Sitting here at my ring-side table I can watch these well known personalities pass by, and hear them talking among the social set.

For instance there is the famous Del Brinsfield, a well known Oyster head. The Oyster business has netted her enough money to last 'til doom's day. Word has it that her name is romantically linked in a request between two famous educators.

And there is the envy of everyone, Miss Ethel Mae Knill. She looks so stunning in her white dress, spattered with cute little splashes of red—or is that catnip. Oh well!

And there is John Newbold. Tough luck, girl, our most eligible bachelorette is losing that distinction more and more every day.

And look who just walked in the door! The fabulous Gora Lee Duvall with one of Mr. Benhoff's prize winning dogs. Ah, Ben's dog, which is one has the prettiest smile. That is, of course, between Miss Duvall and Mr. Benhoff. Ahem, yes.

And there is Mr. Burk Kenney, walking around with a peculiar smile on his face and a measuring tape in his hand. Business must be doing these days.

Sitting in the far corner, I can see that famous athlete, Joe Geisler. Joe, as many of you know, is chief of the local post of the Salvation Army and last Saturday night composed their famous song, "Bringing in the Sheave."

Go ahead! What appeared to be a jet plane roaring right through this room was in reality the editor of a famous newspaper. Will wonders never cease!

Sitting near the bar are those much talked about Hatch twins. Trouble is, you don't know, which one is one. Now I don't ask you one or the other, I just don't know that either one is one.

My ruling eye picks up one of the more prominent members of the Washington College Ivory Tower group. There is President Joe Bush looking so severely apologetic as he, Rod Ware, Members of good standing, are stringing I see Barbara T. Townsend, Bob Appleby and the dancing star, Miss Wanda MacKachuz, all trying to console "the Grouching Groucher," who is too, is this Chliee Groucher, wearing a beautiful white leather coat. Funny, I saw a close acquaintance of her's attired in the very same style only a few days ago. What a coincidence!

Our person I cannot see in this

Flashlight Caught (By The Night Watchman)

Congratulations are in order for Rod Ware who was recently elected Zeta Tau Alpha's Dream Boy for 1971. You girls have got to be in the Dream Boy also inherited the title of "Roe, Dreamy, and Doll" from his aging OX brothers.

Bulldhead returned to the old Alma Mater to celebrate his 17th birthday.

And just had a big week-end. And a certain Sigma Chi is wandering around like madman without his pin now.

The Middle Hall girls wish to express their sincere appreciation to Doug and Be for a most enjoyable weekend. Monday night. It's so delish that the Theta Chi's should try their talents.

It took a long time, but Ralph Laws finally met his match—Elsine! Just the girl for that lambsome, husky brute. Congratulations to both of you on being paired.

Understanding that instead of renovating East Hall the Ringgold House is next on the agenda—reason? The senior senior dinner given against their will that a wonderful evening was had by all. It was discovered that Dr. Gibson is an expert at hiding things, Joe Bush has hidden artistic talent, Lynn knows how to spell aspirin, and Rod thinks "Kon'ki" is a girl's name.

Looks like fate has it in for Joe and Apps again.

So the Williamsburg trip was "adventurous" as well as educational.

Heard you. Heard yet "Jitsu" has reached one of the milestones of his college career—he had a date with a girl. The K's have a new Song Fest Cup all sewed up. They started practicing midnight one rainy, windy night.

"Freak Warning" Halley, ran the Dividers through a few Christmas carols and ended with a grand finale of rigging the southern serenades.

A Theta Chi told me that "The Black Beauty" and "The Buller" have been seeing a lot of each other and if you see any little "M C's" running around, that's why!

NEWSPAPERMAN, DAIRY FARMER NOW TEACHING FRENCH AT W. C.

To continue our series of articles about new faculty members on campus, I should like to introduce this week Mr. Robert Hare, lecturer in French. Mr. Hare was born and for the most part raised, in New York City. He has attended many different schools—too many to keep track of—in his own words—but earned his A.B. in English from Ohio State University.

After graduating from college, he attended Harvard Law School for one year and then decided on a journalism career.

Most renowned of all tasing places, it that fast red heads, never arrived on the scene this year. I say fast because the is always in a hurry. Figures doesn't it?

Well, good people before I leave, a thing to note! All girls who want to enjoy life, scan the advertisements on the back page of this edition. There is one that is especially for you.

Be now

REGISTRATION

Registration by the second semester will be considered as final, and there will be no changes in schedules, unless a student files in a prerequisite card.

E. N. Porter, Registrar

I think that I shall never see the Dollar that I loaned to thee. A dollar that I could have spent on varied forms of inerrance! The one I loaned to thee so gladly the same which I now need so badly. For whose return I had great hope, Just like an optimistic dog, For dollars loaned to folks like me, Are not returned to folks like me.

Depression has set in for Roy and Jitsu—they've run out of toothpaste. The brothers were going to chip in and offer a little change, but Roy and Jitsu refuse to pocket their pride (actually they'd use the money for beerage).

It seems as though Washington College Fresh girls are now undergoing a little change as well as "Freeman Saturday." You think it's had now go . . . wait until your Sophomore year. Things are really tough then!

It is now safe to say that lacrosse is officially under way. Covington has already been injured twice . . . a sure sign.

Barnett, what about this new paw you are sponsoring on campus? Do you honestly think it will take the place of all inter-collegiate athletics?

Sarah, what about your stand-uping? Bulldhead's shame on you—is this any way to treat a brother?

Open Letter to all KIDNAPPERS.

Did you all know that it is against the law, gentlemen, (and I use the term very loosely), to force someone against their will to go with you in any way across the continent? It is, in fact, a felony . . . We of the Elm sincerely trust that a word to the wise is more than sufficient!

It seems as though Stephen's theme song has changed from "Yes Sir, That's my Baby" to "Just Friends" in only 24 hours . . . But there is nothing really bad about having a friend, is there, Don, and besides, there's always Philadelphia and Miss Canton?!

A warning to Bill Barnett and Jennie Bryner—Rumor has it that they are going to get married. I am seeing more than enough of one or the other. Must be those cars of "Sing" that the old "Foo" loves to bite!

What's all this talk about football and its return to WC? I really wonder if finances are the only reason why we don't have the sport on campus today?

Well, be good kids, and old Sir will bring you everything you want for Christmas.

He began work with the Baltimore Sunpapers and remained as reporter, writer, and editor until 1939. He then moved to Washington, Millington, a small community outside of Chestertown, and entered upon the serious business of dairy farming. Mr. Hare is very interested in the raising and breeding of dairy cattle—so interested that he arises at 1:30 in the morning to do the milking. This fact especially fascinated the students in his French class when they were guests in his home one evening last year.

How did a newspaperman turn dairy farmer come around to teaching French at WC? It seems that the incident involved Mr. Hare's respect in the field. According to his testimony, he was standing innocently by at a party in Chestertown which fellow guests, Dr. Doyle and Dr. Galt was, asked Mrs. Hare, a native Frenchwoman, if the knew of someone who could teach French. She was asked to find from his heavy-stuff in the baggage department. She said "Certainly, my husband," and after a short conference he was hired.

Mr. Hare had made in all about ten extended trips to France, and had a legal residence from 1918 to 1939. Just last March he completed his twentieth Atlantic crossing. Ironically, although he and his wife share a common French background, they happened to meet in Baltimore. They have three lovely daughters—ages 18, 21, and four years.

Mr. Hare reports that all his teaching experience to far have been pleasant, and he thoroughly enjoys his new work. Here's hoping that he will continue to like us and have much success in the classroom and on the farm.

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By WAYNE GRUEHN

As chalk-lines on a grass field are replaced by painted ones on a basketball court, the average sports fan turns from football, soccer and cross country, to basketball, wrestling and indoor track. Before this writer does the same, he would like to close out the fall chapter by giving credit to someone who is, in a sense, under the garnish; the man called "coach".

Six years ago in 1947, Edward L. Athey was voted the outstanding athlete of the year by the student body. This ended a colorful career that began in 1940 at Frostburg State Teachers College. After transferring to Washington College, he became part of the Mason-Dixon Championship basketball team. But before the 1942-43 season was over, Ed received his call to duty in the Armed Forces. When Air Force Lieutenant Athey came back from the China Theater, he was wearing the Air Medal, two battle stars and the Presidential Unit Citation.

When he returned to Washington's campus, he brought back his wife, the former Rachael Lovell, and his first of two sons.

In the final year, he was outstanding in football, was captain of the basketball team and a member of the baseball nine.

His coaching career began in 1948 when he tutored the Maroon and Black soccer team, assisted in football and basketball. He later became head coach of the court squad.

This year, relinquishing his basketball activities to newly arrived Emerson Smith, for the purpose of devoting more time to his Athletic Director's post, Mr. Athey coached only the soccer team.

Season's Results

The season is over and the record books are closed. But, for the great majority of the student body who did not attend many of the games, the team that represented Washington College on the various soccer fields this year proved to be a fighting and high-spirited one that played its best to the very last second. There were four ties, four victories and two defeats, one of the latter being to the nation's champions. And, as I remember, the general feeling of the Homecoming crowd that day was that the Sho'men outplayed Franklin & Marshall in every quarter. Breaks are Breaks.

Teamwork

One of the basic principles of any successful team concerns teamwork. Each member must work as one necessary part of a machine, and that machine must work in harmony with its operator—the coach.

Ed Athey piloted the Maroon and Black to a third place in the Mason-Dixon Conference (behind Baltimore University by 2.5 points) and the same position in the Middle Atlantic Association. This record is not to be scoffed at, being the most successful one for a good while.

So, using the benefit of "having the last word," I give credit where credit is due.

Nice going, coach.

COURT CAPERS

by Jerry Yudisky

The wraps were removed from the 1953-54 edition of the Washington College basketball team at Newark, Delaware last week as the Sho'men put up a brilliant but unsuccessful effort to up the winning University of Delaware five. However, the loss was due mainly to lack of experience and height. With the experience of three times behind them, Coach Smith's hoopers present a strong threat to the conference opponents remaining in the schedule.

The Maroon and Black lost only three men from last year's team through graduation. Lettermen from last year's squad which compiled an eight win, sixteen loss record, who are taking action again this year are Jack Bergen, George Hesse, Ronnie Sick, Bob Appleby, Bob Sullivan, and Joe Symanski. Also returning are Ralph Lavi, Elie Joseph, Ed Silveri and Lou Gilles. But even with this experienced roster, two freshmen have been able to break into the starting line-up, and three others have also made the varsity. Chick Haines, who was leading scorer for Penna Grove (N. J.) high last season, and Bob Kardon, '52 pivoter from Gettysburg High in Philadelphia, have already earned winning positions for themselves and have performed well in both offense and defense. Haines does most of his shooting from the right side of the basket, while Kardon uses a smooth right shot from the center slot.

Harriers 4th In M-D Meet

Saturday, November 21, Coach Emerson Smith's trackmen took fourth place in the twelfth annual Mason-Dixon Cross Country championship meet at Gallander College.

John Hopkins spearheaded by Don Manger, who has taken first place in the last three meets, captured the title. Bridgewater was second and Roanoke third. Other participants were Catholic U., Gallaudet, Loyola, Randolph-Macon, Towson, and Lynchburg. Each team was allowed an eight-man squad and the first fifteen runners to place were awarded medals. Lew Buckley and Mickey DiMaggio led the Sho'men, placing seventh and eighth respectively. Bob Appleby, Ed Barr, Ken Blaker, Bernie Thomas, Chuck King, and Elb Boyd ran third through eight in team order.

Several obstacles which hampered the runners on the three-mile course were rain, which caused bad footing and the narrowness of the course. Track passing difficult. A deciding factor in the outcome of the race was a hill at the latter end of the course on which the Sho'men passed many opponents. Although Hopkins is expected to be a leading contender again next year, Sho' progress is good as live of this year's squad will return.

Stickmen Begin Semi-Formal Practice

by James M. Wright

On Monday, November 30, Coach Charles Clark added a semi-formal touch to regular practice in fund-raising. Half field scrimmages, five days weekly, has given the newcomers a taste of the old Indian sport, in preparation for the more formal, full field scrimmages to come in the spring. The team will work out until Christmas recess.

The hopefuls have also taken advantage of the recently erected backboard to improve stick handling and the one-quarter mile track to get in shape. Much improvement has been sighted among the new men, who are expected to make a strong addition to the team.

Coach Clark and co-captain Bob Lipat will attend the annual meeting of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association at the Hotel Statler in New York on Friday, Dec. 11th, through Sunday, Dec. 13th, in preparation for the lacrosse season. Doctor Clark is a member of the Executive Board and is on two Ad Hoc Study Committees, one on Rules and the other on the All-American Team.

Booters Close Good Year

by Jerry Yudisky

Coach Athey's booters climaxed a successful soccer season with a 4-3 win over Baltimore University, Dong Tilley and Dick Weller, both playing their final game for Washington College, capped their brilliant careers on the field by scoring two goals and one goal respectively. In contrast, the winning point was scored by freshman John Kruse who boosted the ball in just outside the B. U. goal's reach.

Coach Athey was high in his praise for this year's soccer representatives. In his summation of the team he stated: "In the four years since I've been here, this was the best organized team. They passed and tried to set the ball up. Instead of trying to play ordinary soccer, they tried to develop finesse, and not only tried to play the game enthusiastically, but with some meaning behind it."

The team's record unfolded with Mr. Athey's appraisal. The Sho'men won five games, tied four, and lost only two championships. The first loss was to Franklin and Marshall, last year's national champions. The other loss was a hard fought 2-1 decision to Johns Hopkins, the team that ended F & M's long winning streak and went on to capture both the Mason-Dixon championship and the Southern Division title of the Middle-Atlantic Conference.

Victories were registered over Catholic U., Loyola, Delaware, Drexel Tech, and Baltimore. Drexel had beaten Hopkins just a few days before losing 4-2 to Washington College. The Athenians battered Towson, University of Virginia, Roanoke, and Gettysburg to ties.

For those interested in statistics: W. C. shut out two opponents—Loyola and Gettysburg—and was shut out by Gettysburg in a scoreless draw. Washington outscored its total opposition, 28-18. Tilley, who is an outstanding possibility for Mason-Dixon and Mid-Atlantic All-Star honors, was high scorer for the season with fourteen goals. Runner-up was Roger Smoot with five points. The rest of the scoring was evenly divided between Rod Ware, Josh Carey, Ralph Karpis, Barry Burns, Weller, Kruse, and Bob Appleby, each of whom registered one goal.

The outlook for the future is darkened by the graduation of six of this year's lettermen. These are Tilley, Weller and Appleby, forwards; Joe Symanski, Rod Ware, and Ted Bell-shore, halfbacks. Next year's team will see the return of Smoot, Burns, Al

Haines Stars

Washington College captured its first Mason-Dixon game of the season last Wednesday night, defeating Catholic University of America, 68-67, in a nip and tuck contest which saw the score tied 10 times and the lead changing hands 12 times.

It was a freshman, Chick Haines, of Penna Grove, N. J., who broke the contest wide open in the last five minutes of play, as he acted 11 points during this time, and 19 for the evening.

Catholic led 30-28 at halftime and remained with a 2-point advantage at the conclusion of the third quarter, 18-16. It was Ronnie Sick's accurate set shots and George Hesse's dead one-bounce which kept the Maroon in the contest in this last breaking third period.

Then as the lead changed six times in the final five minutes, Haines snuck a rebound push which gave Washington a 66-65 lead. George Hages of the Cardinals countered with a duplicate of Haines' shot and the Red birds led, 67-66.

As the clock passed the 15 second mark, the swift freshman drove for the basket and stored his 18th and 19th points of the evening, which spelled victory for a lightning Sho' upstart.

Hastatic, Eddie Campbell and Kruse in the forward positions; Mule Jennings, Mort Lemaire, Sam Spicer, Dick Lent, and Joe O'Malley in the back field; Joe Symanski guarding the goal. With these players forming the nucleus of next year's eleven, Coach Athey hopes to equal or better the Sho's third place standing in both the Mason-Dixon and Middle-Atlantic Conferences.

Glancing into the future, the boosters' timor offers this view: "We certainly are going to surely miss the seniors leaving in this year because they form the nucleus and strength of the starting lineup. Such men will be hard to replace. However, with the number of lettermen returning, and with the prospect of always securing a few boys with high school experience from the freshman class, there is no reason for us not to anticipate having a fair club next year."

Frustrated professor: "Look here, young man, are you the professor in this class?"

Student: "No, sir."

Professor: "Then stop acting like a fool."

Shoremn Map Battle Plans

Varsity Tops Alumni

by Palmer Hughes

Among the sounds of grunts and groans the Washington College Pentagons scored its initial victory of the season by thumping the Alumni by an 82-0 score. After a six and two first half, the varsity broke the game wide open with a 27 point haulage in the third quarter.

Leading the Shore attack was Ed Starnes, who scored 23 points on deadly one-handers and driving. He was ably abetted by guard, George Hesse who played a brilliant floor game and came up with 17 points. Freshman Bob Kardou, from Germantown Academy in Philadelphia, scored a stellar under the boards while chipping in nine points. Ronnie Sisk and Jack Bergen played their usual steady floor game and garnered plenty of rebounds and loose balls.

For the alumni, who did well considering the conditions of having no practice and of not being in the best shape, Walter Romaniuk held the way. Walt scored most of his points in the first half as both he and the other outliners were unable to stop the varsity's fast break and view the tide of battle. Also exelling for the alumni were Dick Brodbeck, from last year's team, Wes Edwards, '53, and Ed Athey, '47.

Intramural Highlights

The pickup season is over on the Hill, Lambda Chi winning the championship in a tight 2 set 3 series with East Hall that ended up in a victory for the Lambda Chi's in the last game, after the first two were played to ties.

Now the scene changes to Cain Gymnasium where another thrilling intramural basketball season has begun. The league is composed of Theta Chi, Lambda Chi, Kappa Alpha, Foxwell, G. I. Hall, New York All Stars and the Lambda Chi "B" team.

In the opening game of the season K.A. displayed unusually good poise as they can over the New York All Stars 46-22. Lambda Chi, on the last year's finalists, showed again it was a power to reckon with as it upped by Foxwell in a tight game. The surprise of the early season was the upset of the last year's champions, Theta Chi, by G. I. Hall who outthought the team considered as the favorite for the title again this year. The score was 55-27.

Announcement Of Courses For Semester

Del. Cagers Down Sho' 5

by Al Grimes

The Blue Hens of the University of Delaware overcame a three point half time lead to defeat the Sho' quintet, 39-17, in the 1953-54 cage opener at the University Field House.

Pete Ketcher of the Blue Hens started the scoring with a lay-up in the opening minutes of the game. Using their height over the Sho'men to an advantage, the Hens staged a first period drive which netted them a temporary lead.

At a lone field goal during the first period, which ended with Delaware leading 11-6.

The Sho'men solved Delaware's lone defense as they came alive in the second period. Jack Bergen knotted the score for the first time in the game as the Sho'men began to move. Frank White, captain of the Blue Hens, and Jack Waddington, each collected a field goal to give the home team a 15-10 lead.

The third period proved fatal to the Sho'men as Delaware scored 10 consecutive points to take the lead. Captain Frank White was responsible for 11 of Delaware's 20 points in this period, as he scored from all parts of the court. The Blue Hens held a 30-13 lead at the end of the quarter.

The Delaware continued under the best period to build up their lead as White, Hart and Waddington took turns in scoring.

The height of the Hens proved to be the winning factor in the game as they controlled the back boards most of the time.

White, of Delaware U., was high for the night with 20 points followed by the Sho'men's Ronnie Sisk with 17.

Yesterday's HEROES

Ten Years Ago This Week

Permission was granted for the organization of a Washington College Lacrosse Club under the supervision of Dr. Charles B. Clark. Washington College defeated Gettysburg 46-35 in the first game of the 1943-44 basketball season.

Nineteen members of the football squad and eighteen members of soccer team were awarded varsity letters at a dinner at Hodson Hall. O. D. K. held its annual Christmas Dinner at Cain Gym. Admission was $1.00 with free cats and music provided by Lew Star's Orchestra.

Five Years Ago This Week

The rage for Golden Blonde Hair spread like the Black Plague through Reed Hall.

These Old moved from East Hall to Middle Hall for more suitable accommodations.

The Washington College quintet lost in the final minutes of an overtime period to Camp Miles.

Elkton High beat the All-Star team from the College basketball Intramural League.

Freshmen were required to wear their "rat cap" for an additional two weeks, as they lost the annual hazing football game 13 to 9.

Alumni Meets

Washington College alumni in Waterbury, Connecticut, entertained several visitors from the College at a dinner in Waterbury last Friday night. Those from Chestertown were President Daniel F. Gibson, J. Thomas Kibler, Warren O'Neil, Ernest Cook, and Bedford Groves.

About forty-five alumni heard Dr. Gibson speak of plans now in progress for the improvement of the College. Following Dr. Gibson's talk, various alumni regaled the group with amusing stories of their undergraduate days on the "Hill."

Several of those present had been outstanding athletes during their college days, and they had a reunion with Coach Tom Kibler, who had guided them on the field of sports. Among these were Clayton McCrinn, Jack Carroll, Mike Fiore, Henry Carrington, Eddie Keenan, James Calvin, Dave Bartolini, and Jim Deberry.

The alumni in the Waterbury area are distinguished for their vigorous interest in the welfare of their College, and they have a staunch loyalty to its traditions as an educational institution of the first rank. During the course of the evening, many alumni—people with highly successful records in their professions—credited their early years of training at the Shore school as being the foundation of their careers.

Arrangements for the dinner, held at the Hotel Elton, were made by Jacob D. Rieger, class of 1928, who is director of Waterbury's high school athletic programs. He was assisted by Louis J. Thibodeau, Tom Purcell, Jim Calvin, Jim Deberry, Bob Meyers, Mike Rouss, Jr., Eddie Keenan and Dave Bartolini. These members are well advanced with plans for official organization of an alumni chapter in their area.

Some of the younger alumni at the meeting were Betty Brundage Martin, '52; Mike Rossi, Jr., '53; and Bob Drapkin, '49.

Those who have seen the cheerleaders in action will agree that appropriations for their new sweaters and skirts is being well spent and that it will take new outfits to keep up with their pep and energy. W. C. can then be as proud of them as they can of the Sho'men fans whom they will cheer to many victories this winter.

Among the new innovations which have recently appeared on campus for the pleasure and convenience of the students through the efforts of Student Council are the new ping pong equipment for Hodson Hall, the lunch needed coat and rack also in Hodson Hall and the new washing machine and dryer in Middle Hall.

—New Proposals—

Some current proposals now under consideration and investigation are the feasibility of mixed groups in informal gatherings or TV parties. On a more long range scale, the planning of a Spring Victory Dance with orchestra, and laundry facilities for boys.

These new innovations—these current proposals can only be brought to light, stimulated, and established through your opinions and suggestions. Your Student Council can function for you only so long as your suggestions are forthcoming. Learn who your class representatives are! Suggest, talk about, criticize, debate, praise, visit and even demand, if you must, your Student Council. But, above all, make your presence felt. Make the individual's opinion ring—then and only then, can we give you the representation you deserve and that we desire to give you.

However, with the experienced players and outstanding newcomers under his leadership, it is hoped that his successful record in high school hall will continue in his freshman year with Washington College.

"Because," answered his mother, "White stands for purity and joy."

"Then why?" was the logical retort.

W.C. Nominates 9 To Who's Who In Am. Colleges Ramona Willey Succeeds Ells Boyd As ELM Editor

To Quit Acting Broadway Hits

The outcome of the Washington Players election meeting last week was a set of new officers and a general feeling that the Players group needed some changes, particularly regarding the too-frequent production of Redwood plays.

President-elect Dave Humphries said his aim for next year is to put variety in the plays. According to him, emphasis has been placed so much on Broadway plays in the past few years that the group now has a tendency to reject them. However, "Harvey," will be presented this spring as planned.

George Bernard Shaw's "Candida," after replacing "Come Back, Little Sheba" as the mid-year play, to be presented March 5 and 6. "Candida," directed by Don Oetings, will feature a completely new set which the stage crew is building. Humphries said "Sheba" was not definitely excluded from next year's plays.

With variety apparently the keynote, Humphries later disclosed his personal plans for the coming season. He would like to see the Players and the College Choir produce a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. The second play, he thinks, should be an interpretation of theatre in the round. For the third he hopes to have a classic.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Don Willis, returning to school news editor, secretary; Al Conello, treasurer. President Humphries appointed Barbara Townsend promotion manager and Joe Keller production manager.

From further discussion at the meeting the members appeared to favor revising the constitution and calling more meetings per month, but no action was taken.

Student Govt. Reports

The regular meeting of the Student Council was called to order by the President, Bob Appleby, on Dec. 15, at 6:30 p.m., in the SGA room.

Upon recommendation of the Consultants Committee, it was moved and seconded to publish the complete minutes of each meeting in the Elm.

The motion was carried.

Dean Doyle was asked to join in a general discussion of the following problems:

The Cut System—Dean Doyle stated that the present cut system is based on the general policy that students are expected to attend all classes, taking cuts only in emergencies. The faculty does not feel that the student body as a whole is able to govern its class attendance completely, especially in the case of students with accumulative indexes of 2.25 or better. A distinction is made between students whose overrunning causes them to be dropped from school and students who fail for purely academic reasons; the person who overruns may re-enroll in classes the following semester, while the person who fails academically must wait a semester to enroll.

Further discussion at the meeting. The Dean felt that there is general student acceptance of the present cut system, since he felt

Phi Sigs Hold Elections

William Winterling was re-elected president of Phi Sigma Kappa for his second term at general elections last Monday. Winterling has served as vice-president and rush chairman.

Pete Burbage was named vice-president. Other new officers are Howard Morrison, secretary; George Hanst, treasurer; Mickey Anderson, sentinel; Ann Pesa, inductor; Stan Kaufman, Interfraternity Council delegate; Howard Morrison, alternate; Bob Fickett, rush chairman; Bill Warner, house manager.

Previous officers, except president and born in the above order, were: Ken Bourn, Morrison, Ken Bunting, Pesa, Ronnie Thomas, Bourn, Sam Davis, Davis, and Jack Winkler.

that there seems to be resistance to the rules only among a small minority.

Selection of candidates for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities—It was felt that a definite writing procedure for selection of candidates would eliminate misunderstandings.

Spence Latham and Ken Berne were appointed to present to the Council a suggested procedure for election of Who's Who candidates, considering precedent of former years and the general standards of the publication.

The tendency of students to leave the campus on weekends—The lack of facilities for social gatherings on campus and the dormitory restrictions of the women students were discussed as reasons for this problem. The Dean requested practical suggestions for improvement of the situation.

Sandra Davell, Spence Latham, Betty Ayres, and John Neubold were appointed as a committee to discuss this problem, and to present suggestions for solutions to the Council at the Jan. 12 meeting.

The Social Calendar—Dean Doyle stated that the Dean's office holds the fiscal responsibility for the Social Calendar, and should be directly

DuPont's Livingston Addresses Assembly

Larry F. Livingston, manager of the Du Pont Extension Division, spoke to the student body at the weekly assembly January 7, on "Progress in Better Living."

He said, "Americans have the best living in the world today because the traditional American system has given us the freedom to create it. We have the things we want because our system works better than any in the world. The story of the production of goods and services is the story of our standard of living."

Mr. Livingston gave his audience a preview of chemical developments of the future as well as the story of the creation of such things as nylon and orlon. He displayed scores of the Du Pont products, some of which are so new that there is no commercial use for them as yet.

"Dacron," newest of Du Pont's man-made fibers, and "Orlon," a touch acrylic fiber, were demonstrated. The materials are expected to find many uses in the textile field, due to their versatile resistance, long life and resilience.

He also told of the development of silver ceramic paint which made it possible for the "walkie-talkie" to withstand jungle weather and is now being used in hearing aids and radars. Mr. Livingston stressed, "America is strong today because it is based on freedom to imagine and create new products, freedom to act and distribute those products in a competitive market. We have our high standard of living because we have a vast industrial system in this country that converts raw materials into useful products, which are the true wealth."

EXAM SCHEDULE

The schedule for final examinations has been released by the Registrar's office. A copy of the schedule appears on page four of this issue. If anyone has a conflict of exams or wishes to be excused from any exam, contact Mr. Foster in the Registrar's office.

The required minimum average for unlimited credit for Junior and Seniors is 2.25. This average must be an accumulated index through the end of the last preceding semester.

6 Boys, 3 Girls Recognized By Nation For Work At W.C. Hanst, Gruehn Edit News, Features; Szymanski Stays

Ramona Willey has been elected to become the new Editor-in-Chief of the Elm. She will assume this position, upon Ellsworth Boyd's graduation in February. Replacing Rod Ware as News Editor will be George Hanst, a sophomore. Wayne Gruehn is to be the new Feature Editor.

Mona, Vice-President of the Zetas, began writing for the Elm when it was a freshman. At the beginning of this year she was appointed Feature Editor. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, The Washington Players, and the F.T.A. Some of her other activities include writing for the Pegasus and being student press representative for the Alumni office.

A History major, she now acts as an assistant in the History department.

George Hanst, the News Editor, plans to become a journalist. He is a member of the Phi Sigs and he comes from Oakland, Maryland, where in high school, he worked on the paper, Majoring in English, he began to work on the Elm this year. Formerly a sports writer, Wayne Gruehn, takes Mona's place as Feature Editor. He is a member of the Washington Players. During his freshman year he was on the cross country and track teams. Beginning work on the Elm this year, Wayne, a junior, intends to go into the technical end of radio and television and do writing as a sideline upon his graduation.

Joe Szymanski will retain his position as Sports Editor, having completed that position last semester, his freshman year.

NOTICE

Students are requested to use the playing field across College Avenue for all informal sports—touch football, lacrosse practice, and all other types of sports activity. The area in front of Somerset House, beside G.I. Hall, and on the terrace on the Hill, as well as other areas east of College Avenue, are to be avoided for these purposes. Please assist us in keeping our main campus and its trees and shrubs in presentable condition.

Six boys and three girls received recognition in the nation for their work on the W.C. campus. "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" has recognized as accepted members: Robert H. Appleby, Betty M. Ayres, David Ellsworth Boyd, Spencer B. Latham, Mary Lee Lincoln, John E. Mumich, Douglas S. Tibbitt, Saylor Ugly, and Roderic B. Ware. These students have been nominated on scholarship, cooperation, citizenship and promise of future usefulness as shown by their campus life.

Each member receives an individual certificate of recognition, a listing and writup in the organization's annual publication, and also any available benefits from their Student Placement Service in securing various employment.

To the students on campus the attainment of this national honor should serve:

"As a goal to inspire greater effort in those who may not otherwise perform to the best of their ability."

"As a reminder that time must be used intelligently to bring the best results from one's college experience."

"As a means of compensation for outstanding effort and achievement."

"As a standard for measurement for students comparable to other recognized scholastic and service organizations."

Bob Appleby is well known to all students in his various offices: President of Omicron Delta Kappa, President of the Student Government Association, Vice-President of Theta Chi, Treasurer of the Varsity Club, Captain of the basketball team and has been active in such sports as soccer, cross country, and lacrosse.

Secretary of Student Government, a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, Rush Chairman of Alpha Chi Omega, and active membership in the Washington Players, Chi, and Panhellenic Council are the activities which keep Betty Ayres busy around W.C. Betty is a very energetic and capable campus leader.

Ells Boyd is especially noted for his newspaper and sports work. His list of activities: "The Elm" Editor, Pegasus writer, Kappa Alpha Omega, member of the Board of Student Publications, and Varsity Club. His four years participation in track and cross country gave much to the W.C. athletic program and earned for Ells the Captaincy of both sports in his senior year.

As President of the Washington Players, Vice-President of the Kappa Alpha Order, and Treasurer of Omicron Delta Kappa, Spence Latham has proven himself a cooperative leader on campus. He is also a representative to the Student Government Association and the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Mary Lee Lincoln, one of the exchange students in the Political Science Project, cannot be forgotten for her campus work. She is Vice-President of Alpha Omicron Psi, a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, Vice-President of Student Government, President of the school choir, and is

AFC WIEDERSEHEN . . .

As I prepare to pack up my typewriter and turn over this column to Ramona Willey, bidding farewell to The Washington Elm, I think it would be only fitting to take one more memorable glance over the highlights of the semester through the headlines of a few out-dated Elms.

School opened in September proclaiming the largest enrollment since the war. Along with this came freshman hazing, plus the appointment of six new faculty members and a new Dean.

It wasn't long before Homecoming rolled around, featuring pep rallies, fraternity parties, and a soccer clash with the National Collegiate Champs—Franklin & Marshall. Queen Jo Budd and her attendants, Jean and Jane Hatch, Emily Dryden and Betty Ayres, ruled elegantly over the Homecoming holiday week-end and dance.

The latter part of October not only brought brisk weather, but also a brisk Sophomore raid on the G. I. Dorn in which more rotten eggs were thrown at the Freshmen, than were ever served in Hodson Hall.

The ODK tapping, The Washington Players' first production, Freshman class election, sorority bidding, and the S.S.O. initiation hit the headlines during the remainder of the semester.

The final issue has been distributed and I would like to acknowledge the excellent work and untiring effort of the Elm Staff—Rod Ware, Ramona Willey, Joe Szymanski, and their respective writers, for a job well done. And to the typists, the business manager, circulation manager, and photographer I extend my deepest gratitude, for it was their cooperation which increased the coordination of the paper and added to its success.

The Board of Publications could not have elected a more competent successor than Ramona Willey. She is a friend, a leader, and an experienced journalist on the Sho' campus and I am sure she the Elm will prosper under her guidance.

LETTER

TO THE EDITOR

For the past several weeks there have been many discussions and proposals to better the dramatic organization on the Washington College campus. The Washington Players are proud of their organization and past record of production, but the real reason there is always room for improvement and new ideas. The Players have been open to constructive criticism and new ideas of their own members as well as those from students and faculty outside the organization.

The organization is striving to bring a higher level of production to the campus since there is some evidence that is what the student desires.

The Players are proud of the way these discussions have been brought to a conclusion with the obvious approval and to the satisfaction of all concerned. Since they realize they are a small organization they understand the necessity of cooperation with other campus organizations. They are now organized to spell the downfall of other organizations, but to cooperate with them for the betterment of campus activities.

The Washington Players are all the opinion if they produce George Bernard Shaw's "Candida", the student body will realize that they are striving for higher level of dramatic productions on campus. "Candida" will be produced under the capable direction of Desa Owens on March 5th and 6th. The cast includes veterans of the Washington Players as well as new comers to the stage.

A special vote of thanks is extended to Spencer Latham, ex-president of the Washington Players for presenting the viewpoint and ideas of the Players during this difficult period and for the special effort he put forth in these past weeks.

Senior Banquet

Very Successful

The Annual Senior Banquet was held on January 5 at the Granary. This is one of the highlights in each senior year and is usually a huge success. This year was no exception.

Following the dinner, Johnny Newbold, president of the class, opened the affair dinner speeches by reviewing back over their four years at W.C., and in turn, introducing Miss Bradley, and Dr. Gibson. The latter perhaps was the one who made each senior sit back and think. He also reviewed the past four years but did not stop there. He went on to thank the seniors as alumni and to tell them as alumni what each meant to the college.

Senior Of The Week

Spence Latham, who will graduate in February, is our Senior of the Week. He comes from Baltimore and entered W.C. as a transfer student from Drexel Institute of Technology in 1951. Ever since, the "Wedge" has been active in college affairs.

As stage manager for the Washington Players last year, he efficiently met every production deadline, and the dramatic group elected him president this year. The Senior Class also recognized his dependability and elected him as one of their Student Government representatives. He has served as chairman of the Complaints and Grievances Committee in the organization.

Like a proper Southerner, Spence is a K.K. and his brothers elected him No. 11 in the fraternity this year. Last year he represented K.K. in the Interfraternity Council. O.D.S. acknowledged his service to the campus by tapping him in October, and he has been treasurer for the honorary fraternity during this semester.

Active in sports, Spence has played intercollegiate lacrosse and intramural football, basketball, and basketball while at W.C. An economic major and a good student, he is one of the nine people on campus who achieved listing in Who's Who this year.

When he runs that well-known "Latham tag" home on week-ends, "Wedge" likes to do a little cabinet-making and woodworking for relaxation.

After he leaves W.C. in February, Spence is going to work as a surveyor until he joins the Army Engineering Corps. The best of luck to you, Spence!

'Twas The Night . .

'Twas the week before Christmas, when all through the school, The tension was high; as is the rule, The kids, they were dumb, and knew nothing at all, Yet they failed to see the writing on the wall.

They chatted and gossiped with all of their friends, Though it's studying on which their future depends.

They talked about sports, of fashions and styles, Or last night's ride through the country for miles.

If they'd only review their English and history, It would help to avert their post-exams misery.

Their books were like new, the pages untorn, But after the tests, will the kids be forewarned?

To their teacher they paid not one bit of attention, If they only knew of her good intention.

But one thing she said, I correctly recall, "If you don't study now, you'll be back here next fall!"

Flashlight Caught

(By The Night Watchman)

In starting off the new year, let me simply say that I hope 1958 will bring you all the things you've always wanted but never had the nerve to ask for before.

Congratulations to Howdy Davis who became engaged to Miss Penny Jamney over the holidays.

And Santa gave Jeanne Boyner a Limbda Chi Award—Congratulations!

Chae T'illot and Roy McDonald celebrated New Year's Eve by being crowned king and queen. We knew you could do it! Now Claire has a ring on her finger and McDonald has one through his nose. Among the most peculiar items on campus are those of one Del Bunsfield and Rod Smith. These early morning trips to the duck blind may be fun, but you haven't been bringing back many ducks.

And here's the latest communique from Reid Hall—written by an imminent onlooker.

Reid Hall Starts the Year Off Right? January has always been a time of starting over and the first month of the new year is a time for new ideas, new ideals, and resolutions. For the girls, it was a time when it comes to making resolutions—or to breaking them. Let's try to look over some of the "new laws" that are taking place:

First of all, the mice have disappeared. Tired of being rudely awakened by a mouse's gentle tap on the chest, the girls decided it was time they were done away with. Funny though, now that they're gone, they're missed . . .

For awhile they had been thought of as a third roommate—

Secondly, the girls will try to keep their rooms nice, neat, and clean. As there is a contest between floors in voting a party or night out for the cleaned floor, the girls are trying their best—despite falling walls, missing blinds, and broken windows. Some of them have even decorated the dorms with a number of smaller, and sometimes a pink flower. Others hide an entire corner by using poles for bulletin boards. One consolation the girls have, however, is that next year the rooms will be even worse.

Thirdly, coming to campus in the fall, vacation periods, are sometimes spent in intellectual discussions or arguments—far awhile away. Of course the usual amount of actual playing takes place, but now they play only for money.

From now on the girls of Reid Hall must be quiet before, after, and most of all, during study hours . . . No more bunny hops, singing, or leaders among the dorms. How long this will last, no one knows. Let's just hope 'til after the finals.

Well, that's most of them. Of course there are a number of smaller ones like: no more use in the dorm as on the escape; no more last minute writing of themes, book reports, or film material; and then there is the fantastic dream of 200 miles. And, oh yes, boys—always a topic of conversation. Reid Hall thinks if the girls say "Forget it," but I think this has already and always will be the first resolution to be broken—anywhere.

Introducing Dr. Dudley Johnson

Unfortunately, ever since this series of articles began you have been waiting for me to get around to an interesting-looking addition to the economics department. Indeed, it appears that many of you grew so impatient that by this time you've investigated the matter of economy—a hazy crowd and white bucks—for yourselves. Since this is the case, in this edition I will attempt to furnish some needed supplementary information about Mr. Dudley Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was born in Portland, Oregon, in 1926—he celebrated his 32nd birthday just last Wednesday. He graduated from high school just in time for the U. S. Navy, and served the war years on fleet carriers and a minesweeper, in both the European and South Pacific theaters. After his discharge he enrolled at Pacific University in Oregon; here he received his B.A., and completed one semester for the master's degree for the fall of 1950. Pacific University gave him a degree, however. While in college he met his lovely wife, Charlotte, and they were married in August after he graduated.

In September of 1950 he accepted a graduate teaching fellowship at Northwestern University in Illinois, where he completed work for his M.A. and finished his oral and preliminary exams for the doctorate. At the time he was teaching undergraduate courses at both Northwestern and at the Baptist Missionary Training School in Chicago, and also served one summer as research assistant to Dr. K. E. Poole when he was working on his latest book on U. S. fiscal policies.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson live on Greywood Lane in Chertown, and are expecting their first child in March. Popular with the students in economics, and according to so far his college life at W.C. He is a member of the Committee on Fraternities and Sororities, and enjoys occasional sessions with the dancing teachers—loves to argue about almost anything—and college sports. However, most of his spare time is devoted to work on his doctoral dissertation, which he hopes to complete this summer. I'm sure his ambitions will be realized, and wish him the best of luck. In the meantime, though, we'll just wait for that dry martini when he starts passing out the cigars!

Mid-Winter Reunion Saturday, Feb. 6

The Washington College Alumni Association is having its second annual Mid-Winter Reunion on Saturday, February 6. The program of informal entertainment planned for the pleasure of the alumni will be more successful than last year's February Reunion.

Committee chairman Betty Thibodeau '36, assisted by Don Dark '50, Ray Kirby '39, and Jimmy Jouts '47, have planned many events for the program.

There will be a Buffet Luncheon for seriously aluminate and friends from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., sponsored by the Pan-Hellenic Council. Luncheon will be served in Reid Hall lounge. The fraternities will hold Open House from 4 to 5 p.m. At 7:30 there will be a basketball game. The Maroon and Black will play Western Maryland in the High School Gym. The Varsity Club is sponsoring a dance at the Armory, beginning at 9:30. Alumni are invited to be guests of the Country Club at an Open House starting at 9:30 p.m. An added feature this Mid-Winter is the Alumni Coffee Hour on Sunday morning, 10:50 a.m., in the College Snack Bar.

NOTICE

Students are individually responsible for keeping current on their absences. The Registrar's office maintains a warning service which notifies students when they have used all the absences to which they are entitled for an individual course.

This service is maintained only as a convenience to the student. The fully up-to-date guide is the student's own record of his absences. Students are urged to keep accurate written records of their absences.

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By WAYNE GRUEHN

Over the past months it has been my pleasure to pay tribute to various deserving members of Washington College's sports world.

This is the final ELM edition of the fall semester. With its passing, I am vacating this column to Jerry Yudisky. Therefore, in the last "Athlete's Feat" written by yours truly, I would like to write about another person terminating his duties with The ELM: Ellis Lloyd.

Ellis objected, as any editor would, to an article about himself in his own paper. But, as I said, the pleasure is mine to pay tribute to deserving members of our college sports world, and Ellis is no exception to the rule.

Track Best Sport

Born in Baltimore, Md., on October 18, 1931, David Ellsworth Lloyd later graduated from City College when he ran on the cross-country and track teams. Entering Washington College in February, he soon joined the Shore track squad and did the same when the hill 'n' dale season opened up for business the following fall.

In the next three years, Ellis renewed his membership on the two endurance squads and rounded out his senior year by being elected captain of each.

To describe the overall record of a cross-country and track man would take up too much uninteresting space, so we'll concentrate on the latter and better of Ellis' two sports, track. Even here the best way to recall four years and eighty-five or so races and events is to tell what his "biggest thrills" were.

Highlights

For instance there was the day against Western Maryland when Ellis tied our own school record of 15.2 seconds in high hurdles. At the same time broke W.M.'s dual-meet track record of 17.3.

Speaking of Ellis' specialty, high hurdles, I feel it necessary to mention that in dual-meet competition along this line, he has gone undefeated in the last two years. A high-hurdle race incidentally, consists of ten 3½ ft. hurdles over a distance of 120 yards.

In 1952, a high-hurdle relay team of four college all-star track runners defeated the Baltimore Olympic Club in a meet to raise funds for the Olympic Games at Helsinki. Along with such greats as George Rhoden and Art Bragg, these four all-stars were from the University of Maryland, Hopkins, Morgan State, and—yours truly—Washington College's Ellis Lloyd.

Biggest Thrill

But perhaps the biggest of "big thrills" for Ellis, was the day against Catholic U., when the record book had him down for four firsts: in the high and low hurdle races, and in the high and broad jump events. To top all this, he is credited with amassing the majority of points for Washington College's track team last spring.

Psychology, K.A., varsity Club, The Elm, and Ocean City are a few other terms you'd hear in reference to Ellis.

Deserving? I rather think not, but you decide for yourself. I, for one, am proud to know him!

G.I. Leads Intramurals

As the intramural league gains its full momentum of action around the basketball hoop in Cain gymnasium, G.I. Hall holds down the top spot with a perfect record in 5 outings leading the G.I. Raiders in the crown of their first intramural crown. The freshmen forwards Tom Jacobs, Ronnie Covington, and center Bob and Theta Chi, and Phi Sig also tie Theta Chi, G.I. Hall and Somerset.

Kappa Alpha, New York Stars and Theta Chi run a close second, third and fourth respectively. As Kappa Alpha, G.I. Hall and Theta Chi will have five games to play, while the New York Stars have four, each is a strong contender for the championship, which will be determined in the playoffs, a two out of three series between the first and second place teams, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 2, 3 and 4.

Standings

(As of Monday, Jan. 11)

	W	L	Pct.
G.I. Hall	5	0	100%
Theta Chi	5	1	75%
Kappa Alpha	5	1	75%
N. Y. Stars	5	1	75%
Theta Chi	5	1	75%
Hanover's Trojans	1	5	25%
Lambda Chi	2	5	25%
Somerset	1	5	25%
Foxwell	1	5	25%
Phi Sig	0	4	0%

Among the contenders for the title are Theta Chi and Kappa Alpha who are currently battling in the runner up position with records of 5 wins in four outings respectively. During the first week of competition, the feature of the Q.N. men's jumping team, 45 to 29 to average their earlier loss to K.A. The victor's coach, Doug Tilley, exercised his new tight guard defense to perfection as Lou Buckley, Tom Round, and Shelly have gone outstanding performances. Looking back at previous seasons, the New York Stars and Theta Chi offered one loss each to Kappa Alpha and G.I. Hall respectively. The Trojans lost their only game to the New York Stars, Lambda Chi dropped two of the hands of the New York Stars and Kappa Alpha, Somerset's lone loss came to the Trojans, Kappa Alpha and the New York Stars, Foxwell bowed to Lambda Chi, G.I. ## Sho'men To Meet Greyhounds

By JIM WRIGHT

The basketballers of Washington College will take on the highly rated Loyola Greyhounds today at Loyola College in the hope of completing their third league win in eight outings.

Loyola, which has consistently produced winning teams, under the able direction of Leitz Reitz, also has its hands occupied in trying to get back on the victorious path. They have one of the toughest schedules in the conference, and have shown successive losses to some of the top collegiate quints, such as LaSalle, Georgetown U., American U., Seton Hall, and St. Francis of Brooklyn, N. Y., but they will remain a top contender for the Mason-Dixon launch.

Coach Emerson Smith's eagerness are expected to meet stiff opposition as future Loyola lettermen have returned to bolster the newly formed team. Among them will be Joel Hittleman, 6'2", who scored 47 points last season; Jerry Caswick, a scrappy rebounding center, and Joel Lacy, 5'10", an excellent ball handler and a dead-end set shot artist.

Last year the Greyhounds, won the Mason-Dixon Tournament, but took second place in the Mason-Dixon Conference, behind Roanoke College.

Coming from Philadelphia, Pa., he graduated from Germantown High, winning letters in both basketball, and football as an end. Our prospect has represented more than ten high school's castles on the basketball court. Bob has played for three other teams besides Germantown, including Olney High School in Philadelphia, Forest Hill in New York and the Cadet J.V. in Central High in New York.

No one at Washington's this fresh has become interested in lacrosse, although he has never played it before. Attempting to try for one of Charlie Clark's defensive positions, Bob says he likes the game because of its speed and versatility as an basketballer. No slouch at the back either, Keshon is drawing A's or B's in all his courses. His future plans after graduation include law school. The only complaint he has while at Washington College is the amount of food—"they just don't serve enough food for a growing boy."

As a rule, mallard ducklings are capable of flight at about 10 weeks. American sportsman average 14,900 miles of road travel a year compared to a national average of 9,557.

COURT CAPERS

Pentagons Stop Gallaudet

Washington won its second game in Mason-Dixon competition last Thursday, Jan. 7, handing Gallaudet its third conference loss, 67 to 39, on the lower court.

Sparked by Ed Silverie and Jack Bergen who made 25 and 21 points respectively, the Pentagons, with pinpoint shooting, and a fast breaking style of play, kept Gallaudet continually on the defense.

The game saw a new Sho's starting team fielded by Coach Smith which consisted of forwards Ed Silverie and Jack Bergen, center Lou Berberly and guards, George Hesse and Bob Appleby. Only six men were used during the entire game with Ronnie Sisk being substituted for Bob Appleby.

Controlling the backboards during most of the game our hardwood five made over 45 per cent of their shot and kept a thirty point lead for the best part of the game.

Assisting the victors in scoring were Lou Berberly with 8 points, and George Hesse and Bob Appleby who tallied 6 points each.

Terrors Top Shore Five

By DAVE SINGER

Last Saturday evening the Washington College quintet suffered its fifth setback against two wins, at the hands of the Western Maryland Terrors, 69-52.

Western Maryland's control of the backboards throughout most of the ball game proved to be the deciding factor in its outcome. Arnie Needleman, with his assortment of jump and drive-in shots, was high scorer for the victors with 18 points.

A crowd of several hundred witnesses of the nip and tuck battle which ended at half-time with the Terrors leading, 29-27. The third quarter was evenly matched with both teams play-

Tilley, Ware And Smoot On 1st Team

By JERRY YUDISKY

Overshadowed nationally by the football All-American announcements, but more important locally, were the recently released soccer All-Star teams. Washington College students can hold their heads high with pride over the representation of their Mason and Black squad. In the Southern Area grouping, W.C. had the second most players awarded All-American honors. These were four shore booters among the lifeline listed (five teams). Only Johns Hopkins, with six representatives, topped W.C. Navy, Maryland, Towson, and Baltimore U. each had four All-Americans, and Roanoke had three. Considering the fact that such schools as Duke, Virginia, and N. C. State failed to get more than two positions in the entire listing, the Ashley-men's accomplishment was quite outstanding.

Also announced recently was the All-Mason-Dixon Conference team. The Sho'men shined top honors with Hopkins, with each school getting three men on the first team. Baltimore U., the only other member to get more than one player on the first eleven, had two.

Senior Doug Tilley, one of W.C.'s most outstanding booters and best all-around athletes in many a year, was voted to the second team in the Southern section of the All-American. In the Mason-Dixon balloting he was voted up with the best of the Hopkins as first team linemen. Hutchins posed out Tilley in the All-American for the center forward post. Roger Smoot, who will be back in the Mason and Black next year, was placed on the second team in the outside right spot, and on the first All-M.D. team. Towson's John Zimmerman came out ahead of Smoot in the A-A voting, but was listed on the M-D second eleven. Left fullback John "Mule" Jennings and goalie Joe Synnamans were listed as fifth best in their position in the Southern Jennings and freshman linemen Barry Burns were given honorable mention among the Mason-Dixon stars.

Drexel Institute, which claims it had its most successful season (6 wins, 2 ties, and 4 losses, including a 4-2 drubbing by the Shoremen) against such opposition as Penn. Temple, and Hopkins, listed Tilley as the best center forward it faced during the season. Also included in their All-Opponent rating was Smoot, second only to outside right Bob Hesse of West Chester, and halfback Red Ware, who received honorable mention among the Mason-Dixon stars.

ing strictly offense and scoring easily. The fourth quarter proved to be the turning point of the contest as Western Maryland scored 21 points to the Sho'men's 14, for the final score of 69 to 52.

Coach Emerson Smith's starting five of Jack Bergen, Ed Silverie, Lou Berberly, Bob Appleby, and George Hesse, played throughout most of the game.

WHO'S WHO AT W.C. . . .

prize in the Mount Vernon Literary Society and the Washington Players.

An able and competent leader well describes John Minnich. His offices include: President of Sigma Sigma Omicron, President of the Interfraternity Council, Vice-President of Lambda Chi Alpha, Vice-President of Omicron Delta Kappa and has been on the baseball team for the past two years. In his Freshman year, John received the Fox Freshman Scholarship Medal and in his third and fourth years received the Baurice Fox Award.

Last year Doug Tilley received the Simpson Award for W.C.'s Best All-Around Athlete. It is easy to understand how he earned this recognition when you see his sport's record: Varsity Club 2,3,4; President 4; Treasurer 3; Soccer 1,2,3,4; Co-Captain 4; All Mason-Dixon Conference 2,3,4; Drexel All-Opponent 4; All South 3,4; Varsity Basketball 2,3,4; Varsity Baseball 2,3,4; Captain 4. Doug is also Treasurer of Theta Chi Fraternity.

President of Alpha Omicron Phi, a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, Secretary of the Mount Vernon Literary Society, and memberships in the W.C. Choir and Canterbury Club are some of the interests of Sayle Urig. Sayle is a very capable and efficient in all of her work.

Last, but far from the least of the leaders on campus is Rod Ward. Rod's many and varied activities include: President of Theta Chi Fraternity, Junior Class Treasurer, Inter-Fraternity Council Treasurer, The "Elin" News Editor, Assistant Business Manager of the Pegasus, Varsity Club Vice-President, Varsity track, baseball, and soccer, (co-captain) and All-Mason-Dixon Conference. Rod is also a Charter Member of the Wesley Club.

A total of $11,784.95 in federal aid was divided among the 68 states in 1953 for restoration and development of fish and wildlife.

HEROES

By ECK KING

10 Years Ago

Washington College dropped its first conference game of the season to Mount Saint Mary's, 61-53, despite fine games by Gene Rook and Norman Tarr, who tallied half of the Mason and Black's points between them.

5 Years Ago

Despite a brilliant 37 point production by Nick Scallone, the Skyline went down to defeat in a double overtime game with West Chester State Teachers, 80-71, after having come from behind three times in the game. Following this season, Nick was selected to the All-Mason-Dixon team with a 22.5 average per game.

1 Year Ago

Danny Smele cracked Nick Scallone's single game scoring record, 39 points by scoring 41 points against West Chester, who defeated the Skyline in overtime, 81-80, despite Smele's explosive efforts.

For his fine season of play, which included a 21.5 average, Danny was named most valuable player in the conference and picked on the All-Mason-Dixon team. He was also a member of the U. S. Army Camp Disc. New Jersey.

Annual Ox Hop Is Held

Homecoming week-end began on February 5 with the annual Theta Chi dance, the OX Hop, which was held in Hodson Hall and open to everybody on campus free of charge.

A basketball game between Beta Gt Drexel Text preceded the dance as usual. Beta Eta lost to Beta Theta by a 5-point margin, 45-38.

Hodson Hall was a new place, cheerily decorated by the Theta Chis with red, white, and black crepe paper, little OX bottles, red lights, and the Greek symbols of the fraternity in red and white, the OX colors. A combo from Wilmington provided good dance music; refreshments were available.

Bob Appleby, vice-president of the fraternity, proclaimed Ramona Willey Dream Girl of Theta Chi for 1954 and presented her a trophy. Amid the applause, Moogie, an "OX Girl" who wears Rod War's pan, thanked the fraternity and danced with Bob.

Boyd, Baker Form Dem. Club

A Young Democrats' Club is being formed on campus by Bob Boyd of North East, and Walt Baker of Fort Deposit. An organizational meeting was held in Dunning Hall, Wednesday, February 10. At this meeting the principal speaker was Joe Tydings, Havre de Grace, President of the Young Democrats' Club of Maryland. Other important guests attending were W. M. Backley, Elkton, Secretary of the Y.D.C. of Maryland; Elroy Boyer, Chestertown attorney, Director of the First District of the Y. D. C. of Maryland; Evans McKline, past president of the Y. D. C. in Cecil County; Frank Harris, Treasurer of the Cecil County Y. D. C.; Walter Buck, Jr., of Cecil County; Frank Wright, Chairman of Student Committee in Maryland.

During this meeting the committee planned to adopt a constitution, elected temporary officers and a nominating committee was chosen for permanent officers to be elected at the next regular meeting.

The purpose of the club is to promote interest in politics, because many students will be voting in the next Congressional and presidential elections. Also the club will promote and discuss the Democratic platform at its meetings.

The club plans to sponsor several speakers, "Curley" Byrd and George Mahoney, who are running on the State Democratic ticket in the next election, will be two of the speakers.

Phi Sig, Zeta Lead Index

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity received the highest collective index, 1,312, of all the fraternities for the first semester. Lambda Chi placed second with a 1,287 index. In third place was the Kappa Alpha who had a ranking of 1,165. The Theta Chi's index was 1,120.

The leading sorority was Zeta Tau Alpha with a 1,619 index. The Alpha Chi's were second with a 1,632 and the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority had a 1,444.

Theta Chi Dream Girl

Ramona Willey, named Dream Girl of Theta Chi, receives a trophy from Bob Appleby, vice-president, at the annual dance on February 5

Stunt Night Set

For The Week-end

The annual Stunt Night, sponsored by the Senior Class, will be held in the auditorium this coming Friday, the 19th. Group acts and individual acts are the divisions for entrants, with the winner in each category receiving a trophy.

Mr. Norman James will again be master of ceremonies. Tickets for 50 cents will be on sale next week.

Besides the sororities and fraternities, other entrants so far have been Joe Seyman, Tom Steyer and John Parker, a quartet of Aldo Gallo, Bob Pickert, Peig Long, and Tom Darcy. John Newbold and Tom Hofstetter are in charge of arrangements.

W. C. Vies In Bridge Match

Washington College is one of the 172 colleges and universities throughout the United States which will compete this month in the 1954 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. Forty-four states and the District of Columbia are represented in the contest, it was announced by Lonnie D. Day, Jr., Director of Houston Hall at the University of Pennsylvania and Chairman of the Tournament Committee.

Between February 17 and 21, more than 4,000 men and women undergraduates in the United States will play on their own campuses the hands which have been prepared and mailed to them. These hands will then be scored by Geoffrey Mc-Smith, an authority and commentator, who will determine campus, regional and national winners.

Prizes Offered

ODK has recently started sponsoring dances on Sunday evenings. The first of the dances was held January 17 and was considered such a success that it seemed worthwhile to continue giving them. The admission was ten cents and cokes supplied the refreshments.

Tomorrow, Valentine's Day, another dance will be given, the admission being fifteen cents, with refreshments free. The dance will be stag or drag and a good opportunity to make new friends. Everyone is encouraged to come.

Football Ill Is Diagnosed As Financial

Idea of what to do about Washington College football were examined and discussed a week ago Friday at a meeting at which the Athletic Council, athletic department, administration, faculty, alumni, and students were represented.

If football were brought back to the W.C. campus, the college athletic budget would be almost doubled in the initial year, according to estimates by Director of Athletics Ed Athey and others.

Several theories concerning football and W.C. were expressed, discussed, and supplemented. Briefly, they are:

(1) The college should build its academic reputation, improve the physical plant, raise the faculty salary scale, and increase student enrollment—then start football when it can be afforded.

(2) W.C. should get football now in order to revive sagging school spirit, attract more students, and our other sports by the acquisition of all-around athletes that football brings, and arouse alumni interest to aid in procurement of funds needed for the Development Program.

(3) The school should build the sports program and teams it now has in order to raise the college's reputation and standards, attract more students and increase student and alumni interest—then get football when the school can better afford it.

The whole question boiled down to the financial situation. Many seemed encouraged to know that football is not abandoned, though the "when" and "how" questions present difficult problems to be solved.

Gripes Topics Of Council Meetings

Minutes of the last two Student Council meetings, showing assignments of the Council, have been released by Betty Ayres, secretary.

The regular meeting of the Student Council was called to order by the President, Bob Appleby, on Jan. 12, at 6:30 p.m. in the SGA room. The Council's "and Grievance" Committee reported as follows:

1) The plans in Hodson Hall will not be repaired. Mr. Dumichott has stated that the policy of the business office will be neither to repair or replace furniture or other things which are broken through student abuse.

Semester Index Rises; 32 Hit "Dean's List"

Chambers Plays For Sig Dance

Phi Sigma Kappa will be playing host to Rivers Chambers and his orchestra for their debut on the Washington College campus next Saturday night.

The occasion is the annual Phi Sig Moonlight Ball which is being held in the gym from 9 until 11. Rivers Chambers, hailing from Baltimore, has built quite a reputation for himself, according to observers. He is considered by many to have one of the best orchestras in that city.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Phi Sig Moonlight Girl. All decorations will be centered on that as a main theme. The candidates for the honor are Betty Ayres, Lee Harrison, Jack Booth Layne, Jennifer Dobbs, and Peggy Edwards. A ballot box has been placed in the Snack Bar for a student-wide vote.

The price of the tickets was set at two dollars stag or drag. They may be purchased from any member of the fraternity.

Mid-Winter Dance Follows Game, Tea

Various activities marked the mid-winter Reunion on the W. C. campus which took place on Feb. 6. As the alumni returned, they were greeted by the fraternities, who held open houses from 4 to 7 p.m.

The Pan-Hellenic Council sponsored a buffet luncheon in the Reid Hall lounge from 1:30 to 5. Sorority activities, pledges, alumnae, and friends attended the luncheon. Later, groups formed to chat, while others played bridge. Alpha Omicron Pi was in charge of the decorations; Alpha Chi Omega prepared the menu; Zeta Tau Alpha served the clean-up, group. The luncheon was a new idea for Homecoming and seemed to be favorably praised.

At 7:30, students and visitors cheered as the showmen defeated the Western Maryland Trojans, 64-50.

After the exciting Variety Club sponsored dance at the Armory from 9 until 11. Everyone danced to the music of Johnny Bennett while surrounded by a French cote theme. The Art Club furnished the decorations again this year.

The Washington Country Club was the scene of an open house for alumni and friends, beginning at 8:30. Old classmates met again and revived memories of their days at "good of W.C."

A coffee hour was held in the cafeteria on Saturday morning, sponsored by the Alumni Association in answer to the request for a place where alumni could informally relax on Sunday. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

The clubs and organizations, co-operated with the Alumni Association to make this mid-winter Reunion as well-rounded as possible.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The New York Chapter of the Washington College Alumni Association elected new officers on Sunday, January 31. George Stewart was elected President and Robert "Babe" Johnson, last Vice-President.

The overall college cumulative index rose from 1,191 in the first semester of last year to 1,217 the past semester, and thirty-two made the "Dean's List". Class averages varied only slightly from last year, with the freshman cumulative index being .91 of a point higher than last year's freshman class—918 over .917.

The "Dean's List", consisting of students who have acquired an accumulative index of 2,250 or over during a semester is a traditional honor roll prepared by the Registrar. Students who made the "Dean's List" this semester are enumerated below:

Wave Officer To Talk Here

Information on the WAVE Officer Program will be brought to Washington College on February 24, 1954, by Lieutenant Mary E. Mitchell, U. S. Navy, a representative of the Phillips Navy School of Naval Officer Procurement, according to a recent announcement from that office. Miss Mitchell will speak with those interested in this program in William Smith from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. The announcement promises two separate classes, one for juniors and one for seniors.

Juniors Eligible seniors may apply during their junior year and attend eight weeks of Basic Induction training at Newport, R. I. as Officer Candidates during the summer. Upon successful completion of their senior year they will be commissioned and will attend eight weeks of officer training at Newport, R. I.

SAY SO IN PRINT

Your campus newspaper is now under the direction of new editors. Our aims are simple—to bring you the campus news, keep you posted on sports happenings, and furnish you amusing or enlightening features. But, most of all, our purpose is to encourage you to air your views in these columns.

Students, you have exactly two official voices on this campus—Student Government and this newspaper. Why not use them both for effective results? Nothing can be accomplished by griping to your roommate and snack bar friends. So whether you have complaints, praises, proposals, or just plain peccs, say so in print!

WHY SNACK BAR?

There is no doubt that the social hub of the W. C. campus, has, for the last three years at least, been the Snack Bar. This is probably due to the fact that the Snack Bar was the only place on campus where students could gather and socialize—with the exception of Hodson Hall which is rather bare and uncomfortable at the present time. So through necessity and lack of better social facilities, students used the Snack Bar as their social gathering place, spending their money there in the process. Now the Snack Bar is to be closed every evening, a new policy begun this semester.

No official announcement or explanation has been offered to the students. The only rumor of explanation is that the Snack Bar is yielding only one per cent profit. If this is the case, the students certainly are not to blame. The failure must be elsewhere since the student body is patronizing the Snack Bar this year as in previous years. There must be a better solution to the problem than simply closing the place in the evenings. The only remedial measure that has apparently been taken was to raise the price of all sandwiches five cents—and still the Snack Bar remains closed at night.

Don't students have a right to expect certain conveniences on a college campus? And isn't a Snack Bar a necessity to a growing college plant? This is especially true in a community such as ours where drug stores and sandwich shops are very few and quite inconvenient. Only one store of this type is within logical walking distance of the college. More often than not it is overcrowded and students walk one block farther to what, from the viewpoint of parents and administration, is a much less desirable environment for college students.

It certainly seems that the problem warrants more concern and study of possible reasons for this lack of profit in the Snack Bar so that corrective steps can be taken. Both the students and the college would benefit from the re-opening of the Snack Bar in the evenings.

To Be Or Not To Be

WHAT is a philosopher? No one can actually answer that question without running into differences of opinion and arguments.

WHO is a philosopher? Well, one that is more like a poet. Plato, that is more like a philosopher. Aristotle, that is more like a philosopher. Plato, that is more like a philosopher. Aristotle, that is more like a philosopher.

Mr. Sutton drives from Johns Hopkins University to W. C. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in one of his four cars—an automobile. Driving is done only of necessity because Mr. Sutton feels auto is dangerous, expensive and time consuming.

Originally from Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. Sutton has traveled to receive his education from Denison U., Rhode Island College and Bowdoin College. He received his Doctorate at the U. of Cincinnati, and is now working for his Ph.D. in philosophy at Hopkins.

Although he has an actual hobby, Mr. Sutton is interested in everything.

One of the most outstanding features of W. C. which impressed him the most in his four year career was the "Lodish." At Westmont Prep. in Pennsylvania, Mr. Sutton played soccer himself as well as coached.

Washington is typical of small colleges in its unity and friendship, according to the new professor. He particularly likes small schools because they are conducive to better instruction. Both the student body and the administration are to his liking.

Incidentally, there is a tip to all present and future philosophy students—If you have a question about anything you don't understand—ASK IT! This may be the best way to get the benefit of the main obstacle in philosophy.

W. C. students welcome Mr. Sutton to their campus and sincerely hope that they will live up to the high reputation—which seems to have been a good one!

Spotlight On A Senior

Washington College was very fortunate in having John Palmer Newbold enroll as a student in 1950. Born in Holland Park, Mich., he later moved to Washington, D. C., and then to Baltimore, Md., where he was graduated from City College. On the W. C. campus, Johnny has been very active. He did much as vice-president of his class in his junior year, and is president of the present senior class. Recently he was appointed as a student government representative and was elected as house manager.

He is very interested in W. C. as a college, and its development in the future. His favorite hobby is automobiles, and anything connected with them—namely sports cars and racing. Although a major in Economics, John is also interested in Philosophy and Psychology.

Johnny, a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, who recently "lost" his pin, can usually be found on the arm of a golf wearing a big brown coat. At odd intervals, however, he hides his time by irritating professors, playing the oke or saying "Who knows but the okephlets," and in his "idle hours" he can be found promoting the Snack Bar.

After graduation, John hopes for fulltime employment with the Norelma Chemical Company, but Uncle Sam may have other plans for him. Known to everyone on the W. C. campus, "John Fox" is quoted as saying "Very popular, a great guy, a good leader, happy-go-lucky, a highly active in all college aspects, a hard worker."

John will be greatly missed next year. So once again "Good luck, John, in anything you may undertake."

Pure Culture

For only a dollar a book you get Bewell by A. Nostrom. Here is a tale from the pen of an author who is best in spring stories of intrigue, mystery, murder, and suspense. Who knows? What are the motives that drive the mad Bewell on to murder and mayhem.

The Aced by Virgil A tale of a kind love. See what happens when Venus, a sister with a girl in every way, finds in a snubbed girl who is the very best of her. Read the Lambda Case book that everyone is now whispering about.

Parade Lost by Jack Milano—Prime time here in an exotic setting. Two love, break all the laws. Witness the strange scene. Who is the Mystery Stranger? Who leads them to the forbidden? Compare with the famous battle scene.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Charles B. Clark will be one of the most speakers at a banquet at the Holy Ten Rooms to Westminster, Delaware, on Friday, February 19. The guests of honor at the banquet will be Dr. and Mrs. David A. Gordon and Mrs. and Mrs. J. Thomas Kibler. The guest speaker will be Dr. Ernest F. Hilt.

Flashlight Country

(By The Night Watchman)

The Night Watchman turned in his light this week and has quit his job, and from the talk that has been heard in the darker spots on the campus, a new and noisier person has been hired to dig in the dirt under the shady side of the Elm, so be careful, boys and girls, you'll be reading about yourself!

Over the past three weeks the Lambda Chis have really been going hog wild. Congratulations are in order to Bulky Sparks and Jane Colt on their engagement, a beautiful ring, Jane, and three more girls are wearing 'foo' pink William Barrett to Sondra Duvall, Rod Smith to Del Brinsford, and Jack Hunter to his Baltimore girl, Marge Dooly.

Apply the name 'sheel' in connection with your name, and you will do with an 'every sheel' does it, or does it? Or is it 'Emmy' does it? Fred Astaire had nothing on our own Jerry Levin and Giuseppe. Boys, you were too much at the Homecoming Dance.

And speaking of homecoming, many of the troops were in good spirit, and viceversa. Kaufman, what happened? We all thought Nemerov was fighting a losing battle. I guess we still have some gentlemen left around here, but I'll never know why! She is lovely.

Alpha Chi Omega

His semester started off with the return of Betty White as a member at American University, and one of our sisters transferring to Maryland. We greet Betty with open arms, but we are sorry to see Betty Blanton and B. A. Jones leave.

The pledges gave us a party at Mrs. Hoffacker's house with the theme central annual Valentine's Day. Homecoming was the return of Marlene Meyer, Pat Neighbor and Helen Roe.

The pledges are busily working on painting the sorority room before the annual visit of the Province President, possibly the National President. This year's date has been set for Feb. 15.

Later, we are having a card party for our patronesses. Congratulations to our sister, Jane Walk, on being pinned to a Lambda Chi, Bob Stahl.

Tech Chi

The brothers of Beta Eta welcome the new students on campus and are glad to see so many of the veterans survived finals.

Congratulations to Brother Tilley and his new brother who spent their new year in Florida.

We hope you all enjoyed the OX HOP and homecoming, and are now ready to settle down and pull up the lid ladies.

Congratulations are also in order for Brother being chosen Dream Art for 1954.

After our initial defeat in the intramural league, we are setting our sights on G.I. Hall in the playoffs.

We were extremely proud of Brothers Appleby, Ware and Tilley as they represented by who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

AOH

Welcome back Mary Lee—ex "Butch"!! It's great to see you around again.

Made has left W. C. to take up a home Economics course at Maryland U. We think the sudden change to ward domesticity might have been caused by Bill Stallings, whom we met at Homecoming—a great guy!

Helen MacNeil has also transferred to Maryland from DePue University out in Indiana.

We are sorry to lose Signi through graduation, but we know she'll be happy at successful school. Right now we hope she and her mother are enjoying their rest in Florida.

Congratulations to Jane and Rudy

Looks as though the "Number One" is one again?

The boys in Somerset have quieted down somewhat, so the word goes, at least. Look your voices, or is someone else louder?

All is at ease with the word game. Reid Hall's water is no longer cut off, and all the girls are again fresh as violets, and somewhat relieved, too, I imagine!

The AOHs beat the Zetas in its loss of sporting event, and it looks like two of them are beating out the Zetas. Now they are playing around with the Zeta's new found love, the 'foo' house. One has had experience though, so Sayler, watch the little Hula dancers and learn!

Howard, Louise starts next Monday, and by and large, you have been keeping in the best possible shape. Better give up this other sport, if she will let you.

Speaking of the greatest sport in the world, you freshmen have a lot to learn. Poor Dr. Anderson is doing his best to break the birds and bees' newsgenically to you, and you have been to run around the campus and tell everyone his classes are, pardon the word, sexy. Very poor taste, boys and girls, but you'll learn, and we haven't forgotten that you are new here.

WITH THE GREEKS

on becoming engaged. It's a beautiful ring, Jane!

John White was here for the Pan-Hellenic Open House on Monday night. White is in the Army now on a month duty in Germany. Lyn is mean while keeping the home fires burning in Haute de Grace.

Grace Irene was also on campus for the week-end.

We're out to defend our championship basketball title from last year, and we're looking for our opponent. Congratulations to our captain, Janet Middleton, and Sam Macera on being ringed!

Lambda Chi Alpha

The last party officially sponsored by the Brothers Chi Alpha was the annual Christmas party given in Baltimore on December 23. It turned out to be very successful after much deliberation on where it should be held.

Our latest pledges are Bob Brinsford, who pledged in the late part of October, and Ted Ichowski, who became one of us in November. We offer them both belated public congratulations. We would also like to congratulate Brother Howdy Davis for being honored with an O.D.K. tap. Two Brothers who have been with us for a semester are welcomed back. They are Dave Dougherty and Frank O'Key. Frank was participating in the educational program offered at American University for Political Science and History students. Dave attended the Honors Program for one semester but preferred to finish his education here at Washington.

We were glad to see some of our alumni return to the campus for Homecoming week-end and hope to see more of them in the near future.

ZTA

Well, here we are in a new semester and looking forward to many good times and things. First, our pledges are planning to celebrate our month of living freedom to the Zetas. It really comes up. The celebration is coming up soon, too. I think we can all fight a dinner at the Granary, but best of all our wonderful pledges will be in for sure.

Congratulations to Monte, B. F. and his family who all made the Dean's List. Also a "well done" to all the girls as we got the highest index for sororities on campus. Make that double congratulations to Monte and B. F., as they also achieved membership in S.S.O.

Bergen Leads Sho'men In Victory Over Terrors

By AL CRIMES

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By JERRY YUDIZKY

When one person takes over another's job, there is the old saying, "He has the person's shoes to fill." But in my case it's more of matter of having feet—or rather faces—to fill.

For my first assignment for this column I walked my non-athletic feet over to Room 30 in the library building to interview a person whose feet and over-all abilities have made him nationally known for his athletic feats.

Around the campus the name of Dr. Charles B. Clark seems to go together with just two things—history and lacrosse. At W. G. Dr. Clark has concentrated more on academic affairs rather than athletics, serving for six years as Dean of Men and currently as the head of the Department of History and Political Science. His only athletic duty has been coaching the Sho' stickmen. However, Dr. Clark has also tutored college basketball and lacrosse in Georgia, and high school soccer, track, basketball, and lacrosse in Maryland. Going back to his days of active participation on the playing field, he was a three-year member of Washington College's football team and a lacrosse man for four years, during which time he was honored on the All-Maryland first team.

Revising a sport after a fourteen year absence from a campus is no easy task, but in the return of lacrosse to this campus Coach Clark came up with an undefeated season which saw the Sho'men victorious in all of their eight engagements. However, Dr. Clark considers his '51 team as the best he's coached. This team went 1-3 for the year and was voted ninth best in the country, with Ben Wood being placed on the first string All-American team and Harry Kabernagel on the third. When you realize that Wood had no previous experience in the stick game, the All-American selection of the high scoring attackman exemplifies the coaching ability of Dr. Clark. In recognition of his fine tutoring, Clark was chosen assistant coach of the All-South team in '51 and last year led coach, directing the South to a 12-9 victory over the North. Two members of last year's squad, John Grim and Bill Russell, were on All-American teams, Grip the second, and Russell the third, and since '48 ten Sho'men have made the All-South team. The capable handling of these players, and a 60 won, 21 lost record over the seven year period have made Coach Clark one of the outstanding lacrosse mentors in the country.

Although both Grim and Russell graduated last June, there are more experienced personnel returning this year than there were at this time last year. It is with this fact in mind that Coach Clark is looking forward to opening another successful season in the near future.

"Sports are a very necessary and important part of college life," remarks the academic and athletic instructor. "But they must not interfere with the academic part, which must be given full consideration otherwise."

Clip Redbirds' Wings, 84-74

By JIM WRIGHT

Before a frenzied crowd of over 1,000, Coach Emerson Smith's Matrons and Black cats defeated the Cardinals of Catholic U., 84-74, last Wednesday, February 1, on the home's court.

Each team scored point for point in the freely moving first quarter ended in a 20-20 deadlock. The explosive offensive attack, led by George Hesse, Ed Silverie, and Jack Bergen, who totaled 19, 16, and 16 points respectively, Washington forged ahead at half time 35-20. Coach Midge Reilly's Red and Blue contingent continued to decline in the third quarter ended, 65-35.

Rebounding on important fast break points in the fourth quarter, the Sho'men maintained their ten point lead to 84-74.

Statistics proved that Washington's team was due to its superior ball shooting over previous games this season. Washington and the Matrons shot 38 percent of all shots, which was the best attack this season. Their free throw shots totaled 20 percent, second only to the total of 81 percent made by the Loyola's. Most of their shots, which Coach Smith observed to be a man to man defense, were especially effective in the second half when Cardinal defense weakened. Washington managed to freeze the ball during much of the fourth quarter, thus cutting down Catholic U.'s scoring opportunities.

Catholic U.'s forward, Dick Freeman, collected 25 points and high honors with his faking assortment of shots.

Football At Washington College?

Football at Washington College? Forget it—at least for the time being.

At a meeting held on Friday, February 5, the Washington College Athletic Council met with the Alumni Association, the faculty and representatives of the student body for the purpose of presenting these groups with the facts and figures on the operation of athletics at the college.

It arose from the results of the meeting that the return of the pigskin parade to the campus scene will not be a reality for at least a few more years.

Sho'men center Bob "Rock" Kardon grabs important rebound in turn-off against Terrors at "Rox" Ed Silverie, local forward, observes intense action. Washington brought happiness to a Homecoming crowd by gaining revenge with a sparkling 60 to 50 victory.

Intramural Race Tightens; G. I. Hall Still Undefeated

By DAVE SINGER

With intramural basketball two-thirds completed the top teams in the league are looking forward to hoisting their positions while the second place clubs are preparing themselves for the big push which will put them in the running for the play offs. At present the G.I. Hall quintet, with big Tom Jacobs keeping the pace, holds top honors in the league with five consecutive wins, going in the sixth game, Monday, February 8th, against second place Kappa Alpha at 8:30 p.m. This game will be a very important contest for both clubs, as a win for K.A. would tie them with G.I. for first place. The loss of Ed Boyd, who led the league in scoring with a 19.0 average, will be a severe handicap for the K.A.'s. At present there is a three-way battle between G.I. Hall, K.A., and third place Theta Chi for first place in the standings. The NY Stars, Lambda Chi and Somerset Hall in 6th, 5th and 6th place respectively, are fighting it out for the playoff position. Each of the teams with a 10 win record, are coached individually by students who are not members of the Varsity or Junior Varsity squads.

Semi-final playoffs will begin on March 2nd between the first and fourth place teams and second and third place teams. Only one game will be played for the semi-finals and the winners of these games will be eligible for the final playoffs. Final playoffs, begin on March 3rd and continue through March 10th in a two out of three game series. Each member of the winning team will be awarded a medal and the team's name will be recorded on the plaque which remains in Mr. Abern's office.

Schedule for the remaining games of the season:

- Monday, Feb. 15, 4:30—G.I. Hall vs. K.A.
- Tuesday, Feb. 16, 3:30—Lambda Chi B vs. Foxwell; 4:30—Phi Sigs vs. Lambda Chi A.
- Wednesday, Feb. 17, 4:30—Somerset Theta Chi.
- Monday, Feb. 22, 4:30 N.Y. Stars vs. Foxwell.
- Tuesday, Feb. 23, 3:30—Lambda Chi A vs. K.A.; 4:30—Lambda Chi A vs. G.I. Hall.
- Wednesday, Feb. 24, 4:30—Foxwell vs. K.A.
- Thursday, Feb. 25, 3:30—Lambda Chi B vs. Theta Chi; 4:30—G.I. Hall vs. Somerset.
- Monday, March 1, 4:30—Lambda Chi B vs. Phi Sigs.

Baltimore U. Next Host

Baltimore U., one of the top-teams in the Mason-Dixon Conference, plays host to the Washington College Sho'men on Feb. 17th at Baltimore. Baltimore U. is currently the leading team in scoring in the Mason Dixon Conference with an offensive average of 91.2 points per game, and also third in small college scoring in the country. In addition, they have a 43.9 field goal percentage which is first in the country among small colleges.

The high flying Bees, coached by young Al Babilonius, now hold a 10-4 overall record and a 6-1 M.D. record, their team excellence has having come at the hands of American U.

Both of the Bees' sharpshooters are from Baltimore City. Center, Roy Hall, 6'7", the leading scorer by B.U. hails from Baltimore City College. His high scoring partner, John Salvadore, hails from Southern High of Baltimore, and is a transfer from the U. of Maryland where he played on the freshman squad.

With height as the determining factor, Coach Emerson Smith will have to depend upon accurate shooting and good ball handling to offset B.U.'s towering team, which averages 67' per cent. The Sho'men rebounding power will thus come in the form of "Peg" Phares, along with freshman Lou Barberly and Bob Kardon. Jack Bergen, Ed Silverie, Ronnie Sack and Chae Haines will undoubtedly be called upon to add their scoring punch to the contest.

New Spring Gym Program

The following activities will be sponsored in the spring gym class here at Washington College: golf, tennis, badminton, and softball.

One objective is to teach every person to acquire training in activities which they can use as recreation later in life. It is not contemplated to use the local golf course but only to simulate the use of the football field in place of the golf course. A practice area on the west side of the athletic field will be constructed for use during class. The main objective of the class in golf will be to teach the correct uses of the various clubs at certain positions on the course.

The Sho'men of Washington College gave a large Homecoming crowd an exhibition of possession basketball and accurate shooting as they downed the Green Terrors of Western Maryland, 66-50 in a Mason-Dixon game. This avenged an earlier loss handed the Sho'men at Western Maryland, 72 to 55, and increased their season's record to 10 wins, 5 losses in M.D. action.

The Terrors scored first, taking the ball on the opening tip off and quickly converting it into two points. The Sho'men put themselves in the game with a set shot from the corner by Jack Bergen, 6'1" forward, who took top Sho' scoring honors with 21 points. The score changed hands five times in the initial period. The Sho'men tried to offset the shooting of the Terrors' ace, Al Bupst, who connected for five straight hook and jump shots in six attempts. Bopst led the attack for the Terrors as he collected 12 of Western Maryland's 15 points in the opening period. The period ended with the Terrors leading 13-15 as their three-zone defense offset the controlled ball handling attack by Washington.

The Sho'men came back in the second period fired up by Coach Emerson Smith as they soon shattered the opposition's defense and began to give the Terrors an idea of local collegiate competition. The Sho'men ran up a 32-29 halftime lead as they out-hunted and out-scored the visitors, 19-14, in the second period.

After intermission the Sho'men executed a line break at its best and soon had the visiting team in man defense of the Westminsters confused. The main attack of the Sho'men, which pulled up a 17 point lead during the third quarter, was led by Jack Bergen as he scored consistently with set and driving lay-ups. Accurate free-handers by freshman Bob Kardon, together with the jump shot of forward Ed Silverie aided the visitors' cause.

The first Washington substitutions came midway in the final period as starters Bob Kardon and diminutive guard George Hesse fouled out. The Sho'men completely controlled the ball during the last period until the final buzzer. The Terrors' test in their second string in the closing minutes as the Sho'men held a 16 point lead with Lou Gillis and Lou Barberly seeing limited action.

Al Bopst, of the Terrors, led the scoring parade with 21 points followed by the Sho'men's Jack Bergen with 21, Bob Kardon with 18, and Ed Silverie 18, respectively.

The box score follows:

Graduate School Opportunities

All graduating seniors are reminded that most graduate schools require that applications for graduate scholarships and fellowships must be submitted by some time in the spring. The deadlines vary with the institutions, some as early as February 15, others as late as April 1.

The Administration wants to encourage all qualified students to make application for admission and financial aid where it is necessary for financial aid. Students with information about scholarships and fellowships is available in my office. Any senior with an average of 2.00 or better should realize that graduate schools will give very serious consideration to an application from him for financial aid. Students with an average of 2.00 or better should realize that graduate schools will give very serious consideration to an application from him for financial aid. Students with an average of 2.00 or better should realize that graduate schools will give very serious consideration to an application from him for financial aid.

Financial aid is available in three forms. Scholarships are grants of payment of part or all of graduate school tuition. Assistantships are part-time teaching or research jobs which pay cash or allowances toward graduate school expenses, or both. Fellowships are grants which cover tuition costs and in addition supply the student with cash for his living expenses. Some fellowships are quite large, running as high as $1500.

Every student with any thought of graduate school in mind is urged to consult the administration or his faculty advisers at once.

for the college winning the national title, one cup for the college of the pair scoring highest on the East-West bands and one cup for the college of the North-South winners. Each of the four individual national winners will receive a smaller cup for his personal possession. Each college competing in the tournament for a place designed to bear the name of the four individual campus champions. In addition, a certificate suitable for framing. Letters in each of the nine national regions will be recognized and published.

National titles were won in 1952 by Purdue University on the North-South bands, and Princeton University on the East-West bands. The all-over college average was 1.177. The girls leading with an average in dex of 1.616. The boys' index was 1.125.

The senior class had the highest index on a class basis, a 1.614. The junior class next with a 1.526. Then came the sophomores with a 1.216. The freshman class placed last with an index of .518.

Only two students the first semester made a 3.00 index—Paul Fromm, a freshman, and John Minnow, a Lambda Chi.

Gripes Topics Of Council Meetings

2) Speaker systems will not be placed in the men's dormitories this year since they would be too expensive.

John Newbold reported a meeting of the disciplinary committee.

Ken Bloom and Mel Wintfield presented a plan for a modified unlimited cut system designed to encourage voluntary attendance and to improve academic standards through elimination of courses in which no essential material is offered to the student in classroom lectures. A student petition with 230 signatures was received requesting a revision of the cut system.

It was moved and seconded to present to the faculty at its next meeting to respect and arguments for the following system:

Junior and seniors with an accumulative index of 1.25 will have unlimited cuts.

Upperclassmen who do not have the required index (to be calculated each semester) and all freshmen and sophomores will continue under the present cut system. The motion was carried.

It was moved and seconded to circulate a petition for student signatures in support of the Council's request to be permitted to the faculty in conjunction with the original petition. The motion was carried.

The committee appointed to discuss the problem of students leaving the campus on week-ends reported that freshmen women dormitory students will be allowed 7:00-10:00 p.m. during privileges on Friday evening for the second semester. A plan to open fraternities houses to women students at specified times without chaperones is pending approval.

Committee members Ken Bloom reported concerning the conditions of cleanliness and noise in the men's dormitories. John Newbold was appointed to hold a discussion with the G.E. Hall residents to work out a suitable plan for improvement of these conditions.

Concerning a complaint about ice on campus walks and steps, the Complaints and Grievances Committee reported that students volunteering their services may obtain tools in the store located on the first floor of Bill Smith Hall.

A request for revision of the procedure for removing class officers from the Council was referred to the By-Laws and Amendments Committee.

Dean Doyle submitted a suggestion that a representative committee of the Council should be formed to meet at regular times with the Dean or the faculty. This was felt unnecessary since the Dean and faculty members are free to call upon the Council members at any time.

The meeting was adjourned.

Latest Session

The regular meeting of the Student Council was called to order by the President, Bob Appleby, on Feb. 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the SGA room.

The By-Laws and Amendments Committee reported concerning the removal of class officers from the Council that the students may petition the Council for class elections at any time.

The treasurer reported a balance of $116.04.

The Executive Committee reported that Freshman Class Elections will be held on Feb. 17 and 18. Petitions must be in by noon of the 15th and will be posted on the 15th. John Richley was appointed to ask three faculty members.

Violinist Featured At A Concert

Miss Blanche Tarpis presented a concert in Williams Smith auditorium last Thursday at both the assembly and regular concert hours. According to publicity reports, Miss Tarpis has been acclaimed as one of the best violinists in Europe, ever since she made her debut at the age of seven. She has been praised by such great musicians and violinists as Yehudi Menuhin.

Miss Tarpis has won many musical awards, including the International Competitions at Geneva and at Varese in 1952. She has been the violin soloist with the Paris Conservatory Concert Assembly, the Cologne Concert Assembly, the Paideupolein Concert Assembly, and the London Philharmonic Orchestra. Miss Tarpis has been on tour of the United States during January and February.

Recommended May Test

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 14—Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1955 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May. These tests, required of applicants for admission to medical colleges throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 6, 1954, or on Monday, November 1, 1954, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to medical schools starting in the fall of 1955 take the May test.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from the admission officers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 292, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 21 and October 18, respectively, for the May 8 and November 1 administrations.

It was moved and seconded to resolve into a committee of the whole. The motion was carried. Plans for allowing women students in the fraternity houses were discussed. It was moved and seconded to return to former status. The motion was carried.

A committee consisting of Dr. Gibson, Dean Doyle, Dean Bradley, Mr. Padgett, Mr. Foster, Miss Travers and Mr. Wilhelm was invited to join in a discussion of the plans. A committee of John Newbold, Ann Grim, and Sandra Duvall was appointed to discuss the problem with members of the Women's League and to present a working plan to the Council.

John Newbold was appointed to replace Spence Latham as Chairman of the Complaints and Grievances Committee.

The meeting was adjourned.

Congratulations to Soudra again! She got pinned during last semester's vacation. "Oh, I'm so embarrassed," our "Little Del" got pinned, too. Good luck to both of you.

K.A.

The K.A. order has, unfortunately, been broken due to the recent February graduations. Spence Latham and Ely Boyd. Because of the loss of these brothers, temporary officers had to be installed. They were Arden Fox, Al Al Brema IV, and Chan Chapman V.

The K.A. basketball team won more of its intramural games this past week by defeating Phi Sigma Kappa. The entire order is looking forward to a playoff berth and possibly the championship. Going from sports to academics, the order came up with a 3.4 index for the semester. Two boys—Spence Latham and Al Brema with a 2.3 and 2.22 respectively—made the Dean's List. Joe Geisler just missed with a 2.00. Al deserves special mention for his outstanding work. He was carrying 50 hours of work last semester and still came up with that 2.22 index.

Last Monday K.A. held its formal rush party at the Ranch. Needless to say, its outcome was a successful one.

"Until such time as it is possible to return football to the athletic program, it is the hope of the council that there can be a general cancellation of the other sports. The $250,000 for a field house, restored this week to a state capital bond bill, should prove a big step in improving the caliber of basketball teams.

"Washington College has not turned its back on football and its return can be hastened by the way the students, alumni and friends support other sports and activities to the end that the college will prosper and thus make the revival of the great college sport a certainty."

Gives Figures On Enrollment

Twenty-seven new students, nineteen boys and eight girls, have enrolled in college for the second semester, according to the registrar. Only two of these are full-time students, for the other five are special students.

The total enrollment for the college now stands at 572 students, of which there are 265 boys and 107 girls. The gross enrollment for the school this year is 619.

Eight seniors graduated in February. They are Elsworth Boyd, Ed Whaley, Willard McGinnis, Clam Camme, Sue Stalling, Spence Latham, Louis Fox, and George Daniels.

Freshman Prospect

This week's spot spotlight falls on G.I. Hall's all-around athlete, now headed Tom Jacobs, who is currently playing the undefeated intramural basketball squad.

The 6'7", 175 pound freshman from Belair, Maryland, where he attended North Hartford High School and excelled in basketball, baseball, soccer and track. He co-captained the basketball team in his senior year and paced the club with 214 points in 17 outings for a net 12.5 average. For his efforts he was selected to the Harford County All-Star team. Being a scorer seems to come natural to Jacobs since he currently holds the intramural record for the most points scored in a single game this year with 34 counters, that being against the Phi Sigma Kappa franchise.

While at North Hartford he also played third base on the school's diamond nine, bating a substantial .333 was fullback on the soccer team and active in the broad jump and discus in track.

Although studies come first with Tommy, he has not given up sports completely. He was on his year's soccer team, and come spring, he'll be battling for a starting berth on the college nine at third base, under the guidance of mentor Tom Kibler.

Phi Sigs, Quartet Cop Stunt Awards

Phi Sigma Kappa and a quartet of Aldo Gallo, Bob Pickett, Pete Long, and Tom Darcey won the annual group and individual talent program awards, respectively, on Friday, Feb. 19, in the auditorium. The two winners received trophies from John Newbold, president of the senior class, which sponsored the event.

The Phi Sig skit featured a symphony orchestra playing in pantomime. "The Unhappy Four," as the quartet was billed, sang "Be Prepared" and "The Old Dope Peddler."

M. C. Norman, "Doc" James was given much credit by the audience for his humorous fill-ins between the acts, which included: Phi Sig's winning act, the Alpha Chi production, "The Railroad's Look at W.C., or Life On The Right Side Of The Tracks," the first independent act of the evening, "Come Back Little Albert," starring John Parker and Don Steynen; Theta Chi's "How To Rate Your Date," AOPF "I'll And All That"; "The Unhappy Four's" zesty alyp number, "Our Proper Cloz"; Walter MacMillan's Joe number; and finally the Lambda Chi skit, "The Bad And The Beautiful."

Several of the in-between act numbers included: "Doc" James, "Deacon" Owens and Joe Keller in "Three Little Maids From School," a selection from Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore," Sam Macera, and Chuck Foley in a singing combination entitled, "Kenny's Cuckoo"; President Newbold with an interrupted bedtime tale; Pete Long at the piano; an impromptu singing number, "Titanic," led by Jerry Levin. The latter took place while the audience waited for the judges' decision.

Ayres Stars In "Candida" March 5, 6

It's only one week until Columbia University's production of "Candida," by Bernard Shaw. Directed by Deac Owings, the play is well on the way to scoring a winter hit according to observers. "Candida" is set in England at the vicarage of the Rev. James Maynard (Jack Donich), a distinguished Anglican minister, a moralist, and an idealist. Constantly conflicting with him is his father-in-law, Burgess (Aldo Gallo), a rustic old reprobate who considers himself a pompous "wind-bag." In the title role plays Ayres plays Candida, Maynard's beautiful young wife, sweet and loving on the outside, but cold and calculating underneath. Her personality is dynamic and she realizes her ability to mold the lives of others to her own ends.

Others Cast

Lexy (Al Condelio) is Morella's emcee, the exact opposite of his superior, a light-hearted young clergyman who does not take too seriously his ministerial duties. Floundering in his own insecure world is Marchbanks (Jim Metcalf), an effeminate young poet who adores Candida and falls in love with her. Frusky (Barbara Townsend) is Morella's hush, selfless secretary, an efficient and somewhat frustrated young woman.

The plot shows a fascinating interplay of personalities with Candida, couching each character in the tapestry of her grace, tact, and cunning. Tickets may be purchased in the South Bar or from any member of the Players. The play is at 8:30 in Hall South Hall next Friday and Saturday nights, March 5th and 6th.

Padgett, Ware In ODK; William Howell Speaks

Omicron Delta Kappa Honorary Leadership Fraternity held its taping ceremony on Thursday, February 18, in William Smith Auditorium. In the two new members tapped were Rod Ware, one of Washington College's outstanding students, and Mr. Edward R. Padgett, local Assistant Professor of History and Political Science. Guest speaker for the occasion was William Rabon Howell, Emeritus Professor of Economics and Sociology at Washington College.

Mr. Howell spoke primarily on the importance of education. He stressed the following points: (1) Education is necessary for citizenship duty is connected with personal rights and freedom has limitations. (2) Education is important in obtaining knowledge and skills. He also stated that every person should have at least one skill.

He also spoke of five important principles that children should know and learn while still young. (1) A child should learn the importance of self-control and will power. (2) He should learn to develop tolerance. (3) Respect for the truth is a must. (4) The keeping of promises is a person's importance throughout a person's life.

F.T.A. Hears Italian Woman

The F.T.A. sponsored a talk and discussion by Dr. Aldina Movilli from Florence, Italy, on Thursday, February 18. Dr. Movilli is a friend of Dean Doyle's and it was he who secured her for the group. Miss Movilli is in the United States under a teacher-exchange plan whereby she and other teachers observe American public education for six months. She has been here since September.

At the meeting, Miss Movilli contrasted the systems of education in the United States and in her own country. The most important difference is that Italian children are only compelled by law to attend school to the age of 14.

Fraternities Pledge 29

From the forty-six eligible men who had a 73 or better, the fraternities pledged 29 on February 16. Thirty-six of these had an initiating index, which is a 1.00 or better.

Lambda Chi Alpha received the highest number of pledges which was nine. Theta Chi followed closely with eight, next was Kappa Alpha with seven. Phi Sigma Kappa pledged five.

Lambda Chi pledged freshmen Francis Caporaso, John Kruse, Charles Foley, Allen Gomez, John Kenney, Sam Macera, Robert Pfeiffelmann, and Roy Pippin. A senior, John Justis, made the total nine.

New pledges for Theta Chi are Pete Barrow, Barry Brito, Edward Campbell, Thomas Ebanue, Joseph O'Malley, all freshmen, and Joseph (Jimmie) George Hesse, Ebe Joseph, and Lou Morris.

One freshman joined the K.A.S., Elmer Huthings, while their largest numbers were in upperclassmen: Robert Boyd, Jack Daniel, Ronald DeFeice, J. Aldo Gallo, Wayne Gruelin, and Stewart Young.

Pledges for Phi Sigma Kappa were three freshmen, Donald Bonie, Donald Messenger, and Jerome Vukobrat, and two upperclassmen, Roger Kihart and Augie Werner.

Messenger, Foley Elected To Council

On Friday, February 19, elections were held for the representatives of the freshmen class to the Student Council. Of the four candidates, Chuck Foley, Don Messenger, John Metcalf, and Dave Singer, two were chosen. The two freshmen elected were Chuck Foley and Don Messenger. Chuck Foley lives in Darlington, Md., and before coming to Washington College he attended Reister High School. The second member elected, Don Messenger, comes from Federalsburg, Md. Both representatives hope to do their best to benefit the students of Washington College.

Washington College celebrated two anniversaries last Monday — George Washington's birthday and the 172nd anniversary of the founding of the college. It was again time to realize how closely the first President was connected with our college in its early days. W.C. is unique among American institutions of higher learning in being the first school to which Washington gave his name. Washington also gave fifty guineas for its financial support and in 1791 became a member of the Board of Visitors and Governors. Washington's first honorary degree was conferred on him by W.C. after he was elected President.

Spring Convocation opened with an academic procession in William Smith Hall. Dr. Gibson presented the Rev. Mr. Hudson, pastor of First Methodist Church, who gave the invocation, and guests joined in singing "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past." Then Dr. Gibson introduced Dr. Neil H. Swanson, executive editor and vice-president of the "Baltimore Evening Sun" until last year, and an eminent writer and novelist.

Dr. Swanson spoke on "Washington, Master of Adversity" and unveiled a new portrait of our first President. He felt that in their devotion to Washington, Americans have almost defied him. They have made him good, imperfect, and perfect and lost sight of the qualities that truly made him great.

The distinguished orator pictured Washington as a man of dignity with great faith in himself — one who did not always put his trust in those who most deceived it, who was fired by his intense ambition and endowed with fierce determination. His Washington to the very human person who, as general, diplomat, and politician, made many mistakes and did not always profit by them. This Washington flourished in the Ohio Valley, at the Battle of Brooklyn Heights and at the Battle of Red Bank, and at Morrisville and Valley Forge. A target of abuse during our country's youth, he was often insulted and censured by his contemporaries.

The real George Washington was a man subject to human frailties, and yet was a source of inspiration. To Dr. (Continued on Page 4)

Sixteen Play Bridge Match

Sunday afternoon, February 21, the annual National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament was held for the first time on the W.C. campus as eight teams competed in the basement of Hodson Hall. Bridge teams from other colleges all over the country participated on their respective campuses.

Each pair of contestants played 16 different hands, keeping a record of the contract, number of tricks taken, and the card winning each trick. Scores were sent to the national headquarters at the University of Pennsylvania. The results of the contest will be known on March 15.

Those participating in the local contest were Dick Weller and Ted Kishnowski; Rod Ware and Bob Lipitz; Jack Winkler and Jess Willard; Chuck Covington and Bill Clarke; Palmer Hughes and Bob Powell; Joe Keller and Dot Willis; Ramona Wiley and Bob Appleby; Jay Gushung and Esther Gould.

The contest director at W.C. was Alumnus Bill Murray.

THE OLD COLLEGE SPIRIT

Stunt Night, by far the most successful social activity of the year, is certainly an effective answer to those ever-present pessimists who say, "The trouble with this school is that there's no college spirit." A school is as spirited as its students make it; no more, no less. And here lies the secret of the success of Stunt Night. Almost every student on campus was, in some way, connected with one of the various organizations competing.

The seniors, under John Newbold, deserves a pat on the back for planning and managing the successful affair. Stunt Night, a tradition handed down to each succeeding senior class, should be that class's major social responsibility. Let's hope that there is never a year in which W.C. students cannot participate in a Stunt Night.

The faculty also took an important and active part in Stunt Night. "Doc" James initiated everybody on campus and finally reserved his to Jimmy Duranite act. Mr. James was a clever and amusing host for the evening. The four persons who had the difficult task of deciding which skits should receive the cups were Miss Hartman, Dr. Mott, Mr. Padgett, and Mr. Anderson.

But most of the credit for a successful Stunt Night goes to the six organizations and several individuals who took part in the program. There was evidence of long and hard practice, artistic staging, careful skit construction, and authentic costuming. The calibre of the acts this year was decidedly higher than previously. If, to some eyes and ears, a few of the lines seemed a bit risqué, just chalk it up to this modern generation's broad-minded (?) sense of humor.

Audience response and participation was far above average. Led by Pete Long at the piano, the entire house joined in singing everything from "Dixie" to "It Was Sad When That Great Ship Went Down".

To coin a worn-out, corny phrase—a good time was had by all.

Hi gung . . . my name is Nosey Ned, and believe you me, I do know . . . about you, Mac and Joanne. "Dear Jane" here and a "Dear Joe" there. Congratulations to both of you.

And about a certain freshman girl who doesn't know good "social" math—two's company, three's confusion—or do you have your mind set on higher math, geometry and . . . the triangle?

Say Jellie, understand you were almost tailed out of a date last Saturday night. The "trick" must have been derailed, or it never would have happened . . . right Robert?

Incidentally, the Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Ball was really great! And to you, Kay Booth, the new Queen, a nod of the nose in the way of congratulations.

And while I'm handing out compliments: some to the persons of Parker and Lincoln for winning the "couching out" award. Methods such stimulus took months of skillful preparation.

Speaking of Lincoln, Claire, which is it, the forementioned or a Ford convertible. And while I'm thinking of you, I saw you holding hands with W.C.'s most eligible bachelor on the front steps of Hobson Hall last Saturday.

Anne, old pat, I really think you should have won one of those cups on stunt night. But why couldn't you read from the book, or did that red nightgown have you captivated?

Quote of the week—"It never fails, every time I get a good manager, (strictly Dr. Clark's opinion); they fall in love or something and really go to pot."

Question of the week—Why are there no K. A. chapters at the North Pole? Not solely because of the climate, but because the boys wouldn't be able to get hold of any red noses. About this Grim and Horrid cause and a certain card party, seems as though these two were so busy with their own get together, they didn't notice the other.

By the way, Kelling, hear tell you're in the market for a new alarm clock. I know of a Bell on campus that would gladly help you make it on time.

And—what innocent announcement in Hobson backfired and had the Zeta's blushing that week? You shouldn't take such obviously prejudiced fans so seriously, girls.

You think I don't know about happenings around the campus? Well, no matter how hard you look you'll never find ole Nosey Ned.

Phi Sig's . . .

son, Mr. Padgett, Miss Huck, and Miss Hartman, after deliberating their decision, agreed that the acts were indeed difficult to judge.

The general consensus of opinion was that this year's Stunt Night was one of the best ever witnessed by Washington College students.

A Daughter Returns

This week's faculty "star" ends a series of articles on the new campus pedagogues. We think you'll agree that they are a well-qualified and personable group of people, and hope that we have brought them closer to you through our brief introductory articles.

Miss Covey, however, has already met and been well received by the W.C. public. You will remember her piano recital last November at one of the most successful assemblies of the year. Her program included such works as Chopin's Etudes in A Flat and F Minor, and his Prelude in F Major; Debussy's The Minstrels; Lento by Cyril Scott; The Little White Dove; Fox Folks by Phillips and Ballet Music from Ophelia by Gluck—this variety alone is perhaps indicative of her versatility and virtuosity. Miss Covey has attained much of her musical skill by working independently, but incidentally, she studied under our own Miss Russell as a student at W.C. She speaks of Miss Russell as a teacher with great affection and respect.

In spite of her talent, Miss Covey considers music as merely a hobby—she has long been absorbed in the teaching of mathematics. After graduating from Washington College, she studied for two years at the School of Pure Science of Columbia University.

Spotlight On A Senior

A very important person on the Washington College campus is Robert F. Stahl. As editor of the 1953 Penguin, Bob's main interest at the moment is to get the dummy to the printer and have the "yearbook look better we leave for our summer vacation.

Born and raised in North Hills, a suburb of Philadelphia, Bob has lived there all his life, and was graduated from a local school—Abington High. During his four years at Washington his main interest has been journalism, in which he has done extensive work as circulation and business managers of the Elm and the Penguin. But Bob is also photographer. One can often find him trying to line up the time and place for a picture—usually snapped by Joe Keller for either of the campus publications. Naturally, his journalistic talent makes him a valuable member of the Board of Publications.

His favorite hobby includes sports in general, with golf taking a great part of his time in his season. This year he holds the post of assistant manager for the Indian Signum—a very lively lettering team. He is an active member of Lambda Chi Alpha, secretary for the fraternity at present. All his pastimes, however, seem to involve one Jane Wells, who wears his pin.

Working in physics, Bob has been a lab assistant for the past two years, and would like to go into industry after graduation.

Good luck, Bob, and we hope to get that Penguin.

THE OPPOSITE SEX

If you're FEMALE read this

If you're MALE read this

(If you're smart read both)

The men of W.C. seem to study like men all over the world. They can be classified as brawlers, shy, shrews, brains, rightwings, line handlers, concited, etc. A little bit of each characteristic is found in the best of men. Therefore, I will try to picture them for you.

The concited boy is such a nutty because of his looks but because of anything. Usually no girl is good enough for him, or if they are he would never let them know. Of course he must tell you of all his "conquests", never mentioning the ones who failed to give him a rumble.

The star can be seen strutting around the campus with all of his letters, medals, and honors showing and waving to all of his fans. He makes sure you know how many pets he scored, but he'll probably never tell of the mistakes.

The tightwad will hold on to his last penny 'til the day he dies. He can't see spending money on a girl—just he'll go and spend twice as much. Sometimes if you're lucky he'll let you go drinks, but don't count on it. He thinks he's smart to hold on to his money, but one thing's for sure—he can't get a thrill out of kissing a dollar bill!

Then there's the boy with a story. Usually a sob story of how nobody loves him, or of how so and so broke his heart, or of how he's not good enough for anyone. He bores you to tears—but not for him . . . It's a chance with this doll, and of course, ball stars are her favorite—during season.

The girl with a girl at home and one at school plays a dangerous game. Sometimes he lets the two know about each other, but most of the time he'll just burn the candle at both ends—and he's the one who usually gets burned!

The bragger will boast about anything from how many pitchers he can consume to how many girls he's taken. Then of course there's the show-off who'll brag you on the back anytime. He usually thinks you're laughing with him, not at him. Line handlers can be found almost anywhere. They'll lead you to believe you're the greatest thing on earth. But just try to cross them and you'll find out the awful truth. And of course the brain is too busy to dance and the shy boy is just too shy . . . Then some boys . . . well, we won't go into that.

I could go on for hours like this but as space is limited I'll leave you with this one little thought: Just be glad they're not all perfect—for if they were, can't you see how dull the world would be? Not only that, you would never get along, for just think . . . There's a little bit of you in each one of them.

Culture Corner

I heard the freshmen were having trouble with their Spanish so I have compiled a list of English derivatives that are used in every day language and should be used considerably: menor—menor women invited around—25 cents; sentir—I was sent by Mr. Jones.

poner—your penis being pressed; molestar—no relation to Jerry Lewis; mil—eat three of these daily; indicar—I told you to wait indicat—distinguishing—and daring desire—first class it, desire it, indicat—he missed it too

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By JERRY YUDIZKY

In each issue of the Elm this page features an article on the freshman prospect of the week. I hope I'm not stepping out of bounds by discussing a person whom I consider the freshman prospect of the year.

Last spring's graduating class at Easton High School consisted of boys and girls, most of whom were at the southern shore school for four years. Although he didn't receive a diploma, or wear a cap and gown, or participate in the graduation ceremony, our prospect "graduated" from Easton High after spending six years there. (W.C. he doesn't have to worry about dean slips or Dean's Lists, as you have probably guessed by now, this isn't just another ordinary student.

Emerson Smith is a student in the field of coaching athletics, having his six years at Easton High he piloted his basketball five, 68 victories, losing 39 tilts. Still more spectacular is the record of his track and field teams which won the State Championships during each of the six seasons. In his freshman year of college coaching he has done a commendable job molding the cross-country and basketball squads. That short, short hair cut of his is probably to prevent him from pulling too many of his hairs out during the many tense moments in those close games his hoopers have been engaged in recently. Lacking the team height for a free scoring style of game, Coach Smith has developed a successful possession style, with the players setting up the better shots and thus increasing the percentage of their shooting. This type of game was responsible for holding Baltimore U., one of the highest scoring small college teams in the country with an average of over 100 points per game, to 67 points in a one point overtime win over the Shoremen on the Bee's home floor. There's no rest for the weary, whether be a freshman student studying for one blue book after another or a freshman coach going from one sport to another. As soon as the first season ends, Coach Smith will find his time occupied by the indoor track and field squad which has already begun practicing.

For his academic studying, Emerson Smith attended the schools in his home town of Kent, Ohio, where he also received his college D.S. at Kent State College. In high school he made the All-Metropolitan teams in basketball, track, and football in the Ohio Valley. During World War II he was a chief specialist in athletics during his four years with Uncle Sam's Navy.

Washington College has made one particular impression on the coach, that he would like to see corrected next year. That impression is that the school is not backing its teams with the spirit that it should. A team will play much better, more inspired ball if it has the whole student body in the stands cheering it on. Only half of a cheering section doesn't encourage the players to do their best. With the experience of his first year of college tutoring behind him, and the prospect of greater student support and interest in the various athletic events, Emerson Smith is quite confident of overcoming the popular "Sophomore Jinx" that is commonly associated with the field of athletics.

Stickmen Gain Speed

by Jim Wright

Many still-timbered (and aching in the place or another) individuals on the campus between the fact that, since February 15, the baroque team has been having the rigors of two hours of daily practice on Killebrew.

The practice drill, as-Chalk, consists of running exercises, calisthenics, drills in fundamentals, and full field drills. Despite those mutans and thons and awkward Hobson-bound at 7 a.m., a high point of enthusiasm has been reached by the group, numbering thirty-five. The team is fortunate in having back Dick Weller, Bob Lipke, Stan Goldenstein, John Howard, John Parker, Mickey Dimaggio, George Foster, "Monie" Blair, Bob Appleby, Frank "Mule" Jones, Bill Barnett, Dick Norris, and Bob Stevens. Several new men, with previous experience, are competing, chiefly for first string slots; namely, Dick Cannell, Roy Phipps, Berkeley Emerson, Dick Latham, and Emory. Players with no previous experience, who are making strong bids, are Jerry Levin, John Kruse, Sam Matara, Dick Cain, Pete Barrow, and Jesse Teres.

The team will work out at Mt. Washington in Baltimore and scrimmage Johns Hopkins during spring vacation. Coach Clark feels certain that a successful season is in store, provided the team lives up to its capabilities.

Indoor Track Meet Under The Weather

W.C. recently completed what must have been the shortest season for a competitive sport in this school's history—possibly in the history of national collegiate athletics. A track team was organized in an attempt to bring back to the Shore hardwood tracks that have been absent from the local scene for too many years, but when the day came for the team to leave for their only scheduled meet of the year, which was to have been held in Washington, D. C., they found themselves snow bound to the campus, unable to make the trip. In many sports there have been occurrences "Game called because of rain" (re-scheduled to a later date) or "W.C. indoor track attempt you might say" "Season called because of snow" postponed till next year."

Greyhounds Nip Sho'men

by Allen Grimes

The Greyhounds of Loyola College of Baltimore rallied in the second half of last Monday's tussle to nip the Sho'men 41-38 in a Mason-Dixon Conference game. The victory gave Loyola a 8-2 conference record and a firm grip on the second place slot.

The Sho'men outplayed the invaders during the initial period, holding them to 10 points, while collecting 15 themselves. The scoring was spread evenly between the players with forward Jack Bergen and guard George Hesse each collecting a basket and two foul shots to lead the way.

Joe Hittelman, an scorer for the Greyhounds and leading M-D scorer, began to show his skill in the second period as he put in four field goals and three foul lay 41 points. The Greyhounds entered the third period 24-18 in the second period to cut their lead to only two points at halftime.

The third period proved to be the undoing of the Maroon and Black as the superior heights of the Greyhounds began to pay off. The Hoards controlled the backboard during the period and built up an 8-point lead, which the Sho'men were never able to overcome. The period ended with the Greyhounds leading 50-47.

The injury to the Sho'men team by the loss of Ronnie Sisk in the third period was added to when Bob Kardou lost out at the beginning of the fourth period. This left Washington in the hole for height while Loyola still had "G" Jerry Chadwick to control the backboard. The Sho'men tied the game at 56-56, but were thrown by Joe Lary and Don Wheatley returned the lead to Loyola. Washington brought the score to 60-58 when Loyola took time out. Loyola couldn't get the ball in on time and with ten seconds to go Washington took control of the ball. Jerry Chadwick was fouled as he tried to start the ball game, but the Sho'men sank his first free throw to give the Greyhounds a 61-58 lead. He missed his second but the rebound was taken by Wheatley who threw it down court where Loyola held it till time ran out.

Theta Chi, G.I. Are Choices

G.I. Hall and Theta Chi are two favorites to capture the Intramural Basketball playoffs to be held on March 5 and 4 in a two out of three game series. Remaining ahead of G.I. is second place Theta Chi with 6 wins and one loss. It is expected the OX men will offer G.I. the most severe test of skill and stamina the league leaders have faced thus far this season.

Currently running in third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth places respectively are K.A. NY Stars, Summer, Foxwell, Lambda Chi, Hattie's Trojans, and Phi Sig.

The season has been successful from the standpoint of both sportsmanship and enthusiasm on the part of the players and the organizations whom they represent. To Coach Ayles more credit is due for the excellent way in which he has managed the tournament.

Girls' Intramural Sports Continues

The girls' intramural basketball competition, under the supervision of Miss Doris Bell and the G.I.A.A., got underway on Feb. 9 after two weeks of practice. Teams participating are Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha, Alpha Chi, Zeta Phi Beta, and Non-Sorority. At the end of the competition, members of the G.I.A.A. board will elect the honorary girls' varsity which is made up of the best players of each team. The members of the board are: President Marion Waterman, Janice Palmer, Ann Grin, Sarah Sachs, Nancy Neuman, Doris Hall, Priscilla Dunsmuth, Jane Golt, Emily Dryden, Janet Middleton, Marilyn Cook, Kay Cusack, and Joan Wheeler.

Playoff Berth Hangs In Balance

The local basketball squad will take on Randolph-Macon tonight in hopes of nothing another Mason-Dixon Conference victory. The game is slated to get under way at 8:30 p.m. with the Jayves scoring action in the preliminary contest at 6:45 p.m.

Randolph-Macon is one of the few teams with whom the locals travel only once during the regular season, but if the score of last year's game and team records can be used as a measuring stick, the game tonight should prove to be a down to the wire battle.

Last year the locals traveled to Randolph-Macon and proved to be very impetuous guests by defeating the Mason-Dixon rival, 78-66. This year with the college quelling play host, the R.M. basketballers will be out to turn the tables.

As far as the season records go, neither team is spiriting too good a leg. The Smithmen, up to and including the Loyola game, are in a league competition and a 6-40 overall record. Randolph-Macon, as of last week, boasted a 17 record in league battles and in their overall record showed 7 wins against 11 setbacks. Coach Smith will be counting on the Loyola game to be used as a measuring stick, and his one-time scoring punch, Ed Silver and Jack Bergen to help bring home the bacon tonight. Ed Silver and Bergen are currently pacing the club in the scoring department with 12.5 and 12.3 averages respectively.

Tonight's game will probably feature Silver and Bergen at the top of the frontcourt and Jack and George Hesse handling the back court chores. Leo Gills and Clark Haines also play with Bob Appleby should bring forth a strong performance.

The following is a rundown of the top scorers of the club which includes the Loyola game played Feb. 22. In the scoring department, Ed Silver and Jack Bergen are running neck and neck for the honors, while Clark Haines holds the best percentage with 21 out of 26 tries for an 80% average.

Jays Triumph

Coach Emerson Smith's Maroon and Black saggers were stopped by Johns Hopkins U., 66-61 before one thousand Hopkins fans in Baltimore last Saturday, Feb. 20.

Spurred on by Ed Habetman and Jay Yakushin, Coach Bob Hittelman's Jays got going in the second half, led by Ronnie Sisk sank Washington's first basket. After dropping behind 12-14, the Sho'men, with Bob Kardou's under-the-basket work, managed to fight back to within 15-15 as the quarter ended. The second half was a bit of a struggle. At 15-15, the teams traded points until it was 22-22, then Hopkins drove home eight straight points to take a 30-22 lead. As Jack Bergen closed the gap, Jay Wagner sparked the team's attack with three baskets in the last 10 minutes of the quarter. Bob Evans, however, enabled the Jays to capture a 36-31 lead, by intermission, on a last minute shot. Early in the third period Hopkins remained in stride by increasing their lead to 49-36. The Maroon and Black quipped then, whittled the lead to within 2 points, 52-50. In the last minutes of the final quarter, however, Hopkins again out-shot the Shoremen to win 66 to 61.

Greeks Pick Golt, Hatem, Willey

The three national Sororities on campus held elections during this month. Alpha Chi Omega chose Rosemary Hatem as their President; Alpha Omicron Pi elected Jane Golt to the highest post; Rho Sigma Willey will guide Zeta Tau Alpha for 1954.

The remainder of Alpha Chi officers are as follows: First Vice-President, Jane Willey; Second Vice-President, Lee Harrison; Recording Secretary, Paul Edwards; Corresponding Secretary, Janis Leinhardt; Treasurer, Kay Cossaboon; Rush Chairman, Barbara DeBakey.

Marion Waterman holds two offices in Alpha Omicron Pi, as Vice-President as Rush Chairman, Terry Knill is the Recording Secretary, and Patricia Damschott is the Corresponding Secretary. Janet Parks was chosen for the office of Treasurer.

Leading Rosemary Hatem as Zeta Tau Alpha will be Joan Vanik as Vice-President; Barbara Townsend as Recording Secretary; and Anne Grim as the new Corresponding Secretary. Sandra Duvall will assume the Treasurer's position. The Rush Chairman for the Zeta's is Emily Dryden.

Presidents Are Active

Rosemary Hatem, who succeeds Jane Parks as President, has been very active on campus. She was the former First Vice-President of Alpha Chi and is now serving as Vice-President of the Science Club, Vice-President of the Nursing Club, President of the Red Hat Guild, Vice-President of the Young Democrats Club, Activities Editor of the Pegasus, Reporter of The Elm, and has membership in the Mount Vernon Literary Society and the Washington Players. Jane Golt is a well known Junior at W.C. She succeeds Kaye Craig as President. This year Jane was Corresponding Secretary for Alpha Omicron Pi and was an active member of the G.E.L.A., the Washington Players, the Future Teachers of America, and the Young Republicans Club.

Applies Physics In Criminal Detection

Speaking on "Physical Laws in Criminal Investigation", Dr. Conrad Rice, head of the Physics Department, discussed and illustrated some applications of physics as used in modern detection at the Society of Science meeting on March 11.

Dr. Rice's lecture included material on circumstantial evidence, finger printing, blood typing, the importance of the shape of blood drops, and the means of determining the time of a person's death. This and other information will appear in a book, written by Dr. Rice, which is in the process of being published.

At the last meeting, March 11, the group saw a movie, "Decision in Chambers," which recently appeared on the national television program.

Set Date For Lincoln Talks

Beginning on April 29 in Baltimore, Md., the Hearst Newspaper syndicate will sponsor the Lincoln Centennial Tournament, a series of speeches by high school and college students on the subject of any phase of Lincoln's life. Winners of this state tournament will be invited to attend a regional and, finally, a national tournament.

Washington has had a good showing in the past, said Mrs. Oppenheimer, head of the speech department. She urged all those who wish to enter the contest to get full information from her or from the various notices posted around the campus.

Literary Society To Give Reading Of "Richard II"

The Mount Vernon Literary Society will sponsor a unique Saint Patrick's Day program on Wednesday evening, March 17, when a cast of both students and faculty will present a reading of Shakespeare's Richard II.

Mr. Frederick Meigs, group spokesman, said that the play is being produced as an experiment which, if well received, will be followed by other Shakespearean presentations. Informality will be a prominent feature of the presentation, he said. The participants will read from a standard text without acting or scenery thus making the effectiveness of the performance depend entirely upon the dramatic poetry.

With no acting or scenery to assist in holding the audience's attention, it was necessary to shorten the playing time from its original three hours to an hour and a quarter. Mr. Meigs who is casting the play, said he has taken care to preserve the most beautiful and moving passages.

There is a particular advantage in presenting Richard II in this manner, Meigs noted. While generally regarded as the greatest chemical play of Shakespeare, it has been justly criticized as being a rather stilted drama. According to Meigs, such a defect will not be apparent when the play is read.

The principal roles will be read by Mr. Meigs as Richard, Dean Doyle as Bolingbroke, Mr. James as John of Gaunt, Dean Owens as the Duke of York, Mr. Henry as "bonnie Norfolk," and Aldo Gallo as the narrator. Others appearing in the cast are Barbara Delaney, Pete Burgess, Bill Weiss, Jack Daniel, Angus Shumway, and Dick Murray.

Stanton, Barnett, Bounds Elected

Will Be Fraternity Presidents For The Coming Year

Theta Chi, Lambda Phi Alpha, and Kappa Alpha Order held their annual elections for officers during the past two weeks and named Tom Bounds, Bill Barnett, and George Stanton, respectively, to the top executive positions. The officers for 1954-55 are as follows:

Kappa Alpha Order

No. I, George Stanton, No. II, Larry Clements, No. III, Les Bell; No. IV, Steve Long, No. V, Dick Gardella; No. VI, Charles Gooding, No. VII, Roy Macdonald; No. VIII, John Palmer; and No. IX, Bernard Thomas.

Lambda Phi Alpha

President, (High Alpha), William Barnett; Vice-President (High Beta), Don Snider; secretary (High Gamma), Jack Hunter; Treasurer (High Tau), Rod Smith; Pledge Trainer (High Kappa), Dave Dougherty; Rush Chairman (High Delta), Bernard Mitchell; Librarian, Frank Dickson; Social Chairman (Epsilon), John Richey; and Rush Chairman (High Phi), Albert Haines.

Theta Chi

President, Tommy Bounds; Vice-President, Roger Smoot; Secretary, Ray Miller; Treasurer, John Howard; Marshal, John Jennings; First Sgt., Arns, Robert; Second Sgt., Sgt. Arns, Edward; Librarian, Bill Kelling; Historian, Stan Goldstein; and Chaplain, Thurman Albertson.

Phi Sigma Kappa held semester elections in January.

Choir Auction Pours $251 In Robe Fund

Last Thursday the Washington College Choir sponsored a novel assembly program. As part of their fund raising campaign for choir robes, they held an auction, with Mr. Harry Russell, member of the Board of Visitors and Governors, as the amusing and capable auctioneer. The articles put for sale were contributed by the administration, faculty members, and downtown business concerns. Everything from hairpins and sox to handkerchiefs and dresses went on the block, even a case of beer. Choir members were posted in the aisles to call out bids, which were generally fast and furious. The choir netted $251.00 in the venture.

The Lambda Chi's thought Mr. Hare's hayride to Millington for scenery complete, complete with tractors, wagons, and food, for $140.00. Bud Smith was out in the contest for Dr. Clark's spaghetti dinner and evening of bridge for six. Jack Hunter for $20.00 went lodging, meals, and use of a car for a week-end guest from (Continued on Page 4)

College, Easton Hospital Begin Technician Training

A joint training program for Medical Technologists has been arranged between the Memorial Hospital at Easton, Maryland, Inc., and Washington College, Chestertown.

Announcement of the agreement was made simultaneously this week by the administrations of both institutions.

The cooperative educational program was made possible by the recent approval, by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals, of a School of Medical Technology at the Memorial Hospital to be conducted under the direction of Dr. E. G. H. Schmidt, Pathologist.

Need Three Years Here
Subsequent detailed plans were brought to a conclusion by the concerted efforts of officials of the college and the hospital.

In substance the plan will permit students who have completed three years of study at Washington College and completed all general requirements for graduation, to transfer to Memorial Hospital for a full one-year course of professional study in medical technology. Upon successful completion of the course at Easton they will receive the baccalaureate degree at Washington College and will qualify for examination for registry with the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

The course will begin in June and finish in time for the participating students to qualify for graduation the following year. During their stay at the school, students will be privileged to attend certain classes conducted in Baltimore.

Y.D.C. Lists Aims, Elects Boyd Prexy

A few weeks ago a Young Democratic Club was instituted on the Washington College campus. Its primary purpose is to serve as an incentive to the young people at college. The fourfold plan of the club is to foster the student in governmental affairs, increase the efficiency of popular government, to put forth the ideals of the Democratic Party, and to provide for its people through its administration the highest degree of justice, social welfare and happiness. At the first meeting of the club, the following officers were elected:

President—Robert Boyd
First Vice-President—Walter Bisker
Second Vice-President—Rose Mary Harlan

Secretary—Dorothy Willis
Treasurer—Howard Smith

All who are interested in joining the club are invited to attend the meetings, which are held the second and last Wednesday evenings of each month. The club meets immediately after the Forensic Society meeting or at a specifically announced time.

Tonight, the State Young Democratic Clubs' Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner will be held at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore. Rivers, Chambers, who played here recently for the Phi Sig Moonlight Ball, will furnish the music. Ten young Democrats from Washington College will attend. The price of tickets is $7.50, the lowest

'Candida' Critic Lauds Galo's, Ayres' Acting

Betty Ayres, in the title role of "Candida", the recent Washington Players production, chooses between her husband (Jack Danilich) and Mr. Moreland (Jim Metcalfe), in the third act.

By Joseph Doyle
In presenting Bernard Shaw's "Candida" on March 5 and 6, The Washington Players showed their ability to produce challenging theatre. "Candida," like most Shaw plays, presents immense technical difficulties. Its conflicts are expressed much more through dialogue than through situations. The actors, therefore are obliged to react with great flexibility to the sustained interchanges of wit, cynicism and maxims about truth, belief, morality, and love. They have to show great self-discipline and imagination in reacting while subordinating their own as Shaw's brilliant lyrics pro-

New England Alumni Unite

A new alumni chapter, the New England Chapter of the Alumni Association of Washington College, was recently formed. The general headquarters are in Waterbury, Connecticut. Jacob D. Rieger, the class of '28, was elected president.

The other officers are as follows: First vice-president, Thomas J. Purcell, class of '29; second vice-president, Clayton E. McGraw, ex-'26; secretary, David Battolini, class of '22; treasurer, Michael Rossi, Jr., class of '33; assistant treasurer, James Doherty, class of '37; secretary of arms, John Lamb, class of '32.

The chapter was formed to promote, through cooperation with the General Alumni Association of Washington College, closer fellowship among alumni and college students, mutually beneficial relations between the college and its alumni, the advancement of the interests of the college.

In honor of the newly-formed chapter, a dinner meeting was held at The Elton. Among those attending were President Galton and his wife, Mr. Thomas Kibbey, director of athletics, and Mr. Frederick Dunsmuir. Fifty alumni attended the dinner.

Republican Group Discusses Platform

A meeting of the Young Republican Club was held on Wednesday, March 10. The topic was the national Republican party platform.

Don Stevens, Tom Holsteiter, and Reginald Rockwell presented a report on the platform to the group. After this report, Mr. W. D. Scott, one of the advisers, outlined the party principles for the group. Discussion and refreshments followed.

POOR HODSON!

How many editorials have been written about Hodson Hall? Well, here's one more to add to the list. But this one is not complaining about the food for a change. Therefore it will not be a popular editorial, and to make it even less popular, this one is concerned about the recreation room in the bottom of Hodson and the way it has been used by the students.

We used to complain that Hodson was an uncomfortably place, and it seemed the students were bent on making it even more uncomfortable. It was not an uncommon thing to see seven or eight pairs of dairy white bucks resting atop the tables that were later used for study or cards—inconvenient to say the least. In the proper season Hodson is often converted into an indoor snowballing arena. When apples are given out after lunch on Sunday, there are always a few who prefer to take their downstairs and throw them around instead of eating them. There are just a few of the kindergarten antics that supposedly adult college students indulge in.

Now, in order to make our stay here at college more enjoyable, Hodson Hall's recreation room is being redecorated. The Women's League has already put bright curtains in repainted the chairs. They have tentative plans for the future which include a lounging section. All their work will be for naught unless we decide to improve our manners a little, be more considerate of fellow students, and use Hodson Hall as a recreation room should be used.

It Was A Great Game

Now that basketball season is over many of us are looking forward to the coming baseball and lacrosse games. Competitive sports offer not only an opportunity to view the action, but also the audience as well. How many times have you wondered what the people around you are thinking and saying while they are apparently engrossed in watching the team in action? As a member of the audience during the basketball season I would like to cite a few examples.

When a girl first enters the gymnasium her eyes immediately scan the stands to see who else is present. After she has satisfied her curiosity she will seat herself behind some poor boy whose only interest is the game itself. Hereafter, the girl proceeds to bother him by borrowing his program, beating him on the back of the head, asking him questions about anything but basketball, and by asking him to get her a coke or candy bar. If her current crush is in the crowd, she will sit next to him and stare at him. Presently, however, she'll return to the group of the day. She'll discuss Ron's date, Jack's legs, Pat's dress, Ed's build, etc. . . . Anything but the game.

After the boy has started home and looked over his shoulder, she'll look around him to find out who else is there. Usually there'll be someone who he's trying to avoid so he'll have to change his seat. When the game finally gets underway he'll complain, "He's complaining. He'll complain about the referee, the coach, the fans, the other team, and even about the girl sitting in back of him!" In the middle of the game his pencil will break and he is thrown into a state of complete frustration.

At the end of the game the girl will turn to the boy and say, "I don't know who you are." This is followed by a complete rundown of all plays, fouls, etc. Finally, as they leave the gym together, they turn to each other and exclaim: "It was a great game!"

Spotlight
On A Senior

Roderic Beale Ware came to Washington College in his sophomore year, a transfer from the University of Vermont, and in three short years has become one of the most ardent athletes of the campus.

His main interests extend toward sports. He has earned varsity letters in baseball, track and soccer, and in his senior year, was placed on the All Mason-Dixon Conference Soccer team. Rod's sports record, however, does not end on the field—he was elected to the Varsity Club during his junior year, and this year held the office of Vice-President of that body's organization.

Rod's talents have been recognized not only on the athletic field, but in almost any campus organization you happen to mention. Fraternity life has played a very important part in his college career during the past three years—needless to say this is the club's past president and treasurer of the Inter-Fraternity Council. The junior class treasury also benefited from his financial wizardry. In the field of journalism, he was Assistant Business Manager of the Pegasus and News Editor of the Elm—and some say his present status with the Elm as sports columnist, if unofficial. Among these lines, you will surely remember Rod at his social best, when he was crowned Zeta Delta Boy last Christmas.

Rod was recently tapped for O.D.K. and was nominated to Who's Who Students in American Universities and Colleges. He is a major in economics, but his plans for the future include Naval Officers Candidate School in Newport, R. I., where he will report in early July.

My Love

Who contends me in moments of despair?

Who scrubs my back in?
And wakes me at the proper hour?
Who likes to keep me out on the beam,
And figures in my every dream?

To put it bluntly, the Nasty Nod had a short lived career at this job, but he wanted everyone to know, that some people around here are just too hard on people. "So, just those with the real and medium-term feelings," explained Nod, "I am turning my knowledge over to a very ignorant and naive friend of mine, called 'DIRTY ERNIE'."

So for hereafter as long as I can keep my job, this column will be known as "DIRTY ERNIE'S DIGS." And to start off, I should like to note that basketball season is over, and "the boys" have been living it up to the hilt. For example I even saw "Big R" drinking a bottle of one, Oat, Oat!

Speaking of our heavy eat hero, how is it that Hatches always eat hero news? Must be nice.

"Was a rather quiet week-end. The breath of bearable weather on Sunday inspired some of the W.C. troops to 'boast it up' at Toberhouse. Among the usual bunch present at this spread, our outfit were: The 'Four-to play' ones" and the Zeta triplets. Not to mention names, initials were R.S.D., B.M.P., D.B.R.S.S. Ask be it from me to expose anyone, I fear the last question of the week: "What girl was seen with you?"

By T. Potter Umbrage
(This may or may not be the last of a series of articles by Mr. Umbrage. No one can tell.)

I should like to take this opportunity to praise the Washington College Choir. Under the inspired direction of Dr. Frank Fik, a most versatile man, it has become a credit to our number. The choir has accepted a number of engagements to sing at the various musical centers of the East. It is extremely well-mannered—high boys as well girls—and it boasts a large repertoire of fine music.

Of special interest to the cultivated ear is the news that our musical organization will sing for Commencement a delightfully pure anthem, "Ballad for Americans," which will no doubt do as much as Hollywood has to dispel the unpleasant accusation of intellectual and artistic mediocrity leveled against our country by many of our international friends. Indeed, in view of its faithful portrayal of our great country, such a raising number might even convert the Pious in Rians. During the choir trip to Washington this semester, I am sure the organization would graciously accept an invitation to sing in the House of Representatives where galley has lately become one of the "shooting" variety. Even the President, who will hear the number anyway in the Spring, might be interested in such a recital. (Perhaps the proper contact for such a suggestion—The Enterprise, which along with the Baltimore Sun and other newspapers, the President reads every morning at breakfast.)

As I have perhaps implied, the choice of such a number is indeed fortunate, for I read in a recent copy of Collier's magazine that "Mr. Eisenhower is responsive to melody, though apt to begin yawning in the midst of operatic or overly heavy stuff." The "Ballad for Americans" is far from "heavy stuff," you will be relieved to hear. The Enterprise, which along with the Baltimore Sun and other newspapers, the President reads every morning at breakfast, has observed that Mr. Eisenhower "sees the Fred Warburg show when he can," "I" and a Strauss waltz will set him humming. Wherever "Ballad for Americans" may be infinitely difficult to him, it is exceedingly easy to speak. Again the suitability of such a special

Second Question of the Week: "When out on a date, Dr. James, old buddy, how does the typical professor like goodnight . . . in alphabetical order?"

Sneaky question of the week: "What you recently retired basketball stars were raising from the scene last Saturday, and what kind of game was it?"

Say Markes, was that you I saw throughout a pitcher in May? May it?

Open letter of the week: "Dear Lee, it's not the wheels in your head that fascinate me, but the kind that can get us to Bayville."

Can this Gelscher child. Observed that your harlem is down in one, just how common you answers, write to ZETA matheos, c/o Miss Pat (aria Anderson).

It's not hard to tell that Spring is just around the corner, boys . . . and girls are getting "that look" in their eyes, butting and cut noses are appearing on the campus scene. The favorite boys of the basketball world.

production number as "Ballad for Americans" is especially evident. The instrumental accompaniment is a masterpiece of symphonization, admirably suited for an electronic organ. And, too, the selection is not merely long, enabling the audience to concentrate on Mr. Eisenhower's eloquence and varied facial expressions. I do hope Mr. Eisenhower, who is accompanying his husband, for, according to the aforementioned article, the "is fond of mysteries and music" on "TV." There are elements of both in "Ballad for Americans."

Dr. Randall Thompson's "Alleluia" ballad, choral work which is a masterpiece inferior to the "Ballad," may have been sung this past Fall at the expected Eisenhower visit. However, since the President made summer plans to forgo the last Convention for a later June appearance, it is quite probable that he will not be present. It is extremely probable that the President will be able to sing "Alleluia" if and when Mr. Stevenson comes. Perhaps by then everybody will be singing it.

"Ballad for Americans" for the record collector may be bought at any incredibly large record store, with the male solo taken either by Bing Crosby or Paul Robeson. I should take the Robeson disc, if I were you, for despite the dark's recent politics, he sings it more convincingly.

GET WELL SOON!

The Elm staff wishes to express its behalf of the entire student body in sincere wish that Dr. Minnie Knipp will soon return to us in the best of health. Her absence has been felt, not only by her students in education, but by all those who have grown up to seeing her active figure on campus. Come back soon!

NOTICE!

The Student Government Association has been notified that all requests for money from organizations for this semester must be submitted no later than Friday, March 19.

Stickmen Scrimmage Terps Today In Initial Test

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By JERRY YUDIZKY

After every major sport season, such as football, baseball, or basketball, sports writers and coaches take time out to review the season and pick out the players that they thought were the most outstanding. I, however, am not going to commit myself to naming any select group of stars during the basketball season that has just come to a close. Also, I have too many yellow sheets and blue cards to study for to take that much time out. Instead, I will just get along to you the selection of a group of men who should be much better able to choose than I—the coaches of the teams in the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Just two points away from being unanimous choices on the M-D team were American U's John Selby (not to be confused with Furman's Frank Selby and Jack Sullivan of Mt. St. Mary's), both players polled twelve out of a possible fourteen points—Selby for the guard position and Sullivan for forward. Continuing with the "S's", Jimmy Shlaydon, of Hampden-Sidney, took honors as the other guard. The league's top point maker, with an average of 22.8 per game, Joel Hittelman, of Loyola, rated tops for second forward post, and 6'8" Walt Diekrs, who was tap-off man for Roanoke, rounded out the first five.

W.C.'s Jumping Jack Bergen secured one of the forward spots on the second all-conference team. Sal Angelo, the second member of Mt. St. Mary's triple threat attack, Bud Daily, of American U, John Gira, of Roanoke, and Bridgewater's Jay Tash were the three elected to the second team. Bergen was the only player of the two squads whose team did not get into the conference tournament. Both Baltimore U., one of the highest scoring small colleges in the country, and Johns Hopkins, which finished strong in the league, failed to get a representative on the top five.

Not satisfied with just an All-Conference team, the coaches so picked an All-Tournament squad. Chosen were Hittelman, Gira, and the triple threat from Emmetsburg, Md., Mt. St. Mary's trio of Sullivan, Angelo, and Bill Stanley, who were the deciding factors the Mounts' winning the tournament.

And there, very quickly, you have not one, but two All-Star teams, and I still have time to work on a term paper.

Smith Mentors Thinclads

Under the direction of Coach Emory Smith, Washington College's track and field candidates open their practice sessions with a thirty-three to forty-minute morning workout.

is working hard and by April 13 should be in excellent shape to upset Roanoke, Va.'s powerful track team.

Rackets Roar

W.C.'s athletic program is in the preparation stage for its busiest season of the school year. Across Campus Avenue on Kibler Field the lacrosse, track, and baseball teams are attracting the attention of the student body at their daily practice sessions. But not to be outdone nor overlooked by the glories of the field and the scintillations at Kibler Field, the Mason-Dixon Tennis team is valiantly getting into shape for the opening of its season at the end of this month. An inspection of the courts in back of "First Row", of the editions of the nets, and of the "flood" balls that the players are given to use, will explain the volubility of the members of the team.

This year's net squad doesn't promise to come up with any budding Jack Kramer's or Frank Sedgeman's. Back from last year's activity are Jerry Lambdin, who will captain the team this year, Les Bell, Jan Karpman, and Howard Davis. Karpman, a sophomore who last year was a member of Salisbury State Teachers racketeers, seems like the early prospect for the number one position. Two upper classmen, John Minnich and Palmer Hughes, who are coming out for the first time, have been very impressive in practice. (Both are next masters of the indoor table version of the outdoor court sport.) Ed Tall is the only freshman who has been swinging the racket to date.

There is a possibility that if the Storms can't get the Hopkins "W.C." could end up as runner-up to Catholic U., the perennial power team and Mason-Dixon Champions of last year. However, there are no "breathes" on the schedule. Each meet usually consists of six singles and three

Kibler Eyes Diamond Hopefuls

For the past two weeks the hopeful aspirants for the Washington College basketball team have been going through their daily routine at Kibler Field under the watchful eyes of Coach Ed Athey. Because of the chilly weather, activities have been restricted to light hitting and pitching drills.

We stroked over to Kibler Field last week and decided to corner Coach Kibler and ask what his outlook for the coming season was. His reply was "It's too early to tell yet. We had a pretty good team last year and this year's squad should be better. I'm not making any predictions, old man."

Coach Kibler has probably expressed his outward sentiments in that statement but we can't help feeling that inside he believes that this year's team is potentially one of the college's best.

For one thing, his entire pitching staff of last year is back again. The diminutive Leo Gillis (4-2) and Ronnie Sick (3-3), who bore the brunt of the hounding charges, along with Bob Pomeroy, Bob Sullivan and Joe Symons, will be back to turn the nucleus of the pitching corps. Two freshmen, Harlan (6-1) Blatchings and Tom Werly, both novice sensations in their respective schools, should do much toward strengthening the pitching department.

The graduation of John Santilli and Danny Samuels left two big pairs of shoes to be filled at third base and shortstop. The return of Steve Matzianka has helped solve half the problem. Matzianka, who led the team in hitting in 1951 with .315, will probably see action at last base with Herman Schmidt, last year's first baseman and leading hitter with .410, being shifted to third base. Both boys should give the team those much needed, base hits that could have turned the tide in a few games last year. Only shortstop presents the biggest problem. Among the hopefuls for that position are Barry Burns, Chuck King, and Mort Levine. Captain of the Shenandoah veteran Doug Tiller should be a sure bet to open the season at second, having proved himself as the club's only left-handed batter with a .503 mark average of .402. Other prep athletes seeking infield positions are Sam Spicer, Jim Tomblin, Tom Jacobs, and Clark Haines.

In the outfield, returnees Roger

G.I. Hall Takes Intramural Cage Title

Last Monday, March 8, at Cain Hall, before a frenzied crowd of W.C. students, G. I. Hall managed to squeeze a victory from the Theta Five, last year's champions, 30 to 28, and, thereby, capture the Intramural Basketball League Championship for the season of '54.

Having split even in their two previous series games, dropping the first and taking the second, 41-22 and 36-32 respectively, G. I. Hall met a hard-fighting OX team that fought heroically to the final buzzer in this deciding contest.

Playing for the champions during the season were Tom Jacobs, Jerry Levin, Marshall Pearlman, Bob Jones, Ronnie Covington, Mac Comell, Pete Barrow, Dick Farrow, Mack Hoke, Barry Burns, Josh Carey, and Jack Becker. The team can credit its outstanding performance to its resilient spirit, which prevailed to the end and carried them through the season with an 11 and 1 record. G. I. also boasts high scoring honors, which went to captain and coach, Tom Jacobs, who closed the season with a 35.8 scoring average.

Remember outstanding performances during the season and carrying the OX team to second place honors were Les Buckley, Rod Ware, Tom Burns, Shelby Bader, and Dean Wood.

A great deal of credit goes to the man who not only made the intramurals possible but efficiently refereed the playoff games as well, Coach Athey. Several score and timekeepers who did an outstanding job, were Jack Becker, Richard Farrow, and Barry Burns. Barry Burns also coached G. I. through the playoffs.

Smoot, Tommy Bonaldi, Wayne Gaven and Rod Ware will be battling it out for a starting berth along with Joe O'Malley and Jack Carey. In the catching department, Coach Kibler should have a quartet of solid backstops in veteran Jimmy Edwards, Vic Collier, Bob Jones and Lou Norbabe. Collier, Jones and Norbabe are freshmen with plenty of summer experience and anxious to show what they can do under fire.

In a nutshell that's a quick glance at W.C.'s diamond aggregation for 1954. We'd like to say that we think it's one of the college's best teams, but we'll stick with the coach—we're not making any predictions either—old man.

Legislature votes money for new field house for W.C.

Clark Chooses Capts. Weller and Lipsitz to Lead Sho'men

Coach Chasley Clark will captain the 1954 lacrosse squad against highly touted Maryland University on the latter's field at College Park today in preparation for Mason-Dixon and Middle Atlantic Competition.

The probable Star lineup will consist of midfielders Mackey, O'Malley, Bob Appleby, and George Hesse, together with Jack Lipitz, John Hines, and Bob Lamon on attack; "Mule" Jennings, Dick Weller, and Bill Barnett will handle the defense, along with John Parker in the goal.

Though the team has been doing everything possible—drill, scrimmage to drilling in fundamental—Coach Clark feels that Maryland may possibly have the edge in conditioning and practice, as they have previously scrimmaged the Maryland Lacrosse Club, beating them 7 to 6 last Saturday, March 6.

As a supplement to their regular conditioning exercises, the Sho'men have been put through a rigorous series of sprinting drills. Coach Clark feels that, while the team has shown steady improvement since practice resumed on February 13, a long, hard grind cannot be expected, because before their last game with Kalamazoo, which will be played on Kibler Field on March 30.

A rugged contest is expected with the Terps, who, while boasting a strong attack and attack, haven't as yet proven themselves on defense. Following the Maryland scrimmage the Washington Terps have an impressive ten-game schedule awaiting them this spring which include:

- March 30—Kenyon, home
- April 3—Navy, away
- April 8—Swarthmore, home
- April 10—Hulster, away
- April 17—Washington, away
- April 21—Washington & Lee, away
- April 28—Western Maryland, home
- May 1—Baltimore University, home
- May 5—Loyola, home
- May 12—Delaware, away

Freshmen Prospects

For the Freshman Prospect of this year, I have selected some other than that likable freshman Joseph James O'Malley. One of the most common places where you would be likely to find Joe, as his friends call him, would be on a basketball court. He is one of the starting five for the Maryland and the JV team and has accumulated a 6.00 game average. Along with his other talents, Joe is a member of Coach Athey's soccer squad last year. With only three more games to be played in the JV basketball schedule Joe is turning his talents to the basketball diamond where he is trying for a position in the outfield. Joe was born in Wilkes Barre, Pa., May 5, 1935, and moved to Baltimore where he was seven. There he attended Southern High School and won his varsity letters in Baseball. He also played basketball and was a member of the JV wrestling team. His success in scholarship has continued from high school, where he maintained an 85% average, to college, where he is in the upper half of his class with a 74 index. Joe plans to major in Accounting and with the success he's displayed in the past he should find this no problem. In his spare time Joe likes to listen to popular music and talk about the opposite sex. There's a big future for this good looking guy with a terrific personality here at Washington College.

Student Govt. Reports

The regular meeting of the Student Government was called to order by the president, Bob Appleby, on February 10 at 8:50 p.m. in the S-G-A room.

The Elections Committee reported that petitions for David Singer, Chuck Toley, Don Messinger, and John McNeill were received as candidates for representatives of the freshman class. No primary election will be necessary.

It was moved and seconded to add the following paragraph to the amendment concerning removal of members from the Council which is to be presented to the student body for vote:

"Upon the presentation of a petition to the Council requesting action against one of the representatives, the Council must take action. If the petition is signed by two-thirds of the representatives' comments the Council must recommend the person's replacement to his class officers."

The motion was carried.

The treasurer reported the receipt of $589.00, making a total balance of $413.64 in the treasury.

The Complaints and Grievances Committee reported as follows:

In response to inquiry, it was reported that the freshmen women dormitory students are given library permission every week night except Wednesday. A letter was received from Dr. Gibson concerning the reasons for not receiving the plan in the Hobson Hall. It was suggested that the committee recommend that an Upright piano be placed in Hobson Hall.

A letter was received from Dean Doyle suggesting that the Council members arrange a conference with members of the Student Government of other colleges.

After discussion, it was decided that it would be inappropriate for the Student Council as an organization to sponsor a March of Dimes drive. It was moved and seconded to sponsor a bridge tournament on Sunday, February 21. The motion was carried.

It was moved and seconded to allot $8.00 to purchase playing cards for the bridge tournament. The motion was carried.

The Council members were asked to submit suggestions for songs for the Song Contest to the Chairman of the Song Committee.

The meeting was adjourned.

Yet, as Mr. Merrill made a graphical speech, Marchbanks is totally without the weapons to compete for the world's favor against those who lack his vision and strength. This from culminates with the play itself under Candela shows that the little underdog Marchbanks' inner superiority, concludes him the moral victory, and then awards the prize of her own protection to the blind and conventional Morell. In his wisdom and his vision, she implies, Marchbanks has his own reward.

As he response the audience left little doubts that it conferred the honors of the evening on Aldo Galt, in playing the subordinate role of Burgess. Candela's crusty, shy, and opportunistic father, Mr. Galt's mastery of timing and his increasing sense of control and shift in mood enabled him to squeeze the last drop of dramatic effect from his part, and to make beautifully clear what Shaw intended in it—a kind of comic counterpart, echoing in Burgess' green pretentiousness the grim spiritual struggle taking place before his unseeing eyes.

Shaw's Weaknesses
Sensibly concerned and solidly rehearsed, the production was thoroughly creditable. Its chief weakness was a recurrent slowness of pace, most evident in the opening scenes, and in the last act. In these scenes the performance seemed sometimes to labor as if determined to articulate each line with the maximum clarity and intensity. As a result the dramatic properties were occasionally blunted, the wit of Shaw's response obliterated, and the flashing dialogue retarded too much. Mr. O'Leary's direction, which was otherwise thoughtful and visually effective, may have been to blame for this labored quality. Whenever, for example, the slow pace seemed to handicap Burgess' forward and Mr. Connelley, who nevertheless, played Foss and Less with surety and feel, feeling. These flaws, however, appeared to be sins of the past rather than of carelessness. The entire production of the cast brought their great vehicle handsomely to life and well compensated two of the biggest audiences the Players have drawn in recent years.

Mounts Trip Sho'men

The Mounties' return from Mount Saint Mary's made it two in a row as they defeated the Sho'men 35-51.

The Mounties' court work last night at Washington College got off to a fast start by grabbing a 7-0 lead in opening minutes, but the Mounties scored 5 straight points to close the gap. The first period closed with the Sho'men leading by a 13-8 score. The Mounties' court work in the second quarter backed by hooks by Bill Stanley and Jack Sellman to make the count 15-12 in favor of the Sho'men. Captain Bob Appleby carried the light for the Sho'men as he collected three baskets in the first half. The Sho'men were again outscored 12-9 in the second period, but still led 22-29 at the half.

The Lanky Mountain Men began to find their range and a hook by Angelo tied it up at 22-41. Outside the court in the penning game the Mounties' first biggest foul was in the 20's, 20:22. The Sneeze-trone whiz, Chick Haines, dropped one in from outside to cut the lead to 2 points. Haines then stole the ball to set up another hook by Rock Kardom. The Sho'men were again outscored, this time, 19-12. The Mountainers led 39-31 at the end of the third period.

The Mounties jumped off to a fast start with a basket by Donahue. They then stored again on a lay-up and a foul shot to lead 44-31. Rock Kardom began to shine his range as he hit from the corner for two points. The Sho'men slowly began to close the gap but the true can't out at Mount Saint Mary's won, 55-31.

The loss to Mt. St. Mary's brought the team's record to 8 wins against 12 defeats. In league competition the Sho'men held a 7-0 record.

There will be two new schools on the schedule next season, Upsala and Susquehanna.

Anyone For Snipes?

The age old art of Snipe Hunting has returned once again to the Washington College campus. Snipe Hunting, the favorite sport of kings during the Medieval Ages, has finally been brought back due to the large demand of the student body. The Snipe, a bird of about 2½ inches in length, is along the ground, because of its clipped wings, was discovered by the eminent Prof. Albert Quenaball while on a field trip with his mother. It was a highly popular sport with students but, on that its popularity as game laws have been long used on the Snipe. This past week the Wildlife Protection Association has declared it open season on Snipes, and so far the woods have been crawling with Snipes. At the time this article was going to press a letter was received from the Wildlife Protection Association saying that the Snipe season will close March 22. So grab your flashlight and bag and join the crowd. You haven't lived until you've Sniped Hounded.

and then searching examination for convention holding against an insider.

The Players made their production exciting by taking good advantage of the dramatic opportunities that Shaw provides in his well-defined characters. Bertie Ames, in the lead, played a firm and mature Candela, unruffled by the male orators around her, always composure in intellectual command. She conveyed a sense of self-contained feminine power, which she blended with a consistent gentleness and temperance in crucial scenes. The charm, humor, and self-possession that she projected across the footlights furnished the authority without which this kind of Candela would be totally unconvincing. Her playing became an assertion that Shaw meant to say that woman's perception of male pretense is more comprehensive than ours.

Reveals Irony

Jack Daniel presented the extraordinarily difficult Reverend Morell as a self-indulgent, rather than a fellow, more pained than angry at the startling discovery that life is not what convention says it is. Jim McNeill, elected to depict a Marchbanks, whose worldly failures are seen in physical debility and general slowness of mind. His reading emphasized Shaw's irony in presenting Marchbanks as the man whose vision is intuitive and profound, whose strength is real because it is inward and is founded on self-knowledge.

Choir Sings For TV, Md. Schools On Trip

Vacation Performances Acclaimed

The Washington College Choir, under the direction of Dr. Frank C. Erk, presented four concerts in two days while on a tour in the Baltimore and Washington, D. C., areas during the Spring vacation.

On March 22, they gave a concert at 11 in the morning at Poly Technical High School in Baltimore. Following the presentation, a complete lunch was given to the choir members. The audience, all boys, particularly enjoyed the girls' sextet.

Only Halt On TV

The highlight of the tour was the television show on Monday afternoon following the concert at Poly. The show took place at 4:30 over WMAR-TV, Channel 2. Over 20 million out of the 40 who were on tour were able to represent the choir on the television show due to small studio accommodations. These 20 voices were selected by Dr. Erk, supposedly representing the 20 best voices in the choir. The letters have been received by the choir congratulating them for a fine performance, both on TV and at the high schools.

Audiences Large

On Tuesday, March 22, the choir met at the Graydon Bus Terminal in Washington to leave for Shennett High School in Sandy Spring, Maryland, and for Damascus High School in Damascus, Maryland. The same program was presented to the high schools, but the program on the TV show had to be changed to go with the theme, "God and the Future." The choir had a total of 3,200 students at the three high schools and for an uncountable amount of viewers over TV.

Plan Bigger Tour

The tour was considered highly successful and well received. Next year, the administration is planning a more extensive tour.

The main selection on the tour was "Ballad for Americans," a patriotic song telling the story of America. The solo was taken by Harvey Samis, Jr., of Eastern. The other selections were "The Lord's Prayer," "The Prayer from Hallel and Grace," "Jesus Priceless Treasure," "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," "God Bless America," "Go Down Moses," "Comin' Thru' the Rye," "Me and My Shadow" (girls' sextet), "Ave Maria" (girls' sextet), "The Flower" (boys' quartet), "I Got Plenty of Nuttin'" (boys' sextet), "The Orchestra Song," and the Washington College "Alma Mater."

Dr. Erk To Do

Post-Grad Work

Frank C. Erk, chairman of the department of biology at Washington College, Chestertown, Md., is one of three national college teachers appointed to do postgraduate work in biology education at the University of Chicago for 1954-55; it was an announced delay.

The University of Chicago program for Internship in general education, designed to give advanced training in the liberal-educational field, is a joint project among the University of Chicago, Yale universities, and Harvard. It was established at the University in 1954 under the Carnegie Corporation grant. Dr. Erk, associate professor of biology, has been a member of the Washington College staff since 1952. He received his Ph.D. in philosophy degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1952 and his bachelor's degree from Evansville College (Evansville, Indiana) in 1948.

During World War II, Erk was a pilot serving in the Pacific theater.

"Harvey" Cast; Samis Has Lead In April Comedy

"Who's Harvey?" all W. C. students will be asking on April 30 and May 1. The reason will be the Washington Players' presentation of that famous comedy in three acts, "Harvey," written by Mary Chase.

David Humphries is directing this production and is encouraged by the progress shown at rehearsals. Ted Ichinowski is the assistant director.

Cast Listed

Harvey Samis has the lead as Elwood Ford, along with Harvey played by Ted. Doris Hall is Veta Summons, Elwood's sister. Sayler Urig is in the role of Merrie Mae. Dr. Humphrey, head psychiatrist, and Mrs. Chumley are played by Jack Daniel and Dolores Casanova, respectively. Bill Chumley becomes Dr. Sanderson and Polly Taylor is Kelly, the nurse. Pete Burbridge plays Judge Gaffney; Luder Bertler is Wilson, the strongarm man; Dot Willis becomes Aunt Ethel, and Shelley Butler ends the production.

The stories of the play alternate between the psychiatrist's office at the sanatorium, "Chumley's Rest," and the library of Elwood's home.

Hero Spreads Confusion

The story is that of a delightfully amusing, slightly impossible situation. "Harvey" and Elwood are the main disturbances as they manage to confine even the psychiatrist and upset their friends, and relatives with their antics. Various characters enter the scene and some of them at the finale have been convinced of Harvey's actual existence.

According to advance reports, The Washington Players are doing a wonderful job on this production. All are urged to come and see just "Who's Harvey?"

Student Govt. Reports—

The following were the main actions taken by the Student Council at the regular meeting of March 6:

The songs to be required of groups entering the Song Fest will be "Sweet and Low" for women's groups and "Look Loomed" for the men's groups. It was reported that the faculty passed the revision of the cat system as recommended by the Academic Council.

The Choir and Society of Science were each allotted $50 for the semester.

College Raises Entrance Rules

Flood Of Applications Necessitates Move

Next fall W.C. will institute a slightly higher system of standards for freshmen admissions. President Gibson said recently. A college sets its requirements in accordance with its supply of prospective students. Already this year, the Registrar's Office has had 700 inquiries from prospective freshmen and parents and has received almost 200 applications for admission.

Bourn, Snyder Win Primary

Editor's Note: The "Elm" was unable to get the results of yesterday's election before the press deadline.

As a result of primary elections held on Wednesday, April 7, Kenneth Bourn and Richard Snyder defeated Sheldon Butler and Larry Clements for President of the Student Government. Vice-presidential candidates Betty Ayres and Bill Barnett also were winners over Howard Morrison.

For Secretary, Bill Wagner was the sole candidate. This will make him the automatic winner in the final on Friday from nine o'clock until four o'clock, unless he is defeated by a written candidate.

Les Bell and Anne Grinn defeated George Hamst and Ray Elder for the role of Treasurer. The candidates were elected by a very large turnout, which is expected again on Friday Election Chairman John Ritchey has requested that all students vote in this election.

Here at W.C. the Director of Admissions, with faculty approval, disposes of applications by 1) accepting applications unconditionally, 2) accepting applications on the basis of entrance examinations, or 3) rejecting applications.

Raise Not Drastic

For next fall's incoming freshmen, the standards for unconditional acceptance and for acceptance after examination will be raised—not drastically, yet, under the new requirements, a good percentage of this year's freshman class would not have been admitted, Dr. Gibson stated.

This change in requirements has been instituted because the administration wants to eliminate the high percentage of freshmen who flunk out during their first year, wishes to bring admission standards in line with present academic standards, and believes that academic proficiency is the basic principle of college life. Since the school is in a position to raise its academic standards, it should do so, he said, in both student personnel and faculty.

Alumni To Help

W.C. is also starting a policy of alumni recommendation, wherein specific alumni are contacting and interviewing prospective freshmen. This alumni work helps to "sell" the college to applicants, to provide the Director of Admissions with added information on prospects, and to associate the alumni more closely with the college.

Heads S.S.O.

Sigma Sigma Omicron honorary scholarship society recently elected new officers for the coming year. Herb Turk was chosen president, replacing John Minnie; Betty Ayres was elected vice-president; Barbara Townsend was chosen as secretary-treasurer; Monica Willey was elected delegate-at-large.

In order to become a member of this group, a student must be a junior or senior with a cumulative index of 2.25.

Meteorological Aid

Positions Open

An examination for Meteorological Aid has been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission for filling positions principally in the United States Weather Bureau, Department of Commerce. The salaries are $2,500 to $3,510 a year.

To qualify, competitors must pass a written test and, in addition, must have had appropriate education or experience.

Full information regarding the requirements, and instructions on applying, may be obtained at many post offices throughout the country, and from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications will be accepted until further notice; however, interested persons are urged to apply at once.

Index Average Of 1.75 Will Grant Unlimited Cuts

A faculty announcement last week explained the new changes in the cat system. That announcement led to:

"The Student Council recommended to the faculty early in this semester that class attendance requirements should be liberalized. After an extended study of class attendance, the Academic Council, the Faculty, on March 15, adopted the following policy to become effective next fall:

"1. The Student Council has recommended that a larger number of students should be released from the requirement of class attendance. The Council has expressed the belief that to release more students would result in a higher standard of academic performance. As a test of this proposal and belief, the faculty hereby adopts the following regulations, which apply the principle recommended by the Council. While sympathetic with the principle, the faculty does not feel that the initial test of it can be safely made on as large a scale as that originally recommended by the Council.

"2. These regulations shall become effective in the first semester of the academic year 1954-55. They are promulgated as an experiment. The privileges extended herein may be withdrawn at any time at the discretion of the faculty and administration.

"3. Juniors and seniors with cumulative averages of 1.75 or better through their last complete semester shall be allowed unlimited absences.

"4. Juniors and seniors whose averages for the preceding semester were 2.00 or better shall be allowed unlimited absences, regardless of their cumulative averages.

"Statistical surveys of the present two upper classes indicate that under the new rules the number of students excused from required class attendance would be approximately tripled. If there is a rise in academic performance this spring and next year, the number of upperclassmen excused will be correspondingly increased.

"The effect of these regulations upon academic performance in the coming year will be the subject of continuing study by the faculty."

To show the faculty's attitude on the use of cuts, the directive below was issued also:

"At a meeting of the faculty on January 15, the following directions were given to the Dean of the College:

"The number of class absences permitted to a student shall be regarded as free privileges to be treated lightly, but shall be conserved for use in emergencies.

"However, such incidents as illness, death in the student's family, regular scheduled military activities, and participation in scheduled off-campus college activities shall be legitimate occasions for excused absences.

"The Dean is instructed not to excuse absences by reason of wedding, jobs off-campus, attendance at fraternity or other conventions (except as one of two official delegates); veterans' business other than medical; interviews for positions; financial transactions. Cuts are to be conserved to deal with such emergencies."

"WHY I COULD NEVER BE A COMMUNIST"

As most of you know by now, Walter Winchell is sponsoring a very worthwhile contest for a very worthwhile cause—that cause is the Danon Rumney Cancer Fund.

The contest is simply to write, in fifty words or less, "WHY I COULD NEVER BE A COMMUNIST". Each entry must be accompanied by one dollar to be donated to the Cancer Fund. Letters are to be sent to Box 80, New York 36, New York.

And if you win, what do you get? Nothing, my friends, but a 6,500 dollar Cadillac convertible. If you prefer to pass up the car, Mr. Winchell will give you the cash instead. If you decide to take the Cadillac, you are flown to Florida, where the car awaits you, and drive it home yourself. There are also numerous other prizes: a sports car, tickets to Broadway shows and big-time sporting events, vacations, etc. — about 300 in all. Weekly winners are chosen and the grand winner from them. Everyone is eligible (except Communists, of course) and Mr. Winchell is especially interested in the opinions of college students.

So why not use that dollar that you'd spend for cigarettes or ice cream next week—donate it to a good cause. Here's your chance to say some of those pet peeves you have about Communism.

That's exactly what your editor did. Out of a great many reasons "why I could never be a Communist", this is the one that hit closest to home:

"WHY I COULD NEVER BE A COMMUNIST"

... because Communism reeks of "indoctrination", a word that the average college student considers an insult to his intelligence. We're a stubborn lot—this modern generation—we hate to be "told" to believe a thing; we like evaluating and choosing for ourselves. Common sense would never allow us to "choose" Communism.

Going, Going, Real Gone

It's always enjoyable to have alumni come back to the hill, but not many are as downright fascinating as one recent visitor—the enthusiastic auctioneer for the choir assembly, Mr. Harry Russell. He evoked such a barrage of comments and questions that some information about his activities has been gathered here.

Mr. Russell entered W.C. in 1920 and went "topping through the four vent course in only six short years."

He says that the best years of his life were spent as a freshman. When Mr. Russell was a student he was a member of Phi Sigma Phi—now Theta Chi. He was quite the athlete—earning letters in football, basketball, and tennis. He was also president of the Variety Club. Evidently Mr. Russell spent a busy day's years participating in many activities. He served as business manager and president of the Washington Players, treasurer of the Coalition Club (which he says is "completely lacking now") while he was editor of the Washington Collegian; it was changed from a monthly to a bi-weekly paper.

During these "good old days" there was no Blue prohibition, remember? so the boys made weekly journeys to Masey to see Jim Jimmy Toth—the local bootlegger.

The song Mr. Russell sang for us at the auction was the "Maroon and Black Review" which he wrote and directed for the Variety Club. He tells an interesting story about that extravaganza—Mr. Dumschott as treasurer of the Variety Club had charge of selling tickets, but after seeing the first number, rather ungraciously walked out. When asked about it, our wise business manager always says he left because the show was so rotten that people would have demanded their money back.

Since graduation, Mr. Russell has maintained his interest in the college and is one of our most active alumni. He has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association for twenty years, and a member of the Board of Visitors and Governors since 1946. His major interest lies in the field of athletics and he is now serving as chairman of the Athletic Council. Mr. Russell said he'd very much like to see W.C. have a football team, but at this time it is financially impossible. But only he and Mr. Dumschott would get together again, it seems to be that something could be arranged.

OUT OF MOUTHS—

In the years to come, when we look back on our careers at W.C. the mention of a name should recall to us the stimulus "Dr. Livingston" should create a "conditioned response" something to the effect of "Well, here we go off on another tangent!" Mr. Henry "bring us to my mind" what was said, "during the course of the semester", such as Dr. Gibson and "I have a few announcements to make."

Imagine yourself listening in on a faculty meeting. The conversation should sound something like this:

Mr. Mercer—"The immovables are upon us!"
Miss Bradley—"Is this the face that launched a thousand ships?"
Dr. Riser—"As if it were, be that at my."

Spotlight On A Senior

Vivacious Mary Lee Lincoln came to Washington College four years ago from Whitewater, Pennsylvania. She attended Springdale High School in Chestnut Hill, where she was a member of the Student Government and the school choir. At Washington College she has furthered these interests and many others as well. She has been a member of the Washington College Choir for four years and now holds the office of president. In her sophomore and junior years she served on the Student Government Committee and is now Vice-President of the Student Government.

Mary Lee has shown much interest in dramatics as she was a member of The Washington Players for her last three years here and now is serving on the Publicity Committee. On Saint Night last year she won the individual prize for her act, a very witty cartoon. Also last year she held a part in the Theatre in the Round production of "The Importance of Being Earnest." In addition to drama and dancing, her hobbies include swimming and knitting.

In February of her junior year she was a Homecoming Court Attendant. She held the office of vice-president of the choir for last year and shared with Shelly Bader the honor of receiving a scholarship medal awarded by the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College.

Honors received this year include "Living Made Who's Who in America" College of Arts and Sciences. She will soon be initiated into S.W.O.

Mary Lee has been a member of the A.O.P.E. since her freshman year and last year was treasurer. She is now vice-president.

Her vocational interests are concentrated mainly in government work. She is a History Department assistant, and the first semester of this year she attended American University in Washington, D.C. where she was taking courses relating to Government. After college she hopes to enter some phase of government work.

"Time is fleeting," interrupts Mr. O'Grande, "we must get to the matter at hand."

"Thick fog kindly," acknowledges Dr. Morte.

The old business and new business is the product of old-telling last month's minutes.

Dr. Anderson—"Any motion should be able to understand this simple short hand."

Dr. Ek—"Correction: ... no mention was made of the horse tail."

Mr. Meigs—"Nothing was said as high as that glorious example of modern marriage as BARBARA HUDTUN."

"By and large, this meeting is out of order," (gives who).

Mr. Meigs—"The lightness of mind in main Mammam QUE!"

"Second Boss? Second Boss? Too much noise up there!" Miss Travers takes the situation in hand.

Dr. Ford—"Let us all leave now." They didn't get far before Mr. Hoffacker requested that everyone "show your ticket."

Dirty Ernie's Diary

Dear Diary,

Spring vacation is over—now there's a good one, SPRING vacation! Maybe in Alaska, but not here.

Be that as it may, diary, when the twentieth of March arrives, the luncheon heart says "Spring is here, ho-hum, I guess I'll fall in love!"

For instance, once again everybody is congratulating Claire.

It always was a question as to why Jack Fredericks returned to Washington College, but it came to me the other day when I heard Eddie Fish's new record, "I Need a Girl."

Then of course, some people do some "falling in love" attitude, so Bob Appleby painted Lynn Emory.

Scrounging around for a quote of the week, I heard this one last Sunday night at 10:45—"... and we sat shoulder to shoulder in the movie." Well, here's an old one for you as related to the recent painting of Terry Knoll by Bill Levey—Ray Anthony's "At Last!"

I guess it's time to close for now, but let me leave this parting thought ... American University outlethers became in the basketball game this afternoon: Ronnie Sick is a tough man at bat!

The Question

My Dearest Darling:

Since we've been dating for the last ten years, I feel that I can trust you to answer a certain question that has preyed on my mind (?) for quite some time. Please take me seriously, and do not regard what I ask you as too personal to answer. Every true I see you standing in line to buy our movie tickets, the old family feeling rushes over me and I want to ask you, but my nerve always fails me at the last moment. As you read this, picture me kneeling before you and asking that which I want to know. I beg you not to wonder why I've waited this long to pop the question, but I had to be sure you had formed a definite opinion on the subject so that you could not change your mind after you had given me your final answer. Please be truthful when I answer, but remember, it will break my heart if you say no.

Do you think Friday should turn in his badge and join the Coast Guard?

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By Jeraldine Yudizky
Sister of Shirley (she's a he?) Povich

When people are discouraged with some part of our American heritage, you often hear them say, "Give it back to the Indians." But after watching W.C.'s varsity exhibit their skills in the Indian sport of lacrosse, I think the redmen will have a hard time getting it back from us palefaces. (Editor's note: This was written after the Kenyon game but before the Navy game.) Seeing the game for the first time this spring has convinced me of that. In Atlantic City we kicked the Absegeamis out before they had a chance to teach us Eastern (Jersey) Shore-ites the game, therefore lacrosse is unknown in that area.

In this new day and age when attack means H bombs resulting in death by wholesale numbers, it is somewhat relieving to see fellows like Bob Lipsitz and George Hesse performing the non-lethal (I think) duties of attackmen, using as their weapons their great stick and abilities to accomplish wholesale numbers of athletic feats.

Baltimore seems to be the home of lacrosse and it is also the home of Messrs. Lipsitz and Hesse. Bob was born there twenty-one years ago. Before coming to W.G. he went to college in Baltimore—City College (High School), that is. He played lacrosse in his senior year there, then continued to play for the four years he has been here. In his freshman year he was on the second string, being All-American Ray Wood's replacement. Lipsitz moved up to the starting line-up the next year to fill the gap left by Wood's graduation the spring before. In his sophomore year he scored 22 points for the Sho'men and last year managed to get the ball into the opposition's net 28 times. In recognition of his stellar work in the past three seasons Bob was named co-captain of this season's squad. His graduation this year—he's majoring in economics—will leave a big gap in the attack to be filled next year.

George Hesse—a Christmas present to his parents (he was born December 23, 1933)—is a real Southerner. He was born in the South, says "Dixie," and went to Southern High in Baltimore where he played lacrosse, basketball, and football for the Bulldogs. Now in his junior year at W.C., George has been outstanding on the Maroon and Black basketball and lacrosse teams. On the hardwood he shares the guard duties with Ronnie Sisk, and is the mainstay of the mid-field section in the stick game.

Both boys are members of Theta Chi (aren't all the athletes?) and the Varsity Club. They were at their best against Kenyon in the opening game of this season, each accounting for two goals. The stars were against them last Saturday (in fact, they must have been against the school), but they are bound to come back and achieve a record that could well earn at least All-Conference honors for them.

As head-beat-Chief Sitting Scribe would say, "Me want-um to sho-um this time-um to make Athlete's Feat dance big Tribute Dance in honor of great white Maroon and Black stickmen Bob Lipsitz and Chief Bulldog.

Amen.

To Entertain Loyola April 14

On April 14th on Kibler Field, the stepping W.C. nine will meet Loyola College of Baltimore in a Mid-Division Conference double header. In their three previous outings this season the Sho'men have tied one ball dropping two. In both the University of Virginia and the Lynchburg games, the Sho'men played a hot brand of ball. The team looked good at times due to the many who-ohs by Coach Kibler, who was glad to work out a winning combination.

Loyola, which is coached by Emil Fritz, always has a strong team. This year being no exception. Five of his starters have received five of the Greyhound peak. Second base will be occupied by returnee Jim Bohane, who was Loyola's outstanding player during the 1953 season. Ed Deutz returns to right field, along with Bob Bensing in center.

field. On the mound are veterans Ronnie Cox, a lefty, and right-hander Tom Bailey. Help in the mound department should come from newcomers Ed Goldman, an exceptionally good right-hander.

Loyola defeated Washington in the first game last year, 1-0, in a fine pitching duel between Leo Gillis and Ed Matthews. Gillis gave up one hit during the game, while Matthews gave up four, but still lost the game. In the return game, the Sho'men defeated the Greyhounds by an 8-4 score at Kibler Field.

Loyola finished fourth in the final MD standings last year behind Hobcats, Baltimore U., and Washington College.

Come time is 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, April 14.

Probable starting lineups:
Loyola—McCarren, H. Donahue.
2b: Kounin, ss: Hamper, 3b: Cox, p: Deutz, rf: Bensing, cf: Fitzgerald, lf: Sheddor, c.

Washington—Mattiatina, 1b: Tibbety, 2b: Burns, ss: Schmidt, 3b: Edwards, rf: Bounds, cf: Smoot, lf: Collier, c.

Jockey Feat

Jockey Bobby Leichman rode three consecutive winners in the Laurel Stakes—Conclude in 1950. Flagstone in 1951 and Jack High in 1952.

Sophomore hurley Ronnie Sisk, Coach Tom Kibler, and Captain Doug Tilley will lead the Sho'men off today in its quest for the initial diamond win of '54.

W.C. Nine Trips South

Sports writers across the country (excluding the Baltimore scribes) are of the consensus that the New York Yankees are the best bet to take the league home this year. Like wise, Washington College has been touted to be the favorite in the Mason-Dixon loop. But to date the Yanks have been wallowing around the depths of the Grapefruit League and after last weekend's activity the team seems to be in following order.

The Sho'men traveled down to the sunny South to hospitable Virginia and received a very chilly, un hospitable welcome. In three games the last W.C. could do was to come out of the season's opener with an 8-8 tie against the University of Virginia. This game was halted by cold and darkness, after an eleven inning, three hour twenty minute marathon that saw Virginia getting two doubles, two homers, stealing five bases on balls, and committing eight errors. It was almost a battle to see who could leave the field first.

The team then journeyed to Lynchburg where a free ticket in the bottom of the ninth walked the winning run across for Lynchburg as W.C. lost its first Conference game of the season, 3-2. Leo Gillis went the route for the Kiblermen and allowed only five hits and one walk in the ninth and, after allowing Lynchburg to fill the bases, gave up his sixth walk to force in the winning run. Barry Burns, Herin Schmidt, and Tommy Bonds collected the only Sho's hits. The following day will probably be remembered as Black Saturday for athletics at W.C. While the lacrosse team was being shipped by Navy, the baseball team was being undermanned 25-5 by a hard-hitting Virginia Military Institute squad. The Maroon and Black had one of those days that any team is bound to have at one time or another. Washington heldes batted the ball for twelve errors, the pitchers walked seventeen while striking out only four, and the batters could pound out only six hits (seven

Netters Face C.U. Today

The Washington College tennis team will play their second match of the season when they engage the MD champions, Catholic U., for their home opener. In opening their season, the netters were defeated by Catholic U., 7-2. The Sho's team is looking toward today's game as a chance to average the critics long.

The Cardinals showed great strength in the singles column by being victorious in five of the six sets. Les Bell was the only W.C. netter to win a set. Hal Freeman, outstanding basketball player, is also the top netter, having defeated Clinton Bradway, W.C.'s number one man, in the opening match.

This year's tennis team is much improved over last year's team which ended with a 2-10 record.

Of great importance to the success of this year's team is newcomer Clint Bradway, who already holds down the number one spot.

Paced by Bradway, Coach Tom Ellison's squad boasts such veterans as Les Bell, Jerry Lambdin, John Minnich, Howdy Davis, Stan Kaufman, and newcomers Palmer Hughes and Shelly Bader. Jerry Lambdin is this year's captain.

The Sho'men are confident that this'll be the year to beat Catholic U. and end the Cardinals' reign as MD champs. The order of players this year is Bradway, 1, Les Bell, 2, Jerry Lambdin, 3, John Minnich, 4, Palmer Hughes, 5, Stan Kaufman, 6, Howdy Davis and Shelly Bader play doubles.

stuck out). At the same time, V.M.I. was punning the ball for fourteen triples, including two doubles, a triple, and two homers—each home coming with the bases loaded. Ronnie Sisk, last year's mound ace for the Sho's, started, but lasted only three innings, giving up eleven runs and eight hits in that time. He was followed, in order, by Bob Sullivan, Joe Seymanski, and Tom Well. "Phiz" Seymanski was the most effective pitcher for Coach Kibler, giving up two hits and one walk in the one inning he pitched, the only inning in which the Keydets failed to score.

Barry Burns, freshman shortstop, who won quite a reputation for home hit in Baltimore while playing high school and independent ball, beat the Cardinals in hitting with five or thirteen for a .385 average. Borcher went two for four in the opening game. The team suffered a severe blow when the first baseman badly sprained his ankle early in the second game and will be unable to play for some time. Steve Matrimini, who had been "parading" right field at the time, took over at the initial task. The only other hitter to get more than one hit was second batter and captain Tilley, who has two hits in nine trips to the plate.

Kibler Selects Sisk To Hurl 2 P.M. Opener

Washington College's hit-started baseball team will open the home season today when they tangle with American University at Kibler Field in the season's first twin bill. The Kiblermen will also be after their first win of the season.

Absent from the schedule last year, the visitors will be out to settle accounts from the double setback at the hands of the locals in 1952. That year W.C. traveled to the Capital City and took both ends of a double header, 6-3 and 8-5.

Coach Kibler's charges, who scored to date stands at two losses and one tie, have been having trouble picking up those much needed base hits. In 108 trips to the plate, the Sho'men can show only 15 safeties, and only one of these being good for an extra-base hit. Freshmen Lou Borcher and Barry Burns and veteran Doug Tilley have been hitting the ball well. This trio has accounted for 9 of the club's 15 safeties.

It is doubtful whether Borcher will see action this afternoon as he suffered a severely sprained ankle sliding into second in the Lynchburg W.C. game.

Coach Kibler, who has made more shifts since the season opened than the Nutter, bases foulouts, and only determined to come up with a winning combination. Throughout the southern trip, everyone was given a chance to see duty. Today's starting lineup should find Junior Bob Jones or Vic Collier behind the plate, Steve Matiatina at first, Doug Tilley at second, Herin Schmidt at third, and Barry Burns, rounding out the infield at shortstop. The outfield will probably consist of Rod Ware in left, Tommy Bonds in center, and Roger Seacot patrolling right field. Kibler will call on one of his two ace, Leo Gillis or Ronnie Sisk, to start on the hill.

Stickmen Top Kenyon In Opener, 12-6

At 3 p.m. last Tuesday, March 30, an eager crowd decked the stands of Kibler Field as Coach Charlie Clark's Maroon and Black opened the season with a 12-6 win over Kenyon College of Gambier, Ohio.

During the first quarter, while Kenyon was unable to get started, Washington tallied five goals on the explosive attack of captain Bob Lipsitz. George Hesse and Mick DiMaggio. Late in the second quarter, Kenyon rallied for its only halfhearted strike, but the Sho'men added five more to take a 10-1 lead. In the third quarter another Kenyon shot slipped by goalie John Parks, while the Sho'men also tallied twice. In the fourth quarter Kenyon, fighting to the final second, relatedated with two more goals, which were not enough, however, as the game ended 12-6.

Starting for Washington were Bob Appleby, George Hesse, and Mickey DiMaggio at midfield; John Howard, Bob Lipsitz, and Jack Lamon on attack; Dick Weller, "Mule" Jennings, and Billy Kneiss in defense; and John Parker in the goal. Also playing were Dick Cain, Dick Norrison, John Schiele, Bill Parks, "Mouse" Bair, Bob Campbell, Jack Berg, Ken Burton, Stan Goldstein, Bucky Ford, Peter Barton, Bill Clark, Berkeley Kenny, and John Krue.

The scoring was divided evenly among George Hesse, Bob Lipsitz, John Howard, and Mickey DiMaggio, who got two goals each; Bucky Ford and Bob Appleby scored the remaining two.

ately following the meeting, and a satisfactory settlement with the students was requested.

At the regular meeting of March 30, the Complaints and Recommendations Committee reported that an upright piano has been placed in Hudson Hall. The dates of primary and final elections for officers of the Student Council were set at April 7th and 14th. Ken Bouna, Chuck Key, Mary Lee Lincoln, and John Richey were appointed to assist the organization of a World University Service group on campus. It was decided that the complete minutes of the meeting be posted on a bulletin board in William Smith Hall, and a summary of the minutes will be published in the Elm. A plaque received from the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament Organization will be engraved with the names of the campus winners. The Complaints and Recommendations Committee was asked to investigate the following problems:

- 1.—Provision for students wishing to remain on campus during vacation.
- 2.—Clarification of the rights of dormitory residents, and
- 3.—Provision of swimming facilities for students.

At the regular meeting of April 6, the election committee submitted the following names as candidates for Student Council officers:

President—Sheila Bader, Larry Clements, Dick Suvler, Ken Bouna.

Vice-President—Betty Ayres, Bill Barnett, Howard Morrison.

Secretary—Bill Warren.

Treasurer—Les Bell, Ann Grim, Ray Littel, George Haust.

The judiciary committee was authorized to present a list of persons to be considered for service to the Disciplinary Board. Dr. Gibson requested the Council to announce to the student body that due to an expected increase in enrollment, a $25 disciplinary deposit must be made by May 1 to reserve a room for the fall 1954-55 semester. The President was asked to invite the Freshman Class President each year to sit at the Council table as a non-voting member during the fall semester. A letter was received from the Women's League requesting equipment to be placed in Hudson Hall, which will include a television set donated by Mr. Hegerling.

Introducing the familiar personality of Louis Borley known by many as "Big Lou." Louis was born in Metuchen, New Jersey, and attended Metuchen High School where he earned a name for himself as an all-around athlete and scholar. Lou played center on the football squad for two years and was a starting forward in basketball. Playing catcher and maintaining a .300 batting average, Lou was elected to the All-State baseball team in '52. Along with these extra-curricular activities, Lou carried a B average in his studies.

After graduating from Metuchen High, Lou studied at Rutgers Prep in New Brunswick, N. J., for post graduate work where he went to W. C. Lou carried his talents over to Rutgers Prep, where he played baseball and continued his .300 batting average. In basketball, Lou broke Jack Bergen's records of highest scorer in one game and highest scorer of season. While Jack had made good while he attended school, Lou was elected to the All-County team as starting forward. During the summer he played a uniform in the Semi-Pro Baseball League in New Brunswick.

This year found the slender 6'2" athlete a member of such Smith's varsity basketball team. Playing left half under Coach Kibler, he has been converted from a catcher to a first baseman. On the recent road trip taken by the baseball team, Lou had a .300 batting average.

Lou plans to major in History and would like to become a Physical Education instructor and coach.

Traveling to the Naval Academy, Washington College suffered its hands of the season at the hands of the Middies, 18-9, after having defeated Kenyon College, 12-6, in the season's opening game.

The Shoemen could never seem to get started against the hunky, fast moving Navy team that tallied six goals in the opening period and went on to add three in the second, four in the third and five in the fourth. Bob Pirie, attackman, had four of Navy's goals.

The Shoemen's outstanding stars were senior goalie, John Parker, who had eighteen saves while alternating with freshman goalie, Mac Connel. Failure to clear the ball by the defense unit kept Coach Clark's Maroon and Black stickmen from taking more than 13 shots while the Middies fired at the goal on 55 occasions.

Washington College plays guest to Hobart at New Hempstead, New York, today. Hobart is one of the big contenders in the Class B League this year, although it has lost its first two games to Mt. Washington and Baltimore University. The team will leave this morning at 8:00 to average last year's 10-8 defeat.

Yesterday's Stars

As teams and players don't "just happen" but are hunked from year to year in tradition and spirit, let's recall—with track season upon us—the track team of 1950 and four out-standing stars—John Twitely, Ken Howard, Larry Brandenburg, and Mick Hubbard—who sparked the Shoemen through a successful season to capture the M-D crown.

Early in March Coach Ayres's, this club, surprised everyone by winning a non-conference, indoor relay event at Cape Hall, N.C.—training Navy, Georgia Tech, Tennessee, and Georgia—in three minutes, 29.5 seconds. Though Howard, Brandenburg, and Twitely trailed Navy in the third leg, Hubbard kicked by Roeb, of the Middies, in the fourth, to earn first place.

The Shoemen opened the season by defeating Catholic U.—a contest in which Larry Brandenburg broke a Kibler tie record by taking the distance in 18.4 seconds. Twitely and Hubbard clocked behind. At the Penn Relays, April 28 and 29, the Shoemen placed third on the 28, behind Alfred and Johns Hopkins and first on the following day, with Howard, Twitely, Hubbard, and Brandenburg running in that order for Washington.

Though they bowed to West Chester Teachers, 80-51, the Shoemen went on to capture the M-D championship meet, held at Catholic U. Stadium in May, by a 29 point margin over runner-up Bridgewater College. Ken Howard and raked in 14 of Washington's 63 1/2 points. Mick Hubbard gathered in 11 before peeling a thigh muscle in the 220 which cost him first place. Jim Twitely took third in the 880 to add 3 points to the cause; and, as usual, Larry Brandenburg, on a last burst of speed, finished first in the 880.

Let's salute a great team and four outstanding trackmen—of yesterday. And let's support Coach Smith's this club, and wish them a successful season—to carry forward that tradition and spirit of the past.

Thineclads Prep
For 2nd Meet

The claders have been flying at Kibler Field lately and it's no wonder. Coach Emerson Smith has been running his thineclads through their daily workouts in preparation for Roanoke on April 13th.

With only three lettermen returning from last year, Coach Smith has hunked out new. The squad, which is composed mostly of freshmen, has been working out regularly and recently had an interquad meet, the results of which placed Chestnut Standouts so far have been Stu Young, Coach Smith's prodigy from high school days, and divisible Lou Buckley, Young, who will compete in both the 100 yard dash and the 220, was turned by the local coach during his four years at Easton High School. Stu still holds the high school record for the 100 yard dash in Maryland, having dipped off the distance in 18.4 seconds. Buckley is no newcomer to cinder fans as he excelled himself during cross-country season. He should be the outstanding miler in and out of the Mason-Dixon Conference this year.

Other hopefuls trying to land a starting job include Bevie Thomas in the pole vault; Rod Ware and Bob Penkethorn in the broad jump; Jack Bergen in the shot put; Jack Fredericks in the discus; Bill Warner and King Merritt in the quarter and half mile and Hank Marzani and George Stanton. Two freshmen, Tom Dreyer and Terry Johnson, will vie in the hurdles.

The squad appears to be well balanced and with a little experience, the locals should show toward improving last year's 2-11 record.

Al Green To Perform At IFC Dance Tonight

The Inter-Fraternity Council of Washington College is sponsoring their annual dance tonight at the Chesterton Armory. The dance is from 9:00 to 1:00 o'clock. The music will be furnished by Al Green's Orchestra. Each of the four fraternities on the bill will have a song played for their respective members.

A committee, composed of an equal number of boys from each fraternity, will be in charge of the decoration. As in past years, each fraternity will have their flag and banners displayed on the wall carrying out the theme of "Inter-Fraternity."

The big surprise of the evening is the traditional favors each fraternity man presents to his date. Each one of the organizations selects a gift which the members present as a souvenir of the dance.

This afternoon, each of the fraternities will hold Open House. Prior to the dance, Lambda Chi Alpha is having a dinner at the Rock Hall. Yacht Club and Kappa Alpha will entertain at the Ranch.

Beall, Funkhouser Speak To Repubs.

The Young Republican Club of Washington College has sponsored two distinguished speakers at their recent meetings.

Mr. J. Glenn Beall, Jr., Chairman of the Maryland Federation of Young Republicans, gave an informative and interesting talk on the National and State Federation. He told the group that we are in the Southern Conference, one of eleven regions in the first section. This Southern Conference is having a regional meeting in April in which all young Republicans are invited.

Mr. Beall went on to say that, on the state level, the efforts of the Washington College Club should be directed toward the re-election of McLean, the present governor of Maryland. His victory over Mr. Boyd would certainly be a great gain for the Republican Party. This group can help by changing registration, raising funds, and working at the polls.

Mr. Beall was then asked questions by the members of the club and various topics were discussed by the group.

On April 9, Mr. Funkhouser spoke to the Young Republicans. He gave a thought-provoking talk on good citizenship.

Plans for the club include organizing a Young Republicans Club in Chestertown. A picnic is also being planned for the end of this school year at Funkhouser's.

The Young Republican Club has grown tremendously on this campus. Membership is now at 36, whereas about 12 people attended the first meeting in February.

Editor's Note: One of W.C.'s most interesting and best received assemblies of the year was Dick McGown's informal talk on the ancient art of falconry. The following article, "She 'Stoops' To Conquer," by James A. Bond, was taken from the Baltimore Sun.

Winning high on broad wings, the peregrine falcon caught sight of the pigeon released by the falconer below. Immediately she swooped down, fierce eyes intent on her prey. The gap between the two birds rapidly fell away as the falcon hurtled on.

Thompson Is Y.D.C. Guest

Charles Avery Thompson, the Majority Floor Leader of the Maryland House of Delegates, was guest speaker at the April 15th meeting of the Young Democratic Club of Washington College. As well as serving in the Maryland Legislature, Mr. Thompson has been very active in the work of the Young Democratic Clubs.

To continue with the policy of the Y.D.C. of having speakers who point out the democratic principles and show how the democratic process operates, the Y.D.C. will have as its guest speaker April 28th, Mr. Richard Lankford, of Anne Arundel County. Mr. Lankford is very active in the political field there and is running for a national office. He is quite active in the workshop program of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland. Mr. Lankford will speak on the topic, "The Framework and Operation of the National Democratic Party."

The topic of Mr. Thompson's talk was "How You Can Make Your Influence Felt in the Legislature." He outlined the procedure by which the majority floor leader of the House of Delegates is chosen in caucus of the state-wide leaders of the party. He proceeded to describe the specific duties of the various committees and in what manner they operate. During the informal talk, members of the club asked pertinent questions relating to the operation of state government. The conclusion was drawn that the very one makes his or her influence felt in the legislature is by selecting the most capable person to serve and represent the people.

Student Govt. Reports—

The regular meeting of the Student Council was called to order by the President, Bob Appleby, on April 13 at 6:30 p.m. in the SGA room. A quorum was not present.

Ken Bourn reported that the committee formed to locate the organization group would meet on April 14.

The Elections Committee reported that the primary and final elections for class representatives to the Student Council will be held on April 19 and 21 respectively; petitions are due at 12:00 p.m. on April 15.

The Student Government Assembly will be given on April 29. The meeting was adjourned.

The regular meeting of the Student Council was called to order by the Vice-President, Mary Lee Lincoln, on April 14 at 6:30 p.m. in the SGA room. A quorum was not present.

The Complaints and Recommendations Committee reported that it

Results of the recent Student Government elections: Ken Bourn, Betty Ayres, Bill Warner, and Anne Grim holding the top offices in next year's council.

Ken Bourn was elected President of the Student Council, being a Senior next year. This year he was a representative of the Junior class. Ken is past President of the Forensic Society, a member of Omicron, Delta Kappa and a member of the Washington College latrine team.

Betty Ayres was elected Vice-President. Betty is very active in extra-curricular activities on campus. Her name appears in Who's Who in American Colleges; she's a member of Sigma Sigma Omicron, the Washington Players, and she is past Secretary of the Student Government Association.

Bill Warner fills the Secretary spot for the Council and Anne Grim will take over the Treasurer position. Ann was also past Treasurer of the Council.

Representatives Elected

By a unanimous petition, the Senior class of '55 selected Joan Vauk and Janet Parks as representatives to the Student Government. The Junior class of '55 elected Ralph Laws and Roger Smart as Representatives. Five candidates were on the ballot for the present Sophomore class elections.

Joseph O'Malley was the only Freshman to present a petition. Thus there was no need for a Freshman class election. O'Malley automatically becomes a representative for next year's Sophomore class. President Ken Bourn will select another representative from this year's Freshman class to go along with O'Malley in representing next year's Sophomore class.

Annual Science Exhibition Tuesday; McLain Speaker

TO HOLD RALLY

The Young Republican Club will hold a rally on Saturday, May 8, at Pioneer Point Inn, the estate of R. J. Funkhouser. Various refreshments will be on hand. Arrangements are in charge of Don Stevens and Tom Hoffstetter. There will be a charge of one dollar for each person.

© Mel Winstead, president of the Society of Sciences, announced Wednesday that the 8th annual science exhibit will be held on April 29, 6:30 to 10:30, in Dining Hall. The exhibits, covering such sciences as mathematics, psychology, chemistry, physics, and biology, will be highlighted by a talk by Dr. Joseph McLain, of the chemistry department. His subject will be "Probability."

The exhibits will include "Blood Typing" by the biology department, and "How Cold is Cold" by the chemistry department. The show, which is open to anyone in the area, will also include several short science movies.

All of the exhibits, movies, and the talk will be on a level which can be understood by the average layman. There will be no charge for admission.

Boyd Elected Debate Prexy

Bob Boyd, a sophomore, was recently elected President of the Forensic Society for the coming year, replacing Ken Bourn. This year, Bob served as Vice-President and director of jobs for the club. John Meisner, a freshman, was elected Vice-President. The new Secretary-Treasurer is Bill Clark. Angus Shannon is the Historian.

Bob, a K.A. pledge, is also the president and organizer of the newly-formed Young Democrats Club.

The forensic group is now negotiating with the Puerto Rican representatives in Congress and ex-governor Cavel of Delaware to bring them here to deliver speeches.

Parker Leads Mt. Vernon

The Mount Vernon Literary Society announced today that John Parker is the newly elected President of that group. The annual elections were held Wednesday, April 21, at the regular meeting.

Mr. Parker will be assisted by J. Aldo Clark who was elected Vice-President. The treasurer's position will be filled by Don Stevens during the coming year. Eleanor Hemphost will serve as Secretary.

The Mount Vernon Literary Society was founded in 1847 and is today the oldest organization on campus. The object of the society is to bring together students of the various literary pursuits for the mutual benefit and enjoyment of all.

would entail too much expense to set up the ping-pong tables in Waters Hall, since the building will probably be used for classrooms next year. The placing of a drinking fountain in the library is being considered. Those students unable to go home over vacations will have housing provided for them in case of necessity. In the future, the rooms of dormitory residents will not be used to house others without the consent of the students. Other rights of dormitory residents will be specifically stated in the next future.

It was suggested that a committee be formed to consider improvements in the system of choosing members for the disciplinary committee. No vote was taken, due to lack of a quorum.

The results of the Student Council officers elections were as follows: President, Ken Bourn; Vice-President, Betty Ayres; Secretary, Bill Warner; Treasurer, Anne Grim.

The Mount Vernon Literary Society will present another Shakespearean reading Thursday, May 6. An interesting cast has been selected.

lives in Chestertown. He is Dick McGown, 28, who is an insurance broker. Except for periods in the Marines during World War II and the Korean War, he has been a falconer since he was 7.

They Found A Nest
His attractive wife, Joan, fortunately is also interested in falconry. And the older of the couple's two children, Sally, 3, affectionately calls the fierce falcon "Hanky-Bird" and enjoys watching her fly.

Dick was born in Philadelphia. One day his older brother John, with a

She 'Stoops' To Conquer

A flash of talons, a sudden impact, and a burst of pigeon feathers marked the end of a successful "stoop," the name given by falconers to this awesome display of a falcon's desire to ward off prey.

For this "stoop," and the pleasures which come with training a beautiful, fierce bird, less than 100 persons in the country are now regularly following the ancient sport of falconry, a sport recorded by written data 3,200 years ago and probably much older than that.

One of this small band of falconers nestle of friends, found a falcon's nest on a Jersey cliff. Three young birds were in it.

The boys excitedly brought the birds home. They wanted to keep them, so Mr. McGown got in touch with the Philadelphia Zoo for advice and the zoo referred him to a young falconer then going to college.

In this way the details, lore and love of falconry were passed on to John and through John to Dick.

Falconry, Dick explains, are members of the hawk family, but with im-

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By Jerry Yudiaky

"Way to go, Babe! That's the way to strike him out, Big 'R'!" This isn't an article about "Babe", whoever he might be. But it is about the "Big 'R'"—Ronald C. Sisk.

The above comments have been heard quite frequently recently when the pride of Allegany High School and Cumberland, Md., has been on the mound for Coach Kibler. In his last eighteen innings of pitching, the Robin Roberts of W.C. has struck out eleven batters (he walked only five during that span).

Baseball is just one of three sports in which Ronnie excels. At Allegany High he was a member of the varsity basketball, basketball, and football squads. He was named to the All-Maryland football team, the All-City grid team (in three consecutive years) and several other all-star groups that were announced in the Cumberland area. At W.C. he has turned in two stellar seasons as set-shot pitcher from the guard position on the court five, and after a 3-3 record last year, is expected to be the ace of the mound staff on this year's diamond squad. After getting off to a shaky start in the Virginia game, he has turned in two brilliant performances, striking one-hit and three-hit shut-outs. Last fall he was the "big gun" for Theta Chi's football team, displaying his all-star abilities at the quarterback slot.

Ronnie gives much of the credit for his success to the fine guidance of Coach Kibler and pitching coach "Curly" Ogden. The "Big 'R'" estimates Kibler to be the best coach under whom he has served.

On the scholastic side he is majoring in Economics. Besides earning about economics in the business world from Mr. Johnson, he seems to be applying some economic principles of his own in the baseball world—that a number of strikout victims, and allowing very few walks and hits will produce a maximum number of wins.

Barriers Entered In Penn Relays

The University of Pennsylvania will play host to college, university and high school relay teams through the U. S. at Franklin Field for the 40th Annual Penn Relay Carnival. May 4. A highlighted affair in the track and field season, this year is expected to mark one of the largest meets ever witnessed by sports fans having over 3,000 contestants entered and waiting to vie for top honors.

Several of the track powers of the country attempting to break a blue ribbon for themselves will be Duke University, State University of Pennsylvania, North Carolina, and Georgetown to list a few.

Carrying the Maroon and Black flags for Washington College in the annual relay event will be the triad of Buckley, Sir Young, Captain George Eichelberger, and "Holler" Bill Warner. Special recognition is paid to the two former players for their excellent performance against Monmouth College of Virginia, and Catholic U. of Washington. Two captains, both plan to compete in both events, while Sir Young netted a win in the 100 yard dash.

Bees vs. Shoremen

Baltimore University's Bees invaded Washington College last Thursday in Mason-Dixon baseball double header which Kibler.

Both squads are currently battling out for top circuit honors, and these contests offer fans quite an evening excitement.

Bees Coach Al Barthelme undoubtedly will nominate 6'3", 215 lb. Roemer, excelsior, to limit the threat, while Ron Sisk, junior left fielder, will receive Coach Tom Kibler's nod for mound duty. Incidentally, both hurlers are underated thus far in conference competition. The reigning pitching chores will probably be shared by lefty Sam Heyman or Wainpy Dodge of Baltimore, and Dean Wood or Tom Wells of Washington. Calling the pitching signals for the hurlers will be slender, bespectacled Hank Wholton of B.U., and lusty live Collier, current W.C. backstop, who is developing greatly with each game.

The respective shortstop positions will, variously enough, be filled by two former Patterson Park High School athletes, Shouman Barry Burns, diminutive hitting wonder, and El-Hott Agolaine who has cemented the vital spot in the B.U. infield.

Local Ref To Pilot Pros

W.C. basketball fans who will watch the Fort Wayne Pistons in any of their National Basketball Association or exhibition games next year will recognize a familiar figure on Fort Wayne's bench. The Pistons, one of the top pro teams in the country, this year announced the signing of Charlie Etkman as their manager for the next three years. Etkman is well known around the campus, having refereed many of the Maroon and Black games in the Chestertown High School gym during the past two court seasons.

Etkman, one of the best and most popular basketball referees in the country, will be practically a new comer to the basketball courts. A graduate of City College High School in Baltimore he has devoted all of his time to refereeing basketball and baseball tilts. He began his career handling independent league games in New York, moving up to officiating in high school games recently. A resident of Harwood, a suburb of Baltimore, he has become well known on both shores where he has been busy officiating for both high school and college games. He has been one of the most active officials in the country, having been called upon to referee for the N.B.A., the Harlem Globetrotters, and many of the top college tournaments. In fact, there is hardly a major tournament for which he has not officiated. His only previous experience as a mentor was during his Attackman Senior Co-Captain Bob Lipitz, Coach Charles Clark and Attackman Hesse Howard discuss Mason-Dixon Lacrosse Conference game against Western Maryland here on Wednesday, April 28. Washington currently rests in top place in M-D play.

Intra-Softball League Officially Opens

Competition in the Intramural Softball League at Washington College will get underway next Monday morning with the first game at 10 a. m. Under the direction of Ed Athie, athletic director, there will be an eight team circuit with Theta Chi, Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi, G.I. Hall, Foxwell, Somerset and the "Pirates" battling it out for top honors.

Starting their second consecutive flag will be Theta Chi, painted by ace pitcher Bob Appleby. After a brief pre-season warm up, the OS men lineup will consist of Lew Burdette, Ed Campbell, Ray Miller, Frank Willis, Mick DiMaggio, Ralph Lane, Joseph, Dave Walsh, Ed Silver, Sub Sargent, Arden Fox, Les Bell, Jennings and Hesse Howard to list a few. Athletic director of K.A. activities, "Hustling" Joe Geisler, will supply sixth players as Ray McDonald, Bernie Thomas, Ron Deidre, Chuck Covington, Tom Halley, Ralph Keene, Jack Walsh, Bill Stevens, Henry Flynn, and ace fireballer, Mickey Anderson.

Coach Al Haurand's Lambda Chi charges, having finished a strong third in last year's race, will use John Parker, Sam Maera, Jack Hunter, Bill Sienkiewicz, Steve Stahl, Bill Wright, Mike McCallie, Chuck Foley, and the first team to great advantage.

Handling the reins of Phi Sigma Kappa this season is Ronnie Thomas. Boosting his hopes for title laurels are Bill Warner, Jerry Yudiaky, Arnie Sess, Jack Walsh, Ed Silver, Sub Sargent, Arden Fox, Les Bell, Henry Flynn, and ace fireballer, Mickey Anderson.

"Dark horse" contenders in the league could well be G.I. Hall and Foxwell, who have been conditioning their respective squads daily on the Somerset track. Led by G.I.'s Tom Jacobs, Pete Burrow, John Carter, Jerry Caposono, and Chick Haines, this squad in addition to Foxwell's lightning arm which include such performers as John Messerall, Clint Brandy and Barry Eichelberger, could pose a real surprise to the favorites with such a fine array of local softball talent.

See you at the game!

hills in the Air Force during World War II.

The fans will miss Etkman on the court. He won his reputation by his fine and accurate calling of the game, and for living up to his belief that the glory of the game should be left to the players and should not be stolen by an over-acting umpire.

The yellow perch is like a miniature walleye, only prettier and more flavorful. It will take a small streamer and puts up a fine fight for its size which can run up to several pounds.

THANKS!

The Athletic Department would like to express their appreciation for the strong enthusiasm and school spirit displayed by the students, faculty and friends of Washington College during the recent Loyola College basketball game.

The outcome of the contest indicates that with the continuation of your loyal support and the brand of ball the team has been playing, the Conference laurels could well rest at Washington College this year.

Keep up the great support!

Wolfpack Tops Sho'men

Washington College stickmen suffered their second consecutive loss of the 1954 lacrosse campaign, 10-4, at the hands of Mount Washington, previous National Lacrosse Club Champions.

Following this defeat, the Sho'men's overall record now stands at three wins against two defeats with a league loss of two wins, no defeats in the Class "B" Mason-Dixon Conference.

The more experienced Wolfpack gave another great performance on their home field as they scored in every period but the final quarter. Former W.C. captain, Ray Wood, led his teammates in the barrage of almost sixty shots against Sho' goalie, John Parker, scoring three times with fast, faking goals. Wood, who topped the scene the first two minutes of action, was also a former All-American while attending Washington College under the leadership of coach Charles Clark.

Speedy Mickey DiMaggio and Jack Lamson accounted for the loon's first half goals with an assist from attackman Hesse Howard.

Washington will face Western Maryland in a crucial M-D contest here on Wednesday, April 28, in an effort to maintain its undisturbed league status.

Sisk And Wood Seach Post 2nd Win

The Sho'men men ran its victory streak to four straight on April 14th as they swept both ends of a double header from visiting Loyola College, taking the first game 6-1 and cking out a 7-6 ten-inning victory in the night cap.

Heavy right-hander Ronnie Sisk was the matter of control in the opener with his fast ball and curve ball breaking into near perfection as he allowed the Greyhounds three singles while fanning six and giving up three walks. Loyola was the first to draw blood, picking up a single marker in the opening frame. The contest lasted until the third when the Sho'men combined a single, two walks and an error to score twice. They added four unearned runs in the home half of the sixth and Sisk hurred to his second consecutive victory at the season.

The nightcap provided all the excitement of baseball with extra innings, close plays and Coach Tom Kibler getting the thumbs in the fourth inning for protesting too vigorously over a close play at home plate.

Below the local fans could seat themselves comfortably, the Greyhounds jumped on starter Joe Symons for two quick tallies on a triple by Jim Donohue and a four-bagger by Ed Hauser in the first frame. In the bottom of the run off of reliever Tom Wells in the top half of the second and appeared to be on their way to a victory. However, the locals had other plans and in the lone half of the second they crossed the plate twice to get back in the game. In the bottom of the third, they pushed across a single marker to tie the game.

The deadlock lasted until the top of the fourth when Loyola put together three walks and two singles, off of W.C.'s third hurler Dean Wood to score three times in the bottom of the fourth, snatching Greyhound footballer Jack Beringer by a wild strike and batted the bases with two runs. Two free passes, an error and another walk tied the score for the second time. Coach Left Rietz of Loyola selected Tom Biles to replace Beringer and the former promptly walked the winning run over, giving Wood his second win and the team its fourth victory of the campaign.

Meat Barks and Bats:

Barry Burns and Lou Borchert continued their spectacular hitting, accounting for six of Washington's nine hits in the second game. The latter Jerseyite, although hampered by an ankle injury, has been giving great defensive performances along with his 500 batting average. Second in the parade of Coach Kibler's potent batsmen is "Barry" Burns with a .381 strike average.

FLASH!

Coach Charlie Clark's Washington College (on remained unbeaten in the Laurie D. Cox division of the M-D Lacrosse Conference by virtue of its sparkling 10-1 victory over Washington and Lee in Virginia last Wednesday. Co-captain Bob Lipitz led the winners' victims attack over the Generals with four goals. Markers by mid-fielders George Hesse, Jack Lamson, and Bob Appleby, coupled with Hesse Howard and Lee in Mick DiMaggio's tow, enabled out the scoring parade.

Zeta Tau Alpha

The Zetas have been quite active in the past few weeks. The pledges have finished redecorating the room which is blue and white with curtains and window-sash covers which complement Zeta Tau Alpha's colors nicely. It's really a pleasure to spend time down there now.

Last Monday we "lived it up" at the Gratory where our new initiates, Joanne Brunner, Joan Hatch, Barbara Dea, Anne Hirst, Nancy Jallbert, Nancy Newman, Sue Reichlin and Anne Grims—were the guests of honor. Also honored were our Seniors Jo Bould, Lynn Diana and Nancy Newman. We celebrated pledging two new girls both of whom are very glad to have—Mia Bonhage and Sarah Sehe. The new initiates received traveling jewelry boxes with the society letters on them from their big sisters. A scholarship award was given to Sue Reichlin and Best Pledge to Jane Hatch.

Inter-society week-end promises to be an enjoyable one for the Zetas. Mrs. Blocker, one of our patronesses, is allowing us the use of her lovely waterfront home on Saturday, May 15, for an afternoon of swimming and lawn, wonderful evening. We're all looking forward to that!

Congratulations are in order for Carol Hudgins and Jack Lawson who recently got "ringed" and also to Emily Driven who is now proudly wearing Bill Russell's Theta Chi pin.

We hear from our alumnae that Mrs. Peggy (Belmer) Leonard and husband, Larry, have a bouncing boy, by boy now, and Lella (Davis) Edwards and Wes have moved to Oklahoma with their new son, John Franklin.

Kappa Alpha

The annual pledge support was held this month down on the Susquehanna River at the Gratory. The earlier part of the evening, that I remember was a great success. Southern fried chicken was on the menu and refreshments were served with wines throughout the evening. Some of the alumni met our new pledges, congratulated them on their wise choice and as on ours.

A late spring boat ride is planned. In past years this has always been one of the highlights of the K.A.'s but has gone away with three years ago. The Ranch will be open this Saturday for K.A.'s alumni and friends. A big week-end is anticipated by all. A mini-rail show is planned for the late fall when we come back from the summer vacation.

We've had a big year in many respects and are looking forward to a big week in Ocean City.

A O Pi

The spring season opened for the A O Pi's with the annual State Day held at the Kenosau Country Club in Chevy Chase, Md. One of the attractions of the day was seeing Helen Michel who is now attending the University of Maryland.

Initiation Banquet was enjoyed at the Tidewater Inn, Easton, in honor of our two new members—Lynn Eden and Carol Kneely. We plan to initiate our other pledges in the near future.

A telecast was held for our patronesses last Monday night in appreciation for all they have done for us and also to inform them of our spring plans.

Everyone is in a hub-bub with excitement planning for the Spring Fashion Show to be given May 5th. The receipts are for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing service.

Congratulations to Shirley Hadd (Lafayette) and Fred on the birth of a son, born March 23rd.

Plans for the annual song fest are underway. Practices have started for that all important night, when we plan to recapture the cap that's been missing from my mantle for a year.

We are all looking forward to the return of our alumnae for Inter-society week-end. Conferences are in process for a picnic Saturday afternoon.

Try To Form Cricket Club

A new kind of entertainment has appeared upon the Washington College campus—the old English game of cricket.

It has progressed to a point where a new club, the Washington College Cricket Club, is being formed. The club will soon present its charter to Dean Joseph Davis for formal approval. If the club is allowed, it will be the first one of its type on the Eastern Shore. There are other clubs in Baltimore and a few other cities.

The purpose of the W.C.C.C. is to provide weekend entertainment of a healthy and sportsmanlike nature. The club is allowed, it is thought from England, is given credit for introducing the game, which seems to have caught on quite readily. Norman James, assistant professor of English, has conceived to be a faculty advisor.

She 'Stoops' . . .

portant differences. They are distinguished from other hawks by their longer wings, quicker wingbeats, modified hawk and falcon-like eyes.

Both hawks and falcons can be trained to falconry, however. There have been instances of oiled-trained to the sport.

Concerning falcons, technically only the female is called a "falcon." The male, about a third less in size, is called a "macker."

Of all the falcons, the peregrine is the only one found world-wide and is the best for the sport. It is the peregrine falcon which is directly associated with the birds most widely used during the height of falconry—the European aristocracy of the Middle Ages.

They Take It Seriously

Dick and the handful of falconers in this country, most of them in the East, take their sport seriously. They are intensely interested in education in, concerning the different species of hawks, and many of the birds caught by them are banded and released immediately.

Even if the falcons are not released immediately, the trained birds eventually are. Dick says, "through a falconer's mistake or unfortunate circumstances, such as prey several miles away," to fly off and return to the wild. Eventually losing a bird is considered part of the sport.

Catching the birds in the first place is a hard and involved business. Some hawks, such as red-tailed hawks and red-shouldered hawks, can be caught inland during most of the year.

Peregrines, however, are best caught in the fall on their migration flights southward from their Arctic homes. A bird on its first migration, without all its adult plumage, is called a "passage." A bird two years old or older, with all its adult plumage, is called a "haggard."

A wild-caught bird is best for the sport because it has already fended for itself.

Trapped Along The Coast

In the fall the falconer in this section of the country hold the nearest thing to a "convention." For a week-end, or two weeks, they meet in sequestered spots along the Maryland Atlantic Coast to trap their birds.

One of the best places is off Maryland's Atlantic Coast, Assateague Island.

Just how the birds are trapped is pretty secret. Two, one known method is to bury oneself in the sand along the beach after spotting the falcon. The hunter, peering through the slats of a crate or perch board over his head, holds a fan, fluttering pigeon in his hands.

The falcon, seeing the pigeon, may make dive after dive before decidingly by Heitor Villa Lobos.

to grab the pigeon and hold on. At this moment all the trapper has to do is snatch the falcon's legs.

How They Are Trained

Training the falcon, says Dick, calls for experience and patience. Working on the general principle of reward for performance with food, a falcon is trained to accept the pressure of the trainer, to sit on the trainer's gloved fist, to come short distances for food, to come longer distances for food, and gradually to be released for attack upon prey.

In most cases, the prey, usually pigeons, is supplied by the falconer. The falcon can be "entered," that is, introduced to a particular quarry, such as pheasant or crow.

The equipment the falconer uses is "jesses." Leathery strips, called jesses, are always fastened to each falcon's leg. Through a swivel a leash about three feet long is fastened to both of the jesses and tied to the falcon's neck or perch.

A great deal of a trained falcon's life is spent in darkness, since she is hooded most of the time. A leather hood fitted snugly over his head helps keep her tame and quiet.

Hooded, she can be easily handled and transported for miles without trouble. Without the hood, the bird would become distressed and nervous at passing sounds and sights.

The Falconer's "Reward"

When the bird is trained, which takes a week to several weeks, depending on the falconer and the methods used, the trainer takes her to an open field.

To the bird's legs are fastened special bells which are an aid in locating the falcon if the chase happens to lead a mile or several miles away.

The good falcon spurs upward, feeling the air under strong wings and watching all movement for miles around. Even at 2,000 feet up the falcon can instantly see a pigeon released below.

Up and around she circles till the falconer feels she has reached her "pitch," her highest ascent. Then the pigeon flies out. The falcon at once begins her swift swoop. All the falconer's time and trouble is rewarded in the magnificent, deadly descent of this feathered streak, this master hunter of the air.

Concert Acclaimed

Orlando de Almeida, Brazil's foremost young pianist, now touring the United States for the first time, performed under the auspices of the Community-College Concert Group April 22 in William Smith Hall. In addition to the full recital at 8:30 p. m., the Almeida performed at the 11:15 assembly that morning.

The young pianist comes to America with the status of two continents resounding after him. A few seasons ago he performed in Paris with immediate popular success. He repeated his triumph with several concerts in Rome. As Brazil's official representative to the 4th International Chopin Competition in Warsaw, he was one of the few to receive the Chopin prize. A special invitation by the British Council to perform in London followed his extraordinary performance with the Warsaw Symphony Orchestra.

Orlando de Almeida graduated from the Music Conservatory of Natal at the age of 12 and began his professional career the same year. Since then, he has performed with leading concertists throughout South America, and has appeared many times as soloist with the Brazilian Symphonies.

Some of the selections he played on Thursday were: Sonata in A Minor, by Beethoven; Chopin's Ballade op. 47, Nocturne opus 48, and Scherzo opus 51; Third Waltz (old romantic Brazilian form) by Jose Siqueira; Relejo (little music box) by Waldemar de Almeida; and Farpasos (African dance) by Heitor Villa Lobos.

June Reunion At College

Plans have been completed for a June Reunion of alumni at Washington College, Chesterton, on June 12, 13, and 14.

A leading attraction for many alumni will be celebration of their five-year universities at special classes. Each class of graduates has a reunion every five years. These are then classes celebrating this year, led by the fifty-year class of 1901. Other classes holding reunions are those from 1909 through 1919 in a sequence of five-year intervals.

Special Reunion Chairmen are supervising arrangements for each class reunion. Chairmen sparking the 1954 reunions are: Dr. Emmett F. Hitch, 1901, of Washington, D.C.; Evelyn E. Notland, 1909, of Chesterton; Mrs. Ida Susan Turner, 11, of Chesterton; Page G. Young, 19, of Washington, D.C.; C. Edward Duffy, 21, of Wilmington; J. Jerome Frampton, Jr., 29, of Fallsburg; Dr. Charles R. Clark, 31, of Washington, D.C.; Gilbert Young, 39, of Newark; Del. Mrs. Claude Cregar Eberhard, 41, of Chesterton; and Miss Joan Sayre, 49, of Washington, D.C. Class reunion dinners are scheduled for Saturday, June 12, at 6 p. m. Also at the annual Alumni Luncheon on Saturday, the members of the class of 1901 will be presented certificates in honor of their 50th anniversary since graduation.

Among other events scheduled in the week-end are the Third Annual Golf Tournament, the June meeting of the Women's League of Washington College, the College President's Reception, and the Annual Alumni Dance, all on Saturday.

The baccalaureate exercises for the graduating class will be held on the morning of Sunday, June 6. That afternoon, during the 12:00 o'clock commencement of the College, President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be given an honorary degree.

More than 15,000 persons were killed in week-end traffic accidents last year.

Inter-Sorority Dance Is At Country Club

The Country Club of Chestertown will be the site of the annual inter-sorority dance on Friday, May 11, from 8:00 till 1:00 o'clock. The Pan-Hellenic Council is sponsoring the dance as in past years, with aid from the three national societies on campus.

Music will be furnished by Paul Frederick's Band from Salem, New Jersey. Each sorority will have a song played for their respective group. Music, activities, and pledges will all be present for the gala occasion. This year the dance is completely formal. Alpha Omicron Pi will be in charge of refreshments. Zeta Tau Alpha will decorate with spring flowers. Alpha Chi Omega has the responsibility of cleaning up after the dance.

A reception line will be formed including Mrs. Gibson, Pan-Hellenic advisor, and the Pan-Hellenic officers: Janet Palmer, acting president; Barbara C. Jones, secretary; Joan Wheeler, treasurer.

Bourn Makes Appointments

At the last meeting of the Student Government Association, held on May 6, President Ken Bourn performed the first presidential function by appointing the various Student Council committees.

Janet Parks was appointed Chairman of the Judicial Committee; Joan Vank, By-laws and Unadmitted Council member; draws up new laws and amendments recommended by the faculty or council as necessary and beneficial to the student body and college; Ralph Laws, Social Committee (takes charge of all social functions of the Student Council); Roger Smoot, Complaint and Recommendation (takes complaints and recommendations up with the Student Council and Administration, as returned to him by the students or faculty); Joseph O'Malley, Elections (takes charge of Student Council and class elections, or any other elections held by any organizations if they so desire); Jack Peterson (checks record books of different organizations which have been given money by the Student Council).

In that only one freshman, Joseph O'Malley, submitted a petition for representative of the freshman class, it was necessary for President Bourn to appoint other freshmen to meet the quota of two representatives from each class. He appointed Robert Penkethman.

John Richey Is Selected To Head Yearbook Staff

The Board of Publications announced recently the appointment of John Richey as Editor-in-Chief of the 1955 Pegasus, the Washington College yearbook. The Board, composed of fifty faculty members and four students, notably the past editors of the Elm and Pegasus, made the announcement Monday, April 26.

John, a sophomore, has had past experience on the Hagerstown High School yearbook and the preceding issues of the Pegasus. He will be aided by Associate Editor Ann Griss, Photographic Editor Joseph Keller, and others.

Plans for the '55 Pegasus are already underway. Contracts for the printing and ads are mostly completed, thus putting an end to a great deal of the work in producing a year-

Young Democrats, Local Candidates To Discuss Issues

Mr. Richard Linkford, from Anne Arundel County and a candidate for Congress from the Fifth Congressional District from Maryland, addressed the YDC of W.C. on April 28.

At the next meeting to be held on May 12, a discussion will take place after a short business meeting and the election of a secretary. The discussion will deal with local politics and political procedures in Kent County. Candidates for the State Senate, House of Delegates, County Commissioners and the State's Attorney for the Kent Independent Faction and the Organization Faction have been invited to participate in a discussion of local issues of the coming election in Kent County. Each will present his views and capabilities. All interested residents of Kent County are invited to attend this meeting.

Mr. Linkford outlined the setup of the Democratic Party from the precincts in the county up to the national level. He stated that today partly because of better communication there is clearer and more open politics. Today politics is considered a more honorable profession than in the past. He stated that more people for every good citizen should take an interest in politics and at some time should run for some office no matter on what level of government. It is through the YDC clubs and other clubs of this type that an interest is fostered for politics and much better understanding is attained.

Places In Contest

J. Alda Gallo won fifth place in the Lincoln Oratorical Contest, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers in Baltimore on April 29. Gallo was sponsored by the Speech Department and represented Washington College. Other colleges there were Loyola, V.M.I., Notre Dame (Baltimore), University of Maryland, and University of Baltimore.

S.S.O. Initiates

Sigma Sigma Omicron, the scholastic fraternity, recently initiated three candidates. Mary Lee Lincoln (2229), Marnell Baquirre (2669) and Brian Kaufman (2274) have all attained indexes over the required 2.25.

Dean of Women Amanda T. Bradley prepares to break ground for the new women's dormitory at a noon-time ceremony on April 29. Other dignitaries later followed Dean Bradley and spoke briefly.

Groups Prep For Songfest On Thursday

The annual Song Fest sponsored by the Student Government will be held on Thursday, May 13.

Each group of girls will sing "Sweet and Low" and another piece of their own choice. The Zetas will render "Night and Day" and be supervised by Sondra Duval. Alpha Chi will perform "If I Loved You" led by Bobbie Delaney. Mary Lee Lincoln will lead the A.O.P.'s in their rendition of "Begin the Beguine."

"Loch Lomond" will be sung by the male groups. The K.A.s are also singing their traditional "Dixie" as supervised by Pete Long. "When I Come Too Old" will be the second number of Lambda Chi. Jimmy McCall is in charge for the Lambda. Phi Sigma Kappa and Theta Chi have not yet decided on their other selections. They will be directed by Pete Burbridge and Stan Goldstein, respectively.

Any group of at least 12 and no more than 15 can enter. Sondra Duval is the chairman and entries should be filed with her. No one person can sing for more than one group, however.

The winners in both the female and male sections will receive an engraved cup.

Republicans Rally Today With Outing

The Young Republican Club of Washington College will hold its rally this afternoon from 2 o'clock till 6, the purpose being to promote interest in the club. The rally, to be held at Mr. Fankhauser's estate, will include all of the outside facilities of the estate such as swimming and the use of the grounds for an picnic activity. There will also be refreshments of various types.

The charge for the afternoon outing will be a $1.00 donation by each student attending and $1.00 for any outsider. If any student cannot arrange transportation before the picnic, he should contact Paul Proun, President of the Y.R.C., who will arrange a ride in a car pool.

Choir Sings At Three Meetings

The college choir traveled to Denton on April 30 to perform for the annual banquet meeting of the Masonic Lodge. The girls' sextet and the boys' quartet also sang. Pete Long rendered the "Forthright Street Rag" on the piano. The trip was arranged through the efforts of Mr. Elias W. Nottle, a Washington College alumnus.

A special bus was furnished for the choir. Members were served turkey dinners and the girls were given rest certificates.

Thursday, the choir had charge of the assembly program. Another performance was given on Friday for the Choptank Chapter of the Alumni Association.

Signs Elect Hanst

George Hanst was elected president of Phi Sigma Kappa for the next semester at a meeting this week. He replaces Bill Winterling. Other new officers are Jack Winkler, vice-president; Ken Bunting, secretary; Larry Curris, treasurer; Mickey Anderson, sentinel; Roger Kinhart, inductor; Bob Pickett, rush chairman; Anne Posa, house manager; Bill Winterling, U.F.C. delegate; Bill Warner, at-large.

Harvey Samis

The Washington Players, in their thirty-fifth season, presented, on April 30th and May 1st, the famous modern comedy HARVY. The unseen subject of this amazing play has become as much a part of American folklore as Paul Bunyon or Rip Van Winkle. The major character of those seen in the drama is Elwood P. Dowd. Elwood has been interpreted upon the stage by Frank Fay, Joe E. Brown, and the English stage star, Jack Buchanan. James Stewart played the role in the cinema version. With slight variations of Jimmy Stewart, Harvey Samis has done a superb job in interpreting the subtleties of Mr. Dowd's gentle and lovable personality. Mary Chase's play depends to a

Harvey Samis—Who, as Elwood P. Dowd in "Harvey," gave an Oscar winning performance if we've ever seen one. The hours of hard work and practice that you obviously put in, paid off. Harvey—every minute you were on stage was an enjoyable one for your audience. In short, I repeat the comments of the crowd in the lobby during and after the play, "You were wonderful!"

CHALK ONE UP FOR SGA

With the installation of new officers for 1973-74, Student Government brought down the curtain on the second consecutive year for that organization on the W.C. campus. We heard, during that assembly, the accomplishments of the organization for the year '73-74. Whether those accomplishments constitute a successful year must be judged in light of the fact that the growth of a strong and efficient Student Government is a slow and painful process.

It took us a long time to get Student Government. It was voted down once because there was not enough interest on campus to get a majority of the students to the polls. At that time two years ago The Elm went to bat for Student Government—and we are still at bat for Student Government. S.G.A. will have the support of this paper, as well as its cooperation, as long as the present officers are in office.

Here, the Elm wishes to salute the Student Government representatives and officers for a job well done in 1973-74. We also want to wish the new members luck and success. If you need a helping hand, editorially speaking, just let us know.

Spotlight On A Senior

One of the most versatile seniors in this year's class is John Minnich. He entered Washington College as a freshman. John has been active in almost any campus organization or cause.

In his freshman year he was awarded the Fox Scholarship Medal. In his sophomore and junior years he was awarded the Baurer Fox Award which is given annually to the male student with the highest scholastic index for the year and who has also during the year won his varsity letter in a major sport.

His major interest in the field of sports is basketball. In his sophomore and junior years John was a member of the varsity basketball team and took his letter. This year he is playing for the W.C. team team.

Externally life has played a very important part in John's four years on campus. He served as treasurer of Lambda Chi Alpha and is now vice-president of the fraternities.

John gained recognition for his active participation in campus life when he was tapped by Omicron Delta Kappa. At the present time he is serving as vice-president of the society. This year he renthel the ultimate goal that we all aspire to when we are nominated for Phi Kappa in American Colleges and Universities.

After graduation, John plans to do graduate work at Northwestern University in the field of business administration. Lots of luck, John, in all you undertake. With your record of success, you will have a most successful future.

Award Predictions

In a recent poll which was taken for the Best Play produced by the Washington Players, Inc., "The Happiest Days of Your Life," "Candidate," and "Harvey"—Harvey was chosen as the best production given this year. Several people have said that it was the best play which has been produced in several years.

Of those people voting in number, or all three plays, Harvey Samis was named as The Best Actor, and David Hall as The Best Actress for the year 1973-74. Mido Galt and Betty Ayres were named as giving The Best Supporting Roles. This poll, however, by no means indicates the awarding of the Oscars which were awarded last Thursday night at the annual Players Banquet, held at The Grangers. Results will be in next issue.

OUR SOCIAL PROBLEM

by John Newbold

I am writing about a social problem that is one to every member of Washington College—student, administration, and faculty members. The problem has been identified as student passiveness, suitcase college disease, older students, and football. In short, almost every conceivable label has been posted on the problem by each and every member of the college community. I rather call the problem the lack of social life at Washington College. This may or may not surpass other labels, but it embraces the others as I shall point out.

The problem is present now on the campus, and has grown in its dimensions most noticeably in the past four years. The passing of football after the 1970 season no doubt took with it some of the college spirit that previously prevailed, but such a singular thing could not bring the problem to the magnitude it has reached today.

The age of students, in the aggregate, is lower than that of four years ago, and therefore, it is assumed the atmosphere would be the reverse of the present trend—that older students would render a more sedate atmosphere to the campus and that younger students would be a party to the noisier and less academic inclination.

No, none of these underlying factors can be called the main cause. They certainly added to the present state of the problem, but taken together they could not change a campus almost completely in four years without other help.

The recreation facilities, if they have changed at all, have improved. The local movie is now open on Sundays. More student groups exist today than they did four years ago, which enables the students to take advantage of the other entertainment located beyond the environs of Chestertown proper. The increased number of cars has no doubt been the cause of the week-end exodus of students from the college, but we are concerned with why they leave and not the relative ease or method.

In short—there are two main causes I refer to: lack of money and public opinion.

It was just four short years ago that Washington College started on its long range expansion and building fund drive. Money was needed to make our plans and dreams reality, and there was no visible source of a ready and inexhaustible supply. Appeals to the state were made and met with little satisfaction. It was plain to see that outsiders would have to be approached.

By accepting gifts from generous friends, elders, and alumni of the college we became at least social and moral debtors. We do not owe these people money, but rather the intangibles of our society—thanks, consideration, and appreciation. These donors, by the giving of their money, become the choice, part of Washington College—part just as big as the one played by the student, the administration, and the professor.

Just as we expect from each other no campus, we must see the necessity for meeting the demands of our benefactors, and with even greater zeal, without them, not what is to be, is possible. It is indeed a shame that money alone, in a sense, has the place and power it does, but this is the situation as we find it.

Because of the implications of our debt to our donors, we cannot meet the problem of our college community without considering the feelings of our donors. This interest can become especially harrowing when opinions and solutions for the various problems facing the community differ, and more so when the school and the donors are in disagreement. It is during these times when the calmest of thinking on the school's part is needed. It is naturally hard after administrators, professors, and students come to an agreement to

Dirty Ernie's Diary

DEAR DIARY,

And to think that not too long ago I was complaining about the heat. Gosh I'll have to start spending my afternoons at the beach.

Well, dirty—L.C. was a hint, as usual. (Offending no one, I hope, but what college party wasn't a blast, in one form or another?)

As to any pin's changing partners, I decided early a one. Of course I could be wrong, some people are rather meanly about such things. On the other side of love, there were a few own signs sung over the weekend, although I understand a few of them sobbed up and remedied acquaintances. Which reminds me, friend Wayne, watch out for me before me! appearing—people like to wonder when you stir you're it. Is a known fact that there is no such thing as a Swiss watch.

Sunday was a rather quiet day. There were more late sleepers in Reading Hall. Rauff was a real find. Everyone was out to see Wanda "oh my side" Marmelon back in circulation—understand "the game" carried her down a flight of stairs after class one day—Quite he "high" to be young sometimes!

As to the subject of classes (dirty word) I wondered who Jarring Jack Bergen was dashing off poems to in Corporation Finance one day—upon consultation with the one to whom they were written I received this answer: "Ter Heer—They're awful."

Thumbing through my notes, diary, I found more about L.F.C. For instance, there was that last minute telegram to West Hall which could be either wise termed as a "Dear John Junior."

And mentioning no names, but who was the rather shifty person who arrived at the dance rather soft shape because of an overdose martini?

change because of the wishes of a few donors. It is unfair and a delicate infringement upon the right of the school as a whole to operate as a democratic institution. It is unfair, but at the same time, it is a call for clear, rational thinking rather than emotional.

At the same time, as we as we set it, or we to reconsider and fall more in line with the donors' way of thinking? This is indeed a point of great deliberation for the school.

We are forced to hasty and compromise with our benefactor if we wish to remain favorable in their eyes.

Whatever the issue, the students are very likely to resort to the more emotional line of thought, thus leaving the administration to the fallow in the middle. The students are wrong for taking such a stand, but at the same time should have the problem fully explained to them, so that they could see the problem in all its perspective. It is because of the lack of explanation through administration and student labels that the former are in blame.

The students must be made to see why their social privileges have been somewhat decreased over the past four years; that it is not just because the administration thinks it's best, etc. And the administration should quite definitely tell the students what is going on and why certain decisions are made, not solely because of the administration, but because of the great financial situation. And our policy should consider just how much of an asset these donors are, or is it more covered to say, without being considered too emotional, how much of a liability they are.

In summation: control and restriction will bring a financial and social of our plans are met. But still that time, we are under the thumb of our bankers, and we are almost forced to do as they deem to insure their pledges to us. The administration could greatly ease student feeling by explaining what is taking place and the students could greatly ease the some hours before.

Closely related to Inter-Fraternity weekend is the news item of a certain roustabout who is known as money Red Hall circles as "The Scientist."

And going from circles to triangles, diary, I understand that one of the latter on campus stands a good chance of becoming an acute situation. For those Arts majors who fail to understand the humorous aspect of this statement, ask any math student for an explanation.

I saw the Washington Players production of Harvey last weekend, and had the great pleasure to talk to scribble one night, and he had this comment:

"I enjoyed appearing on your stage immensely but, I must say it was a real find to produce a play on this campus." And with that he grabbed his perforated hat and left. Oh well, you can't please everybody.

As to the plan to plain old money, every day, I hear tell that Washington College's center holder is trying to keep up with his bid, Joe Di Maggio Abo, along the ring line. I understand that a campus MOUSE has been trapped—as if he wasn't as ready as a mouse.

While we're on the subject, diary, these engaging times being handed out to certain gigs on campus, are getting harder every time. After Inter-Fraternity dance, I expect to see some starry eyed woman pulling a long face around us, as caught being the Crown Prince of England, and to a ring. Did they ever find those Brink's Bank Robbers yet? Anyway, "feilatation, madmeniacs et mous."

Seeing the term Inter-Fraternity, I am reminded that it's now up to the girls to make the choice. So good luck, men, now we'll find out who's who.

Why Is It?

Every day the violence of Washington College comes across some puzzling situation which immediately prompts the question "Why is it?" The following are a few of the questions which have been bothering some of W.C.'s more inquisitive intellects:

Why is it that Touchstone is becoming Budy's time with steady weekend customers?

Why is it that B. Delany went out behind instead of in?

Why is it that "Little Red" is looking for a job near Annapolis?

Why is it that everybody leaves everything to the last minute no that "winning" hole? whether here?

Why is it that "Big Steve" knows more dirt than Fannie?

Why is it that the girls' softball team is going to post?

Why is it that "Animal" Campbell won the shortest pants on the soccer team?

Why is it that one of the famous "Passion Pill" crutches was moved at front of the shop?

Why is it that "Big Rig" is only out girl's ideal now instead of the whole school?

Why is it that Miss T. is always there at the wrong time?

Why is it that "Pammy" Frederick's arm is in such good condition?

Why is it that four Taz sisters lost their voices after the Initiation Banquet?

Why is it that certain freshmen girls' intellects are falling?

Why is it that "Rainbow" should always seem to have gains and cigarettes to give away?

Why is it that all the last frat boys didn't get dates for 12.C.

Why is it that don't pin punishment need to be given out just when the nice weather got here?

Why is it that G. Hesse Lacy of different way than the rest of the "last frat boys" during the warming up exercises?

Unbeaten Sho'men Triumph Over Loyola Ten

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By Jerry Yudizky

With all due apologies to Mr. Ernest Lawrence Thayer, Mr. Jerome Franklin Yudizky presents the W.C. version of "Casey at the Bat".

Schmidt at the Bat

With an undefeated record W.C. went out to play; the championship of the league was at stake that day. The team played well, but just the same, at the end of eight they were losing the game.

Victors—"3", the score-board read; that was the margin by which they led. At the top of the ninth they went down in order, with Sisk keeping their margin from getting any broader.

Could the Sho'men rally and come from behind? The cheering crowd had that one thought in mind. They had done so before—had taken games from the hat; this was their last chance—their last turn at bat.

But of Rogah swished the air for a swinging strike three, and "Big R" grounded out—scored "5-3". There was one last chance as Burns stepped to the plate. Could he start things going, or was it too late?

He singled to left; stole second on a slide. Then Tilley waited for a "ball four—wide". Two on, two out, and three runs to make up. But it looked like the hitters had finally waked up.

Bounds was next, and then came Schmidt. The homer by Herm and that would be it. Then Bounds was safe on an error at third, or miles around the shouting could be heard.

For now the slugger was up to bat. A grand-slam homer—could he do that? The roaring crowd became silent and tense, the outfielders dropped back till against the fence.

Herm swung a few bats to loosen his swing. He led the rosin bag; then gave it a fling. Look up his stance, adjusted his hat—mighty Schmidt was up to bat.

Now Herm was one to let the first pitch go past; it was good for a strike—across the middle and fast. The next pitch came in, the bat went flying; Schmidt missed, strike two—the rally was dying.

But Herm was confident as he stood at the plate; though some fans were seen heading for the gate. Then three straight balls ran out the count. With each pitch the tension died mount.

The pitcher looked in and got his signal. The ball came in; Schmidt tried for a bingle. But like a corkscrew he found himself wound. . . . Schmidt struck out—the side had been downed.

But I know where the sun still shines bright. Where a hand is playing, and young hearts are light. Where co-eds laugh and where teachers shout; even though mighty Schmidt struck out.

Because, you see, to the wonderment of all, the catcher failed to hold on to the ball. It seems it had eluded the catcher's mitt, and rolled away from the batter's pit.

Burns raced for home, and Schmidt for first. So the scoring column the Sho'men burst. It was now only two runs that they lacked, with Borbely up and the bases parked.

The pitcher wound up and threw the ball in; now stood ready, sporting a grin. A swoosh of a bat, a sharp cracking sound. . . . Some say the ball still hasn't been found.

W.C. won the game—and the championship, too, and Borbely received his full praise due. Not about the third baseman the kids most shout, even though, that day, Mighty Schmidt struck out.

W. G. Net Team Wins, 7-2

Coach Tom Ellison's tennis squad defeated Towson, 7-2 Wednesday on the looser's court by sweeping all three 4-sets matches.

Rod Ware Top Seeded In Tennis

Rod Ware, last year's intra-mural tennis champion, is again picked as the man to beat as the 1934 season opens. Both the singles and the doubles tournament schedules have been completed and single matches are already underway.

The Athletic Department has issued the following rules to govern the tournament:

1. Best 2 out of 3 sets will decide each match including finals.
2. First round play must be completed by May 15th.
3. All semi-finals must be concluded by Wednesday, May 16th.
4. Finals must be concluded by Saturday, May 19th.
5. Awards will be made to the first and second place winners in the singles and to the winners in the doubles.
6. Athletic Office reserves right to rule on all disputes and protests.

In the singles, top seeded Rod Ware and second seeded Billy Apple by were given lives. In the other matches Ed Campbell faces Shelly Baker, either of which could be a contender for this year's title. This year there are fourteen men in the tournament, six of them being newcomers.

There are eight teams entered in the doubles, with Rod Ware and Billy Apple teaming up to offer the top competition. Not to be left out of the running are the teams of Deutch-Kaufman and Snow-Campbell. A real "dark horse" bet is the team of Hottel-Capronio.

The games are played in the afternoon from between 3:30 and 4:30 at the Somerset courts.

In 1933, 38,300 Americans were killed in traffic accidents.

Netters Split Two

Coach Tom Ellison's Maroon and Black netters broke into the win column for the first time this year by blanking Mt. St. Mary's in an abbreviated encounter, 10 at 10, on Wednesday on Monday. Only four of the singles matches had been completed when a downpour brought a halt to the proceedings.

This victory followed another abbreviated game that was played Saturday against American U. on the local court. The sho'men were unaware that the contest had been scheduled until the morning of the match, and thus were able to assemble only a makeshift squad. Clint Broadway, an up and coming freshman, lost to Phil Sossan in three sets, 7-5, 14-6, and 17-6. Captain Jerry Landolin, playing in the number two position in the absence of Les Bell, won the only singles match for W.C., 6-4, 6-2. John Minnich, Bill Brubaker, and Palmer Hughes dropped their matches by the scores of 7-5, 6-4; 6-2, 6-2; 6-3, 6-2 respectively.

Bees Get Stung, 11-2

The fast moving sickness of Washington College returned Baltimore University 11-2 last Saturday on the looser's field to remain undefeated in M-D competition.

The sho'men forged ahead on three goals by Mickey DiMaggio with assists from Herie Howard half way through the first quarter. Bucky Ford, a promising freshman, made it 10-0 before the period ended to give coach Charlie Clark's well coached and improving crew a comfortable lead.

The second quarter was a duplicate of the first.

Howard, Lipsitz Outstanding

Undefeated Washington College, playing their final home game on Killeen Field, downed Loyola College 17-5, Wednesday for their seventh straight lacrosse victory in the Lacrosse Co. division of the M-D Conference.

The combination of attackmen Hersie Howard, who set a local record of 14 assists, and Bob Lipsitz's seven goals, was almost infallible as the Sho'men blanked the Greyhounds for the initial three quarters.

The Maroon and Black stickmen tallied their last goal against Chicagoan goalie Bill Flattery after three minutes of action on an accurate shot by Lipsitz with an assist from Howard. The continued failure of attack unlearned on the Baltimorean enabled Coach Charlie Clark to substitute his reserves the complete final quarter. Fine defensive performances by "Mud" Jennings, Bill Barnett, and co-captain Dick Weller enabled W.C.'s overall record to stand at 7 wins and 2 losses. The Sho'men will travel to the University of Delaware next Wednesday to close another successful season under the leadership of Charlie Clark.

Crush Towson, 20-0 Wed.

Behind the lively pitching of sophomore Dean Wood, Washington College trounced Towson State Teachers, 20 to 0 on the looser's field last Wednesday. The victory, coupled with Western Maryland's loss to Mount St. Mary's, put the Sho'men atop the M-D circuit with a 7-2 lead. Leading the barrage of hits, old Towson lefty Tom Cripps were freshmen for O'Malley and Vic Collier, each collecting three safeties.

already have pressure on the administration by more intelligent and less emotional thinking, and by making the best of things as they are.

To fail to follow the desires of our donors would be throwing away all our plans for a future and better Washington College, and the damage these same benefactors could send by outside talk is clearly fatal.

very large degree upon the willingness of the audience to actually believe in Harvey's presence and the firm foundation of the friendship of Elwood and Harvey. This Mr. Samis has achieved to a remarkable degree. In a polished and sustained performance, he has kept the novel of the nominal relationship between an imbecile and a six foot pole through the entire performance.

In the reviewer's opinion, Mr. Samis, in the second scene of Act II, Harvey, who had to describe what he, Elwood and Harvey did, searched the height of acting seen at Washington College stage in many a year. For this fantastic comedy of Max Chase's is really a mere farce. In the sharp contrast between the gentle Elwood and his misers friend and the honest being who more about them, the author has connected with great insight upon the terrible foibles of ordinary human creatures. In its denouement, the play makes the audience really believe that Elwood and Harvey are more "normal" and "human" than those who surround them. Shelby Baker, in a well done role, makes this abundantly clear.

The crime cast did an admirable job of supporting Mr. Samis. Special credit must go to Pete Buchholz for a mature and excellent performance. Mr. Buchholz played every old Judge Omar Gaffney with the polish of a professional. Of note was the excellent interpretation of the Neanderthal character, Diane Wilson, by Betty Leffler. In the end of the play, Wilson has actually come to like Elwood, and to respect him.

Much of the effectiveness of the play depends upon the contrast between Elwood's home and Chumley's real life. The striking ground of the 20th century, versus of the tribal medicine man, the psychiatrist, Jack Daniel as Dr. Chumley, and Wayne Green as Dr. Sanderson, did excellent jobs as representatives of the cult of the Freudians. Polly Taylor was most believable as their harassed nurse.

The women in the play, including the nurse, are actually reflections of the male characters. Doris Hall and Sylvia Ugar did extremely well in their debut before the footlights. Their roles as Elwood's sister and were demanded that they carry major burdens in the development of the story. Dorothy Willis did an amazing job as Mrs. Ethel Chumley and Dolores Casanova made an attractive young Chumley.

Much credit for the success of the performance and the lightness of mood must go to Director Dave Humphries, and his Assistant Director, Ted Schmidt. It was courage of the company to undertake a play which represented a lot of first years. This was handled with a minimum of difficulty. The costumes and sets were well chosen to fit the mood of the play.

In conclusion, HARVEY is one of the best productions that the Washington Players have ever done, a credit to all concerned.

case of the first as the powerful Mason and Black denied the Bee's goal for three more times. Howard, leading the team in assists for the year, scored twice from his attack position. With 15 seconds remaining in the quarter Captain Bob Lipitz made it 7-0 as the wheels ended the first half.

Soon after the second half commenced, DiMaggio, high scorer for the day, cut a path through Baltimore's defense, as his fourth career on Howard's fifth pass. George Hesse on an assist from Bob Lipitz, made it 9-0, with both half-time, turning in their usual fine performances. Baltimore U. scored their only goals of the contest, against outstanding Sho' senior goalie John Parker, late in the third quarter on shots by Dick Kaul and Tom Jones. Bob Lipitz added to end the final two goals for W. C. half was through the last quarter.

Coach Charles B. Clark has been very well pleased with the way the team has been performing and hopes for its continued success. Washington College is at present one of the leading contenders for the Lamar Cup championship in the U. S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association.

Terrors Shocked By Sho'men

The Terms of Western Maryland far from frightening the sticks of W.C., met a hair-raising defeat on Kibler Field Saturday, April 24, as a final round of Sho'men fans looked on.

The Sho'men opened up with a barrage of goals by attackmen George Hesse, Bunko Ford and Bob Lipitz, to take an 8-0 lead in the first quarter, as Western Maryland's once defense crumbled before the accurate passing and fast dodging of the midfield and attack.

In the second quarter Coach Clark replaced his first string with goalie Mac Connel, defensemen Roy Pippin, Ben Kauland, and Dick Cain, Mifflin, Ed Campbell, "Mouse" Blair, and Jack Bergan, and attackmen Bunko Ford, Topper Parks, and Ken Bourne. The Sho'men tallied twice in the second quarter, holding the Terrors to one goal, to take a half-time lead. The Terrors scored back under way, the Terrors reverted from a nose to a man to man defense. Each team scored once in the third period; neither scored in the final quarter, as the game ended 11-2.

The Sho'men's superior condition, experience, and slick handling proved to be the deciding factors in the game. Striving for Washington were Bob Lipitz with 2, Mickey DeMaggio, Bunko Ford, and George Hesse, each with 2, and Harry Howe and tallied one.

Washington Victorious Over Johns Hopkins

Washington College's red-hot baseball team traveled to Baltimore May 16 and scored a lopsided 10-2 victory over Johns Hopkins, last year's Mid-South Conference champion. It was the Sho'men's seventh straight win in the Southern Division of the Mason-Dixon Baseball Conference.

"Big R" Sisk, picked up his fourth league victory, holding the opposition to seven hits while his men were busy pounding the enemy, piling three doubles and three baggies.

The locals were the first to score, picking up two runs in the first frame on a walk to Captain Doug Tilly, a two-bagger by Henry Schmidt and an error. The Blue Jays scored one run in the second inning on a straight victory.

Kiblermen Drop To Second

Mount Saint Mary's defeated the Sho'men 6-1 to knock Washington out of first place in the Northern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference. The loss dropped the Kiblermen to second place with a 7-2 record behind Western Maryland who has a 3-1 mark.

Washington threw their blood first in the third inning when Jimmy Edwards scored on a walk to Captain Doug Tilly, a two-bagger by Paul Clarke's head trying to pick off Edwards and Edwards went on to second. After the next two batters fell out, Barry Burns singled over third sending home the first tally of the game.

The Mounts remained scoreless until the bottom of the fifth inning, able to muster only one ball out of the infield off Sho' hurler Ron Sisk up to that point. Ron Kijawa got on first base on an error by the Sho'men's first sacker, Lou Barberly. Mountie fielder Dick Carabacero lunged and both men were safe when Barry triple by Weaver and a single by Newton and tied the game in the third with a hit, an error and a sacrifice.

The deadlock lasted until the fifth when an error, and doubles by Tilly and backstop Vic Collier produced two runs. Coach Kibler's visitors added one more run in the sixth and broke the game wide open with a three-run outburst in the eighth.

Shortstop Barry Burns continued his spectacular hitting, gathering three safeties, one of which was good for a triple. Other players with more than one hit included Schmidt, Collier, Lou Barberly and pitcher Ron Sisk, who generated his fourth out in the second inning on a straight victory.

Burns Pulled Off Second Base in Getting the Ball

Right fielder Jack Sullivan promptly singled, moving Kijawa to tie the contest 1-1. The next two batters were retired and with two out and two on, Sisk walked Lou Green to fill the bases. Senior Frank Smith then hit a hard double to score all three runners and give the Mounts a 4-1 lead. Later, Smith was thrown out trying to steal third base to end the winner's rally.

The Mounts added two more runs in the sixth. Jack Karkuta started off the inning with a double. He was followed to the plate by Paul Clarke who scored him with a single. Clark then stole third base to set up the final tally. With one out, Carabacero, Barberly, pulled the squeeze play and Clarke scored.

Washington failed to score in the top of the seventh and Mount Saint Mary's won its fifth league game. The second game was cancelled due to cold and rainy weather.

Intra Mural League To Thetas

The Intra-Mural football League moves into the fourth and final week of action Monday and final week of things, it's going to be a doozy.

In games played Monday of the week, Theta Chi, last year's champion, looked previously unbeaten since Alpha from the top spot, through the Southwestern, 19-0. Merwin Fowler's surprise group entered to a long wet deadlock for several place, squaring by the Independent 13.

Important games next week, will find K.A. trying to regain some prestige as they face the Independent, and the Phi Sig will tangle with Fowler's Wednesday. Thursday finds the league leading Theta Chi pitted against the Lambda Chi, who in what should be the game of the week.

Agile right hander Tommy Eshary appears to be the reason for the Gamma's climb to the top spot. The Independent has been in controversy since last year as Coach Ed Jones charges remain atop the league. K.A. will be counting on the heavy hitting of Roy MacDonald, Chuck Costen, and Joe Geisler to keep them in the running for the top laurels. Phi Sig hopes will set an off-balance play for the top. The weak defensive play of this club has been a definite handicap. Coach Al Hanley, who boasts his Lambda Chi's have the best defensive field in the league, will be back by the need of a good play. It'll be depending on the hitting of Jimmy Metcalf, Jerry Caporaso, and Johnny Minich to offset this handicap.

B. Ayres And H. Samis Are Awarded Oscars

Betty Ayres, Harvey Samis, Winifred Hamilton, Jim Metcalf, Oscar Williams, and Dave Humphreys were honored with Washington Players awards at the annual banquet on May 6. George Currenwell, president of the group, presented the traditional Oscars to the best actress and actor. The Oscar for the female role went to Betty Ayres for her excellent portrayal of Candida. The male award was presented to Harvey Samis for the marvellous job he did as Elwood P. Dowd in "Harvey." Harvey accepted the Oscar on behalf of the cast since it was his personal and private feeling that no one actor ever made a play. He felt the honor bestowed on him was made possible by the wonderful cast he had working with him, so he accepted the award for the female.

The female certificate of honorable mention was awarded to Winifred Hamilton for her part in Barbara Stanwick in "The Happiest Days of Your Life." The male certificate of honorable mention was won by Jim Metcalf for his performance as Marchbanks in "The Great Waltz." Dave Humphreys, who played the award-winning role of the outstanding director of the year.

An award which has not been given for the past several years, "The Edison Redford Role Citation," was presented to David Humphries for outstanding loyalty, cooperation, and service to the Washington Players. Certificates of merit were also presented to people whose work "behind the scenes" was considered indispensable.

Elect Hatem

Rose Mary Hatem, Joan Walls, Elaine Bowers, and Bill Warner were elected president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively, of the Society of Sciences at a meeting on May 6.

McL Wainstead, outgoing president, conducted the elections. Reviewing the year, the Society considered it highly successful and highlighted by the well received Science Exhibit. The annual banquet will be held today with the "Overtones" supplying the music.

Fashion Show Features Mock Wedding, Miss Maryland

Alpha Omicron Psi society staged their Spring Fashion Show May 5 before a mixed audience of college students and townspeople. Using a simple backdrop of white tulle and white-tinted with roses and vines, the models displayed the new styles which young women on the Shore will be wearing this summer. The theme of the show was "June Week at Washington College" and the girls portrayed the audience through an imaginary whirl of parties, dances, days at the beach, and graduation exercises.

The take-off point of the show was the display of the newest bathing suits and play suits. Then came the suits, separates, and dressy dresses followed by party and cocktail dresses and finally, the all-important formal. Bright flowered prints, in any color, seemed to be the newest thing this summer. The ever-popular and smart linen is also high on this summer's list of "musts." Bill fringe, pearls, rhinestones, and oddly placed artificial flowers add the unusual touch that women insist upon.

One of the highlights of the show able. These awards were made to Joe Keller, staging Mary Ellen Biddle properties, and Dorothy Willis, make-up.

President David Humphreys opened the banquet with "A Little Bit of Nothing" in which he commended the various officers and committees for doing such an outstanding job on this year's production. Mrs. O'Grady presented the "Year In Review" and reported it a most successful one for the organization.

Office Candidates Explain Factions

At a meeting of the Young Democrats Club last Wednesday the program featured local candidates for both factions of the Democratic Party in Kent County who discussed local politics. Representing the Independent Democratic Faction were Mr. William O. Condon and Mr. Elwood K. Wheat, candidates for County Commissioner. Mr. Elroy C. Boper, candidate for State's Attorney, and Mr. Charles D. Martin, candidate for Sheriff. Mr. George Basin, candidate for State's Attorney, and Mr. Rankin Lusher, candidate for Delegate to the State Convention, represented the Organizational Faction. The topic of discussion was county politics and an explanation of the purpose of the Organization and Independent factions.

The guests explained that the factions, as they exist, give the voters a wider choice of candidates and add to the significance of the primary. The club was interested in the duties of the offices for which the guests are candidates, the qualifications, and the reasons they are running for public office.

GRADUATION PLANS CHANGED

Baccalaureate — Sunday

June 6 — 4:00 P.M.

Commencement —

Monday, June 7 — 2:00 P.M.

The surprise climax of the show was the mock wedding of June Galt, dressed as a beautiful June Bride, to Buddy Sparks, her fiancé. Missa a shower of rice, the curtain came down on the annual Spring Fashion Show.

The Fashion Show, under the management of Milton Dorf, sponsored the show. Bill Gilbride was the moderator and Debbie Heers was fashion coordinator.

The girls who modeled were June Galt, Terry Kull, Marlene Waterman, Janet Parks, Sue Samuels, Patricia Dumesohl, Janet Middleton, Eleanor Hemphill, Bobby Anderson, Carol Oakerson, Janice Rychnow, Irene Boreier, Carol Kinsley, Lynn Emory, Mary Lee Lincoln, Sayce Urie, Joan Wheeler.

The whippers and escorts were Buddy Sparks, Bob Appleby, Frank Stockham, Don Steynen, and Jim Metcalf.

Plan Freshman Week Change Stresses Importance Of Two Amendments

Sometime in the near future, the student body will be asked to vote on two amendments to the Student Government Constitution which will probably be presented at the time of the class election, President Ken Bourn.

The first of these amendments states: "Attendance shall be taken at every Student Council meeting. Any representative member absent from two consecutive regular meetings or placed in meetings in one semester, without excuse presented to the president and upon question found acceptable in the majority of the Council members, shall be reported to his or her class and class officers for delinquency with the Council's request for replacement. The Council may recommend one of the members, his or her constituents for replacement at such time as three-fourths of the Council members feel that there is just cause for his or her removal."

In addition, any class may file a petition with the Student Government requesting that their representative be removed.

In any case, a new election will be held. However, the incumbent representative may again run for his or her former office.

Will Enlist Council

In explaining this amendment, Bourn said that the purpose of it is to keep the members of the Council on the ball. Since plenty of work must be done within the SGA even when all the members cooperate to the fullest, the organization hardly be expected to accomplish much to benefit the students if its members have a nonchalant attitude about their duties, he said.

Under the present situation, those members of the Student Government who shirk their duty cannot be removed except by a campus-wide vote to that effect. The virtual impossibility of any such action being taken allows incompetents to remain in office and bog down the Council's work, Bourn noted.

The president feels that this amendment will prevent people from slacking in an office they thought might only for the prestige it carries, and the amendment will eventually discourage these people from even running for an office in the Student Government.

The second amendment is modeled "Affiliated with the Student Government Association shall be a Judiciary Branch to be composed of eleven members: the President, Vice President and Secretary of the Student Government Association and four members of Alpha Omicron Psi shall be permanent members, and three nonpermanent members chosen from a student Jury Panel, which shall comprise a Student-Faculty Disciplinary Committee. A quorum shall consist of nine members."

Cantaburians Pick Burbage

Pete Burbage was elected president of the Cantaburians Club last Sunday when the club met to elect officers and hear Rev. L. H. Hurdich, of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Church Hill. Pete replaces King Merritt, who was appointed for a splendid job for the past term of office.

Officers of Vice-president and secretary-treasurer will be held by, Isaac Hurdich and E. L. Hurdich, respectively. The group decided there was no need for a separate secretary and treasurer and combined the two offices. The club will hold no more meetings this semester.

Bourn pointed out that it is extremely important that this amendment be passed. The clause in the present constitution is not recognized by the faculty and therefore cannot even be considered as a part of the constitution. Since a constitution must be accepted as whole and since this part is not accepted, in effect the entire constitution is not valid. Bourn asked, "How can the SGA be expected to legislate in behalf of the student body and the college itself if even its constitution is not sound?"

The wording in the amendment is acceptable to both the Council and the faculty advisors, he said; only the students are holding back.

Bourn urged the students to turn out and vote "yes" to these amendments.

ODK Recognizes Accomplishments Of Nine Seniors

The Alpha Psi Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa awarded nine honorary certificates to deserving students and awards to the society on May 6. This honor is given each year as a recognition of "diversity of interests and accomplishments in the field of extra-curricular activities at Washington College" and each receiver is entitled "to purchase and wear the Washington College Extra-Curricular Activities Key."

The girls who were singled out for their campus work were: Josephine Budd, Mary Lee Lincoln, Janice Palmer, and Sayce Urie. The men who were also honored were: Elsworth Brink, John Newbold, Robert Stahl, and Elroy C. Boper. These students have excelled in one or more of the five campus fields recognized by O.D.K., which are: athletics, scholarship, dramatics, social and religious publications.

Josephine Budd is the past president of Zeta Tau Alpha and was Homecoming Queen this year. Mary Lee Lincoln has excelled in various fields, serving on the Student Council and attaining membership in S.S.O. Janice Palmer has served as president of Alpha Chi Omega and the Future Teachers of America. Being president of Alpha Omicron Psi and a member of S.S.O. has helped to keep Sayce Urie busy.

Elroy Boyd, a February graduate, can be remembered as the past editor of the Elm and a track star. As President of the senior class and Student Government Representative, John Newbold has been a familiar figure on campus, while Bob Stahl has worked industriously as editor of the Pegasus and as business manager of the Elm. The Smilers Athletic Award was awarded by Doug Stahl last year for his outstanding sportsmanship in soccer, basketball, and baseball. Mc Wainstead was the past president of the Science Club and a member of the Student Government Council.

All of these boys lacked a slight margin of the points necessary for initiation into O.D.K. As women are not allowed in the Circle, these girls are given recognition for having the qualified number of points for entrance.

UPPERCLASSMEN WILL INSTRUCT NEWCOMERS

When the freshmen hit the campus for the first time next fall they may not be so confused as have the classes who preceded them if a proposed administration system for giving upperclass advisors for them goes into effect. Information from the Dean's office this week explained the program.

The advisors will be selected from the present junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, preferably from the students who will be sophomores next year, since they best remember their experiences as freshmen.

Functions Outlined

From three to five students will be assigned to each advisor. During Freshman Week the upperclassmen will meet the students, acquaint them with the physical plant of the college, and point out "who's who" and "what's what" around the campus. In other words, the advisors will give the students information that only students can give. It was felt that confusion and inactivity during Freshman Week would disappear much more quickly than in previous years.

Help Students

The job of student advisors won't stop with Freshman Week, however. For three or four weeks of the first semester, the sophomores will help the new students with their study and social problems. Most freshmen don't know how to study, especially without faculty or parental supervision, it was brought out. Upperclass guidance would be a major step in getting freshmen started on a successful college career. If students begin studying by using the right procedures, the correct sources, and an efficient routine in preparing their work, pick-up assignments and "end-of-semester despair" should never trouble them.

All who wish to be student advisors for freshmen or who can suggest others who would make conscientious and interested advisors were urged to contact Dean Doyle before the end of this semester.

Vote To End Clause Clamp

Of the several Student Government constitutional amendments now pending popular acceptance, the one entitled "Repeal of Clause Amendment" by the Council, because it streamlines the amending process.

In the constitution now the clause provided that two-thirds of the membership votes, included by demand of the senior class two years ago, be secured before passage of amendments. Spokesmen for the Council points out that no other amending process is so binding and restricting. Under such a system the President of the U. S. could never be elected, they said. Voting on the recent amendment showed that the present clause keeps the majority from ruling. There were 150 in favor of the amendment, 30 against—an overwhelming majority. But since two-thirds of the students did not vote, the measures died. Supporters of the new amendment feel that the whims of a senior class of two years ago should not govern the students today.

Amendment

Amendments and by-laws shall be adopted by a three-fourths majority of the votes cast by the Student Government Association.

SPECIAL ISSUE COMING UP

This is the last regular issue of the Elm that will be printed this semester so this is a rather premature editorial farewell. You have been very cooperative and patient with us as we worked hard to gain experience and efficiently fill the posts we were assigned in February. The staff wishes to express its appreciation and the hope that next fall, with this much needed experience under our belts, we will be able to give you an even better newspaper. Praises have been few, but so have complaints—and that is our best indication that we have been doing a satisfactory job, at least.

But this is not the last Elm you will see this year—we are planning a "Special Issue" for you next week. It will be an All-Sports Edition under the capable direction of Sports Editor Joe Seymanki. Be looking for it!

"Hey, Joe, bring me an ELM suit something to read." (Revised from Maryland Old Line).

The Mild One

(A Bader Goldstein Production)

No, this is not a cigarette ad, this is the new theatre. This is Studio One. It's come right in and relax.

Our story opens with a cloud of dust rising on U.S. 213. In the distance can be heard the whirr of angry sparks as thirty souped up Schwinn roar into view. The angry jangling of their bells can be heard dimly. At their head, with a continuous of Komet strapped to his cycle, rides Penned Panoy, the mild one.

What can these dregs of humanity want in our typical teen-age town. Right now they are heading for Club Gili, where Zeida Scrapple, typical teenage jerk, is in the back room playing chicken for her typical teenage dad.

Purred enters, followed by the mild one, and scratches on the counter for service. Zeida drops her chicken and rushes out, gracefully brushing chicken feathers from her typical teenage smock.

Yes! That's the fun through her, we'll call it, a typical teenage hairlip.

"Beeing your pardon ma'am, we've come a long way, where's the 'ed'?"

"What do you do there, Thiz?"

"Oh, we don't do anything, ma'am, we just go ma'am, go ma'am, go. Do do do do do do," he said nervously, shifting from leg to leg.

"I see," typical teenage Zeida swooned. "I love you."

Purred, preoccupied, buried on his way.

Suddenly outside, a new group of cyclists appeared. They were a rival gang led by Sinfid Simon.

Simon entered and slid up to the man. "Thais", slurred Zeida's typical teenage mother as she glanced up from the riding form.

Simon knoed on Zeida's typical teenage head for service. "Yes, Thiz", she slurred through her typical teenage hairlip.

"Ugh," he said roughly.

"Bory Thiz, we're out of thase."

"Yeh Thiz."

"Beeing your pardon hi, ma'am, here said she was out of thase."

Simon broke a table over Penned typical hero's head.

"Don't change the subject," insisted Penned, maintaining his dignity and his monicore.

"Ugh," said Simon and hit Penned with another table. He was a cad,

Spotlight On A Senior

Dot Willis came to Washington College after graduating from Ridley Park High School in Ridley Park, Pennsylvania. She said that her activities aren't too numerous because she limited herself to just a few so that she could do a good job instead of having a finger in every pie and actually doing nothing. We feel she has done a good job and bring her to the campus.

Her major interest lies in the dramatic field. Since her freshman year, Dot has been chairman of the makeup committee for the Washington Players. Recently she was awarded a certificate of merit for her indispensable work on this committee. She has also acted in several productions.

As a member of Alpha Chi Omega, Dot has served as secretary and rush chairman. She is a "dyed in the wool" Democrat, so of course, she takes an active interest in the Young Democrats Club of which she is a member. She is also a member of the Canterbury Club. Dot has been a member of the Kappa Kappa Historical Society for the past several years and has served as corresponding secretary.

Last semester Dot was honored by being selected as one of W.C.'s representatives at the Washington Senior Program at American University in Washington. She said this was a wonderful experience and one which she thoroughly enjoyed.

After graduation, Dot says she has no aspirations to do graduate work. She is very interested in politics and hopes to be able to do some type of government work in Washington. Whatever you do, we wish you the best of luck, Dot!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Elm

Dear Editor,

As president of the Student Council, I would like to express my personal thanks to the vote of confidence and support given us by the Elm and its editors in the recent edition. It is gratifying to know we have such support.

In my acceptance speech, I brought out that the stands taken by the Council this year may not always aid clear sailing. With the Elm on the job, pointing out the pro's and con's of issues, opening direct reports and points of clarification to student scrutiny, and constructively criticizing Council programs and student requests of the Council, improved situations will result.

Cooperation between organizations means greater success in student affairs. To the best of my ability, I shall see that the Elm receives full, exact and prompt reports of Council functions whenever requested.

Sincerely yours,

Ken Brown

Dirty Ernie's Diary

Dear Diary,

This is my last regular story, so I would like to list here the "New Couples on Campus" formed during 1970-71 mating season. Such as:

MacGinn-Howden—Little Ernie has a ring to prove she's got the hold on Mick, but he still seems to think more of his ludicrous stunts?

Burnham-Singh—One of the more serious of the serious, "cause Ed is graduating and the future Mick is in search of some to keep him company. Yeh, kids.

Hatch-Howden—The farm girl and the cowboy are together again—they keep on fighting but it's oh so much fun to make up (Good luck this summer—making up by itself is just plain dull).

MacGinn-Middleton—A little initial confusion, but life is just one big beach party now. She even goes to church! Appleby-Emery—Appi doesn't stay out of any sport for long—we shouldn't really have been surprised about that.

Campbell (Annal) Schuch . . . . ? Halley-Maschulte—of recent notoriety, (she two deny, deny, and deny again that there is anything to it. But Ernie can see in the dark SO HE KNOWS).

MacGinn-Booth—"The Quiet One" can always be seen waiting for each other. And then (to use a magician's phrase) "Now you see them—now you don't." Stik-Hatch—The All-American Dream Boy finally made his debut—and naturally it had to be on the football field. And Jennie, doing a pretty good job of keeping him, too.

Bair-Hurst—It was a long, hard struggle, but the Nose finally broke the triangle and won the prize. Movie can now be known as Dead Rat. Mike can't wait the dead rat.

Ayers-Clark—Doesn't look like Mark's wants to emancipate himself. "Candy" managerial charms are working pretty well. At last.

Dai-Paulquillo—? Remember he was being visited . . . around a feminine neighbor. Maybe that's what he likes, in case you're wondering, Marie.

Taylor-Suot—Nursed along slowly at first. Rog is now doing as well as can be expected. Much better, in fact.

Birnsfeld-Smith—Looks like the third-third kids are for real. I think by now EVERYBODY realizes this fact, although I think I could be wrong.

Edman-Talbot—Think Claire noticed all her old rings to make that convertible! And are you sure Tom is fully qualified for this match?

Katzen-Hudges—Give credit friend! Joe—on off the field he plays a good game. And scores, too.

June Hatch and take your choice—"He who signs first, signs last!"

Lans-Grendon—First it was a statue—then a friendship—then a ring—and now a pin. (I guess you can place bets on what comes next.)

Howard-Grin—Fannie Goonie and Hezy look like a sure thing—for a while anyway. (Wonder if it's just a mutual "understanding"?)

Fredrick-Jaffert—The two "athletes" usually engaged in one ring. These two are really close—they even share each other's glasses. Eye and other wise.

Bendow-Bud—She was once one but after going with "Crazy Ted" she's cranking up! (The big question here is "who's put?")

Andrews-Sherrie—The Southern Belle and the Philadelphia Smoother—always exchanging blows, swapping witticisms, and sharing walks home from the Green Mountain. (Anyone care to comment?)

Bond-Berkin—She was trained by a cross country star for the big chase. And after a long hard run she caught a ring . . . . Put running up?

Newbold-Byrner—"All they'll let me see here is that I've awarded Oscars for making them two would be disqualified. Overacting."

Hoke-Kinsley—Love at first sight, too simple to last, but with two such good kids it might. (There! I bet you thought I couldn't say anything nice.)

Morgan Haines-Fred Parkin—who can be seen dancing lightly about the tennis courts—filling there, there, everywhere.

Nuceno-Uncle Sam—toodle-oo! Diddle!

Off Dog and any Too—such has hasn't been seen since Lassic came home!

Have heard seven eyelids reported about "Bathful Big Eyes" and Rice. Watch out for those afterwater wails, AYE OOP!

Finally, I shall close with my prediction of the "Kermet Couple" Campus for next year: Stan Migdel Goldstein and Bolly Deed!

Summer's coming, kids . . . . good luck!

WHAT?

I'm tired, I'm shot, I don't feel like to do it.

I hate all professors would lie down and rest.

My room is too hot, my roommate's a sot.

Never-the-less I like her a lot.

My grades are all bad, I haven't a lot to brag.

Naturally, I say that a man is a cad. Since girls are a bad, guys don't fear them like mad.

I've got a reason for being so sad.

The future looks bright for the freshmen to fight.

G.I. Hall is right a sight.

I can't sleep at night, my hair looks a fright . . . .

Yet at W.C. everything is all right.

My, How They've Grown!

Ed—The following is an excerpt from an Elm of April 20, 1955.

Reid Hall entertained Professor Dumachott and Professor Toller at an informal tea on Wednesday in honor of their youngsters.

The Dumachotts were the first to arrive, since they lived in closer proximity to the home of their hostesses. Mr. Dumachott was dressed in his brief school suit and carried his latest case in one hand and his daughter in the other. Friedella Ann was attired in a shiny white dress, encrusted with forget-me-nots, and carried a splendid rattle in her my hand. Her father and daughter beamed on assembled guests . . . .

Culture Corner

Sample questions in our sequel to the I.Q. tests:

What time is it when the minute hand of a clock is at seven and the hour hand is where the minute hand was seven hours before? (If the main spring is broken?)

A man in Symma had $100.00. He spent $5.00 for flowers, $6.00 for cocktails, $18.50 for dining, $11.00 for more cocktails, $10.00 on taxis, and $18 on more cocktails. How did he feel the next morning?

A train going 60 m.p.h. left Los Angeles for Chicago. Twenty-four hours later a plane left Rangoon, Burma, going to China. Which was nearest Miami City when the plane crashed?

If a man can do a piece of work in three days and B can do the same work in four-and-a-half days. Why don't they, instead of collecting their unemployment checks?

Diplomat.

Professor—One who goes to college and never gets out.

Bignam—A person who has just taken one too many.

Tart—Not changing your mind—just the subject.

Deed—Something that helps—no end.

Gossip—Rumormongers.

ATHLETE'S FEAT

By Jerry Yudizky

A few weeks ago, "Spotlight on a Senior" shone scholastically on one of W.C.'s best all-around athletes. Athlete's Feat this week would be called "Chapter Two—Athletics of the Rod Ware story."

The collegiate part of the story began four years ago at the University of Vermont, where Rod was a member of the freshman basketball and football teams. Apparently Vermont wasn't for Rod; and the beauties of Maryland lured him to W.C. for his sophomore year. In his first year here he went out for athletics by leaps and bounds—as a broad jumper on the Sho' track team. That was the year that football and baseball had been dropped here. In his junior year it was soccer and baseball as well as track that occupied his time in intercollegiate competition. In the big Macon-Dixon title competition he placed fourth in the broad jump. Last year he also entered the intra-mural tennis tournament and finished up as the champ in the singles division. He is currently favored to retain his title in this year's climination now in process. Maroon and Black fans have seen him this year excelling in the forward position of the soccer team, of which he was co-captain, snarling down fly balls in left field in baseball, and not only broad jumping, but also high jumping in track. For his fine all-around performance on the soccer team he was placed on last fall's All M-D Conference squad. One of the biggest feats of the year by any W.C. athlete was performed two weeks ago when Rod rushed from Hopkins, where he had played for the Sho'men "nine", over to Loyola where he arrived in time to set a new Loyola record in the broad jump. His mark of twenty-one feet, two inches eclipsed the old record that had held for eleven years.

And there you have Chapter Two in the Elm's version of "This is Your Life," Rod Ware—the story of a great scholar, a great competitor. (Editor's note—and a great guy).

Sports Spotlight

By Sam Macera

This week's Sport Spotlight falls on sophomore trackster who had enough sportsmanship to stop and help a fallen rival only to lose the race because of it.

His baptismal name is James Terrence Johnson, legally J.T. Terrence Johnson, but to the track fans (and horse racing) it's just plain Terry.

Terry was born in the City of Annapolis, Md., Philadelphia, and attended Northern Providence High School in Wallingford, Pa. While at the high school, the 6 foot, 150 pound athlete was a four letter man, making the grade in football, basketball, baseball, and naturally, track. As a pitcher for this same high school, he pitched on two championship teams, ending both seasons with a .51 and .74 record.

At the Macon and Black hurdles during his high school days in a blaze of glory but strangely enough not on the athletic field. He was voted the most outstanding senior of his graduating class, which takes into consideration not only athletic achievements but academic, social and citizenship as well.

A new member to Coach Emerson Smith's track team, Terry had never been in the hurdles until this year but his progress has been so encouraging that the local menon will be watching him tearing across the line next year to improve the team in that department.

Terry gave an example of the calibre of sportsmanship he has in the I.V.C.-Catholic University track meet. After having won the 110 high hurdle race, slipping his distance in an 11th second, he was also entered in the 220 low hurdles. As the race got under way, Terry was well ahead when his rival tripped over a hurdle and fell. Immediately the Sho'men hurdles jumper helped the fallen hurdler up. The C.U. trackster, taking advantage of Terry's sudden lapse, spurred ahead to win the event, it was disappointing to Terry but a lesson well learned.

The blonde-haired, green-eyed

Philadelphia plans to major in History and minor in Physical Education with an eye on a possible job as track coach for some high school.

Mason-Dixon Playoffs Set For May 21-22

The World Series of the South, the Mason-Dixon Conference Baseball Playoffs, will get under way May 21 and 22 with the sectional champions from both the Northern Division and Southern Division vying for the conference honors.

Last year, Johns Hopkins, the Northern Division champion, grabbed the loop honors when they took the best of a three-game series from Randolph-Macon, the South's sectional champion.

This year, Randolph-Macon, in the Southern Division, appears to be a sure bet to top the sectional honors at this writing as so far they have lost only one game in league competition, that being a 6-4 setback at the hands of the Sho'men against its victorious. Their closest rival is Hampden-Sydney with a 1-3 loss. The Northern Division is a much tighter race than the Southern and probably won't be decided until the last day. Currently reigning at the top of the heap is one Sho'men, who, along with their 9-2 record, lost victories over the Southern leaders, Randolph-Macon, and last year's conference champion, Johns Hopkins. But the locals will have to keep hustling for good behind, with identical 7-2 records are Western Maryland and Mt. St. Mary's, the latter having humbled the Southern leaders in their two league setbacks.

Should the locals go on and take the division title, it will mark the first time since 1949 that a Washington College team has gained a playoff in the playoffs in the national world series. In that year, the Sho'men compiled an outstanding 12-2 record, bested by only Kibler-coached team since 1923 when they hung up a 14-4 record. In the 1949 playoffs, Washington met American and lost. The blonde-haired, green-eyed

Sho's 9 Hands Yellow Jackets First League Setback

The playoff bound Sho'men scored a 6-4 victory over Randolph-Macon to hand them their first conference loss in nine games.

The victory all but clinched the northern title for the Sho'men who now have a 9-2 record. They have Catholic U. to face in a doubleheader, but the Cardinals should offer little resistance to them.

The game started as a pitching duel with Big "R" Sisk facing only nine men in the first three innings. Heru Schmidt recorded the first hit as he singled over the shortstop's head in the second.

Netters Defeat Ft. Meade

Winding up the current tennis season Coach Tom Elison's Maroon and Black netters defeated Fort Meade 6-2 last Tuesday afternoon on the victor's courts.

Playing in the singles contest Clint Broadway beat Bud Weismann 6-1, 6-2; Les Bell defeated Bob Pollard 7-5, 6-4, 6-1; John Minnick lost to Ivy Field 6-5, 5-7, 3-6; captain of the W.C. team, Jerry Lambden, won over Henry Field 1-6, 6-1, 6-1; Palmer Hughes won over Nick Papovsky 5-7, 6-4, 6-3; and Howard Davis lost to Milan Kelca 4-6, 4-6. In the doubles matches, Broadway and Bell defeated Pollard and Decker 7-5, 7-5, and Minnick and Lambden won over West and Gault 6-2, 6-2. The last match was defaulted.

The Sho'men's overall record now stands at five wins and seven defeats.

Shoremen Withdraw From Meet

Coach Smith has been saved a headache when it comes to the Macon Dixon track meet which was held on Thursday and Friday. All year his team has been hampered by having to share its members with both the Lincoln and basketball teams. Recently a new problem presented itself—injuries. The Sho'men's chances would have been slim since distance ace Lew Brinkley has been sidelined with a sprained ankle. With these facts in mind, Athletic Director Erby and Coach Smith decided it would be best for the withdrawal from the meet.

Of the schools which competed, Roanoke was favored to take top honors with their Southern neighbors following close to their heels. The only Northern competitor is expected to come from Tidewater and Hopkins. The Teachers are unbeatens this year in dual meets.

Top individual stars come mostly from the South. Don Moore, of Roanoke, and Charles Nuttomb, of Randolph-Macon, are the favorites in the broad jumping honors.

Hampden-Sydney's Jim Fraser has tossed the shot-put 47 feet to far better the distance of any other M-D field star. Fraser has also tossed the discs 139 feet this season.

Looking ahead their year in the form of a newcomer named Goode. He has pole vaulted 12½ feet to lead the M.D.

In the track department, Roanoke should come up with "the most of the best." Half-milers Noel and Tomlinson are a constant threat to the Manager's M.D. title. Fultz, who took two firsts and a second in his three events when Roanoke was against the Sho'men, was favored in the hurdles.

Fred Farrow, C.U., was expected to give a repeat performance of last year when he defeated his 220 title holder, but the Cardinals should offer little resistance to them.

The fourth inning proved to be the big lining for the Sho'men as Schmidt led off with a single, Walbridge singled and Collier and two on and none away. Jimmy Edwards doubled to right field scoring Schmidt and Collier to put the Sho' team on top 2-0. Mastrianna, O'Malley and Sisk each singled to score Edwards. Mastrianna was forced at second for his sides' out. With two on and one away, Burns pinned to the second baseman and Tully grounded to first for the second and third outs. The side retired with five hits, three runs and no errors.

The Jackets started their half of the fourth slow with Kibler's later Brinkley striking out, followed by Winn who flew out to Burns. Lincoln singled to give the Jackets their first hit of the game. Cleanup batter, Pinchbeck, did his job as he hit a home to left field. Thack then singled to right field to put the Sho' team on top 3-0. The big "R" came through to strike out the second baseman and stop the Rebel threat.

The Jackets were again the first to hit the scoring column as they scored in the sixth on an error and a hit to tie the game three all.

Thackmon singled to start Randolph-Macon's half of the seventh off. Whitley sacrificed, sending the runner to second. Lead-off man Brinkley got his first hit of the day, a triple to left field, scoring Thackmon. Wynn grounded out and Lincoln struck out to end the seventh. Collier led off with a fly ball to left field. Edwards walked and Mastrianna then collected his third hit of the day, a double over the head of the left fielder, scoring Edwards and the tying run. O'Malley followed with a double between the center and right fielders to score Mastrianna.

Barry Burns started off the ninth with a home run to left field. Tilly then singled, but the next three men failed to get on.

The Jackets started a ninth inning with Hoigh and Brinkley each getting a single. Sisk then struck out the next two men to slow the rally. Lincoln reached first on an error by Schmidt to lead the lines with two away. Pinchbeck went out on a fielder's choice to end the game.

Become Top Prospect For National Title

The W.C. stickmen ended their season in a blaze of glory by overwhelming the U. of Delaware, 15-3 on the Blue Hen's Field. The men from Newark were the eighth team to succumb to the power of Coach Clark's well rounded out and expertly conditioned team. The Sho'men's record in the Lacrosse Division showed a perfect eight wins against no losses. Wednesday's win over Delaware puts them in top position for the division title, which is tantamount to being the best junior college team in the country. In the eight league games the Sho's have penetrated the opposition's defense for an even 100 goals, while only twenty-nine points were being scored against them.—most of the opponents' scoring being done in the last half against All-S's reserves.

The Delaware game was an excellent example of the power, speed, and depth of the Macon and Black "ten". Four players—Jack Howard, Bob Lipsitz, George Hesse, and Jack Lamson—each contributed three points, while Mickey DiMaggio tallied twice and Bob Appleby once. Coach Clark's defense, however, was the key to the team's success, giving all of its substitutes the opportunity to get into action. The scoring by periods was evenly distributed, with the box score showing 4-0 for each quarter except the third, when W.C. blanked the Host while tallying three times.

Along with the team's holding down national honors—the first such title held by W.C., several of the players are in line for probable All-Star recognition. High scoring co-captain Bob Lipsitz, who brought his career to a close with his three goals against Delaware; Hesse, Howard, and a local record of fourteen assists in the Loyola tilt; goalie John Parker, whose many brilliant saves are mainly responsible for the opponent's inability to break into the scoring column; co-captain Dick Weller, a member of last year's All-Star team, who played his final game Wednesday; and Mick DiMaggio, whose stick handling and manuevering has amazed the spectators—are all possible choices to All-South squad.

This has been the most successful season for Coach Clark. His only losses were to Navy, the undisputed choice for national championship in the senior division, and to the Mount Washington Lacrosse Club, which is an aggregation of former All-Americans.

West Chester Hands Shoemen Fourth Loss

West Chester State Teachers College exploded for four runs in both the third and sixth innings last Thursday and went on to hand the Shoemen of Washington College their fourth defeat of the season, 11-4, in a game played at Killeb Field.

Freshman Tom Wells, who retired of the loss, started the game for the Shoemen and was followed by a gal- ladey of batters which included Bob Sullivan, Ronnie Sak and Dean Wood. Pitcher Hoffman of the visiting Teachers, battered and pitched his team to the victory to gain the win.

The Shoemen were the host to score when in the initial frame Tommy Bounds scored Hoffman for a free trip to first and Ben Schmitt collected the first of his three hits a triple to center field, scoring Bounds. However, this lead was snatched into oblivion when, in the third inning, West Chester talked five times, the big dogs of the inning being home runs by Hoffman and Coffey, and a double by Myers. Washington got back into the game in the home half of the third when they scored three times. Bounds singled, Schmitt doubled and on an infield single by Jack Voe Collier, Bounds scored. Hoffman then attempted a pickoff play on Collier at first and those wildly into right field. Before the ball could be recovered, both Schmitt and Collier had rounded the plate, making the score 3-1 in favor of West Chester.

The invaders broke the game wide open in the fifth inning when they scored five more rallies on three walks, a triple by Hoffman, and a single coupled with an error. They added one more run in the 8th inning and walked off with an easy 11-4 victory.

For the Shoemen, third sacker Ben Schmitt, breaking out of an aggravating batting slump, collected three safeties, two of which were good for extra bases, a triple and a double to pace the team. The only other Shoemen to get more than one hit was outfielder Greg Smoot who collected two bingles, one good for two bases.

Out For Blood

About a month ago the Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital called for donations of blood from people in the Chestertown community, including Washington College students. One of the men in need of blood was in a very serious condition and the other was to be operated on. Those students who gave or offered to give may be greatly pleased to know that the donors have been discharged and are well on the way to recovery.

Many people gave blood, but some were frightened off because they did not understand the procedure involved in the typing and giving of blood. In order for the lab technician to type blood he must draw blood from the donor's finger. All the donors felt it was a pain prick. The next step is to match the blood. The technician draws a little blood from the arm—from the underside of the elbow—of the donor. Before a pint of blood is drawn from the donor, he is thoroughly checked for anemia, venereal disease, etc. Blood pressure readings are taken and he is given practically a complete physical examination. It is the policy of the hospital to make certain that the donor is in perfect health before drawing blood from him.

When the time arises for the blood to be drawn, a little anesthetic or some other pain killer is injected into the donor's arm. As a result he feels very little physical pain. After a person has donated, he may not give blood for many days in order that his blood will return to its normal healthy condition.

The Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital calls college students when there is an extreme emergency and when the patient's relatives and friends fail to have the right type of blood. People who have given blood previously at the hospital are called, including college students. The names of all the previous donors are listed alphabetically on file at the hospital with their last date of contribution. This list is called the "Walking Blood Bank." Larger blood banks are located in Baltimore, Washington, and Philadelphia, but it would take too long for the hospital to receive from them in time of emergency and the patient might die.

Mr. William Russell, the lab technician at Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital, has had much training for his important job, including the typing of blood. He studied at the Franklin School of Medical Technology in Philadelphia, Pa., and interned for a period of six months at the Philadelphia State Hospital for the Mentally Ill. Before coming to Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital, he worked in some private labs. He has been at this hospital for a period of two and a half years. A welliked member of the Chestertown community, he is married and the father of two children. He is a Southerner, belonging to the local fire company, and is a member of the American Legion. Recently, you have probably seen him at work right on campus—he was busy "typing" at the Science Exhibit. He served two years in the U. S. Army Engineers. Usually he works at the hospital from nine to about three o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Russell would appreciate it very much if all those college students under twenty-one years of age who are willing to give blood would please give in touch with him. He will give them a form to send to their parents for their approval. If allowed, their names will be added to the games included in the "Walking Blood Bank."

Move To Curtain

Traffic Violations

Dean Joseph Doyle announced recently that because of an outbreak of parking violations, occurrence of non-registered cars on campus, and other traffic violations of the collected traffic code, there will be a concentration on this subject from now until the end of summer. Tickets and notices will be issued by a group of specially selected students. The group has been inactive since the beginning of the school term, but because of the situation's growth they will now go into full scale action.

Violators of the parking regulations, which include no parking in front of Hudson and on certain parts of William Smith parking lot, and those having unregistered cars on campus, will be issued a notice to see the Dean for false offense and will be fined accordingly in the event of a second offense.

Freshmen Prospects

Jack Lamm, in the short time he has been with us, has made quite a name for himself in the classroom as well as on the athletic field. Although not a freshman academically, this blond-haired, 21-year-old sophomore is still considered a freshman to the campus of Washington College, having completed one year of his college education at West Point.

Jack, who hails from Sevens Park, Maryland, applies his "11", 170 pounds to good use by holding down the center-middle slot on Charlie Clark's house squad. A straight 60 minute man, he's a real buster, has powerful shot, in addition to recovering 85 per cent of his face oils in a lacrosse contest.

During his four years at Seven High he played football and lacrosse and was a member of the wrestling team. Lots of link to a great guy while at Washington and in his chosen career in economics after graduation—we know he'll make good.
